Killed instantly were Wayne Luxton, 31, of Sonora and Robert R. "Bob" Rutledge, 43, of San Angelo. The third man, Kirk Seamands, 23, of San Angelo was taken to Shannon Hospital in San Angelo and died shortly after 2 p.m.

Services for Luxton were held Sunday in the First Baptist Church in Big Lake with burial in the Glenrest Cemetery in Big Lake. He was born February 8, 1945 in Uvalde and was married to Glynda Robbins January 29, 1966 in Big Lake. He was a district salesman for BJ Hughes Inc.

The one-week camp, last of four sessions, offered boys and girls ages 8-17 exposure to Trinity's champion-building tennis program. The camps were directed by Trinity head tennis coach, four-time NCAA all-American Bob McKinley. Campers played on the same courts where Trinity's champion players perfect their games.

MILDEWED GOATS???

Ranchman Lawrence Finklea says the extra heavy rainfall during July kept his goats damp enough, long enough, that shearing crews found mildew in the mohair.

4-Vehicle Collision Causes Minor Injuries To Occupants

Four vehicles were in collision Friday afternoon at 4:50 p.m., on the Bond Road Hill on FM Road 1691. Several of the occupants received minor injuries and were taken to the local hospital for observation.

Investigating officers Archie Crenwelge and Walter Walick of the DPS said a 1968 Plymouth being driven by Thomas David Wood of Sonora swerved to avoid a head on collision with a 1975 Chevrolet driven by Jessie Martinez, causing the Wood vehicle to strike an embankment. The Martinez vehicle was then struck in the rear by a vehicle driven by John Christopher Mathews, also of Sonora. Within minutes another vehicle, a 1976 model pickup driven by Rodney Lee Brumlow of Ozona, came off the hill and also collided with the Martinez auto.

A passenger in the Wood vehicle, Keith Nance and Bret Swyter, a passenger in the Mathews vehicle, were also injured, along with the drivers.

Bond Hill is located one mile east of the City Limits on the farm to market road. DPS officials say visibility over the hill is difficult.

City Budget Approved

City aldermen met Monday to discuss the 1976-77 budget for the City of Sonora and approved a record budget of $1,109,430.00. The tax rate for the year was also set at $1.35, which is no increase over the past year's rate.

Anticipated revenue of all city funds for the coming year is $1,166,568 giving the budget a surplus of $57,138.

The budget reflects general fund income of $354,497 and expenses of $323,567; light and power income of $534,782 with $533,667 expenses; water and garbage income of $190,145 and $172,985 in expenses; and the sewer fund with $87,144 income and $79,211 in expenses.

City fathers assessed the tax evaluation is up 1.9 million over last year for a total of $8,743,310.

Included in the new budget was sewer rate adjustments for residential dwellings. All dwellings within the city limits will be increased from $4 per month to $4.30 and connections outside the city limits will be increased $1.

In other action of the council, recommendations by the planning and zoning commission to rezone parts of lots 8, 9, 10 and 11 in Block A from a residence to commercial, were approved.

The council also approved the use of Main and Water Streets intersection for a street dance to be held August 21 during the Sutton County Day celebration.

The proposed consolidation of local law enforcement agencies after January 1 was discussed at length. Council endorsed the idea by voting to notify the county commission of their willingness to support this endeavor by an annual contribution of $40,000.

Appointed mayor problem at the meeting was Alderman Doyle Morgan. Also in attendance were aldermen Hershel Davenport, Lemuel Lopez, and James Trainer, along with City Secretary Pat Robbins and City Manager Bob Nevill.

Tinney of Elgin Air Force Base, Florida, and Marsha Jan Tinney of Lubbock; a son, Jon Arden Tinney of Odessa; three sisters, Mrs. Henry Keller of Mason, Mrs. Hiram Hodges and Mrs. Mabel Beckmann, both of Fredericksburg; and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Oliver Wuest of Sonora.

Children from Church of Christ and First Baptist Church are enjoying a week's activities during Vacation Bible School.

