BURGLAR IS CAPTURED IN RANGER CAFE

A burglar was captured by Ranger police early Thursday morning, as he ransacked Porky Pig, on Highway 80, Chief of Police Lee Ames stated today.

According to the Ranger chief of police, "Blackie" Ricker, who patrols the eastern part of the town, heard a noise in the cafe about 4 o'clock Thursday morning and called patrolmen Boyd and Britt, who participated in the arrest.

According to Chief Ames the man was found in the cafe, with a cigarette vending machine on the floor, which he was attempting to open. A peanut vending machine had already been broken and approximately $8 in pennies was in a paper sack on the floor nearby.

Several knives, forks and spoons had been bent by the burglar, Chief Ames stated, in trying to open the cigarette machine. He had broken the front glass, but was unable to reach the money box and was endeavoring to open the back of the machine when captured.

Chief Ames stated today that recent burglaries, in which several houses on Main Street were entered recently, might have been committed by the man who was captured.

No charges had been filed at noon, but Chief Ames stated he had notified County Attorney Earl Conner, and that charges would be filed as soon as possible.

Trinity Canal Is Called Justified

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Rep. John E. Rankin of Mississippi today told Mayor I. N. McCrary of Fort Worth that the $105,000,000 project for improving the Trinity River from Galveston Bay to Fort Worth was "more justified from the standpoint of national defense than the St. Lawrence Waterway."

Defense Quiz

Q. Who said: "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country?"

A. Nathan Hale, who gave his life for America, like great numbers of his fellow countrymen. We are only asked to lend our dollars for Defense Bonds and Stamps to defend the liberty for which they died.

Q. To what very large group of Americans does the Government look particularly for extensive buying of Defense Bonds and Stamps?

A. People in the middle and lower income brackets, where many of the most rapid increases in national earnings are taking place. This immense part of our population can be especially effective in reducing national purchasing power by buying Bonds and Stamps, thus aiding the country's defense program, while helping to keep down the cost of living.

Note—To buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, go to the nearest post office, bank, or savings and loan association; or write to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C. Also Stamps are now on sale at most retail stores.

Medical Branch of University Called Great Opportunity

GALVESTON, Texas — The greatest opportunity for development of a medical center since the establishment of the famous John Hopkins University lies in Texas today, with the prospective expansion of the University of Texas Medical Branch here, University President Homer P. Rainey told medical students and faculty.

Dr. Rainey predicted that "something phenomenal" is in store for the medical branch when people of Texas "really understand and appreciate the contributions a great medical center can make to their welfare."

"We are now convinced that the people of Texas really want a first class medical center and are willing to provide it reasonable and adequate support. Furthermore, there are foundations and wealthy individual Texas citizens who I am sure will come forward with substantial financial assistance for research and special developments that would not come from the funds."

Recent enlarged appropriations by the Texas Legislature for the Medical Branch have permitted University authorities to plan for expansion of every branch of the present teaching staff, doubling the faculty in some cases, and adding new branches of study. Part of the funds of each department will go for research into the causes, cure and prevention of particular ailments, he said.

FOUR SOLDIERS UNDER 10 TO 12 YEAR VERDICTS

The four escaped military prisoners from Camp Wolters, Mineral Wells, were assessed penalties of five to seven years at Weatherford Wednesday after entering pleas of guilty to charges of robbery with firearms before the district judge.

The accused men were sentenced to five years each on similar charges in 88th district court at Eastland Tuesday. At Eastland the four pleaded guilty to holding up W. T. Luton, cafe operator at Scenic Point near Ranger on Sept. 15. At Weatherford three of the men answered to the charge of having held-up Corp. James J. Leath, Company B, 59th Training Battalion, and stealing Leath's automobile on Sept. 15. Stinebaugh, one of the quartet, was charged with abducting Miss Lillian Hill of Fort Worth and Corp. Leath.

Roy Rankin and John Stinebaugh were sentenced to five years each at Weatherford, which added to the term imposed by the Eastland county jury gives them a total sentence of 10 years in the state penitentiary. Audley McBride and Walter Sakatis were sentenced to seven years each at Weatherford, which added to the Eastland county sentence of five years makes a total of 12 years each they will have to serve in the Texas State penitentiary.

