

CINDERS

John T. King

What is that saying about you can take the boy out of the country but you can't take the country out of the boy? It might well be applied about the city boy, Jim Barnett, our editor for almost 2 years.

We are sorry to see Jim vacate his position as editor—and writer of this column. But we are glad to have provided a training ground in all phases of newspaper production. Jim came to us right out of the University of Houston with a B.J. degree. And in the almost two years he has been here I'm sure he laid a foundation in newspaper writing and production that will help him advance in his career.

I can feel a kinship with him, for it wasn't too long ago that I too found myself tempering textbook learning with actual circumstances. Don't we all continue to learn, no matter how long we've been out of the classroom?

Jim's talents will be missed. Besides writing and editing most of the news for each issue, he found himself taking and developing pictures, engraving them, and deciding where they would appear in the paper. Wednesdays found him winding up the late stories and then to the back shop he would go. Although composition wasn't one of the duties of his assignment, he made up (placed type, pictures, headlines in position) the front page and some of the inside pages every week that he was here. He even hand-set the front page headlines. Although he may not have an opportunity to do this type of work in his new position, he'll always feel a certain brotherhood with the printers and understand their problems of placing too much type in too little space.

After corrections were made and pages on the press, Jim was often the one who fed the folder. This rattling, clanking machine full of belts, knives, and rollers, has a way of finally about it when the operator puts in the paper. If fed correctly, the machine takes a 35x44 sheet of paper as if digesting it, neatly folds and slits the news into a manageable product ready for delivery.

But if the operator feeds in the sheet crooked, or at the wrong time, the machine viciously tears the sheet into a thousand shreds—no doubt as a show of contempt for the operator.

It's not uncommon to put a new person on the folder and find, too late, that not enough papers were printed to take care of the readers, but the packers could move all the china and glass in Sonora.

Although this wasn't Jim's favorite job, he did manage the folding so that there were always enough papers to go around.

Then Thursdays. They're always very bad or very good. If your handling of stories is good the phone may ring out a word of praise. But if the front page story didn't make the front page, or if the wrong person got the blame, or credit, you'll hear from readers you never knew existed.

Jim, you'll miss this in the big city. There they probably have a complaint department to take care of the Thursday calls. You'll seldom hear the words of appreciation when you do a better than average job. And you'll only get chewed on by the managing editor. It may have advantages, but you'll be just a little out of touch with your readers. That's bad.

But as Jim goes to seek fame and fortune in the big city I bet he takes a little of Sonora with him. I bet he takes with him the memories of two years full of rich memories that will be remembered for many years to come. The rest of us at the Devil are proud of the way Sonorans welcomed this "newcomer" and know the friendships he formed here will last for years, even though separated by many miles.

Have you heard about the new breed of web-footed sheep that are being developed? They might be the coming thing if the weather keeps giving more of the same. Last year the May 18 issue reported rain for the year to be 3.37 inches. This year up to May 9 rainfall had been 11.31. I really haven't heard anyone complain, though.

School Board Accepts Resignations Approves Summer Improvement Projects

With the end of the school year in sight, Sonora's school board members spent most of their monthly business meeting Monday afternoon discussing building projects planned for completion during the summer months.

Approval was given for widening of the practice football field and paving of the street in front of the newly completed teacher-charge currently occupied by head coach Jerry Hopkins. A tentative nod was given a proposed remodeling of the teacherage known as the "old Superintendent's house" with the board authorizing the drawing of specifications and advertising for bids. The house to be remodeled is now occupied by Bob McMinn, principal of the Junior High School.

Also discussed was the construction of new tennis courts to replace those removed to make way for the new Gymnasium. The board had previously approved construction but invitation to bid had been delayed so construction could take place during the summer vacation.

In recommending the addition to the practice field, Hopkins told the board that the present facility was long enough. "But," said Hopkins, "the width just isn't there for practicing pass defense and certain other drills. We just have to move over to the game field, and that tears it up pretty quick." "Then too," Hopkins added, "the band has to practice marching on the game field and that packs it down, too. Charlie (Brown, the band director), tells me that with a full width practice field, he could work out there also. We'd be off the game field most of the time. It sure would help."

