TWENTY-THIRD WEEK

ODDS & ENDS

These late freezes have played hob with the fruit crop and the lettuce and such will have to be planted again. It proves again that our predecessors in this land the Indians, knew whereon they spoke when they referred to early warm weather as "false spring".

We're right glad now that we hadn't found time nor inclination to rake up the liveoak leaves in our yard. That wind would have brought us another raking job. As it is we can do it all at once.

The freeze didn't bother the bluebonnets at Hotel McDonald, though. They are beginning to bloom now.

Our wish for your St. Patrick's weekend is the traditional Irish greeting for the season: "May the skin of a gooseberry make an umbrella to cover all your enemies."

Sonora residents are again reminded to comply with the city ordinance which requires vaccination and tagging of dogs.

Looking Through The Windows Of Life

By W. H. Marshall

Qualification! What a dramatic word. By it we can do most anything we like and find good reason for doing it. And we can also use the word to escape from our imperfections. I can use the word to hide my mistakes and failures. Qualification. How dear a word for any one who wants to escape the facts of life.

Of course we all know it is an undoubted truth that the less one has to do the less time one finds to do it. Temptations rarely come in working hours. But the idle man qualifies his idleness by saying, "I have nothing to do."

Qualification! Qualification is a mean, little word. I can take the word and use it wrongly as applied to my life, and be mean and little and contemptible. I can use it escape guilt, mistakes and failures as pointed out. But when I use the word to escape myself, then I am making the mistake of my life. It is not always easy to walk up to life like a man. It is not always easy to face yourself and see your own faults and acknowledge them like an honest man should. But how else can we expect to do that which is honest? If I cannot look myself in the face as an honest man, I can never look you in the face as an honest man, and when dealing with you, you want me to be honest enough to look you and the facts in the face.

Qualification. What a good and handy word for a rascal. How many people have used this grand old word wrongly, and to what they thought for the moment, advantageously. How many times have I tried to hide behind Mr.

Qualification? Really too many times to make me happy when I think about it.

Well, I keep hammering away at a point and it is about time to come straight to it:

You and I may not be conscious of it, but there is something going on inside of us at all times that would destroy our usefulness, our honesty, our souls. What is it? The devil? No. Is it positive and planned sin and wrong doing? No. Then what is it? It is trying to qualify our actions and our lives. Look up that word "quality". Read it carefully.

I know as well as you do how hard it is to be told that I have been wrong. But I also know and you know, that any person can be wrong and sometimes we need to be told that we are wrong. I can say again, it may not be pleasant at the moment to be told you are wrong, but if we are made of the right stuff we will deeply appreciate the friend that tells us, and if we are made of the right stuff we will try to do something about it.

Life is hard enough to live without letting it get the jump on you. It is best to keep a jump ahead of life and yourself. We, none of us, should be ashamed to look facts in the face; to face up to the fact that we have made a mistake, because every body that does anything makes mistakes.

The person that makes no mistakes makes nothing else, he comes to no success at the end of his life.

Qualification! Yes, I can use that word in such a way as to let it rob me of my pride and manhood, and my friends at the same time. So I lift my hat to Mr. Qualification, and say, "I have my eye on you, sir. You are a fine word, but at the same time you will bear watching that I don't use you wrongly, and taking advantage of you, and do myself great harm."

Motorists Must Have Cars OK'd

Sutton County motorists face the longest waiting line in four years if they postpone inspection of their automobiles, nearer the April 15 deadline.

State law requires every motor vehicle in Texas—passenger car, truck, and bus—to pass an annual check-up on mechanical safety. It is unlawful to operate a vehicle which has not been inspected after the deadline.

For the past two years the bulk of private passenger cars have been inspected well ahead of the deadline and there have been no bothersome delays or snarls at the last minute. This year, however, inspections are far behind schedule and auto owners who wait beyond March will probably have to buck the longest waiting lines in four years to comply with the law.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Information
"On The Line"

I was reading the other day how a person can get all sorts of things just by dialing a number on his telephone.

In New York you can get the time, the weather, or a prayer. In Philadelphia it's the stock reports. In Boston a voice tells bird watchers what's to be watched in the park.

Over in Europe, they go further. Vienna offers a five-minute fairy tale for kids. In Switzerland you can get the news in any of three languages. And a couple of places have "talking menus" for desperate housewives.

From where I sit, it doesn't matter if ideas are put out by telephone, through editorials, or in person—as long as we can take them or leave them. I happen to like a glass of beer with my supper. You may prefer coffee, tea or branch water. Well, there's no harm in "listening" to another's opinions... but if he should try to force them on you, it's always an American's privilege to simply "hang up!"

TEC Now Covers 29 Employers in Sutton County

29 employers in Sutton County became "able" under the amended Texas Unemployment Compensation Act January 1. And, L. W. Keilers, office manager, advises these employers that establishing payroll reports with the state office of the Texas Employment Commission, Brown Building, Austin, will help avoid penalties and assessment of back taxes.