Rhino Footprints Made 40 Million Years Ago Shown

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Forty million years ago a rhinoceros waddled to a water hole in what is now Wyoming—recently the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia put his footprints on display.

The tracks are imprinted in a 600-pound block of sandstone brought here by the academy's paleontological field party which spent two months digging in the Hat Creek Basin of Wyoming.

The party also reported finding the remains of three-toed horses, saber-tooth tigers, tiny camels and giant pigs.

The 40,000,000-year figure was arrived at through examination of the sandstone which placed the formation in the Oligocene period.

Prices Must Be Stabilized Is McDonald Opinion

AUSTIN.—"Congress must immediately stabilize commodity prices and industrial labor wages at fair levels if we are to accelerate defense production and prevent inflation," declared Commissioner of Agriculture J. E. McDonald today as he made plans to leave tonight for Washington by plane to attend an agricultural conference of governors and commissioners of agriculture.

Senator Elmer Thomas, (D-Okla.) Chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee on Parity Prices, called the meeting for October 9 and 10, at which time the committee will make plans for definite action in an effort to stabilize farm prices.

McDonald said "I heartily approve of President Roosevelt's recent veto of the 'Freezing Bill' which sought to arbitrarily remove from the market government stocks of wheat and cotton for the duration of the war." Fixing minimum prices is more practical, the Commissioner said.

Stabilization of wheat and cotton markets can be best effected if Congress will prohibit the sale of government stocks of wheat and cotton for less than $1.60 per bushel U. S. No. 1 wheat, f.o.b. mill centers or ports, and 22c for State government owned cotton 7-8 middling f.o.b. ports, thinks McDonald. This price, he says, would insure $1.50 wheat and 21c cotton, interior markets, which is a fair price in wartime and peacetime, and at this price the wheat and cotton farmer would receive around $1.70 per 8 hour day for his labor in growing wheat and cotton.

"Fortunately the government is in a position to stabilize prices because of the huge stocks of agricultural commodities under government ownership, and it will be very unfortunate if Congress does not use this stock immediately for this purpose."

NAZIS CLAIM RED ARMY IS BEING DEFEATED IN EASTERN FRONT FIGHTS

Hitler's mechanized legions, driving on Moscow, today, claimed to have trapped 1,000,000 Russian soldiers, broken the fighting power of the Red Army and to have blasted Britain's hopes of a winter war on two fronts.

London admitted the sweep of the Axis armies toward the Soviet capital and into the Ukraine was the gravest military crisis since Dunkirk, and that Britain was unable to deal any counterblows to Western Europe at this time.

But the Red Army fought on. Moscow dispatches said that Russian infantrymen with bottles of gasoline and grenades, had wrecked nazi tanks by the hundreds.

Season of Dengue Fevrr Here Now A Doctor States

AUSTIN, Texas.—This is the season for Dengue fever, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. Several cases of this disease have been reported to date and no doubt will continue to increase until the first frost.

Dengue is characterized by sudden onset, headache, and pain in the back and limbs, especially the joints. The fever is of short duration, but recovery is slow. While causing great discomfort, the disease is seldom fatal. However, the loss of time involved is a great economic factor. One attack is generally followed by immunity for a few years.

Dengue fever is caused by the bite of the same mosquito that transmits yellow fever. Those who have not studied the mosquito are unable to distinguish the different species. Even though certain mosquitoes may be incapable of causing diseases such as Dengue or malaria, they are very much a nuisance.

To prevent Dengue fever and other diseases transmitted by mosquitoes, all places where they propagate should be eliminated. All standing water should be drained or oiled, rain barrels screened, and cans or anything that will hold water should be destroyed. Houses should be screened with sixteen mesh screen. Community-wide mosquito campaigns will greatly aid in reducing Dengue fever and add much to the comfort of the citizens.

Youth's Receive Jobs Because of Training In NYA

Twelve boys, who received work experience at the National Youth Administration Boys' Resident Center in Ranger, are now employed by the North American Aviation Company at Grand Prairie, Texas.

