Among his survivors are his wife, a daughter and another son, seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Rabies Case Confirmed

One dog let run loose, not confined or penned as is required by law, has caused at least 13 dogs to be destroyed, two persons to be subjected to rabies injections and numerous man hours spent by city employees, the local police office and the staff at the animal clinic.

A report came into the police department last week regarding a dog that was acting peculiar...the call was answered by Patrolman Dick Jones who was attacked by the animal through the window of his car. A tranquilizer gun was used on the animal and he was transported to the local animal hospital for observation. Three days later the animal died and notification came in that he was definitely rabid.

According to local officials the sick animal was known to have bitten at least 13 animals and local officials are still looking for the owner as well as other persons or animals the dog may have been in contact with.

A state veterinary health officer was in Sonora last week and advised local veterinarians that any animal who had not been vaccinated against rabies and who may have been in contact with the sick animal should be destroyed.

The dog, according to Mike Keller, D.V.M., was a black and white Border Collie, weighing approximately 40 pounds with white markings on his chest. He was also wearing a thick leather collar. The animal has been traced to numerous areas of town...as far north as Manor Street in the Castle Hill Addition to south of the railroad tracks to Orient, Glasscock and Tayloe Streets. The dog was also known to have attacked other dogs in the Crites and Allison Trailer Parks, as well as Brookside, Hudspeth and East 2nd Streets, near the school. It is not known how many other animals and possibly persons the dog may have been in contact with.

Officer Jones as well as a Sonora woman who was in contact with the animal are now undergoing the rabies vaccinations.

Dr. Charles F. Browne, county health officer, states that primary and most important control of rabies is of course to control carriers, which are animals, both domestic and wild. He states that for the past thirty years, since he has been in Sonora, there have been numerous rabies reports and probably as many as 100 people vaccinated but that occasionally an epidemic such as Sutton County had in 1974 arises.

Dr. Browne added further that while the rabies vaccine is not pleasant the new vaccine which is the more refined duck embryo type, is much less irritating than it used to be.

City Manager Bob Nevill told the news Monday that the City is definitely enforcing the ordinance pertaining to animals running loose. By running loose this means any animal not confined by some means in the yard of its owner. Immediate steps are being taken by the city and the local police to curtail the possibility of a similar outbreak of rabies such as occurred in 1974 when approximately 25 persons were forced to take the anti-rabies vaccine and the State Health Department was called in. At that time the environmental protection agency gave permission for the use of poison in the county to control the wildlife.

A city employee who normally serves as poundmaster on a parttime basis, is now working forty hours a week patrolling areas of town where dogs are known to roam the streets in packs. Local law officials are also patrolling areas of the city.

Animals found to be running loose, whether tagged or not, will be picked up and a complaint will be issued against the owner of such animals. Judge of the municipal court will assess a fine in the amount of $12.50 for the first offense. This cost does not include pound fees. Pet owners have been reminded time and time again concerning the local city ordinance that reads all animals must be confined by leash or fence unless they are being accompanied by owner or owners. This ordinance pertains to all animals whether they be cat, dog, horse, sheep or any other type of domestic animal. This means animals that are properly tagged as well as those who are not.

Local veterinarians remind persons that rabies does not always take the typical form of frothing at the mouth and other noted symptoms but that ANY personality change in an animal should be noted. An animal showing signs of illness should be confined for a period of at least ten days or taken to a local veterinarian for observation.

Animals are able to transmit rabies not only through bites but through saliva contact with any open sore, wound or scratch.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
 Attorney General

AUSTIN—"Break Channel 11. This is KSD-8627. I'm looking for Pokerface."

If you recognized that as a citizens band radio transmission, you're probably one of a growing number of CB enthusiasts who operate an estimated 11 million CB transmitters across the nation. The citizens band on the radio spectrum is a low cost, low power, short range system of two-way communications for consumers. Texas, with the largest number of licensed CBers in the country, is a center of citizens band activity.

But even with all the interest in CB radios, attorneys in our Consumer Protection Division say some purchasers of the units may not be familiar with regulations governing their use.

The Federal Communications Commission, which is the licensing and regulatory agency for CB's, says all CB users must be licensed, and FCC spokesmen point out that there are now two types of licenses: a permanent license costing $4, which takes about two to three months to obtain, and a temporary license purchasers may use in the interim. The temporary license is free and valid for 60 days.

