10,000 Delegates Expected To Be At Safety Conference

CHICAGO—Cops and corporation executives, firemen and foremen, laborers and legislators, engineers and educators will be among 10,000 delegates who will come to Chicago from all parts of the country next week (October 6-10) for the 30th National Safety convention in the world.

The National Safety Council, which sponsors the Congress, announced today that advance reservations are the heaviest in the long history of the event, and that part of the program is to be moved to the Congress Hotel because the Stevens Hotel, world's largest, is unable to accommodate it.

The intense interest in the national defense aspects of this year's Congress is reflected, the Council said, in advance reservations for the annual banquet October 8, when Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox will speak. His address will be carried throughout the nation on a coast-to-coast network of the National Broadcasting Company at 10 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

Nearly 2,000 banquet reservations have been received, jamming the grand ballroom of the Stevens and overflowing into the foyer and nearby dining rooms.

The Congress theme of "Help Defense—Stop Accidents" will run through the entire program of 162 sessions. Most of the 552 program participants will emphasize the emergency safety problems growing out of national defense and the quickened tempo of activity in every walk of life.

The Congress assumes added significance this year as the opening gun in the Emergency Safety Campaign requested by President Roosevelt. An impressive ceremony at the first Congress session will launch officially this nationwide effort to halt a steady increase in accidents that is hampering the national defense program.

In addition to Secretary Knox, other headline speakers at the Congress will be B. C. Heacock, chairman of the board of Caterpillar Tractor Company and assistant to the Undersecretary of War; U. S. Senator Alexander Wiley from Wisconsin, a member of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee; T. M. Girdler, chairman of the board of Republic Steel Corporation; Rear Admiral R. R. Waesche, Commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard, and Leland Olds, chairman of the Federal Power Commission.

The phases of safety covered by the Congress program include industrial, traffic, home, farm, school, aeronautical, marine and railroad. Special attention will be paid this year for the first time to such problems as prevention of sabotage, handling of explosive and incendiary bombs, replacement and training of new workers as the result of the draft, and traffic control in blackouts.

The Institute of Traffic Engineers again will hold its annual convention in conjunction with the Congress.

Indian Panhandlers Bite the Duke for Two-Bits

Even on their Alberta, Canada, ranch, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor can't get away from fans and cameramen. These Indians, it turned out, wanted cash, not autographs. "Need money for tea. Need money for coffee. Need money for flour," they said. "You boss, you pay." The duke parted with a quarter, then told red men to vanish.

GERMANS MAKING GAINS ALONG THE FRONT TO MOSCOW AND TO DONETS

Contract Is Let For Buildings At Camp Wolters

CAMP WOLTERS, MINERAL WELLS, Texas—The War Department awarded the Ramey Bros., Inc., of Amarillo the contract for the construction of five buildings for the 156th station hospital Tuesday at Camp Wolters, largest of the nation's four infantry replacement centers, according to Captain Thomas G. Gammie, Contracting Quartermaster.

The Amarillo firm entered a bid of $37,639 which was the lowest of the eleven construction companies which participated. The order to proceed was issued Tuesday and the completion date set for December 5, 1941.

The list of buildings for the 156th station hospital include one 172-man mess hall; one company administration and storehouse building; one administration and utilities and two 63-man barracks.

Buildings for this unit will be constructed on a site south of the Corps Area Service Command in the northwest section of a huge cantonment and will not be a part of the cantonment hospital. The new station hospital will be a tactical unit.

A. A. Ramey, president of the Ramey Bros., Inc., arrived at Camp Wolters early Tuesday and immediately went into a conference with the contracting quartermaster and other officers connected with the CQM office. Actual construction work will be started Monday, according to Mr. Ramey. C. E. Mathis of Amarillo will be in charge of the Camp Wolters office. This is the first national defense project for the Amarillo concern.

Hitler's all out offensive broke through the Eastern Front in a great battle of encirclement against the crack Red Army defending Moscow today and brought new Russian proposals that Great Britain strike decisively at the Axis in Western Europe.

