He Comes Out Fighting Against Law To Jail Public Officials Who Lie

Editor's note: The Devil's | false statements to the public River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on the Dry Devil's River reacts to a new law proposed by some newspaper reporters. Dear editor:

Enthusiasm in what you consider a righteous cause can sometimes be carried so far it meets you coming back and you wish you'd never got involved

For Example, everybody knows there has been a lot of lying in government in recent years, starting say a thousand or so years ago and reaching top honors with Watergate, so a group of Washington reporters has come out for a law making it "a Federal crime for a public official to omit important facts or make any or the press." The law would be patterned after the truth-inadvertising law.

On the surface this sounds reasonable, a government official who'll stand up and lie to the people ought to go to jail, but then I got to thinking. In the first place, we don't have that many jails.

In the second place, I'm not sure lying is confined to public officials, and I'm certainly not saying all public officials lie. Some of them have their public relations men do it for them. Nor do all public officials intentionally omit any important facts. Some of them are like me, they don't know what the facts are.

To clear this up, what I'm saying is that public officials probably don't lie any oftener than private citizens, and there's the rub for those Washington reporters clamoring for a new law.

Don't they know that if it becomes a Federal crime for a public official to omit facts and tell lies, it won't be long till the law is extended to cover reporters and newspapers? Maybe even fiction writers, TV announcers, college presidents, football coaches, husbands, wives, high school students, and a batch of 4-year-olds?

By then the cat'll be out of the bag, the courts will be so logged the national budget will have to be doubled to work our way out from under the load. Those reporters just weren't thinking.

Besides, this law sounds like something proposed by trial

Yours faithfully,

MARCH SAVINGS BONDS SALE REPORTED

County Bond Chairman George H. Neill, announced recently that sales of Series E and H United State Savings Bonds in Sutton county during the month of March totaled $799. Sales for the first quarter of 1975 were $2,636 for 13% of the yearly goal of $20,000.

Sales in Texas amounted to $18,518,450 during the month while sales for the first three months totaled $61,992,164 with 26% of the $234.3 mil. goal achieved.

The proposed new state institution will be up for approval by the voters in November. Before that time, every registered voter in the state will receive a copy of the draft of the constitution. In addition, my office will mail out an analysis of the new constitution and also a comparison of it with the present constitution. Target date for mailing the material is business.

My recent trip to Washington was most interesting and worthwhile. Meeting with the President and Secretary of State was informative, not to mention exciting. It was also very enlightening to have a chance to exchange ideas with the leaders of the other 49 states who attended the conference. I was pleasantly surprised to find that, as inefficient and ineffective as we often criticize our state government of being, Texas seems to be dealing with our problems in a more progressive and successful manner than many of the other states. It might seem hard to believe,

Our News Letter

I had the opportunity to be back in the district again over the weekend, to visit the Hill Country Livestock Raisers, to meet with people in town meetings in Kerrville and Junction, and to participate in ceremonies at the Nimitz Center in Fredericksburg.

Travelling with me was Dr. Manfred Abelein, who for ten vears has been a member of the German Parliament, and who may very well be the next Foreign Secretary in Germany. One of the questions he was asked, while in Texas, was whether he considered that America's withdrawal from South Vietnam would cause our allies to question our reliability. He said, "No." People in Germany and Europe recognize that fighting a guerrilla war in Southeast Asia is very different from the joint defense efforts of Europe and America in opposing Communist expansion and dominance in the western world.

Dr. Abelein also pointed out that it is time, as I am sure we would all agree, that other countries take their full share of the defense burden. NATO members cannot defend them-

The coronation was held in conjunction to National Nursing Home Week and began with the Rev. Paul Terry giving the invocation. Runnersup in the queen contest were Ms. Melissa Emerson and Ms. Lupe Silvas.

Contestants were judged on personality, friendliness, ability to show happiness in adapting to life in a nursing home, participation in nursing home activities and cooperation with the staff and other residents.

The queen was crowned by hospital administrator Gene Martin and was presented a bouquet of red roses. Her attendants, Ms. Emerson and Ms. Silvas, were presented corsages.

plain as the nose on your face

That's the way Grandma described things that were absolutely clear.

Religion was one of these!

Of course, she knew that theologians debate certain subjects. She sometimes lamented the fact there were so many denominations—which in her day weren't cooperating as they are now. And Granny was fully aware that a few individuals claim to be atheists or agnostics.

But the idea that God created us ... loves us ... seeks us saves us. To Granny that was plain as the nose on your

Amistad Sport Fishing Prospects Get Boost

In order to put more intensive effort into enhancing sport fishing at Lake Amistad, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has reassigned a crew of biologists from San Angelo to Del Rio and introduced a new management concept which hopefully will result in better fishing for evervone.

