REGIONAL BODY WILL DISCUSS FINANCE PLAN

ABILENE, Nov. 18.—The West Texas Chamber of Commerce plan for reorganizing, through legislative action, the financial management of the Texas state government will go before its executive board early this week. Announcement from the WTCC headquarters office Sunday said President J. S. Bridwell has called a meeting of the board for Wednesday morning, at Wichita Falls, jointly with its commissions on public expenditure and sinking fund investment, the budget analysis staff, and chairmen of local taxpayers' committees organized throughout the territory under WTCC sponsorship.

The session will be held in the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce offices, beginning at 10 o'clock Wednesday. It will bring general discussion of the regional chamber's comprehensive program for reorganizing and modernizing the budgetary functions and administrative machinery of the state government. The public expenditure commission headed by J. D. Hamlin will ask for approval and the go-ahead from the executive board. This given, Hamlin's commission will go after endorsements of WTCC affiliates and outside agencies interested in the program, and will direct the campaign for legislative approval of the bill drawn by D. A. Bandeen and Geo. C. Hester.

Bandeen and Hester, Hamlin, J. Thomas Davis (Vice-president of the WTCC) and Rep. Joe Humphrey will lead the discussion—to be featured, however, by general round table debate.

WTCC Manager Bandeen said that, following the Wichita Falls meeting, the plan will be taken to the territory. A series of town meetings will be arranged covering all the ten WTCC districts.

Penal Reforms To Be Discussed At Meeting Tuesday

AUSTIN, Nov. 18.—Texas' juvenile law breakers will "get a break" Tuesday, November 19, when a group of the state's leaders in penal reform and crime reduction gather here to make a searching analysis of youth-crime problems.

Called by University of Texas President Homer P. Rainey, in cooperation with the American Law Institute, the one-day conference will examine the institute's proposed new program for handling youthful offenders.

This program Dr. Rainey said today, is the result of two years of intensive work by a national committee of experts in law, penology, sociology, psychiatry and education.

To explain the plan, the institute will send Edward R. Cass, general secretary of the American Prison Association and New York State Commissioner of Correction, recognized as one of the country's authorities in criminology and penology.

Dr. W. Jackson, criminal district attorney of Harris County and a member of the American Law Institute, will address the conference on "Texas Looks at Its Youthful Offenders."

The University's School of Law will be host for the conference, to be attended by nearly two hundred of the State's leading judges, lawyers, educators, sociologists, and representatives of welfare organizations such as the American Legion, Federation of Women's Clubs and Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers.

A Texas Youth-Justice Committee is being set up to consider the state's youth-crime problem, and the adaptation of the law institute's program to Texas needs, University Law Dean C. T. McCormick said.

Sites For Bases On Coast Are Picked

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Officials announced tonight that an agreement has been reached with the United States on sites to be leased for defense bases off the American East Coast.

These bases are ones for which the United States traded 50 World War destroyers to Great Britain in a deal made several months ago.

To Talk Safety

Lew Wallace, legislative consultant, National Safety Council, will be one of the ten national traffic experts on the program of the C.I.T. Newspaper Seminar of Safety to be held in Austin December 2nd, 3rd and 4th.

Ranger Hunters Vie For Trophy For The Biggest Buck

MASON, Nov. 18.—Six Ranger hunters and a negro pot wrangler have arrived in Mason, loaded down with enough guns and ammunition to start a young war.

Each was grimly determined to win the prize .250-3000 caliber Savage rifle to be awarded by the Mason County chambers of commerce to the hunter who kills in Mason County during the season the buck with the widest spread of horns.

"I'll be shooting that gun next year," asserted A. H. Powell, admiring the rifle on display in the lobby of the Fort Mason Hotel.

The other men were Frank Kribbs, H. H. Vaughn, C. R. Neeley, Dr. C. L. Jackson, and R. C. Carville. Pot wrangler and chief "grub spoiler" for the outfit was Joe Louis.

All were men enough to endure the rigors of camp life for the four days of hunting, except Kribbs and Vaughn, who preferred the comforts of the hotel.

Hunting with the group is S. C. Bryant of Collinsville, Okla.

Newspapermen To Hold A Conference To Talk Safety

AUSTIN, Tex. — Representatives from 75 daily newspapers will attend the C. I. T. Newspaper Seminar of Traffic Safety to be held in Austin December 2, 3 and 4th, it was announced here today by the Texas Safety Association, sponsor of the seminar.

"No state in the nation has a press more alert in furnishing constructive leadership for guidance of community and state effort toward control of the traffic problem than Texas," said George Clarke, executive secretary of the association.

"Credit for the progress already made in curbing traffic accidents in this state must go in large measure to the support of the safety movement by Texas newspapers. In recognition of their services and in an effort to provide ammunition to the press for even more constructive leadership, the Texas Safety Association is bringing the C. I. T. Newspaper Seminar to Texas."

Fundamentals of traffic control in relation to community and state effort will form the basis of seminar discussion. Ten of America's foremost traffic authorities will lecture at the Seminar in addition to prominent Texas experts on traffic control.

The Seminar will be officially opened by William M. McIntosh, president of the Texas Newspaper Publishers Association, and publisher of the San Antonio Light.

The Seminar is endorsed by the Texas Newspaper Publishers Association and the Texas Press Association.

It is sponsored by the C. I. T. Safety Foundation, national traffic safety organization, endowed by C. I. T. Corporation, and follows two national and five state safety seminars previously conducted by C. I. T. Safety Foundation.

He Shot Debtor Who Favored the Germans

TEMPLE, Nov. 18.—Murder charges were filed today against Newell Greenhow, 47, who said he shot Wilhelm Warnick because "he owed me $45 and was pro-German."

Both the men were CCC employees.

