CINDERS

By John T. King

The Sonora housewife is traditionally price conscious. She is equally concerned with quality. Sonora merchants cater to both the desire for lowest possible price and the highest possible quality. But there is another kind of merchant—and his number increases almost daily—who uses trick prices as a weapon to "bait" and fleece the consumer, while destroying legitimate competition.

The explosive growth of firms preying on the public through the use of "bait advertising" and brand name "loss leaders" raises some serious problems at every level of our economy.

Recently an executive testifying before the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, said:

"The American consumer is becoming increasingly price conscious. As such, he is becoming easy prey for those who use price as a bait stuck on a very sharp retailing hook.

"Of course a careful buyer can pick up a bargain or two by dealing with the price-slashing merchandiser, but in the long run his shopping practices probably do not level out to the fair-pricing average or quality norm he is likely to find in the neighborhood store. Beyond this, as I have pointed out earlier, the consumer is not well served if the number of stores ready to serve him is reduced by business failures. Nor is he well served if unreasonable price pressures induce manufacturers to reduce the quality of their products as a part of the discounting chain reaction."

The consumer is lured into the store by advertising well-known quality brands which, the buyer is told, are being sold at an unbelievably low price.

Too often, after he gets in the store he is steered away from the very limited number of products of established reputation and into buying cheap and shoddy goods which, as often as not, are grossly overpriced.

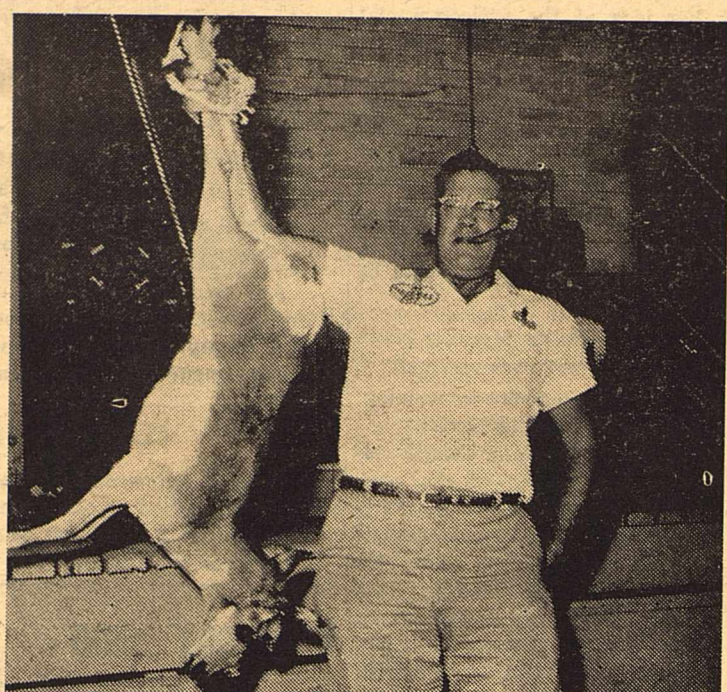

The free enterprise system will not flourish—the consumer will not be well served—if this situation in retailing develops until we have nothing but retail monopolies in every major market area.

Oil was struck on the grounds of a country church in Kentucky. Soon the royalties were rolling in; so the congregation met to determine what to do with all the money. They passed three resolutions:

1. Pay all the church debts.
2. Divide the remainder of the money between members of the church.
3. Take in no more members.

R. S. TEAFF'S hopes for prize money tumbled when spikes were discovered on this pronghorn antelope which weighed about 15 pounds, much less than Teaff's near-record kill last year. He and Stanton Bundy participated in the pronghorn antelope hunt on the Rocker B Ranch in Reagan County October 12. Teaff thought momentarily that he might take home the $100 offered by L. L. Farr III, ranch manager, for the smallest doe brought in. Bundy bagged a buck with prongs measuring about 13 inches from base to tip.

Greer Begins Internship Course At University

Clyde H. Greer, principal last year at Sonora Junior High School, is one 14 University of Texas graduate students that have been accepted this fall as interns in an experimental program.

The 12-month internship is designed to produce outstanding educational administrators for Texas public schools. It is the second part of a two-year program which provides intensive preparation for prospective school principals, personnel and curriculum directors, supervisors, business managers and assistant superintendents.

Each of the interns admitted to the highly selective training program has a master's degree and teaching experience.

