PEEPING THRU The KNOTHOLE

With BILL MAYES

Coach Johnny Kitchen of Eastland must be an optimistic chap. Although his team has played three games and has not scored a touchdown nor won a game, he has claimed in an interview that he has the greatest passing attack ever seen in the Oil Belt. In fact, he goes farther and claims about five all-district men, though the men have failed to show any all-district promise to date.

All Kitchen is waiting for, according to the interview, is a dry field and he will average some of those 52 to 0 and 14 to 0 losses, by way of his aerial bombardment, which he promises will surpass anything seen in the T.C.U. stadium, the World War or the present Spanish rebellion.

Coach Baker Wright, on the other hand, admits freely that he has little chance of building up a team for this year that can win a game, but he is optimistic inasmuch as the team is working hard and is putting up a game fight against insurmountable odds. He does not claim to have the best of anything in the Oil Belt, but does have high hopes of building up the material he has on hand at present so that he will have a team next year that will make a very credible showing.

Building for the future is Ranger's only hope at present, and is something that was neglected during the three years when there was plenty of material on hand to go through three Oil Belt seasons without a defeat. If young material had been properly developed during that three-year period, the team that now represents Ranger high school would be much more experienced and would, no doubt, be vastly superior to the one that took the field against Abilene last week or the one that will take the field against Eastland Oct. 16.

Incidentally, Wright says the Eastland game will likely be played in Ranger, but a report this morning stated that work would be shut down on the stadium Friday for a revision of some kind, and with only three more days in which to work it would be impossible to have it in shape so that the game could be played here.

Holding back her tears the baroness von Blixen watched the monoplane lift itself into the sky. She had spent hours trying to persuade Bjorkvall to live up to his agreement and take her along. He refused. He needed the space for gasoline.

The little 28-year-old noblewoman, who flew to this country on the Hindenberg, expecting to fly back with him, was angry.

"It's a dirty trick," she exclaimed. "I'm glad that I'm a lady and can't swear."

Wife Divorced After Two Sets of Quads

FUKUOKA, Japan. — Women in other lands have won fame and fortune as the result of multiple births, but Mrs. Zenichi Sakata became the mother of two sets of quadruplets and was divorced.

The Dionne quintuplet precedent and that of mothers who have borne four children at the same time did not hold true in the case of Mrs. Sakata.

In 1932 she gave birth to four children, but they died. This summer two boys and two girls were born at the same time. All survived.

Persons in the neighborhood greeted the event with gossip to the effect that an evil spirit had centered upon the Sakata household. The superstitious talk reached her husband, who, persuaded of its truth, divorced his wife.

A HODGE-PODGE, catch-as-catch-can government has made it necessary for the New Deal to create the most stupendous propaganda machine in the history of man.

Employing nearly 7000 writers, research workers, and experienced newspapermen at an expense to the taxpayers running into millions of dollars a year, this huge machine is used by the New Deal.

Dealers to cover up their mistakes, to manufacture alibis for their president, and to defy their party in the eyes of the American electorate. Its entire purpose is political.

Gov. Alf M. Landon, the Republican standard-bearer, gave the reason for the machine's being when he declared, in his acceptance speech:

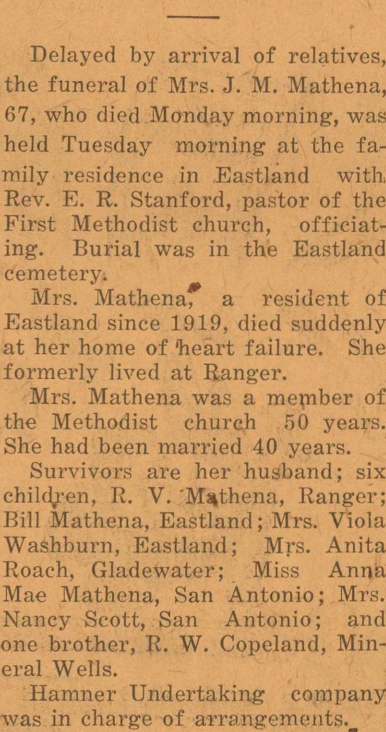

"Now it becomes our duty to examine the record as it stands. The record shows that these (New Deal) measures did not fit altogether into any definite program of recovery.

"Many of them worked at cross-purposes and defeated themselves. Some developed into definite hindrances to recovery. They had the effect, generally, of extending control by Washington into the remotest corners of the country.