LABOR PEACE LOOMS UP AS UNIONS MEET

John L. Lewis told the Congress of Industrial Organizations at Atlantic City today that he will leave the presidency within a few days and that his successor, whoever is chosen, should receive unanimous support.

Those who would divide the CIO are labor's greatest enemies, he said.

Two great ovations were given Lewis, who promised to resign the presidency if Wendell Willkie failed to win the national election.

President William Green told the American Federation of Labor convention in New Orleans that President Roosevelt is making another effort to unite the CIO and AFL and that the federation is willing to meet the CIO halfway.

Green declared that representatives of the AFL would meet with CIO representatives at any time, any place in an effort to form a united labor front and to work for peace between the two labor unions.

Lunchroom Grows In Popularity But More Meals Can Be Served

The Ranger school lunch project, which is being sponsored by the Works Progress Administration through the cooperation of the Ranger school system, is growing in popularity, but there is equipment and food to serve a larger number, it was stated today by W. T. Walton, superintendent of schools.

"Many of the school children are not taking advantage of the opportunity to obtain good meals for 10 cents each," Walton stated, "because of the mistaken idea that only children from families working on government projects, such as the WPA, are eligible to eat at the lunch room. This is not true as any child, regardless of the means of his family, can obtain the meals at the same price other children pay."

It was pointed out that a high peak of 138 was recorded last week, while there is ample space to provide lunches for at least 200 children.

Anyone attending any of the Ranger schools, or employed in any capacity by the schools can eat at the lunch room, it was stated, regardless of whether or not the family is listed on any of the relief projects.

The meals which are served for 10 cents each can be procured by any child in school, calling for meals cooked by expert cooks and supervised by an experienced dietitian.

Home Defense Co. Will Train Tonight

Members of the Ranger Home Defense Company were reminded again today that the first drill of the unit, using rifles, would be held at the National Guard Armory this evening at 7:30.

The guard unit muster roll of 64 members has been completed, Acting Captain R. H. Hansford has stated, and all are expected to be present for this drill. It is expected that uniforms for the company will be furnished sometime after the National Guard is called out for its year of active training.

Band Mothers Will Meet This Evening

The Band Mothers' Club of Ranger High School will meet tonight at 7:30 in Room 19 of the High School Building, it was announced today by Elbert Master, director of the band.

Mother of all junior and senior band members have been urged to be present for this meeting.

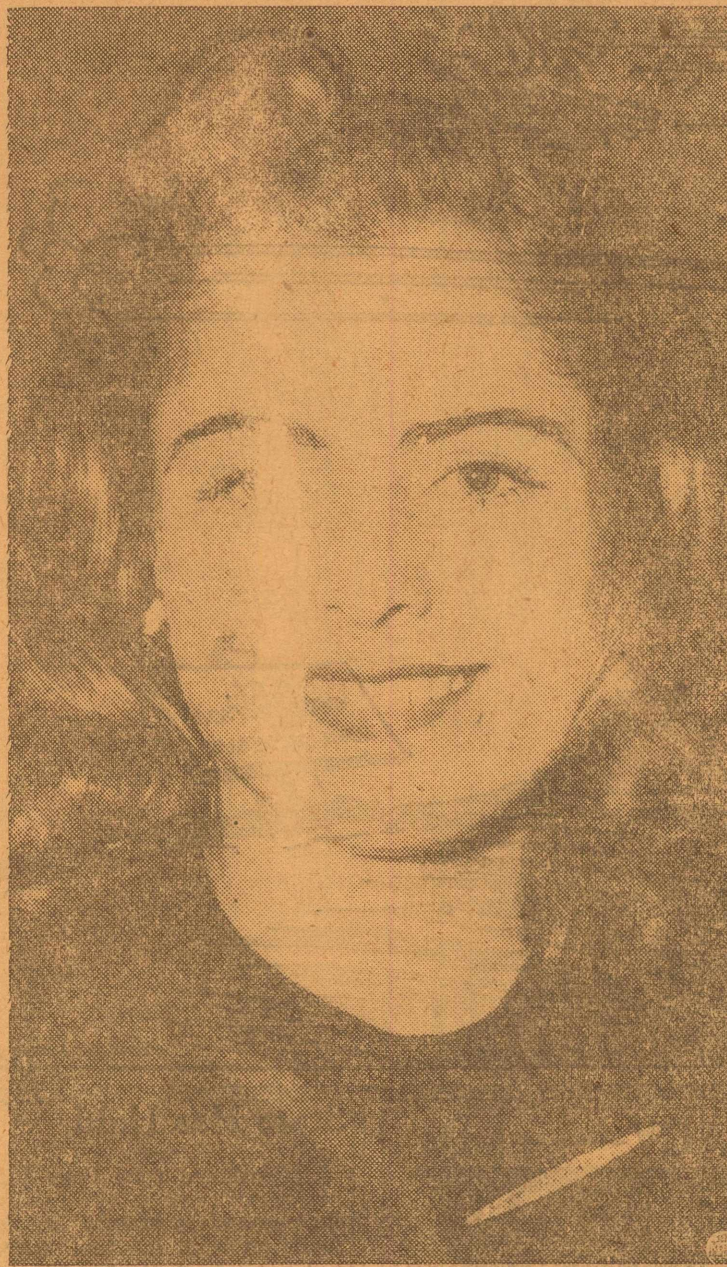

Colony P.-T. A. Will Meet On Wednesday

The Colony Parent-Teachers Association will meet Wednesday at 3 o'clock in the Colony School auditorium, when the elementary grades will give a Thanksgiving play.

Miss Lois Moore, head of the English department, will be the principal speaker, after which the program and regular business meeting will be held.

All members have been urged to be present for this meeting.

She's Glamor Queen of the Debs

Well, it seems to be settled at last. If you were wondering who's going to be the 1940-41 season's "most glamorous debutante," it's Mary Lee Abbott, above. In a recent New York contest, a noted beauty expert, a popular illustrator and a society photographer gave her the title.

