

Broncos Travel To Eldorado After First District Loss

It was a bad night out for the Sonora Bronco team, coaches and fans Friday in Bronco Stadium as the Mason Punchers upset the home team 10-0.

The Bronco offense just could not get rolling and had it not been for a strong defensive effort lead by Sam David Hernandez, Bob Whitehead, Lindsey Paul Hicks, Donald and William Thompson and Curtis Mooney the situation might have been much worse.

The Punchers wasted little time in serving notice that they had come to play as they took the opening kickoff and drove 66 yards in the first three minutes of playing time, scoring the only touchdown of the night. The TD came on a 28 yard pass from quarterback Lindell Estes to split-end Deck Hooten. Adolfo Martinez kicked the extra point giving Mason an early 7-0 lead.

Late in the second quarter a 76 yard Punter drive stalled on the Sonora 2 yard line as Curtis Mooney intercepted a Punter pass. The first half ended 7-0.

With 4½ minutes left in the third quarter Mason kicked a 20 yard field goal for the only score of the second half. This field goal was set up by a Punter pass interception on

Hunting Season Opens Saturday

Saturday is the day that a large number of Texans wait for every year-- Hunting Season begins. Sunrise Saturday will see hundreds of hunters in the state sitting in deer blinds and stalking that buck they have been dreaming about since last year.

For the past several weeks, a deluge of calls and letters have been invading the local Chamber of Commerce office asking about season and day leases in the County.

The annual season in Sutton County runs through January 1, 1974 and any licensed hunter may take his quota of three deer of either sex but no more than two bucks.

Antlerless deer permits were granted to landowners at a meeting held at the Court-house October 29. Local Game Warden Nolan Johnson has stated that hunters should concentrate on the female population as does are abundant this year and definitely need thinning out.

Turkey season comes the same time as deer season and these birds may be hunted like deer from thirty minutes before sunrise until thirty minutes after sunset. Licensed hunters may kill two turkeys... either gobblers or hens. Johnson added that the deer population is in fairly good condition but that the late freeze in the spring left wild-life with little or no acorns and mesquite beans, which serve as a large part of their diet.

Branding Iron Smokehouse is offering free processing on the first deer and first turkey brought into the plant this season.

The annual hunting party which is planned each year for landowners, businessmen and visiting hunters, will be held at the 4-H Center at 6 p. m. November 20. This party is sponsored by the Edwards Plateau Game and Wildlife Association, Sonora Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce. All local and visiting hunters are cordially invited to attend this party which includes a evening meal and a ticket for valuable door prizes.

Gas Pump Stickers To Be Posted Nov. 21 For New Ceiling Prices

"Because of recent changes in the Phase IV petroleum regulations, all gasoline and diesel fuel retailers must obtain new ceiling price stickers for each pump or grade of petroleum sold," Klein Reid, Administrative Officer of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) office in San Angelo, said November 8.

The new stickers will be available after November 21, 1973. New pump stickers and instruction-computation forms may be picked up at the IRS office at: U. S. Post Office, Twobig and Oakes Streets, P. O. Box 648, San Angelo, Texas 76901.

Written requests for stickers and instructions may be made at the IRS office listed above. Retailers should specify the number of stickers they will need.

"The new stickers should be posted on each pump in a prominent position to be easily seen by the customer. The old sticker should then be removed," Reid said. If more than one grade of gas is sold from a pump, a separate sticker must be posted for each grade. Stickers must contain the new ceiling price and the minimum octane of the gasoline. Anticipating additional changes, The Cost of Living Council (CLOC) designed the stickers with four numbered blanks for inserting the ceiling prices for November 1973 through February 1974.

Under revised CLOC Rules gasoline and diesel fuel retailers are permitted to increase their May 15, 1973 selling price to reflect, on a dollar for dollar pass-through basis, their increased petroleum costs. This can be done no more than once a month. Whenever an adjustment is made to the maximum permissible price, each retailer

Masonic Graveside Services Held For Longtime Sonoran, O. G. Babcock

Masonic graveside services were held Monday, November 12 for Orville Gorman Babcock, 88.

Mr. Babcock died November 9 at Hudsph Memorial Hospital. Ratliff-Kerbow Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements with burial in Sonora Cemetery.

A pin, in honor of fifty years of service in the Masonic Lodge, was presented to family members during the ceremony.

