Bob Krueger's Weekly Report

As Congress moves into once a business decides to the fall and winter months, automate a process, for instance, its decision is two topics of great importance are waiting in the wings for national debate after we finally agree on a policy for oil and gas pricing: expanded government can welfare reform and national health insurance. In this economic conditions must be report, I should like to right for the former and most explore the emotional climate of us don't want the latter. that surrounds welfare reform, with the hope that some of you might be willing design programs that will to write and share your views address them, not programs with me.

If we are to receive true reform, instead of just another set of adjustments that create more regulations and expanding bureaucracies, we must be more honest with ourselves than we were during the debate about the Nixon Family Assistance Plan. We must accept certain facts about ourselves and our society: (a) Some cannot find work, no matter how much they want to; (b) a few (but not as many as we sometimes think when we get angry about rising taxes) do not want to work or will cheat when they get a chance; (c) even private enterprise and government combined cannot always provide enough jobs --

Russia Stocks Up On U.S. Grain Before America Knows Of Shortage

River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on the Dry Devil's River reflects on last week's grain crop estimate, we think. Dear editor:

At 3 o'clock one day last week the whole world nearabout was on needles and pins to hear what the Agriculture Department estimated the U.S. grain crop will be for this year. That is, everybody but the Russians; they apparently already knew and had stocked up on U.S. grain at a ahead of time. I guess if the CIA hadn't had all its men tied up trying to overthrow governments in other countries it could have spared a few to check up on weather conditions in Russia and find out that the Soviets would be in the market for grain and let's see if we can't out-trade them just this once at least. Looks like somebody sometime would think of swapping some of our grain for some of their oil, but the trouble is they buy our grain in the summer time and it's not till winter time we find out we're short of heating oil.

But what I started out to say was that crop estimating, which makes the farmer's

Editor's note: The Devil's | grain market go up or down, ought to be applied to other things. Why should farmers and ranchers, not counting the speculators, be the only ones to grab a newspaper or listen to the radio every morning to find out whether the price of their crops and livestock has gone up or down over night?

For example, the government ought to estimate the number of cars and pickups coming out this year, so the manufacturers could wake up in a sweat every morning wondering what the market satisfactory price a few weeks price on cars is today. The same ought to apply on estimates of oil production, tractor production, etc.

> For too long farmers and anchers have hogged the market fluctuation business. They ought to let the car manufacturers, the oil people, etc. in on this. It makes life a lot more adventursome.

Say, I notice somebody in Washington has found a bureau costing $70,000 a year which has acted only twice in seven years, and there's an outcry to abolish it. Be the worst thing you can imagine. Any time you've got a set of bureaucrats you hear from only twice in seven years, I say that's the kind we need

At 8:25 police investigated the office occupied by McCullough Services which had apparently been broken into during the night. Entry was gained through a window. Nothing was taken from inside the building but a 1964 truck parked outside the building was damaged by a rock thrown through the windshield.

At 9:15 extradition officers from Florida came to pick up one of the subjects being held in Sutton County Jail on charges of driving a stolen vehicle. Two persons were apprehended here August 14 and charged with the offense. One of the violators was charged locally and given a two year probated sentence. Both men were Florida residents. A minor traffice accident involving Tom E. Glasscock and Hilberto Gayton Vara, occured at the corner of Main and Crockett Streets at 3:35 p.m.. Joe Fincher was investigating officer. No injuries were reported. Police answered a call at and released. approximately 8:15 p.m. from a resident on Rock Avenue who reported a car in the vicinity driving at accelerated speeds. Officer Jerry Kemp investigated and the driver was charged with DWI.

At 11:30 p.m. that night Officer Kemp arrested three Sonora juveniles after receiving a call from DPS officials in Ozona. The were charged with theft in Mertzon and were in possession of the stolen items at the time of apprehension. Kemp escorted the youngsters back to

On August 21 the mobile home of Johnny Chance parked in the Allison Trailer Park was reported open. Neighbors told police the Chances were out of town and investigation revealed the mobile home had been broken into and although extensive vandalism was discovered, no theft was reported. A joint effort of city police and the fire department relieved highways 290 and 277 of a reported sticky substance that was causing traffic hazards on those highways. Police say a truck carrying stock molasses was apparently leaking the substance on the highway.

On August 22 Mrs. David Wells reported a billfold stolen from her car parked in the downtown area. The billfold was later returned.