The Germans claimed destruction of the bulk of the Russian Central Front armies was assured, while Moscow admitted that some panzer forces had broken through but said they were meeting savage resistance which forced Hitler to throw in reserves because of huge losses.

The seriousness of the German threat was emphasized by renewal of suggestions in Moscow for Britain to undertake military action against the Axis in Western Europe, which was reported weakened by mustering of 3,000,000 troops and "virtually the entire luftwaffe" on the Eastern front.

Both Moscow and Berlin reported the most intense hand-to-hand and tank and artillery fighting in the Vyazma sector, only 130 miles from the Russian capital and around Bryansk, 210 miles to the southwest.

The Red Army claimed important gains on the Leningrad front and the Germans said the push into the Donets War industrial basin continued after destruction of the Russian defenders.

On the basis of reports from the capitals it appeared that the Vyazma battle might go far toward deciding the success or failure of Hitler's bid to break the Red Army and to reach Moscow before winter. The Nazi high command said that "several" Russian armies were encircled due west of Moscow on the Smolensk railroad. This indicated gains of 70 or 75 miles in six days of the new offensive, if the German claims were correct.

If the Berlin reports are confirmed the position of the Red army has become desperate and the abandonment of Moscow seems almost certain. It is obvious, however, that the Russians are still fighting furiously as an organized army and the encirclement is still comparatively weak, or is not yet complete.

Eastland Boy Rates High At Texas U.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 8.—Definitely "in a class by themselves" are the eleven University of Texas students who, out of a group of more than two thousand freshmen, managed to pass a special examination for advanced standing in English.

The eleven freshmen, including Virgil Seaberry of Eastland, passed the exam after having first placed in the highest 10 per cent of the group taking a preliminary English test and in the highest 25 per cent from a preliminary psychological exam—both required of the entire freshman class.

The advanced standing given these students enables them to skip the first semester of English 1, a required course of every student in the University. They are thus free to add an elective course to their studies for the first term.

Eastland Man Gets His Naturalization Papers At Abilene

David K. Klassen of Eastland, who was born in Russia and immigrated to the United States in 1921, was among 13 who were naturalized in federal court at Abilene before Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson.

They were told by Judge Davidson that the oath, among other things, obligates them to uphold and defend the constitution of United States. "The deed you hold to your property is your right or title to that property; correspondingly, the constitution is your deed or title to many personal rights," he declared.

"Among the latter are life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. The constitution forbids taking of life, liberty or property without due process of law.

"What is the difference between the absolute government of Germany and that of that nation? It is in origin of that absolute power. In Germany, the fuhrer may proclaim law; in the United States, the president must ask congress to enact the laws.

"Most striking difference, however, lies in the judiciary, which in this nation guards your rights by prohibiting their loss except by due process of law.

"He that will not defend those rights is not worthy of having them," he concluded.

Information Given Teachers Of County By Superintendent

The following information has been issued by County Superintendent T. C. Williams, to the trustees and teachers of Eastland County schools:

The first month of Eastland County School session 1941-1942 closed on the week of October 3. All teachers are required under House Bill No. 38 to take the oath of office required of all other officials.

School boards have regular meeting date at the end of each school month to approve all bills legally drawn against school funds. All teachers' salaries and all current bills are paid monthly without discount.

Unusual interest is manifested in organization and instruction in schools. The 12th grade system is being introduced without friction and with interest since new text books are adopted and a more definite and reasonable year's work is outlined.

Most of those schools that did not have hot lunch programs have introduced them for the schools. Very few schools in the county are without hot lunch programs. In addition to the advantages of a balanced diet for the child at the noon lunch, this program has great educational value. The public, generally, is invited to stop in at any of the schools at the lunch period and see the program in operation.

More than 40 buses and cars have contracted to transfer children to schools. All of these buses must be made safe for transporting children. Each must be inspected by a State Patrol Officer. Eastland County buses rank high in these inspection reports. Buses in Eastland county are in excellent condition.

Visual Education program is in operation. The office of the County Superintendent furnishes pictures and machine to any educational group free of cost.

Control—How'll You Have It?