Summer School In other action, the board heard superintendent Ralph Finklea report that summer school will begin June 3 with mathematics and drivers education being offered. Mrs. Ross Welch will teach math while the drivers ed class will be handled by Dennie Hays. Costs have been tentatively set at $5 for the math program and $20 for drivers education. Registration is now in progress at the school.

Finklea said that a proposed language arts class had been abandoned for lack of the required minimum number of participants.

The board received and accepted the resignations of three teachers, Mrs. Ethel M. Olson, Ivan Greenhaw, and Mrs. Carol Love. Newly elected teachers are Miss Janice Faye McClelland and Miss Linda Dykes.

SP. 5 JAMES STEWART Stewart Attends Mechanics School

Army Specialist 5th Class James Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. James N. Stewart, is a participant in the mechanics training programs in Denver, Colorado, for members of the armed forces nearing separation.

As part of the Defense Department's "Project Transition" program 10 GI's from four states began a six-week, 240-hour training program conducted by GM's Chevrolet Division.

At the successful conclusion of the program the trainees are eligible to be employed as mechanics by various Chevrolet dealers. Stewart plans to attend Texas A&M or Tarleton State College.

SCRUBDOWN PRIOR TO WORKOUT comes to Sonora's swimming pool. Monday afternoon city workmen were busy removing trash and dirt that had accumulated in the pool since it closed after last summer's season. Operation of the pool this year will be under the direction of Jerry Hopkins and Dennie Hays. The City and the Downtown Lions Club share the cost of maintenance and chemicals and admission fees go to pay for summer supervision.

A PARSON'S EYE-VIEW OF SONORA

BY THE REV. ROSS T. WELCH

It is good to have word that the preacher shortage in Sonora is going to be somewhat relieved, since two churches have pastors coming soon.

The St. John's Episcopal congregation has called Norman Griffith, who is finishing his work at the seminary at Alexandria, Va., at the end of this school term. He will come to San Antonio for ordination in June and, after a brief vacation, will be in Sonora to assume his responsibilities by July 1, according to Mrs. Joseph VanderStucken.

The Griffiths have two sons, ages 14 and 16, both born in Texas, who are looking forward to life in a small West Texas town.

The Hope Lutheran congregation has called as its pastor, Vicar Firmhaber (I hope the spelling is correct), who is also finishing his seminary training. After a short vicarage here he will be ordained.

The Firmhabers have four children and will arrive in mid-June. We welcome both families to Sonora and both ministers to the brotherhood.

On the other hand, we are losing the Rev. George Stewart and his family to the Alamo Heights Presbyterian Church in San Antonio.

We understand the Church of the Good Shepherd pulpit will be filled through the summer months at an early morning service on Sundays by the pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Eldorado.

The Ministerial Alliance is sponsoring a dinner honoring the Stewarts tomorrow (Friday) evening at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Lea Roy Aldwell.

That will leave the Rev. Rodney Dowdy as dean of the local clergy and he has not been here much longer than I have. I am almost afraid to go to annual conference.

The Lower Auditorium will be the Methodist Church was filled Sunday afternoon when Mrs. A. C. Elliott presented her 19 pupils in a piano recital. There was a considerable range in age and experience, hence in ability and type of music.

Since my musical education was sadly neglected, I was not as aware of mistakes as the musicians were; but I found none of it baring from beginner Brian Dorran's 'Tom Tom' music to advanced students who played Bach.

Awards for faithfulness in preparation of music lessons across the training period were made to Flaire Lane, Martha Elliott and Janice Nance. The latter two also won special Earl Allison Founder's Medals.

A special award for excellence in Guild performance went to Mary Ann Pettiet. These were in addition to the diplomas and numerous awards from the Music Guild.

Mrs. Esther Loeffler will present her piano pupils in recital at the Methodist Church Friday.

May 17, at 8 p.m. The public is invited. A reception will follow.

A number of adults accompanied the Bronco Band to HemisFair last week and they were unanimous in their praise both of the Band's performance and also of the Fair.

Most everyone who has gone to the world fair on our doorstep has come home with the determination to go again. Most feel they can be more selective on their second visit.

We are looking forward to the time when we shall have enough time to visit the Fair. I say again, it ought to be against the law—having a preacher and a teacher in the same family. That just doesn't leave any spare time.