A call was answered at 11:15 p.m., on August 24 when police were summoned to a Mesquite Street residence where a man had appeared, badly beaten. After investigation, police stated the man had been involved in a fight at the Brown Cafe. He was taken to the local hospital where he was treated

REDDY'S REFRIGERATOR SAVINGS TIPS

- Return fresh foods to the refrigerator and frozen foods, such as ice cream, to the freezer as soon as possible. Measure and remove the quantity needed for cooking or for the table, and refrigerate the remainder at once.
- Use cold controls efficiently by selecting the settings that provide about 36° F. in the refrigerator and o° F. in the freezer.
- Fill the refrigerator with food, but be careful not to overfill. Make sure that food packages don't block air vents in the freezer or refrigerator section.
- Clean the condenser surfaces of the refrigerator; dirt restricts air flow and acts to insulate the condenser, forcing the refrigerator to work harder and longer to maintain proper temperatures.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill Attorney General

AUSTIN-U.P.C.-it sounds something like the U.F.O.'s we've all heard about, doesn't it? But the initials U.P.C. stand for "Universal Product Code," those patches of bars and numbers many Texans have noticed on their supermarket products lately.

Our Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division says those patches are part of a new idea taking hold in the grocery industry-computerization. This is the way the computerized supermarkets are expected to work:

Cash registers at grocery check-out counters will be hooked up to a store computer. Instead of ringing up your purchases, cashiers will pass the U.P.C. patch on each product across a "scanner," which will read the symbols and feed the information directly to the computer. The item's description and price will immediately be flashed back on the register or a screen and printed on register tape. The whole procedure is expected to take a few seconds. Although the idea is only now in the testing phase, some consumer groups are already saying that the "unidentified flying object" comparison isn't so far off base. They say U.P.C. could just as well stand for "unidentified product cost" as for Universal Product

Our Consumer Protection attorneys note that consumers still have a chance to voice an opinion on this new trend in food shopping, and suggest that consumers study available information before making up

People in the supermarket industry say both consumers and grocers will benefit from U.P.C. They say check-outs will be faster and more accurate, since checkers won't have to look at and ring up each item. And they point out that computers are usually more accurate and more able to handle special cases such as sales taxes, discounts, bottle returns, coupons, food stamps,

Better inventory control and faster reordering are predicted, as well as lower labor costs, since no product price will have to be marked or remarked. Possibly some portion of the reduced operating costs under U.P.C. may be passed on to consumers in lower gro-

However, several consumer groups have been quick to point out possible drawbacks to the proposed system. The main problem they foresee is that lack of prices on each item could be confusing or perhaps even deceptive. That's because between the time a consumer chooses a product and notes its shelf price, and the time he or she checks out, the price could change. Also, consumers who like to comparison shop might find it difficult to remember shelf prices as they move up and down aisles.

Consumer advocates also point out that computer programmers could make errors in pricing information fed into the computer. They also say there's no guarantee that prices will be lower with U.P.C.-in fact, many predict the high cost of installing the computer equipment might even be passed on to the consumer. In addition, they point out that check-outs might not be as speedy as the supermarket industry says, since the new electronic cash registers are costly and some stores may simply reduce the number of check-out lanes.

To get more information or express an opinon about U.P.C., talk with your supermarket manager and write the company. Also contact your U.S. Senator or Representative, since legislation to require pricing on all groceries has recently been introduced. You may also want to contact a local or national consumer organization.

A Bishop Looks at Life

By Everett H. Jones, Retired Bishop of Episcopal Church How Can I Talk To God?

One of the first things Jesus' disciples asked him to do was in these words: 'Lord, teach us how to pray." I am convinced that countless people today would like to pray but do not know how; they don't know the words to use. They would pray more if they had some words available - simple, close-to-life, related to their daily needs.

An organization known as the Christophers (whose motto is that is is better to light a candle than to curse the darkness) has come up with some valuable sugges-

When I Get Tired: "God, sometimes I just want to go off somewhere and hide. I get so tired I don't want to try any more. Where can I find the strength and courage to go on? The idea that things will get better isn't enough. The thought that adversity builds character doesn't convince me. The only thing that gives me any hope is Your Son, Jesus. May I find in his life that pattern according to which I can live mine. Amen."

When I Need to Believe in Myself: "Father, help me to know myself, what I am and what I can become. Enable me to see the good in myself and to rejoice in it, to see flaws and change them. Teach me to live with myself, and accept myself. Remind me that becoming what You want me to be is more like cultivating a garden than chopping down a forest.

The Devil's River News, Sonora, Texas Thursday, August 28, 1975 Page 7

When I Need Patience: 'Lord, do I need patience? Teach me to sit still, to think, to pray--so that when there is something to do I may do it with clear sight, with energy, and with love. Amen."