Joe Neil Smith's Football Guessing Wins Him $7.50

Joe Neil Smith won $7.50 first place money in the Annual Football Contest, crowding Cleveland Nance to second-place $5 and Dick McMillan to third-place $2.50.

All three had 16 correct but Smith's 42 tie-breaker guess out-ranked Nance's 39 and McMillan's 28. Correct tie breaker, total score of the Midland-San Angelo game, was 44.

Other contest entrants with 16 but eliminated because of the tie-breaker were Bill McClelland, 7; John David Perez, 21; and Bill McClelland, 21.

Fifteen contestants guessed 15 games correctly.

Deer Population Increase Promises Record Season

A rise in deer population to 95-100 thousand in Sutton County promises to make this one of the biggest hunting seasons on record.

Nolan Johnson, game warden, said that in 1961 the deer population was estimated at 84,000 and in 1962 at 76,000. He said that this year no one would want for game and that hunters would be well pleased.

Estimated kills last year were 5,100, over 1,000 more than 1961, making 1962 the largest year on record. Some 900 of those were does. However Johnson said that many of the 1963 deer would die from lack of food if the harvest was not large. Presently deer are in good shape from grazing on mesquite beans and acorns, and many are large animals.

While 25% bucks is considered a high average, Johnson said that counts in Sutton County placed the population at 40% bucks. This is the highest buck population in the Edwards Plateau area.

Ranchers, also worried about the deer increase along with the shortage of winter grass, are hoping that a heavy doe harvest this year will bring the population back to average numbers.

LEASES NEEDED

Every day the Chamber of Commerce gets calls for deer leases which it cannot fill. H. V. (Buzzie) Stokes, manager, said that much of the land was leased, but that landowners who still have land available should call his office.

Ghosts and Goblins Parade Oct. 28 and 31

Spooks will have their nights next Monday and Thursday when Elliott and Central students put on their ghostly costumes and parade for fun and prizes.

Clay Cade, principal of the L. W. Elliott School, said that his school would have its PTA-sponsored costume parade and carnival beginning at 6 p.m. at the school on Monday, October 28. The Halloween Queen will then be crowned, and she will open the carnival. Each year voting boxes with pictures of queen candidates are placed in businesses. The queen is elected by the number of votes she receives, each cent counting as a vote.

Carnival booths, also for fund raising, will be operated until 9:30 p.m. by teachers.

Central Elementary School will have its spook parade Thursday, October 31, when costumed goblins will congregate at 5 p.m. on the Courthouse square and at 5:30 will parade past the bank to a judging stand in front of Sonora Motor Co.

There contestants from each grade, kindergarten through sixth, will be judged on funniest, most original, and spookiest costumes. Out of these winners one grand champion will be named.

Next the carnival will be opened by a Halloween Queen elected by High School students. Booths from each class and most school organizations will operate until 10:30 p.m.

The Halloween Carnival is annually sponsored and directed by the Student Council.

Mike And Ike

Mike and Ike chose 8 out of 9 games correctly in last week's football predictions and raised their percentages decidedly. Mike, batting 69%, has called 31 out of 45 games correctly, while Ike has picked 26 winners out of 45 games played for a 58% average.

Both dropped one in last week's predictions by choosing Eldorado over Rankin.

Here are their predictions for this week's games:

Pre-Hunting Party Set November 12

The Pre-Hunting Party, an annual supper given for Sutton County ranchers and their wives by the Downtown Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce, has been set for November 12.

The supper traditionally kicks off hunting season, which will start in Sutton County November 16. Between 300 and 400 people attended last year's gathering. The program committee this year will be made up of Clint Langford, Nolan Johnson and E. B. Keng.

Bobby Joe Granger and Jimmy Harris are co-chairmen of the food committee.

HERMAN E. MOORE APPOINTED MAJOR IN MILITARY POLICE

Herman E. Moore, Sutton County Sheriff, was appointed major in the Military Police Corps of the Texas State Guard Reserve Corps at the adjutant general's conference at Camp Mabry in Austin last weekend.

Duties of the new position will include intelligence and counter-intelligence functions under the direction of the Adjutant General.

Bank Assets Rise To All Time High

Bank deposits September 30, totaled $6,088,790.52 as assets of the First National Bank of Sonora rose to $6,928,238.48, an all-time high. Peak day was September 16, when assets jumped to $7,186,346.27.

