Patricio Herrera Identified as Dead Youth Struck by Auto on IH-10

Brain Hemorrhage Blamed for Death

Patricio Mendez Herrera

Fifteen year-old Patricio Mendez Herrera of Sonora has been identified as the dead youth struck by a car on IH-10 early Saturday morning, July 15, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety. Herrera's identity remained a mystery until Thursday, July 20 when his parents notified Sonora Police Chief Jerry Kemp that their son was missing. Herrera was the son of Jesus Herrera and Dora Mendez of Sonora. The young Herrera was buried Wednesday, July 19 after local authorities were unable to determine his identity during the five days following the accident. An autopsy was ordered by the DPS through Sutton County Justice of the Peace Mat Adams and on July 16 Dr. James C. Womack of San Angelo performed the procedure. "Primary cause of death: circulatory failure due to brain hemorrhage," the official autopsy reports. Specifically, the autopsy shows that young Herrera suffered a fractured skull in the left temple area...resulting in brain hemorrhaging. Dr. Womack also reported multiple contusions and abrasions were found on the face, chest, abdomen and legs. Investigating officers pieced together the accident details from various witnesses, including an Oregon woman driving the car which struck Herrera. Kay Jenene McMillan of Eugene, Ore., told DPS officer Archie Crenwelge that on Saturday, July 15 about 1:30 a.m. she was driving west on IH-10 about 10 miles west of Sonora when she saw something lying on the road. She reported that she thought it was a deer carcass, and she tried to avoid hitting what turned out to be the young Sonoran. She told Crenwelge she immediately stopped and was approached by a young man who asked her for a ride. She says she asked the youth if he knew about the boy on the highway, but was unable to get an answer. Ms. McMillan told Crenwelge that the hitch-hiker had a skinned chin and blood on his face. The young man has since been identified as Julio Mendez Galindo of Sonora, Herrera's cousin. Galindo told investigating officers that he had been with Herrera on the night he was struck by the McMillan vehicle. Galindo is quoted as saying that he and the Herrera youth and some others were at the Galindo home Friday night, July 14 having a party which involved alcoholic beverages. Following a confrontation with his father, Galindo says he left his home and was followed by Herrera. He stated that the two of them walked through the draw behind the little league park, the Hurry-Up and crossed the bridge which put them on IH-10. After walking several miles on the Interstate highway, which they used because they were barefooted, they lay down in the road to rest. Galindo stated that he saw a car coming and attempted to pull his cousin from the road. Unable to do so, he said he was struck by the same vehicle on the right arm and shoulder and the impact caused him to fall to the road, causing an abrasion on his chin. He also told officers that he left the scene with a truck driver who had stopped to render aid and got off at the Circle Bar Truck Stop near Ozona. Galindo says he stayed at the truck stop and after seeing a patrol car, he hid in the area and fell asleep. Early Sunday morning, he told officers, Galindo started the trip back to Sonora by accepting a ride with passing motorists. No charges have been filed against either Galindo or Ms. McMillan. Following the accident, Sonora law enforcement officials placed a description of the youth on the teletype and radio to other towns along IH-10, asking for information on runaways. There was no identification on the Herrera youth and only when Police Chief Kemp saw a photo were authorities able to identify the youth.

Sutton County Also Confirmed, see p. 2B Screwworm Case in Rocksprings

Lab identification proved worms taken from the head of a goat south of Rocksprings were Edwards County's first known 1978 screwworm case, says a U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) spokesman. Dr. Robert Miller, acting veterinarian in charge of the Screwworm Eradication Program, says Bill Wall treated the infestation and collected the parasite sample July 8. "This gives invaluable help to the Program by letting officials know wild screwworm flies are now in Edwards County," says the veterinarian. Known wild screwworm fly populations are treated by release of sterile flies from aircraft flying a grid pattern. In addition, the immediate area of each known case is "hot-spotted" for several weeks. Hot-spot treatment involves dispersing an additional 100,000 flies in the nearby area. Most known screwworm cases are north and west of Edwards County. The only known infestations in the immediate area are in Sutton, Real, and Median counties. These cases threaten all livestock and pets within a large area, says Miller. He urges animal owners and caretakers to watch carefully for signs of infestation, to treat all wounds, and to submit samples of any worms found in wounds for laboratory identification.

Francis Burt at Hospital

Mr. Francis Burt took over duties as administrator of the Hudspeth Memorial Hospital and Nursing Home Monday. Most Sonorans will remember Mr. Burt when he served as head of the nursing home from September 1975 until May of 1976. After resigning that position Burt moved back to his hometown of Junction. At the time of accepting the position here he was serving as manager of the Junction Chamber of Commerce.

It Pays to Advertise Robert Brown Pegs Newspaper for Sales Jump

"Our business has really been super since we started a regular advertising campaign in the Devil's River News and the West Texas Sunday Shopper," Hurry-Up owner Robert Brown tells us. "We're especially happy with the saturated coverage of the Sunday Shopper and it has made our When Will It Rain Contest a huge success," he continues. Brown has found out as have a growing number of Sonora merchants, that the combined power of Wednesday's Devil's River News and Sunday's West Texas Sunday Shopper, plus his special bargains, almost guarantee sales increases. "We know that as much as 50 percent of Sonora's retail dollars leave town, and we're fighting to trim that down and convince people we have what they need," Brown comments. Back-to-back, the 'Devil' and the Shopper deliver 3,750 Sonora and Eldorado homes every week. "As far as we're concerned, the 'Devil' and the Sunday Shopper are our bread and butter," Brown concludes.