"The frequent and sudden changes in the administration's policy caused a continual uneasiness. As a result, recovery has been set back again and again."

Shutdown Ordered On Stadium While Project Revamped

Announcement was made this morning by W. A. Martin, supervisor of the Ranger stadium project, that work would be shut down Friday in order that a revision could be made in the project.

Plans had been made to play the Eastland game, which is scheduled to be played in Ranger on Oct. 16, in Ranger, but the announcement today made it apparent that it would be impossible, in the three remaining working days, to do enough work to have the stands or the field ready for use.

Work of installing the seats is to start today or Wednesday, it was stated, and a number of the seats could be put in place, but it would be impossible to put up any kind of a fence around the field and the stands would not be ready for use.

Without the shutdown it was possible, it was thought, to have enough work done that the game could be played here.

All Americans Agree On These Vital Needs

The issues of the presidential campaign may be this, that, and the other thing; the outcome may be shrouded in the deepest doubt. But it ought to be possible to strike a pretty fair balance on the things that all Americans, regardless of party, want to see done in the next four years.

For while we may be deeply divided on candidacies and campaign issues, there are some things on which all of us agree. The common ideal of what America ought to be is not hard to define. Getting the ideal transformed into actuality may be something else again, but at least it can be formulated, even in a presidential year.

What are these things we all want — these things we expect Washington to work for, during the next four years, no matter who sits in the White House?

First of all, obviously, we want a prosperous America; a land in which the paralyzing fear of unemployment and loss is lifted from worker, business man, and professional man. We don't especially want a boom and we certainly don't want run-away inflation; we simply ask that things be fixed, somehow, so that the man who is willing to get in there and pitch will be able to make a decent living.

Secondly, we want peace. We are willing to fight if someone comes over to our side of the water and thrusts a fight on us, but we don't want to get into any quarrel overseas. We know that the European situation is complicated and dangerous, but we do expect our government to steer a course that will enable us to keep our boys at home.

Thirdly, we would like to see the government do its very best to stop that destruction of national assets which has been dramatized of late in the form of dust storms, floods, erosion of rich farm land and the like. We may not be quite clear about the exact form which this effort should take, but we do want our great heritage of land preserved — and we are willing to pay what it costs.

Fourth—or should this be put first of all?—we want the inspiring old ideal of a free, democratic, classless America preserved unimpaired. We still believe that the class war of European ideology need not be fought on our soil; we still believe that our democratic institutions are priceless possessions. We do not want them limited, nor do we want to see class arrayed against class; we prefer co-operation and we believe co-operation is possible.

These are the essentials. There are, very likely, other things which most of us want, and still more things which a great many of us want; but for these four things, at least, the national sentiment must be all but unanimous.

It remains for us to make that national sentiment unmistakable, so that no matter how the November election goes we can have our desires translated into the most effective kind of action possible in an imperfect world.

"Survivor describes experience in gas-filled mine." It will be old stuff to anyone who has found himself at a political harangue.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

FOR YEARS, IT WAS BELIEVED THAT VULTURES SCENTED THEIR CARRION MEALS MILES AWAY, BUT RECENT TESTS SHOW THE BIRDS TO HAVE NASAL ORGANS OF VERY LOW DEVELOPMENT.

SPACE HAS NO TEMPERATURE!

NEAR HOT SPRINGS, COLORADO, HIGHWAY MAINTENANCE IS DIFFICULT IN SOME PLACES, DUE TO PRE-HISTORIC GLACIAL ICE THAT LIES BURIED BENEATH THE SOIL.

IT is believed, now, that vultures for many miles around find a dead animal merely by following any fellow-vulture that seems to be going somewhere. One vulture, on discovering the carrion, makes a start for it, and another bird, somewhere in the distance, sees this direct move and follows. Others, seeing a preceding bird following suit, do likewise, and soon the carcass is covered with vultures.

Anybody Think This Insurance Policy Isn't Safe?

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. As evidence of good faith inquirers must give their names and addresses, but only their initials will be printed. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Q. What year marked the peak of the lumber industry in Texas and what was the production? A. S. A.

A. 1907, when 2,229,590,000 feet was produced by 673 mills.

Q. Will you tell a Massachusetts reader what is meant by cattle "milling?" M. B. O.

A. At times herds of cattle being driven get to going round and round in circles, which is called "milling." It then becomes necessary to rush into the circle on horseback, to break up the "mills" and start the cattle going in the desired direction.