Licensed transmitters are assigned call letters consisting of three letters and four numbers, such as the example used above. Temporary licensees use the letter "K" plus the initials of their first and last names, then their zip code. The five-digit zip code indicates to other CBers that the transmitter is a temporary licensee.

FCC regulations regarding use of CB's include the following: (1) Operators must not transmit "Mayday" or other distress signals; (2) Transmissions must not be used for purposes prohibited by federal, state, or local regulations; (3) Operators must not transmit obscene language or messages in anything other than plain language; (4) Operators must not intentionally interfere with commercial radio transmissions, re-transmit programs, or use the citizens band for advertising.

Also, (5) Transmissions are limited to 150 miles and five minutes duration; (6) Operators must observe one minute of silence between transmissions; and (7) CB equipment must be low-powered and must be FCC-approved. Sale of certain amplifiers is prohibited.

Licensed operators who violate these regulations may be fined up to $200 or have their licenses revoked or both. Unlicensed operators may face a $10,000 fine or one year in prison or both for a first offense.

Our Consumer Protection attorneys suggest that persons buying a CB for the first time avoid possible consumer problems by noting some tips from the CB Center of America and other citizens band experts:

Remember that the number of channels and range of the CB will greatly affect price, so analyze in advance what you will want from your unit. Ask local CBers for recommendations, then comparison shop for the best equipment and warranty on service and parts for the best price. Choose a CB set with both positive and negative ground so the radio won't become obsolete when you trade in your car.

And keep in mind that a CB antenna may mark your car for a thief. You may want to equip your unit with detachable antenna or removable mounts. Antennas which disappear into the car trunk are also being marketed.

If you're considering a used CB, be sure it's an FCC-approved set. Have it checked before buying by a good service center. And try the set "on the air" to find out if you like it and its operation.

If you have questions about CB regulations, check with the FCC. If you have a complaint about misleading or deceptive trade practices in the sale of a set or in a warranty, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division.

Truth In Advertising Should Be Added To Political Speech

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on the Dry Devil's River claims to be startled over something he read in the paper.

Dear Editor:

I was reading along not paying much attention to what the news article was saying when I caught myself, went back up the column and read the paragraph again.

What it said was that Ron Nesson, the president's press secretary, said that Mr. Ford was shaking up his speech-writing staff but it didn't amount to much since only four of the speech-writers were affected.

I got to thinking. Only four? How many has he got? Then I wondered some more. How many has the Vice President got? The Secretary of State? Senators? Congressmen? Governors? For all I know, Mayors and maybe even grammar school Principals?

In other words, in most cases, when a public official makes a speech these days he's only saying what his speech-writers wrote, and the better he can read the better it sounds. I often wondered why President Johnson allowed his writers to use the word "substantive" in his speeches as he could never get the hang of pronouncing it. I can't either. Anyway, I got to thinking some more. If what a politician says is what somebody else wrote for him, shouldn't the truth-in-advertising law apply? Shouldn't, as he talks on television, a line move across the bottom of the screen saying This Speech Written by Goodman Ace, or whoever the writer was? If a cornflakes manufacturer is required to say on the box what the contents consist of, shouldn't a politician, if more than one writer composed his speech, be required to reveal: 5 percent of this speech was written by Goodman Ace, 15 percent by Robert Orbin, 25 percent by John Casserly, and the rest came for the Encyclopedia Britannica?

Yours faithfully,
 J.A.

I am thinking of going into a business partnership. If something should happen to dissolve the partnership, how can we set up the settlement so it will be equal and fair to both of us and our estates?

At the initiation of the partnership, you and your partner need to agree upon a definite price of the business for each half interest in the partnership. Then go to an attorney and have him draw up and execute a binding "buy and sell" agreement. This agreement stipulates how much each partner owns in the business and the amount he agrees to sell for... under the proper conditions. This "buy and sell" agreement should then be implemented by purchasing the "agreed upon" amount of life insurance... making it possible for the surviving partner to use the proceeds of the life insurance policy to buy the interest from the estate of the other partner.

REDDY'S HELPFUL TIPS

- Distribute unfrozen foods evenly throughout the freezer. Foods freeze faster if they are not stacked in one section.
- To conserve energy, freeze no more than 10% of the total freezer capacity at one time. Label packages to conserve door-open time. Date and rotate packages so you use the older ones first.
- Defrost promptly—frost build-up of more than 1/4" makes cooling units work harder—they use more energy and wear out faster.

