Declaration of Principles

1. Social Security pensions at age 60.
2. A Minimum wage of not less than $1.50 an hour for all—no exceptions.
3. The right to a job or unemployment insurance 52 weeks a year, covering at least two-thirds of the individual's income.
4. Tax reduction in lower income bracket—$1,000 exemption for each dependent.
5. Housing—An expanded program of slum clearance and low-cost housing with adequate safeguards to prevent the creation of new slums.
6. Federal Aid to Education—guaranteeing every child an opportunity to receive the training and education of his choice.
7. A Medicare program through Social Security.
8. A 35-hour work week with double time paid by first and second employer (to eliminate moonlighting.)
9. Repeat anti-strike legislation and preserve free collective bargaining.
10. Protect the constitutional rights of all citizens from governmental and private interference.

—The International Teamster.
Mr. Hoffa sends most newspapers his monthly magazine giving information about the International Teamster's Union and its goals. These aims might one day come about, but today they seem very unrealistic when I ask myself where the money will come from. Machines still can't perform all the work. Until they can, man is still going to have to work for his bread. And any benefit which comes to the worker without an increase in productivity by the worker either forces industry into raising prices or getting by on less profits. Usually there's a rise in prices and the consumer pays.

... no company which has steadily invested in more and more modern equipment and whose workmen have used it to the best of their ability, has ever failed to employ more and more people at higher and higher wages with more and more security.

—Warner and Swasey

Credit this one to George Dolan of the Fort Worth Star Telegram: The teacher asked her class to make a sentence using "bitter end." As an example she gave "They fought to the bitter end." One little boy handed in this sentence: "The dog chased the cat under the chair and bitter end."

He who laughs first should be given credit, because he knows a funny thing when he's said it.

"Who is that terribly ugly man sitting over there?"
"Why, that's my brother!"
"Oh, you must excuse me," said the lady, in embarrassment, and added apologetically, "I really hadn't noticed the resemblance."

Mike And Ike

Both Mike and Ike raised their football guessing percentages even higher this week. Only the Brady-Mason game threw both prognosticators. In that game Brady overwhelmed high-rated Mason 30-14. Mike now has 48 out of 64 correct for 74% and Ike has 40 out of 65 for a 62% average.

This week Ike sticks his neck out to predict: "Baylor will nudge Texas in a real offense battle. The Bear's can't run on Texas, but their passing game should offset the strong Texas ground game."

Milo Perez Wins First Place Money In Football Contest

Milo Perez won first; Alfred Perez, John David Perez and Larry Moore won second; and Tommy Thorp won third in last week's football guessing contest. Milo Perez won the $7.50 first place with a score of 18 out of 20 correct. Second place winners all guessed correctly the outcome of 16 games each, and oddly came up with the same tie-breaker score of 21. This was the first time the tie-breaker failed to eliminate all but one winner in each place.

Tommy Thorp won third by guessing 16 games correctly, but he put 23 as a tie-breaker. Winners may pick up their money at the Devil's River News Office.

Sonora Meets Crane In Grid Match Friday

The Sonora Broncos encounter their third district opponent of the 1963 season when they meet the Golden Cranes of Crane Friday night at 7:30 in Bronco stadium.

In pre-season forecasts Crane was picked to win the championship of District 7-AA, and Jerry Hopkins, Bronco coach, rated them "About the same as last year." In 1962 the Golden Cranes won the district title for the third consecutive year with a district record of four wins, no losses.

This year Coach Dan Anderson's boys have racked up seven victories with only one tie marking a perfect season thus far. With ten lettermen returning the Golden Cranes smashed over Plains, Monahans, Rankin, and Pecos to win their first four games. They then battled Fort Stockton to a 21-21 deadlock. The next three games went to Crane, with Wink falling 22-6, Stanton 41-0, and Alpine 13-6. Crane rested last Friday night.

Elsewhere in District 7-AA, McCamey defeated Stanton 14-0 last week.

Records of District 7-AA teams in district play are as follows: McCamey, three wins, no losses; Crane, two wins, no losses; Alpine, one win, two losses; Sonora, two losses; and Stanton, two losses.

Light Voting Expected Saturday On 4 Amendments

F. L. McKinney, county clerk, said that polls would be open at the Courthouse Saturday from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. for Sutton County voters planning to vote on the four amendments.

