Floods Receding After Doing Heavy Damage

LEGISLATURE MEETS TODAY IN THIRD CALL

AUSTIN, Sept. 28.—The third called session of the 44th Texas Legislature opens today to finance old age assistance and consider a state unemployment insurance act.

Gov. Allred decided today to deliver his message to the session orally. Arrangements were being made for a joint session of the house and senate as early as possible.

Speaker Coke Stevenson of Junction said it was unlikely the joint session would be held before Tuesday. The message is expected to deal almost entirely with financing. It will contain his tax recommendations.

Old age assistance will cost $30,000,000 a year, director Orville Carpenter reported to the governor and members of the legislature.

Carpenter estimated there will be 147,676 eligible pensioners and that the average payment will be $16 a month.

Liquor taxes will provide $3,000,000 a year, Carpenter said, leaving $27,000,000 to come from other sources. Assuming the federal government pays half the cost the state must raise $100,000 a month additional.

O. D. Stevens Is On Way to Alcatraz

FORT WORTH, Sept. 28.—Under heavy guard of 12 state and federal officers, O. D. Stevens today was on his way back to Alcatraz Island, after cheating the electric chair here last week in connection with a triple slaying at Handley.

Physical Checkup Needed Every Year

AUSTIN—Great strides have been made in mass control of public health in the past twenty-five years by public health officials and the use of scientific methods in the control of disease. The job of the individual in getting fit and remaining in good health, however, is a personal rather than a public matter, according to Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer.

"While the ravages of diphtheria, smallpox, typhoid fever and other devastating diseases have been definitely checked by public health measures," he said, "there are left many health enemies whose onslaught is stealthy, and whose approach is definitely individual. Heart disease, cerebral hemorrhage, nephritis, and cancer continue to stand high in the list of major killers.

"As these degenerating diseases cannot be controlled by quarantine and immunization, each individual should see to his own protection against these diseases if they exist, while they are in a state where control may be effective. The annual physical health examination is the major defensive weapon against such diseases.

"The annual physical examination has two definite objectives in the life of an individual; namely, to establish the fact that there is or is not present a disease which calls for prompt control measures, and to determine the margins of safety in health habits. When the family physician has established the facts brought to light in a physical examination, he is in a position to advise the individual as to procedures which must be adhered to in order that a proper balance may be maintained.

"Go to your family physician and give him a chance to tell you whether you are giving your body the treatment it needs."

Group Will Draw Juries For Court Tuesday Morning

Members of a commission appointed by 91st district court judge George L. Davenport will meet Tuesday morning at Eastland to draw names of jurors for the October term beginning Monday, Oct. 5.

Members of the commission are F. E. Harrell of Cisco, Dr. Bob Hodges of Ranger and Frank Castleberry of Eastland.

Juries will be drawn for the weeks beginning Oct. 12, Oct. 19 and Nov. 9.

FEED DEALERS NAMED BY FARM AID COMMITTEE

Feed dealers to handle feed shipped to county residents hit by the drought were designated Monday morning at a meeting of the county agricultural committee, which also serves as a drought committee, at the courthouse in Eastland. Purchase of large quantities of feed to be handled by the dealer will enable a saving in the purchase price.

The committeemen also decided to contact county railroad agents and ask that they petition the railroad commission for reduced rates on feed and cattle shipments.

Members of the committee—Dick Weekes of Alameda, R. R. Bradshaw of Scranton and R. F. Cox—met with County Rural Rehabilitation Supervisor George I. Lane and county agents Elmo V. Cook and Hugh F. Barnhart. Feed dealers appointed were A. J. Raiff of Ranger, Frank Castleberry of Eastland, J. W. Thornton of Cisco, D. C. Hazlewood of Rising Star and I. C. Underwood of Govran.

A meeting of the drought committee with a WPA official to determine if the organization is able to provide aid for drought stricken farmers was scheduled Monday afternoon.

Russia Explains Her Stand On Civil War

GENEVA, Sept. 28.—Maxim Litvinov, Soviet foreign commissioner, told the league assembly today that Moscow refrained from openly aiding the popular front government of Spain during the present civil war "only because we feared the possibility of an international conflict."