Moving to the Sonora area in 1919, Mr. Babcock was associated with the Ranch Experiment Station where he did research on screwworms and parasite control affecting man and animal for the Bureau of Entomology. He retired in 1948 after 30 years of service.

Born in Denver, Colorado, July 21, 1885, he was married to Edith Knoll, February 6, 1912. Mrs. Babcock preceded him in death on October 5, 1968.

Reared on a farm near Denver, he attended public schools there and graduated from Colorado A&M, now Colorado State University, at Fort Collins in 1910 after working in the metal mines and then in a sugar beet factory as a chemist.

After receiving his B. S. degree with a major in horticulture and minor in entomology, he worked briefly for the U. S. Reclamation Service.

In late October of 1968, Mr. Babcock gave his insect specimen collection to Angelo State University. He had spent nearly his entire lifetime collecting these specimens in the West and Southwest. At that time he also donated to the college biology department, a collection of some 200 samples of native woods, thousands of reprints of scientific articles including many of his own, a box of original documents dealing with pioneer work in the use of parasite control and a collection of scientific journals dating back to the 1920's.

His great collection of slides was turned over to the college just a few days prior to his death.

Mr. Babcock was survived by one son, Kenneth Babcock of McCamey; two daughters, Mrs. Ed Tipton and Mrs. Edith Kokernot, both of Houston; a sister, Miss Kathryn Babcock of Denver, Colorado; seven grandchildren, and 4 great-grandchildren.

Roueche Funeral Services Held Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. Neil (Charlotte Mathew) Roueche, 91, were held November 12 at Presbyterian Church of the Good Shepherd. The Rev. Homer Akers officiated at the services with the Rev. John Weston, assisting.

Burial was in Sonora Cemetery under the direction of Ratliff-Kerbow Funeral Home.

Mrs. Roueche was born January 12, 1882 in Bandera County and had been a resident of Sutton County since 1908. She married Neil Roueche in San Angelo June 10, 1921. Mr. Roueche died March 15, 1955.

A member of the Methodist Church, Mrs. Roueche died November 10 at Hudsph Memorial Hospital. Survivors include one

Eighth Rabies Case Confirmed

The eighth case of rabies has been confirmed in the County recently according to city officials and local veterinarians. This last case was a close 10 miles from the city limits.

In view of the cases, a total of five dogs and a large number of cats have had to be destroyed because they had apparently been bitten by the rabid animal and had not received rabies inoculations prior to the attack.

Local veterinarian John Fields stated Tuesday that domesticated animals should be vaccinated at the age of four months and receive the vaccine every twelve months thereafter to be protected.

Fields also added that skunks in this country are the most normal rabies carriers and that these animals along with bats can be rabies carriers and appear perfectly normal other than they may appear more aggressive than usual.

With the large populous of loose cats and dogs on the streets in this community, along with the rabid animals found near town, make Sonora the ideal target for a rabies outbreak, added the veterinarian.

Mayor Norman Rousselot, along with other city officials and Dr. Charles F. Browne are duly concerned for the safety of our pets and our children and urge all pet owners to take their pets to a clinic and see that their vaccinations are in order.

A representative of the Public Health Department from El Paso is due to the area shortly and will make contact with various persons to see what can be done to prevent this happening.

This representative, city and county officials and your local health authorities cannot be successful in this attempt without the cooperation and concern of each and every person in the County who may or may not have a pet.

THIS 56 FOOT SIGN is the newest addition to the Devil's River Motel which opened November 7. Mrs. Kyle Davidson will serve as manager of the motel, which is owned by Joe David Ross. Each room in the 40 unit motel, features colored television and a dining room addition is planned at a later date.

Confirming The Vice President

By John Tower

The crisis syndrome which has gripped Washington for these past weeks could in itself create another far more serious problem unless Congress can put aside partisan politics and get on with its most immediate pressing job. I am referring to the confirmation of Congressman Gerald Ford as Vice President of the United States.

There has been far too much loose talk by some narrow politicians of holding up the confirmation until certain members of Congress are met. Some have demanded concessions from the President; other have talked of forcing the President to release impounded funds; and still other suggestions have been voiced, generally in narrow, partisan terms.

This country and this government is facing enough trouble without Congress becoming embroiled in a long, drawn-out partisan fight over the confirmation of a new Vice President. We simply cannot afford the luxury of another bitter fight. Our number one priority now is to get this matter settled with proper expediency.

