

CINDERS

by John T. King

What a shame that the vogue seems to be that of shooting public figures.

Following a victory speech Tuesday night after his narrow win in the California primary, Robert F. Kennedy was shot and critically wounded.

What type of government will we have, what type of leaders will we have, what type of freedoms will we have if respect for law and order continues to decline?

The public figures willing to take the risk of public office won't be worth having in office and American people will be much the poorer.

John Eaton is continuing to improve in Hudspeith Memorial Hospital. A blood clot, broken loose from its mooring in a vein, lodged in a lung (embolism). Now the problem is to keep John still while the clot dissolves. Knowing John's character and disposition, I pity the nurses and doctors and especially Ruth Lee, his wife.

John's dry, cutting remarks will probably achieve new heights as he lies flat of his back honing words to new sharpness.

But with all his faults, we miss the bits of wit and wisdom he gave as he drained the "Devil's" coffee pot.

Get well soon, John. We're not used to having a pot of coffee to ourselves.

Morrison's Variety Store has a bright new coat of paint on the front of the store. This is one of several improvements planned for the store in the near future, according to George Stinnett, manager.

Clayton Hamilton said that the First National Bank was waiting for plans to be submitted by Midland architect Homer Pierce of Pierce, Norris, Pace, on the planned enlargement of bank facilities. Hamilton said that although the area to be enlarged at the front of the bank was about 10 feet wide, the area grew to a width of 56 feet at the back.

This new area will be used to enlarge the conference room, office area, and bookkeeping department. New teller equipment, storage space, draperies, carpet, and paint will be added. Completion is expected by fall.

Seismograph Crew Working in Area

Besides the addition of several new families with the road crews, Sonora's population has again increased with the arrival of six families connected with Geophysical Services, Inc.

Gene Glasner, in charge of the office, says the company has 21 employees here besides seven local young men who are currently employed with the seismograph crew, popularly known as "Doodle-buggers".

Geophysical Service, Inc. has its main office in Dallas with a branch office in Midland.

The local crew is working currently in Val Verde County, just outside the Sutton County line.

NO ONE ESCAPES

Civil disorders have virtually wrecked large areas of many American cities. Pictures show riot-torn streets, buildings demolished, stores gutted and police standing helpless while hoodlums make off with stolen merchandise by the carload. Reporters have accurately termed these civil disorders "the other war." Most of us, when we read the news about a riot in a city a few hundred or a few thousand miles away, tend to think of it as a "war" that we have escaped the unpleasantness. But have we escaped? We most decidedly have not.

All wars are expensive, including "the other war." Destruction of public and private property will be reflected in insurance rates, in the cost of government and hundreds of other direct and indirect ways that are inescapable no matter where we live.

Just as we all have a stake in the tragic cost of the war in Vietnam, so we have a stake in "the other war." We should think about this the next time we see or read of looting and burning. It may not be our own property going up in smoke or being carried off by vandals, but we will be paying part of the cost of both the lost property and the forces of law and order that must be called upon to bring the destruction to an end.

THE DEVIL'S RIVER PHILOSOPHER SEZ

Need Grows to Make Use of Man-Made Grass To Eliminate Lawn Mowing

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on Dry Devil's River apparently is trying to get around having to mow his yard, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

A lot of people say the pioneering spirit is dead in America and the rest of the world but I don't agree and would like to prove it. According to an article I read on the sports page of a newspaper I found caught on the same clump of weeds in my front yard I found one on week before last, more and more sports promoters are turning to artificial grass for football fields, baseball diamonds, race tracks, tennis courts, golf greens, etc. Even the track events in the Olympic Games in Mexico this year will be run on the stuff.

They say the man-made carpet is better than grass and you don't have to mow or water it.

I've been thinking. Why wouldn't this work on home lawns?

