"MY TURN'

By Carol Ellis

WE DON'T HATERUSSIA any more. In fact, with the US economy in bad shape, we feel a lot of empathy with the Russian people who are going through hardships while their country is in the re-structuring process. Today, when things go wrong, we no longer say its a "Communist plot to destroy America!"

There must be some significance to the fact that we no sooner became friendly with Russia, than we suddenly got this big "Hate Japan" thing going. Various Japanese leaders have lately said tacky things about American workers such as "uncouth, pampered, lazy, uneducated, etc." This just adds fuel to the fire of American patriotism and now "Buy American" has become the battle cry!

Buying American is not quite as easy as it sounds. Every country on the globe today has some input in world trade and manufacture, as consumer products have become increasingly internationalized. The world has indeed become a smaller place. Many products which are labeled "Made in America" actually contain components which were made elsewhere. Plus in some cases, American made goods are shipped to other countries for assembly and US companies have large plants based elsewhere.

For instance, the Dodge Caravan is built in Canada and the Ford Festiva and Pontiac LeMans are assembled in South Korea. RCA televisions and Bic pens are made by companies based in France. Zenith TVs are made by a US based plant in Mexico. Burger King, Green Giant vegetables and Haagen-Dazs ice cream are made by British companies. Some GM cars are assembled in a California plant which is half-owned by Toyota.

While checking into some of nese products. I was surprised to find that Tropicana orange juice is owned by a company in Canada, where there's nary a tropical orange tree in sight. For the most part, good old American blue jeans, are still "Made in America," as are most of the grooming products which we use everyday such as toothpaste, hair spray, shaving cream, etc. Some Caribbean countries assemble products with US raw materials for export back to the US. The Caribbean companies recieve a break on import duties under US trade laws.

In order to remain competitive with Europe, the time is near when we will need to establish a North American common market with one monetary system for the US, Canada and Mexico. I'm glad to see that we are working toward a free trade agreement with Mexico as a step in that direction. Such an agreement would create a market estimated at 360 million consumers.

Yes, the Japanese are pretty good at making their little cars but we can do without them. We have become a "throw-away" society by depending on cheaply made junk from Japan, and this has had devastating effects on our en-vironment. The attitude has been, "So what if it breaks. I'll just throw it away and buy another one." Remember those expensive toys you bought the kids for Christmas and they fell apart ten minutes after they were unwrapped? Most likely made in

Now that we are facing economic hard times, each item bought should be thought of as an investment in the future, something you'll pass on to your children someday. We can no longer afford to buy things that won't last or can't be repaired.

The USA has a few items which could be exported to Japan. Why don't we send them some of our finest labor leaders to form unions for improving difficult working conditions there? Since we seem to have more lawyers than we need, how about sending some of those to Japan along with some civil rights leaders. We also have some politicians who could probably solve all their internal problems. How about sending them Kennedy, Biden, Metzenbaum and company!

ALTHOUGH BY HIS FELLOW-GALILEANS, BE-CAUSE OF HIS PROFESSION, BECAME AN IMPORTANT PURVEYOR OF JESUS' MESSAGE TO THE JEWS! PUCIFIXION AND RESURRECTION NATTHEW PREACHED FIFTEEN YEARS. HIS SPECIFIC WORK

SCRIPTURAL PROPHECIES—THE COMING OF THE MESSIAH! HIS GOSPEL POINTEPLY QUOTES THE SCRIPTURES TO THIS EFFECT (65 TIMES MORE THAN MARK, LUKE, AND JOHN, COMBINED). ALTHOUGH MODERN THEOLOGIANS AND SCHOLARS MAINTAIN THIS GOSPEL WAS WRITTEN BY A GRECIAN JEW, UNFAMILIAR WITH HEBREW, ANCIENT AUTHORITIES SICH AS IRENAEUS, ORIGEN, AND EUSEBIUS, ALL STATE IT WAS WRITTEN BY MATTHEW IN ARAMAIC AND LEFT AS A GUIDE FOR THE JEWS WHEN HE DEPARTED TO PREACH IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES..."AND, LATER, EACH MAN INTERPRETED THEM AS BEST HE COULD..."HOWBEIT, MATTHEW'S MESSAGE WAS CLEAR — JESUS IS THE CHRIST!

BYRON NEAL, a senior from Bovina, considers the flow of black-eyed peas, part of his project SUCCEED work. Neal hopes to present his results at the 1992 American Society of Agricultural Engineers conference.

Clinics Set Operation In Area

Immunization clinics offering vaccines that give protection against several childhood diseases are scheduled for the month of March.

Protection is against Polio, Diptheria, Lockjaw (Tetanus), Whooping cough (Pertussis), Measles, Rubella, Mumps, and HIB (Haemophilus Influenzae Type B).

The Texas Department of Health is charging fees to help with the cost of keeping the clinic open. The amount of money charged will be based on family income and size, and the ability to pay.

One clinic is located at Hereford at the Department of Health office, 205 West Fourth Street, Suite B. Dates are March 5, 12, 19 and 26.

Another is operated at Dimmitt, at the Azteca Complex, 910 East Jones. Their dates are Fridays, March 6 and 13.

Non-Conventional Students Have Become Professionals: In Tech's Project SUCCEED

The following article appeared in "Engineering Today," which is a publication of the College of Engineering at Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

Byron is the son of Tony and Dottie Neal of Bovina and graduated from Bovina High School in 1988. He will graduate from Texas Tech in December, 1992.

