Chief Objective of

ASHINGTON. - Congress cheered Roosevelt lustily as be mounted the rostrum of the house, the first President in history who has personally read a veto message. It is customary these days for a President to read general messages "on the state of the Union," a custom started by George Washington, discontinued by Jefferson and revived by Wilson. But not until Franklin Roosevelt went to the Capitol to explain why he must return the bonus bill unsigned has a President ever done such a thing in person. They have always written out the message and sent It up by messenger to be read by one

Congress cheered him, I say; so did the crowds which lined the streets and met him on the plaza of the Capitol; there were more people out to see him go to the Capitol than have greeted him since inauguration day. Yes, congress cheered him; cheered him for his personality and his courage in going there to tell 3,500,000 veterans that they could not have what they wanted.

Yet within half an hour after he had read the message the house which had cheered him voted to pass the bonus over his veto; 24 hours later the senate voted to sustain him; and between the two houses the Patman bonus bill fails. Yet that does not end the matter; the veterans' lobby, strongest pressure group we have today, immediately starts out to pass some other bonus bill through this or some succeeding congress.

Roosevelt vetoed the bonus bill because he was morally certain he should do so; he believes the bonus is not due until 1945; that he should not discriminate in favor of any one group of people; that the greenbacks with which congress proposed to pay the bonus would constitute inflation. He sees the present emergency, depression and all, as one large problem and explains that there are certain things to be done first -the main thing being to feed the hungry and get work for the jobless, including any and all veterans who are in distress.

But for weeks the widespread veterans' lobby has been filling the mails, the air and the telegraph offices with insistent demands to pass the bonus bill and pay it now. The veterans, the American Legion and the veterans of foreign wars have completely dominated the house of representatives. That group is in the position where they will cheer Roosevelt, support him in polltics; and vote against him on the bonus, largely because otherwise they fear defeat at the hands of the veterans in the next election. And Roosevelt himself knows that he is facing a tough crowd when he goes contrary to

ROOSEVELT GIVES REASONS. Of course, Roosevelt's task was not merely to talk to the veterans; he was telling all America just what his reafor turning down the bonus demands. He had to tell the people that what a large number of them wanted was not the best thing for them after their wishes.

Roosevelt argued that the bonus is not now due because the original legislation provided for payment in 1945; that to pay it now would involve $1,600,-000,000 more than the present value of the certificates.

The proposal is unjust, he argued, because this government has taken excelthat needy veterans are now taken care of on relief and that cash payments to them alone would single them out as a specially privileged class of depression victims; while in the case of other veterans it would distribute cash without regard to need.

Roosevelt was positive against the greenback method of paying the bonus; the argument of Senator McAdoo's that these greenbacks would not hurt the country's credit was smashed by the President. Once open the gate to this type of money, he said, and other organized lobbies would rush in and demand the same kind of money for some other project. He was strongest in his argument against inflation; but kindly and sympathetic. He strove to convince the bonus advocates that they were mistaken, rather than anything else. It was plain to see that he was talking straight from the heart.

What will his bonus veto do to him politically?

There can be no doubt it has tremen dous possibilities. It may drag along and become an ominous threat in the next campaign; but that is more than a year off. There is strength for Roosevelt among the millions the New Deal has helped; the men and women who have been fed; the millions whose farms and homes have been saved; the other millions who believe with Roose velt that the bonus should not be paid now, the millions who are wedded to the idea of a New Deal in politics and government and who want Roosevelt again to continue the plans he has already as to what part the bonus will play in the next campaign. It is certainly true of them reach an extreme length of that if the campaign is an old-fashioned 71/2 inches. So there can be no definite agreement between the administration and an old-time reactionary Republean candidate that most of the veterans would vote for Roosevelt rather than for the G. O. P. But no one knows what the next year will bring forth in the way of men and issues. The bonus may have been forgotten in another six months.

SPREADING THE NEWS. This government makes it easy for people to find out what is going on in Washington; this administration in particular has helped get the news by putting trained newspaper men in the government to get the facts and help spread them. Roosevelt talks directly to newspaper correspondents twice a week, answering questions and discussing any subject put up to him if he has the knowledge. Obviously Roosevelt is not going to give away any military or diplomatic secrets to foreign countries by publishing them broadcast; so once in a while he tells his newspaper friends something "off the record" for their information only-not to be printed; but simply to be frank with them. This is new at the White

This frankness is being twisted into something ulterior by the opposition to the New Deal. It is charged that the newspaper men who are employed by the government to dig out the facts are not telling truths but are spreading propaganda. It is charged that Roosevelt dodges questions, or refuses to answer them frankly. That is a falsehood which scores of newspaper men who deal with Roosevelt resent bit-

WATCHING THE REPUBLICANS.

Washington awaits the outcome of a Republican gathering in Springfield, Ill., June 10-11 to adopt principles for the next campaign. The idea came from liberal Republicans in the Midwest; but the reactionaries appear to be swarming to keep the party from being too liberal. The reactionaries have apparently snagged the Presidential boom of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, who might have been a strong contender at Springfield. Eastern Republicans don't want Landon or any other progressive; their play is to set the G. O. P. in motion toward a headon collision with everything the New Deal stands for, and take it from me, that is exactly what the New Deal wants-a clear division in the country for and against this administration.

There will, however, be many Republicans at the Springfield meeting definitely favoring some of the New Deal policies. You may read of Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, attending the meeting. He favors the New Deal's agricultural policies; his defense of the AAA equals anything Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has uttered. The Springfield meeting, too, will follow a recent gathering of about 16,000 farmers at Peoria who gave the AAA as strong a boost as the farm army which came to Washington a few days

The fact that some of the Democratic leaders here are opposed to the AAA makes a queer situation. Democratic Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia, has been attacking the AAA with all his might and his position causes, Mark Sullivan, staunch Republican journal ist, to nominate Senator Byrd as Pres-Idental candidate on the Republican ticket! Sullivan is one of Herbert Hoover's best friends, too; and his recommendation of a Virginia Democrat for the Republican standard bearer is an amazing political development. It will be taken seriously, too, humorous as that may seem, by some of the Republicans, and indicates the precarious condition in which the Republican party finds itself.

Nor is that all; there is talk of Al Smith again. His friend, Charles C, Hellinger of New York, is starting another Smith-for-President boom and has more than 16,000 signatures. In New York, too, progressive and pro-New Deal Mayor LaGuardia is rallying men and women of progressive tendencies to get together on a set of principles, while in Wisconsin the La ent care of the wounded and disabled; Follettes just celebrated the first anniversary of their new Progressive party.

There is a bond of sympathy between the Wisconsin Progressives and this administration; Wisconsin has put forward the first state-wide practical program of public works and has received federal approval for something like $200,000,000 of work-relief. Possibly Roosevelt will say something interesting to the Progressives if he speaks to the Young Democratic Clubs of America which convenes in Milwaukee, Wis., in August.

Republicans here are steadfastly building up a campaign machine which they believe will defeat Roosevelt. So far there is no practical indication that they will. In fact, the latest survey by a Republican expert, Roger W. Babson, well-known analyst of public affairs, shows Roosevelt a winner is 1936.

GERMANY AND PEACE

By RAMSAY MacDONALD Prime Minister of Great Britain ERMANY has acted in such J a way as to destroy the feeling of mutual confidence in Europe. It has broken up the road to peace and beset it with terrors. It claims a measure of armed power which puts most of the nations of Europe at its mercy.

Every reflecting, reasonable German must see the force of the point I am making. He must know in his heart that Berlin is not enough, that in fact it has upset very much more than it has pacified. Germany is arming, it alleges, to satisfy honor and self-respect, and makes the further allegation that the scale of its armaments is only enough to make itself secure.

Leaving the honor argument out of account for the moment, how can it profess to be blind to the effect which its colossal armaments must have on the sense of security of other nations?

