School Board Reviews Quarter System Plan

The regular meeting of the board of trustees was held May 20, with the board reviewing a slide presentation on the quarter system. Beginning next school year all Texas schools will change from the semester plan to the quarter system plan. This simply means that the 180 day school year will change from the two 90 day semesters to three 60 day quarters. Some of the advantages of the quarter system include more instructional time, increased course offerings, and reduction in school drop-outs.

The board approved the Title I Remedial Reading Program for grades 2-8 for 1975-76. The school testing program revealed that of 539 pupils tested, 137 or 25.4% were reading one year or more below their grade level. For this reason,

Plans Underway For Public Park

Members of the Sonora Park Association, in conjunction with local city and county governments, have been working with two park specialists from Texas A&M Extension Service, making plans and applications for the race track area to be made into a public park.

Businesses and individuals will be asked, at a later date, to make donations in the form of cash, supplies, materials or labor. Park officials have also planned a meeting to be held in the near future, to include all service organizations, youth groups, adult organizations and churches. Any suggestions as to what the park needs, would be appreciated, according to Dr. Joe David Ross. These suggestions should be submitted to Ross, Web Elliott, Bob Nevill, Tommy Whitehead, James Hunt, or Louis Powers.

Cahill Construction Company has cleared the center of the track area and this is being used for pony league and girl's softball games.

David Scott Blackhall, a poet who was stricken with blindness wrote these words: "The grass which bends to the wind remains intact, unbroken. Whenever I have learned to bend to the wind, 'to turn the other cheek', I have always found that the wind, especially the particular wind, no longer has any power over me. That part of me which remains intact, stands up to fight again. Whatever happens to me in life, that choice and that responsibility remain my own."

Ministers and all those involved in counselling people in their times of difficulty know the importance of being able "to bend to the wind."

Those who have faced a crushing sorrow, the break-up of a marriage, an exhausting period of illness, an operation, severe financial reverses, a crisis in their relationship with their children—these are some of the people who, at least for a time, need to bend to the wind.

Medical doctors are increasingly aware of the non-physical factors in the healing process. One such factor is the attitude of acceptance. By "acceptance" we do not mean an abject surrender to the illness or the problem, but rather a calm confidence that the love and power of God are still at work.

These thoughts seem to me especially relevant in the present period of our national history. We need to look back and see anew those times when America has had to bend to the wind.

As we begin to celebrate our Bicentennial we are learning some of the dark experiences of 200 years ago that were glossed over in our school history courses. We need to remember how bitter were the sufferings of the Civil War and the days of reconstruction that followed. There was the Great Depression of the 1930's. And two World Wars plus the costly role we played in South Korea.

No individual and no nation can hope to avoid these times that try men's souls. One secret of survival is to know how and when to bend to the wind, so that the part of us which remains firmly rooted and intact can rise up again.

Up, sluggard, and waste not life; in the grave will be sleeping enough.

Our News Letter

By Bob Krueger

This week I have good news.

After weeks of working for sensible oil pricing policies in this country, my amendment on oil pricing was adopted 8-7 by the Energy and Power Subcommittee of the House. In introducing this amendment, I had to work from proposals submitted by others to improve and refine them, and the exact language was not precisely as I might have hoped. However, politics involves the use of compromise to get the best resolutions that one can, and I am convinced that if this legislation should become law, those who produce energy will be able to produce enough domestically to supply our needs.

The basic problem for the American producer and the American consumer of oil is that while American producers are paid $5.25 for two-thirds of the oil they produce ("old oil"), foreign producers are paid $12.50. American producers receive the full world market price for "new oil", that is, oil produced and discovered since May 1, 1972; and this oil constitutes one-third of our domestic production. Many so-called consumer advocates, particularly from northeastern states, have wanted to roll-back prices on American oil, both new and old, to lower levels. This may be attractive in the short run, but it is certain to make us even more dependent than we now are on foreign suppliers.

If producers of new oil in America were limited to $7.50 per barrel, while foreign oil prices were at $12.50, then it is clear that there would be no incentive to take oil out of the ground in America that might cost over $7.50 to produce.

Instead, the incentive would be to look for oil overseas. In the short run, prices at home would be kept lower. But, in the long run, they would be higher to consumers, and we would become increasingly dependent on foreign supply.