Rancher's Wife May Have Been Doped

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Sept. 28.—An attempt was to be made today by defense counsel to prove the wife of James Henderson, Alpine, Texas, cattleman, was drugged at the time Thomas Patton, beer parlor proprietor, assertedly molested her and as a result was slain by the rancher.

Body of Woman Is Shipped Back Home

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 28.—The body of Mrs. Doris Hanson, 25, of San Angelo, was shipped by Big Spring today for burial. Mrs. Hanson died late Saturday of a pistol wound inflicted accidentally at a downtown hotel. Funeral services will be at the home of Mrs. Hanson's mother, Mrs. F. T. Wells.

Aerial Photography Aids Soil Program

WASHINGTON—Aerial photography is being used by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in checking whether farmers are complying with the government soil conservation program. Photographs taken from planes are used to check land measurements, thus eliminating tedious measuring of foot. Instruments used on the aerial photographs calibrate the measurements.

School Holiday Is Approved For Schools of County

AUSTIN, Tex.—A schedule of school holidays, beginning Oct. 1 and ending Nov. 25 has been approved to encourage attendance of school children at the Texas Centennial Exposition. Two-day holidays are to be granted. Schools have been grouped by counties and districts for the vacation periods. The schedule includes: November 10-11—District Nine, comprising Brown, Mills, Lampasas, Hamilton, Comanche, Erath and Eastland counties.

Applications from Secondary Schools Received by NYA

AUSTIN—The state headquarters of the National Youth Administration has begun examination of applicants from secondary schools in Texas for student aid allotments during this school year, Lyndon B. Johnson, state director, has announced.

Last year exactly 1500 Texas secondary schools received allotments which enabled the principals to assign certain needy students to socially desirable work. The students received a maximum monthly wage of $6.

"This money provided lunches for many students who otherwise might have gone hungry," Mr. Johnson said. "Other students were able to buy school supplies they needed or to have clothing they might not have had. The students were enabled to continue their school work through their own efforts."

Both public and private schools are eligible to receive funds for employing students, but private schools approved are limited to those operating on a non-profit basis and paying no taxes.

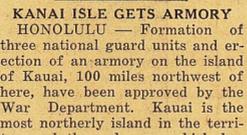

Funds for this youth program are allotted through county superintendents' offices, J. C. Kellam, assistant state director, said. Mr. Kellam is in charge of the educational program of the National Youth Administration in Texas.

"Each county superintendent is told what allotment of jobs and money his county may expect, calculated on a basis of youth population and need," he explained. "The superintendent is asked to appoint a placement committee which recommends quotas of jobs for the schools within the county, again on a basis of youth population and need. The committee recommendations are submitted to the state NYA headquarters, and when approved, become the schedule for the work within the county."

A student seeking employment must apply to the principal of his school, Mr. Kellam said. School officials are responsible for selecting eligible applicants and for placing them on socially desirable work.

A school which wishes to participate in the NYA school program should apply to the county superintendent.

Where Explosion Rocked Havana

The scarred wall of the Havana newspaper "El Pais" scarcely gives an idea of the intensity of the blast that wrecked its plant, killed four persons, injured 27 others and spread destruction for eight blocks. The blast was attributed to sympathizers of the Spanish government.

Forest Fires Rage In Southern Oregon

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Sept. 28.—Forest fires raged uncontrolled on a dozen scattered fronts in Southern Oregon today. Two towns have been razed, eight persons killed and 2,000 left homeless. Relief workers rushed aid into an area blackened over 6,000 acres in which the town of Bandon and Proster vanished in flames and valuable timber was lost. Relief headquarters were set up.

Mrs. Milburn McCarty was reported "resting real well" Monday morning at Payne hospital in Eastland.

Policy of Using Guards In Strike Is Expected Today

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 28.—A statement of policy regarding the use of armed guards in connection with the strike of the union employees of the Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas railway was expected from Texas officials in Austin today.

Fred Nichols, Texas labor commissioner, conferred here Sunday with C. P. Couch, president of the railroad. Union officials said officers of the Big Four brotherhood in Cleveland had warned other railroads that they had better remain neutral in the strike.

REBELS SEIZE TOLEDO; MARCH ON TO MADRID

The rebels struck their greatest blow to the Spanish war today with the capture of Toledo, 40 miles south of Madrid. Rebel headquarters announced there were 80 dead and 500 wounded among the cadets of the Alcazar, who numbered 1200 at the start of the siege 10 weeks ago.