"You must trust me," it replies. "I assure you I have no designs upon

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

By FREDERICK E WILLIAMSON President New York Central System. DOLITICS lives on jobs, as you all know. It is obvious that under a government which is based on the political party system, the railroads under government ownership would be administered primarily for the need of that system. Under government ownership the job of every one of the million railroad employees sooner or later would become a political prize, with merit and experience taking a back seat.

Moreover, it is reasonable to assume that the sources of the railroads' supply of materials would not long remain privately owned. And, since railroads buy, for example, 22 per cent of all the coal that is mined, 16 per cent of all the steel and 16 per cent of all the lumber manufactured, thus providing much of the backlog of these basic industries, how long do you suppose it would be before these, too, would come under the control of the federal bureaucracy?

FUTURE NRA POLICY

By DONALD R. RICHBERG Director National Emergency Council.

M ANY of those who in recent months helped to raise the Blue Eagle now feel that we might have moved more rapidly toward a clearer understanding of our purpose had we chosen not an emblem of force but a symbol of peace and co-operation to dignify adherence to a code of

Yet, how can we go forward without exerting force against those who will always obstruct progress for narrow, selfish aims, who will never play the game fair unless the rules are enforced against them? Somehow these dissenting groups, whether moved by prejudice or evil purpose, must be prevented from destroying the virtuous effort of a majority to make a success of self-government.

CONTINUING NRA

By JOSEPH ROBINSON U. S. Senator From Arkansas

THE contributions of the program for industrial recovery have been spread over the entire range of industry and commerce Even those witnesses before the senate committee on finance who opposed extension of the law admitted that, under the codes, their industries have changed from unprofitable to generally profitable.

Amendments to the act have been worked out and proposed in the light of experience. To abandon the NRA under present conditions would invite the return of the evils from which in dustry was suffering when the statute was passed.

THE REPUBLICAN JOB

By ARTHUR CAPPER S. Senator From Kansas.

ITS job is to determine how much individualism we can retain, how many parts of our national economy must be owned in common or controlled in common.

In other words, we have got to make a new definition of public utilities and draw a line between the public utility and the private business. That line should be drawn in the public interest of course.

We must work to retain a democratic system of government under the Constitution that will make government, finance, industry and business serve the people. The welfare of the people is Quite the neatest trick we've observed for a long time is this cleverly arranged, yet delightfully simple, home frock. Especially nice for those of us who gain and lose weight or who just naturally love a smart looking wrap-around for sheer comfort and convenience. And, of course, a boon to expectant mothers. Note how the belt slips through a slit and may be simply adjusted to fit the figure. Meanwhile, one has stepped right into it as into a coat. No petticoat needed. Nice shoulders and back, aren't they? Most attractive in solid color cotton broadcloth or printed or plaid cotton of any sort. #### CHEW YOUR FOOD

WHAT are your teeth for? They are placed in the mouth as the first aids in digestion. Their loss throws an additional burden upon the balance of the alimentary apparatus, which is frequently unable to stand the strain.

The chain of events following insufficient mastication is so large that heavy doses of powders and pills and the payment of doctors' bills cannot remedy what might easily have been remedled by a little care in the begin-

Thorough mastication can only be accomplished by proper and sufficient teeth. Modern man lives largely on a herbivorous diet. The more herbivorous an animal the greater the necessity for thorough chewing of the food. It has been proved by scientific experiments that those who bolt their food, those who have insufficient teeth or no teeth, lose 20 per cent of their vegetable food, three-fourths of their entire neurishment and 70 to 80 per cent of their food fill.

Food which is appetizing and pleasant to the palate is not completely nutritious unless thoroughly chewed. Mastication grinds and mixes the food with the saliva which starts the neces sary chemical changes in the starches and sugars. It also excites the secretions of the gastric juice. Thoroughly chewed food reaches the stomach in which a sufficient amount of pepsin, rennin and hydrochloric acid awaits it. The transformation of food into nourishing body stuff begins here.

Most of us eat too much. This is due to haste, nervousness, bolting, the inability to chew food properly, and because many foods are prepared so they may be eaten without chewing.

This in turn causes a stagnation of the cells that produce the digestive fluids. Sufficient hydrochloric acid is not secreted to prevent fermentation Fermentation manufactures gases. Micro-organisms, mixed with food under these conditions, produce ptomaine and other poisons. Food poisons, the result of incomplete or improper digestion, together with micro-organisms from dirty mouths, produce the symptoms covered by the term auto-intoxication.

The certain cure for eating too much food is careful and proper chewing. This can only be accomplished by an efficient masticating apparatus. Anyone may demonstrate the truth of this statement by a trial.

FORTY TO FORTY-FIVE

SOMEWHERE between these ages a man has usually reached the highest point of his efficiency, and from then on it is a question of continued vigilance to keep from sliding rapidly down the grade that has only one end for us all.

You don't need to be a health fanatic, but it is well to ask yourself when you reach this age, if you are really 100 per cent well. Don't you occasionally have a headache. little attacks of indigestion, constipation, or sleepless nights once in a while? These apparently little insignificant things, but are really nature's warning that it is time to look after yourself.

Not many of us will follow this out even when we know it is for our own good, but simple cleanliness will accomplish wonders, and we should all take time to keep clean, especially our mouths.

When we get up into the forties it becomes more and more common to hear that some of our friends have been stricken. The older we get the oftener we lose some good old friend that was apparently in good health only a few days or weeks before. Perhaps the last time you saw him you remarked how good he looked. Don't these things ever make you think? Could you, too?

Death which is not accidental to due to the effects of the action of micro-organisms, a result that might be acute and sudden, or chronic and slow, in its termination. These microorganisms usually have some small focus of existence and growth, and that point is usually where everything must enter the system, the mouch These micro-organisms are found at the apex of a dead tooth, in pyorrhea, around unsanitary dental work.

There can be no doubt that these causes are responsible for more deaths and misery than war and whisky combined. The only reason we don't try to eliminate it is that it works silently, while war and whisky create a lot of noise and are more or less spectacular. Even diseases that are not caused directly by unsanitary mouth conditions are greatly aggravated by them, through a lowering of the resistance When you feel below par and have lost your pep, some little bug is get-ting in its work. When the blood stream is constantly poisoned by pus germs continuously pouring into the system there must come a time when the resistance is broken down and you limp along like an automobile on a

Flower-Adorned Gowns of Real Silk

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

RASHION is recapturing the elegancies and enchantments which bespeak a truly feminine season. This message of a return to the exquisite. the aesthetic, the lovely and alluring matter of dress is being told in countless beguiling trends.

A most happy evidence of increasing sentiment expressed for the sweetly feminine in dress, is the revival of that charming custom of wearing flowers, carrying flowers and trimming prettiest gowns with flowers. No need to tell you the fascinating things designers are doing with flowers, the illustration herewith speaks for itself.

Another evidence of the dawn of a new era of exquisitely feminine fashions is the re-enthronement of silk. real genuine "all-silk," mind you.

This call for real silk from those of discriminating taste is not a mere passing fancy but rather a sense of fabric identification which is developing among the fair sex. We are coming to know that such terms as crepe, satin, taffeta and the like, are not necessarily silk, and when they are, should be called silk crepe, silk satin, silk taffeta, and so on. The duo theme of flowers and real silk sounds enticing-and is it? For answer, please refer to the trio of adorable evening creations in the accompanying picture. It adds a glamorous note to these distinguished and exquisite medes that they were selected for illustration from among a collection of costumes entered exclusively by soci-

FOWL POX WEAKENS NEW LAYING CROPS

Poultry

Disease May Strike at Any Time of Year.

Supplied by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, -WNU Service

No matter how high poultry prices may go next fall and winter, the new crop of layers which farmers are now building up will never be profitable if fowl pox gains a foothold.

Outbreaks of fowl pox, if promptly diagnosed, may be suppressed by proper cleaning and disinfection of the premises and by destruction of all infected birds. If a large number of fowls are infected, destruction is not so practical a measure as sanitation coupled with vaccination.