Clayton Hamilton, vice-president, said that part of the rise could be attributed to the three recent wool and mohair sales and the usual autumn rise in deposits, but that the figure gave a realistic view of the growth of the bank and Sutton County.

Bank deposits are usually a good economic barometer of an area. During the 1953-57 drought, deposits dropped to around $4 million.

Loans on the books September 30, 1963, totaled $2.3 million. In September, 1962, loans were $2.3 million and in September of 1961 $2.7 million.

Deposits in September, 1961, were $4.4 million compared with $4.7 million for 1962 and $6 million for 1963, showing a general upswing in depositors' accounts. Previous high was in December, 1962, with $5.7 million.

Capital funds for the bank, including stock, surplus, undivided profits and reserves, have shown a steady, gradual rise from $230,000 in 1942 to $460,000 in 1952 to $750,000 in 1962. Capital funds were more than $800,000 in 1963.

District Football Opens In McCamey

The Sonora Broncos begin district play Friday night when they meet the McCamey Badgers in McCamey at 7:30 p.m.

Coach Joe King's Badgers have won four games and lost three this season, scoring 132 points

THE REV. FLYNN V. LONG TO BE GUEST PASTOR AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The Rev. Flynn V. Long of Charlotte, North Carolina, will be guest pastor at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Presbyterian U. S., Sunday, October 27. He was instrumental in the organization of the church in Sonora.

The Rev. Long is a former executive secretary of the Presbytery of Central Texas, and at one time was a moderator of the Synod of Texas.

while allowing their opponents to tally 92. The Broncos have scored 66 points, and their opponents have tallied 65.

McCamey won its first game against Ozona 6-0, but was plagued by fumbles the following week and lost to Fort Stockton 18-2. Big Lake pushed across 20 points to McCamey's score of 14 for another Badger defeat.

The following Friday McCamey rolled over Iraan 28-0. After falling to Wink in a close game with a final score of 21-20, the Badgers broke loose to win two in a row, beating Rankin 42-20 and stepping past Alpine 20-13.

The Badgers run from a wing T with quarterback Johnny DeMaria posing a double threat. The 200-pound senior has scored both in the air and on the ground.

Nov. 4-6 Set For Issue Of Antlerless Permits

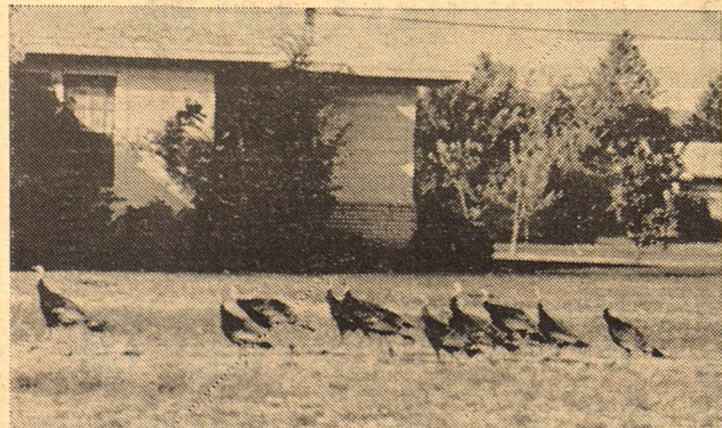

Based on data now at hand, issuance of antlerless deer hunting permits for limited areas of Sutton County has been scheduled for November 4, 5, and 6 at the Chamber of Commerce office from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Calvin Van Hoozer, biologist technician with the Parks and Wildlife Department, says that deer population surveys have been in full swing since September 1 in this area. Final analysis of surveys will govern the number of antlerless deer permits to be issued as well as the areas within each county where antlerless deer shall be harvested.

The permits will be issued only to those landowners who own land within an area where deer populations are found to have reached, or to be closely approaching, the carrying capacity of the range. Van Hoozer explains that the issuance of antlerless deer permits to a given landowner will not necessarily indicate that deer populations are extremely high on his ranch, but will indicate that his ranch is located within an area where deer populations are approaching the carrying capacity of the range.

The permits will also be issued for limited areas of Schleicher, Crockett and Val Verde Counties. On November 7 and 8 they will be issued at the courthouse in Eldorado, on November 11 and 12 they will be issued at the courthouse in Ozona, and on October 30 and 31 and November 1 they will be issued at the courthouse in Del Rio. Time of permit issuance is 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the dates listed.