I see now where they have started picketing churches in San Antonio. I hope this will have the effect of reminding some people that it is a privilege to go to church. Not all the people in the world enjoy that privilege. And those who do have the freedom of worship may not have it long unless they exercise it.

I can remember the time when little girls took music lessons with the ambition and intention in mind of one day playing for their church. They eagerly awaited the time when they would be old enough and experienced enough to play, first for Sunday school, then for the worship service.

Do you know how difficult it is to get someone to substitute now when the organists are out of town?

But there was a time also when outstanding students were picked for the ministry. For years the various denominations have been busy up-grading the educational requirements for their ministers.

Now it is difficult to get a young man to consider the ministry as an option. With the same academic requirements made of the minister, he can go into other fields far more lucrative.

Some will ask, "Don't you believe in a 'called' ministry?" I do, but sometimes it is difficult for a young man to hear the call of God above the calls of the big corporations, who are seeking talented young men.

One good sign is the number of mature men who are hearing the call, returning to seminary and offering themselves for the ministry.

Have you seen the Indian blanket and other wild flowers on the town side of Dr. Browne's home? That draw is a pretty sight; but you can see them nearly everywhere you turn this year. Isn't it amazing what rain will do?

There is some discussion going on at the present time concerning the possibility of daily home delivery of mail. Unquestionably it would be a wonderful help to elderly people who have to depend on their neighbors to bring their mail or to mail letters.

But what about the others who come to town for their mail, would they stop coming to town altogether? Home mail delivery was secured in Devine while we were there. The same questions were raised there. It was a tradition of long standing that the post office was the place where you met and howdied with your neighbors.

I have not heard of anyone from there recently who would like to go back to the old way. Over a year's time several gallons of relatively expensive gasoline would be saved if nobody had to go to the post office.

In this instance, I am so close to the P.O. that I can be relatively objective about the delivery problem. Chamber of Commerce members will be given an opportunity to express their preferences.

Adios, Jim Barnett, we hate to see you go, but wish you well.

Where Payment Is Good

One of the encouraging trends recently detected by researchers is the slowdown in migration from rural areas to the cities in the United States. There is still migration. But small towns and rural areas are now growing at double the growth rate in the 19-50's. Meanwhile, migration from small towns and rural areas to metropolitan areas is down sharply. In the fifties it averaged 600,000 persons a year. Since 1960 it has averaged only between 100,000 and 200,000! This is a significant and major reversal of the trend ten years ago.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman was recently quoted as saying: "More and more people are becoming aware that there is an alternative to bigger and bigger cities," pointing out that living was good in rural America, where space was plentiful.

Thus the future for small towns and rural areas is much brighter today than it was ten years ago. In fact, as the population continues to expand and our cities become mixed in slum and crime disorders, their attraction diminishes and life in small-town and rural America becomes more appealing.

Politicos Promising Profestors Plenty

Editor's note: The Dry Devil's Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on Dry Devil's River may not have any favorites. I'm like most people, wait till some body gets elected and then see how much you can find about him that's wrong, it's more fun that way, but in all the newspapers I've been reading out here on this bitterweed ranch lately I've been noticing what looks like a new wrinkle in campaigning.

The candidates, regardless of which party they're in, are spending more and more time talking to college students, and college students are responding by taking sides themselves, this group for that candidate, another group for another, etc. This is made possible because frequently classes have been postponed while a third group holds out in the administration building until their rights have been met and they get a promise they won't have to stay in after school for wrecking the president's office.

Devil's River News

That's college students for you. One year they're swallowing gold fish, next year politicians' promises.

I understand there's one student who is claiming the record for having swallowed 28 promises in four days, 12 from one candidate, five from another, 8 from another, and 3 from a candidate whose name he can't remember. He's due out of the infirmary in about a week. This record is expected to fall before the nominating conventions, unless the trend shifts to a different area, like seeing how many backers of a given candidate they can crowd into a telephone booth, with the candidate in the middle.

In this connection, I read a statement by an educator who said it's a healthy sign that college students are taking things seriously, but I'm afraid he hasn't been watching very closely. College students have always taken things and themselves seriously. It's just lately that the politicians have been taking them seriously.

I hope everything works out all right, but it's barely possible that both sides may be in for a let-down when the shouting's over. Yours faithfully, J. A.