While the disease may be more frequent during the coming fall and winter months, it may occur at any time of the year. Chickens and turkeys of all ages are susceptible to fowl pox. but the effects are more serious in young cockerels and pullets than in mature fowls. The death rate in young stock may be high in some outbreaks. Fowls that do recover often are stunted. In pullets that are laying and in older laying stock, the malady lowers production and in some cases stops it

All birds in the flock should be vaccinated if symptoms of the disease are detected or if there is danger of fowl pox being introduced into the flock. Either fowl pox or pigeon pox vaccine may be used, but pigeon pox vaccine is less effective. Its use is best limited to cases where a severe reaction may cut egg production or injure weak birds. Immunity to the disease lasts from six months to the life of the

The best time for vaccinating flocks of infected premises is in late summer, at least two months before the birds begin to lay. Pullets that are to be vaccinated should be given sufficient time to recover completely from the effects of the handling and treatment before entering production.

Eggs for the Incubator

Need Careful Attention Eggs to be used in an incubator should be selected from healthy, vigorous hens that are good producers, says Prof. A. L. Romanoff of the department of poultry husbandry at Cornell university.

"Use eggs uniform in size, shape, and color and of good shell texture, because all of these qualities are transmitted to the new generation of chicks. Do not wash the eggs to be used in the incubator, as washing destroys the cuticle, an outside layer of the shell that keeps out harmful bacteria."

Professor Romanoff advises that eggs be kept only for a reasonable time before they are placed in the incubator. They should be protected from dust, dry or humid air, and extremely high or low temperatures. The wrong temperature may kill the developing chick even before incubation.

Cheap Chicks Prove Loss

Chicks sold for less than the cost of producing them should be looked upon with suspicion, asserts a writer in Capper's Weekly. Certainly one loses much more than the cost of the chicks when he feeds a bunch of weak ones that finally turn up their toes. He loses time, feed, and the opportunity to get early chicks started. That period of growing is something one cannot estimate as to worth.

Keeping only standard bred flocks

A breeding pen of 12 to 18 hens mated to a male bird of high pro-duction blood affords a good way to improve the poultry flock.

Litterings from the hay-mow make excellent bedding for chicks, being dry and absorbent and supplying bits of leaves and an occasional bug.

Net cost of raising a pullet last year averaged 49 cents, exclusive of labor, for 142 poultrymen who kept records in conjunction with the poultry department of the Ohio State university.

HAND-SHAKING OUT OF DATE?

Jugoslavians in Movement to Abolish It.

The formation of an Antihandshaking club in Yugoslavia is noted by the omniscient London Times, which remarks in approbation that trust ing one's right hand to a stranger is to give "the most valuable of hostages, and on occasion, as when mastering the left sleeve-link (one of the) indispensable allies in the battle of life.'

"This handshaking business" the editor continues, "used to be thought a quaint survival from the days when right hands held daggers or could draw swords; to place it in the keeping of another was to clear yourself of any dangerous intention or ability. Business men have often laughed to think how little meaning the ritual need have today when fighting and ambushes take other forms. Fascists and Nazis have learned to make a gesture more nearly combining the remembrance of antiquity with the action prescribed in diagrams of Swedish drill.

"The efficient Japanese combine the quest for physical fitness and agent-has some sensible views on social geniality by constant bowings from the hips, bringing important abdominal muscles into play and getting better exercise in proportion as ing brain. There are exceptions, of the obeisance is marked. The bow and the salute have this further advantage also, that they do not betray their makers as handshaking can. People who offer a hearty grip, with a 'Doctor Livingstone, I presume?' Impression that two strong white men have at last managed to meet, do not at all like it if their palm is hastily and lightly stroked, or if they are given a fleeting sense of a flabby and shapeless mass.

"There are secrets of handshak ing, hidden rituals and squeezes of the brotherhoods for those who enjoy them; but from these subtle pressures and convolutions of the fingers much unhappy fumbling and discomfort arises, for many a man has been thought to have been giving some secret sign when in fact he was merely trying to extricate his unhappy hand. An occasional handshake on a big occasion between the parties to an engagement or marriage, or other major partnerships, and on other important events, is all very well, an old custom and not a bad one. But when it grows to ludicrous lengths in the interests of salesmanship and a politeness without ordinary good will behind it, it is time to cry halt and to fill in the membership forms which will enable one, as of right, to extend, for once only, the right hand of fellowship to the stalwart men of Ljubljana."

Depression's End Seen for Peanut Industry

Some people have theories about the superiority of lower animals to the human race. They dalm, for instance, that animals eat enough, and having satisfied their appetites, quit. Therefore animals have few digestive disturbances. Of course, anyone who has tried to bring up a dog knows there is something wrong with the idea, but the theorists laugh off this objection by maintaining that the dog is almost human. Take th snake, they say; it eats, then lays off for days or weeks at a time,

Now comes the report from Chicago that the zoo animals are suffering from what the French call evil of the heart, but what we some times refer to as tummy-ache, from eating too many peanuts. They are being given the well-known and effective remedy.

We merely point out two thingsthat the ability of animals to restrain their appetites in the presence of peanuts has been overestimated by those who hold up animals as exemplars of dietary wisdom; and that the depression is over when kids KODAKERS LOOK! #### Scientists Claim Brain and Brawn Go Together The theory that brains and brawn go together was put forth recently by a group of scientists who had assembled to discuss the world's itte and how to cure them. A large chest expansion is a symbol of mental breadth, it was said, while a narrow chest denotes compressed intelligence. Children who are the best students, surveys have shown, are those with the biggest chests. Statistics were called in to show that more successful persons, as a rule, have more generous height and girth meanurements than their less fortunate neighbors. Thus the idea of brain power being associated with brawn has been elevated somewhat from the field of physical culture argu-

Among the statistics cited in support of the theory that larger dimensions are indicative of business success were those showing sales managers, on the average, to be twentyfive pounds heavier and one inch taller than salesmen. Railroad presidents appear to be thirty-one pounds heavier and one and one-half inches taller than station agents. The relative avoirdupois of generals and private soldiers was not given.

Regardless of the scientific explanations of these phenomena, the ordinary man-possibly the station the subject. "This inquiry does not mean that we are setting out to reduce the Texas case load to an arbitrary figure," said Mrs. Val M. Keating, director of the social service department of the Texas, Relief Commission. "It does mean, however, that we expect to determine the eligibility to relief of every client on oiur rolls. Such a check very like ly will reveal that in some counties the load is too high; in others that persons eligible to relief have not been so classified."

Special workers, directly responsi ble to the state relief office, are being sent into certain counties to conduct this re-registration. A questionaire will be used in interviews which, when answered and signed by the client, will contain the information upon which a dicision as to eligibility will be made.

In determination of budgetary deficiency, or lack of subsistence require ments, these workers will use a budget provided by Mrs. Keating's office. Instructions have been issued to reject all applicants whose incomes ex ceed the budget allowed. This budget is not uniform, Mrs. Keating said It varies according to conditions peculiar to counties and will be higher in some than in others. Supreme Court Kills NRA and Farm Mortgage Moratorium Act-New Dealers, Congress and Business Uncertain About Future Action.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

Supreme Court of the United States shook the New Deal to its very foun-In the first and most important, read by Chief Justice Hughes, the heart was cut out of the NRA, for the court ruled that the entire code structure of the act was invalid, the ode making provitions being an unconstitutional delegation by congress of its authority to legislate to persons not connected with the government's legislative functions.

By the ruling the exercise of congressional powers over commerce was definitely restricted to interstate commerce, or to such activities as have a provable direct connection with interstate commerce. The court held that no economic emergency could justify the breaking down of the limitations upon federal authority as prescribed by the Constitution or of those powers reserved to the state through the failure of the Constitution to place them

Next in importance was the decision read by Justice Brandeis, holding unconstitutional the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium act. This law provided for a five year moratorium in the case of collapse of efforts to scale down a farmer's debts to a figure that would enable him to pay off his mortgage. The court held that under the Fifth amendment to the Constitution private property could not be taken without just compensation. There has been no previous instance, the court said, where a mortgage was forced to relinquish property to a mortgagor free of lien unless the debt was paid in full.