Roaming closer and closer to town are these wild turkeys that traditionally range around Sonora. Mrs. J. W. Neville said that the birds have come to be "pets" in the neighborhood because they frequent it so often, unmolested.

Nhu Problem

Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu, the first lady of South Viet Nam, continues to set new course records for ingratitude among U. S. aid recipients, a group not noted for its sense of obligation. Mme. Nhu's latest slap was delivered in Rome, where she ridiculed young American officers who are helping her country. She declared:

"The junior officers of the U.S. military mission are acting like little soldiers of fortune. They don't know what is going on. With their irresponsible behavior, they have forced the senior officers into following a confused policy."

Since the activities of these "little soldiers of fortune" are among the primary reasons Mme. Nhu and her family are not in exile or in a Red prison, this statement marks a new low, even for Mme. Nhu.

This talkative, powerful woman seems to go out of her way to antagonize American GIs. Redbook magazine reports that servicemen's mail has been opened by the Viet Nam government and personal checks to their families confiscated because sending dollars out is against Vietnamese law.

She has forbidden dancing, the playing of sad songs and even pressured the Armed Forces Radio Network to stop playing twist music. Mme. Nhu declared that dancing and singing do not fit in with her idea of the anticommunist struggle, commenting, "dancing with death is sufficient" for American troops.

The American military men are giving their time, their knowledge and, in some cases, their lives to keep the communist wolves from Mme. Nhu's door. Her efforts to make life miserable for them are particularly galling. If she continues she will soon convince all Americans that, as far as this country is concerned, no Nhus would be good news.

WHO OWNS WOUNDED GAME?

Suppose you are hunting and shoot a deer or a duck, which falls mortally wounded. Before you can get to it, another hunter beats you there and claims the fallen game as his own. What are your rights?

Jim had been hunting all day without success, and had headed for home when he finally saw a deer. He took careful aim and hit the deer with his first shot. Although mortally wounded, the deer managed to run a short distance, with Jim in hot pursuit.

Roy was also deer hunting. He heard Jim's shot and saw a deer running toward him. However, before it reached the spot where he was standing, the deer fell to the ground.

Although it was obvious that the deer was about to die, Roy walked to within three feet of it, delivered the finishing shot, and quickly put his tag on it. When Jim ran up and claimed the deer, Roy said that such deer were wild animals, and belonged to no one until killed. Since he was the one that killed the deer, Roy claimed that it belonged to him.

Which hunter has legal title to the deer?

In this case the deer belongs to Jim. Jim was the first to wound it, and did so before Roy appeared on the scene. He had mortally wounded the deer, and had it in such a situation that its escape was improbable, if not impossible. The prevailing rule is that the instant a wild animal is brought under the control of a person so that actual possession is practically inevitable, a vested property interest in it accrues which cannot be divested by another's intervening and killing it, or reaching it first.

Jim had delivered the shot which so crippled the animal as to cause him to cease trying to escape, thus permitting Roy to walk up to the animal and deliver the finishing shot. Jim had effectively brought the deer under his control before Roy took a hand in the matter. The deer legally belonged to Jim, and he can enforce his claim in court.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D.
Commissioner of Health

Common colds and influenza cases increase during the fall, reaching a winter peak. Underlying causes pose a perplexing problem for scientists.

One thing they have determined is that a high standard of health promotes disease resistance.

With this in mind and a look at the calendar we are reminded that it's time to take an individual fall health inventory.

Inseparable elements of a healthy life are a balanced diet, plenty of sleep and adequate exercise. Persons who have chronic diseases or other health problems are exceptions to the rule and should—of course—be advised by a physician.

Panaceas proclaimed by health and food faddists vacillate from vegetarian to carnivorous diets—from taking an early morning swim to drinking warm mineral water. The list is vast, but a balanced plan for daily living boasts modern health authorities' stamp of approval.

A balanced diet, according to nutritionists, includes daily consumption of the basic four: protein, green and yellow vegetables, milk and eggs, bread or other wheat products. Contrary to some popular theories, an inadequate diet supplemented with vitamin pills does not satisfy body needs.

The average person spends over 8,000 24-hour days, or bet-involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Old Philosopher Has His Own Opinion About Findings Of Public Opinion Poll

Editor's Note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on Devil's River takes issue with a public opinion poll this week.