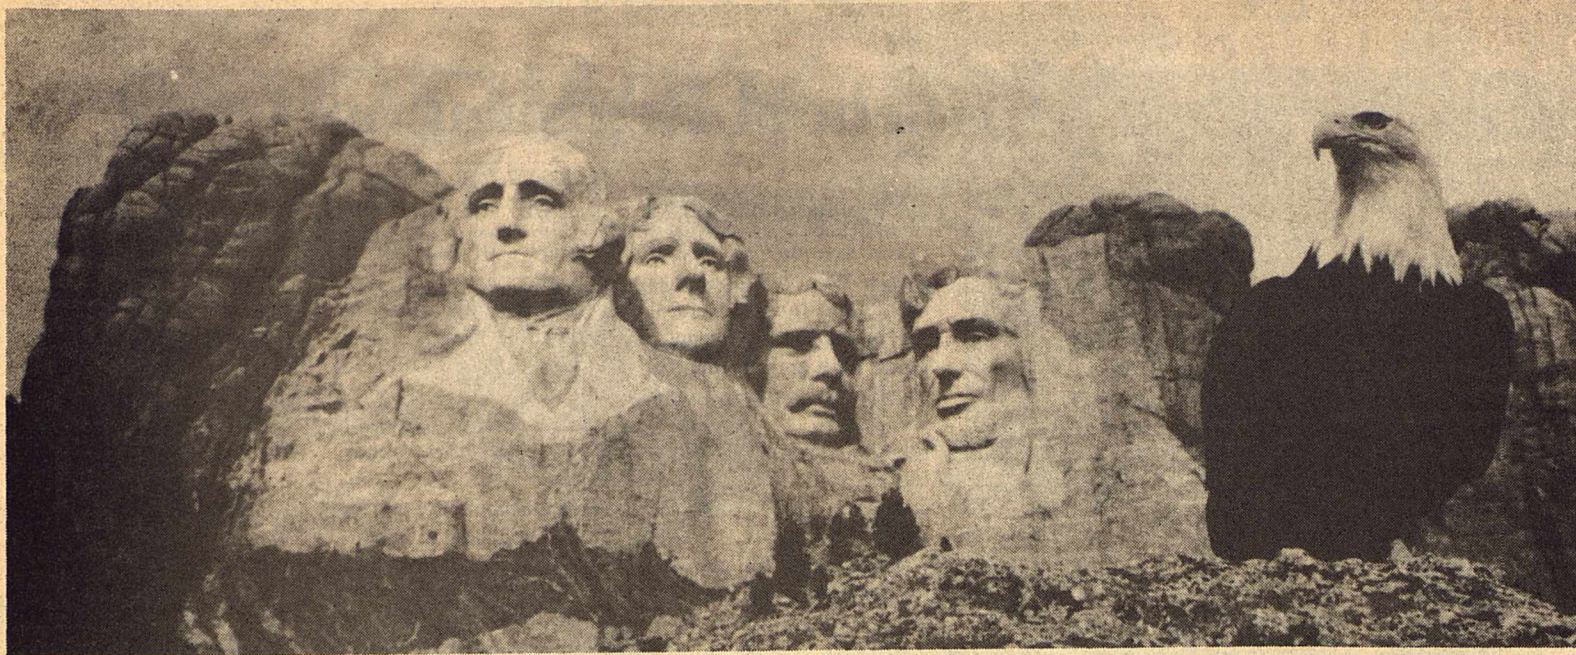

Screwworms Reported

Two cases of screwworms have been turned into the local county agents office by the Sherrill Dannheim and James Hunt ranches.

Ed Martin of the Hunt ranch, located some 12 miles southeast and three miles east of FM 1691, discovered the parasites in the navel of a cow July 26.

On July 27 Sherrill Dannheim turned in screwworm samples discovered in the horn of a goat on his ranch, located some seven miles south of Sonora.

County Agent Clint Langford urges ranchmen to turn in all suspected cases to his office or the Mission Laboratory.