In the third decision President Roosevelt's dismissal of the late William E. Humphrey from the federal trade commission was held illegal because the President did not remove Mr. Humphrey for the statutory grounds of inefficiency, neglect of duty or malfeasance in office, but, as the President stated, because their minds did not meet upon the policies or administration of the commission. The court held that trade commissioners' terms are fixed by law.

THERE was consternation and con-fusion among the administration forces in Washington, and no one could say immediately just how much the New Deal had been damaged or what could be done to repair the damage to its structure. Donald Richberg, chairman of the national industrial recovery board, after a White House conference, issued a statement saying that "all methods of compulsory enforcement of the codes will be immediately In order that he may have an income

The question of the constitutionality of the Wagner labor disputes bill, passed by the senate, was raised by the NRA decision. The opinion was widely expressed that collective bargaining now cannot be enforced in any business enterprise by federal statute.

In the senate demands were voiced to recommit to the committee on agriculture the amendments strengthening the AAA. Senator W. E. Borah said that the NRA decision clearly raises the question of the validity of much AAA procedure.

BUSINESS was as confused as congress and the administration after the killing of NRA. Heads of many large employing corporations intimated they would not make wage reductions or lengthen the work hours just because the way was open for such action, but always there was the qualifying statement, "It depends on what our competitors do." The big concerns would prefer to maintain the code hours and wages, but the smaller merchants and manufacturers, who were hardest hit by the code requirements, might depart from them enough to demoralize prices.

Among the dozens of national trade associations whose officers urged members to maintain wages and otherwise to continue the status quo are those of the automobile manufacturers, autemobile dealers, chemical industry, retail dry goods dealers, cotton manufacturers, cement makers, oil industry, wholesale grocers, and grocery chain store distributors.

Harper Sibley, recently elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, called upon American industry and business men to preserve for the present wages and work hours established under the NRA.

Instead of cutting wages Standard Oil company of New Jersey and the Tide Water Oil company announced an increase of 5 per cent in salaries and wages, effective June 1. The United Textile Workers, 350,000 in number, threaten to strike if any mills cut wages. And there is also a chance that 450,000 bituminous coal miners will go on strike because there is no wage agreement with the operators and a scale conference collapsed.

> CTING with surprising suddenness, Athe senate passed the Copeland-Tugwell food, drug and cosmetic bill, which had been modified to meet the objections of Senators Clark, Bailey and Vandenberg. Dr. Copeland said he believed it would get through the house without difficulty. President Roosevelt favors the measure.

> The bill greatly increases the scope of the 1906 food and drug act, in the definitions of adulterated or misbranded articles, and provides penalties of a year in jail or a $1,000 fine for viola-

It was designed originally to permit the secretary of agriculture to order wholesale seizures, which would permit the destruction of a business, if deemed the articles in question adulterated. As amended, however only a single article may be seized pending a court hearing. Exceptions may be made if there is "imminent danger" to public health.

Originally, also, the bill provided severe penalties for publishers and radio broadcasting companies, as well as advertisers, for violations of regulations to be laid down by the Department of Agriculture. This was changed so that no publisher, radio broadcasting company, advertising agency, or other medium for the dissemination of advertising may be deemed to have violated the "false advertising" provisions unless they refuse to furnish the name and address of the advertiser.

THIS WEEK

Goodby, NRA Wall Street's Dormouse Good Wages, Short Hours Lottery Swindles

The Supreme court unanimously declares NRA unconstitutional.

High judges, whose decision no body can veto, short of a constitutional amendment, say congress must its work and cannot abdicate in favor of the Chief Executive. The most important decision in many years, this probably maket further argument about extension of NRA unnecessary.

You can't extend that which is dead. American business men may now resume business not led by the kindly light of professors and others.

Alice's puzzled Dormouse, at the Mad Hatter's tea party, could not understand his watch, that would not keep time, although the Dormouse did verything. He dipped the watch in his tea, put butter in the works. "It was the best butter," he said, "but nothing seems to please it."

The stock exchange is something like that watch-nothing seems to please it.

At first, stock broker gentlemen, whose "Kaaba stone" is the stock ticker, began a weird dance of joy when they heard that NRA was dead, and pushed up stock prices.

Then, suddenly, as the day wore on, one broker asked another, and every broker asked every other broker, "How do we know what is coming next?" And then they put the prices down.

It is announced, but not by Mr. Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, that a great strike will be called in protest against the Supreme court's NRA decision. Mr. Green is too wise to permit, if he can prevent it, a strike against the United States Supreme court. He may, should, and probably will, take a wiser course and work, as organized labor has worked successfully for generations, to improve working conditions.

Some union men know that wages, hours and other conditions improved in the old way are more durable than increased pay based on political flat.

It is necessary for some one to provide as well as for some one to take it.

Peddlers of tickets in the Havana lottery send out "come-on" letters, trying to sell tickets to foolish Americans. On one such letter this is printed:

"Arthur Brisbane says large sums of . are won by Americans buying foreign tickets."

What Arthur Brisbane has said, and now repeats, is that through foreign lottery schemes Americans are swindled out of large sums. He who invests in a lottery throws away his noney, adding foolishness to incapacity. The Havana lottery is as much of a trap for fools as any other lot-

Postmaster Farley's plan to hasten air mails allows a crowd of 10,000 to see a whirling autogiro drop down on the roof and deliver mail, another autogiro coming to get mail bags and carry them away.

Mr. Farley's plan is to have the autogiro fly between outlying flying fields. where high-power, fast planes land, and carry mail bags to the roofs of city post offices, saving time lost in slow street travel.

One branch of the Standard Oil company, the New Jersey branch, managed by Mr. Teagle, notifies 6,000 of a bonus of 5 per cent added to their pay envelopes to meet the higher cost of living.

With no sign of smoke, flame, crater -nothing to indicate an extinct volcano-a new and live volcano suddenly begins eruption in an out-of-theway place in Iceland. A great hole appears in the earth, flames and redhot lava rise. No overflowing of neighboring farms as yet.

What would natives have thought had this happened in earlier days, when everybody believed that hel!, the devil and all his wickedness were just beneath our feet and heaven just over our heads?

Postmaster General Farley thinks of printing on all postage stamps, Susum Corda, which means "Lift up your hearts." He sees a great summer ahead, "a summer of content."

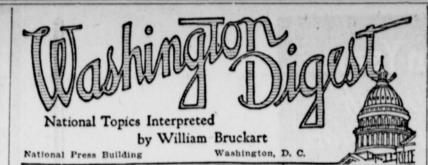

"Car loadings," says the postmaster general, "are up," incomes reported by our taxpayers "are up," "more people are buying automobiles than before.

For some, the big news is that Little the San Francisco golfer, has defeated Doctor Tweddell, the British challenger. For others, more important news is the killing of 300 Chinese by Japanese troops. The 300 killed are said to have been professional bandits. The killing of 300 armed Chinese bandits cost the lives of only six Japanese. which sounds like efficiency.

Washington. - President Roosevelt | announced a year ago that the Tennessee Valley au-Probing thority and the experiment of government production of electric power on a huge scale was to serve as a yardstick on electric rates charged by private power companies. Lately, J. R. McCarl, comptroller general of the United States, has had his bookkeeping sleuths at work on the records of the Tennessee Valley authority, it being a government cor-Mr. McCarl was not concerned about the yardstick for power rates nor was he interested in experiments designed to prove the value of government ownership in the power field. His job was to determine what had happened to all of the money that had been taken from the treasury and spent in the effort to transform the Tennessee valley into a modern Garden of Eden.

