City Mail Delivery Survey Questionnaires Mailed

James Trainer, postmaster, announced that letters were mailed yesterday to postal patrons in order to conduct a survey to determine the advisability of establishing city delivery service.

If service is authorized, city delivery will be provided to streets and blocks listed on the reverse side of the letter, which includes most of the streets within the City. Delivery would be either foot (door) or motorized (curbside) delivery. Postal patrons would be responsible for installing a suitable mail receptacle.

Curbside delivery service would be provided to partially or sparsely developed residential sections, or to those separated from the central location of town. Most of the service would be curbside in the residential section of town.

All streets would have to be clearly marked and houses numbered, and a resident would be required to use either a post office box or delivery, but not both.

When the survey is completed if the majority of the people favor mail delivery, plans will proceed for inner-city mail, some feel that they are entitled to this service. Most businessmen are opposed to mail delivery as they are of the opinion the post office helps to draw more people downtown for shopping.

Since patrons began paying for delivery service when postage advanced for inner-city mail, some

Bank Deposits Top $8 Million

Deposits in First National Bank have topped $8 million at the close of business October 30, the prescribed time for closing out the most recent statements of condition. Total amount is $8,489,435.36 compared with $7,012,611.59, as of October 4, 1967.

Vice president Clayton Hamilton contributed the rise due to a number of factors such as, the money from sale of city property, tax collections, and other increased revenue in the county at this particular time.

CINDERS

by John T. King

Freeman Miears said Monday that he already had in his locker as many turkeys as he had had the entire season last year. The number of deer brought in for cold storage is reported to be smaller than last year, but this is because of the cold weather.

I saw George Stewart and son, Richard, at the locker Monday. They had been hunting on the John Cauthorn ranch and evidently had good luck. The back of George's station wagon was loaded with deer.

Helen Johnson said that her game warden husband, Nolan, was telling the story that one luckless hunter killed a deer north of town, tagged it, field dressed it, hung it in a tree and left to get a pickup. He returned to the site only to find the deer gone, evidently appropriated by someone who had come upon the unprotected prize. Doyle Morgan said that he had heard of this happening before, but the thief thoughtfully hung up a jackrabbit in the deer's place.

Clint Langford and Jim Gray were hunting and came upon two live bucks with horns locked. Plans have been made to have the heads of the two deer mounted with the horns locked together. This brought up the question of the deer with locked horns on display in Bob Teaff's office. The story I heard was that the horns were found locked together with the bones of the luckless deer. New heads were substituted by the taxidermist, but skulls are those of the deer who locked horns.

Told for the truth at Lions Club Tuesday: George Brockman said a four-point doe had been killed on the Bill Wade ranch. That's right, he said the doe had antlers!

This brought the comment from one skeptical listener, "Next year someone will find two does with locked horns." (I checked with Freeman Miears and he said Bill Wade had verified the kill of a doe with horns.)

A shepherd was doing his best to be polite to the kind of critter that scared him, a portly female tourist from the East. Keeping his distance, he patiently answered all her questions about the sheep industry. Then, to his embarrassment, her questions became more personal.

"Are you married? Don't you get lonesome? About how old are you?"

Crimson beneath his sunburn, the shepherd mumbled a few responses and made as if to go. But the woman stopped him.

"Why," she demanded, "is your mustache so brown when your hair is so gray?"

"Well, m'am," he said as he whistled for his dogs, "me hair is 20 years older than me mustache!"

Broncos To Meet Junction Eagles Following 7-0 Win Over Eldorado

A recovered fumble proved to be the difference in victory or defeat for the Broncos. They capitalized on the Eldorado mistake and went on to score with less than two minutes to play and won the district contest 7-0.

The game was strictly a defensive battle as neither team could get their offensive unit going. The weather condition of snow and rain aided the defensive effort as Sonora fumbled five times and Eldorado seven.

Running was difficult on the wet turf and passing was even more

School Board Approves Expansion With More Active Speech Department

At a meeting of the school board members Monday, authorization was given to pay outstanding bills for the month in the amount of $3,814.69. Board members also voted to purchase a 48-passenger bus and to allow 10c per mile for out of town trips for school personnel when traveling on official business.

Miss Lois Dolan, speech teacher, met with the Board to discuss the feasibility of expanding the speech department. She asked members to consider sending students to two tournaments, one in Alice and one in Midland.

