NAVY STEPS UP PILOT TRAINING AT NAVAL BASE

By DEBS MYERS
United Press Staff Correspondent
CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex.—Here on rolling humps of sand, the navy has wrought a $54,000,000 miracle that it considers among its proudest achievements.

It is the world's largest naval air station, a bustling boom city still incompletely but 14 months ahead of schedule.

The navy is proud of its background, and this glittering new base is already part of its finest tradition.

"We had a job to do," said Capt. A. D. Bernhard, the commandant, "and we did it. As a matter of fact, we're still doing it."

Here there is no question of morale. Everything moves with efficient precision. Together the officers and men give the impression of a powerful, well coordinated football team.

"If we had to do it, we could do a pretty good job now of defending the whole gulf coastline," said Bernhard. "But our number one job at present is to turn out naval fliers. And we're doing it. Turning out good ones, too. That is why this base was located where it is. We can produce pilots without much chance of anyone getting at us."

The navy trains 800 cadets a month at its four training stations, and the Corpus Christi base alone trains 300 a month. The station, located 25 miles from the Corpus Christi city limits, covers more than 14,000 acres. It includes 40 practice flying fields, a main runway representing 80 miles of paved highway, and three large auxiliary fields.

More than 650,000 tons of steel and building material have gone into construction of nearly 400 buildings, paved highways and hard surfaced landing fields. Nine thousand workmen have been engaged on the project at one time.

Actual construction was started in July, 1940, the same month that the navy received title to the land. Construction is one year ahead of schedule. Training is 14 months ahead of schedule.

This is the only naval air station in the United States that has the full training course, primary, basic and advance training. A cadet completes his course in approximately seven and a half months. Then he is commissioned an ensign in the naval reserve.

By the end of December, the base will have approximately 2,000 students under training. This will require 600 instructors. Cadets under instruction now number 1,200.

The officers joke about the base's rapid construction.

"Mix together a little cement," said a lieutenant, "add just a little water, then step back just long enough to turn your head. The gulf breeze whips up this sand and the next thing you know there is another building."

TEXAS TAX TO EQUAL STATE'S COTTON CROP

LONGVIEW, Tex.—Taxpayers of Texas will contribute $131,250,000 of the total of more than $1.2 billion dollars which the new Federal tax bill, effective October 1, is expected to yield, according to an estimate made by the tax department of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce today, based upon the ratio of Texas' retail sales and national income to those of the nation. This is approximately 3.75 per cent of the total to be collected under the new Federal measure.

This sum of additional taxes which Texans must contribute to the Federal government is almost equal to the total value of the Texas cotton (lint) crop in 1940, which was $139,800,000, the statement points out.

"This comparison is not made with the intention of criticizing the Federal defense financing program," the statement says, "but merely to emphasize the vital necessity for cutting to the bone State and local governmental spending during the emergency period."

Citing examples of the spiraling Federal tax burden, the statement points out that every single person with as much as $14.40 per week earnings must file an income tax return; a married couple with no dependents with a net income of $2,500 for 1940 paid $11.00 Federal income tax, while the same couple with the same net income for 1941 will pay $90.00 Federal income tax when returns are made next March.

Power to Industry Shows An Increase

FASTER.—Electric power turbines are spinning furiously to keep up with defense industry demands, University of Texas business statisticians report.

Industries in the last year have increased their power consumption more than 25 per cent, the report revealed.

Total August consumption—including commercial, industrial and residential use, was up 6.8 per cent over July and 18.9 per cent over a year ago.

Commercial use during August climbed 13.5 per cent over August, 1940, 5.2 per cent over July; industrial, 26.1 and 6.7 per cent, respectively, and residential, 11 and 9.7 per cent, respectively.

THE WEATHER

WEST TEXAS—Cloudy with occasional showers tonight and Friday, cooler in northwest Friday and in extreme northwest tonight.

STRONG CLYDE TEAM TO FACE '42 BULLDOGS

The 1942 Bulldog team, composed of players who will be eligible for competition next year, will start in the Clyde-Ranger football game tonight at 8 o'clock, and will play a good portion of the game.

The 1942 starters will be composed of several who start this year, but who have one or more years of competition left, and some who are now reserves, but who are expected to letter and be regulars next season.

Man-for-man there is very little difference in the strength of the team which will take the field against Clyde and the one which started the first three games of the season, as those who have not started games have played in each of the contests and are getting valuable experience, not only as replacements, but also as members of the team next season.