During the month of September, 88 boys and girls assigned to NYA projects in Area 8, which embraces 10 counties in this immediate vicinity, secured private and public experience and a training gained through the National Youth Administration, the State Department of Vocational Education and the Independent School Districts. Texas State Employment Service assisted in placing youth in various positions with firms doing defense work. Four boys were placed at the Lufkin Foundry and Machine Company at Lufkin, Texas; six with the U. S. Maritime Commission at Boston, Mass.; and twenty-one received employment at Army Posts and Army Air Fields, of which five accepted Civil Service appointments at Camp Bowie and five are employed as cooks at Camp Wolters.

These youths have secured employment as a result of the experience and training offered by NYA, the State Department of Vocational Education and the Independent School Districts, in woodworking, radio, sheetmetal, machinist, airplane mechanics, cooking, construction, clerical, sewing, homemaking and hospital aid. The young men and women are receiving salaries ranging from $40 to $130 per month.

Young men and women who are interested in NYA work may make application at the National Youth Administration Office in the Eastland National Bank Building in Eastland.

Aviator Makes a Long Plane Trip; Tells of Maneuvers

By United Press

MISSION, Texas.—Lt. Thomas R. Vaucher went from Westover Field, Mass., to Savannah, Ga., and return without putting foot to the ground.

He left at dinner time and was back in Massachusetts for breakfast the next morning. The feat, he advised his parents in a letter, was made possible by an American "flying fortress."

The round-trip consumed 2,000 miles and 11 1/2 hours. When the giant bomber finally came to rest, it was 30 minutes ahead of schedule.

"We were to stay up 12 hours," Vaucher wrote, "but the field was getting foggy, so we cut it short." The letter was something of a surprise to the officer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Vaucher of Mission, who thought he had been sent to Louisiana for army maneuvers.

Vaucher didn't go—only one plane from his squadron did. But he had a second-hand eyewitness account of the exercises.

"Those who went down there (to Louisiana) said the war was really on in earnest," he wrote. "They said it looked like real war from the air and that with half a million men, it seemed the whole U. S. had turned out."

"Just think what it must be like when they get several millions together over in Russia."

Vaucher said the soldiers were described to him as "sun-tanned, whiskered and plenty tough—and the morale was high."

MESSAGE IS DELIVERED TO THE CONGRESS

Says Lifting of Other Bans May Be Necessary Soon To Get Goods To Allies.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—President Roosevelt, in a special message to congress this afternoon, urgently asked that the congress authorize immediate arming of American merchant vessels, declaring "we will not let Hitler prescribe the waters of the world upon which our ships may travel."

The president also declared that ultimately it will be necessary to "deliver American made goods under the American flag" to belligerent ports.

He recommended, therefore, that congress later consider repealing of Section 2 of the United States Neutrality law, and thus remove prohibitions which now prevent American vessels from going into belligerent areas.

"It is time for our country to stop playing into Hitler's hands and to unshackle our own," the president declared in the message today.

"Arming of our ships is a matter of immediate necessity and is of extreme emergency."

The message to congress, asking that restrictions of the neutrality law be repealed, was decided upon at a conference between President Roosevelt and administration leaders in congress earlier this week.

Battle of Shipbuilding Faces Long Odds In Drive to Offset Axis Sinkings at Sea

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Service Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—With the Navy poised to shoot on sight any axis "pirate" submarines or commerce raiders and with British, allied and neutral shipping losses for August only a little over 100,000 gross tons—the lowest since the war began, save only in the month of March, 1940—a good vantage point is afforded for an overall look at the shipping situation. There's a further interest in the subject, too, in view of the launching this month of the first three EC-2 Liberty ships which marks the real beginning of the American emergency shipbuilding effort.

According to the Maritime Commission, output of new ships in August was 84,000 gross tons. That's four times the output of August a year ago but it's still not quite equal to the total shipping losses for August of this year, a low month.

To get the correct picture of how inadequate that new output of 84,000 tons a month really is, you have to compare it with the average monthly shipping losses of 310,000 gross tons for the 24 months of the war. Or compare it with the peak losses of 580,000 tons for April, 1941, during the Grecian and Crete campaigns, and 540,000 gross tons lost during the Dunkirk evacuation of June, 1940.

THERE are no accurate or accepted figures on German and Italian shipping losses during the war, the British claims differing sharply with what the axis admits. Those losses, however, don't fit into this picture, whatever they are. It's the British, allied and neutral shipping loss that presents the problem and total losses in two years of war are 7,442,000 gross tons, of which 4,889,000 gross tons are British and 2,753,000 gross tons are allied and neutral. In round numbers, that represents about 1700 ships sunk.