McKinney said that only one absentee ballot had been sent out and that he expected voting to be light.

Pros and cons of the poll tax amendment are discussed on the editorial page this week and a sample ballot is reproduced on page 3.

Thursday afternoon the spooks congregated east of the courthouse, and shortly afterward the parade began. Youngsters were dressed as witches, ghosts, Little Bo Peep complete with Sheep, Sir Lancelot, the Tin Man, a robot, Cracker Jack and surprise toy, spacemen, bunnies, ballerinas, dice, bats, and all sorts of Halloween goblins. High School girls bearing cleverly designed placards led the spooks to the judging stand where Delia Duran and her escort Tino Noriega represented the senior class, Cindy Galbreath and her escort Teddy Wheelis represented the junior class, Janie Letsinger and her escort Bill Glasscock represented the sophomore class, and Linda McCutchen and her escort Lanney Cook represented the freshman class. Mrs. Ed Grobe, Mrs. Carl Cahill, and Mrs. Shelley Lowe had the difficult job of choosing the best-costumed from each division and the three overall winners. Wearing the funniest costume was Drew Scherz, who was dressed as a street peddler with a large nose, drooping clothes, and a floppy hat. Darla Moore's costume was judged the most original. She was wearing genuine cabbage leaves and a large red mouth. The scariest costume was worn by Melinda Earwood. She had long, pale green fingers and a black and white checked outfit streaked with unidentified red-brown stains.

Brenda Perez from Mrs. Mary Ruth McGilvray's third grade was crowned queen of the L. W. Elliott school PTA carnival October 28. Brenda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernesto Perez. Receipts from the Queen's race totalled $323.03 and carnival receipts were $291.97. In the costume parade, winners were Elodia Urias, Isabel Beserra, Philip Virgen, and Mary Helen Sanchez.

HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

The Hudspeth Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will meet in the home of Mrs. A. W. Await at 3 p.m. Monday, November 11.

Old Philosopher Expresses His Opinion On Proceeding With Man-On-Moon Plans

Editor's Note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitter-wood ranch on Devil's River discusses a burning issue of the day.

Dear editor:

A man in town stopped me the other day and said, "Say, you're always expressing an opinion, tell me, should the United States proceed with its plans to put a man on the moon?"

I'll give you my opinion very frankly.

First, as I understand it, and I don't mind saying the way I understand some situations has no bearing on what the true situations are, here Russia and us were all set for a race to the moon and Russia ups and calls the game off.

And as I further understand it, the scientists in charge of the moon project argue that whether Russia tries for the moon or not has no bearing on what we do, that getting to the moon is worth what it'll cost, regardless.

Now while I've always felt a man shouldn't rush head-long into plowing, marrying or moon-shooting, that it's wiser and easier and more comfortable to take your time on either task, still I don't know enough about the fruits of outer space to say we shouldn't spend 40 billion dollars to explore it.

But I was just thinking. Say we spend 40 billion and get to the moon but don't find quite what we were looking for, that the fun, as they say about mountain climbing, was getting there, not staying there.

All right. Here we've got all this money invested, we might as well try some other planet. The next planet, like next year's crop, may always look better than the current one.

Now naturally the first trip, like the first model of a new airplane, costs a lot more than those that follow, so we'll assume that we can land a man on Venus for half as much, one on Jupiter for half of that, and so forth, until we get the cost down to say a measly billion dollars a planet.

Well, since man can't imagine an end or a lack of an end to space, scientists have estimated there are countless billions of planets in the universe, and maybe some more universes outside of this one. But just for the sake of simple arithmetic, say there are a billion explorable planets out there waiting for us to put a man on.

At one billion dollars a planet, that's a billion-billion dollars. I would write the figure out in numerals, but I don't know how to do it and anyway I doubt if you have enough zeroes in The Devil's River News printing plant to swing it.

As you can see, my answer to the question, Should we put a man on the moon, is a clear-cut, emphatic I don't know.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

Poll Tax: Keep It or End It ?

On November 9, what will probably be a small number of Texas voters will approve or reject four State Constitutional Amendments, one of which, abolishment of the Poll Tax requirement, will influence greatly the future character of Texas State Government.