Miss Dolan said she feels students will benefit from the competition at these schools instead of becoming discouraged with the competition at some of the larger tournaments. She feels that the experience of participation would give the student more ability to communicate and greater confidence in himself—an accomplishment, she said that would benefit an individual all the days of his life.

Speech students have increased from twelve to sixty in the past three years.

Board members voted to defray costs of sending students to two major tournaments, paying for the transportation and entry fees, in an effort to encourage students who are interested in speech.

Board members at the meeting were Armer Earwood, Bill Morris, Bill Tittle, George Wallace, Bob Teaff, Gene Shurley, and superintendent of schools, Ralph J. Finklea.

Entrance fees are $2.50 or $1 for those playing bridge, and prizes will be turkeys. Both members and non-members are invited to attend.

rambled 18 yards for the only touchdown. David Wuest added the point after.

Eldorado recovered fumbles deep in Bronco territory, but again the defense came through and held.

For the season the Broncos are 7-2 and 5-0 in district play.

Sonora faces Junction in Junction Friday night. A win will give the Broncos sole possession of the 8A title. A loss would cause a three way tie among Sonora, Mason, and Junction. Kick-off time is 7:30 p.m.

Turkey Shoot Reset for Sunday

A turkey shoot sponsored by the Sonora Golf Club will be held Sunday, November 17, according to Mrs. Louis Davis, Green News reporter. This is the shoot that in error had been scheduled for last Sunday.

Entrance fees are $2.50 or $1 for those playing bridge, and prizes will be turkeys. Both members and non-members are invited to attend.

County Tables Plans For OEO Program

Commissioners voted to table indefinitely plans for an OEO program in this community. Plans for the city and county commissioners to meet and discuss the program have been cancelled presently.

Repair to the county roads and building of new roads in the county was discussed at the county commissioners meeting Monday.

Joe Ed Harrell, county maintenance foreman, reported the county has many roads that need repairing. He said the Butts and Tomerson ranch owners have requested that a new road be built to the ranch.

County Judge J. W. Elliott presented an estimate received for the repair of the courthouse roof. Commissioners voted to have a representative from a roofing company meet with them and discuss the plans further at a later meeting.

Ballots in the general election were canvassed.

W. M. U. Studies Foreign Mission

The W.M.U. of First Baptist Church met Tuesday at the Latin American Baptist Church. Foreign Mission Book, "Columbia, The Land of Conflict and Promise" was the program for the day. Mrs. Rip Ward, Mrs. Jim Baldwin, Mrs. Bill Morris, and Mrs. Jamie Parker gave an interesting and enlightening talk on parts of the book.

Mrs. Bill Williams began with the Calendar of Prayer. Mrs. Consuelo Perez and Mrs. Marciano Hernandez, Jr., sang "What A Friend We Have In Jesus."

A salad luncheon was held at the conclusion of the program.

Those attending were Mmes. B. E. Burton, Rip Ward, Bill Williams, Eddie Russell, Elvira Reyna, Jim Baldwin, Ruby Carranza, Ernestina Ortega, Consuelo Perez, Marciano Hernandez, Pedro Sanchez, Librado Ramirez, Estella Gomez, Dick Morrison, Bill Morris, W. O. Crites, Jamie Parker, and Joe Neil Smith.

Enrique Noriega On USS Frank Knox

Seaman Enrique M. Noriega, USN, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Salvador G. Noriega is serving aboard the radar picket destroyer USS Frank Knox at San Diego, California.

His ship, a unit of Destroyer Squadron 17, was awarded the Battle Efficiency "E" for attaining the highest evaluation in yearly fleet competitive exercises.

While capturing the coveted "E" award the destroyer also won individual departmental honors by winning the efficiency awards in Engineering and Gunnery, and received the "A" award for excellence in Anti-submarine Warfare.

Brings First Deer . . .

FIRST DEER OF THE SEASON brought to Branding Iron Smoke House was killed by Clay Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lin Hicks. Cold weather and abundant game gave hunters a better than average chance to bag their deer, but the cold caused fewer hunters to bring in their kills for cold storage. Hicks won a free processing job for being the first to arrive at the Smoke House.

TWO NEW PICKUPS were demolished last week when they went out of control 32 miles east of Sonora. The driver, E. Timmerman of St. Louis, was towing a second pickup. He slowed down only to have the towed vehicle whip loose. The resulting loss of control sent both pickups off the highway and into a ravine. Shown with Buster Shroyer is his daughter, Annette, and Gayle Hamilton. The driver was taken to Hudspeth Hospital.