Clyde boasts a team that will just about equal in weight the Bulldogs who face them, tonight. There are six lettermen on the Clyde team, while Ranger will start four lettermen. The lines weigh exactly the same, with the Clyde line being a little more evenly balanced in weight. The Ranger backfield will have a 10-pound advantage per man over Clyde, with Elder at 165 and Woods at 164 making up most of the difference, as Clyde's heaviest back weighs 150.

Clyde has played two games to date, losing the first by a fairly large margin after but a week of practice, then coming back to put up a stiff fight in her second game to lose by six points in what has been described by Coach Jeter of Eastland, who officiated in the game, as one of the hardest-fought games he had ever seen.

After the Clyde game the Bulldogs will have but one more week of practice to prepare for the conference opener here with Stephenville on the night of Friday, Oct. 10.

VAST CHANGES IN FARMING FORESEEN, WAR DUE TO SPUR INDUSTRIAL CROPS

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story on the changes likely in farming because of the war was written for the United Press by the president of the National Farm Chemurgic Council.

Written by WALTER McMILLEN
Philadelphia—Farming in the United States, due to the war, is likely to undergo changes comparable with those in industrial fields, especially the chemical, that resulted from the World War. In 1914 we were importing 95 per cent of our dyes and most other organic chemical products. Today we make 95 per cent of our dyes and nearly all other chemical manufactures. Many agricultural products used in industry, however, come from abroad.

Defense production and the making of consumer goods will be hampered seriously unless American farmers are encouraged to grow many new kinds of crops for industrial uses. There are more than 100 crops, not now produced here, or grown in too small volume, that our own growers can learn to supply.

Domestic production of needed raw farm stuffs for defense and for use by industries is quite important, it would seem, as proposed increases in food stuffs.

Post-War Cushion Seen
Incentive payments to farmers for growing industrial crops would appear to be as proper as the spending of millions of dollars on industrial plants to increase the output of aluminum, magnesium, nitrates and other vital materials. The establishment of new crops would also help cushion the shock of post-war depression.

Shortages exist and are becoming acute in nearly every important farm commodity. Prices for raw materials, or products derived from them, in some cases are several times higher than a year ago. Castor beans, for example, are about double their normal price. Caraway seed was 9 cents a pound last year; it is now 83 cents a pound. Both are imported.

That many agricultural commodities are essential to national defense is evident from the number and variety already on the list of Office of Production Management priority list. We cannot afford to rely on ocean shipments of such supplies either for defense or for the operation of our industries. Britain's experience should be a lesson for us. But, one thing is certain, no submarine or commerce raider can sink a farm.

Vegetable Oils Needed
In the defense field, everything from gunstocks to battleships requires finishes—paints, varnishes and the like. Vast quantities of finishes, of course, are necessary also for commercial purposes. This means vegetable oils, particularly drying oils.

We cannot at present obtain sufficient quantities of such oil as tung from China, or perilla from Japan. One-half of the flaxseed for linseed oil comes from the Argentine.

Tung nuts are being grown in the Gulf States, but it will take years to develop an adequate acreage of tung trees. Experiments in growing the perilla plant promise commercial production eventually. The other half of linseed oil requirements can be grown on our farms, if need be. New processes for increasing the drying oil yield from soybeans are stimulating the demand for that fast-expanding crop.

Safflower, a thistle-like plant, offers an excellent source of oil. Considerable acreage is under cultivation and will probably be greatly extended.

Castor Bean Important
Castor has gained importance as a drying oil through the development of a dehydrating treatment. This oil is also used as a special lubricant. It is believed that the castor bean may rival the soybean as a crop because the peculiar chemical structure of its oil lends itself to so many industrial processes.

Starch for industrial uses, including adhesives, has come largely from the East Indies. Nearly a half-billion pounds of tapioca and sago are imported annually. Shipping conditions in the Pacific, however, have reduced the supply and increased the cost.

Sufficient starch can be produced from sweet potatoes and yams grown on surplus-cotton land in the South. Factories in southern states are making excellent starch and valuable by-products in increasing volume.

Despite great surpluses of cotton, 131,000,000 pounds were imported last year. Cotton that is better than the foreign fiber for use in automobile tires has been developed in this country, though not enough is yet grown to supply the demand. This domestic cotton will make the tire industry independent of foreign sources, in time.

Cigarette Papers of Flax
Cigarette paper making is an American industry that resulted from disturbed conditions in Europe. Manufacture started on the very day that the present war began. The paper formerly came from France, where it was made from linen rags. Now three-fourths of our cigarettes are made with flax-straw paper produced in North Carolina from flax raised in California and Minnesota.

