Hospital Drive Nears End As Architect Hired, Site Bought

In a drive to complete pledges for the Lillian M. Hudspeth Memorial Hospital here, the finance committee halved the amount needed last week and reported Thursday that all of the $50,000 being raised in Sutton County had been pledged except $5,645. At a meeting of the directors Monday, a contract was signed with John G. Becker, San Angelo architect, to draw plans and specifications for the hospital that would be suitable to the directors. Becker donated $1,000

It was also announced that a site, the old Gunzer property at the north end of Concho Street, had been purchased from S. R. Hull, who also made a substantial donation to the fund. According to present plans, the hospital will face south and will be centered across the end of the street.

As soon as a plan is adopted a picture of it and one of the front elevation of the building will be published in the News.

Fertilize Fish Pond -If You Can Get One

It's not too late to start fertilizing the ranch pond this year. But fore the hot months of July and tension wildlife conservation specialist of Texas A&M.

Fish live on tiny plants and animals in the pond commonly referred to as "the bloom" or the plankton. The production of plankton is the first step in the production of food for the fish, since an abundant supply of plankton means more pounds of fish per acre.

A good fertilizer to use is a mixture of 400 pounds of cottonseed meal and 200 pounds of 20 per cent acid phosphate, a total of 600 pounds per acre of pond area.

Scatter 300 pounds of this broad-cast around the edge of the pond in the spring. Then at 30-day in-tervals apply the rest 100 pounds at a time. This three-month opera-tion should be carried out before July and August.

Other high grade fertilizers may be used at the rate of 400 to 500 pounds per acre of pond area at monthly intervals. If the pond owner carries out a fertilizer program each year, he will have plenty of fish in the pond.

New ponds properly fertilized and properly stocked should be ready for fishing in 12 to 18

Utilization of livestock by-products is important to all farmers and ranchers. Of the total dollars received by Swift & Company for lambs, 15% to 25% comes from by-products. Cattle by-products amount to 10% to 20%. With hogs it is 2% to 5%. When bidding on live animals, Swift & Company's because actimate the yield and grade of edible meat. buyers estimate the yield and grade of edible meat In their estimate they figure, too, the value of all by-products, including hides and wool.

Livestock by-products have greatly increased the value of your meat animals. Since earliest times, man has used hides and wool to make clothing. But only in the past half-century has research found the present great variety of uses for by-products. Fats, and lanolin from wool, are the base of many cosmetics, healing creams and beauty aids. Photographic film is coated with a gelatin compound. Other uses of gelatin and glues are almost endless. Animal fats are the main raw material of toilet soaps.

Life has been lengthened for people with diabetes, anemia and other diseases. They are helped by drugs such as insulin, liver extract, pepsin, adrenalin. These are all made from the glands of livestock. But for the painstaking care of meat packers, these glands would go to waste. This happened during the wartime "black market" in meats, and the supply of insulin ran low.

With the growth of meat-packing plants, the war on waste began in earnest. Science found new ways to use by-products of your animals. Bristles make brushes. Bones make knife handles. Hair makes upholstery padding. Bones, blood and scraps go into animal and poultry feeds. Yes, we find use for every valuable part of cattle, hogs, and lambs.

Each new use for by-products adds value to livestock . . . and directly benefits producers.

Phenothiazine Stands Up

by Dr. I. B. Boughton Texas Substation No. 14, Sonora, Texas

Ample proof that sheep roundworms can be controlled in West Texas by free-choice feeding of phenothiazine-salt mixture, with no danger of poisoning, is revealed in a 4-year test at this station.

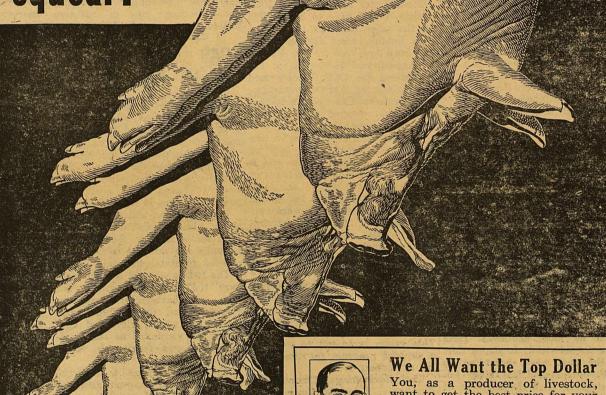

The test was made to find the answers to two specific questions: 1) Whether phenothiazine-salt mixture, fed to sheep free choice, would control stomach and other roundworm infections. 2) Whether long time use of such a mixture would be poisonous