Old-Fashioned Yeast Rolls A Southern Favorite

On holidays throughout the year most everyone reverts to customs and menus from the past. However, a look into the homes throughout the country reveals that many family treasured recipes are prepared and served often, any time of year.

American cooking, a composite of pioneer traditions and ethnic innovations, is still very regional with many old-fashioned favorites. For instance, there are many breads and rolls which originated in colonial times still served today—hot corn bread, corn dodgers, beaten biscuits, cracklin' bread.

Whatever the region and ethnic background, every family has traditional family favorites which they integrate into their daily meals.

Here's an old-fashioned southern-style yeast roll recipe. It is traditionally flavored with lemon and mace and has been modernized with that buttery taste of Blue Bonnet Margarine.

SOUTHERN-STYLE YEAST BUNS
4 to 5 cups unsifted flour
1/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1/4 teaspoon ground mace
1 package active dry yeast
3/4 cup milk
1/4 cup water
1/3 cup Blue Bonnet Margarine
2 eggs (at room temperature)

In a large bowl thoroughly mix 1-1/4 cups flour, sugar, salt, lemon peel, mace and undissolved active dry yeast. Combine milk, water and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm (120°F-130°F). Margarine does not need to melt. Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add eggs and 1/2 cup flour, or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Punch down dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board. Divide in half. Form each half into a 12-inch roll. Cut into twelve 1-inch pieces. Form into smooth balls. Place in greased 2-1/2 x 1-1/4-inch muffin cups. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 20 minutes, or until done. Remove from muffin cups and cool on wire racks. Makes two dozen buns.

Shirley Bolt Wed Sunday

Miss Shirley Bolt became the bride of Larry Winger in ceremonies held April 30 at Hope Lutheran Church. The Rev. A.B. Wagner officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Mary Bolt of Sonora and Mr. and Mrs. L.D. Winger of Silsbee.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Tite Bishop of Ozona, wore a floor length empire gown of white nylon lace organza over satin. The A-line skirt held a chapel length train. Her veil was of white lace accented with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white and blue carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Wyndell Skinner, niece of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a blue floor length dress and carried a bouquet of blue and white carnations.

Serving his brother as best man was Doc Winger of Sonora.

The bride is a May graduate of Sonora High School. The bridegroom graduated from Silsbee High School.

A reception was held following the wedding at the home of the bride's mother. The couple plan to make their home in Sonora following a short wedding trip.

A Bishop Looks At Life

by Everett H. Jones, Retired Bishop of the Episcopal Church
WHAT HAVE YOU LEARNED?

During a recent television interview I was asked this question: "Bishop Jones, out of your life and ministry what is the most important thing you have learned?"

It is the kind of question one would like to think about for hours or even for days. (And I am sure each of us would have a slightly different answer.) But I had to respond immediately and I would like to share the answer that I found myself making.

In my own life it has been a tremendous reassurance to discover that when a person does his very best in any situation there is a reinforcement, a plus, that comes from beyond himself. In other words, I have found that I can trust God to add His own special blessing when I have earnestly sought His guidance and tried to do His will.

Let me hasten to add that I have often failed to provide the human factor required in this equation.

Another way to put the truth I am talking about is to say that we need to work as if all depended on us and at the same time to trust as if all depended on God.

I find this truth has many present applications. It reminds us that in our national life we are not limited to our own goodness and wisdom. If we sincerely strive to live by the ideals we profess we can count on God to bless our efforts. Surely this is what we mean by our motto, "In God we trust."

In the problems that disturb so many people today in their family life, I know of no realization that will bring greater guidance and reassurance. All God asks is that we give our children our human best (nothing less than our very best will do!) and then trust them to His love and care.

I see the same truth at work in various forms of physical and emotional illness. We need to use all the help that medical science can give and to follow carefully all medical instructions. But there is an added source of healing when we can turn to God in quiet confidence and trusting prayer.

Also there is wisdom here for those who face old age, retirement, and possibly terminal illness. It is a time for human resources of courage, cheerfulness and outgoing concern to go into full action, but it is also a time to know we are never alone. There is forever a Hand stretched out to hold our own.

C. B. Club News

By Joyce White
Regular meeting of the Public Patriots was held April 29. Sheriff Pryce Taylor was in attendance to draw the ticket for the CB radio the club was giving away. The winning number V-0219, is the property of Paul and Joyce White.

