TWO STRIKES CALLED OFF BY WORKERS

Two critical defense labor disputes were dissolved today as 53,000 Congress of Industrial Organization miners were prepared to resume operations at the steel company pits in four states and the government supervised termination of the month-long strike on aircraft parts production at Bendix, N. J.

Still confronting the labor experts was the jurisdictional strike of the American Federation of Labor welders in the Pacific coast shipyards, which spread today to the Bay City area in San Francisco.

John L. Lewis announced at Washington that the United Mine Workers had accepted Mr. Roosevelt's recommendation for immediate restoration of coal output at the captive coal mines, so called because they are owned and operated by big steel companies, pending a mediation board finding in the protracted dispute over a closed shop.

The peace plan provides that neither faction be pre-sworn to acceptance of the mediation board's recommendations. The board announced that it would take up the dispute immediately, and that an early report upon its findings could be expected.

"Holy Joe" To Leave Army Engineers

By United Press
CAMP BOWIE, Tex., Oct. 30.—"Holy Joe" of the 111th Engineers is leaving the army.

Chaplain Andrew S. Broadus, now 62, has been religious leader, morale officer, and confidant of the enlisted men of the 111th Engineers since the 36th Division was formed early in the war-troubled year of 1917.

"Holy Joe" said he would like to stay with the engineers the rest of his life, but the war department has decided the chaplain earned a rest. He will be retired soon.

He never missed a summer camp of the engineers since the World War. Sickness never kept him from reporting for duty, but it was during the first war that Chaplain Broadus earned the name "Holy Joe" and became a hallowed figure with the 111th.

In June, 1918, "Holy Joe" went to France with the engineers. After the troops moved to the front, Chaplain Broadus worked unceasingly among the troops. For 60 days he wallowed through the mud of the trenches—often with little sleep—and then to the miserable, make-shift hospitals near the fighting zone.

"American soldiers had plenty of grit in those days," he said, "and they still have it. I found that out during the maneuvers we recently finished."

Only once has he found the army's morale at a dangerous state. That was following the Armistice in 1918. The 111th was stationed at the small French village of Tonnerre. For seven months the men waited to go home, but there were no ships to take them. They were extremely "restless," said "Holy Joe," but the situation never "got out of control."

FACILITIES OF AREA BEING SURVEYED NOW

A technical survey of the Cisco-Eastland-Ranger area to depict the area's facilities and potentialities for location of chemical plants in connection with the defense program is being made under contract for the Texas & Pacific Railway Company by Burt C. Blanton, Dallas, industrial engineer and business economist, who is in Ranger today.

The Blanton survey-report will be submitted by the Texas & Pacific Railway Company to the War Department in an effort to secure location in the tri-city area of a methanol plant or other types of chemical industries which may be contemplated to meet defense requirements in this section of Texas.

The survey will provide a complete and comprehensive prospectus with special presentation and analysis of the area's fuel, power, water supply, and manufacturing facilities, et cetera.

Blanton's field work on the survey is being made also in Cisco and Eastland, and in this city and vicinity. The survey-project will be completed and the reports delivered by the Texas & Pacific Railway Company to the War Department in Washington, D. C., within the next thirty days.

Feed In Lakes Is Way To Keep The Wild Ducks There

AUSTIN.—Ducks and geese tearing out of the north to the balmy climate of South America are to be seen these days settling down for a little rest and food on tanks and lakes and ponds virtually all over Texas, and what the sportsman is bothered about is how to keep 'em in those waters a little longer so there will be some good duck shooting on and after November 2.

The waterfowl will stay for a fairly long time on the larger lakes, but the small lakes and farm ponds don't seem to hold them for any length of time, especially in the more interior parts of the state.

The Game Department has experimented with solutions to this problem. In some cases it has worked. Here's the general idea.

The small lake or tank affords ducks a chance to rest. But practically every time a duck needs a rest, he's hungry too. He gives the lake a good once over. If there's food there, he'll stay awhile. If no food is present, you can count on it that he'll be looking for better pastures before long.

There are numerous small lakes in eastern Texas. They formerly held ducks and geese long enough to give the hunter all the shooting he wanted. Of late years, the ducks and geese have been very snooty about those East Texas lakes. Instead of stopping, they fly on to the coast.