Q. When was the area around Henderson first settled by Anglo-Saxons? S. S.

A. The date is not definite, but believed to be about 1830. Gen. James Smith, hero of the war of 1812 and famous Indian fighter, for whom Smith county was named, settled on the present Henderson townsite in 1836 and later donated the land on the condition that it be named for his friend, Gen. J. Pinckney Henderson, afterward first governor of Texas.

Q. Where are the Texas automobile license plates manufactured, how many are made and at what cost? W. W. R.

A. At the State penitentiary at Huntsville. Nearly 3,000,000 plates are made each year at a cost of about 6 1-4 cents a pair delivered to Texas county seats. Steel consumed is approximately 1,200 tons and the work keeps about 80 men employed for eight months.

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
KAY DUNN, pretty airplane stewardess, falls in love with TED GRAHAM, veteran pilot who flies the trans-Pacific route.

Ted has two interests in life—his job and DICKIE, his adopted son, 7 years old. When Ted asks Kay to marry him, she fears it is merely to make a home for Dickie, but she agrees.

She does not agree, though, with Ted's theories that marriage, to be successful, must be planned scientifically, just as a plane flight. She is rebellious because he insists her housekeeping must be carried on in the same way, with charts and budgets.

Kay gives a party and Ted, tired and weary, refuses to join the guests. To punish him, Kay impulsively boards the plane for Honolulu next morning. Once on board, she begins to regret her impulsiveness.

In Honolulu, Kay learns there is an outbreak of spinal meningitis at Midway and Ted is piloting a plane bringing serum. Ted arrives, takes off again shortly, without making her presence known. Kay boards the ship, ILIHAH, Oriental liner, also a passenger.

A violent storm breaks. Ted, studying the weather chart, looks up to face Kay.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXIII
THE ship was battling its way through the storm, half way to Midway Island, when Kay made her presence known to Ted in the chart room.

She had seen Illah board the plane and, sensing danger to Ted, had wanted to be near him. She hurriedly bought the heavy black veil and boarded the plane as a passenger.

Ted ran a worried hand across his forehead. "As if I didn't have enough on my mind!" he said.

The navigation officer turned suddenly and barked some figures. The latter took a few steps to the cockpit and repeated the command to the first pilot. A gust of wind at high velocity made the ship rock from side to side. Then rain poured down.

As the storm progressed navigation became increasingly difficult. Shifting high and low pressure areas added drift to the problems of the navigation officer who sat close to Ted in the chart room.

But the steady, dull roar of the wind and rain endured outside. The radio sets were working properly. The direction finder, used for radio navigation, had a range of more than 1,000 miles. On the other set they were in communication with the ground stations.

At intervals the radio officer brought messages to Ted. Atmospheric conditions were increasingly bad at Midway. The radio station reported that the Mariner's signals were weak. One hour after the storm began the signals from the Honolulu radio station ceased.

cockpit and watched the instrument board. One thousand feet. Five hundred feet. Three hundred feet. He ought to have been able to see the waves, but there was nothing but murky fog above and below.

Ceiling zero!

The giant flying boat swerved back up into the skies. He couldn't chance flying so close to the surface with visibility zero.

The radio officer came running with a penciled note. "The signals from Midway are getting weaker and weaker," he said.

Ted looked anxiously at the navigation officer before he read the note. "What does that mean?"

The navigation officer shrugged his shoulders. "We're going away. Off the course. We may be lost."

TED crumpled the note and flung it to the floor. "We're lost at sea," he said, and then glanced at Kay, who had been sitting quietly in the corner, saying nothing.

"Carry on," he said quietly to the navigation officer. Then he came to Kay, took her hands in his. "Don't be afraid," he told her.

Kay stood up. "I'm not afraid, Ted. I'm with you."

She turned when she thought she felt the door open at her back, but she went on talking. "Ted, tell me quickly. Has that woman, Illah, ever been curious—exceptionally curious—about the details of the gyropilot?"

Ted caught her wrist, alarm in his eyes. "Yes, she has! She's tried to get me to show it to her on several occasions. I thought it was a woman's idle curiosity."

Kay's eyes opened wide. "Ted, I know! I followed her in Honolulu and I've suspected her all along. Last night I saw her with Jack Slade, that renegade aviator in Honolulu."

The door opened slowly, and a white hand was thrust in. Illah appeared, the other hand behind her white robe. She bolted the door behind her, and slowly lifted an automatic from beneath the veils. She pointed the wicked little muzzle at Ted.