First Baptist Crowns Janice Nance During Girls Auxiliary Coronation

Janice Nance Earns Her Crown by Mrs. Rodney Dowdy

The annual coronation service for girls auxiliary was held in First Baptist Church on Wednesday night. Girls involved in the missionary program have an opportunity to attain recognition through forward steps, which are named after the ranks in the kings court.

By memorizing scripture, reading about people around the world, studying the needs of people in their own community and doing something personally about these needs girls may pass a step each year.

The theme for the Coronation was, "The Garden of Prayer", and decorations turned the stage into a prayerful garden. Musical meditation rendered by Mrs. A. C. Elliott set the appropriate atmosphere for the service. Singing was led by B. E. Burton Jr., and a prayer picture pose was done by his younger sister, Nancy.

Workers recognized were Shirley Bolt, Phyllis Pridgen, Angela Pridgen, Katie Pridgen, Kathy Dean, and Beth Conger. Their badges were pinned by Mrs. Bill Williams, the W.M.U. president. Cathy Ward, Lee Ann Byer, Debbie Wall, and Patti Cockrell were presented awards by Miss Janice Sutton, their leader.

Princess Mary Pettiet received special recognition for her extra accomplishments in girls auxiliary. She will now work in the court for a year to become Queen. Her monogrammed star was pinned by Miss Janice Sutton.

Queen Janice of the House of Nance, with her flower girl, Denise Neal, and crownbearer, Eric Neal, came to the garden for the most coveted award in girls auxiliary, that of being crowned Queen. She received her crown from Mrs. Smith Neal, a G. A. leader.

The Queens in service were Molly Morriss, Nancy Hawkins and Cyndy Hopkins who were pinned with the service award to be attached to their crowns. Their presentation was made by their leader, Miss Sharon Johns.

Each year the coveted award of the Young Woman's Auxiliary emblem is presented to a worthy member for work done in the Lord's service. The gold letters set with five seed pearls, was presented to Miss Janice Sutton who five years ago received her crown in G.A.'s and has continued her work in missionary education. She teaches a Sunday school of preschoolers, has been a G.A. leader for two years, plays the piano for training union, sings in the choir and says "yes" when there is a call for service. This presentation was made by Mrs. R. C. Dowdy, the youth director.

This entire work is sponsored by the Woman's Missionary Union which believes that training young people to accept responsibility in the Lord's service is vital to our lives in this world and the hereafter. The total program is supported by the church budget.

On each card were directions where Miss Fawcett could find a gift.

TUBERCULAR REACTION CHECKED IN GRADES 1-7

Results of the State mandatory tubercular test on school children in grades 1-7 will be checked by doctors at Sonora schools Thursday.

The initial part of the test, consisting of a scratch on the arm of students, was set for Tuesday at the schools. Doctors look for possible positive reactions in the scratch to identify possible victims of TB. Ralph Finklea, superintendent, said that the test was a yearly preventative measure made under the direction of the State.

The seniors have been busy this week getting ready for the senior graduation.

Friday they will leave on their senior trip at 6 a.m. and return Sunday. Most of the seniors are really looking forward to the trip. Seniors are to practice seventh period Tuesday for Baccalaureate.

Tuesday night at 7 p.m. Jane Sawyer and Shelley Morriss are having a party honoring the senior girls. It will be held at Jane's house.

Thursday, the night before the senior trip, Mrs. Charles F. Browne is having a supper to honor Maxine Davis, a senior. The party is to be at the Browne's house. If anyone wishes they can go swimming before the supper.

Saturday, May 12, was the Junior-Senior banquet and the spring formal. Frank Trevino played for the dance. Everyone seemed to enjoy both events.

Yellowing of Garden Leaves Caused By Lack of Sufficient Iron Content

Gardeners and homeowners in Sutton County may be noting the yellowing of leaves on some of their fruit trees, ornamentals and lawn grasses during this season. This condition known as chlorosis results from iron deficiency, says D. C. Langford, county agricultural agent.

Chlorosis is caused by the inability of plants to take up sufficient iron which is essential for the development of chlorophyll, the green pigment in leaves.

Primary causes of the disorder are high lime content of the soil and excessive use of phosphate fertilizer, Langford points out. In addition to fruit trees, oaks and maples, ornamentals such as roses, pyracantha, abelia, hollies and photinia are also susceptible.