Involved in this crucial issue are—

First: The pending amendment to the Federal Constitution that will prohibit denial or abridgment of a citizen's right to vote in any Primary or other election for President, Vice President, or member of Congress, by reason of failure to pay any poll tax or other tax.

Second: The proposal to be voted on November 9th for abolishment of payment of the Texas Poll Tax as prerequisite for voting and authorizing the Legislature to establish a system of voter registration.

Third: The Registration Act passed this year by the Texas Legislature, to become effective only if Texas voters approve the proposed amendment abolishing the Poll Tax requirement.

The amendment to the Federal Constitution has been approved by all but two of the required 38 State Legislatures. Several Legislatures meet in January. No doubt, approval by the needed two State Legislatures will be voted in time for the amendment to be made effective prior to the November, 1964, elections or just possibly before the May Primaries. Therefore, the possibilities of the voting situation in Texas in 1964 are, as follows:

First: If both the Federal and the State Constitutional Amendments become effective, the requirement for payment of the Texas Poll Tax as a prerequisite for voting will be completely nullified and the Voter Registration Act, provisionally enacted by the Legislature, will become effective. All voters, in all elections will be required to register each year and to pay a 25c registration fee.

Second: If the Federal Constitutional Amendment has not become effective and the State Amendment is adopted, then the Poll Tax requirement will be abolished and the registration system will become effective for all voters at all elections for both Federal and State offices.

Third: If the Federal Constitutional Amendment becomes effective and the State Constitutional Amendment is rejected by Texas voters on November 9, then for the election for state offices the Poll Tax requirement will remain effective and the Voter Registration Act will be void. For elections for Federal offices, the payment of the Poll Tax will not be required.

End The Poll Tax

Quite a lot is being said these days about the poll tax amendment to be decided by Texas voters November 9, and from those who support and those who oppose the abolition of the poll tax one might get the idea that it is another clear-cut issue of liberalism vs. conservatism—with the liberals for eliminating and the conservatives for retaining it.

We can't see it that way. While there are some extreme liberals advocating that it be eliminated, there also are many reasons which do not conflict with the views of the conservative—at least some who think of themselves as conservatives.

The fact that federal offices will be open to voting by those without a poll tax, whether or not we continue to make the poll tax a Texas requirement for voting for candidates for other offices, forces the issue. It would be almost impossible to vote for federal and state officials on the same ballot if for one a poll tax is needed, and for the other it be waived—other voting requirements being the same. If two separate ballots were required—some to one group of voters, but not to all—it would require separate ballot boxes and election supplies for the two types of electors and the two different elections.

Those who favor a continuation of the tax do so for a variety of reasons—the revenues involved, the fact that it tends to eliminate some of the voters on the lower rungs of the economic ladder, and could make it harder to run-in block votes.

Revenues are a minor consideration—the principal reason back of much of the thinking is the desire to keep as many votes as possible in the hands of more responsible people.

Yet the present laws are so loose that many pressure groups can tie-up a substantial block of votes by the simple expedient of paying a bunch of poll taxes for controlled groups—by use of the agent affidavit.

A requirement to register in person—medical reasons excepted—and a simple literacy test, both of which could be required in enabling legislation, could eliminate the poll-tax buying racket, and help the present bad situation.

No doubt opportunists and political systems will find means to pervert the new registration system, should it be voted in. They have always found ways to get around past laws where the intent was strong and the co-operation of proper officials to be had.

Actually, our voting laws and the sanctity of the ballot will be no better than enforcement demands by responsible citizens—with or without the poll tax. Therefore we conclude that Texas will be better off without it, in order to avoid confusion with federal conflicts.

—Fort Stockton Pioneer

Keep The Poll Tax

The charge that great confusion will result if the Federal Constitutional amendment becomes effective and the State amendment is rejected, has no foundation. Easily understood election procedures . . . are provided in the statutes enacted by the Texas Legislature this year. Therefore, the Texas voter can make his decision free of all issues other than the answer he will give to the question,

"Will Texas Government be improved through abolishment of the poll tax requirement and the adoption, in lieu thereof, of voter registration?"