An amendment to the state's unemployment compensation laws extended coverage to all employees with as many as FOUR employees on 20 days in 20 different weeks, Keilers said. Prior to January 1, 1956 only firms who hired eight or more were affected. "The expanded program also covers a small business which has four people working only Saturdays, or one which regularly has two employees during the day and two others at night." Any Sutton County employer of four, five, six or seven persons for 20 weeks during 1955 should request explanations of the state TEC office about complying with the program, Keilers added.

Fisher Tells Of Flood Control Ways And Means

WATER, ITS CONSERVATION AND its use has taken a position of preeminence as a domestic problem. Not long ago an Advisory Committee concerning water resources was appointed by President Eisenhower and more recently reported its findings. The President pinpointed the issue in these words: "If we are to continue to advance agriculturally and industrially we must make the best use of every drop of water which falls on our soil, or which can be extracted from the ground."

IN TEXAS water has likewise been a Number One topic of interest in recent years. That has certainly been the case in southwest Texas where the ravage of drought has dried up springs and lowered water levels to an alarming extent. State and regional meetings designed to find new and more effective approaches to the problem are being held.

ON THE FEDERAL LEVEL, there are three agencies that interest themselves directly in flood control, prevention, and water conservation. Those are the Corps of Engineers, the Reclamation Service and the Soil Conservation Service of the Department of Agriculture. The latter deals with the upstream smaller dam works, designed to prevent rather than control major floods. The smaller dams are adaptable to tributaries rather than to the main streams where only larger projects are feasible.

On the subject of larger flood control dams, his type of work in southwest Texas has in recent years been slowed due to the requirement for re-surveys by the Engineers. And the latter have been plagued by shortage of funds for that purpose.

ACROSS THE DESK ideas from other editors

From the Webster Times, Webster, Massachusetts: There are many differences of opinion regarding the value of voting machines. While most observers are quick to acknowledge that the lever system computes standings quickly and with unerring accuracy, they contend that the elimination of "counters" removes one of the chief sources of honest patronage available to party organizations on the local level. The issues, then are convenience versus one-day jobs. Proponents of the voting machine point out that the machines are not only quick, accurate and convenient, but represent a substantial savings over a period of many years. To cite an example, Democratic caucus results were not posted until 9:30 p.m., one and one-half hours after the polls closed. With machines, we are told, the results would have been announced within ten minutes.

Providing a source of extra money for residents who are in need is, of course, commendable. That, some officials claim, is the primary purpose for extension of our existing system of appointing "counters." How many of those persons named each election day rate classification as needy? Truth of the matter is that a few, if any, of our residents named to count votes each year are in dire financial need.

SCANNING THE NEWS

President Eisenhower's surprise veto of the Harris natural gas bill because of what he termed the "arrogance" of the lobbyists representing a "minor" segment of the gas and oil industry, will have repercussions along the political fronts in this presidential campaign year.

Only recently this column reported upon the political implications of this bill and concerning the gathering of one of the most powerful lobbies ever known in Washington to work for passage of the measure, which would have taken the regulation of interstate natural gas pipe lines from under the jurisdiction of the Federal Power Commission, particularly on prices at the well-head, and turned this authority over to the regulatory bodies in the 48 states—such as state public service or utility commissions.

The brazenness of the gas lobby was brought into the open when Senator Case of North Dakota, reported he had refused a $2,500 tender to him for campaign expenses by one of the lobbyists representing one of the gas and oil companies.

While it is undoubtedly true that most of us could use an extra day's pay, it is likewise true that, if necessary, we could get along without it. The big reason for installation of voting machines is not an attempt to eradicate honest patronage. It is, instead, for the convenience in which every voter should share.

From the Okaloosa News-Journal, Crestview, Florida: Voting machines are now in regular use in 15 counties in Florida, and will be used on a trial basis in six other counties in the coming May primary election.

The voting machine has made manual voting with paper ballots as outmoded as the automobile has made the horse and buggy. From the Tallahassee Tribune, Tallahassee, Alabama: Many newspapers in this state, this one included, have voiced opposition to the Supreme Court's segregation pronouncements. There has appeared much discussion in print recently of "interposition," "nullification," etc.

Some more aggressive citizens even entertain the idea of secession. To them, we address this advice. Perish the thought. There will be no need for secession.

When the state's 1957 automobile tags, resplendent with the slogan, "Y'all Come," are issued, Alabama will be laughed out of the Union.

is killed for this session of the Congress.