A Game Department field biologist of the East Texas region made a thorough study of this situation. He found that most of the plant life that formerly provided food for waterfowl had disappeared entirely from some lakes or was very deficient in others.

So, in cooperation with landowners and sportsmen, the field biologist began planting the right shore and water plants in fenced off portions of one of two lakes. The fences are necessary to keep out cattle and hogs, which dole on these duck food plants. Results have been satisfactory, and consequently about a dozen lakes in eastern Texas are lined up to have "duck food nurseries" established on their shores.

It's important, the field biologist, emphasizes, to plant the right kinds of vegetation. He says in a bulletin on this subject, for instance, that "Hundreds of attempts have been made to establish wild rice in Texas. Most of these have been failures, for wild rice is not native to this region. Wild rice requires running water." And except in a few instances, he points out, costly attempts to establish wild celery have also proved disappointing.

What kinds of plants will work? In East Texas the field biologist after experimenting two years with this problem has this to report: "The following 10 groups of water plants were eaten more than all other kinds of plants by more than 200 ducks collected: Pondweeds, musk grass, water shield, Naiads or bushy pondweeds, Coontail, Spikerushes, water lilies, Bulrushes, Button willow, and various water grasses.

Some of these plants might not work in the Panhandle, on the South Plains or in Central and South Texas. In each section there will have to be research done to find out the kinds of plants will thrive there. It is believed that pondweed and Bulrushes will work in Central and North Central Texas, where there are many small tanks and lakes that over a period of time might be developed into good duck lakes.

Interested landowners and sportsmen are urged to give this planting business a try. If you're interested in more detailed results of the East Texas studies, they have been summarized in a little bulletin called "Duck Food Nurseries for Lakes and Ponds." It has been published by the Game Department and will be sent to you free upon request.

A little work along this line might hold for a time the millions of ducks and geese that are flapping their wings in the skies of Texas.

Midnight, Nov. 1 Is Deadline On Delinquent Tax

Eastland county taxpayers have until midnight Saturday, Nov. 1, in which to pay delinquent taxes and save interest and penalties, county officials stated today.

The county tax collector's office has been a busy place for several days due to the fact that many property owners are paying their taxes in order to avail themselves of the above saving, which, it is stated, amounts to as much as 40 percent in some instances.

FOURTEEN DIE WHEN LANDING PLANE BURNS

MOORHEAD, Minn., Oct. 30.—Fourteen persons were killed early today when a Northwest Airlines transport plane, landing in the dark on a Minnesota prairie, struck a ravine and burst into flames.

Only Pilot Clarence Bates of Minneapolis escaped with his life. He suffered so from shock he was unable to tell what had happened. There were no witnesses to the air tragedy, but airline officials, police and other investigators agreed that the plane was gliding into a field for a landing when it hit the ravine, which was 50 feet wide, 25 feet deep and extends across an otherwise unbroken prairie for 100 yards.

The dead were 12 passengers, a co-pilot and the stewardess.

The pilot escaped from the flames, which enveloped the plane after it plunged across the ravine, either because he was able to crawl through an emergency exit or because he was thrown clear of the wreckage.

School Bands Are Now Big Business

AUSTIN.—School bands led by strutting drum majors and majorettes have become big business in Texas.

Statistics gathered by Col. Geo. Enoch Hurt, director of the University of Texas band, show that 424 of the state's public schools have bands, and that more than 25,000 school children are players.

The average school band has 45 players; though some have double that number and some have but 20 players. Large instruments for the bands usually are furnished by the school while playing pupils own the smaller ones.

Cost of school instruments for a 45-piece band was estimated at $4,500 by Col. Hurt. The student-owned instruments used by the band of that size, he said, represent an added $1,000 or more. Uniforms cost about $3,000, with this expense varying greatly.

The Bengal Guards of Orange, Tex., probably the best-equipped high school band in the country, owns equipment valued at $25,000. The band, sponsored and financed by Luther Stark, wealthy Orange resident, has been sent twice to the Soldiers Field band meet in Chicago by special train. It will be at the inter-sectional game between Texas and Oregon at Austin on Dec. 6.

School bands are of ancient lineage in Texas. Three instructors—John F. Witt of Tyler, Jas. T. King of Coleman, and Sam Ezell of Taft—were awarded gold keys at the University of Texas "Band Day" program this month for 40 years each of teaching school bands.