This is not to say that the Senate and House Committees should proceed with haste without proper hearings and investigations into this very important matter. But we must remember that if the President of the United States is still the single most important office in the free world—and it is—then a guarantee of a certain and harmonious succession to that office is absolutely crucial.

After all, this is why the 25th Amendment to the Constitution was overwhelmingly passed by the Congress in 1965—a Congress, I might add, which was dominated by the Democrats, who now control the Congress.

Under the Presidential Succession Act, the Speaker of the House is third in line for succession back of the President and the Vice President. The Democrats now have the majority in both houses of Congress, and thus the Speaker is a Democrat. Without a Vice President, at the moment he now stands to succeed the President should anything happen to remove him from office. In such an event, we would have a Democrat, who was not elected by a majority of the people, succeeding a Republican, who was elected last year by an overwhelming majority. The 25th Amendment is designed to allow an administration to carry on with both a chief executive and his second in command—the Vice President—in the event that the second highest office becomes vacant, as it has now with the departure of Vice President Agnew.

I have the greatest respect for Speaker Carl Albert from our neighboring state of Oklahoma. But I know he is keenly aware of the pressure he would be under should any move succeed in unnecessarily holding up the nomination of Ford. However, from all indications, there is at the present no visible organized move to delay the nomination. I am told that at least in the Senate, the Rules Committee is to move expeditiously.

It is thus obvious that the Congress to delay filling this vacancy would be unthinkable and irresponsible. There already are too many uncertainties in government and politics.

The alternative is to get on with the confirmation process because we have in Gerald Ford a very capable, strong and experienced nominee. He is eminently qualified for this high post. He was an outstanding scholar and athlete at the University of Michigan; an honor graduate of the Yale Law School; four years of service in the Navy during World War Two; a successful young lawyer and civic leader in his home town of Grand Rapids, Michigan. Gerry Ford was first elected to the House in 1948, and has been re-elected by huge majorities through the 1972 elections. He was awarded the American Political Science Association Distinguished Congressional Service Award in 1961; was elected House Republican Leader in 1965 and is serving in that very important post now.

His record as House Minority Leader has been positively brilliant, without any individual acrobatics on his part. In his own quiet way he has brought together House Republicans—conservative or liberal—to vote as a team and to work to develop Republican alternatives to programs and legislation sponsored by the Congressional majority. He is regarded with great affection and respect by Democrats and Republicans in the House and Senate. And, he is an excellent terms with President Nixon. The Ford nomination was a deliberate, open acknowledgment by President Nixon that he wanted a closer, more harmonious relationship with Congress. It should be accepted by Congress and the American public in the manner offered.

Filling a dangerous vacancy in the Presidential succession should be of overriding concern. Attempts to attach irrelevant conditions to approval of the nomination—attempts to make cheap capital out of the need for filling the vacancy—should be treated with the contempt they deserve.

News Letter

By O. C. Fisher

One of the relaxing diversions from the daily work of being an office holder is the gratuitous and often amusing attention one gets from political gossip columnists. One of them once said to me: "Think nothing about what we say. Our job is to stir up controversy."

I'm afraid I don't get my share of these wisecracks, but I do pick up a few real gems now and then. The San Antonio Express-News gossipers draw beads on me quite often. They've shown disdain for several years because I didn't retire.

In a recent issue they gloated over what they described as my "shaky race" against "an obscure Republican" last year. Some may think that my total of 68% of all the votes cast last November in 29 of the 30 counties was "shaky!" To me it was a landslide of major proportions and a source of personal pride. I did, however, lose Bexar County by a little more than two percent, and maybe that explains why the reporter was so shaky about it.

The Express-News voice then explained why they figured I simply must be finished. They again fretted about me being too old to suit them, my surgery, and for good measure they allowed I had been known to say a nice thing or two about President Nixon and also John Connally—which apparently to them was an unpardonable sin.

Then the gossip artist tossed in a nebulous idea that in some way or other I had taken a "critical stance" toward the Watergate committee, and had been "waspish" about Professor Archibald Cox, whatever he meant by that. These things, they figured, have done me in!

When you're on the receiving end of such bars, you can't win because the gossipper always has--and uses--the last word. This type of reporting often makes juicy reading and is in a class by itself. But, after all, what's wrong with a reporter indulging in some far out fancies now and then? These boys really mean well--and they've gotta make a living.