State Has Held Worthless Bonds In Vaults and On Books 70 Years By An Oversight State Auditor Says

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Tex.—Many people doubtless were puzzled when State Auditor Tom C. King reported that $1,172,187 of securities the state treasury holds in its vaults have little or no value.

The bonds to which Auditor King referred were issued by early Texas railroad companies to which the state had advanced funds such as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation today aids necessary enterprises with federal funds. These bonds have remained on the state books through some oversight since 1870, King reported.

The history of the bonds dates back much farther than 1870. In 1854 the Texas legislature had created a special school fund out of $2,000,000 worth of U. S. five per cent bonds, with provision that the interest on the bonds should be distributed annually to the various counties for school purposes.

In 1856 a loaning act was passed by the legislature in an effort to encourage the building of railroads in the state. This act empowered a board consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the state comptroller to sell the $2,000,000 worth of United States bonds and loan the proceeds to railroads. The borrowing railroads were to give the state six per cent bonds secured by first mortgage on the railroad property. There was a requirement that the principal of the bonds be retired at the rate of two per cent a year.

Under this act railroad companies had borrowed $1,476,000 by the time the Civil War started. After the war other loans raised the total to $1,816,500. Payments had been made promptly up until the war started.

As war complicated finances the railroads ceased making required payments. An arrangement then was made by which the railroads were permitted to resume payments by tendering treasury warrants instead of cash. These warrants had been issued to the railroads for hauling Confederate soldiers and supplies for the Confederate forces during the Civil War.

Considerable litigation over the bonds took place. One railroad, the Houston Tap and Brazoria, was sold at auction when it failed to accept terms of an act of 1870 providing a new plan for payment of the bonds and interest. Other roads complied.

In November 1893 the Houston and Texas Central and the Galveston Harrisburg and San Antonio Railroads (now part of the Southern Pacific system) ceased payments contending that they had fully discharged their debts.

The state then brought suit to compel further payments. The state courts held that payments by return of warrants which had been issued to the railroads for army transportation were void. The railroad took the case to the U. S. Supreme Court and in 1899 won a decision that the payments in such warrants were valid.

After the U. S. Supreme Court decision the railroads naturally declined further payment. The state treasury however apparently ignored the decision and continued to show the bonds on its records.

4TH PRODUCER DRILLED IN CARBON POOL

The fourth producer for the South Carbon pool came in this morning when the J. O. Fox & Son's No. 1 J. H. Vaughn, an offset to the C. L. Mahaney well, began making heavy heads following a shot in the Caddo lime at an approximate depth of 2,570 feet. Just what the well will make will not be known until further tests are made. Oil men visiting the well this morning, stated that it gave every indication of a good producer.

The Vaughn is north and slightly east of the Mahaney No. 1 Jackson, which is rated as a 500 barrels per day producer on settled production.

An offset to the Mahaney on the south is the Gallagher & Lawson No. 1 R. C. Morris on the P. S. Hardy survey. This test is drilling.

Appointments Of Notary Publics Made After Nov. 20

Due to the passage of the constitutional Amendment authorizing appointment of Notaries Public by the Secretary of State, appointments will be made after the canvass of the vote by the Governor, Attorney General and Secretary of State on November 20th, according to information received by County Clerk R. V. Galloway from the Secretary of State.

Appointments made before June 1, 1941 will expire on that date. All appointments on June 1, 1941 or thereafter will expire on June 1, 1943, according to Galloway.

There has been one change in the existing law other than requiring the applicant to be 21 years of age and a resident of the county, and further that under the old law the Governor appointed all Notaries with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Since all Notaries are required to file their bond with the county clerk, and sign the oath of office, County Clerk Galloway states that he is now receiving applications for Notaries, and will then forward them to the Secretary of State, and upon receipt of their commission the applicants will be notified, after which they may qualify by filing their bond with him and taking the oath of office.

A fee of $2.50 is charged for this service, $1.00 of which goes to the Secretary of State, and the other to defray the expenses of approving and recording the applicant's bond in the county clerk's office.

Germans Protest On Ship Incident

TAMPICO, Mexico, Nov. 18.—Officers of two German freighters protested formally today that "enemy" warships pursued them into Mexican waters Friday night, where one of four German ships was scuttled.

It was reported that the Germans might have mistaken American destroyers for British.

847 Bales Ginned In Eastland County

The census report of the Department of Commerce, bureau of the census, reports that a total of 847 bales of cotton were ginned in Eastland County from the crop of 1940, prior to Nov. 1, as compared with 533 bales ginned during the same period from the crop of 1939.

The report was issued by Mrs. Rainey E. Mancill, special agent of the bureau of census.

MUSSOLINI BOASTS OF ULTIMATE VICTORY AS HIS TROOPS IN FLIGHT

Time For Meeting Of Oil Association Is Made Necessary

ABILENE, Nov. 18.—The 1940 annual meeting of the West-Central Texas Oil & Gas Association will be held in this city December 2.

Change for the time of this session, from the date originally announced, was made necessary, Joe A. Clarke, Albany, president of the organization announced, because of a conflict with another program which could not be eliminated.

Feature of the day will be a banquet and entertainment program at Fair Park Supper Club at 6:30 p. m. This function will be open to both men and women, and officials of the association assert that it will be an outstanding affair. An address by a speaker of national prominence will highlight this session.

In the afternoon "Open Forum" at a downtown hotel, several problems of direct and immediate concern to those in or affected by the operations of the oil industry will be discussed by specialists on those subjects, President Joe A. Clarke said.

Since the West-Central Texas Oil & Gas association lead off last week in the movement for a new oil and gas commission—which effort has now been joined by four other regional organizations of the industry—it is expected that the forthcoming session will hear a great amount of talk on the merits of that proposal.