This would endanger us economically and militarily. My amendment which was accepted would allow all "new oil" to be sold at the market price, and would, by 1979, phase out government control of prices so that the price of oil, like other commodities, would be governed by a free market system.

My amendment also provides for a tax credit on domestic exploration and development to be used against any windfall profits tax that would be imposed. The bill, finally, would give increased incentives for enhanced recovery techniques that would allow us to get more oil out of the ground than is possible under normal drilling procedures.

This amendment will still have to be passed by the full Commerce Committee and then on the House floor. There will be many people working against it, but we have won a victory which, frankly, no one in Washington thought would be possible in this subcommittee, and it will certainly be worth the fight if we are able to bring this policy into law.

Legislating is hard work, and one often does not achieve precisely what he aspires to.

THE DEVIL'S RIVER PHILOSOPHER SEZ..... He Thinks He Knows Why New York City Is Confronted With Financial Ruin

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on the Dry Devil's River takes a long-distance view of New York City this week, we think.

Dear editor: According to something I saw on television the other night, later confirmed by the newspapers -- I always wait to make sure -- New York City is almost financially busted.

It takes a billion dollars a month to run the city, that much revenue isn't coming in, and if the Federal government doesn't lend or give -- generally it's the same thing -- the city a billion and a half dollars right away the city won't be able to pay its bills.

The more you think about this the more it makes you scratch your head. New York, we've been led to believe, is the intellectual, financial and talent center of the United States. It has all the big financial houses, Wall Street, the stock exchanges, the capital. It has most of the big publishing firms, television networks, the national magazines, the editors, the art museums, the big writers. In short, it's supposed to have almost a monopoly on the brains of the country.

Yet it can't pay its bills. This is ridiculous, I told myself. Then I got to thinking. Sure, New York has a lot of brains -- not all the brains, even if it thinks it has -- but they may not necessarily be in charge of the city.

I mean, stop and think, how many cities and towns can you name, not counting Sonora of course, that invariably elect the smartest men to run the place? How many state legislatures are there that represent the top brains of that state? How many Governors, how many Presidents...but wait a minute, this narrows it down too uncom-

Reddy's helpful tips for your Room Air-Conditioners

Your air-conditioner will operate inefficiently if filters are not cleaned regularly. Dirt and lint, collected on the filters, restricts air flow to the coils. Clean filters every two weeks.

Let nature help you save energy by shading your home with trees and shrubs to help cut down on summer cooling costs. Draw draperies against afternoon sun.

Remember to keep outside doors, windows, and fireplace dampers closed. If you have window units, close the heating vents near the floor, as cool air falls and can escape through vents.

You purchased fine-home comfort when you bought your air conditioning unit. Properly maintained, it will offer you years of efficient service. A once-a-year check-up by your dealer pays dividends in savings on operating and breakdown costs.

The Master's Touch

God must love beauty, to use it so lavishly. The Master Artist dapples the soft green leaves with golden sunshine, turns the brook to flowing crystal, and puts a song into Spring itself.

There is beauty in us, too . . . because He put it there. In His sight, none of us are ugly, none of us are forsaken, none of us are "lost."

But sometimes, in the busy process of day-to-day living, we turn blind eyes upon the world's loveliness, and take for granted the gifts which should brighten the hours and years. We need a faith that gives us vision to find again the inner beauty He gave us in the beginning . . . a gift which He never takes away. Let us go, then, to His Church. Let us "enter into His gates with thanksgiving . . . for the Lord is good; His mercy is everlasting; and His Truth endureth forever."

Optimistic View Held For U.S. Food Goals

Higher yielding crop varieties and wider use of irrigation will enable U.S. farmers to meet expanded food production goals by 1985, according to USDA economic researcher. Economist Austin Fox also believes farmers can meet food production goals with only a little more land and perhaps no more fuel than they now need.

The report, which appeared in the Agricultural Outlook Digest, predicts that farmers will produce 36 percent more beef and veal, one-third more chicken, nearly 50 percent more turkeys, and 10 percent more pork and eggs in 1985 with only 1 percent more land.

Energy will be saved, Fox says, through the use of minimum tillage and diesel fuel. Three gallons of diesel fuel will do as much work as four gallons of gasoline, according to the economist.