Viewpoint

By T. Driskell

It is becoming apparent that we are in the twilight of the subjugation of our way of life to the automobile and the automobile makers. Their era seems to be drawing to a close, as it should from the standpoints of sensibility and necessity. The need has been so obvious for so many years. It was becoming rather difficult to function without an automobile--drive in movies, banks, restaurants, drugstores, and first aid stations.

What has the effect been? We have totally ignored the need for, and development of, efficient interurban rapid transit systems. Instead we have literally plastered our countryside with interlaced mazes of concrete spaghetti dedicated to carrying one individual an average of seven miles to work in a six foot by seventeen foot automobile. After the trip, we practically sink into paranoia confronted by the dilemma of what to do with that 102 square feet of automobile while its passenger is working. More compound absurdity is difficult to imagine.

Those dust permeated, postage stamp, principalities on the periphery of the Persian Gulf have introduced a force to restore reason, and put the ecologist's delay of the Alaskan pipeline into its proper perspective--sheer stupidity. On the plus side, however, maybe it will restore us back to the right track and leave drive in obstetrics on the just over the horizon list.

What can we anticipate. Only some accelerated changes. Gasoline should become somewhat short in supply and the price should stabilize at somewhere between 75¢ and 90¢ a gallon in five years. The combination of shortage and price will cast a stigma on those cars with three-hundred horsepower engines which use two-hundred of those horses driving ecology gear. Our automobile makers have sold us down the nine mile per gallon river. They could have done better, but it would have cost four hundred dollars per car, so they did nothing and added the $400 in ecology gear, trying to make the old engines do. Even this faux pas has a good side--with limited gasoline you won't get lost. On a strict ration, you can hardly get out of your neighborhood. It is apparent that if we cannot bum ecologists in those big engines, the automobile must change.

What will the future automobile look like? The appearance should not change too much, in sheet metal that is. The engine will be about one-fifth of the present size, and give a better cost per mile than we now enjoy. Another benefit will be that from the driver's seat you can manually roll up the window on the passenger's side without dislocating your back. If you are going to snooze, the seats will have to recline, unless you are a midget a transverse position is out. They will be small, and the zero to sixty times will comparatively have to be measured with a calendar.

A pretty grim picture, and it will probably never occur. They might develop an engine that burns ecologists. Even so there will be changes. You can only drive your car to the edge of the cities and must park there--no private vehicles, and no parking will, or should be allowed in the central cities--so from the ride of the cities you will ride the rapid transit system, a development we have neglected. The transition will be rough for a few years.

If you are a woman who drives a three-ton behemoth on a two-mile errand, do not despair. You can retain your badge of social prestige, and a pedal driven vibrator is not difficult. All that is needed is a motion picture projector and appropriate panoramic film. Grand Canyon, Niagara Falls, Amalphi Drive, Auto Route, The Autobahn, Acropolis, and so on. All that is required is a pedal power, and you can leave home, paint the garage wall white--you do not want discolored scenery.

Steps Being Taken To Conserve Energy Until Substitute Can Be Invented

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitter-weed ranch on dry Devil's River tackles the energy crisis this week, we guess you'd say. Dear editor:

Although nobody has acted like it, everybody knows there's just a certain number of barrels of oil left inside the earth and when that's gone that's all she wrote, so naturally everybody is interested in steps being taken to conserve what we've got until a substitute can be invented.

Some European countries for example where they don't have professional football have banned Sunday driving, in the U. S. all government cars are now required to stay under 50 miles an hour and the rule may be extended to everybody, schools in colder areas may have shorter hours and longer holidays, the country may go back to daylight saving time the year around, airlines are making fewer flights, homes and offices are urged to turn their thermostats down 6 degrees this winter, etc.

I'm in favor of all this and am wondering where I can buy stock in a company making old fashioned long-handles, but the plan doesn't go far enough. I mean, there are other areas where man can save enormous amounts of fuel without just wearing more clothes, and I'm going to think again before buying that stock. You're going to run into problems trying to get women to wear long-handles with mini-skirts.

But let's move on. For example, take tanks. Huge tanks lined up on the desert fighting each other consume thousands of gallons of fuel, whereas you could get the same results with just as many casualties and prisoners at a 100 per cent saving of gas and oil if you used armored knights riding on horses.

For the price of probably half a dozen tanks the U. S. and Russia could equip 5,000 knights on both sides with horses, armored suits and all the swords and lances they could lug, and the battle could start whenever the referee blew his whistle. The Humane Society might object to the damage to the horses, but the television crews could use the same rule used in filming Westems: show a man being shot, but never his horse.