On this question the Texas voter can gain enlightenment from the history of his own state. "Registration" was the device used by the carpet-baggers of the Reconstruction period to disfranchise all Texans who had had any affiliation with the Confederacy. So bitter was the resentment, that when Texans recaptured their State Government, they wrote into the State Constitution in 1875 a prohibition against "registration" as a means of qualifying voters. But, by removal of all restrictions other than age and residence, the way was cleared for another era of "block voting", engineered by certain special interests. Then, to eliminate this evil, Texans wrote into their Constitution in 1902 a provision that to qualify as a voter the Texan must pay his poll tax, created in 1845 for support of the schools. The purpose was to check election frauds through a system of registration that, at the same time, would afford a brake against "block voting".

During the intervening 60 years the Texan has cast votes to which he was entitled by a minimum contribution to his State Government. His poll tax receipt is his badge, both as a responsible citizen and as a qualified elector.

During these three-score years, Texas voters have established a state government that has for them many sources of well-justified state pride.

Argument for the repeal of the Texas poll tax requirement has been made by many well-intentioned Texans on the ground that the poll tax requirement is an immoral deprivation of the citizen's inherent right to vote. Idealistically, no great issue can be taken with this position. But, a means however well-intentioned, to evil ends, itself become evil. Both past and contemporary history marks as evil registration or other means through which voters are blocked, herded, brow-beaten, to vote in accordance with the dictates of their political bosses. The casting of such block votes is a dictatorial and not in the least particular a Democratic process.

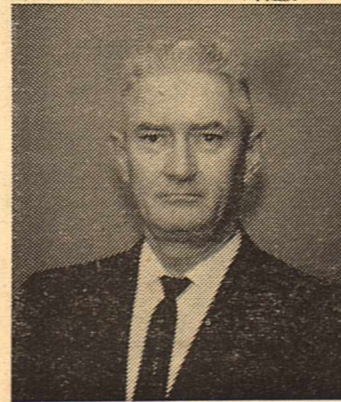

The people of Texas wrote the poll tax requirement into their State Constitution to preserve the purity of the ballot in Texas. Any substitute measure should likewise be written into the State Constitution as protection against what will surely happen to the present provisional Registration Act, come the first liberal controlled Legislature. Those bent on repeal of the poll tax requirement should be defeated in their present effort. They can then present to the next Legislature proposal for the repeal of the poll tax requirement along with adoption of a registration provision that will afford some permanent protection against election frauds and against boss-ridden block voting.

THE TEEN SCENE

By Mary Davis

The Halloween Carnival is over for one more year. It proved to be a big success.

The trip to Alpine the next day was a long one, but it was a worth-while journey. Although the boys didn't come back with a victory, they all played a hard-fighting game.

Only a portion of the band went. They did their best to put on a good show and really enjoyed themselves despite the cold weather. Several of us were glad to see Becki Babb there. She had come over from Pecos to yell for Sonora. Becki sends a great big Howdy to all the kids here in Sonora.

The band nominated their candidates for the Band Sweetheart. The two girls who were in the runoff were Karen Davis and Doris Fuentes. The queen will be crowned at the Sonora-Stanton game.

Patty Smart had her wisdom teeth pulled out last Friday. She just couldn't stand being away from Sonora for any great length of time; so she came home from the hospital Saturday and is eagerly awaiting the time that she can come back to school. We all hope it is real soon.

It's just about time for the Thanksgiving and then most of the college kids will be home. It will be nice to see them again.

There will be a pep rally Thursday night at the Dairy Mart. Everyone should come. The Football boys should be there especially. It seems kind of funny having a pep rally with only one or two members of the team there. BEAT CRANE.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D.
Commissioner of Health

It may come as a blow to the male ego, but the facts are inescapable; men belong to the weaker sex—outnumbered, outwitted, and outlived by the sturdier female.

Are women biologically more

THREE SONORA MARINES COMPLETE ELEVEN-WEEK TRAINING IN SAN DIEGO

Marines Private Julio R. Samaniego Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Julio Samaniego, Private Jaime Chavez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Chavez, and Private John L. Glascock, grandson of Mrs. Dollye Glascock completed recruit training October 8 at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, California.

The 11-week indoctrination to Marine Corps life included instruction in military law, physical conditioning, military drill, and other military subjects. Three weeks were spent on the rifle range firing the M-14 rifle and other basic infantry weapons.