Who will not control himself must be controlled. If everybody could, or would, control himself in his relations with other people, there would not need to be a single policeman in the world.

Policemen, the world has regretfully found, are necessary. Why? Because there are a certain number of people who cannot, or will not, exercise such control over themselves and their acts as make others reasonably safe.

Why is a free country free? Because, by and large, its people have managed to exert enough self-control, self-discipline so that their affairs are run without continual control from outside, or above.

The American people now have a magnificent opportunity to show themselves worthy of freedom from strict control. The country admittedly faces certain dangers, and not the least of them is the danger of runaway prices and inflation.

There is talk of government price-fixing, government setting of wages, government limitations on profits. Why? Because if there are no limitations on those things, inflation is inevitable, a common disaster dragging all down with it. The state is bound to protect against such disasters in one way or another.

Nobody wants complete state control. Farmers don't want state-set prices. Workers don't want state-set wages, to say nothing of state-set hours and job locations. Manufacturers don't want state-set limits on profits, any further controls. How to avoid them?

Self-control seems to be the only way. The farmers must not object to release of agricultural surpluses, even though that keeps prices down, and they must resist that hankering for $2 wheat. The workers must not strike for arbitrary reasons, reasons connected only with politics and union administration; only as a last resort to protect their position in relation to a cost of living that has already risen. The manufacturers must not seek extraordinary profits, or try to corner defense business at the expense of the small producer. The ordinary consumer must not rush to buy goods produced in competition with armament; he must reserve his spare spending power by buying Defense Bonds.

Those are hard words, but true words. If self-restraint of this kind is not exercised, control must come from some other source, and nobody, not the farmers, not the workers, not the employers, will like it.

There is only one way to avoid centralized control in times like these—that is by exercise of rigorous self-control.

Fall leaves are so beautiful they seem almost as wonderful as those we colored in kindergarten.

Now is the time when your small son would rather be right tackle than president.

SANDY'S SACRIFICE
CHAPTER XXIII
THE world had not been a completely terrible place as long as Sandy was there. Not so frightening. Not so lonely. True, she had refused to see him, had banged doors in his face.

Yet all of the time she had known that he was within call, or that he would return. He had caused all this trouble because he loved her and had believed she loved him.
Now he was gone... She would take the door in her heart marked Sandy and lock it forever. She would throw the key high, through the upper windows that fringed the cells, and maybe a stranger would pick it up, or kick it into the sewer. She never would know, she never would care.
She had hoped that Sandy would stand watch, then she remembered that he had contributed to her criminal record. Quite probably he had gone off to Peg. New papers were brought in and she studied pictures, read stories, and cried a little. It was foolish to cry for someone whom you didn't want, and who didn't want you. Funny to be crying for two people. She grinned a little, remembering that she was saying goodbye to Philip, too.
She wiped her eyes and leafed through the newspapers again. Calico dresses were selling for $1.59. That was nice. Hers was bordered in rick-rack. Hers probably came to $1.79. She should feel well dressed.

THE courthouse clock across the street gave four long gongs. From the upper window Judy could see three marble angels upholding the clock. Nearby, church chimes sounded a medley of hymns.
"Long distance call for you, Miss Allen," a turnkey said. She stepped from the unlocked cell and went to the booth reserved for prisoners who had friends who kept up the relationship.
"New York City calling," the silvery voice of a distant operator answered Judy's hesitant "Hello."
"Is this Judy Allen?"
"Yes, I'm Judy Allen."
"Judy darling!" A woman's voice enthused.
"Oh, Miss Barnard! Then you've been reading the papers, too?" She tried for lightness that did not come. "Am I fired?"
"Fired? You better knock that idea into a cocked hat. You're promoted! To one of the two associate editors. We need a column on courage for girls and you're the one to do it. Features are on your schedule, but no collecting hats and gloves..."
"Miss Barnard, you're peaches and cream and caviar, but I'm doomed here. My family won't bail me out and won't appear before the court tomorrow. I'm stuck here for 50 years."
"Don't worry. They'll come across or I will. Judy, I've always wanted to go to jail, but crashing turn him in since nobody else would.