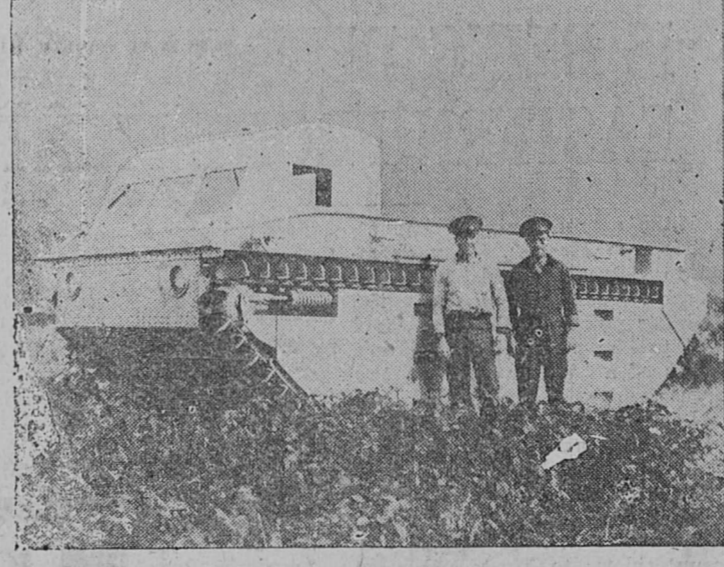

How close can the United States come to making up those losses? At the present time, this tonnage has gone to the bottom of the ocean is greater than the entire U. S. merchant marine in salt water. This U. S. seafaring merchant marine today is in round numbers 1200 ships of 7,000,000 gross tons. Of those ships, approximately 500 are in foreign commerce and 700 are in coastal trade. But all of them would not make up for the British, allied and neutral losses.

Two sources of supply are available to make up those losses. First is the seizure of German, Italian, Danish and other tonnage laid up in North and South American ports. The U. S. ship requisition act made 200,000 tons of this shipping available, and if Latin American republics take similar action, they will provide 500,000 tons more. But this total is equal to less than 10 per cent of the losses by sinking.

BIG source of supply must therefore come from the U. S. shipbuilding program now just beginning to roll, but which will really get going in 1942. The Maritime Commission schedule calls for the completion of 90 vessels, a million tons, in the first quarter of the coming year. For the second quarter, 146 ships of 1,400,000 tons. For the third, 154 ships of 1,646,000 tons. For the fourth, 184 ships of 2,000,000 tons. The total for the year under this schedule will be 574 ships of 6,046,000 tons.

If the prospective deliveries for the first quarter of 1943—220 ships of 2,270,000 tons are added to that 1942 total—then, and only then, will the ship losses begin to be equalized. But unless the submarine menace can be overcome completely, which is an obvious impossibility, a lot more tonnage is going to be sunk in these next 18 months.

MAKING AMERICA STRONG
HOW A NEW INDUSTRY STEPPED UP PRODUCTION OF "TOMMY GUNS" ***
MANUFACTURERS OF THE THOMPSON SUBMACHINE-GUN, USING MODERN PRODUCTION METHODS AND WITH THE AID OF SUB-CONTRACTING, HAVE IN 18 MONTHS INCREASED PRODUCTION OVER 30,000%
A DEADLY WEAPON - IT FIRES 600 SHOTS A MINUTE!
NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF MANUFACTURERS

This is one of a series of illustrated articles designated to inform the public of the progress being made by American industry in providing the weapons for national defense. The facts presented have been gathered in surveys of leading defense industries and from other authoritative sources.

The story of how private industry moved quickly into mass production of the deadly Thompson sub-machine gun—the famous "Tommy" gun—is one that well illustrates the amazing speed with which America's industrial plant is building the instruments for national defense.

The firm which had turned out the Tommy Gun in World War days was all but dissolved. Two and a half years ago, it was taken over by a manufacturing concern which also assumed the patents of the old company. For 18 years not a gun had been turned out.