Grady Roe attended the San Angelo Youth Convocation held at the First Methodist Church in San Angelo Saturday and Sunday.

resistant to disease and death than men? Is the male animal shortening his life by greater aggressiveness, greater exposure to stress and disease, or by ignoring the laws of health? Can anything be done to reduce male mortality?

The sex ratio at birth—105 boys for each 100 girls—as well as death rates have always been higher than the female rates. It has long been assumed that women are biologically more resistant to disease, tolerating pain and illness better than men.

There are also striking differences in causes of death for each sex. Lung cancer kills six times more men than women.

The male death rate from syphilis and ulcer of stomach and upper small intestine is three times as high, and twice as high from tuberculosis. Three times more men than women commit suicide or are murdered. The odd thing is that higher male mortality, compared with females, extends to most animal species as well as to humans.

Because of the excessive mortality among males, their advantage in number at birth is offset by age 20. In 1900 the white American female averaged 1.9 more years of life than her male counterpart. In 1959, her life expectancy was 5.3 years more than the male.

Men are helping shorten their own lives. They have insisted on carrying the greater responsibility and have had to develop aggressiveness to meet that responsibility. Result: more worries, more stress, more contact with disease and physical dangers.

Women, on the other hand, are more likely to release pressure through tears, rest when they feel poorly, consult their doctor early when ill, and follow medical instructions better than men.

Much can be done to reduce excessive male mortality. One investigator has suggested a nationwide inventory of the physical, mental, and emotional assets and liabilities of men in preparation for intensifying the attack on accidents and occupational diseases and the research into cardiovascular diseases and cancer.

Alleviating the stresses of competitive living in a materialistic age requires that the fragile male be continuously instructed in the laws of health and encouraged to follow them.

It's The Law In Texas

FRIENDS OF THE COURT

Our system of justice rests upon the "adversary" theory of a trial where both sides have a right and duty to fight in dead earnest for real stakes so that the court can then better judge the merits of the case.

Our U. S. Supreme Court, for example, will not give an "advisory" opinion to anybody since such opinions elsewhere, often untested, make a mockery of the courts.

Our courts generally will decide a point of fact or law only where it has become the subject of a real controversy, and both sides will be represented with skill and in good faith.

A good judge knows that one side may sound good until he hears the other side speak. This is why a court may frown upon "friendly law suits" where two sides agree to go to court and get a decision interpreting an important legal question.

Without a real contest, the court may not see what a true adversary would make clear—that is, that there is another side to the question before the court, and that, perhaps the interests of many other people may be involved.

The other day one court threw out such a made-up law suit where a county in another state and a prospective county bond buyer had agreed to "test" the legality of same bonds in a friendly suit at the county's expense. One side would have pretended to put up a fight.

The courts go a long way to get real contests. They allow "friends of the court" (amicus curiae) to enter on one or both sides to fight in earnest.

In old Rome any passing stranger, or amicus curiae, might speak up to tell the court of a possible error it was making.

In America, the friend of the court often helps to point up the important issues.

For instance, a little known sect may print a religious tract or leaflet in some remote village. The constable may arrest one of its followers for "littering the streets." The fine may be a trifle, but the issue is big: Can any government unit, of whatever size, curb the freedom of the press or freedom of religion?

As this case goes on to higher courts, more and more people—citizens, publishers, and religious groups—get interested. They too have a stake in getting the "right" decision. The case lands in the U. S. Supreme Court. A dozen or more groups will ask the court to let them present "briefs" or amicus curiae arguments on both sides. Result: the court says no government can curb these freedoms.

Thus are great causes ably presented.

Who gains? Justice gains. The more cogent and earnest the discussion a court hears, the more likely in the long run it is to hand down sound opinions.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

4-H Members Parents To Be Honored Saturday

Penrose Metcalfe, past president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association, will be the principal speaker at the Annual Sutton County 4-H Achievement Banquet to be held in the Central Elementary School Cafeteria at 7 p.m. Saturday, November 9. Adult leaders and 4-H members will be honored for outstanding achievements during the year in the 4-H program.

A resident of San Angelo, Metcalfe is a former State Senator, past president of the National Wool Growers Association, and a member of the State Board of Education.