BICENTENNIAL SALUTE—The State of Texas will be honored August 24-25 at Mt. Rushmore National Memorial in the Black Hills of South Dakota. Rushmore is a national Bicentennial focal point and the site for the 111-day Days of Honor commemoration which will recognize each state and territory in the United States this summer.

Increase To Be Proposed For Inheritance Tax Exemptions

Comptroller Bob Bullock announced recently that he will recommend to the 65th Legislature that inheritance tax exemptions for surviving family members be increased to ease the financial burden imposed on many Texans, particularly farmers and ranchers.

Bullock said his Inheritance Tax Division is conducting a study in order to recommend an exemption level that would help out heirs of smaller estates without significantly affecting state revenue.

The current exemption—$25,000 for the surviving spouse and each surviving child—was set in 1923 and has not been changed since, the Comptroller noted.

"Twenty-five thousand dollars in 1923 would be worth about $79,000 today," he said. "And rural land that sold for $20 to $25 per acre in 1923 sells anywhere from $350 to $750 per acre now."

The result, Bullock said, is that many farm and ranch families are being forced to sell all or part of their land to be able to pay the inheritance tax.

"There's no question that it's inequitable," he said. "The small farmer or rancher already has enough trouble keeping from being squeezed out. All we want to do is set an exemption level that would be as realistic in 1976 as $25,000 was in 1923."

Bullock said his Inheritance Tax Division is working closely with the Texas Farm Bureau, the House Ways and Means Committee and the State Bar of Texas to develop an acceptable exemption level.

THE DEVIL'S RIVER PHILOSOPHER SEZ.....

Olympic's Commercialization Started Many Years Ago

Editor's note: The Devil's River Philosopher on his bitterweed ranch on the Dry Devil's River examines the Olympics this week, sort of.

Dear Editor:

People are always saying the world has become too commercial, that television shows are written to capture the biggest audience strictly in order to sell more toothpaste, that politicians are out to make money, that schools are far more concerned with buildings than teaching, etc.

Why, they say, look at the Olympics. The games have become commercial. A man wins a bunch of gold medals and what happens? He shows up doing commercials on television at $50,000 a year.

The people of course are mistaken. The world has not suddenly become commercial. It's always been that way.

For instance, I was watching the Olympics on television and just to be doing I looked up the history of the games in an encyclopedia. In those days in ancient Greece a winner was awarded a garland of wild olives at the stadium. I don't know how he preserved it to show his grandchildren, but when he got home poets started writing poems about him, people gave him a parade, and his emperor gave him free groceries for the rest of his life and 500 drachmas for pocket change.

Now a drachma, which I learned just now by looking it up in the dictionary and won't remember tomorrow, was a gold coin worth various amounts, depending on the rate of inflation. I don't know how much inflation they had, but I'm sure whatever emperor was running for office was against it, the same as he was against big government spending, high taxes, unemployment, and the chortling of pupils to school. Of course the main platform of any candidate in those days was let's get the country moving again. Ancient Greece moved so far it disappeared.

Furthermore, there was the same complaint back then over the idolizing of athletes and the ignoring of the intellectuals. One writer whose name I can't spell, let alone pronounce --it began with an "X"--and nobody has ever been able to handle that letter at the beginning of a word without calling it something else--was bitter about the habit of the people's showering gifts on runners and ignoring philosophers.

Times haven't changed. How many philosophers do you see giving commercials on TV? None, of course. What do you expect? How many of them can run a mile in less than four minutes?

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Our son is going to college next year. He plans to use his roommate's car. We carry standard Family Automobile coverage. If he should have an accident in his friend's car, will our insurance pay?

It depends on whether or not the roommate carries coverage on his automobile. If he does... his Automobile Policy will pay the damage on anyone driving his vehicle with his permission. If the roommate does not carry insurance on his car, your Automobile Policy would pay in the event of an accident with your son driving a non-owned vehicle. The standard to go by is... Primary coverage always rests first with the owner of the vehicle and the vehicle, itself, not the driver.