Regardless of the type of shrub or tree, chlorosis can be easily spotted, explains the agent. Leaves will yellow between the veins early in the growing season. Veins usually remain green but, in extreme cases, the entire leaf yellows and may be almost white in appearance.

Grass tends to turn yellow in spots and close observation may reveal a striping of the leaf with green veins and yellowing in between. Chlorosis can be controlled by spraying the foliage until wet with the solution of iron sulfate (copperas). For trees and shrubs, use two level tablespoons of copperas per three gallons of water and include about one and one-half teaspoons of liquid household detergent to insure even coverage. For grasses, increase the amount of copperas to three level tablespoons in the same mixture. Three or four applications at weekly intervals may be required for effective control, points out Langford. In addition to foliar spray, Langford also recommends soil applications of copperas. One pound of copperas per 100 square feet of area broadcast and watered is adequate.

Chelated iron compounds are also effective for controlling chlorosis when applied as directed by the manufacturer, adds the agent.

The County Agent cautions that copperas will stain masonry and any other material or equipment if left in contact. Remove solutions by rinsing and sweep walks clean of material immediately after application. Additional information on chlorosis in gardens and lawns is found in Leaflet 4-35 available at the County Extension Office.

Zinc May Cure Slow Pecan Growth

Pecan growers in Sutton County who have observed inadequate growth of their trees, particularly the younger ones, can probably attribute the condition to zinc deficiency, reports D. C. Langford, county agricultural agent.

Zinc deficiency in pecans is a common occurrence in this area. The condition is best identified by a shortening of the internodes and small leaves where there is new growth, explains Langford. Yellowing may also occur and, in severe cases, leaflets may die. Foliar application of zinc sulfate (36 percent zinc) gives effective control of this disorder, points out the agent. A solution may be prepared by dissolving two level teaspoons of zinc sulfate in one and one-half gallons of water and adding one-half teaspoon of liquid household detergent to insure even coverage. This gives a concentration equal to one pound of zinc sulfate per 500 gallons of water.

Foliage should be sprayed until wet when leaves are about one-third grown, says Langford. Spraying should be repeated about three weeks later. If the pecan nut casebearer is a problem, the zinc sulfate solution may be mixed with the regular spray to control this insect.

Zinc deficiency is limited primarily to pecans, adds Langford, but may possibly affect other trees and shrubs. Additional information on this disorder is found in Leaflet L-721 available at the County Extension Office.

Running Turkey Tribe
Would you believe there was a tribe of Indians in Sonora? There was on Monday afternoon, as the Nursery Sunbeams of First Baptist Church had a study on Indians. Chief Running Turkey (Eric Neal) led the group on some blood curdling marches. Princess Blue Moon (Angela Raye Green) was the much sought after princess. White Bull (Wade Hopkins) and Strong Horse (James Bostick) were braves that guarded the tepee with bow and arrow. Squaws, Beth Blackman and Sandy Hodges, directed their study and games and served refreshments.

VETS BONDS SOLD—Texas veterans land bonds worth $30,000,000 sold for an average interest rate of 4.33 per cent.

First National Bank in Dallas, Harris Trust and Savings Bank in Houston, and First National City Bank of New York and Associates were successful bidders on bonds.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler, chairman of the Veterans Land Board, said the sale was necessary to continue purchase of land for the Texas program recently revived by constitutional amendment.

Before used for buying veterans land, money will be invested in short-term government securities to offset any interest costs accruing against the Veterans Land Board. Sadler said AAA bond rating and the excellent pay record of the Veterans Land Board made it possible to sell bonds below market.

BUILDING, BUSINESS DROP OFF—Both building and business activity dropped off sharply in March, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research barometer.

Construction index fell almost 31 points from the previous month and was eight per cent below March, 1967. However, the January-March overall average of index this year still is 12 per cent above that for the first three months of 1967, due to the record February bulge.

March business index was eight per cent below the February value but was 3.3 per cent above March 1966, Bureau reported.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

Night coon hunting with dogs has developed into a great sport in Texas.

Successful coon hunting takes a special breed of men and dogs. Just anyone can't take it. It is an arduous sport. But it's one filled with many thrills.