Coffee Break

by Shirley K. Hill
According to someone, whoever knows about such things, the heat spell is broken. I don't know of anyone who cares. Wasn't Sunday a welcome change? A little shower or two, a few clouds blocking out the sun and a cool breeze. Something we haven't seen or felt since June 4. Have you ever noticed how cross and short-tempered everyone gets during a heat wave? People with even the most calm dispositions change into Mr. Hyde.

I was three years younger when I last went through the local Caverns. Three years can make a lot of difference. Family from Louisiana came to spend the day Sunday and two neices just had to see the Caverns. While I certainly enjoyed the beautiful scenery as much as the first time, the climb out I felt sure was not there on my last visit. James Morris assured me the stairs were the same, it was me who had changed.

-SKH-
The topic of conversation around Sonora seems to be the new HBO station offered by the local television cable company. Most people like me, never having seen a R rated movie, are a little stunned at the elaborate love scenes and the nudity. But this is America, and we're not forced to watch what we choose not to. I'm a little unsure as to how persons with small children in the house are going to handle it but then I could be considered somewhat prudish. Jackie Harris, who works for the cable company, had an amusing tale Tuesday morning. A customer, she said, called to ask her about the shows on the HBO and what she thought of them. She replied that she had watched the boxing matches the night before and really enjoyed them. The caller quickly replied, "You mean the wrestling match between the two naked men?" People are watching. I think everyone I've talked to saw that particular scene in that movie. There have been some really good movies and features and some really bad ones. But remember folks, use your channel selector or your off button. Our television cable company is not accountable for the contents of television programming.

Mrs. Akers Honored

Mrs. Mary Louise Akers was honored July 22 at her home in Portales, New Mexico, on the occasion of her 75th birthday. Hosting the event were her granddaughter, Shawna Lynn Hunt, her daughter, Kathryn Flynn, and a friend, Mrs. Adelia Burke Stewart. The affair was come-and-go and friends called during the three hour period. A large decorated cake with the words "happy birthday Mary Louise" was served to those attending. Ms. Hunt assisted her grandmother with the registering of guests and gifts, and the opening of packages. Mrs. Akers was married to Homer Akers in Sherman June 19, 1930 and they moved to Portales in 1945 where he assumed the ministry of the Presbyterian Church, a position which he filled for 23 years. He also served as Presbyterian minister in the Sonora Church of the Good Shepherd for six years. He moved to Barstow after leaving Sonora where he stayed until his death two years later. Following his death Mrs. Akers moved back to Portales to make her home.

WATCH FOR REGISTRATIONS DATES IN AUGUST

Ronda Hopkins Browne

U.S. Congressman Bob Krueger, in testimony before the House Interior Subcommittee on Water and Power Resources on Monday, July 17, expressed opposition to an Interior Department federal project water allotment plan prohibiting farm family ownership of more than 640 acres of land receiving project water.

"The Interior Department, having proposed regulations for enforcement of the 1902 Reclamation Act (in August, 1977) having then received thousands and thousands of protesting comments, and having then been blocked from implementation by a court order has now proceeded to offer a new proposal even more strict than the original 1902 laws," Krueger informed the subcommittee of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs in a written statement.

The Interior Department issued proposed regulations for the enforcement of the Reclamation Act of 1902 in The Federal Register in August, 1977, but was blocked from imposing them when a California district court judge ruled that the regulations could not be implemented until after an Environmental Impact Statement was filed. The Interior Department plan now proposed is being introduced in the House of Representatives as H.R. 13473.

together own 640 acres and lease a balance of land up to 960 acres. Current owners are subject to no residency requirements; however, prospective buyers must live within 50 miles of the land.

The National Alliance to Modernize the 1902 Water Law calculates the Interior Dept. plan could cost taxpayers more than $34 million dollars for new public facilities. In addition, the Interior Dept. estimates an additional cost of $2.5 million for enforcement of the land redistribution proposals.

Krueger, after writing to bureau of reclamation officials urging field hearings regarding enforcement of the 1902 Reclamation Act, also submitted protesting testimony at hearings in El Paso in November, 1977. According to the Interior Dept., almost 10,000 comments and statements were received concerning the 1902 Act, and most protested the proposed regulations.

Reflections

by Rev. Jim Miles Shortly after Solomon received the throne from his father, David, he journeyed to Gibeon where he worshipped the Lord for many days. God appeared to him in a dream and asked what it was that Solomon desired. His answer is one that should instruct us all. He did not ask for riches, or for power-but rather for "wisdom" and understanding. Even more instructive is his motive. He wanted this gift in order that he could better rule and judge his people. He approached the situation with great humility and with a sincere desire to ask for the right thing.