I know it's a high-tone custom from the homes of Sonora to the ancient grounds of Buckingham Palace to have a neatly-mowed lawn from early spring to the first frost in the fall, and the hum of lawnmowers in the late afternoons and on weekends can be heard round the world. You might say pride goeth before a lawnmower.

But if a man could attain the same neat look with a carpet of man-made grass cut to fit his front yard, eliminating all need for fertilizer, crab-grass pulling, mowing, weed control, and watering, wouldn't his yard look just as civilized as the rest?

The only way to find out is to try it. If the makers of this artificial grass will come out here to this bitterweed ranch and measure my front yard and cut me out a section and lay it for me, I'll pioneer the new idea and see how it comes out. I'll test neighbor reaction.

If people say, "Look at his yard, hasn't he got a pretty lawn, he must be mighty energetic, keeping it that trim all the time, why it's green even in the winter time," and if it turns out that cows won't graze on it and I don't have to fool with keeping up a fence, then it'll open up a brand new industry. There must be hundreds of millions of square yards of lawns in the world.

This will work a hardship on the lawnmower manufacturers, but did automobile makers hold back to protect the lively stable people? Did the students in Paris pay any attention to De Gaulle?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

A PARSON'S EYE-VIEW OF SONORA

BY THE REV. ROSS T. WELCH

The past seven days have added up to a very exciting week in the life of this parson. The first two days were spent at HemisFair—two full and exciting days.

Fortunately, I did not have to provide hotel accommodations and double fortunately, I, too, had a press card that provided admission. But I found no occasion to complain about excessive prices.

I found too many interesting things to do to spend any time on the midway but I still did not get around to see everything. On Monday, I arrived soon after the 10 o'clock opening and remained until I had witnessed "Man of La Mancha" at the Theatre for the Performing Arts that evening. The play was excellent, the story of Don Quixote, featured the theme "Dream the Impossible Dream."

I was at the Texas Centennial and the Seattle World Fair, and I can easily rate HemisFair the best show for the money I have ever seen. And much of it is free except for the cost of admission. For food, there as anywhere else—one can spend what he chooses to spend.

I could not begin to mention, much less describe, everything I saw at the fair. I was fortunate not to have to stand in line long at any attraction and I saw most of them. I did not eat on top of the tower, but I did go up to the observation deck and take pictures.

I ran into Martha and Willie Miers at the "Sermons in Science" movie, and visited while we waited for one show to finish and another to begin. We learned a great deal we did not know about bees. I have often heard of a "bee line," but I did not know the bee line was laid out on the hexagon shaped cells of the honeycomb.

There is a lot of history of the confluence of civilizations and cultures in the United States and Texas pavilions. There is a fine collection of Spanish art treasures in the Theme Gallery. I did not see all of the national exhibits, and I hope to spend some time with those when I return.

Frito-Lay and Pepsi-Cola have brought to the fair one of its most spectacular attractions, the famous flying Indians of Papantla. The well disciplined, beautifully muscled performers in authentic uniforms climb to the top of a pole 14 feet high. One does a war dance on a disc twenty inches in diameter. The other four jump off the pole and descend to the ground hanging head down as the rope unwinds.

There is an excellent ski show, puppet shows and all kinds of interesting movies. One of the interesting innovations, seen in several exhibits, is a combination of acting and moving pictures. One minute the actor is on the screen, the next, he is on the stage. Or else there is dialogue between the m.c. on the stage and the characters on the screen.

Another innovation was the drama where the audience could determine which course of action the characters in the movie would follow by voting by means of push buttons on the arms of their chairs.

While in San Antonio, I discovered that my son expected me to perform his marriage ceremony this weekend. After more than two years of courtship, this seemed like rather short notice, but one does not question these things.

I went to Austin Wednesday to attend the sessions of the annual conference and the necessary board meetings attendant thereto. Friday night after I was in bed the telephone rang and my excited son-in-law announced that I was a grandfather. Less than forty-eight hours later David Andrew Hill and his mother were at home and doing fine.