It happened that Mr. McCarl's report on the audit of TVA affairs was made public coincidentally with a movement by the TVA directors for new legislation-amendments to their basic law which would give them additional authority. This circumstance resulted in the TVA and its yardstick being examined by a congressional committee under the strong lens of a magnifying glass. I believe it is generally agreed that TVA suffered in prestige, and government ownership advocates came off second best because disclosures before the committee were of such a nature as to convince most sound thinking observers that there is a colored gentleman in the TVA woodpile.

For instance, Mr. McCarl showed in his report that the federal government had expended a total of $132,-792,000 in development of the power facilities, equipment and necessary appurtenances. This property was transferred by the federal government to the Tennessee Valley authority, a corporation, and is carried on the corporation books at $51,000,000, This is 38 per cent of the actual cost to the taxpayers of the property trans-

Disclosures of this fact brought many charges in the course of the committee hearing and led to the conclusion by several house members that no electric rate based upon 38 per cent of the cost of the production facilities could be considered honest. In other words, the thought was that a yardstick based on such a method of calculating investment necessarily would have to be made of rubber.

Mr. McCarl told the committee also that he had found various haphazard and "trick" methods "Trick" of bookkeeping and Bookkeeping that he had found it necessary to disallow expenditures of something over two million dollars which he said were illegal. The comptroller general did not refer to these expenditures as having been fraudulently made but he told the committee it was his opinion that the law had to be stretched rather far by any spending agency to construe the payments as justifiable.

The comptroller general took sharp exception to the bookkeeping methods used by the TVA. It is upon these records that the electric rate is based. Likewise it is upon the basis of these records that the TVA must show whether it has earned a profit.

"Despite the apparently excessive depreciated value at which the Muscle Shoals property was taken up on the books, the authority is not using the valuation basis for depreciation but instead is basing depreciation on the earnings from the sale of power by charging 10 per cent of the gross revenue to operations as depreciation and accumulating the amount of such charges as a reserve for depreciation.

"Assuming a very conservative rate of valuation consumption for example, 2 per cent, the amount of depreciation, based upon the value at which the properties in question were capitalized by the authority, would be approximately $1,000,000 per annum.

"A larger revenue will proportionately increase the reserve for depreclation at the present 10 per cent method of amortization, but to accumulate a reserve on the 10 per cent plan equivalent to the amount that would be charged to depreciation on a valuation basis at 2 per cent, the gross revenues would have to be more than ten times the present amount or about $10,000,000 per annum.

"There is very little basis for assuming that revenues will ever reach such a figure."

The comptroller's report touched on many other phases of TVA affairs which he found sub-Much to ject to criticism and it made mention of Criticise a factor that, it seems to me, ought to be of vital importance to communities throughout the country. That factor is taxation. It is to be remembered that government agencies, federal, national, state or local, pay no taxes into the treasury of its jurisdiction. Consequently, the government which fosters a municipally owned power plant simply must forget, for taxation purposes, that such property exists within its domain. Likewise, such a plant is not required to consider interests on the investment in the shape of dividends to the stockholders who, in turn, pay taxes on their income.

Doctor Morgan and other directors of the TVA were subjected to questioning of a type about as severe as any witnesses before a house commitin recent months. They had friends on the committee who attempted continuously to shield them from the fire of TVA opponents, but apparently Chairman McSwain was unable to choke off the attack by such men as Representative McLean of New Jersey and others who doubt the ad visability of the federal government engaging in power production.

There appeared just no way at all in which friendly members of the house committee could justify the action of the TVA board in its attempts to block private power development. It was shown in the course of the hearing that the TVA had gone far away from its base of operations to buy two small parcels of land-one not much larger than a city block and the other only a few acres in extent. Under questioning, TVA directors ad mitted this land lay in the middle of a proposed reservoir planned by a pri vate power corporation. In acquiring the parcels of land the TVA made it impossible for the private interests to proceed with their power development because the land in question would have been in the middle of the reservoir 300 feet under water. The pri vate interests could not force the TVA to sell and without that land the whole reservoir program was destroyed.

The TVA probably will win and obtain the amendments its board of directors desire. There are public own ership advocates in sufficient strength to carry out the President's idea in going ahead with the TVA development. It is made to appear, neverthe less, that as a result of the disclos ures before the house committee, TVA may not henceforth proceed in a manner quite so arrogant.

Politics is politics and apparently politicians will play the game always. If better proof be Playing needed, it seems to me the demonstrathe Game tion over immediate payment of the cash bonus to war veterans will suffice. The bonus has been licked for this session of congress but all indications point to a belief that the country may not be so lucky in the next session of congress which is not far ahead of the 1936 elections. An organized minority-the World war veterans-were very close to success in forcing congress to appropriate $2,600,000,000 and pay it over to them. They failed because President Roosevelt-like three Presidents before him -had to view the problem from the standpoint of the country's welfare and not the welfare of this minority. Credit is due the President for the stand he took just as credit was du-Presidents Hoover, Coolidge and Harding. He will be criticized and at tacked by this local minority just as the others were criticized and attacked. While a veto message is regarded by many as not being as strong as it might have been, nevertheless Mr. Roosevelt was firm and his firm ness gave courage to enough senators to avoid the debacle of additional

I am informed that the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and various and sundry other organizations of former soldiers, sailors and marines are prepared for a bitter fight next year against those representatives and senators who dared to oppose cash payment of the bonus now when it is not due until 1945. The sol diers' lobby is the greatest and most expensive lobby in Washington now. It knows its power and it does not hesitate to characterize opponents of the cash bonus as traitors. The lobbyists are certain to go into every state and congressional district next sum mer and seek to defeat those who dared to follow their own conscience and vote against this raid on the treas-

As a result of the vote on the bonus and the subsequent Presidential veto some keen political observers have begun to calculate in their own minds what the view of the country is. It was pointed out, for example, that a maximum of four million would be entitled to a bonus. At the same time attention was called to the fact that new voters are arriving at the age of franchise at the rate of approximately two million a year or almost thirtysix million since the end of the World war. These observers contend that the new voters and those who are not entitled to the bonus constitute a majority. Thus, they seek to show that there is a great majority of the voters of the country unwilling to see such a sum of money voted to a minority, especially at a time when the government is taxing its cittzens and borrowing in billions to give relief to all whether they fought for their country or not. The question is then whether the politicians will wake up in time to represent the majority or be fooled by the power of a highly organized minority.

BEVERLY HILLS .- Well all I know is just what I read in the papers or what I see here and there. Couple of weeks ago we were up on the Sacramento River making a movie. We had a fine time. They are great folks up around there. Well they are nice folks everywhere. Their Legislature was in session, and they had just stayed their 100 days, thats all they are paid for. and it was pretty tough on the old boys at that, to stay there and not get paid, so from then all they got was cussing. Before, they got paid and cussing combined, but they eliminated the pay.

Well sir I had a happy experience. I knew he was up there somewhere, I dident know just where, as I hear from him every little while, but I hadent seen him in years, that was Buck Mc-Kee. Buck McKee was the cowboy that used to work with me in a vaudeville act and rode the horse, or little cowpony rather, Teddy. He trained in the pony for the stage. He wasent any trick pony, he just worked on a smooth board stage, with felt bottom boots buckled on his feet like goloshes, and run for my fancy roping catches. But Buck trained him to do on a slick stage just about what a good turning cowpony can do on the ground.

We started the act in the spring of 1905, just exactly 30 years to a week from when I met Buck up in Sacramento. He was with me for I think it was four or five years. We made two trips to Europe togeather. We went over just one year after I had opened on the stage. That was in the spring of 1906. We went to the Winter Garden Theatre in Berlin, that was the Premier Vaudeville Theatre of all Europe. We played there a month. The act was quite a novelty, as it was the first one to ever use a running horse to be lassoed at on the stage. Buck was, (and is) a great fellow, very efficient, and can do almost anything and the best thing is that everybody liked him. I never meet an old time actor that we used to play with in vaudeville that dont ask about, "Where is that fellow Buck Mc-Kee that was with you so long that used to ride Teddy?"