Answering both questions, it was effective and it was not toxic Sheep used in the test were fairly heavily infested at the start, showing an average of 1180 worm eggs per gram of manure in ewes and an average of 1700 in lambs. The count decreased steadily to 60 for ewes and 30 for lambs by the fourth year. The worm eggs in the manure did not hatch, an important point since the failure to hatch shows that the infestation of the range was being reduced.

But don't throw away the drench gun. In 8 Minnesota flocks, where sheep were given a phenothiazine drench and had free access to phenothiazinesalt mixture, the lambs weighed 93 to 104 pounds. They dressed out 47.4 to 48.9%; and over 90% of the carcasses graded AA.

given the phenothiazine-salt mixture but were not drenched, the lambs weighed 87-99 pounds; they dressed out 46.6 to 47.4%; and 11% to 40% graded AA.

We can ship by express or parcel post. Only cost to you is payment of express or postage one way. A 16mm. sound projector is required. #### A Steer is NOT all Beef

Let's take a look at this steer. It weighs 1,000 lbs. It's not all steak. In fact, only a little more than half is salable beef. Hanging in Swift's cooling room, our steer has become two sides of beef. Together they weigh 543 lbs. What happened to the rest? Modern meat packers save everything of value from the steer-heart, tongue, liver, sweetbreads and other fancy meats. Hides for leather; bones, blood and scraps for animal feeds. Glands WASTE for medicines. All told, 161 lbs. of the steer is saved in by-products. But 296 lbs. is shrink-and by-products can be sold. What happens to the money the meat packer receives? It is used to buy livestock and other raw materials. It meets the expenses of slaughtering, dressing, refrigerating, transporting and selling. It pays rent, insurance, taxes—all the costs of doing business. The amount remaining after all of these expenses are paid is the meat packer's profit. Over a period of years, Swift & Company's profit has averaged a fraction of a cent a pound on the age and material of no value. Only the meat products we sell. That's the explanation of the 'spread' between livestock prices and wholesale meat prices.

want to get the best price for your animals—"the top dollar." As a salesman for Swift & Company, selling the products which result from these animals, I, too, want to get the top dollar.

The meat packer's buyer has to judge the grade of the animals and estimate how they will yield. He then makes his bids in competition with buyers for many meat packers and other commercial slaughmany meat packers and other commercial staughterers. To get the animals, he has to offer going prices. Otherwise he just won't get them; somebody else will. And that "going price" which he must pay depends on the number of animals on the market and the demand for them.

After Swift & Company has made the animals which it has purchased into meat and by-products, we must sell them, again in stiff competition. If we don't offer meat at the going price, retail meat dealers will buy from somebody else who does. This competition in both buying and selling is so keen that we have to operate on a margin of profit which averages but a fraction of a cent per pound of product handled.

In our business, as in yours, it takes hard work and good management to come out with money ahead on a year's operation. Our efficiency in selling meat and by-products results in important economies and savings. Only through such savings can we earn our profit—and help increase the value of your livestock.

Free enterprise is another way of saying, "an even break." Free enterprise is the basic American principle of vision and personal initiative. Just give an American an even break-a chance to get ahead—and he'll go on from there.

In West Texas-where the "frontier" is a little more than one generation removed—the West Texas Utilities Company is recognized as a real pioneer. It opened up an "electric frontier" when in 1915 it constructed the first power transmission line in West Texas. This first transmission line, which helped pave the way for the economic growth of the area, was built by a farseeing group of business men who believed that a taxpaying, self-supporting company could best supply the enormous amounts of electric power that the development of this western empire depends on ... at the lowest possible cost.

Today, that original transmission line has been expanded into a power system of 2,833 miles of high power transmission lines ... more than any other company in the Southwest ... serving 322,000 persons with dependable, low-cost electric service in a 45,000 square mile area.