This Memorial Day birthday reminded me that the child's mother was born on Columbus Day; I, his grandfather, was born on New Year's eve and my father was born on the Fourth of July. Makes it easy to remember birthdays.

I returned home Saturday afternoon, which meant I missed the reading of the appointments, and have not found them in any of the papers I have seen, so I am not right sure where I have been assigned for the new conference year, but—until I am told differently—I shall assume that I am back at Sonora.

Just before time for the morning worship Sunday, it dawned on me I had no organist and I discovered I had no choir. I went home after church and opened my mail and discovered I had a friendly little reminder from the Internal Revenue Service.

At my age, someone ought to realize that too much is too much. Anyway, Frances and I are glad to be back—a move on top of all this would have been well-nigh to fatal.

There were nearly forty pupils enrolled in the Daily Vacation Church School Monday morning with an anticipated increase by Tuesday. A fine corps of officers, teachers and helpers was in charge.

It was raining when we returned to Sonora, but the picture was not all dark. J. D. has kept the caterpillars pretty well under control and the garden is looking real pretty.

Three lively people who love to entertain friends. "I am surprised it's so economical."—Bob "Love that electric air conditioning, of course! WE REMODELED TO TOTAL ELECTRIC OPERATION FOR $1,500! That included insulation, electric baseboard units—the works... and with WTU's incentive allowance we paid only about $1,000. If we ever build a larger home, it'll be total electric—with electric ceiling coils."—Bob Harrison, Stamford, Texas.

Bob Harrison retired from the San Francisco 49'ers and took up farming. Barbara Harrison took up teaching at Oliver Street Elementary School, and Scott (age 2) took to whooping it up on his rocking horse. All three live in a vine-covered home in Stamford, Texas—one they remodeled to Gold Medallion operation 2 years ago. "It's such wonderful living," Barbara says. "I just couldn't do without my electric home laundry and that wonderful summer air-conditioning. When we turn it on, we never want to go outside in the heat!" Everything is clean and comfy—thanks to total electric living!

5 rooms — 1 bath ■ Cooling, heating, cooking, water heating, lighting, small appliances, washer, dryer, food storage, yard light ■ $30.15 mo. average — Remodeled 1966

The club house has finally been moved and put on its new foundation. Of course, there is still a great deal of work to be done—but just give us time. Some concrete has already been poured, and our patio fill is in. Looking down from that patio onto number nine green will really be a beautiful and cool view.

All the way around, Sunday was just one good day for ducks, but there were still a bunch of golfers playing. As Buddy Brown so aptly put it, "All crazy people are not golfers, but all golfers are crazy." Still and all, Jimmy Powers did a real "Jack Nicklos"—he made a THIRTY NINE FOOT putt.

I read it in your local rag that Peggy, dear Peg and for Jo, that game they played must have been slow!

In case, dear Peg, you're running short

Of polish cloths, I thought I ought

To show that I'm a neighbor true

And send this extra cloth to you.

Mr. Herman Beauchamp, who is an uncle of the bride and Church of Christ minister of Hamilton, performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a slender crescent waistline gown accented with seed pearls and trimmed with chantilly lace encircling the neckline. The seed pearl motifs were placed at intervals on the skirt and the removable circle Watteau chapel train which was secured by a looped bow. The bride's bouquet was of pink roses.

Miss Denecia Dobbs of Lubbock was the maid of honor, and Mrs. Glenn Bassham of Garland, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Jan Cavaness served as bridesmaids. Their bouquets were pink sweetheart roses on white fans.

The bridegroom's niece, Paula Gillit of Ozona, was the flower girl, and Randy Gillit was the ring bearer.

Ed Lee Renfro served his cousin as best man, and groomsmen were Glenn Bassham of Garland and Larry Moore. Ushers were Ronnie George of Corpus Christi and Gary McGilvary.