When I Fall Short: 'Father, so often I start out with marvelous intentions and end up falling short of the mark. Forgive me, Lord, and help me to forgive others. And on a deeper level, help me to forgive myself. Amen.'

When I Need a Signpost: 'I seem to be always at some kind of crossroads, Lord. And there are so few signposts. I know it's a path no one has ever taken, so there's no travel guide. But You told Abraham, 'Go into the land I You tell me the same thing, afraid. Amen."

You show me the way in the people, in the circumstances. and in the events of my life. Every decision of my life can be a step on that journey of faith--faith in You, faith in myself, faith in others, because You have made us all. Guide my feet, Lord, in right paths. Amen."

When I Am Afraid: 'Father, I don't want to die. don't even want to think about it, but every death, near and far, reminds me of my own. What I don't get into my head is that death is a part of life. Give me a new kind of vision. Faith tells me that death isn't only an ending, but also a beginning; not only a parting, but a reunion-that death is more like leaving a room than locking a door. Remind me of will show you.' Every day that, Father, when I am

Coffee Break

Probably no movie, other than "Deep Throat" and I've never met anyone who fessed up to seeing that, has caused as much nationwide sensation as "Jaws". Although I've not had the priviledge of seeing the movie, I have visited with a number of people who have, and it must be quite entertaining.

The book spooked me well enough to stiffle any urge I might have had for salt water frolicking....which I never liked much anyway due to all sorts of odd critters in the water. I surely was not alone in my thinking as resort areas everywhere must be feeling the pinch...or should I say inwes

Imagine the surprise of Del Rio residents last week when two young school boys rushed home to tell their parents about discovering a shark on the banks of San Felipe

Creek. Sent away with a "Certainly! Now go look for a whale," the boys did just that and came back with the evidence....a shark's head and skin with most of the meat and the cutter fin cut away. The boys got the attention they deserved the second time home. How or why the shark came to be on the creekside walk remains a mystery, but the fact that the shark was found is a fact, according to Del Rio News Herald photographers.

Movie operators say that "Jaws" probably has drawn the largest crowds of any movie the past year. Capacity crowds fill movie theatres wherever it's shown and most schedule a four-week showing.

San Angelo movie theatres have not shown the movie

thusfar, but I'm sure Sonora fans will be no different than all others....paranoid about the seashore for sometime after witnessing the shark at work.

Another item causing much ado around the state of Texas is chili cookoffs. Never heard much about them until recently and all of a sudden chili news comes pouring in from all over.

Chili afficionados down San Marcos way have broken a six-year tradition of male chauvinist chilidom, as they've accepted the first woman contestant ever, Ms. Genoveva Gutierrez, 117, as a competitor in the 6th Annual Republic of Texas Chilympiad, the State Chili Cook-off, September 18-21.

And so the oldest woman in Texas will pit her chili recipe, handed down from generations before, against over 100 male stewers, to put the woman's touch in the

"Some folks have called us unreasonable," grinned Chilympiad Contestants Chairperson Joe Kohut, "But it's just not true. Due to the growing pressure of the Women's Liberation movement, we've changed our ruling to accept women cooks....over 100 years of age. We're givin' in that much."

Ms., Gutierrez attributes her longevity to eating a "bowl of red" every day. Besides that activity, the youthful lady swims daily, climbs trees, and is said to have a nimble hand with a needle and thread.

The long-time San Marcan grinds her own corn each day to make "metate" for her hand-made tortillas that, according to those who have eaten the tasty morsels, taste best when dunked into one of her homemade "pots of hot."

OUR FLAG

Historical Highlights

Rattlesnake Vigilance

The rattlesnake symbol appears again and again in early American flags. A flag of this type was the standard of the South Carolina Navy; one of its variants was the emblem of the Culpeper Minute Men of Virginia.

According to the U.S.
Marine Corps Reserve, one writer of the time quaintly stated that as the rattlesnake's eye exceeded in brightness that of any other animal, and she had no eyelids, she might therefore be esteemed a symbol of vigilance; that inasmuch as she never began an attack, nor, when once engaged, ever surrendered, she was therefore an emblem of magnanimity and true courage.

It was probably the deadly bite of the rattler, however, which was foremost in the minds of its designers.

GEORGE PHILLIPS'
HAVE VISITORS

Mr. Albert Phillips, 88, of Owen, Wisconsin, and Mr. Tom Phillips, 86 of What Cheer, Iowa, arrived in San Angelo by plane August 21. They were met by their brother, George W. Phillips, 84, of Sonora, and Mrs. Phillips. Neither of the visitors had been to Texas before and both thought Sonora was an ideal place to live. The last of their generation, the three brothers enjoyed talking over old times. The visitors departed