'Like Hoodlums'

Eric Hoffer, the longshoreman-philosopher, has educated himself the hard way and has done a very good job of it. Perhaps that is why he is somewhat less than philosophical about the tantrums of the few alleged students who have terrorized some of our educational institutions.

Recently, as a member of the President's violence commission, he sat listening to the charges, speeches and warnings of the young militants until he had had enough, whereupon he arose and made a few observations of his own.

"I'm sitting listening to all this stuff here and I just can't swallow it," boomed Hoffer.

The student rebels, he said, are simply distorting and twisting the benefits of democracy for the sake of a binge. And he is not too awed by their claims to be martyrs to truth, freedom and justice as they disrupt the education of others in Berkeley-style demonstrations.

Hoffer shouted, "They're having the time of their lives. They're having a ball. You expect educated people to behave in a civilized way, instead, they behave like hoodlums."

This opinion of the spoiled youngsters is one that is shared by millions of non-philosophers who'll no doubt find it refreshing to hear it put so bluntly by this wise old man. Hoffer is a man who has worked hard both with his hands and his mind throughout a long lifetime.

Like many other Americans, he finally became fed up with the torrent of billingsgate, invective, shrill threats issuing from the noisy youths who have to date done little or no work with either their hands or their brains. So he got up and walked out.

He didn't deny the young orators' right to speak, but he exercised his own right to leave their captive audience.

BY THE REV. ROSS T. WELCH

I remember fifty years ago today (this is being written on November 11) very well. My two older brothers and I were attending a small rural school in Sterling County. The boys in the school got permission from the teacher and went out into all the nearby pastures and gathered all the dead wood we could find.

By the time we had finished we had a wood pile as high as the school house. Then we set it on fire and had a very impressive bonfire. I also remember that in World War I we had two deadly enemies to fight: the Germans and the 'flu'.

It seemed that the strongest and apparently most healthy among us were victims of influenza. I remember reading a letter written by one of our nearest neighbors who was in France. He wrote that they were celebrating the signing of the Armistice when he received the word that his young wife had died at home of influenza making his baby daughter an orphan.

To add to our miseries, West Texas was having one of the worst periods of drought on record. Before that drought we had a good sized community. Before it ended, our school closed and my mother had to teach us at home one year. Most of the families moved away and never returned.

Those were hard times for my father—trying to make a living on one section of land—mostly canons. The debts we incurred in those years were as a millstone round my father's neck for many years until every dime had been repaid.

But we thought our sacrifice had helped to make the world safe for freedom loving peoples and we thought we and our children might have the privilege of growing up in a peaceful world.

I remember one day when a neighbor came by and told this story: He said there was a poor widow who had worked hard trying to provide for her children and keep them in clothes. One day the Good Fairy decided to reward her for her faithfulness. He came to the widow's home and said to her, "I will grant you any wish you desire. Just tell me what you want and it shall be yours."

Without thinking of any other possibilities, the lady replied, "I want a barrel of rags to patch with." Our overalls were patched until they could no longer hold together. There was no such thing as government assistance. But everyone else we knew was poor so we thought nothing about it.

I am glad that Gene Moore, the evangelistic singer who was here last week, is a cousin of Joe Lane, for two reasons. First, I had an opportunity to visit in the beautiful home, the Dr. E. M. deBerry home, where the Lanes live.

Joe is a lucky guy to be selected for the privilege of living in this magnificent home. And to think, he gets it furnished—even down to a splendid library and a large library of records. I am sure the deBerry family feels fortunate to get a family like the Joe Lanes to take care of their home. It is a good deal all the way around.

But the second reason I am glad I was invited out with the evangelists is that I had the most hilarious evening that I have enjoyed in many moons. When Joe and Gene started clowning about their boyhood experiences, it was pure comedy. I had always thought Joe was a rather dignified sort of individual, but that night he put any professional comedian I know to shame.

Bill Whitehead provided an opportunity for each of the visiting evangelists to kill a buck and little Timothy Moore, who is a leukemia victim, had the opportunity to kill, with his father's assistance, a doe.

Timmy had mixed emotions about the kill. He was excited, but a bit remorseful as he told his mother, "This is probably the last deer I shall kill while I am young."