Throughout Texas there are a number of local coon hunt clubs, and somewhere every weekend there is an outstanding coon hunt. Also, there is a state club that holds annual meetings. Featured are coon dog trials that last nearly a week. During this period, dog swapping and lie swapping reach their peak.

Coon hunting is encouraged by landowners in many areas and is tolerated in others. Since it is impossible to confine either coons or dogs to one barbed-wire enclosure, fence crossing is a necessity. Coon hunters must (or should) get landowner permission.

Also, it is advisable to keep the game warden informed of coon hunts. If the warden catches a hunter in known deer area, with a light and a gun, it could lead to trouble ... or call for a lot of explaining.

Most of us think of conskin coats in connection with coon hunting. However, there are people who like to eat coons. A recent issue of Hunting Dog, a new magazine published in Greenfield, Ohio, and devoted to all types of sporting dogs, provides interesting recipes for cooking coons.

Here is a recipe, simplified, for your own testing of this delicacy: Thoroughly clean the game and soak it overnight in salt water. Rinse in three washes to remove all traces of the saltwater.

Cook in a deep roasting pan, with the following ingredients: 2 or 3 chopped onions; carrots and Coon hunters must (or should) get landowner permission. Cook in a covered pan at 350 degrees for one-half hour. Cool, then remove from water and rub the inside with 2 parts of salt and 1 part pepper, plus a dash of paprika.

Skim off the fat from the broth, saving one cup for the dressing, mixed as follows:

2 or more quarts of bread crumbs; 1 teaspoon of salt; ¼ tsp pepper; 1-½ tsp poultry seasoning; 1 beaten egg; 1 chopped onion; 1 cored, sliced apple; and 1 cup of broth or milk.

Stuff the coon and skewer as you would a turkey. Cook at 350 degrees until tender, basting occasionally. Draw off the fat. Let it brown without sticking to the pan. Serve hot with cored apple for each serving.

If you want gravy, skim off the fat and use broth with a mixture of salt, flour and water.

Coons will barbecue well, as will rabbits or squirrels. It requires a longer time and a slower heat for wild game, because of its characteristic toughness. These animals are active, as opposed to pen raised animals or birds. As a result, they have developed a toughness that requires more cooking.

You don't like wild game? Okay — how about some fried rattlesnake? Some people like them!

Your Questions On the Draft . . .

Q—How may I, as an employer, obtain information about occupational deferments?

A—A free Selective Service pamphlet, "Information for Employers in Class II-A, may be obtained from any draft board, or from the State Selective Service Director.

Q—My draft board gave me two different cards and told me to carry them with me all the time. Why did they give me two?

A—The first one, called a "Registration Certificate" (SSS Form No.2) is proof that you have registered. The second, a "Notice of Classification" (SSS Form No. 110) lets you know how the draft board has you classified. You must keep the cards and must not mutilate, alter, burn, or destroy them.

Q—May a person appeal a state appeal board classification under any circumstances?

A—Yes. He may appeal to the President of the U.S. if even one of the five members votes to defer him at the same time the others vote not to defer.

Q—How will he know how the vote went?

A—His draft board will show it on the "Notice of Classification" card mailed to him after the appeal board decision.

Snips, Quips, And Lifts

—The fellow who is always blowing his own horn, is, more often, off-key.

—In this year of decision, the world is watching America, but America is watching television.

—The man who is always complaining about the way the ball up at the calendar—I know—I have bounced is probably the one who dropped it.

—No one ever has been able to figure out why Americans take their politics so seriously and their politicians so lightly.

—Most folks have presence of mind. The trouble is absence of thought.

—If you look like your driver's license photo, you better be careful—you are not well enough to travel.

—Everything comes to him who hustles while he waits.

—INFLATION: When those who save for a rainy day get soaked.

—When you come out flat-footed for something, you can expect your toes to be stepped on.

—Income today is any amount of money which you spend more than.

—PESSIMIST: Is the Man of the gloom.

—A new kind of wild wheat has been discovered that is capable of withstanding prolonged drought—but wild oats require as much moisture as ever. I have a weakness in my back, my head is hardly normal. My knees are weak and wobbly, my attitude's not formal.

I'll call a good psychiatrist, my nerves need a retriever. I glance up at the calendar—I know—I have Spring Fever.