The bride is a graduate of Sonora High School and attended Abilene Christian College. The bridegroom attended Sonora High School also and is a student at Hardin-Simmons University. Both will continue their studies.

Following the ceremony a reception was held on the church lawn. Mrs. B. D. Gillit registered guests. Serving at the bride's table were Mrs. Essie Bassham and Mrs. V. W. Dobbs, and at the bridegroom's table were Miss Lou Ann Beauchamp and Miss Beth McCalla.

We are planning a bazaar the fourteenth and fifteenth of September. There are just two queen candidates this time. It should be an interesting race, as one candidate is for the women of the Parish and the other is sponsored by the men. We will just see who works the hardest, the men or the women.

Miss Mary Cook is being sponsored by the ladies, and Anna Maria Fernandez will be sponsored by the men of the Parish.

The men of the Parish are already starting for their queen by having a game evening at six o'clock, Sunday, June 2.

The ladies also had a meeting the same evening as the men had their game evening to plan their strategy for their queen.

At the upper end of the long reflecting pool a new 26-story Administration Building will be built. A combination Sunday School and Conference Building (lower end of reflecting pool) will also be added. A new building for service functions will be attached to the Publishing House, which is located at the left of the Church. THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Coke" or "coke"? You wouldn't think mere spelling was that important. Yet, American business firms are spending millions of dollars every year, just to remind the public to start certain words with a capital letter. Reason: a hard-hearted respect for the law of trademarks. According to this law, a valuable brand name may be lost by becoming a part of the language—just another word that anyone may use.

That is what happened to such once-famous trademarks as Aspirin, Mimeograph, Linoleum, Dry Ice, Escalator, and Kerosene. In each case, what began as a capital-letter private name ended as a small-letter public word. English was the richer, but the manufacturer was very much the poorer—penalized, oddly enough, because its product had become too popular.

How does the law decide when a trademark has fallen into the public domain?

It is mainly a question of fact—whether the public has, in fact, come to think of the name as a description of the product itself, rather than as an indication of who makes it.

For example: a court held that "Cellophane" was no longer a trademark, largely because so many consumers simply knew no other way to describe that kind of product.

It is to fend off this fate that companies carry on their educational campaigns. An editor, columnist, or author who spells "Coke" with a small c is likely to receive a polite reminder from the Coca Cola people that his spelling is wrong.

Just as a company may lose trademark rights in a name that "goes public," so it ordinarily cannot gain trademark rights in a word that was part of the language to begin with. Unless such a word acquires an extra, secondary meaning, it will usually continue to be "free for all."

Thus: a manufacturer of aluminum-covered washboards was denied trademark rights in the word "aluminum." And the owner of a market was denied trademark rights in the phrase "food center."

In both cases, courts found the expressions merely descriptive, without any secondary meaning to be protected.

As one judge pointed out, if companies could freely carve out exclusive rights in common words and phrases, there would be a danger of "depleting the general vocabulary available for description of articles of commerce."

Wake Up, Turn On Lights, Before Seeking Relief From Medicine Cabinet

Ever wake up, or at least about half awake, in the night with a splitting headache? Or a pain in the tummy? And stumble into the bathroom and reach for a bottle in the medicine cabinet. And gulp down a pill or two, or a spoonful of medicine?

Sure. All of us have. And we are risking serious trouble in taking medicine carelessly.

The medicine was prescribed by your physician, and he included specific orders for size and frequency of dose and how to take it. The American Medical Association reminds that there is a good sound reason for these orders, and they are meant to be followed.

A few simple rules for taking medicine can help to avoid an accident that may make your minor discomfort a lot worse. —Never take medicine in the dark. Be certain you can see the bottle or pill box, to make certain it is the right one.

—Read the directions carefully before taking. Those directions are there because they're needed.

—Don't increase the dosage or take more often than directed without checking with your doctor.

—If the label says "Shake well before using" it means what it says. Shake it.