It is a good thing, so far as the preacher is concerned, that revivals do not come too often. It is not that the preacher does not need spiritual revival frequently, it is a matter of eating too much. We had a big breakfast at the church five mornings last week, then were invited out to eat the very best cooked the other meals. I do not know how the professionals get by with this the year around.

We understand that before too long we will have resident pastors in all our local churches. This is good news.

What happened last Friday night? I am anxious to get to Boosters Club meeting to see the film. I did not get to see the game—one of two that I have missed since I moved to this community.

I am sure they are missing Thurston McCutchen, but I did not realize it would make that much difference. If we compare scores,

THE DEVIL'S RIVER PHILOSOPHER SEZ . . .

He Got His Mind Off Politics Only To Be Thrown By New Teaching Idea

Editor's note: The Dry Devil's Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on Dry Devil's River apparently is having a hard time getting into the computer age, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor: I was out here on this bitterweed ranch trying to recover from the election—a neighbor asked me if I thought the next President will have all the answers and I told him I don't know, personally I don't even know what most of the questions are—and to get my mind clearer I picked up a newspaper I'd been saving and got over to the inside pages away from the campaigns and ran into an article that certainly got my mind off politics. According to it, a college professor told the National Academy of Sciences that teaching as it's done today will soon be out of style, that computers will be used to teach children, saying that a computer for example can teach such a basic skill as mathematics in one-tenth the time and at half the cost now required. "He went on to say that 'computers will monitor each student's progress minute by minute, correcting mistakes immediately. It'll flash right or wrong to each answer as it is given.' I have been thinking this over and have concluded the professor hasn't gone far enough. Instead of substituting computers for teachers, why not go one step further and substitute computers for students? If you've got a computer that has all the answers to all the problems of math and can give them to you in one-thousandth of a split second, and on top of that doesn't wear out shoes or need braces on its teeth or listen to phonograph records or tie up the telephone, haven't you got what you are looking for? What's the point in running the same stuff through some kid's mind? At his best, the kid can get up to 12 times 12, whether taught by man or machine, but how many can tell you what's 12 times 13? Why not skip teaching kids math and teach them how to oil a computer, change fuses, and punch the right buttons? Teach them how to protest the passer, give them a computer for graduation, and they're on their way. Here is a machine they claim knows all the math problems there are, so let's leave it in charge in that field and work on the one that can do the same with history, literature, science, etc. By the way, is 12 times 12 154 or 164? I never could remember. Yours faithfully, J. A.

November 12, 1948 Sutton County hunters venturing west for a crack at the blacktail deer in the Davis Mountains, reported better than average luck. Savell Lee Sharp killed a buck weighing 155 pounds. Miss Carmen Warren brought in the prize buck, a 12-pointer weighing about 210 pounds. Some other hunters reporting kills included George H. Neill, Bill Drennan, Earl Lomax, Curt Schwiening, Lea Allison, Andrew Moore, and others. The Sonora Broncos closed out their home grid season here Thursday night—barring a Menard win over Junction to get the Broncos into the playoffs—against Ozona Lions. Mrs. Ernest McClelland was entertained on her birthday last week with a surprise birthday party. Pear Preserves Flavor Pleasers

Sweet, juicy pears ripening in home orchards add flavor and appetite appeal as well as cold contrast to family meals.

And winter meals will be more interesting if you make pear preserves or pear honey with the fruit now in season, notes Frances Reasonover, Extension foods specialist, Texas A&M University.

Pear Preserves
 To make pear preserves, select pears that hold their shape and have a good flavor. The Keiffer pear is a variety commonly used. Allow the fruit to reach the firm ripe stage.

Wash, pare and cut fruit into uniform pieces, such as quarters or eights, depending on the size of the fruit; then core.

Use the proportion of one pound prepared fruit to 3/4 to one pound sugar. Combine the fruit and sugar in alternate layers and let stand overnight before cooking, or cook at once adding 1/4 cup water per pound of fruit.

Cook until the syrup is the desired thickness, stirring occasionally. Fill hot, dry, sterilized jars three-fourths full with preserved fruit. If paraffin is used, add enough syrup to fill the jar to 1/4 inch of the top; otherwise, fill to the top. Seal, label and store in a cool place.

Pear Honey
 To make pear honey, cut or grind ripe pears into small pieces. To four pounds of pears use three pounds sugar. Mix and cook until it is the consistency of honey. Pour into hot sterilized jars. Leave no head space. Seal. For variety, add 1/2 cup lemon juice or one cup crushed pineapple five minutes before packing.