Palmer West (Windy) of Eldorado was awarded the travelling trophy as our first CB'er of the month. Windy has been a big asset to the club. He was among the few that were instrumental in having parliamentary procedure adhered to. He was never shy to volunteer. In addition, he injected wit and humor into each meeting. Even though his health is not good, Windy has been to every meeting. We always know we can count on Windy.

The Colorado Kid gave a small program on Class D expansion.

A change in meeting nights was voted on and accepted. The new meeting nights will be Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend.

QUESTIONS...QUESTIONS!

Mother knows how to do everything. If you don't believe it, ask any child. A child's faith in his mother's ability is a wonderful thing. She can fix broken toys and mend broken hearts. Mother knows how to stop sores from hurting and how to make the greatest peanut butter sandwiches in town. She has the answers to a trillion questions.

Regardless of our age, we still have questions we would like to have answered. Some will never be answered to our satisfaction, unless God sees fit to impart His special wisdom. He often reveals Himself to us in a special way when we worship. The answers we seek may come as we meditate, pray, and listen to His Word. Church is a good place to find what we are seeking.

Conserving Our Land
After 200 Years

[Editor's note: The following is the essay written by Debbie Perez, winner of the 1976 Texas State Soil and Water Conservation essay program.]

"Conserving Our Land After 200 Years"
By Debbie Perez

What is conservation? Conservation is the wise use of our natural resources. It also means replacing and properly using our resources. Two hundred years ago, our natural resources were plentiful. Streams of water ran through clean and clear, soil was fertile, forests were big and green, and air was not polluted. All of these resources were in abundance.

With the coming of more people, these resources were used. Some of these people moved West and built their homes out of timber, the need for the conservation of our timberland began. At one time, loggers destroyed much of our timber without replacing the harvested trees with seedlings. Now the forest and timber are conserved and when harvested, they are replaced.

Decades later, many machines were invented for our use and convenience. This started the Industrial Revolution. Industries and factories made many things. Cars were made for the comfort and speed, jets were made to make a trip faster, and with the growing population, more cars were produced. Air pollution arose as a sign of destruction for the American people.

Water is another important resource. It is used for recreation and electricity. At times, there is very little water. Also there is time when there is more than enough. Water is polluted by trash and sewage. People don't think they are ruining the water. They think the water will last forever. Water is not renewable; and if we conserve it, the water will be clean and it will be here for our future generations to drink, swim in, and use as a source of power.

Soil is renewable. Without it plants could not grow and we could not live. Soil is conserved by changing unused land, replacing minerals with the help of fertilizers, and by planting crops in curved rows.

We should replace the renewable resources and conserve the resources that are not renewable. Conservation depends on us because it is our responsibility; we should not waste our natural resources if we want them to last another two hundred years or more.

Police Reports

City Police have had a busy week making dog patrols, answering calls and picking up stray dogs since a report came back regarding a dog picked up in the city limits was confirmed as to having rabies.

In other police action, Officer Jerry Kemp investigated a minor traffic accident April 28 at 1:45 p.m. in the 900 block of Prospect. A properly parked car belonging to Bonnie F. Gormon was struck by a vehicle driven by Kenneth Lee Beasley.

On May 1 Officer Jones investigated an accident occurring in the 300 block of 2nd Street. Cars were driven by Flora K. Roming and Linda Cullison Butler, both of Sonora.

Only five citations were issued during the week.

Individual Action Is Key To Tornado Safety

In spite of extensive community preparedness planning for the tornado "season"—at its worse in April, May and June—the greatest responsibility for guarding against injury or death lies with the individual.

People have to watch out for themselves. No matter how effective early warning systems become, property and lives can only be saved if people know what to do and do it quickly and calmly, according to the Texas Insurance Information Center.

Texas is in the tornado ally and each year more than 100 tornadoes are spotted in the Texas skies. Last year 118 tornadoes were reported and ten people killed. Because this state is so susceptible to twisters, Texans should be especially aware of the danger of tornadoes and take certain precautions in advance.

For this reason, the insurance industry joins civil defense, weather service officials, and interested organizations each year as the most dangerous tornado months approach to remind Texans of appropriate safety procedures in the event of a tornado.

The safety rules for tornadoes are simple and have remained pretty much unchanged over the years. The key word is "low".