A Bishop Looks at Life

As we conclude this series on notable statements by notable Americans I turn to the national leader who, in the 200 years of our history, has had the greatest ability to put great thoughts into great language. I refer to Abraham Lincoln.

When we study his words it is impressive to note, again and again, their religious quality. This is true despite the fact that Lincoln was never a professed member of the Visible Church. But he was certainly a member of that Invisible Church of those with a God-like approach to life! (In the dark days of the Civil War he said that he often fell to his knees in prayer because there was no other place to go. In the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C. there is a reverent figure of the Great Emancipator kneeling in prayer.)

What a way he had with words! We think of the Gettysburg Address, now carved in stone on the walls of the Lincoln Memorial. We think of his Second Inaugural Address with its famous words, as he looked toward the Reconstruction Era, "with malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right".

In our Bicentennial, and in a national election year, we might wish that all our leaders could have the attitude Lincoln expressed as he left his friends in Springfield to accept the burdens of the presidency: "I now leave, not knowing when, or whether ever I may return, with a task before me greater than that which rested upon Washington. Without the assistance of that Divine Being who ever attended him, I cannot succeed. With that assistance I cannot fail. Trusting in Him who can go with me and remain with you, and be everywhere for good, let us confidently hope that all will yet be well. To His care commending you, as I hope in your prayers you will commend me, I bid you an affectionate farewell."

No less timely are his words as he established a National Fast Day in 1863: "We have grown in numbers, wealth, and power as no other nation has ever grown. But we have forgotten God. We have forgotten the gracious hand which preserved us in peace, and multiplied and strengthened us...Intoxicated with unbroken success, we have become too self-sufficient to feel the necessity of redeeming and preserving grace, too proud to pray to the God who made us."

Mrs. Ogburn, Host To Auxiliary

Hosting members of the firemen's auxiliary July 27 was Mrs. Everett Ogburn. She served sandwiches, chips, cake, dessert and a relish plate. The party was held at the home of Mrs. Mollie Hite.

Attending were Mmes. Bill Jolly, Louis Olenick, Mollie Hite, Gene West, James Blackman, Bud Smith, Carl Teaff, Robert Stokes, Jerry Burk, Vernon Humphreys, Sammy Odom and Robert Taylor.

Winning 84 at 42 play was Mrs. West. Mrs. Stokes won high and Mrs. Jolly, low.

New Arrival

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sipes are parents of a son, Michael Austin, born August 1 in San Angelo's Clinic Hospital. He weighed 7 pounds, 11 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Braden of Sonora and Mr. and Mrs. C.D. Sipes of Justin are grandparents. Great-grandparents are Wayne Braden of Sonora, Mrs. H.A. Sipes of Weatherford, Mrs. B.F. McCulley of Fort Worth and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Coltharp of Clarksville.

The first animated sound film was Steamboat Willie, produced by Walt Disney in 1928.

C B News

Sonora and Eldorado members of the C.B. Association met July 15 with Van Houten calling the meeting to order. An informative talk on the rules and regulations of C.B. use followed.

Terry Kinard was elected treasurer to fill the vacancy of Larry Schuck. New business under discussion at the meeting was a community yard sale which will be held August 6, 7, and 8 at 1307 Orient. All members are asked to donate for the sale and the public is invited to come by and shop.

Following the meeting, the group was hosted to ice cream by Maggie Burch and Jo Owen.

The next meeting of the association will be held at the Memorial Building in Eldorado at 7:30 p.m., August 12. Betty Robinson will present the program.

Anyone desiring to join the association must be voted on by present members. Visitors are invited to the meetings.

Few modern Americans realize it but Ireland helped us gain freedom from England 200 years ago. During the Revolution, Irish soldiers made up one-third of our Continental Army.

Although the potato is a native American food, enjoyed by the Indians, the early colonist would not eat it. It was not popularized in what is now the United States until a taste for it was brought by Irish immigrants as early as 1719.