If we expect to meet our nation's need for new scientists and engineers, we must look beyond the traditional student population towards the large, untapped pool of nonconventional students. Unfortunately, only a small number of non-conventional students choose the fields of Engineering, Mathematics and Science (EMS).

Non-conventional students are defined as (1) minority students, (2) female students, (3) adult students (25 and older), and (4) students from small schools that lack the personnel and facilities to train students adequately before they enter college.

Project SUCCEED stands for Structuring Undergraduate Curriculum and Courses for Essential Educational Development. Its main goal was to test the efficacy of involving non-conventional undergraduates in research as a means to stimulate creativity, improve comprehension of basic skills, and encourage the transfer of the critical components of a discipline.

Student Research Projects The philosophy of Project SUC-CEED was to involve students in research with national and international implications--important and consequential research. The research projects were designed to reinforce basic engineering principles, to help students design and use equipment, and to teach process design. Each student was treated as a peer researcher--for instance, as a graduate student or fellow faculty member might be treated. They were to state objectives, develop an experimental design, present their design and objectives for peer review, prepare necessary equipment 908 West Highway 60 cessary to draw conclusions.

Each student wrote a publishable paper, first, for the Proceedings of Project SUCCEED and, next, for submission to a refereed journal. A number of these papers are now being reviewed by national publica-

Project SUCCEED Case Studies

The students in Project SUC-CEED went through the entire experimental design process, producing in many cases, the equivalent of graduate projects.

Byron Neal is a senior in Agricultural Engineering. He is 21 and from Bovina, Texas. Neal's uncle is an engineer, and he says engineering is something he's always wanted to do. He knew he had abilities in problem-solving, but Project SUCCEED let him prove and improve those abilities.

Neal's project was "The Effects of Mixed Sizes on the Flow of Hygroscopic Granular Materials." Using a formula developed by Clifford Fedler and James Gregory in two ASAE prize-winning papers in 1987, Neal investigated the effect of mixed-size granular materials on gravity flow through a horizontal orifice. He tested five different levels and six different ratios of mixture with cracked corn and blackeyed peas. His results will be presented at the 1992 meeting of the ASAE and may be published in the Transactions of the ASAE.

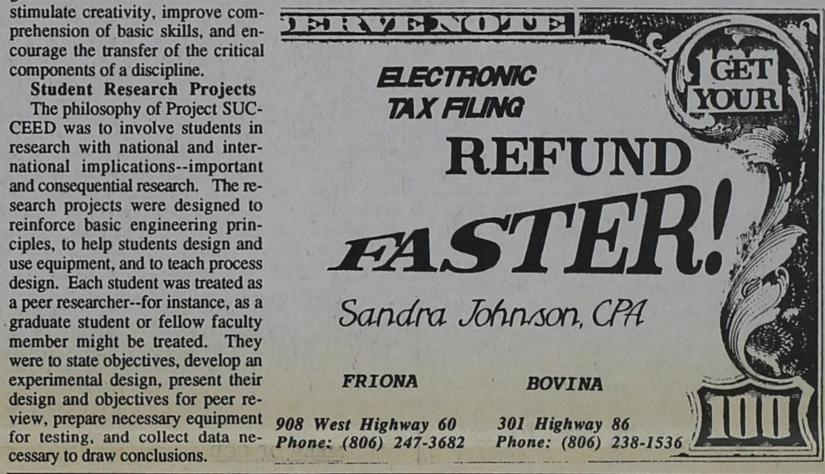

The National Science Foundation awarded Project SUCCEED a grant of $49,000, from which each student received a $3,000 scholarship. Results clearly point to the value of interactive research projects. Project SUCCEED has become a model for this and other engineering colleges and will be a part of the working philosophy of the Minority Engineering Program at

What is the measure of a life? Perhaps you have seen the bumper sticker that boldly states: "The one who dies with the most toys wins!" Not too long ago, I saw a young person wearing a T-shirt with this philosophical gem emblazoned across the front: "Life's a beach, then you die!" How sad, that for some, life has no greater meaning or value.

Jesus gave a solemn warning and made a profound statement before he told the story of the rich fool in Luke 12:13ff. "Watch out! Be on your guard against all kinds of greed; a man's life does not consist in the abundance of his possessions." We would all do well to heed Jesus' words.

No, the measure of a man's real worth is not in his possessions. The true measure of our lives is not how much we gain, but rather, how much we give! Yet, too many seek only gain or fame. If our aim is gain, our eyes will be on the world. If our aim is fame, our eyes are too much on ourselves. The Apostle Paul advised, "Set your minds on things above, not on earthly things." (Colossians 3:2)

I have written all of the above in order to say that I appreciate those folks in our community, churches and schools who serve others faithfully. Many, like our fire department and ambulance crew, are volunteers. Others help tutor our kids at school, serve on our BISD School Board, City Council, or Chamber of Commerce. No, I may not agree with every little thing they do, but most of them serve because they care and want Bovina to be a better place to live for everyneighbors who visit our homebound folk, hospitals and nursing home residents regularly in ministry. Such folks are givers! They have chosen to measure life--not in terms of what they can get--but rather in service to their fellowman. To all of you givers, I say "Thanks!