As has been its custom for the past several years, the association, through its officers, has invited all members of the Texas Legislature to attend the meeting. Already a considerable number of those who will serve in the law-making bodies during the next two years, have advised that they will be on hand, to learn more about the ideas, desires and problems of the independent groups in the petroleum industry.

A general invitation to all the people of the 19-county area included in the West-Central Texas district, to attend the different events of the December 2 meeting, has been issued by Clarke.

"We want every man and woman of the district to come to the annual meeting of our association—whether they are directly in the oil business or not," he declared. "All people benefit from the operations of the petroleum industry and all of them should be interested in the subjects to be discussed and considered."

Advance registrations for the evening program and dinner can be made now through the Abilene office of the association, Clarke revealed. He urged that all who plan to attend to get their tickets as early as possible so the local arrangements committees could better plan for caring for the crowd, which is expected to be in excess of 700 people.

Billy Johnson Is Winner 4-H Award Electrification

Assistant County Agent A. C. Pratt is in receipt of a specially designed gold medal which has been awarded Billy Johnson for making the highest county score in the fourth national 4-H rural electrification program. The boy is a member of the Eastland High 4-H Club led by W. J. Starr of Eastland.

Participants study the value of electricity to a community, determine its best uses at home and help disseminate results through exhibits, demonstrations and otherwise. Special attention is given lighting, power, heating and proper installations. The activity is supported with county, state and national awards provided by the Westinghouse Company to further knowledge on the subject.

The award will be presented at the 4-H boys achievement program to be held in Eastland on Nov. 30, 1940. It is estimated that seven club members in the county took some part in the enterprise.

THE WEATHER

WEST TEXAS—Mostly cloudy tonight and Tuesday, with occasional rain south portion. Not much change in temperature.

Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy called for destruction of Great Britain in a speech at Rome today, while his armies continued to have their hands full against Greek forces.

Mussolini termed the Greeks "tricky" and said it did not matter whether the war lasted two months or a year, because ultimate victory was certain to be Italy's. He denounced the Greeks for an alleged promise of naval and aerial bases for Great Britain and thundered "Since I have started nothing can stop me," as thousands gathered in the streets cheered.

Mussolini did not make the speech from a balcony, but from his offices, and appeared on the balcony only at its conclusion for a short ovation from the people.

The premier declared that British reports of the naval defeat at Taranto were incorrect and that half the Italian battle fleet had not been destroyed. He did admit damage to three ships, one of which was serious enough to require some time to repair, but stated the English version of merely Churchill's policy of multiplying his reports by six.

Meantime the Greeks were pressing around Koritza, the big Italian base in Albania, where the Italians set fires before evacuating.

Germany and Britain swapped aerial blows and Spain's foreign minister went to Germany, reviving reports that Spain may be drawn into the war by the side of the axis powers.

Tokyo announced that new "liberal" peace terms will be offered to China, but American sources predicted the Chinese will fight to eliminate the Japanese from China, particularly since American and British air is increasing.

An unidentified foreign warplane crashed in Yugoslavia after dropping bombs in a lake. Four of the crew were killed.

O. P. Morris, 73 Pioneer Merchant Dies At Kilgore

Funeral services for O. P. Morris, 73, who died Sunday evening at Kilgore, where he was in the grocery business, will be conducted at the First Baptist Church of Eastland Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Jones W. Weathers, Baptist pastor, will officiate. Interment, which will be in charge of Hamner Undertaking Company, will be in the Eastland cemetery.

Mr. Morris was born in Grayson county near Sherman, on Jan. 23, 1867. He married Miss Ada Greene at Axtell, McClelland county, Texas, on Sept. 3, 1896, and together they came to Eastland in December, 1902, settling on a farm near Eastland. A short time later Mr. Morris entered the grocery business, first as an employee and then for himself. He remained continuously in the grocery business until the time of his death, a period of 31 years.

He also was engaged in the hotel business in Eastland for some time. One time he served on the board of city commissioners at Eastland during the time the late J. H. Cheatham was city manager. Survivors include his widow, two sons, Ray of Houston, and Jim of Ranger; four daughters, Mrs. Dr. H. H. Pantou, Corsicana; Mrs. Geo. W. Bell, Houston; Miss Hallie Morris, Sterling City, Colorado; and Mrs. Eli Harris, San Antonio. Two sisters, Miss Sallie Morris and Mrs. T. M. Johnson, Eastland; three brothers, Jessie Morris, Fort Worth; Allen Morris, Rising Star; and Gordon Morris, Colorado.

Somebody Gusses Is Interpretation of The Oil Estimates

AUSTIN, Nov. 18.—The State Railroad Commission, seeking to write a 90-day oil proration order, revealed today that the federal estimate of Texas market demand is declining, but that purchasers nominations are on the increase.

"Somebody is guessing," said Harold Neely of Fort Worth, representing the West Texas operators.

Federal estimates of market demand for Texas were quoted at 1,799,000 barrels daily, a decline of approximately 14,000 barrels.

Billboard Bill

Because the billboard lobby has defeated every effort made thus far to place outdoor advertising under adequate regulation in Texas, some of the state's most scenic road-sides are becoming littered with signboards that rob high-way users of the pleasure they normally would have. In addition, the billboards distract the attention of the drivers and interfere with careful driving; they have become in many places a serious mental hazard.

In an effort to remedy this situation, a new bill to regulate outdoor advertising has been formulated for consideration by the next Texas Legislature. This measure, if enacted, will ban advertising signs from within 100 feet of the highway right of way and will push them back 300 feet from public parks, playgrounds, forests, schools, reservoirs and cemeteries. It will impose an annual license fee of $5 to $50 for companies erecting and maintaining roadside signs, plus a permit fee of 5c per square foot for each sign with a minimum of $1. The license fee will go to the State Highway Department to pay for administering the law, and the permit fee to the general revenue fund.