John Paul Friess, president of the Sutton County 4-H Club, will serve as master of ceremonies, and Mrs. S. M. Loeffler will provide the entertainment during the meal.

D. C. Langford, county agent, says that all boys and girls who have participated in the 4-H program during the year are invited to attend the banquet and bring a guest. Other persons who desire to attend may obtain tickets from members of the 4-H Club.

"The Sutton County 4-H Parents Club is the sponsor of the banquet, and the 4-H mothers are busy making plans for an excellent meal with all the trimmings," reports Langford.

The Devil's Workshop

An Idle Mind Column

By Della King

We hope that you will cast an informed vote in next Saturday's special election. A sample ballot appears on page three of this newspaper to assist you. When reading the questions to be decided on the ballot, also read the voting instructions at the top. So that your vote can be counted by the election judges, the entire statement which you oppose—not just the "for" or "against"—must be marked out.

On page two is a discussion of the poll tax with opposing views on the amendment. We hope that you will read, think, decide, and vote.

A joke appearing in the current "Texas Outlook" fits right in with last week's activities. It seems that a fortune teller reported to a man, "For the next 20 years you will be poor and very unhappy."

"And what will happen after 20 years?" he asked hopefully.

"Then," she replied, "you will get used to it."

The joke had an extra significance for me since I was among the "volunteer" fortune tellers at the Halloween Carnival last week. I slipped up when I told a budding Matt Dillon that he was a future Ben Casey, but otherwise each prediction seemed right on the button as each girl was told that she was destined to marry a man who is either tall, dark, and handsome or strong, blond, and charming. Strange, I never realized I had the gift before.

Sideline Shots

By Bobby Joe Granger

It certainly was nice to see such a fine representation of fans from Sonora in attendance at the Alpine-Sonora football game in Alpine last Friday night. There were some 50 fans from Sonora plus several Sonora students from Sul Ross College. We know the football team and coaches certainly appreciate this loyalty by those fans.

It was a long trip, but everyone was rewarded with a fine football game.

A special tribute has to go to the outstanding effort put forth by the Broncos. Virtually out-manned by the fine Alpine team, the Broncos could have pulled the game out with a timely break. I don't believe anyone in attendance felt bad about losing because of the tremendous effort put forth by the Broncos. When you lose one like this, you have simply lost to a better ball club and this is what happened last Friday.

One of the fine football prospects on the Alpine team is a former Sonoran. He is Marshall Krings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gwin (Brother) Krings. Marshall is 15 years old, 6' 3" tall, weighs 225 pounds, and is a sophomore. Marshall returned the second-half kickoff and figured in several big defensive plays for the Bucks. Hats off to a fine job by a former Sonoran.

Some people travel a long way to see football in the state of Texas. Bill Morriss was in College Station on Saturday, October 26, for the Baylor-Aggie game, in Austin that night for the Rice-Texas affair, and in Alpine Friday night. This amounts to over 1,000 miles traveled in just a week's time for football games.

People in Sonora should be proud of the manners exhibited by the Bronco football team during their stay in Alpine. Maybe we don't have the best football team in the state, but we are represented by a fine group of gentlemen.

DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Where but in print can you get so close to the advertising messages that interest you? Where else can a woman clip the coupons and recipes that intrigue her? Or tear out tips to try on leftovers? Or mark, for future marketing, any of the colorful food ideas which strike her fancy? And where else can she circle and compare the colors and styles of clothing and furnishings that appeal to her? Where else, in fact, can any message be re-run at will by an interested audience? So make sure a good part of your advertising message gets into print. Let somebody's eyes linger over it as long as they like. Let somebody's scissors clip it free of competition. And then watch someone's pocket or purse carry it to the place of purchase. Print makes sense because print makes sales.

Stockmen Alerted For Feed Bargains

Livestockmen should be alert for bargains when buying feed, says Shannon E. Carpenter, area dairy specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The important point to watch in buying feed, according to the specialist, is the price you pay for the actual nutrients of the feed. Feeds that seem expensive may be cheaper than low cost ones when the price is figured according to the actual amount of nutrients in the feed, he says.