That was something she couldn't do, she discovered. The courts, one and all, wouldn't listen to her because she was under local jurisdiction. Had she been turned over to the aviation commissioners immediately, she could have been released and a search warrant issued for Sandy.
For a trembling moment, half ecstatic, half fearful, she wondered if the gay young aviator intended to use the money for her bail. What if he had thought of this? Maybe Peg had told him her family would pay the bond and save a pride that already was page one stuff everywhere.
JUDY felt better as she returned to the cell, narrow cage that had been her home for so many days.
It was good to know that her contact with the outside world had been re-established. Good to know that her magazine wanted her. For a fleeting moment she thought of Sandy. It was so unlike him to let her down.
Maybe he was asking the Gordons to help him so he could increase his $1000 and help her. Yes, that was it—only she would never accept help from a "red" man. Sandy could take that rushing cross-country flight.
She went to sleep and did not waken until the matron summoned her for the opening of court. For a moment she remembered Sandy, tried to hate him, wondered why she couldn't, then followed the matron.
(To Be Concluded)

NEW YORK.—Connie Mack picks the Yankees to bust the Beautiful Bums in six games.
"The Yankees have every natural advantage," points out the venerable leader of the Athletics.
Mack believes the Cardinals would have given the New Yorks more trouble. That is because of the Red Birds' three fine left-handers—White, Pollet and Lanier.
The Yankees themselves feel the same way about it. They, like most everybody else, consider the Cardinals—at full strength—considerably stronger than the Brooklynns.
Most baseball men say the Cardinals would have won the pennant by 10 games but for their unprecedented string of injuries.
YANKEES are happy they didn't. They'll get more money if the subway series against what they rate softer competition Travel is eliminated. They are glad to see Whitlow Wyatt, Freddie Fitzsimmons, Dixie Walker, Curt Davis and other old blokes on the Flatbush payroll get a loser's share.
Mack stresses the fact that the Yankees have more hitting and world series experience, especially among the pitchers who have pitched and won these important October games.

MACK asserts that pitching is even more valuable than the estimated 75 per cent in a short series.
He advises you not to be fooled by the Yankees being without a 20-game winner. He contends that is the result of Joe McCarthy having so many good pitchers he was able to use them to the best advantage.
But with the Bums boasting Wyatt, Higbe, Davis, Fitzsimmons and Casey, Connie Mack, with all his baseball knowledge, can't get a violent argument across the bridge.
Brooklyn fans went wild over grabbing the National League pennant. One time when the Dodgers were glad to get the "bum's" rush.
Too much money will make you unhappy—unless you have it yourself.
The proper time to buy coal seems to have been about 10 years ago.
How to be fair though? 40 is demonstrated by Hedy Lamarr, made up that way for a new picture.

Jackets Have 4-0 Edge In Conference Games

LOCALS HAVE NEVER BEATEN STEPHENVILLE

26 To 20 Game of 1938 Was The Closest, Most Thrilling Of The Series.

If the Bulldogs can defeat Stephenville it will not only be the first time the Bulldogs have ever turned the trick in conference play, but also the second conference win since 1934—believe it or not.

The history of the Ranger-Stephenville series, if the six games they have played in 10 years could be called a series, dates back to 1931, when Stephenville was competing in Class B and Ranger in Class A. In that year the Bulldogs won over the Yellow Jackets by a score of 67 to 0. The teams had played practice games before, however, with Ranger winning. Then in 1933 the two teams met again, with Ranger winning 34 to 0.

It was in 1937 that Stephenville stepped up to Class A competition, which is now called Class AA, and since then the Bulldogs have not defeated the Jackets, though there have been two close games played between the two teams.

In 1937, when Stephenville had a strong team in the Oil Belt and was nosed out of competition in the conference room vote after winning a tie for first place with the Abilene Eagles, the Jackets defeated the Bulldogs by a score of 37 to 7.