"You are very clever," she said to Kay. "But you are also amateurish. Keep your hands up." She directed Ted and the navigation officer, who had both stood up, hesitant.

"I heard all you said. Since the ship is lost, I must work fast," Illah went on. "If I die, I must know that my work has been well done. The gyropilot!" she said sharply. "Give me the plans quickly!"

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Sliced oranges, cereal, cream, shirred eggs, crisp toast, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: French toast with creamed dried beef, tomato and cucumber salad, rice, cauliflower, milk.
DINNER: Country vegetable soup with croutons, veal cutlets, buttered beets, mixed green salad with Roquefort cheese dressing, apple tapioca, spice cookies, coffee.

Country Vegetable Soup for Six
One-half cup olive oil, 6 to 8 onions, pepper, paprika, salt, 3 carrots, 2 cups diced cabbage, 2 cups tomato juice, 2 or 3 left-over cooked potatoes.

This is the simplest method of making a good soup if you don't happen to have any meat stock in the house.

Cook the chopped onions very slowly, until browned, in the olive oil in a large kettle.

Meanwhile cook the cabbage and sliced or diced carrots in just enough water to cover.

When the onions are tender, add the carrots and cabbage and the water in which they were cooked.

Add the 2 cups of tomato juice, salt, pepper and paprika to taste.

Left-over cooked meat may be ground and used also. Add the potatoes, diced fine.

Do not let soup boil after adding the tomato juice; simply let it simmer for ten or fifteen minutes.

If you are having veal cutlets for dinner, throw away the scraps of veal that you trim from the cutlets. Put them in a kettle, cover with water, add an onion, a carrot sliced, salt, pepper and paprika and let this boil for two hours. Strain and you have a delicious meat broth with all the fine flavor of the meat.

Serve very hot in bouillon cups with chopped parsley and croutons.

NEW YORK—Looking down the barrel at the Yankee hitters with the Giant pitchers:

Frank Crosetti, 286. A right-handed hitter who hits a long ball to left or left-center. Hits to right only when he swings late, which isn't often. High ball hitter. Keep it down.

Red Rolfe, 308. A strong left-handed hitter who is more dangerous since he started to smack home runs. Hits to right or right-center. Low ball hitter. Keep it up.

Joe DiMaggio, 327. Right-handed hitter with a perfect stroke. Hits everything—anywhere. No matter what you do, you're pitching to his strength. Put something on it and pump it through there.

JACK POWELL, 297. A right-handed pull hitter, which means that he hits his longest ball to left field. Bunts and pushes the ball. An average hitter having a good year at the clip he has maintained this season.

Roy Johnson, 268. A streaky left-handed hitter who prefers a fast ball. Slow up on him. He's the type likely to be either a star or a goat. He wouldn't be a manager's first choice in a world series.

Tony Lazzeri, 284. A right-handed "money" hitter. Has made a study of hitting behind the runner. Pokes the pellet to all fields.

Draining beads on Giant hitters with Yankee pitchers, who have considerably less to worry about:

Joe Moore, 318. A left-handed hitter and the finest leadoff man in baseball.

Dick Bartell, 295. A right-handed hitter properly spotted, for he doesn't hit in many runs. Moved up because of his ability to bunt. Fast balls his dish.

MEL OTT, 326. One of the best and timeliest left-handed hitters in the game. Hung up National League record this year by driving in 100 or more runs for the eighth consecutive campaign. Tops senior circuit in home runs.

Hank Leiber, 283. Powerful right-handed hitter. Good for distance. Always potentia, home run threat, but has yet to establish dependability.

Travis Jackson, 235. A fading, but still formidable right-handed hitter who rises to the occasion.

A fast ball hitter.

Gus Mancuso, 301. A right-handed hitter almost as slow as the blimp-like Shanty Hogan, but he tags the ball for keeps every now and then and is particularly adept at bunting a base-runner along! Prefers smoke.

Burgess Whitehead, 271. Rather frail, but a pitcher's nightmare due to his being an unorthodox right-handed swinger.

There you are, boys. Bear down.

Coal Mine Fire May Be Bridled After Half Century

NEW STRATTSVILLE, O.—A smouldering coal mine fire that has burned for 52 years and destroyed millions of tons of "black gold" in this southeastern Ohio community soon may be extinguished.

For the first time since 1884 there is promise that the malignant blaze will be blotted out. The fire-fighters enlisted by the government. WPA engineers have surveyed the area and found the fire-fighting project to be feasible from the standpoint of cost and available labor supply.