Fewer than 200 acres of coriander, whose aromatic seeds are used for flavoring, are grown in America, though the production of 30,000 acres is consumed each year in beverages, candies and other products. There are about 100 acres of coriander in Kentucky, and around 25 acres in Pennsylvania. Coriander is but one of scores of plants that supply essential oils which can be cultivated successfully and profitably.

Sugar Curbs May Go
If the shipping situation does not improve, we shall be compelled to abandon the regulations which restrict continental sugar production to 30 per cent of our consuming requirements. Fewer fruits, grass seeds, and materials for insecticides will be obtained abroad.

American agriculture will benefit substantially if a diversity of new types of production is developed to supply emergency needs—particularly if plans are made to assure American producers of the domestic market afterward. Farm production for industrial use, resulting in more stable rural income, will also be a bulwark for industry against later depression.

Buford Green Rites May Be On Sunday

Savings Bond Sales In Texas Dropping

AUSTIN.—Texans are spending less and less money for savings bonds, reports of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research show.

August purchases of savings bonds in 31 major cities totaled $453,937, a 24 per cent drop from August, 1940.

For the first two-thirds of the year, Texans in these cities have bought $5,296,373 of savings bonds. Compared to the 1940 figure of $6,510,371, this is an 18.6 per cent slump.

REDS COUNTER ATTACK IN LENINGRAD AREA AND ON THE DNIEPER

Selectees Should Travel 'Light' En Route to Army

Selective Service registrants enroute to Army induction centers should "travel light," taking nothing but essentials so as to avoid inconvenience to themselves, and to the armed forces, General J. Wats Page, State Selective Service Director, cautioned today.

"One small bag should be sufficient to carry the things a selectee needs until he is in his equipment by the Army, the director said.

"If you wish, take a small bag with a few clean clothes, a few handkerchiefs, socks, soap, towel, and other necessary toilet articles. These are not essential, for you will be issued necessary equipment by the Army, but they may come in handy should there be any delay in your induction.

"Leave jewelry, large sums of money, and other valuables at home, for they may be easily lost. If possible, take a little spending money for such needs as you may have before your first pay-day. Take some postal cards or stationery and stamps, a fountain pen and an inexpensive watch if you have them."

Selectees were warned by General Page to leave automobiles and motorcycles at home. Commanding officers will tell the men on their posts if they may have these vehicles and the soldiers then will have an opportunity to get them from their homes, he pointed out.

Unnecessary articles taken to induction centers must be returned to his home by the selectee at his own expense or otherwise dispose of it, General Page said.

Street Car Rails Will Be Removed To Aid Defense

SAN ANTONIO.—An opportunity to help national defense and simultaneously to get rid of a bothersome traffic and maintenance problem at small cost was pointed out to Texas cities today by E. A. Baugh, state director of operations for WPA.

WPA has given first priority to projects for the removal of abandoned publicly-owned street car rails which can be salvaged for defense production, he explained.

"There are 161,000 tons of valuable steel rails lying unused under the pavement of 33 Texas cities," he stated. "Such rails, when covered, make constant maintenance necessary, and when protruding from the pavement, constitute a definite traffic hazard. Under the WPA authorization, a city may apply the proceeds of the scrap steel to the sponsor's share of financing the rail removal project and remove traffic hazards and obtain new paving at a relatively small actual cost to the city treasury."

WPA rail removal operations are conditioned, he pointed out, on the local government's submitting a statement that it will dispose of the steel as directed by the Office of Production Management and a certificate that the rails are public and not traction company property. Salvaged car rails are considered an important type of scrap steel because they can be formed into other articles with a minimum of processing.

Baugh explained that a local government which already has a WPA street project may set up a unit of the project for rail removal and restoration of the street to a serviceable condition. Where there is no current street project, prompt consideration will be given an application for a WPA rail-removal project.

Under arrangements with OPM, the scrap will be shipped by the local government, charges collect, to a steel mill or other assembly point designated by the Office of Production Management. The steel company will send the city a check at the maximum mill price established by the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply, after deducting the transportation cost. The city will apply the receipts as a sponsor's contribution toward the cost of the WPA project.

Red Army Forces, sparked by tanks and armored trains, were reported today to be on the offensive against the German besiegers of Leningrad.

Meger reports from Berlin and Moscow indicated heavy fighting on the fluid front in the Ukraine. Both capitals agreed that severe battles still were in progress around Leningrad, now under direct attack for a month, with the Russians taking the initiative.