The following year one of the most thrilling games played in Ranger in years, and the best of the Stephenville-Ranger series, was played in Ranger. The lead switched several times, and in the closing minutes of play Ranger led by 20 to 19. On fourth down, after the timekeeper had stated there were but three seconds left to play, Stephenville took over on downs and then kicked goal. It developed then that there were three minutes of playing time left, instead of three seconds.

In 1939 the two teams met again, this time in Stephenville, and a hard-fought duel ended in a 13 to 6 victory for the Jackets, with Ranger threatening several times to score but always ending their drives just short of a touchdown.

Again in 1940 Stephenville came up with a district winner, while the Bulldogs had a young and green team, and the Jackets scored their first easy victory over the locals in two years. Now Stephenville has a more or less experienced team, though heavier than the Bulldogs, and it appears that for the first time since the 1933 meeting between the two teams the Bulldogs might have an even chance of holding their own with the Yellow Jackets.

The only conference win for the Bulldogs since they won the district championship in 1934 was administered to Eastland in 1933 by a score of 40 to 8. After that Eastland played in Class A while the Bulldogs remained in Class AA.

Four ties have been earned since the last successful Bulldog season, however, one a 6-to-6 affair with Cisco in 1936, two 0-to-0 ties with Brownwood in 1938 and 1939 and a 0-to-0 tie with Mineral Wells in 1939.

Putter Around the Country Club

By A. Poor Putter

The intercity golf match played Sunday between the Ranger golfers and the Albany golfers recalled the last matches played against Albany. These were just 10 years ago, the spring of 1931. We got out our scrap book and found some interesting figures—Ranger won the first match played March 22nd, 1931 at Ranger, 13 to 3. It is odd to note, that of the 16 Ranger players who played in that match only 2 are still left as members of the Ranger Country Club—H. H. VAUGHN and R. H. SNYDER. Incidentally both of these players won their matches in that match in 1931 and also won again last Sunday.

Then looking at the line up of the Albany players that came down here Sunday, we find only 3 players who played on the team 10 years ago, A. M. RUSS, R. L. TOLLETT and JOE LOWERY.

The second match played that year was with Albany at Albany. Albany won that match 13 to 9, and again H. H. VAUGHN and R. H. SNYDER were the only ones playing that still are members of the Ranger Club. VAUGHN again played ROY MATTHEWS, but lost his match. SNYDER played ed A. M. RUSS the same man he played last Sunday here and beat him then 3 and 2. Last Sunday he beat RUSS 2 and 1.

And again the same three players on the Albany team of 1931 are still playing, namely, A. M. RUSS, R. L. TOLLETT and JOE LOWERY.

Here's the standing of these 5 veterans, two on Ranger team and three on Albany:

H. H. VAUGHN played 3, won 2, lost 1; R. H. SNYDER, played 3, won 3, lost 0; A. M. RUSS, played 3, won 0, lost 3; R. L. TOLLETT, played 2, won 0, lost 3; JOE LOWERY, played 3, won 3, lost 0.

So from this we can see... JOE LOWERY of Albany has never been beaten by a Ranger player, and R. H. SNYDER of Ranger has never lost to an Albany player. It will be interesting to see the results of the return match to be played with Albany, October 19th at Albany. It should be noted in passing that POP EARNEST is another member of the Ranger country club at present, who was a playing member in 1931, but he didn't happen to play in either of the Albany matches.

Columbia Loses Combination

Columbia has lost a complete set of backs since practice started. Lined up in back of Center Don Snavely are, left to right: Paul Gormalni, Thornley Wood, Jr., Ken Germann and Leonard Will, the latter now in the air corps. Germann broke the little finger of his right hand catching a kickoff. Adam Spiegel broke his collar bone. Jack Kerouac left school to work.

Quite often we write something in this column with which everyone can't quite agree, and often, too, we are told about it. Of course this column expresses opinions, opinions of one man who is often haywire. Once in a while they are right. But not too often.

Monday afternoon we got a complaint we appreciated. Dr. Poswell complained that we didn't have a column in the paper Sunday. At least he missed the heading if not the writing. He didn't say which. And, at the time, we were laboring over copy for a column for Tuesday, trying to give the band a little boost, because we believe that the band deserves a lot of credit, though it doesn't get as many cheers as does the football team.