After the capture of Toledo the insurgents advanced toward the capital, cutting off retreat of a large part of the loyalist forces. The situation of the Madrid government was more precarious than at any time during the war. The rebels announced they were going to march into the capital.

Holding the main highway, the rebel plan was to push east from Toledo, and sever the capital's only rail outlet to the east coast. The government then would be hemmed in on all sides.

The coastal city of Bilbao held out against great odds. A terrible massacre occurred aboard one of the hostage ships in the harbor when loyalists, militia and women boarded it and slaughtered 220 rebel hostages. The loyalists then threatened to shoot all of 1,500 hostages in Bilbao if bombed again by the rebels.

Frank Hamer Calls In 50 Ex-Rangers

HOUSTON, Sept. 28.—Frank Hamer, former Ranger captain, recruited 50 former officers today, but refused to give his reasons for hiring the men. He advertised in several state newspapers.

Hamer denied that the men were wanted for duty in connection with the railroad strike at Greenville.

Soaring To Congress On Presidential Kite

When the perfect state is finally put into working order, probably there will be some kind of law to keep a candidate for Congress from telling which presidential candidate he favors.

Barred from that time-old method of riding into office on a better man's coat tails, the would-be congressman will then be obliged to stand or fall on his individual merits. He will have to let the voters in on his own political philosophy, show them how his mind works when confronted with a public issue, and give them a clear, line-for-line picture of his potentialities as a law-giver.

The way things are now, electing a congressman in a presidential year is like buying a pig in a poke.

You can see the label which the candidate affixes to his breast, but that's about all you can see.

What happens, when the campaign gets under way? Each candidate makes a rush for the train of the presidential candidate of his party, reserves a good seat there, and spends nine-tenths of his time urging the voters to elect that man to the presidency. Almost as an afterthought, he suggests that he himself must be elected, too, to uphold the leader's hand down at Washington.

Today we have an enormous number of candidates for Congress and we have no way of getting a definite line on any of them.

In a typical congressional district, the Democratic candidate will be tearing up and down, yelling for the New Deal and Franklin Roosevelt.

The Republican candidate will be tearing up and down at an equal speed, yelling against the New Deal and for Alfred M. Landon.

Some third candidate will be dashing about yelling against both Roosevelt and Landon and proclaiming the virtues of Father Coughlin and Candidate Lemke. You may even find a fourth, cheeping plaintively about Dr. Townsend.

The voters of such a district, in other words, are offered an assortment of labels from which to choose. They are not being asked to elect men to Congress; they are being asked to pick out a good rubber stamp.

The way things work out in practical politics, of course, few congressmen actually remain rubber stamps. Once elected, they use their own brains and make their own decisions to the best of their respective abilities, however poor those abilities may sometimes be. And that, of course, is what they are supposed to do.

But the point is that the voter has little chance to tell in advance how his congressman will operate when he is on his own. He has seen him only as a tom-tom-beater for a presidential candidate.

The voter knows that the man is for or against some abstracted issue. Unless he is luckier than most, he does not know what sort of mind the man has, how it works, what his grasp of public questions is, what he will do when forced to make his own decisions.

And until congressional candidates stop attaching themselves to the national tickets like tails to so many kites, the voter can't get that knowledge.

A MID CAMPAIGN NIGHTMARE

Chesterfield Radio Programs Tell of New Plans for Fall

The popular Andre Kostelanetz dance programs sponsored by Chesterfield cigarettes over the Columbia network will open their fall season on September 30th, with the return of Nino Martini, as star of the Wednesday evening broadcasts. Kay Thompson, Ray Heatherton and the Rhythm Singers will continue to hold the spotlight on Fridays, with a new broadcasting time of 8.30, E.S.T., and a re-broadcast of the entire show from New York at 11.30 for listeners in the west.

The Martini programs on Wednesday evenings will also feature a new Chesterfield chorus of 18 mixed voices which Kostelanetz has spent many weeks selecting and rehearsing. Insiders on radio row who have heard the new ensemble are lavish in their praises, and some claim that it is the finest singing aggregation Chesterfield has yet put on the air. They plan to vary the brilliant dance arrangements of Kostelanetz with the pick of light music from musical comedies, operettas and popular movies.