Sweeping forward across the Neva River, the Red Army forces routed 15,000 troops, according to preliminary reports, but Berlin said the enemy was turned back after suffering heavy casualties.

Nazi firing squads boosted the total executions in Czechoslovakia to around 130 today as Britain and Russia sought to coordinate moves for spreading unrest against the Axis rule of Europe.

The Berlin bureau of the United Press checked by telephone with Prague and learned there was no announcement yet of the execution of Gen. Alois Elias, Czech premier, sentenced to death by the Nazis.

On the Ukraine front, where the Germans unofficially reported progress toward the threatened Donets Basin, Nazi official news agency dispatches said that the Russians had vainly attempted to recross the Dnieper River on the sector held by the Hungarians.

Previous German dispatches indicated that the Russians did not hold any Dnieper Bank, so the report indicated partial recovery on the part of forces headed by Marshal Semyon Budenny.

The Germans said that one Nazi division on the Southern Front had slashed far ahead and had seized a good sized Russian town two weeks ago. London military sources said that the Germans were making progress in their offensive against the Crimea, having pushed about half-way down the narrow, 15-mile-long isthmus leading to the peninsula.

Games, Grim and Gay

The crack of the bat, the thud of the punter's toe against the football—in these things, in the autumn of this year 1941, Americans are still blessedly permitted to be interested. The world series, the opening games of the football season, these hold briefly our attention, while across the world people watch and play their parts in a grimmer game.

Does it seem irresponsible for a great nation to rivet its attention on the hop of a sharp-hit baseball or the spiral flight of a deftly tossed forward pass, while there is being fought what may prove to have been the bloodiest battle the world has ever seen?

We think not. In spite of wars, revolutions, and all the tumults of the social organization, life must go on. No one can forget Carlyle's vivid picture of how in Paris, during the most shocking horrors of the Reign of Terror, thousands went the ways of their daily life quite heedless of all these things. The pitcher must go to the well, and the clothes must go to the laundry in the face of the greatest and most worldshocking events.

Business can't be "as usual," and life can't be "as usual" in these days. The overwhelming stark fact of war throws its shadow over every activity of man throughout the world. Yet man is so constituted that in the face of the most overpowering disasters, he grasps for such pleasures as he can, and finds them good. If British people who may, before any morning's sun rises, be bombed into eternity, can spend those evenings at the movies (and they do) there is no good reason why the people of the United States should not sit cheering in the stands while yet they may. World series and football crowds this fall may well be the greatest of history.

Get out into the glorious fall weather, then, and cheer your team. Try to put out of your mind for a few hours that other game that is being played with the heart's blood of men and women for a stake no less than the freedom of the world.

Its terrible, unsolved question: its innings not yet played, its outcome not yet determined, will be waiting when you leave the stadium.

Women who want fall outfits might try the motto, if at first you don't succeed, cry, cry again.

One corner of an eternal triangle is always sure to get knocked off.

State Fair Will Open Saturday

DALLAS, Texas—The State Fair of Texas—show window of Texas—will open Saturday. More than 150,000 persons, representing every walk of life and every section of the Lone Star empire, will push through clicking turnstiles to participate in the fifty-third annual premiere of an institution which has become a characteristic of Texas as a tangle of a booted Ranger, or even the Alamo itself.

Last-minute preparations are in progress on the 190-acre grounds, where $15,000,000 in physical equipment is being given that final daub of paint—where exhibits and shows and livestock are being put into place in anticipation of the fair's first surge of humanity. During the sixteen days before the fair closes on October 19, more than 1,250,000 persons will see the amusement and educational features which make the State Fair of Texas the greatest and largest state fair in the world.

Opening day is full of special attractions. A street parade at noon, featuring seventy-five lovely Texas queens, will officially open the fair. That night those queens will compete in a spectacular pageant which will see one crowned as Texas' Queen of Queens by Governor Coke Stevenson. Newspapermen of Texas, Oklahoma, and Arkansas, accompanied by their wives, will come 1,500 strong to participate in events of Press Day. Hundreds of members of Texas chapters of Future Farmers of America will celebrate their day. Other special days which coincide with opening day are Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers Day, Texas Architects Day, County Auditors Day, Texas Press Women's Association Day.