Dear editor:

I have long felt that a public opinion poll is like a sports writer's guess on next week's football scores. When he's right, he's an expert, and when he's wrong, he doesn't know any more about it than the rest of us.

But people like to read such things, and it's a good thing. If they didn't, if they liked to read only things which are 100 percent right and infallibly wise, between a quarter to a third of his life, in sleep. Physiologists are still trying to formulate a scientific definition of sleep. The need for sleep, however, is apparent. Fatigue forces the body to work harder performing tasks than it would during ordinary circumstances.

Physical exercise—a change-of-pace activity or recreation—is the most frequently overlooked aspect of personal health. Regular, temperate exercising enhances bodily functions.

Persons who consistently stay indoors in cold weather are most susceptible, statistics show, to the common cold.

Modern scientific research has provided man with vaccines for such diseases as smallpox, polio, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and influenza. The individual bears the responsibility of keeping his immunizations up to date.

A final vital element in a personal inventory of health consists of a yearly check-up by the family physician and dentist. Physical examinations for persons middle-aged or older are recommended every six-months.

you and me would be hard up for readers, especially me.

What got me started on this was a national public opinion poll the other day which reported that 68 percent of the people in this country are satisfied with their income.

I don't know who all the pollsters interviewed, but they didn't get around to me.

In fact, come to think of it, I don't know who they interviewed to come up with this figure. Wasn't anybody I'm acquainted with.

I don't mind saying I'm not satisfied with my income, never have been and never will be. Moreover, I don't know anybody who is. Regardless of what a man makes or how much his income grows, if he has any confidence in his family he knows ahead of time they'll find a place to spend a little more than he makes.

I don't mean to say a lot of people don't consider themselves lucky to be getting what they are, but I just never have encountered a man who wouldn't be interested in a little more.

A man with a row boat wishes he had a speedboat. A man with a cabin cruiser wishes he had a yacht.

I don't know what it is a man with a yacht wishes, but it's something. Personally, I couldn't use a yacht, but anybody who thinks I'm satisfied with the income from this bitterweed ranch obviously thought Tom Dewey was going to beat Harry Truman.

I don't know how many interviewers the Gallup Poll has—the outfit that took this poll—but it would be interesting to find out how many of them are satisfied with the income they have. I have a notion Mr. Gallup could have saved some money just by interviewing his interviewers.

Understand though I'm not so dissatisfied with my income I'd do what it takes to improve it. I didn't say I was dissatisfied with the amount of work I'm doing, only with what I get for it.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Pecan Threshing On School Grounds Outlawed By Board

At a meeting October 14 the Sonora School Board resolved that pecans from trees on the school grounds should be left to fall naturally and be gathered by school children. Threshing the trees will not be allowed. Omer Grelle, city marshal, was requested to warn anyone doing so that they are trespassing on public property and to take necessary action to halt any violation.

Sonora school principals attended the Board meeting for a discussion of academic problems.

Also considered were improvements at the football stadium and a new field house. A San Angelo architect gave the Board information about these matters. No action was taken.

ATLANTIC REFINING CO. COMPLETES FACILITIES

The Devil's Workshop

An Idle Mind Column

By Della King

A happy surprise came in the mail a few days ago when Mrs. Jewel Alexander Brown sent us "Forty Years a Fool."

This is the book written by her grandfather, Charles Adams, founder of Sonora.

Adams told of one feature of the establishment of Sonora in this passage:

"When I first started the town I filed on a section of school land, made the proper payments and began selling lots. For two years the new child grew and flourished like a rose. I saw that I was going to get rich and took up with some London sharks the proposition of establishing a family coat of arms. But all at once the horrible discovery was made that we had not established the town on the school section bought from the State, but upon the land that belonged to a New York firm. It was then up to us to pitch in and buy our town. One of the members hastened to New York and succeeded in making the purchase all right, but the firm was very suspicious. They believed that a gold mine had been found and in the deed they reserved everything under the surface, selling us just the top of the ground. Well that was all right; we were not hoping for mineral and cared nothing about that feature of the purchase. But in after years it proved to be a boomerang. Nothing was thought of it at the time, but by the terms of the deed we had cut ourselves off from water."

Later in the footnotes Adams explains, "The fact that the deeds to Sonora property do not include anything under the surface of the ground explains why you never see a man from that town drinking water."

Unusual but not extreme. Lavish yet budget-priced.

DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Where but in print can you get so close to the advertising messages that interest you? Where else can a woman clip the coupons and recipes that intrigue her? Or tear out tips to try on leftovers? Or mark, for future marketing, any of the colorful food ideas which strike her fancy? And where else can she circle and compare the colors and styles of clothing and furnishings that appeal to her?

Where else, in fact, can any message be re-run at will by an interested audience? So make sure a good part of your advertising message gets into print. Let somebody's eyes linger over it as long as they like. Let somebody's scissors clip it free of competition. And then watch someone's pocket or purse carry it to the place of purchase. Print makes sense because print makes sales.

RAIN THAT COUNTS

"It's the rain you keep that counts". The full truth of this statement is seldom realized. Many times we hear the statement, "There is nothing wrong that a good rain wouldn't cure". Rainfall, of course, is a necessary ingredient for range forage production. But a four-inch rain does not represent the same value to all ranchmen who receive it. To be effective for plant production, rainfall must first be soaked into the soil. This requires plant litter, or a live or dead cover of forage on the surface of the land. Without this blotter of plant material a high proportion of the rain may be lost as runoff.

Live or dead plant litter does more than prevent runoff. Raindrops strike the soil cover and are shattered into minute droplets which sink rapidly into open pores of the soil. When raindrops "bomb" dry ground the clay soil "puddles", the pores are sealed off, and a four-inch rain may penetrate only four inches—instead of the 16 inches it should penetrate.

After moisture is soaked into the soil, plant cover helps prevent rapid drying or water loss from evaporation. The litter keeps the soil cool (or warm in winter) and shades it from the sun's rays. The moist earth also enables the small seed to germinate and survive under litter—when seedlings on bare ground fail.

Range condition—or the kinds of plants present—also helps determine the value of the rain. On bare ground, for example, production must start from tiny seed. One rain can do little more than start the growth process—other rains must follow quickly to insure production.

Ranges in poor condition will produce limited growth in such plants as red grama, hairy tridens and other low producing grasses—and much of the available moisture may produce worthless or poisonous weeds.

Ranges in good condition with a vigorous cover of high-producing grasses are ready to make immediate and maximum use of available moisture—whether it fall as a heavy downpour or as slow soaker. Ranchmen with good ranges can expect "cow grass" very quickly.

Rainfall in 1963 thus far emphasizes the tremendous value of having adequate live or dead cover on the ground when rain comes. Of the 11.55 inches of rain falling thus far in 1963 on the Herbert Fields gauge, 7.73 inches fell in two months—May and September.

Where the 5.43 inches in May and the 2.30 inches in September fell on rangeland with an adequate litter cover, good production of grass quickly resulted. The same rain on bare or closely grazed ranges produced very little growth—because follow-up rains in June and October failed to come.

Soil Conservation Service technicians recommend that ranchmen "take half and leave half" of each year's forage production. This rule of thumb for proper range use will insure a good litter cover to catch and use the next rain.

THE TEEN SCENE

By Mary Davis

It is nice to see that John David Fields is home from San Angelo now. What is it like to have your toenails painted when you are flat on your back, David?

Since we have begun the second six weeks of school, it's about time that I mentioned some of the new faces in high school.

Tim Brown comes from a good distance away. Brookhaven, Mississippi, used to be his stomping grounds. Tim likes model cars, football, and basketball. His favorite subject is geometry. He likes our football team and says it has lots of spirit.

Of Sonora Tim says, "I really like it; it's much better than I thought it would be."

This week is the first of the district games and the beginning of our last district games in the AA classification. The excitement is beginning to run high over the anticipation of the game. The boys have been practicing for two weeks. The band also has been practicing for two weeks and sincerely hopes that they will have a good program.

The National Honor Society has elected its officers. Larry Moore is president, Carla Whitworth is vice-president, Diana Cahill is secretary, and Bill Elliott is treasurer. The new members will be chosen in the spring by a group of teachers.

Plans for the Carnival are still underway. All the clubs and classes are advertising and selling tickets and asking parents, to help in the proceedings. All of this reminds us that fall is in the air.

-GREEN NEWS-

By Monica Davis

The tournament was heaps of fun, even tho' it was a little on the windy, damp side.

James W. Scott and Beecher Montgomery of Ozona were first place winners in the championship flight. A play-off was necessary by the three other teams in this flight to determine the runner-up winner. J. W. Neville and Carroll Cochran won that title.