NAZI STILL POUNDING AT SOVIET FRONT

German armies stepped up the attacks upon the Moscow defenses today and drove deeper into the Crimea, bringing a military thrust closer to the big Russian Black Sea fleet base at Sevastopol.

Russian reports admitted a dangerous Nazi pressure on the Orsk Tula line, 210 miles to 100 miles south and southwest of Moscow and indicated the defenders of the Crimea were falling back after a terrific battle with the German in which 20,000 casualties were inflicted.

British experts suggested that the Germans were opening up with a final attempt this year to break into Moscow and obtain winter quarters for hundreds of thousands of troops now fighting near Moscow.

On the Donets Front the Russians claimed they had recaptured strategic heights before Don as it was indicated that the Na progress in that area had been temporarily slowed down.

Rumors of British hit and re-raids on the European continent came from London and Moscow radio stations, but they lacked official confirmation.

Recreation Centers Fill Many Needs

Today, in a world torn by strife, unrest and uncertainty, America stands out in many respects as a country—one of the few remaining countries—in which freedom still is more than just a word. And today, America is one of the very few remaining countries in which recreation is finding a fitting place in getting the minds of the people away from the troubles of the world.

America remains today one of the countries in which the time, the work, the play, the very thinking, sleeping and rations of her people is not regimented, controlled and dictated. To keep this freedom to play, to relax and to enjoy oneself is one of the factors that has prompted the Recreation Departments.

Too many have the mistaken idea that a family must be on relief before the children can enjoy the recreational facilities offered at the Corral, but anyone is eligible to participate, and everyone is welcome. A total of between 3,000 and 10,000 visit the Corral each week.

Not only is recreation stressed but children, and even adults, who patronize the center are taught many crafts, including basket weaving, wood working, leathercraft, arts and drama, to list only a few. Through these departments they may express their ideas in constructive and educational work that, while started as a hobby, could be made into profitable vacations.

An advisory board is being formed to aid in furnishing new ideas, new means of affording recreational facilities to children and adults, particularly to children, that may be the means of keeping them out of mischief. No doubt many may be claimed from a life of crime by better surroundings that will keep out of the alleys and byways of a world in which bloodshed and the crimes of totalitarian dictators are headlined daily throughout the world.

That is as it should be. A child guided along the right ways in his formative years may become a leading citizen of tomorrow, instead of following the too easy route of petty thievery, youthful gangs and later into a career of crime and degeneracy.

For these reasons alone, if for no other, the recreational work now being carried on by the Federal Government and the City of Ranger could become a leading factor in the upbuilding of the moral and physical aspects of the community.

As Bishop Hall so wisely remarked, "Recreation is intended to the mind as whetting is to the scythe, to sharpen the edge of it, which otherwise would grow dull and blunt."

Bulldog Booster

Dr. G. C. Boswell, superintendent of the Ranger Schools.

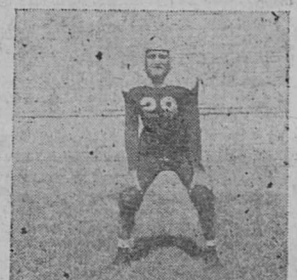

By DAVID JAMESON
 Mr. Baker, Scoutmaster of Troop 12 and Homer Tuder, Field Executive for Eastland County, combined their efforts and reorganized the troop by joining the junior and senior troops.
 They meet each Monday night at 7:15 in the Scout House at the corner of Homer and Pine streets.
 Monday there were 19 boys present and next Monday there should be about 25. Two new members were brought in.
 New patrols were formed and the troop reorganized. Patrol leaders were Leldon Martin, Morris George, and David Jameson. The senior patrol leader is Richard Cox, scribe is James Croom and quartermaster is Noble Robertson.
 A hike has been planned for Sunday afternoon at 1:30. We will meet at the Prompt Printery and the boys wishing to become Scouts are invited.
 The Boys' survey put out by the Boy Scouts has caused some misunderstanding. This is a survey to find who is interested in Scouting and who, if a new troop was formed, they would want for their Scoutmaster.