With the same background of Kostelanetz dance music on Friday evenings the Kay Thompson-Ray Heatherton combination accompanied by the Rhythm Singers will continue to present their interpretation of popular songs and vocal novelties. This program was one of the outstanding hits of the summer season, twice being honored by nationally prominent magazines in the form of medal awards as a dance program "refreshingly different." No doubt Chesterfield's new time periods on Friday, which include the later broadcast from New York for the Columbia stations in the western half of the country, were arranged so that more listeners could enjoy these popular entertainments.

BOTH SIDES OF THE CAMPAIGN

Official views of the Republican and Democratic Committees on leading issues of the campaign are presented by leaders of the two parties in this series of twelve articles, taking the place of Rodney Dutcher's Washington column during Dutcher's vacation. The Republican and Democratic arguments are presented on alternate days.

BY JOHN HAMILTON

Chairman Republican National Committee
"THE time has come to stop this fumbling with recovery!" The words are those of Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas, Republican candidate for the presidency. They were part of his speech accepting the nomination of his party. No more powerful phrase was uttered in any political campaign. No better reason was ever given why the American people should, at once, terminate the New Deal, and elect Governor Landon president of the United States.

Hamilton

The Kansas governor has a reputation for knowing how to work, a reputation for keeping his word, a reputation for being far too intelligent to be fooled, and far too courageous to be frightened. Recovery is what the New Dealers have been trying vainly to bring about during the last three and a half tortuous years. Their many sins have been committed in "recovery's" name. But they have fumbled from one failure to another, never quite succeeding in grasping firmly either recovery or the fundamentals of American democracy. That is the issue in all its clarity.

President Roosevelt's and the New Deal's policies have fostered monopoly, threatened the nation's credit, driven needed capital from the field of industrial enterprise, increased unemployment and undermined confidence in representative government.

ganda instead of truth; because it subjected human misery and starvation to political machinations, substituted partisan and selfish politics for statesmanship, and brushed aside constitutional rights in the greatest invasion of personal privacy the nation has ever known.

Facts Tell the Story

LUCID understanding by the voters of the facts of New Deal mismanagement will go farther toward electing Governor Landon to the presidency than any political argument, no matter how carefully marshaled. Facts on which the New Deal's record is built are not disputable; neither can they be answered by wisecracking, at which so many New Deal apostles excel. Wrapped in the complete belief of their own omnipotence, it has been the position of the New Dealers that there was no righteousness on earth until they took command. Under such illusions President Roosevelt not only scuttled the party platform, but broke promise after promise, much like a child who leaves her broken dishes, forgotten, to get new ones which will shortly suffer a similar fate.

The New Deal today stands indicted before the bar of public opinion because it brought regimentation instead of recovery, extravagance instead of economy, burdensome taxation instead of greater personal security, propa-

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 KAY DUNN, pretty airplane stewardess, falls in love with TED GRAHAM, veteran pilot who flies the trans-Pacific route.
 Ted, however, is not interested in romance. His life is devoted to two things: his job in the air service and his adopted son, DICKIE, 7 years old. Dickie and Kay become close friends and soon the three spend much time together.
 One night Kay and Ted have a long talk in which he explains his views on marriage. To be successful, he says, a marriage must be planned scientifically. Just as a plane flight. Kay does not agree, but when Ted asks her to marry him she says yes.
 The marriage takes place and the honeymoon is a flight to the Orient. Later, with Ted away for weeks at a time, Kay is lonely. She tries to keep busy, caring for her home and for Dickie. Ted is working on an invention and has less and less time at home. At a club meeting Kay meets MRS. WATTS, expert on child psychology, who warns her that Dickie is a problem child.

truant officers picked them up in Oakland once."
 "Ted—really?"
 "Perhaps," Ted suggested, "he only needs a little of the discipline we require of our crews on the trans-Pacific flight. I'll give him a lecture and if that doesn't work I'll have to punish him."
 "Oh, Ted, no!" Kay's hand flew to her throat.

BUT Ted did give Dickie a stern lecture. After dinner he went to the airport to work on the gyropilot. Kay knew he wouldn't be home until late, and she tried to settle down to read. After half an hour, however, she threw down the book in disgust.