This bill is patterned after those which other states have found useful in checking the billboard nuisance. Its provisions are mild compared to some in the laws of other states. In Maryland, for instance, the annual license fee for firms engaging in billboard advertising is from $50 to $200 a year. The Texas law would affect an estimated 8,000,000 square feet of advertising structures in Texas which are outside of municipal limits.

The courts have held repeatedly that, since the enhanced value of roadside property comes from public action in road construction, the public has a right to limit the use to which this property is put. Prompt action in imposing effective billboard control is essential if Texas is to woe successfully the tourist trade to which the state's scenic resources entitle it. The current bill on this subject should have strong support from citizens and civic bodies interested in preserving Texas landscapes from the billboard blight that already has overtaken roadsides in some parts of the state.—Dallas Morning News.

ers required by statute to keep funds on hand in the treasury had a total of $18,962,773 there in cash and securities. Securities held for county and road district sinking funds totaled $566,120 and there were also $43,400 of securities owned by Waller county that had been placed in the state vault for safe-keeping.

Out of the total cash item shown in the treasury, $51,476,269 was on deposit in various banks which had qualified as state depositories. An additional $50,132,577 was deposited in the U. S. treasury to the credit of the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission. The actual cash on hand physically in the state treasury was $1,656,129.

The reason the state can have all this cash on hand and subject all this cash on hand and subject have a deficit in the general revenue fund of from $20,000,000 to $28,000,000 is that state laws require separate funds for various purposes. The general revenue fund is a sort of general pocket into which the state dips to pay its current operating expenses. It cannot pay them from any of the other funds, no matter how much money they may have on hand.

Some of these funds are made separate by the state constitution and could be mingled only with an approving vote of a majority of the citizens. Others have been made separate by statute. Abolition of the statutory separate funds has been advocated by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel.

New Architecture Will Result From The European War

AUSTIN, Tex.—One real contribution to civilization may be expected from World War II—a newer, better architecture for crowded, unsanitary European cities, a University of Texas architect predicts.

W. T. Rolfe, chairman of the University's architecture department, bracketed the current war along with history's other major catastrophes as "a cause of sudden architectural change."

Rolfe believes that Europe will re-build her bomb-leveled cities in a more decentralized manner, somewhat reminiscent of that trend in America—a community center city.

"In spite of the fact that European architecture will certainly reflect the influence of the victor, her re-built cities will spread over wider areas as people begin to take advantage of modern transportation facilities," he declared.

"Communities will emerge with convenient neighborhood shopping centers and humanized shelter, designed to relieve the unsanitary, unsafe and crowded conditions of large cities."

The best way to find your place in the sun is to get out and shine for yourself.

Too bad all the polls couldn't have been correct. Everybody would have been elected.

SERIAL STORY

DUDE COLLEGE

BY OREN ARNOLD

CHAPTER I

MR. THOMAS U. BAILEY awoke at dawn. To his astonishment he had slept soundly, and to his further astonishment he felt good. He sat on the edge of the bed, shivered, even though it was only September 4, then reached for his robe and walked out onto the broad veranda.

He leaned his hand against a log post and inhaled deeply. Next he patted what should have been his manly chest and said a long "ah-h-h-h!" Then — and this would have been news in New York — Mr. Thomas U. Bailey actually smiled.

"Is good morning, Senor Bailey, eh?"

A friendly Mexican said that, a cook in the ranch house here who had come out to probe the new boss.

"Wonderful, Fabian! Just look there!" Mr. Bailey pointed and said "ah-h-h-h-h" again.

"There" was a 90-mile expanse of that western entity known as room-enough. Specifically, it began here in New Mexico, but the panorama of it swept from a hazy eastern point that was Texas, across the Line into Chihuahua, and on around into the bold blue-reef west that was Arizona. It was all a magnificent palette of colors mostly in sunrise pastels now, broken only by the distant sleeping mountains and the more alert Spanish daggers growing nearer at hand. It was all a landscape to

"It's from Dad," Ronnie said. "He wants me to come west, to go to school. I'll have to do as he says."

SERIAL STORY DUDE COLLEGE BY OREN ARNOLD

DUDE COLLEGE

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Thomas U. Bailey, financier and airplane manufacturer, is so delighted with his New Mexico ranch that he orders his play-girl daughter, Ronnie, to join him. The telegram catches up with Ronnie, darning with Andre Girardeau, Gotham's No. 1 war refugee. She is to attend Pueblo University, better known as Dude College. Her father's word is law. After Andre takes her home, he goes to his own apartment, writes a message on a card with disappearing ink, and another on the same card in real ink, mails it to Washington, carefully avoiding leaving any fingerprints.

MEET THE PROFESSOR CHAPTER II

THREE days after Ronica Bailey received the telegram from her dad, New York's best read newspaper columnist had this opening paragraph:

"The Town's most oomphatic Sombdy has left the Town in the lurch, maybe for good. She took off yesterday in her golden monoplane, and by now she's probably at the controls of a saddle horse with a golden mane. The location, if you want to follow roaming Ronica, is Pueblo University in New Mexico, famed more for dudes than for football. We'll bet a week's salary Ronnie's the best-looking maverick that college ever corralled. And the heart news is that the too, too devastating gentleman from Europe was successful in his rapid wooing, hence will become a cattle baron, too. Exact date of the wedding is yet a secret but—stand by for further announcement."

The columnist, shrewd fellow, knew whereof he spoke. Pueblo U. had been more or less taken over by the dude ranch patrons in the past few years, wherefore some dozens of America's wealthiest upward, like a black cascade. "Is—is Dr. York in now?" she asked, courteously.

The young man turned from a book... "Oh, yes, Miss Bailey. It is a pleasure..."

