Lamb Feeders Meet Planned Jan. 9 In San Angelo

Internal parasites and the damage they are capable of doing to the sheep industry will highlight the third annual Lamb Feeders Symposium Saturday, January 9, in San Angelo.

In the day-long meeting scheduled at Producers Livestock as well as a visit from Miss Auction, diagnosis of parasitism and various control methods will be discussed. Dr. R.R.Bell, pro- attended Sunday services at fessor and head of the Department of Parasitology at Texas A&M University, will join colleagues Dr. F. C. stayed at the Conrad-Hilton Hotel in Chicago, with the Texas delegation taking the twentieth floor of the hotel. This was sponsored by the First National Bank of Bryan. Panel discussions were held by various groups with talks pertaining to Ecology, 4H and government. A series of tours were offered and some of the places Janet's group visited included the National Musuem of History, Art Institute and Chicago Police Department. Outstanding musical entertainment was also provided with a pop concert by Arthur Fielder as one of the main attractions, Climaxing the five days was a formal banquet where awards were presented to the delegates. Janet reported that she found Chicago to be a very dirty city and she particularly disliked the overhead trams that helped to add to the confusion and clamor in the big city. However, she quickly added that the hospitality of the people was wonderful and everywhere Chicagoans made the 4-H'ers feel welcome.

In contrast to the trend of thought regarding the conduct of some young people, Janet said she was most of all impressed with the 1800 young people whom she considered to be just absolute, wholesome young Americans.

YEAR? THIS DECADE? WHAT'S AHEAD THIS

The year 1971 comes bright and fresh to a world that is accustomed to change. It is part of a century which has recorded and will yet record great scientific achievements. It closes out a decade which spawned both economic and social changes.

We can guess, perhaps, what this New Year will bring. Let us hope that it brings peace among nations, brotherhood among men, a sound economy, a national prosperity, and increasing national patriotism. It is much to hope for, but it is worth the wishing. The course of events, internationally, nationally, and within the community, will have some bearing on the conduct of our individual lives

In a personal sense, the New Year offers a new and precious handful of time. We are rich in our possession of it. We have time for doing. Time for thinking. We have time to consider the lessons of yesterday, to evaluate the problems of today. We can use this time to defeat age, fear, disillusionment and the decay of too little understanding.

We have time to do our part, to work for a better world in which to live.