Well he is at Roseville, Cal., a beautiful little town about 20 miles out of Sacramento toward Reno, Nev. He still is hardling horses, the thing he does best in the world. He runs a riding academy about two miles out of town at the "Whipple Ranch," has been there 12 years, Everybody knows and likes him as usual. His wife Maudy is with him. She was a dancer in a vaudeville act that we played on the bill with. They fell in love and were married, and she has developed into a splendid horsewoman, and they are excellant teachers and they have learned many young and old people both to ride, and ride correctly, and above all they are so good to their horses, lots of patience. and real love for a horse. He was breaking in some lovely young horses, making gaited horses out of them. He has a fine thoroughbred stallion, and is raising a few young ones himself. It was

We come back from Berlin to London and played the Palace Theatre there. then we went back to London in 1908. We played in that very Sacramento in the hot summer of 1907 on what was ealled the Sullivan and Considine Circuit. J. C. Nugent the splendid actor and playwright, with all his talented family was on the bill and Billy Hanlons was our hang out. He is now the proprietor of the big and fine Senator Hotel in Sacramento. We just stood and looked at each other that day, Buck and I. Here thirty years ago we had stepped on the stage togeather, only he was on horseback. He always said. "I can get away if anything happens, but the audience can get you." Those were great old days, (but darn it any old days are great old days. Even the tough ones, after they are over, you can look back on with great memorys).

I was married too in 1908. And sometimes the salary wasent any too big to ship Buck and his wife and Teddy, and my wife and self, to the next town. In fact I think Buck rode some of the short jumps. It was great fun, not a worry I regret the loss of vaudeville more than any part of it. It was the greatest form of entertain ment ever conceived. Nothing in the world ever give the satisfaction of a good vaudeville show. We was mighty proud to be playing in it. It had class in those days. Buck looks fine, no older. and of course I am just practically a babe in arms yet. But I just knew lots of old friends and old timers would want to know about Buck. Roseville, Cal., will eatch him. Speaking of catching him, I bet he has been roped, (and missed too) more times than any man in the world. He did look great when he come charging in on that stage with that beautiful little brown pony. Well old timers talk too much so I must shut up. @ 1935, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Under the leadership of Cole Hendron. noted American scientist, over 300 per-sons escape in two Space Ships just before a cosmic collision wiped out the earth, and land on Bronson Beta. Giant meteors, fragments of the earth's moon, fall in their vicinity, but none of Hendron's colonists is hurt. A river bottom green with vegetation is found, and great forests of dead trees, preserved for a million years by the absolute cold of space. An airplane, which disappears almost immediately. flies over the camp, making no attempt to communicate with its people, who realize that they are not alone on the new planet, and that their visitors may be enemies. Tony Drake and Eliot James, in an exploration airplane flight, come upon a wondrous city, en-closed under what seems like half an iridescent glass bubble. Among their flads, in the city, is an edible grain— millions of bushels. On their flight millions of bushels. On their flight back they come upon the camp of more than 200 persons who left the earth when they did, in a second Space Ship

"Sure," the girl answered. She smiled buoyantly and returned.

Ransdell looked at her thoughtfully, sipped his coffee, and shook his head. Then he continued privately to Tony: "She's really a moron, I suppose. I doubt if Hendron will approve of having a moron in our company; but her empty-headedness, her astonishment at everything, even her ignorance, which is pretty naive, have de lighted everybody. And she did a big thing for us."

"What did she do?" Tony asked. "The second night we were here Eberville went mad. He decided early in the evening that it was against the will of God for us to be here, and that we should all be destroyed. But he quieted down, and he was left alone. Later he got up, got into the ship, started the only generator that would work, and turned on one of the lateral tubes. In the morning you could see a big black patch about four hundred yards to the left of where we were camped. He'd have wiped us out in ten seconds, but Marian jumped on him. She's strong. So was Eber-ville, insanely strong. But she has teeth and nails. That is why we all escaped annihilation a second time."

Suddenly Tony got up. Hendron, he remembered, knew nothing of their discoveries and events. He could delay no longer his return to Hendron. But when he suggested to Ellot James that they return, others would not allow it.

"Not both of you! . . . You haven't both got to go!'

There was altogether too much yet to tell, and to hear.

"Let Ellot stay here, Tony," Dave Ransdell said. "I'll go to Hendron with you. I ought to report to him; and I want so much to see him."

They were in the air. In the plane with them they freighted a fair half of the objects intelligible and unintelligible, which Tony and Eliot had brought from the Sealed City. With them was also Eliot James' record.

It was dawn; the slow sunrise of Bronson Beta was spreading its first faint shafts across the sky. They sighted, far ahead, columns of smoke lifted lazily into the sky. Ransdell pointed and Tony, leaning to his ear, shouted, "Our campfires! Our camp!"

The camp seemed unchanged; it was safe. Tony glanced aside and surprised Ransdell, as he stared down. What thousand shattering fragments of thoughts must fill Ransdell's mind! One-and Tony plainly could see itoverwhelmed all the rest. Here, below, was Eve Hendron.

For it was a sudden softness and yearning that was in the eyes of the broad-shouldered. Herculean man ar Tony's side. What would be in Eve's eyes when she saw him?

Eve always had admired Dave and liked him-and more More, yes, more than liked him, during those last des perate days on earth. Now he was here; and he had done well. Anyone would say-Hendron himself would declare-that Dave Ransdell had done well indeed to have brought across space the ship intrusted to him with loss of less than half the party. Ransdell would be greeted ecstatically as a Tony caught his lip between his teeth and tried to establish better control of his inward tumult. If Eve preferred Dave to himself, let her!

He busted himself grimly with his throttles, putting down the ship on the bare soli more than a mile from

They had been seen in the air and recognized, and the camp was outpouring toward them.

Tony and Dave started to run toward them; then they halted. The people from the camp began to see that one figure was not that of Ellot

"Who is it? Who's with you?" came velled; and Dave stopped and lifted both his arms.

"Ransdell! Ransdell?" came back. "Yes! They got over! The second ship got over!

Then the welcome began. "Tony," said Ransdell later, when for an instant they had a few words. 'how Hendron's changed!"

"Yes," said Tony, "of course he has." But he realized that to Ransdell, who had not seen their leader since the last day on earth, the alteration in Hendron's appearance and manner was more tragic.

Never had Tony heard Hendron's voice shake as now it did; and his hand, which clung to the list which Ransdell had given him, quivered as if with palsy.

It was the list of the survivors and of the dead from the second Ark. He had read it several times; but again and again, like a very old man, he went over it. "It was the tubes, you say, David?"

he kept reviewing the disaster at landing, with Ransdell. "Three of the tubes fused! That was the fault of the design-my fault," he blamed himself morbidly.

"Father!" whispered his daughter to him. "Father, you ought to be happier than any other man in the world."

"In the world!" repeated Hendron. "In all the universe!" Eve quickly corrected. "You brought all the people in our ship over safely; and more than three hundred in the other Ark! Oh, Father, Father, no man in the universe could have done more,

Hendron shook his head. "These people here, of whom Tony has told us. What metallurgists! They would have made a ship. Ah! Ah! Ah! Tony David-Higgins! The rest of you! What do you think of this? The peo ple of this planet are not here because they made good their escape through Space! They made their own Space Ships and better ones and more of them; and escaped when they were passing some habitable sphere as they scraped some star!"

"No. Father!" "How do you know? I tell you, they probably did it; and accomplished it so much better than I, with my bungling, that I am an amateur-a murderer. How many did I kill, David? How many did you say? . . . What rows of names?"

"Father, you didn't kill them!" "I tell you I did! The tubes fusedthe tubes I figured and designed myself. The human factor did not fail. They piloted it properly. The tubes fused!

No one could quiet him. His daughter had to lead him away, with Tony and Ransdell both helping her. The excitement of Ransdell's news and, on top of it, Tony's, had snapped his nerves, drawn too long to extreme tension. It was perfectly plain to all the company whom he had led that his day, as a man of resource, was done.