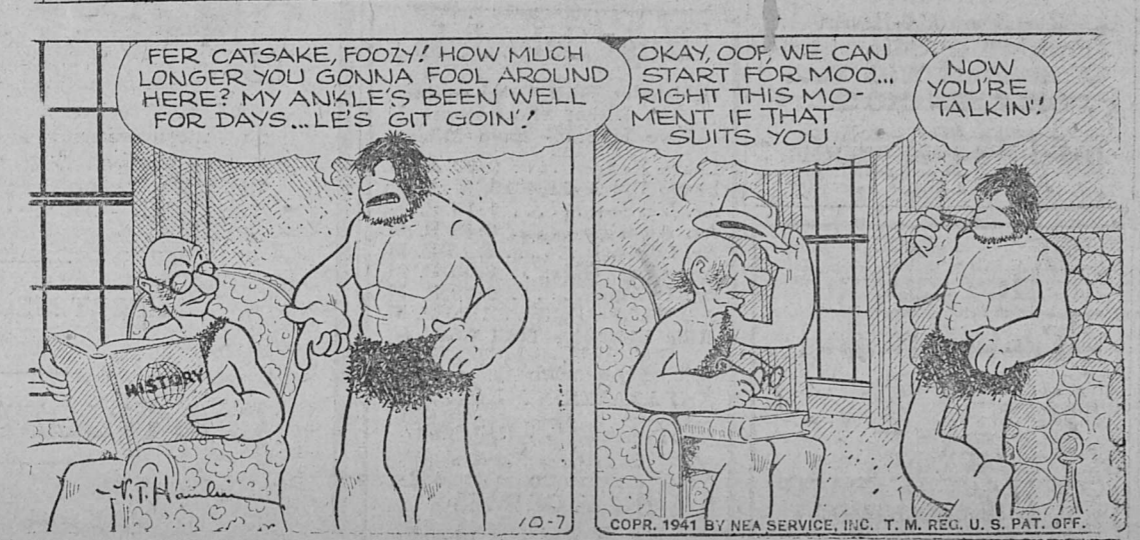

There were lots of fans who didn't agree with us when we kept saying that Weatherford would likely knock off the Bulldogs in their game. Our only reason for that was that the Bulldogs had met two real easy foes and had won, and we were afraid that they wouldn't realize how strong Weatherford was.

The same could be true now, because again the Bulldogs have won, this time from Clyde, which had a neat team, but not a strong one. Which might cause some to think that Stephenville would be easy. There is a good chance that the Bulldogs might take the Stephenville game. We were sure of it a while back, but just recently it has appeared to us that the Bulldogs haven't been having their hearts in the practice sessions and appear to be letting up. Maybe we are wrong, though.

Word comes from Brownwood not to sell the Lions short too quickly. The Lions play Ranger next week, and though they have lost their first three starts like the Republicans lost the last three presidential elections they are improving rapidly. Or so we are told.

Brownwood lost to Sweetwater 26 to 6 in a game in which six Brownwood fumbles were recovered by the Mustangs. Then they lost to Big Spring, 37 to 0, in a game in which the same number of fumbles went to Steers. In their last start they lost 47 to 7 against the strong Sunset High team from Dallas, and there was only one fumble, and that of a

ALLEY OOP

Copyright 1941. Licgett & Myers Tobacco Co.

The report is the Lions are beginning to get the hang of tricky plays their new coach has given them, and once they do they may go places.

Which reminds that Coach Jennings was trying out some tricky stuff on the Bulldogs, but so far they are like the Lions. They haven't gotten their timing down as yet. Maybe they will before the Stephenville game, because there were still some practice sessions left when we saw them last.

The Bulldogs will be without the services of Bill Brown, but the Yellow Jackets have lost their best center, which might even things up a little. And then, too, the Jackets may not have as good a replacement at center as the Bulldogs have for backfield positions. Anyway it should be a game worth seeing, so don't miss it.