Highlighting the 1941 State Fair of Texas will be the $150,000 Livestock Show, in which there will be the National Hereford Show and the National Aberdeen-Angus Show; a mighty agricultural show, presentations daily of the famous musical show, Earl Carroll's Vanities; the Southwest's largest night club, Cafe Esplanade, an independent Midway with fourteen shows; National Defense Day, on Sunday, October 12, when the Southwest's greatest patriotic demonstration is held, and hosts of other attractions.

By PETER EDSON

...the vegetable Glamor Girl—
 May Be Answer to Many Farm Boys' Prayers

BY PETER EDSON
 NEA Service Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The war, the tax bill, the movie industry and all such ludicrous unpleasant things seeming to be going along according to plan, you turn your head for a minute to see what else is happening in the world, and there stands Dr. R. E. Murphy of the Department of Agriculture, whose life, for the immediate past, present and future at least, is being dedicated to the sweet potato.

If you are inclined to scoff at the idea of the government paying a scientist just to worry about sweet potatoes in these times, hold your raucous laughter till you have heard all. And none of your ribald cracks, either, about the disloyalty of a man named Murphy worrying about sweet potatoes to the exclusion of Irish potatoes. Dr. Murphy's field of research has both varieties to bug and hoe and promote.

It's all part of the Department of Agriculture's broad program of finding new uses for surplus agricultural crops. While you weren't looking, while you had your eyes on the bathroom scales and the measurement of your hips or waistline as the sex may be, while you were watching your diet too closely and cutting out starches, the consumption of Irish potatoes dropped off 28 per cent from what it was 40 years ago. That meant that a little more than one acre out of every four that used to be dedicated to the growing of potatoes had to be planted in something else, or just allowed to go to weeds.

ALSO, in the last 15 years, the cotton acreage of the country has dropped from 44.6 million acres to 23 million acres—nearly half—because of the decline of the world market for cotton. It was to find new crops for these idle potato and cotton and other abandoned crop acres that the Department of Agriculture got busy. And that is where the sweet potato comes into its own as the newest glamor girl of the vegetable kingdom.

It is the sober conviction of Dr. Murphy and his colleagues today that the lowly sweet potato has potentialities for development as the corn of the south. And it can do things for the agricultural economy of the west and the Pacific coast states, too. It is a stock feed for dairy herds and for fattening livestock for market. It offers a definite solution for the problem of supplying the country's demand for starches of all kinds.

As a stock feed, the sweet potato isn't the equal of corn by volume or weight. It's about the equivalent of barley. Fed raw, it takes about four or five bushels to do the good of one bushel of corn, but the yields of sweet potatoes per acre have now been stepped up so that instead of getting a mere 100 bushels to the acre, soil chemists have increased the yield to as high as 300 bushels.

Also, stockmen have found that by feeding sweet potatoes with alfalfa, the rate of gain in fattening animals for market is as high as 50 per cent faster than when the usual corn diet is used exclusively. For beef and mutton, the potatoes are fed raw. For hogs and poultry potatoes have to be cooked.

Where the agricultural economists figure the potato stock feed concerns of nutritionists studying the national human health has been in the rural areas of the south to drink more milk and eat more butter and cheese, it is necessary to go right to the beginning and figure out something for the cows to eat, so they'll give milk. Cotton seed is good stock feed, but with the reduction in cotton acreage, the supply of cotton seed has also been reduced. The sweet potato is one answer to that problem.

INVITES YOU TO ATTEND
OUR BIG

2nd Anniversary SALE

We Reserve the Right to Refuse Sale To Other Stores, and To Limit Quantities

In October, 1939, we opened for business in the store, pictured above, which had a 25-foot frontage.

In October, 1940, having outgrown this small space, the store was enlarged to its present size, with full 50-foot frontage, which enabled us to add greatly to our stock of groceries.

The two pictures to the right show the modern store, as it appears today, after recent improvements have been completed, just prior to our Second Anniversary Sale.

It is due to the splendid patronage of the people of Ranger that this expansion, which adds to your shopping convenience, has been made possible, and to you, our customers, goes much of the credit for what success we might have attained.

Saturday afternoon, beginning at 3:30, we will hold the first Grocery Auction ever held in Ranger. All the proceeds from this sale will go to Ranger High School Athletic Fund. Attend this Auction Sale. Bid on the Baskets of Groceries. Get Your Groceries at Your Own Price and Help the Bulldogs.

1,736 Educational Institutions Take A Part In State NYA

AUSTIN. — Eighty-six colleges and 1,650 secondary schools in Texas have been approved to participate in the NYA College and Graduate and School Work Programs during the current school year, according to J. C. Kellam, state NYA administrator. He said an additional four hundred secondary schools have been recommended for participation by the County Replacement Committees and are expected to qualify.

