Science Conquers New Sheep Disease

Dr. N. H. Casselberry, veterinary medical director of Cutter Lab ratories, injects a number of sheep with Blucine, the new vaccine for the prevention of bluetongue. Bluetongue, a new sheep disease problem in this country, has caused serious losses in many sections of the west.

The disastrous losses caused by bluetongue infection, a relatively tew disease of sheep, can be prevented. This was indicated by Cutter aboratories' announcement that a vaccine for the prevention of blue. ongue, known as Blucine, is in production at their Berkeley, Cali-ornia plant.

ornia plant. Bluetongue in the United States was first recognized in California n 1952 when an estimated 325,000 sheep were infected with blue-ongue disease. Since the disease has been identified, there is good adication that it has also been a problem in Texas, Arizona, New fexico, Utah and Nevada. The disease is transmitted by gnats and ossibly by other biting insects. Although there is no known treatment or cure for the disease accination has proved a practical and effective method of preventing instongue infection. Production of Blucine provides the sheep in-ustry with an important means of preventing the serious losses this isease may cause.

isease may cause.

In Linz, Austria, 15,900 were told to leave their homes and another 0.000 mere for the solid storage is shown and public buildings. 9,000 were forced to seek shelter in schools and public buildings.

Children with hearing trouble repeat their grades four times as

Children with hearing trouble repeat their grades four times as often as children with normal hearing. At least two-million children in the United States have impaired hearing and the hearing of more than 20-million others in the 5 to 17 age bracket is receiving virtually no attention, according to the Amer-ican Hearing Aid Association. (There are about 34,775,000 school-age children in the U.S. Fewer than 300 cities and only 21 states require periodic hearing tests in public schools.) Most parents whose children suffer a slight loss of hearing don't discover it in time to prevent a greater and more serious loss. Parents should watch for such tell-tale signs of hearing loss as inattentiveness, awkward listening posture, excessive fatigue, slowness in learning, shyness in playing with other children and voice peculiari-ties.

From 50 to 60 percent of all hearing impairments among children an be corrected if discovered early enough.

Air Conditioning For Tractors

A farmer's inventiveness has resulted in a unique machine which in effect brings air condi-tioning to operators of tractors and self-propelled combines. Though it looks much like an aluminum umbrella, it mounts an electric fan in the top which draws air and directs it along the inside contours of the bonnet in such a way that it actually puts a wall of fast-moving air around the op-grator, yet does not blow directly on him.

The invention is being made by Farmhand, Hopkins, Minnesota, manufacturers of farm materials handling implements, which has developed the machine so it is ad-justable both vertically and hori-zontally, and is easily powered from the battery of the unit on which it is mounted

HOLIDAY ACCIDENT: 1905 vs. 1954!

Horses trembled, bustles shook and handle-bar mustaches bristled when this 15-mile-an-hour juggernaut in 1905 careened off the road to crash through a rail fence. The week-end driver of this vintage hot-rod suffered a severe injury to his dignity, but that was the only loss, other than the driver's goggles.

The operator of this modern automobile traveling probably four times as fast, lost his life. If you're sitting in the driver's seat on that coming Labor Day trip, the accident prevention department of Employers Mutuals of Wausau reminds you that excessive speed and sudden death go hand-in-hand: You should observe not only the legal speed limit, but the limit set by road, traffic and weather are because any speed are be a killing speed depending conditions . . . because any speed can be a killing speed, depending upon the circumstances. -Photos courtesy Employers Mutuals of Wausat