In homes and office buildings, the lowest floor is the safest. Go to the basement if there is one, if not, a small room or closet in the central part of the structure is safest. Bathrooms offer good protection because the water pipes which run through the walls help to reinforce the structure, making it better able to withstand the tremendous force of winds and flying debris.

If the bathroom has an outside wall or windows, it might be better to seek shelter in a centrally located closet or hallway since flying and shattering glass is a deadly peril. Taking cover under heavy furniture such as a tipped over upholstered couch or chair is also advised.

Factories, auditoriums and other buildings with wide, free-span roofs are not desirable as shelters.

Most deaths associated with a tornado are caused by flying debris and most injuries are due to being struck in the head or chest. For this reason, care should be taken to protect the head and chest no matter where shelter is taken.

Automobiles and mobile homes are dangerous places to be during any strong winds, but especially during a tornado. Both should be abandoned in favor of more secure shelters. In open country, when escape seems impossible, get out of the car and run toward the approaching storm. Then, lie face down in a ditch or the nearest hollow and cover your head and neck with your arms.

Immediately after the storm has passed stay put for a few minutes. If you are in a building make sure gas lines are intact before lighting matches.

Remember there is a danger of electrocution from lightning and downed telephone lines. Make sure it is safe before using either the telephone or any electrical outlet. Tune in to a local radio station for survival information.

If you must travel for help, keep an eye out for debris, downed power lines and flash floods. The water supply may be contaminated, so boil all water used for drinking and cooking until you receive word from officials that the water supply is safe. Check with local civil defense officials if you have any questions.

Plan with your family in advance so everyone will know what to do if a tornado threatens. If your home has a good centrally located "Storm shelter" or basement, stock it with a spare flashlight, radio and spare batteries along with a first aid kit.

Important papers including insurance policies, wills and titles should always be stored safely where they cannot be damaged by water or fire. Insurance companies always recommend that policy holders regularly inventory their property and keep the inventory in a safe place. An up-to-date inventory can help speed claims whenever there is a loss. Forms to assist in making such inventories are available through insurance agents or by writing the Texas Insurance Information Center, 1011 Congress, Suite 501, Austin, Texas, 78701.

The message is an old one but is worth repeating, especially this time of the year: proper action before and after a storm can save lives and property.

Crude Oil Production Down

The downward trend in crude oil production in the nation's No. 1 energy state continued in 1975 for the third consecutive year, despite another 12 months of production at the maximum effective recovery rate in nearly all Texas fields.

Although the 1975 output of just over 1.2-billion barrels pushed the state's all-time cumulative production to more than 40-billion barrels, it was the lowest annual production since 1971 and more than 40-6-million barrels short of the 1974 production level.

Statistics compiled by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association also show that despite the continuing decline in Texas crude oil production last year, the state once again set the pace among U.S. oil producing states, accounting for 40-percent of total U.S. production.

"This continued decline in the production of Texas key natural resource begs an end to federal price controls and other bureaucratic restraints," said the Association's president, Jack S. Blanton, an independent oil company executive in Houston. "Texas oil producers need a free market and every possible economic incentive to both generate and attract the capital necessary to continue to explore for oil, to drill wildcat and developmental wells, and to initiate costly secondary and tertiary recovery projects."

Sutton County, which has had recorded production since 1948, last year produced 283,059 barrels of oil at the rate of 776 per day. Production in 1975 boosted Sutton County's production total through the end of the year to 3,496,352 barrels.

In 1975, 30 counties produced more than 10-million barrels of crude oil.

The Course of Animal Rabies

The clinical course of rabies, particularly in dogs, can be divided into three phases: the prodromal, the excitative, and the paralytic. In furious rabies, the excitative phase is predominant. Dumb or paralytic rabies usually is seen in dogs in whom the excitative phase is absent or short and the disease progresses quickly to the paralytic phase.

In any animal, the first sign is change of behavior indistinguishable from a digestive disorder, injury, foreign body in the mouth, poisoning, or early infectious disease. Temperature is not significant and inability to retain saliva may not be noted. Animals usually stop eating and drinking, and may seek solitude. The genitourinary tract is frequently irritated or stimulated as shown by frequent urination, erection in the male, and sexual desire.

After the prodromal period of 1 to 3 days, during which the virus is being excreted in the saliva, animals either show signs of paralysis or become vicious. Carnivora, swine, and occasionally horses and mules bite other animals or people at the slightest provocation. Cattle, sheep, and goats but any moving object.