Convinced of the imminence both of war abroad and the coming needs of the U. S. defense program, the new firm made plans for getting the Tommy Gun into mass production. Machine tools were ordered, steel and other materials were purchased, and a long list of machine units were bought. Sub-contractors were lined up, and today, only two and a half years later, production is up 30,000 per cent.

The company—most of whose executives are young men—attributes its remarkable success to foresight in anticipating machine tool and material requirements and a smooth-functioning system of farming out much of the work to a variety of sub-contractors.

The Tommy Gun is widely used by the British, both for home defense and fighting abroad, who think highly of it. The weapon is capable of firing more than 600 .45 calibre bullets a minute in the hands of a trained operator. The U. S. army tank corps also prizes this high-speed weapon. Two or more are mounted in each tank. They are said to be invaluable for disabled tanks. Motorcycles with Thompson sub-machine guns mounted on the handle-bars are also used by the U. S. mechanized forces.

TEAM ANXIOUS FOR VICTORY OVER OLD FOE

Victory Over Jackets Would Be First Conference Win Since 1938.

The Ranger Bulldogs go into the conference season Friday night at the Bulldog Stadium against the Stephenville Yellow Jackets, in what they hope will be their most successful season in years, and even a win over Stephenville would make it just that, because the Bulldogs have not won a conference game in 15 starts. The last conference game won was against Eastland in the first game of the 1938 season. Since then they have tied three games, two with Brownwood and one with Mineral Wells.

The locals will go into the Stephenville game in pretty fair condition, with the exception of Bill Brown, who suffered injuries in Weatherford and has been out since then with a hurt knee. There are several minor bruises, including a bruised wrist on Elder's passing arm, but which likely will be in good shape before the game starts, as it is nothing serious.

Coach Jennings is planning an all-out attack on Stephenville, in the hopes that his charges may be able to hold their conference foes of five years, against whom they have never scored a victory, and the entire team is anxious for a win. Contrary to early-season talk they are not thinking and speaking of their chances against other Oil Belt teams, but are concentrating on the Yellow Jacket game.

With the free substitution rule in effect it is now possible for a coach to switch his team on offense and defense, so if he has a good defensive player, who has not learned the fundamentals of offense, he can use him when the team's opponents have the ball and put him back on the bench when his team goes into action with the ball. This system is being used on professional teams, and could be made to work on high school squads. Coach Jennings has tried out all possible combinations

Bulldog linemen have gained a few pounds since the official weighing in process earlier in the season, though the gains have been slight. Backfield weights are not believed to have changed much.

Today the Bulldogs go through their last workout before the game starts Friday night, and the two coaches believe that they have the team in about the right condition, and the right attitude to put out their best game of the season, though it is admitted that the outcome of the game will depend largely on the line play and blocking, which has not been as hard and as successful in the last two games as it was against Gorman and Eastland.

Bulls and ends have been given a strenuous workout on passing plays and on defense against the tricky type of ball the Yellow Jackets play while charging practice by the linemen has been featured to some extent. With a hard-charging line and heads-up play by the blockers it is hoped that the Bulldogs can more than hold their own against the Yellow Jackets.

The two teams are pretty evenly matched in weight, with Stephenville having a slight edge, even though a few of the larger

Let's Be Gay About It, Say the People

The American people are spending more money to have fun than ever before.

Beginning in midsummer, an avalanche of cash has been pouring from American pockets into the tills of those who have amusement for sale.

"Variety," organ of the fun-vending world, describes the situation in its characteristic style as "terrific." It seems to be. For look what's happening:

Summer theatres, dedicated to deficits, disclosed surprising black figures. The first football games played to 90,000 people in Chicago, 52,000 in New York, and corresponding crowds elsewhere. Chicago's civic opera smashed all summer records with 811,000 people. Race tracks have been trying to keep people from being trampled to death in front of the betting windows. Distilleries report sales up 25 per cent over last summer, and the movies, looking for their annual summer slow season, have watched with joy attendance figures piling up to from 10 to 18 per cent above last year. The legitimate theatre, in those places where it still exists, is booming.

Even more thoughtful forms of diversion, like the sale of books, is up something like 20 per cent over last year. The fresh air and sunburn resorts have had their share from railroads carrying more passengers than ever before.