Household SS Withholding Explained

The Social Security Administration has reported that a problem exists in the reporting of household workers for social security purposes. These workers, such as maids, babysitters, handymen, and gardeners are covered under the social security law, but frequently the employer fails to properly report the earnings.

"This creates problems both for the employer and the employee. The employee's social security claim is delayed while we try to contact the employer; in some instances, the employer has moved away and cannot be located, or perhaps he has destroyed his records. Without credit for these earnings the worker very likely will not be able to receive the full amount of the social security benefits due to him. When the employer is located, information is obtained about the wage amounts, and this information is then turned over to the Internal Revenue Service for the collection of the social security taxes. The employer then becomes liable for the entire amount of the tax—both his part and the workers part," Mollering added.

Earnings of domestic workers should be reported every three months to the Internal Revenue Service, provided the worker has been paid at least $50 in cash wages in the calendar quarter by his employer. It does not matter how many days the person has worked. Only cash wages count toward the $50.

Mollering said some of the employers he has contacted have said that the employees did not want his wages reported and the employer therefore did not deduct the social security tax and report the wages. He stressed that reporting is not optional. Household workers or their employers who have a question about reporting earnings for social security purposes should contact the social security office, or see the representative when he is in your area.

Hot Water For Shaving
Need some hot water for shaving in camp but you just don't want to take the trouble to build a fire? Just run your outdoor motor for a few minutes, then collect the warmed water coming from the water exhaust pump.

Hot Nail—Hot Potato
To quick-cook potatoes in camp, try this little trick. Put an ordinary six-penny nail almost through the spud. While baking, the steel carries the heat and cooks the potatoes on the inside while the outside is being done.

Quickie Antiseptic
Got a nasty cut in camp and no antiseptic handy? Most all modern toothpastes contain high-powered, effective germicides. Smear some on the cut. Danger of infection goes down.

Railroad Spikes For Tent Stakes
Driving wooden tent stakes into hard ground is tough. Rustle up a set of old railroad spikes. The lip won't let the tent ropes slip off and you'll never bend them driving them in hard dirt.

Cork Keeps Call Clean
If your game call gets filled up with pieces of dust and tobacco from your pockets, try sticking a cork in the bugle end. Keeps one clean.

Cowbell For Kids
If you're taking your kids to a camp or on a bankside fishing trip, try this trick used by hunting-dog owners. Attach a small sturdy bell on the back of the child's jacket. Then as he moves about you can hear him heading for trouble and forestall.

Spray Your Way
Going deer hunting this fall and afraid you might get lost in strange country? Solve this by carrying a spray can of paint in your pocket. Occasionally, spray a mark on a tree and you'll have a blazed trail you can follow on your way out.

Footwear Comfort
Quick way to break in leather boots is to soak them for 10 to 15 minutes in water, then wear them until they are dry. Next time you put them on you'll find them to be as comfortable as your favorite pair of old shoes.

Snips, Quips, And Lifts

FOUR THINGS TO REMEMBER
A little bit of QUALITY
Will always make 'em smile;
A little bit of COURTESY
Will tickle 'em in a mile;
A little bit of FRIENDLINESS
Will bring 'em in again.

—Too many people are inclined to judge right from wrong on the basis of which pays the best.
—Sometimes we take credit for patience, when we are simply putting off an unpleasant job.
—What on earth will members of today's younger generation tell their children they had to do without?

—The bank robber pushed a note across to the teller. It read: "Put the money in a bag, sucker, and don't make a move." The teller pushed back a note: "Straighten your tie, stupid, we're taking your picture."

—A good rule for going through life is to keep the heart a little softer than the head.

—Those rare individuals who look down on their neighbors are usually living on a bluff.

Now That You've Killed It . . .

by Grover Simpson
Game Warden
After you have shot your deer, approach it from the rear carefully, making sure it is dead. Tag the deer immediately, before your hands get bloody. Start field-dressing the deer at once with a good, strong-bladed knife. There is no need to cut the throat to bleed the deer because in the process of the field-dressing, it will bleed out better and faster.

The following process has been used for many years by hunters in field dressing a deer:

Prop the deer on its back using two large rocks or logs under the shoulders and two under the hips.

If your deer is a buck, remove the sex organs with a sharp knife.