Through 9,161 NYA jobs in secondary schools and 4,489 in colleges, approximately twenty thousand young people in the State between the ages of 16 and 24, inclusive, will be enabled to stay in school this year. In the allotment of these jobs particular attention has been given to the needs of schools within defense areas to care for increased enrollments brought about by the influx of workers. Emphasis also has been placed upon the needs of schools within crop failure areas and within areas along the Gulf of Mexico recently hit by a hurricane.

School officials in each community are responsible for the selection of these students for employment in NYA jobs and for placing them at work in suitable types of activities. Students are selected to participate in the NYA Student Work Program upon the basis of proved need and of demonstrated scholastic ability. In secondary schools they receive from $3 to $6 a month, in colleges from $10 to $20, and as graduate students in colleges from $10 to $30.

"Although they are required to work a given number of hours each month, in addition to the time spent at their regular studies, NYA students have maintained better than average grades," the State Youth Administrator pointed out.

CASE OF JUDY ALLEN CHAPTER XX

THE brighter light did not come on as Judy hurried to get her brown calico dress fastened around her. Her eyes were dark smudges in her face and the russet hair gleamed faintly in the meager outside bulb.

"Phil," she called softly, forgetting that she might sing, dance or yell because there were no other feminine guests of the city tonight.

The man who stood behind the matron was not Phil. He was a tall young man in a brown aviator's suit. There was no laughter in his eyes now and his firm chin looked weary.

"I imagine the sky was nice tonight, Sandy," Judy addressed her visitor. "My star patch wasn't bad."

"Would you like to enter Miss Allen's cell?" the accommodating matron asked. "Bein' as you are to be married, I don't see why you shouldn't be together."

The matron unlocked the door of Judy's cell and flung it back. Sandy closed it immediately. "I'm afraid you've got the wrong man. Funny I had the same idea once upon a time." His lips twisted slightly. "She got away from me."

"You mean she jumped from an airplane to escape you?" the woman's voice queried. "Then what was the man like that she wanted?"

"A ten-minute egg. Not good on toast," Sandy supplied. "You've spoiled everything now," Judy answered. "Think of my job!"

"Your job?" She was aware that his eyes narrowed, tried to pick out her features in the dusky cell, gave up. When he spoke again his voice was gentle, disappointed, impersonal. "I thought you stepped into the empty spaces because you wanted to save your marriage after I'd made such a mess of everything. I didn't understand your by-line was so important to you."

"Sandy, you're wrong—" "Never mind, Judy. But I'm rather glad I caught on in time. I'd want any wife I claimed to wear my name. I'll get you out of this, anyway, and let you trot back to Phillip."

He turned swiftly and Judy heard the outer door at the entrance close after him. The matron had hurried ahead to open the heavy gate.

LEFT alone, she did not remember the details. She wrapped herself in the blanket and laid down on her cot.

She looked at the slim watch set in blue and white sapphires, a birthday gift from Phil. She had intended to remove it from her wrist but Miss Mattie's arrival had interrupted. The watch had stopped in the high altitude. She would not know that it was morning until the matron came again.

Meantime a rat ran around the cell and escaped through a hole. She could hear it scratching somewhere near and moved closer to the wall.

Oh, this was a thousand times worse than falling into space on your back! When she reached her father and Phil, this jail would apologize. The rat ran back and this time her scream was so terrified, so frenzied, that steps came running.

"What's bein' pulled off?" the warden's huge voice asked. "Another drunk seein' purple pigs?"

"Purple pigs! It's a rat!" Judy explained. "Lock me up anywhere! Anywhere! I'll die here! I know I will!"

"It's just Peter, a nice fellow. We all know him around here. When you get your breakfast he'll be mighty pleased if you do some dividing." The rotund warden chuckled and walked away.

"Help! Help! You dumb, inefficient..." Judy's voice stopped. What did it matter that she yelled? Nobody cared.

"JUDY! Judy! Judy darling!" That was Sandy's voice. That was Sandy, too, trying to break down the gateway leading into the police reception room.

She fainted away then, quickly, completely, and did not regain consciousness until the matron came with a small platter. Common sense told Judy that she had

R. O. T. C. unit is part of the University's program of keeping step with national defense. Boys enrolled in the course are given training modeled after that of Annapolis.

John E. Bourdeau of Ranger will don the uniform of naval cadet soon to begin the four-year march toward a commission as an ensign. During that time, he will study navigation, tactics, ordnance and gunnery, and history of the navy.