The first reason for all these things is, of course, that for the first time in many years, people have money to spend. Denied that pleasant sensation for a long time, they insist on spending it. So long as they spend it on matters not competing with national defense (and sunburn, movies, books, and football contests generally don't), who is going to say them nay? Nobody.

Does this indicate light-mindedness in the fact of growing realization of crisis in the nation's affairs? We think not. No people was ever more sorely beset, nor more bravely and grimly embattled than the British. Yet such diversion as is available there is patronized eagerly, not to say frantically.

For many people, diversion is all that keeps them going in a world whose terrors increase daily. If a man spends 40 hours a week driving rivets into the wings of airplanes, shall he not relax the rest of the time, and spend his money to do so? Certainly, and he'll drive all the more rivets for that.

This is not to suggest an orgy of silk-shirtism. It simply means that as life grows more intense in its every phase, so the need for diversion and amusement also becomes more intense.

CHAPTER XXIV

AS Judy, escorted by two cheerful officers, entered the side gate to the prisoner's docket, she drew back. She had not expected such an audience.

The commissioner for the Federal Court was in charge today. Suddenly she was aware that her gray calico dress was wrinkled. One foot was encased in an old house slipper, a man's house shoe, size 12, but it did not interfere with the bandages on her arch. She wore its companion on her other foot.

She had neither lipstick, rouge, eyebrow shadow, or a comb to untangle her knotted hair. She looked, she admitted to herself, like a housemaid who had enjoyed a good time somewhere.

Her foot pained a little. There was blood on the bandage. She tried to sit on that foot, but an officer saw the change of position, motioned to the court matron who led her into an inner room where the police doctors cleaned and rebound the wound.

Once more she faced the courtroom. Her eyes went from face to curious face. These people had come to see what an ex-deb, a girl who had made a place for herself among Manhattan's career women, looked like. Some faces were hostile, faces of little people whose streets never had traveled far. More faces were kind and sympathetic, though their outward paths had gone no farther.

WHEN her name was called Judy walked swiftly, trying not to limp, to the witness chair. At the edge of the second step her bandage caught in a torn piece of carpet.

Judy fell across the steps. If she cried she might make an impression on the commissioner. Men hated tears but they usually did something about them. She couldn't cry, though.

She could only laugh. Laugh until she was assisted to the witness chair.

After order had been established in the courtroom, she instinctively addressed the federal commissioner who acted as judge. After all she had nothing to win, nothing to lose.

"Yesterday I was in my stocking foot—I lost one slipper when I jumped for freedom. My foot got tangled with a nail, you see. And now your worn carpet upset me again. I'm sorry but I can't pay for the medical assistance until I have worked out my fine."

She smiled straight into the eyes of the federal commissioner. She wasn't sure if he smiled or frowned. Life would be rather nice if people would take off their masks. No, it wouldn't. It would be horrible. Life's privacy would be gone. Now she could hate Sandy forever and no one would guess that she might—just might—have liked him a little.

HER case proceeded calmly. She was required to pay a fine of $1000 and costs. She couldn't. She was led back to her cell after a judicial lecture. Just as she left the court by the side door she thought she saw Sandy entering at the front. So he had come to see how low he had brought her! The door through which she was passing closed so quickly she could not follow him.

Judy was not returned to her cell. Long distance wanted her. It was her father. He said all of the things that she had hoped he would say before. Now they sounded like stilted, tenpenny words. Three things she understood. Sandy had been trying to reach him without result. He had succeeded finally, would accept charges of kidnaping, and his rival was flying to Judy to pay her fine and bring her home.

So it had been Sandy whom she had seen in the courthouse. What did he want? Why had he come?

She hung up. She had to get to Sandy fast. Dear, brave, lovable Sandy, who would risk everything for her, even go to jail, if need be! Why, that was security! And it was love. Dear, crazy, barnstorming, loyal, steadfast Sandy who was all the things that Phil never could be! He wasn't afraid!

LOVE wasn't something that you kept in a house. It was a thing that lived in the heart. She knew now.

"Mr. Ammerman? Where is he?" she asked the attendant at the desk, near the telephone.

"He just went out. Turned to the right."

She began to run, forgetting the calico dress and the flopping slippers. Far down the street she saw Sandy. She ran faster. Somebody set up a chase.

"Prisoner escaping! Stop her!" "I'm not! My fine's paid!" she called back, but she heard the thud of pursuing feet.