Tony, thoroughly realizing this, trembled himself as he helped lead his friend to his cabin. Partly it was from pity and compassion; for no one knew better than Tony with what merciless ness Hendron had driven himself and how he had borne so long his enormous burden. But partly this trembling was from an emotion far less worthy. It was jealousy again of Dave Ransdell.

Jealousy more bitter and hard than that which had possessed him when they both were on earth-and rivals. For here they were rivals again and with the conflict between them ac-

How Eve had hugged Dave and held to him and kissed him!

To be sure, they had all embraced him-men and girls. Every girl in the camp hysterically had kissed him. But Eve had not been hysterical, Tony knew. Eve-Eve-Well, it had changed this world for her that Dave Ransdell had reached it.

Then there was the talk which Tony had heard: the talk already tonight of Ransdell as the new leader of both camps; the leader of the survivors of Earth to replace and follow Hendron, Tony tingled alternately with hate of Dave and with shame at himself, as he thought of this talk. He had quiet ed the talk of himself as leader and he honestly had not wanted it a few days ago; he would not permit himself to be considered a candidate against Hendron: but now that Hendron was surely done, he wanted his people-his people, he thought themto want him for their leader. And some still did; but more, he thought miserably, tonight turned to Dave Ransdell.

This was unworthy: this was childish, this jealousy and hate of his strong courageous comrade! So Tony told himself; but he could not conquer it.

Now they had come to Hendron's cabin; and Tony felt himself becoming officious in the endeavor to be of more use to Hendron and to Eve than Dave

"Thank you, Tony," said Eve, in her gentle voice. "Now you go back to the

"All right," said Tony. "Come along, Dave."

"Let him stay here, Tony," said Eve. "Him-and not me?" Tony stared. "What more can he tell them?" Eve asked patiently. "He's given them his news, who're living and who"- she lowered her voice carefully so her father could not hear-"who are dead. He has no more to tell. You-you haven't begun to tell them what you must have to tell of the strange city!"

"Don't you want to hear it?" Tony "I'm staying with Father now," said

Rebelliously—and yet ashamed of himself for his feeling—Tony turned away and left her with Ransdell,

The best way to give you some idea

"Ransdell! Dave Ransdell!" Tony | of the city," Tony said, facing the entire company of the camp except Hendron and Eve, "is to read you extracts from the record made, on the spot at the time, by Eliot James. Before I begin, however, I ask you to think of a city made of many colored metals built like the spokes of a wheel around a vast central building. Think of a dome of transparent metal over it. And then remember, particularly while I read, that every street, every building, every object in the whole metropolis was in an amazing state of preservation. "Remember that there was not single sign of human habitation. I have already told you that the people were human-very much like ourselves -but there was not a sign of them or any remains of them except for statues and paintings and representations which we called photographic for lack of a better word and for record on their remarkable visual machines. Bear all that in mind. Here, for example, is what Eliot wrote on the evening of our first day on Bronson Beta. I will skip the part that describes the city in general."

CHAPTER VI

Tony began to read from Eliot James' diary: "Tony and I are now seated in a bedroom of an apartment in one of the large buildings. The night of Bronson Beta has descended. but we have light. In fact, the adventure of light is the most bizarre which has befallen us since we penetrated this spectacular and silent city. As twilight descended we were about to return to our airpiane. We were at the time on the street. We had visited one or two buildings and the effect of the silence combined with the oncom-

'The Ground Floor Was a Hall, or Lobby, Which Was Decorated by Statuary and Bas-Reliefs of Ani mals More Fantastic and Ferocious Looking Than Could Be Contrived in the Wildest Night-

ing darkness was more than we could bear. I know that my scalp was tingling, the palms of my hands were clammy, and when I stood still I could feel my muscles shaking. We could not rid ourselves of the feeling that the city was inhabited; we could not cease looking quickly over our shoulders in the hope, or the fear, of seeing somebody. As we stood uncertainly on the street the sun vanished altogether, its orange light reflected by low-lying cumulus clouds. The sky took on a deeper green and at a word from Tony I would have run from the place. Sud denly, to our utter confoundation, the city was bathed in light. The light came on without a sound. Its source, or rather, its sources, were invisible. It shone down on the streets from behind cornices. It burst luminously upon the walls of the giant buildings.

"The interiors of many of them were also filled with radiance. All this, suddenly, silently, in the gathering gloom. I shall never forget the expression on Tony's face as he turned to me and whispered, 'It's too much!' My own mind, appalled at this new, marvelous manifestation of the genius of the Other People, was very close to lapsing into unconsciousness for a second. Then I found myself with my hands clenched, saving over and over to myself, 'It's light, just light. It was getting dark, so they turned on the lights.' Then I amended that to-The lights come on here when it's dark.' Immediately Tony and I fell into an altercation. 'It's just the lights coming on,' I said

"'But that's impossible!" "'Nevertheless, they're on.'

"Tony, searching frantically for the shreds of his sanity, replied, 'But if the lights come on every night in this city, we'd have seen it through tele-

"'Maybe we didn't happen to catch

"'It can't be.' "Both of us thought of the same thing simultaneously: the lights had come on because the city had been entered. It was true that if the cities of Bronson Beta had been illuminated at night the fact would have been observed before their passing. And a new and utterly irrational feeling struck us. The people were dead. dead a million years-a hundred million years. But in this startling gesture of turning on the lights there was more than mechanical magic. There was hospitality. That was crazy, but it was the way we felt. "'Let's stay,' Tony said. 'Maybe we can find a place to sleep. We really ought to know more about it before we go back!

"And so we stayed. We paked a building which we thought contained residences and after some experimenting succeeded in entering it. The ground floor was a hall, or lobby, which was decorated by statuary and bas reliefs, of animals more fantastic and ferocious-looking than could be con trived in the wildest nightmare. And yet their presentation had a gay note, as if the sculptor had set them as humorous, rather than savage, embeilishments in that lobby. At one side of the lobby was another large room which contained the apparatus for what we presently realized was a variety of games. They were like no games on our earth. One of them was played with large, metal-like balls which were extremely light and yet very hard, and with magnets. Another played over a pool, evidently with jets of water, but we could not turn on the jets and the pool was empty. We did not take the time to puzzle out the technique of these sports, but proceeded by a large staircase to the floor above. There, as we had hoped, we found apartments. One of them. which faced the street from which we had entered the building, was openand this we have made our own.'

As Tony turned a page, his listeners waited almost breathlessly. He continued from the record:

"It is an apartment of indescribable beauty. The living room is more than twenty feet in height. Its walls are decorated with metal figures in various colors. There is no rug on the floor, but the floor is of a texture not unlike that of a very fine, deep rug. There are mirrors on many faces of the walls-the Other People must have enjoyed looking at themselves, or else they must have liked the added effect of distance lent by the mirrors, for large reflecting panels seem to be an important part of their interior decoration. We have also found beds.

"There were two bedrooms. The beds are very low. We had, I imagine, assumed that they would be of a luxurious softness, but they are rather hard. so that in spite of their comforts the Other People must have been Spartans in some measure. Apparently there are closets and bureaus set in the walls, but we have not been able to get open the panels which cover them. We have also found a bathroom, but we cannot make anything of it. It is a beautiful chamber of all bright metals, the colors of which are gold and azure, but it is filled with fix tures and other gadgets of great in tricacy as well as beauty.

"We are leaving the problem of de ciphering the Bronson Betans' bathing and toilet-making for experts.

"However, we are quite comfortable in that part of our quarters which we have had the courage to occupy. It is now moderately late in the Bronson Beta night and we have decided to try to sleep. To be sure, we have placed a chair in the door to the hall so it will not magically close upon us, for although we are only one story above the street it is impossible to break these windows. We have also planned to keep our pistols at our sides, although a glance at this world of the Other People makes us quite sure that if there were any survivors and they were bent on our destruction, a re volver would be an extremely useless weapon. However, nobody has survived; of that we are convinced." Tony looked up and regarded his fas cinated audience. But Eve was not there; nor Ransdell. He tried to dis miss thought of this as he proceeded

"We did sleep, and we slept very well. However, we woke before the actual return of daylight, and feeling sufficiently refreshed, we decided to continue our explorations in the remarkable radiance of the artificial illumination which was so useful though so puzzling to us. You can scarcely understand how this affected us with the conviction that the place must be inhabited, and that around the next corner, beyond the next door, we must find some of the people. But we found no living things."