All The Way

When Pat was younger, he used to think I was a superman. He's older now, and he knows that I'm not. But he still has that special kind of confidence kids have in their parents . . . and more than anything else, I want to merit that trust.

There was a time when I seldom went to church. Then, one day I realized that if I were going to be the kind of father Pat needed, I had to have help — God's help. I went to church, and I prayed. At first, it wasn't easy to pray. But gradually the words came stronger and clearer.

Maybe I'll never be able to give Pat everything I'd like to give him. But he can always depend upon me for the most important thing of all: truth. I found truth in the Church.

Whitehead Treasurer Of ICA

Sonora rancher, Bill Whitehead, has been elected treasurer of the Independent Cattlemen's Association by delegates at ICA's second annual state convention in Austin.

Whitehead was formerly a state director of ICA. He is a member of the United Methodist Church and the president of the Amistad Ranch Co., Inc.

As treasurer, Whitehead joins the leadership of the largest non-affiliated livestock organization in the nation. ICA, with more than 100,000 members across Texas, is primarily a marketing organization representing cattle producers' interests through educational and legislative activities.

Rothe Named Associate Director

Joe H. Rothe has been named associate director of the Extension Service, effective August 1. He has served as Extension assistant director and state agent since May, 1971.

Rothe's appointment was announced July 27 by the Texas A&M University System Board of Regents. The Extension Service is the TAMU System's public service agency which provides educational assistance in agriculture, family living and consumer information, 4-H and youth, and community resource development to thousands of Texans.

Rothe has served with the Extension Service for 29 years in roles ranging from state agricultural agent to district agent, county Extension agent and assistant county agent.

FACTS & FIGURES

On the average, according to the U.S. Bureau of the Census, the population of Pennsylvania grows by about half a percent every year.

Sixteen Pennsylvanians work to make sure there'll be enough business to keep that steadily growing population working. They work for the State Department of Commerce as "regional representatives." They are pulse-takers, expeditors, information-dispersers, problem-solvers and all-round-catalysts for business in Pennsylvania.

One of them, Tom Stephenson, recently saved 40 jobs when a state inspector wanted to close down a small factory because of a paint booth violation. Stephenson kept the workers on the job while the infractions were corrected.

Through him, the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce helped finance 11 out of 16 companies in one industrial park. Those 11 now keep 850 people working.

Bob Krueger's Weekly Report

Good legislation ought to be fashioned out of a concern for the national interests, not for regional or partisan advantage. For good legislation to occur, sometimes the process of education is required. Observers who view legislation only in short term perspective—which side wins or loses a particular battle—often fail to notice that sometimes a viewpoint which loses a particular battle may nonetheless be proceeding to win a larger victory later.

It has been interesting to view the actions of the Congress with regard to energy matters in this perspective. Almost exactly a year ago, the Floor of the House of Representatives was filled with acrimonious comments against producers of our nation's energy, and there were cries for the need for increased government regulation of this industry.

Those people succeeded, by a margin of about 51-49 percent of the votes, to install a complicated system of additional price-setting on our nation's petroleum supplies. Yet, in the time since, the Nation and the Congress have moved away from the notion that government can wisely set prices for particular products, and the shift in this mood can be seen in the actions of the House-Senate Conference Committee dealing with energy and conservation matters last week.

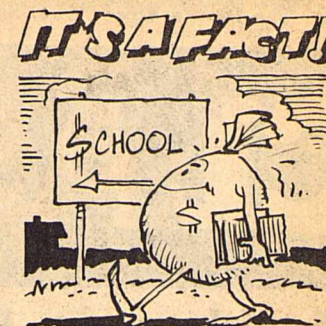

I sat on this House-Senate Conference Committee with the same House Members who, a year ago, argued vociferously for price controls. Yet, on this occasion, they were willing to grant exemption from additional price controls for "stripper wells". "Stripper wells" produce on the average only a few barrels of oil each day. They are used when an oil field has declined in production to the point that the field must be stimulated to additional production through water flooding, or chemical injections in order to force more oil out of the ground. Although each individual well produces only a small amount, aggregate stripper well production accounts for about one-eighth of our domestic production. Many of these wells would not be economic under federal price controls, but are economic when their oil can be sold at the world market price.