As an example of how the producer can save money, Carpenter says that the purchase of cheap protein supplement may offer an opportunity to lower the cost of production. These supplements are available in 32 percent, 41 percent, 44 percent or higher amounts of protein content, he says. One pound of protein in a 32 percent supplement at $65 per ton will cost the same as one pound in a 41 percent supplement at $80, or in a 44 percent formula at $85. This makes it clear that all feed is not the same and that the higher priced materials are not always the most expensive, points out the specialist.

Too Many Clothes, Worn at Wrong Time, Can Make Cold Deer Hunters Even Colder

By Vern Sanford
Keeping warm out on the deer stand can be something of a real problem to the outdoorsman. One reason some outdoorsmen feel the cold so intensely is that they begin the day wearing too much clothing. I know it sounds ridiculous—getting cold because of too much clothing—so let me explain.

You start the morning off wearing enough apparel to keep you warm at the time. But actually you've got on too many clothes.

To begin with you feel the cold more because you've just come out of a warm house. In getting breakfast and dressing you've done relatively little physical exercise to generate body heat.

In addition to woolen underwear, you're bundled up in a sweatshirt, zip-up jacket and a heavy parka. You feel real comfortable at the time.

Exercise Warms Body
Then the work begins. You trudge out to the blind lugging a gun and shells. You're doing a lot of physical exercise so pretty soon you've worked up a good sweat.

Then you step into the blind for the hunt. There you're doing very little to generate body heat. So pretty soon you start feeling the cold because you're wet with perspiration.

You can avoid this cold by not wearing so many heavy clothes. Put on the extra coats only when you actually need them.

Many outdoorsmen complain of cold feet. There's a way to avoid that, too. You can wear insulated socks inside your boots. Or put on a pair of lightweight dress socks and then some heavy woolen socks.

Wear Loose Boots
Be sure your foot doesn't fit too snug inside the boot. A tight fit results in cutting down blood circulation in your feet. And with poor circulation you'll feel the chill.

When your foot has room within the boot, you can warm your feet by wiggling your toes to stimulate circulation. But just try to wiggle your toes in a boot that fits snug tight. It's the same way with your dress shoes. Your feet get colder in tight shoes than they do in loose-fitting ones.

Wear Caps With Flaps
What about cold ears? A cap with ear flaps is a must. But don't tie those flaps down snug when you're working or exercising vigorously. Heat generated by your body will make your head and ears wet with sweat. Let the flaps hang loose during periods of activity—then tie them down.

Coffee, hot tea and hot chocolate are wonderful for restoring body heat in those hours of inactivity when you're waiting for the deer to show. But don't take alcoholic beverages. The "snake bite" juice may warm you when you drink it, but it slows down blood circulation and shortly you'll get colder than ever.

But more important than that—alcohol and gun powder just don't mix.

Food Warms The Body
You also can build up body heat by munching a chocolate bar, or by eating an apple or an orange.

Gloves are a must in cold weather. But get the right kind to suit the purpose. Leather gloves are okay for the deer hunter who has little occasion to stick his hands in water. Gloves should be loose fitting so the one on your trigger hand can be slipped off in a hurry.

If possible, skip shaving the day before you make that cold weather hunting or fishing trip. That stubble on your face offers some protection against cold and it will help prevent face chapping.

Don't let cold weather spoil your outdoors enjoyment. Dress right, and you'll hardly notice the cold.

YOUR MINISTER SAYS

By Rev. Allen G. Roe, pastor First Methodist Church

In Him We Are Complete Col. 2:10

Jesus Christ is our best revelation of God. He conducted himself exactly as one might have expected God to do under the circumstances. There is nothing in the conduct of Jesus that we would not be willing to see God do; and there was nothing that He would have wished a loving God to do that He did not do. Thus we find our best revelation of God in Jesus Christ.

We should be grateful for this revelation and that we have the records of the Gospel writers to help us to an understanding of what the Christ demands of us. He taught us to pray to God as our Father, meaning that He is the Father of all mankind. Yet it is quite apparent that we have not thought of God as the Father of other people in the same manner that He is our Father. Jesus tells us that "this is our Father's world" and He indicates and demonstrates by His own life how we are to live in it.

We are reminded constantly that there is much disharmony and confusion in the world, and when we study the Gospel records we come to believe that our separation from God brings about the discord.