He stopped abruptly. He looked up into the violet eyes of Miss Ronica Bailey, from New York.

"I am Dr. York," croaked the young man, basso profundo.

FOR a moment they just stared in mutual appraisal. Then all instance. Despite his initial embarrassment here, he had an open, friendly manner. His talk was too bookish, but his blush had been that of a boy. She couldn't imagine Andre Girardeau ever blushing! She had liked Andre, even and loveliest girls were registered there, but Ronica Bailey's coming was a distinct sensation. "Where-ew?" was the definite if un scholarly reaction of the university's young men.

MONDAY at 9 o'clock saw Ronnie tap-tap-tapping down the arched colonnade of the administration building, walking fast as always, dressed in a simple, but costly, sweater and skirt outfit. The skirt was almost knee short, convenient as well as cute.

She smiled at everybody, including those she didn't know, and practically everybody turned to watch her. She entered the registrar's office.

There she received instructions to report at once to her faculty adviser and counselor, a Dr. Woodrow Wesley York, Ph.D. Ronnie heard his name with definite misgivings. He sounded familiar. He sounded like—like a frame-up her daddy had arranged. Daddy hadn't liked the reputation she acquired at college last year—too much publicity to her traveling and flying and general extra-curricular activity—so he had probably connived in advance with some crusty old gen to boss her here. She climbed soberly to room 309.

"I am Ronica Bailey," she told the bespectacled young clerk in Dr. York's outer office. The clerk turned from a book and spoke first without looking up. "Please sit down, Bailey. Bailey. Oh, yes, Miss Bailey, here is your record card. Now it is a pleasure to welcome you officially and I trust that—"

All at once he stopped. He had looked up and gotten a full bang view of Ronica Bailey from New York.

He is not to be blamed. Many another man had experienced the arresting pleasure of discovering Ronica Bailey, of coming directly in front of her violet eyes. Ronnie waited. Her ebony curls flowed down behind to strike white clad shoulders and sort of splash back at once Dr. York arose, remembering his manners. That embarrassed him even more, however, because she was already sitting, and he could only plop back down. He turned a bit crimson.

He took out a handkerchief and blew his nose, glanced fearfully at Ronica again and said, inane, "Uh, yes, yes indeed!" All at once Ronnie laughed out loud.

"I'm so sorry," she quickly apologized. "I didn't mean to be rude."

He smiled then. Moreover, his smile was genuine, human. He didn't look like a Dr. Woodrow Wesley York. He looked more like somebody's big brother who has been working too hard in an office. Ronnie told herself. Suddenly she liked him, and so with characteristic impulsiveness she spoke.

"Do you know how to dance?" she asked, brightly.

"Do I—I beg pardon?" His mouth remained open.

"You surprise me, Dr. York. I expected a crusty old professor. You are a professor, aren't you? Chemistry or something?"

"I—I—archaeology! And as for surprising one, Miss Bailey, you, ah, do right well yourself. But wait—I do not misunderstand. I like your frankness, I mean. Your, ah, natural verve and ebullience. It is an added pleasure to discover one of your striking personality. You have the capacity for leadership, I'll wager."

"Tell me some things," she leaned a shapely elbow on his desk. "Will it be all right if I keep my monoplane here? I do so love to fly?"

"Oh by all means, Miss Bailey. Pueblo University has no foolish disciplinary restraints, so long as their students stay within reason. Freedom of action is a concomitant of freedom in thought, we hold, and youth must have free rein."

Ronica sat back, smiling happily at him. Oddly, she suddenly took careful note of Wesley York as a man. He was big. Not as tall as—well as Andre Girardeau, for though she knew so little about him; from the day of his arrival in Manhattan society he had paid her ardent court. But now, with 2000 miles between them—

SHE brought her thoughts back to the formal conference here, and when it was over half an hour later she drove straight to her new ranch home. College classes wouldn't start until tomorrow, so she had a day in which to explore. She had her mechanic warm up her golden monoplane.

"Landing fields are scarce out here, Miss Ronica," the mechanic warned.

"Righto. I'll stick in a chute, just in case. It's gorgeous country."

It was truly gorgeous. It was even more so from the air. She leveled off rather low to study the thorny cactus growths and the old rocky contours of the map slipping under her.

For one thing, there wasn't a town nor a house nor any living object as far as she could see, except for the tiny college town and the ranch homes in that particular canyon. She was whirling due south, and she flew steadily for at least half an hour, more and more awed by the vastness of this unhabited cactus land.