First flight winners were Rusty Horton and Fred Smith of San Angelo. In this flight, too, it was necessary to have a play-off to determine the runner-up winner. Norman Rousselot and Robert Mayer of Sonora won.

Second flight winners for first place were Lee Fawcett of Sonora and Jack Hext of Eldorado. By this time play-offs seems to be the order of the day and John Bell and L. E. Holland of Sonora won this play-off for runner-up place in the second flight.

The third flight winners were Lea Roy Aldwell and Jake Billingsley of Sonora with Tommy Smith and Bobby Granger of Sonora as runner-up winners.

The Junior tournament was quite successful also. In the age group 16 to 19, Dude Milton, Big Lake, David Childress, Ozona, and Johnny Howard, Big Lake, had to have a play-off to determine first place winner and runner-up. David Childress won first place and runner-up went to Johnny Howard.

In the 13 to 15 year age group, Lawrence Holland, Sonora, won first, and Wynn Saunders of Ozona won runner-up place.

In the age group 12 and under, David Wuest, Sonora, was champion, and Steve Thorp, Sonora, was runner-up.

It was really a big week for the Club last week. Besides the tournaments, the Auxiliary had its monthly meeting and luncheon. Hostesses were Billie Smith, Betty Renfro, and Doris Rousselot.

In the golf department, Wanda Cahill won low gross and low net. Bridge winners were Elizabeth Neill, high, and Billy Smith, second high.

We have three new Golf Club members we would like to welcome: Glen Chadwick, Bud Smith, and Jackie Sharp. Mrs. Ed Mayfield is a new member of the Auxiliary.

I received a nice long article through the mail the other day. It was from the front page of the Wall Street Journal, and was titled "Golf Course Building Booms, but Golfers Increase Even Faster." It tells of the many, many golf courses that are being aided by Federal agencies on new construction, and how many are sprouting up every where. You know, we do have a pretty valuable bit of property. Anyhow, I have pinned the article on the bulletin board at the Club House. Everyone will find it really interesting reading.

YOUR MINISTER SAYS

By Rev. Jake Billingsley, Rector, St. John's Episcopal Church

How long has it been since you meditated on the Ten Commandments, on their meaning and their application today?

The first commandment says there is but one God, and we are not to have no other gods but Him. One of the primary attributes of God, or any god, is that He has power: power such that, as the song goes, "He's got the whole world in His hands!" Do we really trust in God's power, do we really fear His power, or do we trust, say, money or wealth as power more than we trust and fear the power of God, whom we cannot see?

The second says that we are not to make for ourselves graven images or idols to bow down to and worship. What is offensive about a graven image or idol is that we tend to say, if we use them, that God is no more powerful than this image or idol of Himself. God becomes little and of not much consequence in our lives. We can do this to our conception, to our awareness of God, without using images or idols; we can do it in our minds, make for ourselves mental images and mental idols of God—such that our awareness of Him is much less than the reality of Him.

The third commandment tells us that we are not to take the Name of the LORD in vain. The Hebrews of Moses' time actually had a name for God, and we do, too, of course: it is Jehovah, or Jahweh. It is more customary for us, however, to use "God" as the name of God—as, for example, a man were to be named "Man". We use His name, whether God or Jahweh, in vain whenever we use it and do not feel awe and reverence. This "profanes" his holy name. "Profanity," of course, as we usually think of it, is not the only way we profane His name. We do it, we religious folk, whenever we speak glibly with piety that is only skin deep, uttering religious words without seriously considering the implications of what we are saying.

The fourth commandment says that we are to keep holy the Sabbath-day, and what this means to us today is that at least one day each week is to be "holy" for us. At least one day of each week, or its equivalent, is to be devoted to "holiness". One way of understanding this is to realize that each of us needs at least this much time, out of our total time, for worship and prayer and reflection and meditation and study in the area of our relationship to God. Most of us try to get by with much less, and perhaps that is how it has come to be that the time in which we live is called "the age of anxiety".

These are the first four commandments; there are, of course, six more. These first four have to do with our duty to God; the last six have to do with our duty to our neighbor.

Study them. Help your children to learn them; not just to memorize them, but to learn them fully. Help them, and yourself, to love these commandments and to praise God for giving them to us, along with all else he has taught us, to help us to live more satisfying and meaningful lives.