Oil Lease Funds Given To College

ABILENE.—McMurry college will collect $72,250 from oil production over a period of several years through a gift from Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Jay of Abilene, patrons of the Methodist school since its founding.
 The donation represents payments in oil due from the sale of leases in Coleman county by Jay to States Oil Corporation.
 Jay, co-owner of a local bottling plant, is chairman of the McMurry board of trustees. He is in his second tenure of that position, having served in the same capacity during the mid-thirties.
 Dr. Frank L. Turner, McMurry's president, announced that the gift would be administered for the benefit of the college by the board of trustees under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Jay.
 Dr. Turner said the Abilene couple has been among McMurry's more liberal benefactors since the institution was established.
 "It is our belief," he said, "that this is the beginning of a series of large gifts from friends of the college."
 Leases on more than 1,000 acres of oil land in the Silver Valley field of Coleman county were involved in the transaction benefiting McMurry. They were sold by Mr. Jay with part of the consideration to be paid in oil.
 States Oil Corporation will pay the $72,250 as the oil is produced.
 Three wells are producing on the acreage involved, one each on tracts owned by Frank Hudson, C. F. Sprinkles and O. B. Featherston, with another drilling on the Sprinkles land.

Pat M. Neff To Be Honored By A Bust At Baylor

WACO, Tex.—The unveiling of a bust of President Pat M. Neff and its presentation to the University will share the spotlight with football next weekend (Oct. 31-Nov. 1) as Baylor University observes its annual fall Homecoming celebration.

The bust has been executed by Pompeo Coppini of New York and San Antonio, and is the gift of the Alpha Omega club, a girls social organization on the campus. It will be presented in a ceremony attended by all campus leaders at 4 p. m. Friday.

Other big event of the weekend will be the football game between the Baylor Bears and the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs.

An Ex-Students Jamboree at 7 o'clock on Kendall Quadrangle is slated to start the Friday night program, which perhaps will be made even livelier because of its coincidence with Halloween. Large bonfires will be lighted at a half-dozen spots about the campus, and freshmen will watch over the embers until daylight that they might greet the incoming alumni.

A parade led by the Texas Christian band, followed by the Baylor band, will get underway in downtown Waco at 10 a. m. Saturday. Floats representing the many campus clubs and classes will make up the parade, usually one of the year's most beautiful for Waco.

Each float will carry the Homecoming sweetheart of the organization, and impartial men judges will select one as Homecoming Queen to be crowned at the football game during the afternoon. Identity of the selected queen will not be known until the half period of the game.

Baylor Centennial Executive Committee will hold a dinner and business meeting in Memorial Dormitory at 6 p. m., following the football game. The "B" club will hold an annual Homecoming banquet at 7 p. m.

Alumni remaining over Sunday will be guests at the ninetieth anniversary celebration of First Baptist Church of Waco, the church has gone hand in hand with the university during its long years in Waco and to which most students have belonged through the years. Dr. J. M. Dawson is pastor.

Farming Income Zoomed Last Month

AUSTIN, Texas.—Texas agricultural income zoomed 30 percent during September above the total for the corresponding month a year ago, according to Dr. Fred A. Buechel, director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

On the basis of reports from all sections of the state, farm income for September, 1941, totaled $100,609,000, as compared with $76,698,000 a year ago.

For the first nine months of this year, income was $330,512,000, an increase of 25 percent over the corresponding period of 1940, when the total was $264,906,000.

"With the exception of September, 1937, the year of the record cotton crop in Texas, this is the best September showing for more than a decade," Dr. Buechel declared. "Part of the improvement, however, resulted from the fact that cotton ginning in Central and Southern Texas counties was delayed, thus causing more than the normal percentage of the annual production of cotton in these areas to be ginned in September."

"Cash income from livestock and livestock products is being well maintained and is sharply above that of September, 1940, from these sources, a result of

Officials and Fans Hoping For Better Weather Before The Game Starts

It was hoped today that the weather would clear in time for the Ranger-Mineral Wells football game, scheduled to be played at Bulldog Stadium Friday night.

School officials from Mineral Wells notified Dr. G. C. Boswell, superintendent of the Ranger schools, that a crowd of approximately 1,000 Mineral Wells fans would follow their team to Ranger for the game, so with clear weather or a big crowd, possibly the largest crowd to witness a Ranger game this season, is expected.

THE PAY OFF

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

FRANK LEAHY is very happy that while coaching there he did not talk Angelo Bertello Bertelli into attending Boston College. For Leahy is now in his first year as the Notre Dame coach and Angelo Bertelli is in his first year there as a varsity player. The two figure to go a long way together.