Sandy turned. He stopped, startled, and then came running toward her. The crowd waited. She noted that there were sleepless circles under the aviator's eyes and that he needed a shave.

"Quick, Sandy," she said. "We've got to get away. Phil's coming—you're being arrested for kidnaping me." She was pulling at his arm.

He looked down at her and grinned. "Where are we going, nut?"

"Idiot! Canada—any place beyond the law. Wasn't—wasn't that what you wanted?"

The crowd gasped as the man in the khaki aviator's outfit and the girl in the prison garb kissed each other in the middle of the street. Then Sandy hailed a taxicab and told the driver to stop on the gas and make the air field.

Inside the cab, he said, "Judy, I've been thinking things over. I was a heel. I'm a poor pilot who can't give you the ballast you need. Still . . ."

She put one hand over his mouth. "There's only one ballast. Love. I just found out."

How had she thought she could put him out of her mind like one dismissed a book by not reading it any more or a street by never walking down it again? She caught her breath because that was so nearly what she had done.

Sandy opened a paper that was making a bulge in his pocket. "Just picked this up after I left the jail five minutes ago. Maybe I can buy you a house with a couple of trees, if you'll take it small."

Judy read, "Aeronautical Company Bids for Pilot's 'Chute Used in Kidnaping.'"

"We work together grand," Judy said.

"You said it!" Sandy agreed, and kissed her again.

Which brings up this comparison, which we found in a writeup when Stephenville lost to Goose Creek by a score of 39 to 0.

Then, according to the weights, we went on to see where the Stephenville line weighed a total of 1140 pounds, while the Goose Creek "heavies" had a line that weighed 940 pounds.

Then, the total weights of the backfields were 601 pounds for Stephenville and 589 for Goose Creek, adding another 12 pounds in weight that man must have had to make up to make Goose Creek the same weight as the Jackets.

Or, as we said at the outset, sometimes sports writers do see things through rose colored glasses at times and then see the other team as a bunch of brutal giants at others.

In order to get our say in first and claim that the Jackets were a

Marshall Field III, who inherited one of the nation's greatest fortunes, says he doesn't care what becomes of it.

The Bulldog line weighs 1120 pounds, as compared with the Stephenville total of 1140, or an advantage of 20 pounds, and the Bulldog backfield weighs 591 and the Jacket backs pack 601 pounds of weight, adding another 10 pounds to the total, making the Yellow Jackets 30 pounds heavier, or slightly less than three pounds to the man.

The Bulldogs, incidentally, will be wearing their new uniforms for the first time Friday night, if it doesn't rain.

The new numbers run from 20 to 43, which necessitates a few changes in numbers, but not many. Most of the players will be wearing their old numbers, but a few in addition to those who had numbers above 43 are changed.

Large Peat Bog Found In Texas

Peat, a cousin of soft coal, is used principally in Texas as a soil conditioner for gardens and fields.

Casual Labor Is Defined By Social Security Officials

ABILENE, Tex.—Because many people do not understand the meaning of the words "casual labor" as used in the old-age and survivors insurance provisions of the Social Security Act, Mr. W. O. King, manager of the Social Security Board's field office in Abilene, today issued the following statement: "The Social Security Act provides that 'casual labor' not in the course of the employer's trade or business shall not count toward old-age insurance benefits. However, any work which advances or promotes the business of the employer is not counted as 'casual labor,' no matter how small the job is or how little time it takes. For example, work performed by a carpenter who is employed by a store owner to build an addition to the store, to put in shelves or to do some other job in connection with the store is not 'casual labor' because this work does advance or promote the store owner's business. Work for a corporation is never 'casual labor' even though it is occasional, incidental, or irregular, because a corporation has no authority to employ anybody for work which does not advance or promote its business. In other words no work for a corporation can be 'casual labor.' "Whenever the work performed does not advance or promote the employer's business, the Social Security Board takes into consideration the size of the job. For example, the Board assumes that work for a private person in the building of a garage or an addition to his house is not 'casual labor,' if the person who did the work was employed for more than 10 days in any one month or during two consecutive months, or the job required more than 200 hours of work by all persons engaged. "In short, whether a particular job or piece of work is 'casual labor' depends on the facts in