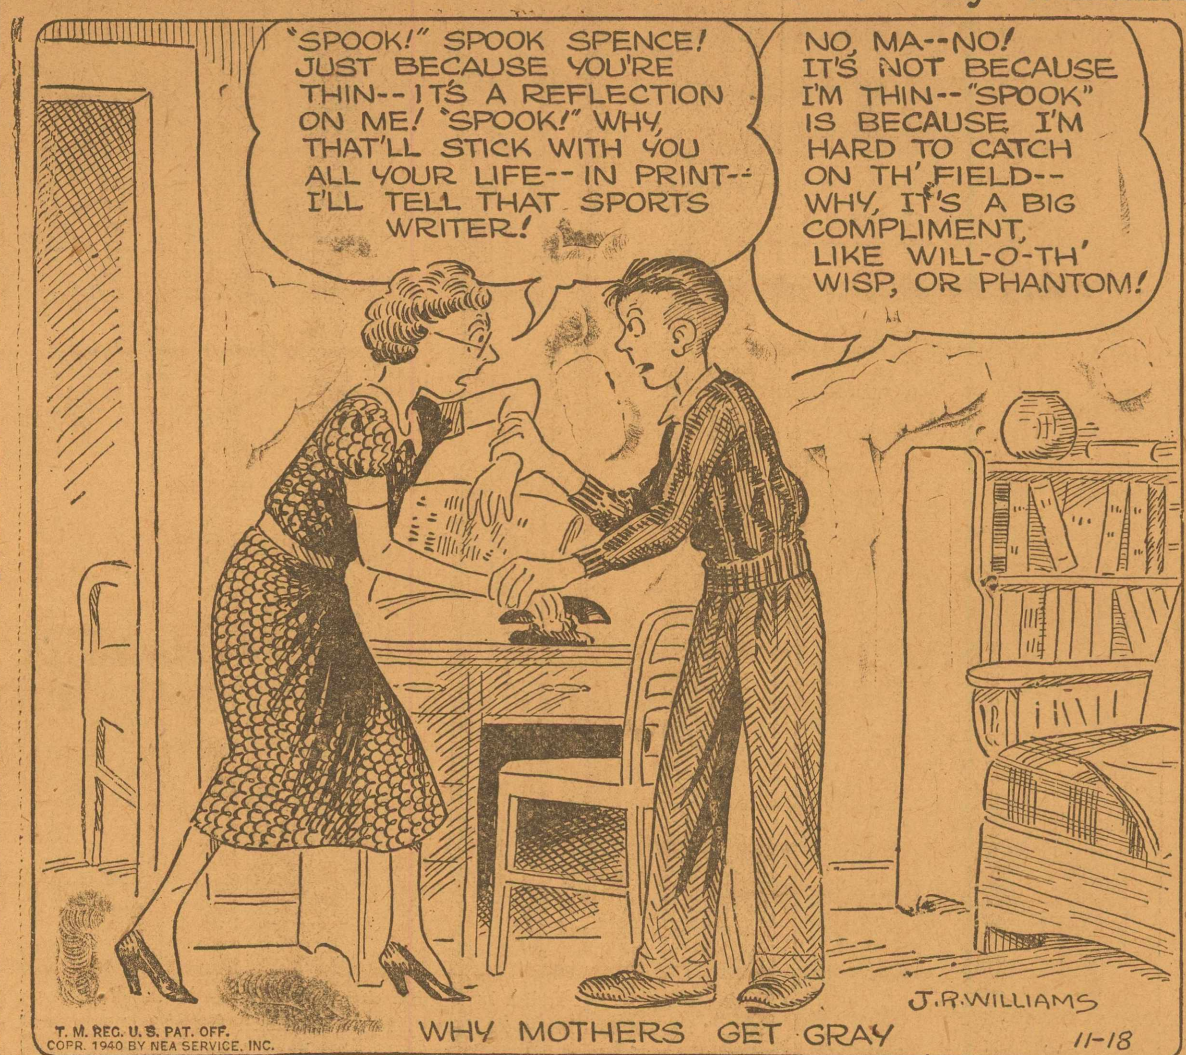

When she had made a great curve, leaped over some low mountains and headed back north again, she suddenly saw five dots crawling on the ground. Binoculars showed them to be men walking, although there was no sign of road or trail.

With a curiosity typical of her, Ronnie cut her motor and slid down the air to get a close look at them—and that was a mistake. When her plane was singing along easily not 100 yards from the men, they produced guns and began to shoot!

Ronica was speechless. Wind fingers reached in to grip her face, because one bullet had come so dangerously close as to break her front view window and scatter glass in her lap.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

HATCH ACT FAILED TO CUT DOWN ON CAMPAIGN SPENDING BECAUSE OF TWO MAJOR LOOPHOLES

BY BRUCE CATTON NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — Despite the limitations imposed by the Hatch act, the presidential campaign of 1940 may go down in the records as one of the most expensive ever waged in America.

The Hatch act provides that no party may spend more than $3,000,000 on a presidential campaign. It also limits the sum any individual may contribute to a campaign fund to $5,000, and prohibits the solicitation of federal or federally paid state employees for campaign contributions.

ORGANIZATIONS ARE LEGION

FIRST of all, there is the $3,000,000, over-all limit. What the act says is that no "political organization" may spend more than that sum. It apparently does not cover the sums that separate organizations could spend.

Senator Hatch recently pointed out that in passing on this point a court should take into account the debate on the floor of the Senate, in which it appeared to be the wish of the Senate that the $3,000,000 limit should apply to the total spent for any one candidate. However, most of the Willie committee officials who testified recently before the Senate campaign fund investigating committee reported that their lawyers had advised them that each separate committee could spend up to $3,000,000.

These committees were legion, on the Republican side—the Associated Willie Clubs, the Willie Magazine Club, the Anti-Third Term Committee, the American Writers' Committee, the People's Committee to Defend Life Insurance Savings, the Committee to Uphold Constitutional Government—and half a dozen more. All but two of these asserted they were completely independent of the national Republican committee.

MAN MAY SHELL OUT ON ALL SIDES

SENATOR GILLETTE, head of the Senate committee, points to the second loophole in the limit on individual contributions.

A man may not give more than $5,000 to a national campaign fund. But he apparently could give a similar sum to each of the 48 state funds, if he chose, and in addition could make further $5,000 contributions to assorted county committees to the limit of his capacity to pay.

Nor has the ban on levying contributions on officeholders been entirely effective. A government official in Washington, for example, could not circulate the workers in his department asking for contributions; but the Democratic National Committee could (and in some instances did) circulate the same workers in their homes. Similarly, a political committee can't try to shake down a postmaster for a contribution—but it can dun his wife, his father and all his in-laws.

The courts may eventually hold that some or all of the dodges cited here are in fact violations of the Hatch act. But competent lawyers seem to believe the courts won't do anything of the kind—and as Senator Gillette remarks, "an act of that importance ought not to be left open to two such logical and reasonable interpretations."

Adds Senator Gillette: "There's no question in my mind that here's a field that must be gone into seriously if we are to prevent wholesale debauchery of our election system."