At least one summer cruise on a U. S. ship is compulsory, and another one is optional. On cruise, the cadets receive minimum pay. Last summer, fifty University students got their first taste of sailing on a Gulf cruise, with the Corpus Christi Naval Station as a base.

The new members of the R. O. T. C. unit will join 88 sophomores out of 110 starters who completed the first year's course last spring. Of the total number, three will be nominated next April to take an entrance exam for the Annapolis Naval Academy. Nominees compete with naval cadets from all over the nation, and only twenty may become Annapolis plebes. Captain H. W. Underwood, commander of the Austin unit, is installing a special course for the top-ranking men in his unit, to groom them for the exam next spring. Naval cadet Bourdeau will also be eligible for membership in the Naval R. O. T. C. club, which sponsors extracurricular activities for its members, including participation in the University's intramurals program.

been out a matter of seconds, but the strange whirring in her head, the dimness that tried to discover where she was and why, lengthened the seconds into a long vista. "Give somebody named Peter the food," she murmured. "And let me wait some place else."

Her request was granted. She was placed in a wider cell which was shut off from Peter's domain. She was given fresh water with which to wash her face. "Miss Judy Allen, associate editor of Under Twenty, that popular fashion magazine for girls, is now seen splashing cold water on her face," she mimicked, following outlines from her magazine's advertising.

"Miss Allen was in jail at the time the picture was made." The matron came later with more information. The Police Court was meeting and Judy was to appear.

"Just as soon as I change to my white dress," she answered and began to take off the brown one. "But why?"

"Haven't you observed, my dear, that men fall for the fragile and helpless? Let me wear riding clothes and I'd get two months in your jug."

Talking like this kept up her courage. Policemen, as she knew them, were kind. They chatted with her when she passed them at certain corners. If any of her friends knew where she was—well, they would know most any minute now.

SLIM, very young, not half as brave as she looked, hobbling along on one foot, Judy went with the matron. "My father is also holding court today," she said. "I'll ask the judge to let me telephone him."

She knew that Sandy's face looked ill with worry as she passed him. He leaned to say, "Chin up, Judy. I'm taking the blame. I'll take the rap—What a crazy fool I was!"

His face was stern, cold, critical. "You planned such a nice jaunt, Sandy," Judy heard her voice answering. "Too bad your plans miscarried."

If he thought he could tie life into knots and blow them apart, he might as well begin to learn better right now.

Then she heard her name. "Case of Municipal Airport versus Judy Allen."

al utility building. Two hundred workers are now rushing these to completion.
The research plant is one of three. It will offer facilities for specialization in aerodynamic problems, and the study of planes in actual flight as well as under controlled laboratory conditions.
Wind in the largest of the three tunnels will travel at approximately 600 miles an hour. The stream will be produced by two huge propellers, each driven by a 13,500-horsepower electric motor.
The method used in these tunnels will be the reverse of the ordinary flying. The planes will be held stationary with the wind moving past them.
Immediate, practical problems of military air strength will constitute the major part of the work at the laboratory.
New designs of planes submitted by the army and navy will receive preliminary tests in model form. After the actual plane has been tested in the air by military pilots, it will be returned to the laboratory for possible improvements.
Problems of performance, stability and control are the main ones that will be solved.
Based upon recordings from their intricate system of meters, scales and other devices, laboratory technicians may change the position and shape of wings, alter streamlining of the tail assembly and other sections of the fuselage. Even such details as the type of the cowl and the radiator will come under examination.
The laboratory was named after Dr. Joseph S. Ames, a former president of Johns Hopkins University and for many years chairman of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

More Wild Ducks In Refuge In Dakota
MISMARCK, N. D.—North Dakota is becoming more popular with wild ducks.
Wesley D. Parker, manager of the Sullys Hill National Game Preserve, reports more than 15,000 wild ducks were observed nesting on 16 easement refuges in nine counties.
He said during 1940 there were only about 3,600 ducks on these areas. Improved water, food and cover conditions were believed responsible for the increase.

Big Laboratory To Test Planes
MOFFETT FIELD, Cal. Completion in the near future of the $10,000,000 Ames Aeronautical Laboratory here will provide assurance that American airplanes in the future will be the best in the world.
With construction started only a year ago, work on the big plant has been pushed to a point where two 72-foot wind tunnels are 16 feet in diameter and are capable of testing large plane models.
A third tunnel to be constructed will be the largest in the world, exceeding the present record holding tunnel at Langley Field, Va. It will be approximately 40 by 80 feet at its testing section and will handle bombers.
The plant will consist of a large group of buildings of which the flight research hangar will be the largest. Others will be a science building that will house instrument shops, laboratory and drafting rooms, and a shop and gener-

Be Glorified by GOSSARD

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK—Baseball succeeds despite those at its head. Barney Dreyfuss made that observation years ago, and it remains true.