The same individuals who a year ago spoke of the virtues of federal price controls were in the Conference Committee and on this occasion, willing to go along with some of the rest of us who argued for a supply and demand system rather than for more government regulation.

The process of education has been slow. Nonetheless, the mood in the Congress has shifted from wanting more regulation to recognizing that regulation can be a curse as well as a blessing, and can be counterproductive. With Mr. Reagan and Mr. Ford both arguing for less government regulation and with Mr. Carter, in his acceptance speech saying, "We Democrats believe in competition, not regulation to solve our problems." We can see that Washington is beginning to catch up with the American people in recognizing that the American people are hoping for less, not more interference in their economy. And those of us who, as legislators, believe in trying to persuade the people on the basis of the facts and common sense rather than through arm twisting or threat, feel confirmed on the appropriateness of our approach.

If you can win someone's mind and heart, you have won a friend, not made an enemy. And you have become prepared for better legislation in the national interests in the future. In some small way, I believe that the shift in votes in the House-Senate Conference Committee on which I serve reflects the change in Congressional perception through the patient process of education undertaken by many different people.

Immunizations Necessary To Enter School

The A/New Jersey (swine) flu immunization program may make parents overlook other immunizations their children need before they can enter Texas schools.

State law requires children have adequate polio, DPT (diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus), measles and rubella vaccinations before they can attend school, the Texas Medical Association says. Some school districts have additional requirements such as a smallpox vaccination or a tuberculosis tine test. In addition to these required procedures, a physician may feel additional inoculations would help a particular person. A doctor also can give advice on whether or not an individual can medically tolerate certain vaccinations.

About 5 percent of Texas school children and an estimated 10-20 percent of the preschool population do not have complete immunizations, a Texas Department of Health Resources (TDHR) spokesman says.

Even this relatively high Texas immunization level is only a small margin of protection for the public. About 35 percent of the national preschool population has incomplete immunizations and as a result there has been a recent nationwide outbreak of measles, says John Witte, M.D., the U.S. Center for Disease Control's immunization director. The outbreak, centered mainly in the Midwest, probably can be traced to cutbacks in massive immunization programs two years ago, Dr. Witte says. A similar effect was noted in 1968.

Texas immunization standards before a child can enter school include three doses of polio vaccine with at least one dose given after the fourth birthday. By the time many children are one year old, they have had three doses of polio vaccine and three DPT vaccinations. Texas does not require polio vaccinations for students over age 19. Three doses of DPT vaccine with at least one dose given after the fourth birthday also are necessary. DPT vaccine helps protect against diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis (whooping cough).

The state also requires one measles vaccination and one rubella (German measles) vaccination. Children should be at least one year old before receiving these vaccines. If a child is 12 or older the state waives the requirement for measles and rubella vaccinations.

Parents wondering about their child's immunization records should check their own records if they know they are updates. If there is any doubt, contact the physician or health department that gave the last injection. Physicians, local health departments or TDHR also can give general information on necessary injections. San Antonio To Host Seminar

A series of seminars aimed at informing persons concerned with the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) of 1974 will be held in Texas during August.

The nearest location for the seminar in this area will be in San Antonio. The seminar will be held there August 17 at the El Tropicano Motor Hotel beginning at 8:30 a.m.

Bank trust officers, attorneys, small businessmen and corporations are all concerned with the implications of the law. Given this interest, the Internal Revenue Service, in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, scheduled the seminar series.