Bertelli is the new big football playing name at Notre Dame. He gave Leahy the passing he needed.

Bertelli moves with the easy grace of the natural athlete. Rough going doesn't bother him in the least. He is not a fast runner, but he is especially tricky. You can depend on him to lay out for that extra yard or two when he's tackled. He blocks and tackles well and covers passes the same way.

YOU might take him for a Norwegian or a Swede if you didn't know his name is Angelo Bertello Bertelli. He is fair-haired and blue-eyed and he stands six feet one.

Bertelli, 20, hails from West Springfield, Mass. His parents come from a small town near Venice in the north of Italy.

For all his height, Bertelli weighed only 165 pounds in high school, and comes in at no more than 171 now. But he was able to win all-circuit honors in football, hockey and baseball in the Western Massachusetts Conference under the direction of Billy Wise, who will be recalled as a bit of a passer himself at Holy Cross some 15 years ago.

A CENTER in hockey, Bertelli abandoned his ambitions in this sport to fulfill an even bigger boyhood desire to go to Notre Dame. He rejected offers to play with the Springfield Indians and Boston Bruins. He was rated the best prep hockey player in New England.

He is a fine baseball catcher who batted .381 for a Springfield amateur team last summer. That is the mark of the great athlete—playing baseball.

Being a passer from the outset, Bertelli's athletic hero is Sammy Baugh, with the Washington Redskins since he wrote slinging history at Texas Christian.

Wells notified Dr. G. C. Boswell, superintendent of the Ranger schools, that a crowd of approximately 1,000 Mineral Wells fans would follow their team to Ranger for the game, so with clear weather or a big crowd, possibly the largest crowd to witness a Ranger game this season, is expected.

Weather reports today, however gave little encouragement that Friday would be any better football weather than today, with predictions of continued cold drizzling rain in the forecast for the area.

Mineral Wells has won two conference games this season, after getting off to a bad start against strong Class AA teams and has won over both Brownwood and Stephenville, and the fans are hopeful that the team might develop enough in the next two weeks to defeat Breckenridge, tied with Mineral Wells at the top of the inference standings.

The Bulldogs have played 500 per cent ball this season to date, and have won one and lost two conference games, and, after Mineral Wells have but one more conference contest on the schedule, with Cisco on Nov. 11, at Cisco.

Tonight the regular weekly pep rally will be held at the Arcadia Theatre, with Dr. Boswell as master of ceremonies. This will be the first time in several years that a pep rally has been held in the theatre. The rally is scheduled for 7:15 and will last but 15 minutes.

Basketball Teams Must Register By November 15

AUSTIN.—Schools planning to enter basketball teams for conference play in the University of Texas Interscholastic League must have signed a card of acceptance on file in the office here by Nov. 15. R. J. Kidd, director of athletics for the League, is reminding school officials.

"All Class AA schools have sent in their cards," Kidd said. "But some of the Class A and B schools are neglecting to do so." If a school has any doubt whether it has done it, officials should write the office here to check up on the matter, Kidd suggested.

With the football season in full stride, league officials are turning their attention to the newly-planned high school basketball set-up, which provides a conference basis of competition this year for the first time.

"Basketball's golden year, its 50th anniversary, is a suitable time for introducing the new system of high school competition," Kidd declared. "We believe that it will stimulate sufficient interest in the sport to make Texas the greatest basketball playing state in the nation, as it is already, we believe, for football."

Designed on the same order as the football conference, the teams will play their games on scheduled dates until a winner for each district is selected near the end of the season. Previously teams could hold a tournament to select a district representative.

To equalize the strength of the teams the state is divided into three classes: AA, with sixteen districts; A, thirty-two; and B, eighty-four. Eight representatives from each class will convene in Austin, March 6, 7 and 8 for tournaments that will select a state champion for each of the three classes.

In Boston an innkeeper's wife blew up. The drinks were on the house.

Six-Man Game Is Being Postponed

The six-man football game, scheduled to be played at Bulldog Stadium tonight between Caddo and Megargel has been postponed on account of bad weather, it was announced today by Howard Gracey, who was instrumental in having the game scheduled for Ranger.

It is expected that the game will be played on Wednesday, Nov. 26, it was stated.