Tony looked up again. "I find here a number of pages of notes of the most sober sort. They are Eliot James' at tempt to describe and analyze some of the remarkable objects and imple ments we examined. Of course neither he nor I are physicists, chemists or engineers, so our notions are probably valueless; those of you who are more expert than either of us will undoubt edly soon have a chance to inspect the engines and implements of the Other

"The first thing we investigated was store. It was a department store, in the sense that it contained a great many kinds of things; but it did not contain, for example, clothes or, as far as we could discover, food. It had house furnishings, and furniture and kitchen appliances-and by the way, cooking must have been a cinch for the Other People, because apparently they cooked things by induced heat and under high pressure, with steam, so that it took only a few minutes. The store also exhibited some of those automobile-like vehicles like the one we found wrecked.

"In the store," he continued, "we also found a large department of games and sports, and one of children's toys. The children had very pe culiar blocks. Wires extended from their sides and corners so that they look like cockleburs and can be stuck together to make variously shaped figures in which the differently colored blocks are held apart by wires. It was Tony who solved the enigma of those blocks. 'Molecules,' he said, as we stood staring at them. And then I realized that each block was designed to represent an atom and that the children were taught by playing with the blocks the atomic structure of various elements.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—The Work of the Holy Spirit.

1. The Holy Spirit Promised (Joel 2:28, 29). The prophet foretold that in messianic times there would be a mighty effusion of the Holy Spirit. 1. He was to be poured out. He was to be bestowed upon all flesh, irrespective of age, sex, or class. 3. This out-pouring was to issue in extraordinary activity and service.

4. This activity was to be accompanied by marvelous signs. II. This Prophetic Promise Was Partially Fulfilled at Pentecost (Acts 2:1-21, 32, 33). The unusual behavior of the disciples at Pentecost, with Peter's preaching which resulted in the conversion of thousands, evidenced the supernatural, but the cosmic signs which the prophet predicted to take place in heaven and earth were not in evidence. The real fulfillment of the prophet's prediction is in the future and will find fulfillment in connection with tablishment of the Messianic Kingdom. IIL. Some Names of the Holy Spirit. 1. Comforter (John 14:16, 17). "Comforter" means literally called to one's side as a part taker, an advocate, a helper and defender." He is called "another Comforter" as he was to take the place of Jesus.

2. The Witness (John 15:26). The Spirit peculiarly witnesses of Christ. He does not speak of himself, but takes the things of Christ and shows them unto us (John 16: 13).

3. The Spirit of Truth (John 16:13). The Holy Spirit guides into all truth. Those who are taught by him know the truth. IV. Some Works of the Spirit.

1. He regenerates (John 3:3-8). The new birth is peculiarly the Spirit's work.

2. He teaches (John 14:26). The Holy Spirit was to take up the work of teaching the disciples. 3. Convicts the world of sin (John 16:8, 9). The Holy Spirit alone can show men the demerit of their lives and their shortcomings before God. 4. Convicts the world of righteousness (John 16:10). The resurrection and ascension of Christ prove that he is the Righteous One and that righteousness is only possible as he is accepted as Savior.

5. Convicts the world of judgment (John 16:11). Sin unatoned for shall be punished. The sinner who refuses the righteousness which God provided in Jesus Christ shall be judged. 6. Gives victory over the flesh

(Rom. 8:2, 12, 13). By the energy of the Holy Spirit the carnal nature can be kept in subjection. 7. He leads the believer (Rom.

8:14). The Spirit-filled believer lives the life of the Son of God. 8. He gives assurance to the believer (Rom. 8:15-17). The Hely Spirit witnesses together with the human spirit to the reality of the new 9. Enables the believer to pray according to the will of God (Rom.

8:26, 27). The Holy Spirit helps the bellever's infirmities in prayer. V. The Diversity of the Gifts of the Spirit (I Cor. 12:4-11). In the Church there are to be found those possessing the gifts of wisdom, faith, healing, miracles, prophecy, discernment of spirits, divers kinds of tougues and their interpretation.

VI The Sealing of the Spirit (Eph. 1 .13 14).

Into the regenerated life comes the Holy Spirit at once. The indwelling of the Divine Spirit is God's seal of ownership. It is not only a seal of ownership, but of security. It is also the guarantee of the completion of the work of redemption.

VII. The Unity of the Spirit (Eph. 4:1-6). Christian unity is only possible when effected by the one Holy Spirit.

VIII. The Sin of Grieving the Spirit

(Erb. 4:30). The Spirit may be grieved by failure to respond to his initiative, by yielding to the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye and the vainglory of life, by failure to render full and free obedience, as well as failure to surrender every faculty of the being to his control and direction.

Joy

Joy is the mainspring in the whole round of everlasting nature; joy moves the wheels of the great timepiece of the world; she it is that loosens flowers from their buds, suns from their firmaments, rolling spheres in distant space seen not by the glass of the astronomer.-Schiller.

Nobleness Be noble, and the nobleness that lies in other men, sleeping but never dead, will rise in majesty to meet thine own.

Pipe Surely Should Be

Broken in by This Time Hallin Hatem Ellis of Shawnee, Ohio, is smoking a pipe that dates back to 1656, when it was purchased by Ado Hatem, at Haman in Persia. He handed it down to Nader Hatem in 1700 and it went in turn to Aca Hatem in 1740; Soma Hatem in 1870, on to Alias Hatem in 1890, and to Hallin Hatem Ellis in 1905, says the Detroit News,

Without much fear of contradiction save from the occasional archeelogist who dares puff a clay pipe made by the mound-builders, Ellis may say when he sits down to draw the smoke through six feet of pipe stem that he is inhaling from the oldest pipe in active service in these United States.

Mounted on a glass bowl and standing 30 inches high, this aucient pipe is inlaid with ivory. When in operation, the glass bowl is filled with water, and the smoke is inhaled through the water from the tobacco bowl on top of the glass receptacle. The tobacco is soaked in water first, and is kept burning by means of charcoal.

WHEN LIVES ARE AT STAKE

You need the same protection that race drivers demand ASSEMBLE DELLA SERVICIONAL PROPERTY SERVICE

KELLY PETILLO ON MAY 30, WON the 500-Mile Indianapolis Race on Firestone Tires, breaking the track record and driving the entire distance at a rate of 106.24 miles per hour.

This record is an outstanding demonstration of tire efficiency. To go 500 miles in less than five hours on this rough and bumpy 26-year-old brick track, without tire trouble of any kind, demonstrates the strength and blowout protection that Firestone builds into their Gum-Dipped Tires.

AB JENKINS ALSO RECENTLY demonstrated the stamina, efficiency, and blowout protection built into Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. He drove his 5000 pound car over the hot salt beds at Lake Bonneville, Utah, 3000 miles in 231/2 hours. This was an average speed of 127.? miles per hour, and although temperatures were as high as 120°, he had no blowouts or tire trouble of any kind.

These records are made possible by special construction features built into Firestone Tires.

Take no chances—protect your life and the lives of others by letting us equip your car with Firestone Tires and give you the Safety and Blowout Protection that race drivers demand.

Before you buy new tires ask yourself these three questions

1-"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

'Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?"

"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can

ANSWER No. 1—Leading university tests show Firestone High Speed Tires stop your car 15% quicker than the best of all popular makes of tires.

ANSWER No. 2-Unequaled performance records for sixteen consecutive years prove that Gum-Dipping gives you the greatest blowout protection

ANSWER No. 3-Thousands of car owners report unequaled mileage records - evidence of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.