Dickie looked up from the model airplane he had been playing with. "I don't like books either," he announced. "Come on, let's play."

Kay drew him to his feet. "I'll tell you what," she said. "Let's slip off and see a movie."

Dickie clapped his hands. "Okay!"

Ted came home early and found the house deserted. Since he was tired, he went to bed at once.

In the morning he confided something to Kay that banished all thought of her own trials. Ted had come home from his flight over the Pacific to find that his private office had been ransacked. Papers had been tossed about and several were missing. Someone evidently was trying to learn the secrets of the gyropilot.

Luckily, he had taken a machine on the trip with him and the papers which he in-uders had taken would shed no light on the design.

Kay asked, "But, Ted, who could want the secrets?"
 "A patent thief, perhaps. A rival plane designer—possibly an agent for some foreign power."
 "Then you may be in danger!"
 "He might."
 He silenced her fears. "The secrets are in my head," he told her. "They wouldn't try to do anything to me. I'll just have to be careful for a while."
 Two tall men came in now on the heels of the pilot.

"You can count on Monte," Kay said. "He may be a rascal, but I'm sure he's honest and a true friend."
 "Everybody in the airport colony knows those children are little terrors! We've had to chase the boys away from the airport a dozen times and the

And, as the days passed, she felt more at ease about Dickie. When she learned that Mrs. Watts' children were really as badly behaved as Ted had said, she threw the child psychology books into discard.

But the real blow for Kay came when she learned Ted was to be away from home on Christmas. He sent a radiogram from Manila, but she had looked forward so long to this first Christmas with him and Dickie that she was keenly disappointed.

She gave a Christmas dinner for some of her friends. Doris came with Ralph Bangs and they had a quarrel even before the turkey appeared. Monte Blaine was there and sat in Ted's place at the table. Dickie and Jerry Searles completed the party.

Dickie ate so much that soon his eyes refused to stay open and he was carried off to bed.

"Poor old Ted!" Jerry Searles lamented. "This is the first Christmas I've spent without him in years! Christmas day in '17 we bombed an ammunition train. We were flying along at 3000 feet, and all at once, he said, 'Let's shoot some firecrackers, Jerry! I haven't done it since I was a kid.' So there was that ammunition dump—"

"I thought it was a train," Doris corrected. "Make your story stick together, Jerry."

"All right," Jerry went on, "it was an ammunition train. It was crawling along, so we dove down and let go with a bomb. Some fireworks, I can tell you! But there's nothing like that for Ted these days. He's changed—he's a chief pilot and he's married!"

Doris held a sprig of mistletoe over his head and kissed him and everyone laughed.

"Come on," Jerry said, "let's all go some place and dance! It's going to be my party. Ted's missing all the fun and I want to give a party for his wife!"

"The others looked at Kay. 'Sato is here to stay with Dickie,' Doris said. 'Come on, Kay!'"
 Kay had forgotten about spending Christmas alone with Dickie. She smiled and fled to her room to put on her white evening dress. When she came downstairs again she found Doris waiting with the three men.

Jerry's voice rose above the others. "Across the bay!" he called out. "Come on, everybody!"

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By NEA Service
 DO you make a real occasion of Sunday breakfast? For most of us it is the only time in the week that we can eat in quiet and peace without the thought of hurrying to be at the office on time, getting the children off to school or making a train for the city.
 You should try to vary the routine of daily breakfasts and have something out of the ordinary for Sunday breakfast. If you are late risers, and have dinner at noon on Sunday, your breakfast must, of necessity, be light.
 However, if your Sunday dinner is served in the early evening or late afternoon make Brunch (breakfast-lunch) a more substantial meal.
 Here are some breakfast suggestions for Sunday morning:

Monday's Menu

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit, cereal with cream, Boston codfish cakes with bacon and tartar sauce, toast, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Asparagus and poached eggs on toast, celery and carrot straws, chilled apple sauce, spiced drop cakes, milk, coffee.
DINNER: Broiled beefsteak, glazed apricots, shoe-string potatoes, creamed onions, jellied fruit salad, crackers, cheese, coffee

Eight Boston Codfish Balls

One cup hot mashed potato, 1 egg, 1-2 cup prepared shredded codfish, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, deep hot fat.