—Don't take medicine prescribed for someone else. Just because it helped your husband's cough does not mean it's right for you.

—Keep medicine out of reach of children. The small child who is rushed to the hospital after eating a whole bottle of sugar-coated tablets is an all too common occurrence.

—Put the cap back on the bottle. Some medicines change strength if exposed to air too long.

—Keep the medicine in its original box or bottle. Shifting sleeping pills into an aspirin bottle, for instance, could produce dire effects for someone else in the family.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

You've heard that axiom: Two heads are better than one. Well, it's true about eyes, too. Especially when applied to the sport of shotgun shooting.

Aiming and firing a shotgun with both eyes open is one of the most basic fundamentals and important principles that novice shooters should try to follow from the very beginning.

One eye gives a picture only in one perspective. Our two eyes act as windows for the brain and since these eyes are located some distance apart, each one sees objects from a slightly different angle because of their different viewpoints.

Nature has taken care of this situation by giving one eye mastery over the other, or what is commonly called the "master eye". This controlling eye pulls its partner into focus, transmitting a single image to the brain when both eyes are open.

In most cases, the master eye follows the master hand (e.g., a righthanded person has a right master eye). But there are exceptions and thus it is of prime shooting to find out which eye is the master eye.

A simple test is to close one eye; the one left open is the master. Some people can close either eye, but few can close the master eye and leave the dependent one open.

An alternate and more foolproof method is for the shooter, if he is righthanded, to close the left eye, raise the gun to the right shoulder and take aim at some object 15 or 20 feet away, sighting along the top of the barrel with the right eye. When the aim is established, the left also should be opened.

If the aim remains clear and the appearance of the mark is unchanged, then the right eye is the master eye and the shooter should do his shooting from his right shoulder.

If, on the other hand, when the gun is at the right shoulder and sighted with the right eye, the appearance of the picture changes with the opening of the left eye in such a way that the left side of the gun is seen and the mark appears to be to the left of the muzzle, then the left eye is the master.

This simple test can be made more easily by pointing the index finger of the right hand at some object a distance away and sighting along the finger with the left eye closed. If the right eye is the master, the sight picture will remain the same even when the left eye is opened.

Should a person with a master left eye continue to shoot from his right shoulder, he most likely will crossfire, even with both eyes open.

Even if you're shooting from the wrong shoulder, don't be afraid to change. Probably you'll see almost immediate improvement. Same thing also applies to shooting a rifle or a bow-and-arrow.

Some right-handed people must, by necessity, shoot southpaw since their master eyes are the left.

U.S. Border Patrol Seeks Applicants

The U. S. Border Patrol of the Immigration and Naturalization Service has an urgent need for physically fit young men desiring a career in Federal law enforcement work.

The Border Patrol is the mobile, uniformed enforcement branch of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Its principle purpose is to prevent the smuggling and illegal entry of aliens into the United States. The border patrolmen, called Immigration Patrol Inspectors, work along international boundaries, although their duties are not necessarily confined to these areas. They work in jeeps, cars, on foot, in boats and even in airplanes. Officers investigate violations of the immigration laws and frequently make arrests. They are often required to work irregular hours, under all weather conditions. The duties demand mental alertness as well as exceptional physical vigor and stamina.

The entrance salary of an Immigration Patrol Inspector is $6734 a year, with an automatic increase to $7630 after completion of one year's probationary period.

Applications are now being accepted for the civil service examination for Immigration Patrol Inspector which will be held Saturday, July 13, 1968. Additional examinations are scheduled for October 1968, January 1969 and April 1969. However, those wishing to be tested in July must submit an application before June 12, 1968.

Full information is given in Announcement No. WA-8-04-M which may be secured from Interagency Boards of Examiners and from many post offices as well as any office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Applications should be submitted on CSC Form 5000AB and forwarded to the Interagency Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners for Washington, D. C. 1900 E. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20415.