We should know by now that sorrow in one form or another is bound to hit us. We should also realize that God is no respecter of persons... He is not partial. He does not promise to keep us from sorrow, but He does promise to be there when we pass through the valley of the shadow of death. Don't think your case is unique. Distress comes to the best of families, but when we are able to place our full trust in God and follow His revealed life in the person of His Son, He gives us the power to overcome.

Someone has said "we are the unfinished Masters of an Unfinished World." With an unfinished people in an unfinished world we are bound to have troubles and sorrows. The question is not their coming but what they do to us when they come. They can make us or break us, and whether they make us or break us depends upon our attitudes.

Our great need is to turn to God for all the help He can bestow upon us for the living of these days. His mercies are everlasting and His grace is infinite. He will give to all His children, when committed to His will, faith that is adequate and attitudes that are essential in the ascending ways that lead to life.

-GREEN NEWS-

By Monica Davis

Friday morning the Board of Directors had a called meeting at the bank. Lea Roy Aldwell, Bill Tittle, J. W. Neville, Clayton Hamilton, Louis Davis, and Jack Mackey voted to post the golf course against any hunting at all. (Posted signs will be put up at the entrances to the golf course, and violators will be prosecuted.) This was done in an effort to preserve the quail and turkey we all enjoy watching so much.

In a second motion, it was voted to cooperate with the Airport Committee in any necessary eradication of deer which might present a hazard to planes landing at night. This program can only be carried out by approval of the State Game Commission in Austin and must be approved as a safety precaution to protect human lives. As you know, the deer have tracked up our greens in the past. This is only a nuisance . . . The deer on the landing strip, however, are definitely a hazard to the pilots and this is the reason for the directors' approval on the eradication. ONLY GAME WARDENS CAN DO THE ACTUAL KILLING.

Shorty Taylor will be teaching lessons at the course. All who are interested should contact Son Allison for more explicit information. As I understand it, Shorty will teach just two students at the time, forty-five minutes and it will cost two dollars a lesson. Some of those I could use — lessons that is.

We have a new type of team play for our ladies group starting Wednesday the sixth. I can't explain the game, but Ernestine Hext will be there to tell us all about it. Next week I should be able to tell you a bit more about it.

Ladies, we are going to have a tournament to see who is the champion of Sonora. November 13 is the day for qualifying rounds and the tournament will end on the nineteenth.

Have seen some new faces golfing this past week—Rev. Billingsley, his wife and daughter have been on the driving range as well as making the rounds. The little one is just lots of help! Another family seen making the rounds were the Chadwicks. Also seen were some folks who haven't played in a while—Betty Stewart is back at the game as are Son and Wanda Allison. Feels good to be back, doesn't it?

Boosters Name Banquet Committee

E. B. Keng was named chairman of the banquet committee at the Bronco Booster Club meeting Monday night. Others named to serve on the committee to plan the banquet honoring Bronco football players were Herman Moore, John Mittel, Bobby Joe Granger, Pat Brown, G. H. Hall, and L. P. Bloodworth.

Several of the booster members as well as Coach Jerry Hopkins praised the Bronco team for its efforts against Alpine last week. Hopkins said that his boys did a good job and showed major improvements since the start of the season.

Hopkins said that Crane had a very strong defense and that his Broncos would be going to the air this Friday in hopes of a win. L. P. Bloodworth, Booster president, said that the club made $127 from the cake sale held several weeks ago.

Visiting the Robert Kelley family this week is Mrs. Kelley's mother, Mrs. Harry Pearson of Beaumont.

Lt. Rodney E. Davis Participates In Operation Big Lift

Army Second Lieutenant Rodney E. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Davis, is participating in Operation Big Lift, the largest transoceanic Army-Air Force deployment ever made by air. The exercise began October 22 and is scheduled to end in late December.

Lieutenant Davis and other members of the Second Armored Division were flown from bases near Fort Hood to bases in Germany where they drew heavy equipment from prepositioned stocks. The men then joined other U. S. troops stationed in Germany for a NATO training exercise. Upon completion of the training, the division will turn in its equipment and return to the U.S.

Lieutenant Davis, a platoon leader in Company B, Second Battalion of the division's 41st Infantry at the fort, entered the Army last May. The 23-year-old officer is a 1958 graduate of Sonora High School and a 1963 graduate of Tarleton State College in Stephenville.