Pictured above is "Colossus" mouth, a monster 68 ton whale measuring 55 feet in length. Strange as it may seem, although a whale has a large mouth their throat is very small and is said would choke to death on an object the size of a grapefruit. The mammoth whale whose mouth is shown here will be exhibited in Ranger Saturday, Nov. 1, on a special built railway car that will be parked on the siding at the T. & P. Freight Depot. The exhibition, which will also include many other deep sea oddities and wonders will be continuous from 2 p. m. until 11 p. m. and all children under 14 years of age will be admitted free with adults.

Guests for the occasion were Charlotte Love, Betty Moore, Pansy Ann Seymour, Betty Ryan, Bernice Bagwell, Beth Pearson, R. C. Smith, Ronald Williams, Meredith Sides, Tommy Martin, and the hostess.

SERIAL STORY

MURDER IN PARADISE

BY MARGUERITE GAHAGAN

COPYRIGHT 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Two murders at Paradise Lake renew the old romance between school teacher Mary O'Connor, vacationing there with her mother, Maudie, and reporter Dennis Flynn, sent down from the city to cover the story. Police are convinced sophisticated Herbert Ford was killed by gangster Susa Veretti, although Cord's death at first implicated Jeanie Morris, whom he had courted for two summers only to bring Margie Dixon to Paradise this year as his fiancée. Second mysterious death was that of Miss Millie Morris, Jeanie's stern splinter aunt, who kept locked in her heart the secret of a girlhood romance with someone who signed his letters "Kit." Other characters in the story are Liza Holmes, Miss Millie's maid who stays on with Jeanie; elderly innkeeper Chris Gordon; local editor Tod Palmer, in love with Jeanie; Tod, Mary, Jeanie, and Dennis spend a pleasant evening in the city. The next day Mary calls at Jeanie's home and they discover that Liza is missing.

saw in my face froze her. She started to get up, but slumped down again with terror of the unknown dawning in her own eyes.

"Just come out of here," I insisted. "Right away, and don't look."

WE got downstairs and into her room.

"Get dressed, Jeanie, and I'll tell you about it after we get out of here."

My one desire was to get as far away from that house as I could. She was too terrified to argue, because by then she had begun to suspect I had found something horrible. It wasn't until we were walking down the road to the inn that I managed to describe it, and the way she walked I wondered if we'd ever make our destination.

"But suicide," she kept repeating. "Why should she hang herself, Mary? Why? Was it because she missed Aunt Millie so much? Still, Liza wouldn't forget me. She couldn't just leave me alone."

"Maybe your aunt's death did something to her mind," I suggested. "They'd been together for a long time. They were both women who never made many friends easily; never talked much. Their lives were pretty cut and dried."

"I can't understand it. Aunt Millie left her money, you know. And Liza—well, she never talked much, but she did mention some things she was going to do with her money. She was going to have a new black dress made. And a new hat. And she asked me to subscribe to a garden magazine and a little missionary paper she used to read."

"She told me that by the next time I went to town she'd have a list of things made out for me to buy; things she was going to send to her niece's little girl. She liked to sew for her and she was going to make some school dresses. She wasn't thinking of dying, Mary. I know she wasn't!"

What we both were thinking, but not saying, was that this might be murder and not suicide.

A third murder—that was too much to put into words.

WE were careful to state only facts when we got to the inn and phoned the State Police. We could have phoned from Jeanie's house, but I'll admit I was panicky. I had to get away from there, and I think Jeanie was glad I had done it that way.

The hotel phone was in a little writing room off the lobby and when I hung up after talking to Officer John Antler in as coherent a way as I could, with my teeth chattering and my knees going wobbly, Chris Gordon was standing in the doorway. I suppose the two of us must have had fear written across our white faces, because he looked and then spoke.

"Anything I can do for you—"

Jeanie started to cry and I said, "Yes, get us some hot coffee. We're about at the end of our strength. Liza Holmes is up there at the house—dead—"

He opened his mouth like a fish, and took out his handkerchief to mop his head. He didn't ask any questions, but turned and went away. The coffee came before Officer Antler arrived, but he made good time. Dr. Orway was with him.

"You got a monopoly on finding dead people?" he asked.

I said I'd be more than willing to sell him my concession, and then I attempted to tell them about finding Liza.