This is just a start. Put your mind to it. There must be hundreds of other ways to save fuel, without of course banning the use of lighter fluid. I just don't believe civilization has advanced far enough for a man to light his cigarette with a flint rock.

Yours faithfully,
J. A. P. S. This is off the subject, but I just read that some people now believe that the world is coming to an end. I don't hold with this but it's something to think about. I mean, it might be the only solution to the situation we've got in Washington.

Hospital News

By Jan Vanderstucken
The Lillian M. Hudspeth Memorial Hospital Auxiliary met in the conference room of the nursing home Monday, November 12.

Mrs. Edwin Sawyer presented the members with a pamphlet depicting personalized mail boxes for the patient's doors. These boxes in addition to holding patient's mail, would also hold doctor's charts.

A party will be held each month for patients having birthdays in that given month. Names were drawn at the meeting by each auxiliary member to have a special friend to remember on special occasions.

Twelve members attended the meeting with Mrs. Robert Hardgrave, Mrs. Joe Hardgrave and Mrs. Hattie Epps hosting.

Mrs. Maggie Glasscock was elected corresponding secretary for the auxiliary.

The auxiliary wishes to extend their expression of gratitude to Mr. Gene Martin for the Halloween decorations. Patients seemed to enjoy the children who came "trick or treating". These children added the finishing touches toward making the patients Halloween a happy and memorable occasion.

Plans for the Christmas party and the decorating of the tree were made for the hospital foyer.

Teen Scene

The Broncos suffered a defeat of 10 to 0 against the Mason Punchers last Friday evening, for their only District loss this season. The boys just weren't as prepared mentally as they had been the week before, and were hurt by this a great deal. However, the Broncos will still be able to win the District Title in their last conference game against Eldorado.

Curtis Mooney and Donald Thompson will be unable to play due to the injuries they received against the Punchers, but the rest of the team will be fully prepared for anything the Eagles may have to offer. The boys and their coaches will greatly welcome and appreciate the support of everyone as they pluck the Eagles this Friday evening. The game will begin at 7:30 in Eldorado.

The Marching Bronco Band, directed by Mr. John Butterfield, attended the Regional U. I. L. Marching contests last Saturday afternoon, and received First Division ratings from all three judges for their excellent performance on the field. The Band will begin preparing to achieve the same rating in the U. I. L. Concert and Sight-Reading contests held in the Spring, for which they will receive honors as a "Sweepstakes" Band.

In the Twirling contests which were also held in Brady Saturday, the quartet made up of this year's twirlers (Ann Villarreal, Lesa Joy, Laura and Melissa Gibbs) received a Division II rating; for their solos, Laura received a II, Ann a II, and Lesa, a II.

The Sextet composed of Pattie Merrill, Jane Wallace, Flaire Lane, Becky Cavaness, Lucy Morris, and Terri Simpler, was given a Division III rating.

Solos were also performed by Pattie M (who received a II), Jane W. (III), Flaire L. (II), Lucy (II), Gloria Gomez (III), and Joyce Noriega (III).

The Girls Varsity and Junior Varsity Basketball teams will begin their season next Monday evening. They will play Ozona here, beginning at 6:00 p.m. On Tuesday evening they will play in Iraan, beginning at 6:00 P.M.

Man has a hunger for knowledge. It first shows itself in childhood and prompts incessant questions and exasperating experiments.

But it continues all through life. Recently, on discovering something you didn't know, you murmured to yourself, "Gotta look that up..."

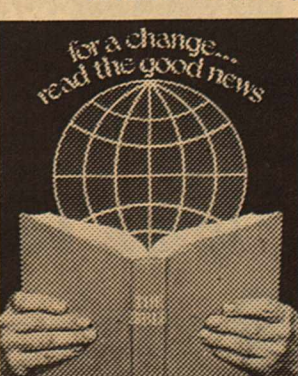

Upon this basic hunger for knowledge, the Church's program of religious education is planned. That's why we urge parents to foster a Christian atmosphere in the home. It is also why the Church provides religious instruction long before secular education begins. And it accounts for continuing emphasis on youth and young adult activities in most congregations.

We adults haven't outgrown the hunger for knowledge. Most of us recognize that our scientific and material progress points up the crucial need for spiritual standards to believe in. God has vital truth to impart to men. The place to look it up is your church.