Action on the undertaking depends on the response to the U. S. Bureau of Mines to a request for co-operation in supervision of the work by experienced mine engineers, according to Dr. Carl Watson, Ohio WPA administrator.

The fire started during a mine strike in the Hocking Valley coal fields in 1884. Legend has it, infuriated miners loaded a barge with coal, poured kerosene over it, and sent the blazing mass hurtling into a mine shaft. The fire has burned over an area of six square miles and destroyed coal estimated at $40,000,000. For long periods it is dormant and then suddenly bursts into a conflagration that threatens lives and homes.

RED GRANGE, the old Wheaton iceman who carried the mail for Illinois a dozen years ago, was a miracle man all during his career, but it is doubtful if any single performance he made can equal that against Michigan in 1924.

It was on the dedication of the Ili stadium that Red, apparently inspired by the momentous occasion, ran wild, giving the greatest display of individual effort ever registered.

Sixty thousand people looked on as Ralph Steger kicked off for the Wolves, then rose and screamed as the Galloping Ghost tore from his 5-yard line back over the Michigan goal for a touchdown. Then, in rapid succession, followed touchdown tips of 65, 55, and 45 yards, all in the first quarter!

Bob Zuppke then withdrew the red-head and didn't use him again until the final quarter, when he sprinted 10 yards for his fifth and final counter.

"BLACK-DRAUGHT IS PURELY VEGETABLE"

— What Does That Mean? —
 A great many things can cause constipation and there are many remedies to relieve it, but possibly none more popular than the "vegetable" laxatives.
 Among these, Black-Draught is outstanding. In its manufacture, leaves of certain plants are used, and the roots of certain others. These are dried so they will keep without preservatives... no other chemical change from the way they grew in "Mother Nature's medicine garden."
 By their being finely ground the digestive system extracts the active medicine right where it is needed. Constipation is relieved.
 Black-Draught is so economical that a 25-cent package averages upwards of 25 doses.

Here's the motor fuel that delivers all the performance automotive engineers have built into that car of yours. Try it. Stop today at a Humble Service Station or at a Humble dealer's, tell the man at the pump to fill it up with Esso and—watch the difference. Test it in traffic and on the road; compare it with gasolines you've used. When you've tested a tankful, you'll be so pleased—you'll come back for more!

Esso is a premium motor fuel*, but if you're an average motorist, it will cost you only 5c a day more to get the benefit of Esso's superlatively fine performance. It's more powerful than any gasoline, accelerates faster, starts easier, has a higher anti-knock rating. Like all Humble products, it's continuously improved.

* In computing gasoline prices, don't forget that what you pay includes a State tax of 4c per gallon and a Federal tax of 1c per gallon. Gasoline is cheap, only the tax is high.

Like the proud cities of Texas, and the busy towns... Humble products are continuously improved

In 1836, Texas villages were scattered, homes were crude, population was scarce—in all not much to build on... These days, Texans are proud of their towns and cities. In neither will you find a placid contentment with things-as-they-are! New resources are being developed, new people are coming to town. The rat-tat-tat of a rivet gun signals new structures; the whine of a carpenter's saw indicates new homes a-building; industrial areas echo the clang and clamor of construction. Improvement is in the air!

HUMBLE KEEPS STEP with the continuous improvement of the towns and cities of Texas. It is a fundamental Humble policy to find new products for new needs, to conduct a never ceasing search for ways and means of giving the Texas motorist a better motor fuel, a more dependable motor oil. Humble technicians are ever alert to give you everything the automotive engineer asks of the petroleum industry. Continuous improvement is their slogan — and continuous improvement keeps Humble ahead.

When you drive through the proud cities of Texas and the busy towns, look for the Humble sign. Fill your tank with a Humble motor fuel, drain and refill with a Humble motor oil. Test both of them thoroughly, in your car... You'll come back for more.

At the Centennial Exposition, Dallas-Humble's Hall of Texas History

You are cordially invited to visit the Humble Exhibit at the Central Centennial Exposition in Dallas. Striking dioramas recreate dramatic moments and vivid episodes from Texas History. See the battle of the Alamo, the capture of Santa Anna, the prisoners of the Mier Expedition drawing the black beans, the battle of Sabine Pass, Colonel Goodnight treating with Comanche Quannah Parker. Then see and listen to the story told by the rocks of Texas, and how Texas oil is drawn from many thousands of feet under the ground. On your way to and from Dallas—stop for service where you see the Humble sign.