The West Texas Utilities Company, in 1947, contributed more than $1,800,000 to local, state and federal governments ... paid more than $2,800,000 in wages to employee citizens of West Texas.

There are still new frontiers in electric living to be opened ... and businessmen can do the job better than bureaucrats. Believing in the soundness of the "free enterprise system," the Company will spend $18,000,000 during the next four years enlarging plants and existing facilities, and building transmission lines in an all-out effort to "open" those new frontiers.

EARLY FLOWERING SHRUBS NEED INSPECTION AFTER LATE FROST DAMAGE

Early flowering shrubs which seventh birthday Saturday afterwere injured recently by the late noon in the basement of the freeze should get their annual Methodist Church by his mother, pruning at this time, says Miss Mrs. Lea Allison. Sadie Hatfield, extension landscape in blue and gold and little cars gardening specialist of Texas A&M

If the roses, jasmine and other hrubs injured by the frost March 10 and 11 have not been pruned back yet, take comfort in knowing that the injury has not been increased through neglect. Most inury in Texas takes two forms: killing of the outer twigs and frost cracks along the larger limbs and Twig injury is easily removed on roses, other shrubs and trees. By this time it is easy to decide how far back the twig needs to be cut in order to remove the dead part. Choose a healthy bud and make a slanting cut about one-half inch above the bud. It is important that the cut be made in the right place. If the cut is made too far above the bud, a dead stub will be left. This may cause a dead streak or "black heart." On the other hand, if the cut is made too close to the bud, it will die.

Most of the time it is hard to see frost cracks, especially when they are on the lower branches of a shrub. These cracks or ruptures, which may be one inch to one foot in length, run in the same general direction as the limbs. Usually it is best to cut off the entire limb if the frost cracks are especially large. However, if the cracks are small and few, the limb may wallover this injury and remain healthy looking. Some plants with frost injury on the limbs and sprouts remain unthrifty and unattractive for years.

Sometimes the frost cracks are not discovered until summer-time, when the plant is examined to find out why it has an unhealthy appearance. It is pretty late to do much about it then, so remove the damaged parts now for a vigorous looking tree or shrub this summer. Here is a point to remember: it is better to remove a great deal than too little on such shrubs as spirea, jasmine, vitex, oleander, primrose, poinsettia and craple myrtle, says Miss Hatfield.

It is now generally admitted that except for the aid this country gave Greece and Turkey, those two countries would today be behind the iron curtain and the Mediterranean would be a Soviet lake. They may fall under the terrific Communist pressure yet, but their resistance has certainly been stiffened and the gamble taken thus far proven to have been a wise one from our standpoint.

> The aid bill involves a cost in money, credits and goods that will total around $6 billion during the next year. It is only 11/2 percent of the cost of the recent war to us. If it will help to prevent a recurrance of war, or if it even has a possible chance of doing so, then it is money well spent and a gamble well worth taking.

The fact is that the program will involve a considerable amount of money folwing back into this country in the form of trade and purchases. So while the cost will be terrific, some of it will be retrieved for our own economy through expenditures in this coun-

The assistance program provides for relief, rehabilitation and the third and very important objective of containment of Russia within her present bounds. If we succeed in stiffening the resistance of the people of Italy and of Western Europe, and thereby keeping the Russion flag off the Atlantic shores, we will thereby save our own taxpayers many billions of dollars in increased costs for national security in the future. The program will, according to plans, be accompanied by a stepped-up increase in our own military strength as well as that of our allied countries to benefit from the assistance. It is admittedly a gamble we can hardly afford not to take.

Gilmer For Agriculture Secretary Texas-born Jesse Gilmer, now chief of the Production and Marketing Administration, has highlevel support to succeed Clinton P. Anderson as Agriculture Secretary. If it were put on the basis of merit, Gilmer would undoubtedly get the nod. But he is obviously handicapped by the fact that already one cabinet member - Tom Clark - is from Texas, and the further fact that Democratic politicos may want the job for the resident of a "doubtful" State.

I hope Gilmer gets the appointment. He is a very capable man and is endowed with unusual administrative abaility. Above all, he understands the problems of the farmer and livestock producer. A native of Edwards County, Jesse said to me the other day: "You know, I'd like to be out there in Edwards County helping kid out a bunch of goats."