Here is Larry MacPhail, for example, trying to crowd 150,000 people into the 35,000 seats of Ebbets Field for the world series, with Yankee Stadium and its additional 50,000 pews a nickel subway ride away.

Pride in home and league is a fine thing, but it doesn't make much sense when there is all that business lying around and everybody crazy to see a show for which they waited 21 years.

GIANTS aren't the only club the Brooks kept in the National League this season. A sell-out for the Sunday double-header in Philadelphia swelled the Bums' road attendance to more than a million. The Bums even had the trade excited in St. Louis, which is something. More than 10,000 beat it from Brooklyn to Philadelphia for the week-end. You never saw anything like it.

The Cardinals didn't deserve to win the National League pennant. Neither did the town of St. Louis, where only handfuls turned out to see the Red Birds make their fight. The Cardinals muffed opportunity after opportunity because they went into a batting slump when they needed base hits most. They batted only a little more than .200 when the heat was on. It was the pitching of Ernie White, Howard Pollet and Morton Cooper which kept them there or thereabouts.

Meanwhile, the Beautiful Bums were acting as though the first eight innings didn't count in one nerve-wracking hair-raiser after another.

NATIONAL LEAGUE umpiring really got funny, and so were some of the accounts of the Bums' games on the road. White committed two balks in the St. Louis series, one with the potential winning run on third.

"Well, maybe he did balk," Umpire Al Barlick told Leo Durocher, "but it would be a shame to call one on him at this stage of such an important game."

"Neutral observers agreed that Hugh Casey balked in Pittsburgh," reads one account of the Bums' loss there, "but at the same time insisted that in such a vital spot in a game so important to the pennant race, victory should not have been handed out on so technical and so minor a rule."

Maybe they ought to just tear up the book when a race gets tight.

Clover Farm Is Having A Second Anniversary Sale

Lester Crossley's Clover Farm Store is celebrating its second anniversary of business in Ranger, with a big grocery sale this week.

In addition to the grocery sale an auction of baskets of groceries will be held in the store Saturday afternoon, with all the proceeds from this auction going to the Ranger high school football team.

Two years ago this October the Clover Farm Store was opened in the building at one corner of Main and Marston Streets. At the time of the opening the store occupied a 25-foot front, but after several months of operation it was found that the building was entirely too small, and an additional 25 feet was added, making the store 50 feet wide on the Main Street side.

Just prior to the start of the second year of business the interior of the store was remodeled, with vegetable display counters being renovated and other improvements being made.

Twice in the two year period the market department has been enlarged and new fixtures added, making it one of the most complete meat markets in Ranger. All customers of the store, and all who do their buying in Ranger have been urged by Lester Crossley to visit his store during the Second Anniversary Sale.

These officers will be installed at the next meeting Tuesday, Oct. 7th, when the regular weekly meet and luncheon will be held at the club house.

Again we want to remind all Ranger golfers, that the Albany country club golf team will be in Ranger, Sunday next for a match with our golfers. Matches will start out promptly at 1 o'clock, so all players expecting to participate will please be on time.

Efforts have been made to have the Albany team bring their lady golfers, so that our ladies may have a match also. This will prove of much interest.

We also make the request that more boys come out Sunday as there has been a shortage of caddies for sometime and with the additional players down from Albany we will need plenty of boys.

Hen Breaks Record As Egg Producer

By United Press

STEPHENVILLE, Texas—A hen owned by a San Antonio poultry farm has broken a world's record for egg production.

The championship was transferred at the end of the annual John Tarleton Agricultural College International egg-laying contest.

The new title-holder, competing against more than 1,000 hens, turned out 343 eggs during the 357-day contest period.

Although more eggs were laid by the two previous record-holders, the San Antonio hen produced a greater volume by weight.

This feat gave her a record total of 376.25 points.

The hen is an English single-comb White Leghorn, as was Lady Temple, the bird which first set a new world mark in a John Tarleton contest with 345 eggs in 357 days for a total of 371.35 points. Lady Temple lost her title to another hen in another contest.

The owner of the new champion said he dared all comers, "including radio and screen comedians," to go her one better.