Starting behind the hind legs, cut all the way down to the pelvic bone. Then turn your knife blade up, and using your other hand to hold the skin and meat away from the entrails, cut up through the breastbone (brisket), and on up the neck as far as possible. Be sure you use a strong large-handled knife to cut through the breastbone, because a small knife will hit the rib cage and turn sideways in your hand.

Cut the windpipe in two as far up the neck as possible. Lay your knife down. Grasp the windpipe with both hands and pull hard, downward. The insides will come out all the way down to the mid-section.

Now remove the stones from under the deer and roll the carcass on the side. Cut the thin layer of meat that is holding the entrails to the ribs, all the way down to the backbone. Then turn the deer over and do the same on the other side.

Lay your knife down again, and using both hands, get a firm grip on the entrails and pull down, hard. All the entrails will come out of the deer.

Lift the deer up by the hind legs and lay a large rock under the rump. This will spread the legs open. Place your knife against the middle of the pelvis to locate the seam where the bones grow together, and press down, hard. You may need to hit your knife with a rock, to cut through the bone. Then you can finish cleaning the deer.

If a tree is handy and you have a rope, hang the deer up by the head or antlers for about 20 minutes. This will allow the blood to drain out of the body cavity. If no tree is handy, turn the deer upside down in a clean spot and let it drain.

You can begin skinning while the deer is draining. (If specimen is to be mounted hang deer by hind legs for skinning.) The skin will come off most easily while the deer is still warm, so it should be skinned within two hours. To remove the skin, cut it down each side of the legs to the middle of the deer. Now cut the skin all the way around the neck, as close to the head as possible. Grasp the skin with both hands at the back of the head and pull down hard. Usually the skin will come off down to the front legs and where the skin sticks tightly to the meat. Then pull down on the skin and it will come free.

Take your deer back to camp. Hang it in a tree by the hind legs for four or five hours. This will allow all the tiny blood vessels to drain back and out toward the heart. Wrap the deer in a sheet or cheese cloth.

Let your deer hang by the hind legs until it cools off. Then cut it up as you wish.

A giant radio telescope picked up bursts of static from a galaxy 2000 light years away. In them, scientists discovered these simple words:

"Earthmen, your planet is in danger. As your morals decay, your great cities slowly crumble. You will see wars and civil strife."

"But we offer you hope," the ancient message continued. "A new world. We can give you knowledge and bring . . . the peace for which you have searched so long . . ."

Science-fiction? Not entirely.

There is a message that originated in a distant place over 2000 years ago. It describes the world as it is today, and it offers hope for the future.

The Bible, inspired by God, is a very real message, one that you can begin reading today. Then go to church on Sunday and meet the Author there.

"Give Your Thanks To God"

by Teddy Coker
Thanksgiving is a day when the American people come in and give their thanks to God for all the wonderful things he has done for us. We thank God for all creation and for giving the people of the United States of America the freedom we cherish so much.

Some people believe Thanksgiving is a day when they are let off from work or school just to go home, eat a turkey dinner, and go watch the football game on television, but this is wrong.

The story of Thanksgiving is met with the Indians in peace. The colonists were thanking God for a successful harvest, and they invited the Indians to a Thanksgiving supper. The Indians accepted graciously and brought deer and turkey for the food. The Indians thanked the colonists by teaching them to hunt for food. The colonists, in return, taught the Indians about God. You can thank God for all the things he has done for you by praying. Please attend the church of your choice to praise God, our King.

(Submitted by Teddy Coker as part of work on Boy Scout "God and Country" award.)

Hunters Urged To Be Careful With Range Fires

The beginning of the hunting season this year may find our range lands in a more flammable condition than in many years. D. C. Langford, Agent reported today in urging hunters to use utmost care with all fires in the outdoors.

Large accumulation of grass and other vegetation which exists today was brought about by abundant rainfall during the growing season.

Any careless fire, coupled with low humidity and high winds could well do extensive damage to valuable range lands, rural property, and endanger human life. Such fires could also affect hunting Langford said.

The conditions existing today are reminiscent of conditions which prevailed in 1959 when fires did extensive damage throughout the state and took three human lives.

In support of the fire prevention efforts of the Texas Forest Service Langford urged all hunters to be careful with their smokes, and warming and cooking fires. Hunters have a stake in fire protection, he concluded.

Pork, beef and poultry are offering some real money saving values in protein foods.