Light Turnout In Amendment Election

With approximately 1500 registered voters in Sutton County, only 116 cast votes in the Tuesday, November 6 amendment election. Two of these were absentee voters. In the most controversial of all the nine proposed amendments was amendment number 1, which if passed was to provide for annual regular sessions of the legislature and to provide an annual salary and per diem for members of the legislature. Sutton Countians had 35 votes for and 78 against this amendment.

Amendment number 2 was passed in Sutton County with 97 voting for and 16 against the amendment regarding home-stead protection and to provide that a family homestead cannot be abandoned without the consent of both spouses.

Amendment number 3 to extend the $3,000 ad valorem tax exemption to the home-steads of unmarried adults showed 96 local votes for and 18 against.

Amendment number 4 establishing certain requirements relative to the enactment of laws creating certain conservation and reclamation districts had 67 votes for and 42 against.

85 votes for were cast for the amending of the Constitution to provide that coastal area cities may levy taxes to pay for bonds regarding the construction of sea walls and breakwaters. 23 votes were adverse.

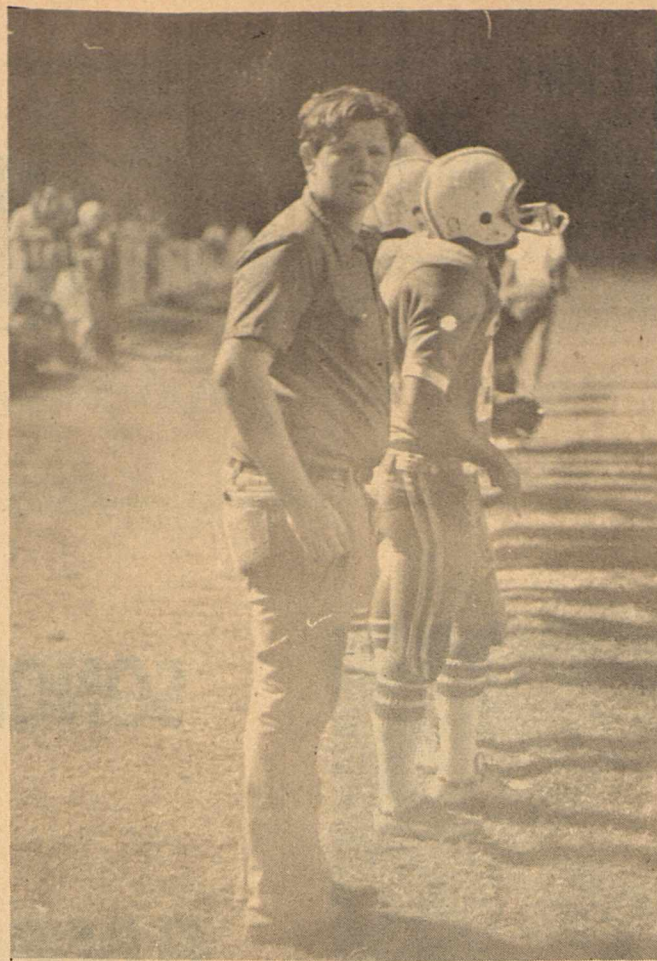

Amendment number 6 regarding the district and county courts having the general jurisdiction of a probate court, had a total of 61 votes for and 48 against.

Amendment number 7 to provide for an additional $100 million in bonds or obligations of the State of Texas for the Veterans' Land Fund had an almost even number of votes for and against with 58 voters voting for and 55 against.

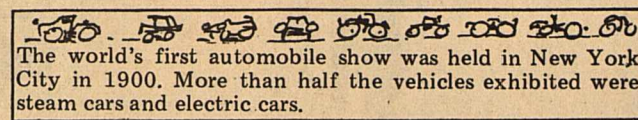

Amendment number 8 had 51 votes for and 59 against to authorize cities, towns and villages to levy such ad valorem taxes as are sufficient to pay the principal and interest on their general obligations.

Amendment number 9 authorizing the legislature to exempt certain water supply corporations and cooperatives from the property tax on certain facilities had 42 votes for and 72 against.

A small number of voters did not vote for all nine amendments, but only for those they had a definite opinion on.

GREG COOK, manager of the Sonora Bronco football team, has a worried look as the Broncos suffer defeat at the hands of the Mason Punchers. Greg, along with Roy Allen Adkins and Tommy Mounce, serve in many capacities for the football players and their coaches and are to be commended for the very fine job they do at each and every game.