Local 4-H'ers Attend Congress

Six-hundred 4-H members and leaders participated in the 1976 Texas 4-H congress held in Austin July 27-30. Preston O. Love, Jr., vice-president of the Sutton County 4-H Club, represented local 4-H members at the congress. 4-H members around the state were actually involved in the law making process. Highlights of the congress was a tour of the State Capital Building and involvement in presenting a bill before the Texas Legislature. Theme of the Congress was "We The People." To orient 4-H members to the legislative process, delegates were divided into a senate group and a representative group and actually simulated how legislation takes place. Youth delegates discussed various issues dealing with youth, drafted bills, debated the bills and voted on them. The bills were then forwarded to the Governor for signing.

Three Enter Record Book Competition

All record books were entered in the junior division and are not eligible for state competition but each of the 4-H members are to be congratulated on completing their record books and entering them in the contest.

Trail Ride, Sunday

All 4-H members and other interested persons are invited to a trail ride, play day and swimming party to be held Sunday, August 8 at the Bill Stewart Ranch.

All who intend to participate will meet at the Sonora Community Park at 1 p.m., and travel from there to the Stewart Ranch.

Training Essential In Predator Management

Many people (tourists and natives) travelling through this area of the country may have happened upon the bumper sticker which reads, "Eat American Lamb, Ten Million Coyotes Can't Be Wrong!"

That slogan probably sums up in as few words as possible the frustration felt by Southwest Texas Livestock producers in their never-ending struggle against predators.

The coyote is chief among the animals which plague commercial livestock operators and considerable time and expense is spent each year in efforts to hold down populations of this predatory creature.

Management techniques for these predators are numerous and include methods such as trapping, snaring, aerial gunning, calling, sport hunting and the M-44 with cyanide, but choosing a method is only one of many steps in managing coyotes and other predator populations.

"A farmer or rancher must secure a broad knowledge of the animal he wants to manage as well as become familiar with his habits in order to make an effective decision on what kind of method he wants to use on his farm or ranch," said Dr. Milo Shult, a wildlife specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Uvalde.

"The method used can vary with each operation, and some kind of training will be necessary for many farmers and ranchers to make effective use of recommended controlled measures."

A tremendous amount of help in managing predators has been provided by the Texas Predator and Rodent Control Service, but Dr. Shult says another important long-term management effort will have to be carried out by the individual farmer or rancher.

Who will provide the training necessary to help operators acquire the knowledge they need for running a predator management program on their farms or ranches?

Last week at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center here, Dr. Shult working in cooperation with Jim Beavers, a Uvalde district supervisor for the Predator and Rodent Control Service, began final preparations of educational materials for predator management training state-wide.

The training for farmers and ranchers will be conducted by Texas Agricultural Extension Service County Agents, and should begin sometime this fall. "The materials will be segmented by methods so that County Agents can select and provide training based on methods appropriate in their particular county," Dr. Shult said.

Last week Dr. Shult and Beavers, working on a Uvalde area ranch, began work on color slide visuals to be used in the training effort. The slide visuals taken in this area were aimed at basic demonstration of how to follow predator signs, select sites and set both traps and snares. Sites were selected, traps set and all photographed for viewing later on in a training situation.

"We feel training is necessary for success in this kind of management program, but even with training and increased knowledge, carrying on such a program on a farm and ranch will remain a tedious task requiring a strong commitment to holding predator populations in check," Dr. Shult said.

Police Reports

At 11:15 a.m., on July 29 Officer Dick Jones picked up a dog and transferred it to the local animal hospital after a local woman called in reporting the small black puppy was apparently sick and frothing at the mouth.

Mrs. Jamie Parker reported the theft of a lawnmower from her residence on July 30.

At 3 p.m., on that day a disturbance at a local mobile home park was investigated by Officer Jones.

A report was called in July 31 regarding children breaking into a truck at College and Tayloe Streets. Officers investigated and advised children to leave the area.

A sick cat was picked up August 1 at a Water street address and taken to the local animal pound.

City police investigated a minor accident at 5:25 p.m., in the 1200 block of Orient Street.

At 6:10 p.m., on August 1 police answered a call to West 2nd Street where a domestic disturbance was underway. No action was taken by police.