The mashed potato may be prepared the day before and simply warmed in a pan over hot water. Omit salt when cooking the potatoes, as the fish is salty enough to flavor the balls.

The codfish in this recipe is the kind that comes in a box ready to use without soaking.
 Add the codfish to the potato with the beaten egg and pepper and mix with wildness and inability to hold runners on bases, had given us two runs.

"Feller met the test superbly, and struck out Higgins with as fine a hook as you ever saw."
 "Feller is just wild enough to be effective, and I have an idea he always will be. He'll learn how to hold runners on the bases. His delivery is a bit too slow right now."

Barring an accident, Mack can't see any reason why Feller can't go on to take his place with the pitching greats.

SINGULARLY enough, it was against the Athletics that Waddell hung up the American League record of 16 strikeouts, which stood for many years. The famous left-hander was with the Browns after having spent the previous six seasons with Philadelphia.

"Waddell's performance at Shibe Park made me wonder why we hadn't set a record that Feller and all the others still would be shooting at," relates Mack. "The Rub developed arm trouble in his last season with the Athletics."

"Waddell established his record against an experienced club—Harry Davis, Danny Murphy, and that bunch."
 "However, there is sufficient hitting strength in the Athletics of this season to make Feller's achievement a noteworthy one."

"Perhaps he'll stir up some of those pitchers who everlastingly complain about the lively ball. He certainly is showing them how to deaden it."

Sport Glances.By Grayson

IN more than 50 years of baseball, Connie Mack has seen only one pitcher who was faster than 17-year-old Bob Feller, amazing find of the Indians.

"Feller isn't quite as swift as Walter Johnson," asserts the venerable manager in discussing the Iowa farm boy's phenomenal feat of establishing a new American League record and equaling Dizzy Dean's major league mark by striking out 17 Athletics in Cleveland the other afternoon.

Mack wouldn't say that such renowned fireballingers as Rubb Waddell, Cy Young, Addie Joss, Chief Bender, Smokey Joe Wood, Bob Grove, and George Earnshaw were any faster than Feller.

In his initial effort in organized baseball on Aug. 23, Feller set down 15 Browns to fall just one short of the American League maximum hung up by the immortal Waddell, July 29, 1908. He fanned 10 Browns on Labor Day, giving him the astounding total of 42 strikeouts in his first three full contests.

Mack does not subscribe to the belief that Feller is too much of an arm pitcher to last.

"At that, Feller reminds me more of Pink Hawley, who was with the Pittsburgh club in the '30s, than any other pitcher I can recall," explains Mack. "Hawley had tremendous speed, but didn't last long. He pitched a good deal with his arm."

"FELLER gets considerably more than his arm into his pitches. He is a strong boy with a strong yet easy windup and delivery."
 "It was my first look at Feller, and what surprised me more than anything else was his curve—and the way he used it. It required a lot of nerve for him to throw a curved ball to Frank Higgins in the third inning, with the count two and three on that splendid right-handed hitter, and Lovell Dean on second base, after the young man's wildness and inability to hold runners on bases, had given us two runs.

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS—By Blosser

Q. We believe that the Kelly Plow Company, still operated at Longview, is the oldest plow manufactory in the South. Is that true?
E. P., Longview.
A. It was organized by George Addison Kelly at Jefferson in 1850. Kelly came to Texas in 1852 at the age of 20 and became foreman of a Jefferson blacksmithing establishment, which he persuaded to make cow bells and other hollow ware, and he later designed and made a plow that proved popular and was the beginning of the present plant.
Q. What is the oldest drug store in Texas operating continuously under the same name? S. S., Marshall.
A. "Sedberry's Drug Store" at Jefferson, established in 1865, claims that distinction.
Q. When and where was the first congress held of the combined Mexican state of Coahuila and Texas?
A. Z., Donna.
A. Aug. 15, 1824, at Saltillo, Coahuila.
Q. I have seen mention recently of a place called "Dugout." Where was it? T. A., Cross Plains.
A. There was a thriving village, church and school community of that name in McCullough county about 1877-80.