"She thought a lot of Miss Millie," he said. "That's probably what preyed on her mind. Well, we'll go on over. You girls won't mind waiting downstairs, will you? You won't have to come up with us."

Jeanie said she was all right now, and so we got in their car and went back to the house. We sat there in the kitchen and Jeanie got some milk for a big yellow cat that came meowing at the door.

The girl started to cry. "He was Liza's pet. He was the only thing I ever saw her make a fuss over. I used to come out here and find them sitting by the stove. He'd be on her lap purring and pushing her apron into balls with his paws."

Dr. Orway came in at last and she looked up at him. "Why did she do it, Doctor? To go up there alone—"

He patted her on the head and looked at me. I saw something in his eyes that made me blurt out the question.

"But was it suicide?" (To Be Continued)

SUICIDE—OR MURDER?

CHAPTER XXI

THERE was a window open so that nice, musty odor that all good attics possess wasn't so noticeable, but it still had a faint suggestion of camphor, and mothballs, and dried herbs. I could see straws of herbs hanging from a rafter and as my eyes got used to the darkness I could see funny old trunks sitting around and furniture that made my mouth water with envy.

I stood patting an old spool daybed that was piled high with comforters, and back under the eaves was a walnut chest with darling drawer pulls. I was still feasting my eyes and roaming around, for I knew this was a real treasure house. A little footstool was lying on its side a few feet farther back and I moved over toward it when I made out a white object back in the gloom.

Well, why go into details? It was horrible enough. That white object was poor Liza Holmes, hanging from one of the rafters. She still wore her high-necked, long-sleeved house dress and her white apron, and her poor head hung slightly to one side above the cord.

I think I moaned, but Jeanie, who was sitting on a trunk in the center of the attic, probably thought I was just going into more ecstasies because she said something about being glad I had found something I could enjoy up there. I backed up slowly, nearly falling over the footstool. What she

Home Loan Bank Sets a New Record Throughout State

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.—A new all-time high record in the volume of lending done has been established since January 1 by the 120 insured saving and loan association in Texas, the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock, reported today.

The Texas association loaned $22,583,360 to 11,523 Texas home owners in the first nine months of this year, which was an increase of $3,030,000 over the high water mark reached in 1940. The figures compiled by the Bank include the lending activities of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association in Ranger by which the local area is served.

Month by month, throughout the year the figures have shown steady gains over the old records; the Bank reported, September being the fifth consecutive month in which the loans made exceeded $2,500,000. Of the loans granted this year $8,484,000 was used in the construction of new homes, while $6,955,000 was applied by the borrowers toward the purchase of existing dwellings.

"It is gratifying to see the fine part the Texas associations are having in the encouragement of home ownership," an official of the Bank said, "for through the home financing they are doing, they are making it possible for thousands of thrifty people to become home owners who otherwise would be merely renting houses on a month to month basis."

As evidence of the value of the associations to persons of modest means, it was pointed out that the 11,523 loans made this year were for an average amount of $2,000, and are repayable in small monthly installments over a long period of time. The associations are reported to have ample additional funds available for all types of home financing, and are well prepared to continue their activity in the lending field. In addition to their own resources, they have available to them the facilities of the Federal Home Loan Bank System of which they are members.

COLD WEATHER IS COMING

Are Your Heating Appliances In Good Working Order?

"Nother time" is just around the corner and wise home-makers are getting ready for it by checking over their heating equipment. Right now, before real winter sets in, the following preparatory measures should be taken:

1. See that all dirt and lint, which may have collected during the summer, is cleaned from the burners and air mixers.
2. Connect up heaters and test all tubes and piping to see if cracks or leaks have developed. DO NOT USE MATCHES in searching for leaks. Brush a solution of soapy water over joints, cocks and other suspicious places. The escaping gas will form bubbles.
3. Regulate heaters so that gas burns with a clear, bluish-purple flame. Yellow or white flames indicate an insufficient amount of air for complete combustion. To correct, change the air mixer setting to admit less air. If flame sputters and blows out, too much air is being admitted, and air mixer setting should be adjusted to admit less air.

Heating equipment that is dirty or out-of-adjustment wastes gas and spreads fumes. It is only through clean and properly regulated appliances that you get the maximum of heat value from the gas consumed.

In case you need help in adjusting appliances or locating leaks, please feel free to call on us. We'll gladly assist you without charge.