Here are some possible political results: Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Democratic majority leader in the Senate and Speaker Sam Rayburn, Democratic Speaker of the House, both of Texas spearheaded the drive to pass the bill over the objections of a majority of Democratic members in the Congress. Passage of the Bill by Congress put the Democratic party on the hook by adding an estimated $800,000,000 gas bill increase to the annual bills of the consuming public. However the President's veto partially relieved the Democrats of the onus, since they can now point to the fact that a majority of Democrats voted against the bill, while a majority of Republicans voted for it. Further, Democrats who opposed the bill can also point to the fact that the President despite his veto, was in favor of the bill's objectives, declaring there is no way to write a protection clause into a federal bill, which is being regulated as to prices by 48 different State regulatory bodies.

So as a result responsibility is divided, Republicans can claim credit for saving the $800,000,000 addition to natural gas costs because of the President's veto; Democrats can claim that a majority of the Republicans voted for the bill which brought about its passage.

GMC brings you the most impressive improvements of all 1956 trucks

Now we can show you these great new GMC's that are further than ever ahead of all others. Their advances not only clinch power supremacy—but reach into fields still unexplored by other truck-makers.

For example, GMC's Road Shock Damper Suspension*—plus a unique new stabilizer—produces in half-ton models a ride comparable to the finest passenger car.

An optional new fast-ratio cruising axle in light-duty GMC's gives you an overdrive's pace and economy without its cost.

Sharply increased engine displacement in both sixes and V8's gives you a power family unsurpassed in the light-duty field. Specifically, we offer 14.4% GREATER displacement on 6-cylinder models, 16.2% on V8's than our nearest competitors. And GMC V8's, mind you, match the shortest stroke ratios in the truck industry.

Styling is well into the future—panoramic windshield to sand-tight tail gate. Tubeless tires, of course. And a 12-volt electrical system is standard. These are some of the strides presented in new 1956 Blue Chip trucks we now have on view. The values are even more notable. Come in and get the facts!

*Standard on Suburban; optional at slight extra cost on other 1/2-ton models

Edwards Plateau Soil Conservation District News

By E. B. Keng
 Soil Conservation Service

The Edwards Plateau Soil Conservation District supervisors held their March meeting Thursday, with supervisors Joe B. Ross, Frank Bond, W. B. McMillan and Edwin Sawyer present. Fred Earwood was ill and unable to attend. Conservation plans were approved on the B. B. Dunbar, Martin and Evans ranches, and on the C. W. Adams Estate. This makes a total of some 143 conservation plans developed out of approximately 165 ranches.

Checks totaling $32.50 were drawn for seven students who participated in the local essay contest to be held in June.

Each year the Board makes an annual report covering district activities for the year past. The 1955 report is being printed and will be mailed to all landowners and operators. Watch for it and read it, because the Edwards Plateau District is your district.

The return of winter weather this week temporarily halted the progress of grass seeding. The following ranchmen have their seed and have planted or will plant very soon: Mack Cauthorn-275 acres; Alice Jones-75 acres; Rip Ward-200 acres; Gene Shurley-87 acres; Harold Friess-55 acres; Andy Moore-25 acres; and Dan Cauthorn-25 acres. Other ranchmen are also planning to pit and plant seed this season.

Most ranchmen are planting a mixture of sideoats and blue grama, KR bluestem and blue panic. A small proportion of cane bluestem and buffelgrass is being added to get a seed source of these grasses. Old fields pitted and seeded to good range grasses should produce a good seed crop if rainfall is average or above.

Soil Conservation Service personnel will be glad to discuss seeding problems, pitting, and explain the ASC cost-sharing payments to interested ranchmen.

Fourteen students from Abilene Christian College, together with Agriculture Director Frances M. Churchill, toured the Edwards Plateau SCD trial area last Friday. Charles Davenport showed the group the results of pitting and seeding compared to seeding without pitting. The group was impressed with the absence of bitterweed in the pitted-seeded areas compared to an abundant stand on areas that were not pitted.

Friday afternoon Leo Merrill accompanied the group over the Ranch Experiment Station to observe the results of different combinations of livestock and rates of stocking.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLDTIMERS

From Mrs. Jack Rowan, Nebraska: I remember the first term of school I taught in Keya-Paha County, Nebraska, then nicknamed Mob Co., on account of several lynchings which had occurred over stock stealing. The little log school house stood back in the break of the Niobrara River, was 12x14 feet, with two small windows for light along each side of the room. The roof was covered with brush, hay and dirt, and a few sunflowers growing on the roof seemed to wave me a welcome that September morning in 1891 as I entered the schoolyard where the children stood waiting for their new teacher.

The furniture in the building consisted of slab benches, along two sides of the room, a small home-made table and "boughten" teacher's chairs. Each child furnished his own books—Harper's Guffey's, or what have you, with slate and slate pencils. After all these years I can still hear the scratching of those pencils or the sound of some small boy spitting on his slate and wiping it clean with his shirt sleeve. A few older children owned copy books and pen and ink and the small table was conveniently moved about for writing lessons.