Texans Are Told Of Their Prosperity

By United Press
DALLAS—J. F. T. O'Connor, U. S. Comptroller of the Currency, told Texans that their state, under the leadership of the present national administration, has pulled herself by the proverbial boot straps into a position of highly encouraging financial stability since 1934.
 A glowing picture of state and countrywide return to prosperity following the five "dark years" of the 1929-1933, was painted in undisputable statistics by the federal official.
 Texas, with 456 national banks, has six more than in 1933, the last of the "depression years," in which large decreases were experienced in deposits, O'Connor said. Loans and investments in Texas since 1933 have increased from $536,502,000 to $693,992,000, he added.
 In a chart telling the story of national banks since 1913, O'Connor revealed that bank suspensions practically were negligible under Democratic administrations, while they went skyward under the Republicans.
 The "top" of 2,242 suspensions was reached under former President Herbert Hoover in 1931. One hundred and twenty-two, the greatest number under a Democratic administration, came during Woodrow Wilson's "regime" in 1915.

Opening P. T. A. Program Entertains Members And Visitors

Despite the inclement weather of last week, the Parent-Teacher association of Cooper school held its first meeting at the school auditorium Friday night, which proved a delightful occasion, and entertained a number of members and their guests.

Nine bridge tables were attractively arranged for games of "42". Accessories were of color tints, repeated in the course of coffee and cake served at the close of the program.

The meeting was properly opened by Mrs. J. B. Robinson, who introduced the president, Mrs. Carl Clemmer, whose talk covered in a fine resume what the association had planned to accomplish this school year. Principal H. L. Baskin was presented by Mrs. Clemmer, and in turn introduced the school faculty.

The program as announced in the Times, of September 24th, was given and brought an added talk, one of interest and splendidly delivered by Superintendent W. T. Walton, who was accompanied by Felton Brashier, member of the Ranger school board.

The meeting was not adjourned until late evening, indicating its success contributed by those present.

Ranger Boy Is On Championship Gun Crew of the Navy

Lewis R. Snyder of the U. S. S. Mississippi, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Snyder of Ranger, was a member of the gun crew on Turret No. 1 of the ship when it made a United States record of firing 18 shots from the big guns in 2 minutes, 15 seconds, according to a letter he has written to his parents. It is thought by officers of the ship that this also constitutes a world's record, but a complete checkup to determine if the record had ever been beaten has not been made when the letter was written.

"The official navy time to make the E in firing 18 shots is two minutes, 36 seconds," young Snyder wrote. "We did it in two minutes, 15 seconds, and had 21 seconds to spare, enough to fire another shot. The first set of nine shots went out in one minute, 11 seconds. That is darn good for loading and firing nine 1,400-lb. shells, isn't it? Well, for the second nine shots we did better. It was one minute, 4 seconds. That is a navy record for a three gun turret. We fired 18 shots and every one a direct hit."

The E received by the No. 1 turret, which is given for excellence, is the first the turret has won and is the first three gun low turret in the three battleship division as well as being the fastest time any three-gun turret ever fired. Even when the other turrets did not get direct hits, they did not fire that rapidly, the letter states.

Since three guns are fired at one time, the middle shell has a tendency to crowd the two outer shells while in flight, and to get away from this, the center gun was fired one millionth of a second behind the other two.

"The government awards each man $12 prize money for making the E," the letter continues. "Also, if no other ship beats our time and hits the government awards No. 1 turret of the U. S. S. Mississippi $1,500 to be split among the crew of the turret."

The prize money, if won, will be divided among the 80 members of the turret crew, of which Snyder is a member, being stationed on a powder hoist.

Sect In India Halts Drive On Mosquitoes

By United Press

BOMBAY.—The religious doctrine of "Ahimsa" (that killing is sin) has created another difficulty for government health officials. Maharaj Shri Govardhanlalji Yashodanandaji, head of a Hindu religious sect, has refused orders from the municipality to seal a well in his compound. The order was part of a campaign to clean up malaria mosquitoes.

Recently similar opposition developed in Ahmadabad to a campaign for killing potential plague rats.

Maharaj Shri declares through his lawyers that his religion forbids him to use any water either for domestic or sacramental purposes which comes from outside his premises. He promises to keep his well clean, mosquito-free and has made improvements.

From another part of India come reports of similar opposition. In Qumbakonam, South India, a resolution of the town council to close a water tank in the heart of the town produced a public protest so strong that the project had to be abandoned.