Del Rio area citizens have long expressed their concern over the deteriorating largemouth bass fishing at the lake, a condition which is typical of many of the older Texas reservoirs. Amistad, itself, is seven years old. Most mpoundments, according to department biologists, peak out at the four-year mark and then begin declining, never quite regaining the fish production capacity of their peak years. With the reassignment of TP&W biologist Ronnie Stapleton to the area, the department can study every aspect of Amistad's fish production, In turn, Stapleton and his crew will be making recommendations for longrange programs at the lake.

Already the department has begun implementing the multiple-species concept in management at Amistad.

"If it were a farm pond we could add fertilizer to correct any nutrient problem," says Stapleton. "But it would cost millions to do that at Amistad and it's just not practical."

Coffee Break

It has been brought to the attention of all Sonorans that we are a bunch of moneygrabbing, highway robbers. At least that is the impression of one Jerry Lackey, a writer for comes as no surprise to those the San Angelo Standard Times.

He states that he paid 40 cents for one cup of coffee while passing through our city last week. I have called French's Big Tree, Gulf, Park Inn, Hurry-Up and Dairy Mart, and find that there are no such prices charged for one cup of coffee. The Gulf, Park Inn and Hurry-Up all advise me that coffee is charged at 20 cents per cup, plus tax...so if Mr. Lackey drank two cups, he was charged 40 cents....plus tax. But he did not pay as his writing stated, 40 cents for one cup. And I for one am under the assumption that if a waitress was going to "hold him up", as he stated, she would have gone for more than a 20 cent profit.

The entire text of Lackey's round-up was mighty distastful to this former San Angeloan. His comments and insinuations were not humorous in any respect, if that was the intention Sonora is on the boom, certainly I won't deny that. But it has been called to my attention on more than one occasion that our grocery prices for one thing, are cheaper than some of our neighboring towns....including San Angelo. My mother-in-law who is a specials-only shopper came last weekend and picked up a number of items on special at our local grocery that beat anything she finds in San Angelo stores.

Granted there are going to be some people in every town who cash in on an oil and gas boom and I would imagine this involved; in fact, I believe their wages are based on these probabilities.

I would be interested though to know which of our new families are bringing in the biting lizards Lackey spoke of. Since we have no venomous lizards in this part of Texas I would like to remind these people that lizards go along with other pets....you must keep them properly tagged and in an enclosure.

Lackey also spoke of his good friend John Fields who was putting in a new grocery store. If John Fields is going into the grocery business it has not been made public. Herbert Fields has a new store under construction, but I guess John has been keeping his secret.

As for the match box mobile homes scattered about town and into the hills, I don't think these expensive, well decorated residences can be compared to tent towns in the gold rush era.

Sonora has always been a very hospitable town and we have always had a fierce pride in our community and community affairs, but I hope Mr. Lackey does not honor any of our local restaurants with his business until the ire of the townspeople subsides somewhat. I have been advised that his money will be uncheerfully refunded.

What better way to improve your driving than to have a police car cruising alongside.

Spring screwworm cases are on a northwesterly trek across Texas, but good herd management practices can go a long way toward reducing outbreaks, two specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service say.

The cattle breeding season affects the screwworm program, reminds Dr. Tom Woodward, area livestock specialist, and Dr. Mike McWhorter, area entomologist, both headquartered at San Angelo. They are members of a committee named to study the screwworm problem.

A key factor in the increased number of cases in recent vears is the large number of calves born during the peak months of screwworm fly activity, they emphasize. "Of all reported cattle screwworm cases from July through October of last year, 55 per cent were from navels of new-born calves. Approximately 70 per cent of all domestic livestock cases that occurred during this same period were from cattle," the specialists add.

For this reason, the study committee recommends that producers schedule their cattle breeding season from March 15 through July 15 each year.

"Bulls should be turned in with cows no earlier than March 15, and they should be taken out of the pasture by July 15 in order to produce calves during the peak months of January through April."

"Calves born from January hrough April have the benfit of spring forages and increased milk flow from the mother cows. They grow off better, and cows have a better opportunity to resume their estrous cycle and rebreed. Not only do late spring, summer and early fall calves allow opportunities for screwworm infestations, but research also indicates that these calves may be as much as 50 pounds lighter at weaning time, " Woodward and McWhorter

By adopting the practice of a controlled breeding season, the Texas cattle industry stands to benefit from more efficient calf production and to assist the effort to eliminate the screwworm problem, they em-