—If you are quick, you are fast. If you are tied, you are fast. If you spend too much money, you are fast. And if you quit eating, you fast. This is a fast age.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Damsel in Distress
 Gallantry may impel a bystander to go to the aid of a damsel in distress. But if gallantry doesn't, does law? Do you have any legal obligations to help someone — man, woman, or child — whom you see under attack by a third person?

Generally speaking, the answer is no. If you are a total stranger, having played no role in bringing on the difficulty, you have no duty — legally — to go to the rescue.

Thus, bystanders who looked on and did nothing, while a drunken youth slashed a hotel clerk with a knife, were held not liable to the victim.

This doctrine is based partly on our traditions of individualism, partly on the difficulties of devising and enforcing a legal standard of unselfishness.

Nevertheless, courts have shown an increasing readiness to find a duty-to-help when there is some special relationship between the bystander and the victim. For then, in a sense, they are no longer total strangers.

What kind of relationship may create a duty of assistance? One example is the relationship between a merchant and his customer. For instance, the owner of a restaurant was held liable for failure to help a young woman being assaulted by a pair of troublemakers. The court said: "A restaurant keeper may not sit idly by and leave it to the customer to extricate himself from danger."

Similarly, a protective obligation may arise from other relationships: employer and employee, carrier and passenger, hotel and guest, hospital and patient.

Still, the duty of rescue is not unlimited. The law will weigh the particular circumstances, not only to decide if there is such a duty but also to decide how far it extends.

Was there enough time to interfere before the harm was done? Did the person under attack seem able to take care of himself?

Paper... Mister?

He's always there on that busy corner—like thousands of other paper boys across the land.

And he doesn't get discouraged though you ignore him day after day. Give him so much as a glance and you'll hear his hopeful, "PAPER... MISTER?"

What makes him so ready and eager to serve? It's the certainty that he has something everybody needs.

On many corners there are churches. And they never cease urging you to come... always ready... eager to serve!

Here again is the certainty of something EVERYBODY needs!

What they have has come to be called the Gospel — an ancient word that means "Good News." A few Sundays in church and you'll understand why!

Tax Man Sam Sez:

Most folks don't like to think about their income tax problems after April 15. In spite of the pain, frustration and bad memories that you may have, there is one little point to remember—you wouldn't have had near as much trouble if you had kept good records like you should've.

County Buys Car, Sets Meeting Date For Tax Board

Sutton County has accepted the bid of Elliott Chevrolet Company for the purchase of a new car for the Sheriff's Department.

The car, which will be used by Deputy Sheriff James Hough, was purchased on the basis of a bid of $2,273.40.

The second bidder, Sonora Motor Company, bid $2,423.92. Bids were opened and read in the regular meeting of the County Commissioners Court Monday, May 13.

The county commissioners have also called a meeting of the county board of Equalization for May 28, beginning at 9 a. m. in the court house.

Purpose of the meeting is for determining, fixing and equalizing the value of taxable property in Sutton County.

Commissioners approved a $2,798.22 expense item submitted by Atlantic Pipeline Company for estimated cost in casing an oil pipeline under Farm to Market road number 2129 which is being constructed from U.S. 290 West of Sonora generally north to the Schleicher County line.

Veterinary Clinic Adds New Building

The Sonora Veterinary Clinic has added about 1,000 square feet of new construction to its present building to be used for a small animal clinic.

The metallic building will house cats primarily, but will also be used for storage and other purposes.

Dr. Joe David Ross, and his associate Dr. Wayne Herrmann, will also use the building in relation to the artificial insemination of cattle. They are using a hormone-containing feed in conjunction with the experiments.

Dr. Ross said the new addition would not be used for boarding small animals, but only as a clinic.

from last years 47. This year will see about 41 students receiving diplomas. The annual senior edition of the Devil will appear in the May 30 edition. Each year we take pictures of the graduating class members and have them fill out questionnaires about their past activities and their future plans.

Surely there's a way for a few of these youngsters to build their future with Sonora's and it's up to us to find it . . . or face a shrinking town with shrinking services and facilities and fewer people among whom to share the tax burden.

A surprisingly large number of boys see military service as their next duty. Many others plan attending college. How many plan to build their futures with Sonora? I'm afraid the number is few. Wouldn't it be wonderful if Sonora's economy grew enough for just a few of these young leaders to return here after their education or military service?