One of the most thrilling games played on the local field in the past few years was a Stephenville-Ranger conflict in which the Bulldogs and Jackets swapped the lead several times, with the Jackets finally winning in the last two minutes by a score of 26 to 20. The following year the score was 13 to 6 in favor of Stephenville, but last year Stephenville, with a powerhouse team that won the district title, poured it on the Bulldogs 50 to 0.

It Takes More Than Uniform, Badge and Gun To Make Officers, Rookie Patrolmen Learn At School

AUSTIN, Texas—It takes a lot more than a uniform, badge and a pistol to make a Texas Highway Patrolman.

At 6 a. m. each weekday a bugle sounds in the big dormitory at Camp Mabry and 93 student Patrolmen roll out. By 7 o'clock they've dressed, had roll call and 15 minutes of calisthenics, and are ready for breakfast.

From 8 o'clock until noon they are drilled in a host of subjects presented through lectures and classroom demonstrations by instructors who are nearly all members of the Department of Public Safety. The studies range from history and geography to traffic control, psychology, criminal identification and investigation, criminal law and procedure, court demeanor, investigation of simulated crime scenes, and even a mock court trial.

Divided into four khaki-clad platoons, they spend an hour in snappy military drill on the big parade grounds before lunch. This teaches the cadets discipline, self-control and coordination, it was pointed out by State Police Director Homer Garrison.

The roar of motorcycles, the crack-spat of pistol and rifle fire, the glistening of perspiring bodies growing tough under rigorous physical training, and the increasingly fluid diction of embryo public speakers mark the afternoon sessions.

Next in order come one-hour periods each for recreation, dinner, and first-aid training. The day's grind ends at 9 p. m. after a two-hour study period, and then there's a free hour before taps is blown at 10 p. m.

The cadets entered school Sept. 1 after making the highest grades in statewide competition. Although each was examined by a

Soldier Libraries Being Replenished Through the WPA

By United Press
SAN ANTONIO, Texas—Uncle Sam's soldiers and defense industry workers at Brownwood, Galveston, Palacios, Abilene, Mineral Wells and other parts of Texas soon will have their libraries replenished with books from the WPA.

Arthur R. Curry, state director of the WPA project, announced that 4,500 WPA-bought volumes physician before submitting his application, 12 of the first 100 appointees were rejected when State Police doctors subjected them to a physical examination said to be as tough as the one given U. S. Army Air Corps cadets.

Predominantly college men and all between 23 and 35, they come from all walks of life. Among them are a school principal, a football coach, mechanic, ice plant operator, seismograph operator, tax collector, flying cadet, newspaper reporter, accountant, salesman, justice of the peace, and grocery clerk. Few have previous experience in law enforcement, because, as Colonel Garrison says, "the training they receive here is far above anything they've ever seen." And after five weeks of it, the cadets readily agree that Garrison puts it mildly.

Late this month the class will graduate. Sixty of the rookies will become Drivers License Examiners, the rest Highway Patrolmen. Then on Nov. 1 a second school will start, and the approximately 60 students in it will become Highway Patrolmen.

After graduation the rookie is placed on six-months probation and is assigned to work with an experienced man.

And throughout the training period and for as many years he remains in the organization, the rookie will hear three words constantly impressed upon his mind. They are the same three words that guide the actions of all present Patrolmen, and they form the motto that has won the Texas Highway Patrol a nationwide reputation: "Courtesy. Service. Protection."

At Fort Worth, Mineral Wells and Wichita Falls other WPA workers are employed to assist librarians whose readers have increased with the influx of defense workers and service men.

Workers have been added at the San Antonio Public Library and San Antonio Vocational and Technical School, at Fort Sam Houston and Dunean field, and at New Braunfels and Seguin. In South Texas, new librarians are at Fort Brown, the McCombs County Library and Fort McIntosh.

In West Texas, WPA library workers were added at Brownwood, Coleman, Santa Anna, and Abilene. Nine workers were added to the library staff at Fort Bliss in El Paso.

Books supplied by WPA range from light fiction through adventure and mystery thrillers to classics and reference works.