Ice Houses To Be Centers In Future

AUSTIN, Tex.—"Community centers of the future" will be the ice-houses of yesterday, restored to popularity by the growing rural and urban need for extensive freezing facilities, a University of Texas engineer believes.

W. R. Woolrich, University engineering dean, sees in the locker-storage plant the answer to the farmer's perpetual problem of preserving perishable foods for an all-year market.

In such buildings, he said, both housewives and merchants will be able to store vegetables, fruit and meat for use throughout the year.

In many localities ice manufacturers can offer freezing and storage facilities at a reasonable cost, while in other places the work may be undertaken as a cooperative project, Dean Woolrich said.

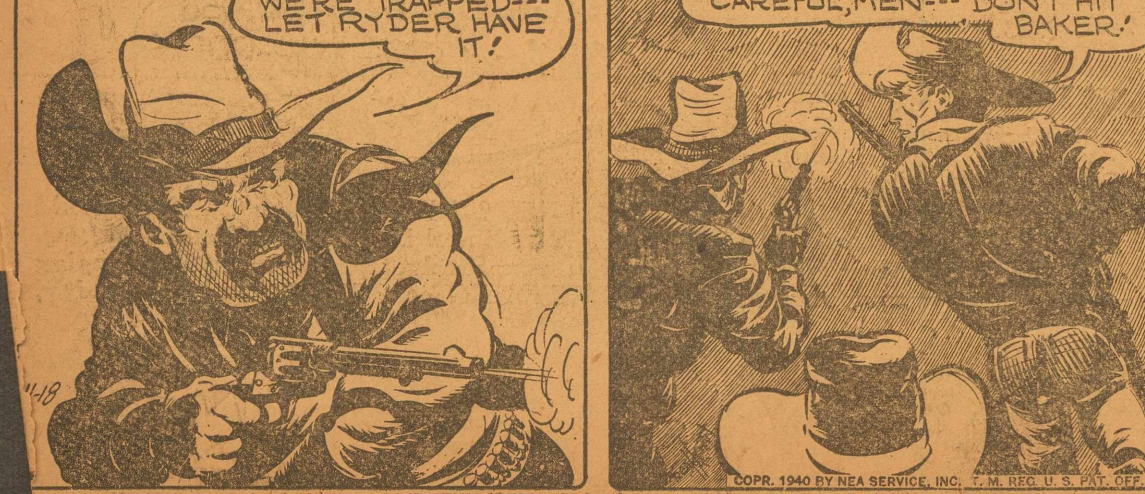

Although the construction of freezing equipment has in the past been a costly process, the invention of low-cost machines like one now being patented by University has brought the advantages of quick-freezing within the reach of the small farmer, he explained.

MODERN MENUS

BY MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Service Staff Writer

FOR the past 10 years our American turkeys have been getting bigger and bigger. State agricultural colleges, the Department of Agriculture and turkey breeders have co-operated to produce a bigger—breasted, smaller—boned and richer-meat bird.

This year big turkeys, ranging from 12 to 16 pounds, are the best buy. The smaller sizes, 8 to 12 pounds, will be harder to get and will cost more.

Invest in a large tom turkey, even though your family is not large. Well-refrigerated, cooked turkey keeps well and you can use it all in delicious specialties. The flavor and tenderness of a large young turkey is equal to that of a small hen turkey and the difference in price per pound will surprise your food budget. Large tom turkeys grow faster and are easier to raise than hen turkeys, therefore they can be sold on the market at lower prices.

One of the most important turkey buyers in the country gives this advice to the housewife: "Look at the turkey carefully. Remember you are buying turkey meat. Get a bird with a large proportion of meat in comparison with its bones. Small bones and big breast, that's what you want." There must be some fat, too, for turkey fat improves the flavor of the meat.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Stewed prunes, oatmeal griddle cakes, honey or syrup, crisp bacon, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Black bean soup, lemon rings, toasted half-rolls, old-fashioned jelly cake, American cheese, tea or milk.

FAMILY THANKSGIVING DINNER: Grapefruit and grape cod, roast turkey, dry herb and bread stuffing, sweet potato pudding, Brussels sprouts, cranberry jelly, apple and lettuce salad, spiced pumpkin pie, whipped cream, nuts, raisins, celery, coffee, cider, milk.

"Get a young bird. You can tell youth in a turkey by the softness of its meat, not by its size. The breast bone of a young turkey is soft."

"But the best way to get a perfect turkey," our expert says, "is to have faith in your butcher. Buy only from a reliable butcher, one who wants to keep your trade and good will. Tell him exactly what you want and he will select the right bird for you. He knows more about turkeys than you can ever learn. That's his business." Allow from 1 1/2 to 2 pounds of dressed turkey per person. That means a turkey without feathers, but with head, feet and "innards."

Fish Catches A Man And Breaks His Leg

AUSTIN, Tex.—A fish caught a man and broke his leg!

That occurred to a Texas coast fisherman recently. Dr. G. W. Wentz of Harlingen was the victim. The story told the Corpus Christi Times—by his son, Bill Wentz, goes like this:

Dr. Wentz, fishing off the bulkhead bank of the third pass on the Mexican coast, hooked a big red. The fighter at the end of the line tripped the fisherman and caused him to fall down a 30-foot embankment. He suffered a fractured leg.

Companions took Dr. Wentz back to Harlingen for treatment.

Next week, Colonel Moss, the Commanding Officer, will have some interesting information for you, regarding the openings now available to young men in the Army. Watch for announcements about the infantry and Air Corps.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beachwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. Women Get "Build-up"

A good way to relieve periodic discomfort from functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition, such as headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain, many women find is by using CARDUI. It usually sharpens appetite, increases flow of gastric juices, and so aids digestion, helps build resistance to periodic distress. Another way CARDUI may help you: Take it a few days before and during "the time." CARDUI has been popular for 50 years.