Furious rabies represents the classic mad dog syndrome in which the animal becomes irrational and viciously aggressive. The facial expression is alert and anxious, with dilated pupils. Noise invites attack, and all species instinctively attack any moving object. The animals lose all caution and fear of natural enemies. Paralysis does not occur during the excitatory stage, but dogs rarely live beyond 10 days after the onset of signs.

Dogs with this form of disease, rare in the U.S. today because of extensive canine immunization, roam over large areas, biting other animals, people, and any moving objects. They commonly swallow foreign objects, feces, straw, sticks, and stones. Rabid dogs chew the wire and frames of their cages, breaking their teeth. Young pups apparently seek human companionship, are overly playful, but bite even when petted, usually becoming vicious in a few hours. As the disease progresses, muscular incoordination and convulsive seizures become common. The hydrophobia seen in man does not occur in animals, but swallowing is difficult.

The paralytic form of animal rabies is characterized by early paralysis of the throat and masseter muscles, usually with profuse salivation and the inability to swallow. Drooping of the lower jaw, similar to paralysis of the trigeminal nerve, is a common sign in dogs. Owners frequently examine the mouths of dogs and cattle searching for a foreign body, or give medication with bare hands. These animals are not vicious and rarely attempt or are able to bite. The paralysis progresses to all parts of the body with coma and death in a few hours.

FOOD PSYCHOLOGY

If club meetings are held at your house, a good way to bring the session to an end is to serve the members a light snack and a hot drink. The comfort of food can soothe away tempers and tiredness and end the meeting on a pleasant note.

Piano Students Awarded

Denise Neal, Paula Friess, and Cathy Polocek won special awards Sunday, May 2, when Mrs. A.C. Elliott presented her pupils in their annual piano recital, held at First Baptist Church.

Denise received her award for the highest rating at Guild auditions held last week in San Angelo; Paula for playing an International program (15 pieces from memory), and Cathy won the award for the pupil making the most improvement during the year.

Winning gold medals for their Guild programs were in addition to the above pupils, Stephanie Short, Fran Friess, Millie Pettiet, Candace Cauthorn, Lisa Webster, Anita Balch, and Rebecca Powers.

Other pupils included in the recital program were Dorothy Jimenez, Courtney Cauthorn, Nancy Benson, Mike Polocek and Martha Elliott.

Denise, Cathy, Paula, Fran, Mike, Anita, Rebecca, and Lisa also won Silver Star awards.

All of the students participating in Guild auditions are also eligible and will receive plaques to be awarded at a later date.

Mmes. Turney Friess, Smith Neal and Marion Elliott hosted a reception in the church fellowship hall.

Some people believe that if your eyebrows grow together you will be very rich!

Senior 4-H Rifle team members participated in Area 13 contest Saturday. Coaching the team is Tony Renfro and Rodney Knight. Team members are Scott Cain, Cody Savell, Bobby Wills and Preston Love. J.D. Bishop of Bishop Welding Service donated the bullet trap being used to train the 49 4-H'ers who completed the Hunter Safety program.

Fire Department Bldg. Construction Underway

Construction of the new fire department building should be well underway within the next few days. The foundation has been completed for some time. Some phases of the construction may take to be done on a piecemeal basis as the fire department's building and maintenance fund permits.

Many donations have been received, some quite generous. However, it takes the support of all the citizenry to make these worth-while community projects successful. Let's not forget the importance of the Sonora Volunteer Fire Department. Let's give them 100 percent support.

If you have not yet made a contribution please do so by sending your tax deductible donation to Jerry Don Balch, Pascal Allison, or to Judy Webster at the First National Bank.

Kinney County Civic Center will open each day at 10 a.m., May 14, 15, and 16, for hunters registration, weigh-ins and purchases of snakes. There will be handling demonstrations of live domestic snakes. The Civic Center will remain open all day and the public is invited to buy, sell, trade, display or just look at the gun-coin and collectables show and flea market.

Registered hunters will be going in controlled groups to near-by Kinney county area ranches in search of snakes. Individual ranch foremans, FFA, and 4-H members will assist the professional snake hunting guides on each ranch.

Awarding of prizes and trophies for best hunt will be awarded at 7 p.m., Sunday, May 16.

For more details of the collectables show and snake hunt, contact, W.W. Woolsey, 512/563-2685.