A study of the Hebrew text reveals that what he was asking for in the original language was "a hearing heart." In our own time this gift should be fervently sought, especially when there are disputes between people. Each of us should ask to be objective and compassionate as we hear the "other side," instead of merely looking for the falacies in the argument so we can pounce on the weakness.

Wisdom is so much more than a mere cognitive thing. It is also an affective gift. It is a melding of the two in a way that both discerns what is true and what is kind.

Each of us should seek to have a hearing heart.

Glen Fisher's Wool & Mohair Report

Having just returned from the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers annual meeting, it is pleasing to report that everyone is optimistic about the fall mohair market. Some of the things stressed at the Wool & Mohair Marketing Committee meeting concerned the method in which mohair is prepared before being brought to the warehouse. With our present good prices, it is more important than ever before to put up high quality, low defect, uniform bags of mohair. The group just returning from England were told that kemp fibers was one of the biggest problems with Texas mohair. While I think this is somewhat an exaggeration on their part, we do have small quantities on their part, we do have small quantities in some clips and it is difficult to remove since it requires close examination to find the kemp. We can obtain a very reasonable price for kempy or crossbred mohair so it is not a complete loss to separate it from the rest of the clip. It is a very good practice so that our mohair will stand up to English standards and compete with the alleged higher quality South African hair. Mohair, like wool, is sold according to established standards and I will discuss the major factors involved in price determination in the next few weeks. These factors are: fineness or grade, length, purity, shrinkage or yield, style. Like wool, these factors are interrelated to some degree and each is very important. Next week I will discuss grades and length and then conclude the following week with purity and yield and style.

Hot, Dry Weather Hazardous To Stock

Extremely hot, dry weather in Sutton County could lead to prussic acid poisoning in livestock grazing certain pasture grasses and forages, points out Clint Langford, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The acid builds up in stressed plants that become particularly dangerous when new growth results after a rain. Although many plants contain the toxic material that causes poisoning, those causing the highest mortality in livestock when new growth is grazed following drought conditions are Johnson and Sudan grasses and sorghum or hybrids of these. Problems in Sutton County are generally found in grazing fields that have Johnson grass and other sorghums growing in them. The most dangerous time as far as the grazing is concerned is when wilted plants put forth new growth, emphasizes Clint. Livestock should not be allowed access to the wilted plants or plants putting out new growth immediately after a rain. New plant growth usually becomes nontoxic and can be grazed within 10 days to two weeks following a rain. As far as prussic acid poisoning is concerned, the poison acts rapidly and can kill animals within minutes. In most acute cases, animals become affected within 10-15 minutes after eating toxic material and can die in two to three minutes. Symptoms may include a brief period of stimulation followed by depression and paralysis. Signs of colic may be present. Stupor (loss of sensibility), difficult breathing and frequent convulsions may result. Death is caused by suffocation since oxygen remains in the blood and is not exchanged to the tissues. To prevent prussic acid poisoning in livestock, Clint outlines these steps:

1. Hungry animals should not be turned in on suspected plants that may contain prussic acid. An animal well filled with hay before turning in a new pasture will be less affected by the plant material that may be toxic.
2. Remove all animals from the pasture if one in the herd shows any signs of poisoning. Keep in drylot and feed cured hay until suspected forage can be tested.
3. Call a veterinarian immediately if an animal appears to be poisoned. An antidote to treat affected animals is highly efficient if given early by intravenous injection. This product is available from veterinarians for ranchers who want to keep a supply on hand for emergency use.

4. Have suspected plant material checked by the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratories at College Station or Amarillo. Local veterinarians can assist in packaging and submitting samples.

The overall key to preventing prussic acid poisoning in livestock is to be aware of plant materials that may cause poisoning and then to keep cattle from grazing such plants until the toxic stage has passed, points out Clint.

Livestock Experts Helps Balance Economy

Exports of registered livestock from Texas to other parts of the world is one means of helping the balance of payments in the United States.

However, livestock moving into other countries should be immunized against certain diseases, points out Dr. James Armstrong, veterinarian with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Extension Service through the county agents is assisting producers in this effort.

Keying in on such immunization programs is the Institute of Tropical Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M University. The concept of preimmunizing cattle against certain diseases is not new, but the system being used by the Institute could be of value to Texas cattlemen exporting livestock to those areas where these diseases are prevalent, notes Armstrong.

Death losses running as high as 40 to 50 percent among cattle exported to Central and South American countries where Texas tick fever and anaplasmosis are prevalent are being reduced to almost none with a preimmunization developed at the Institute.

"The concept is the injection of virulent organisms of tick fever or anaplasmosis, or both, into beef or dairy cattle about three weeks prior to shipment from the U.S.," explains Dr. Gilberto S. Trevino, Institute director.

"These animals develop a mild case of the disease, or diseases, and after reaching their destination where the diseases are prevalent, a challenge by a vector is unsuccessful."

Both diseases are caused by a (single cell) protozoa which gets into the blood stream and destroys blood cells. Ticks and aggressive blood-sucker type flies are the principal vectors.

Trevino notes that Mexico is "teeming" with the diseases, which occurs between the 30th parallels on either side of the Equator.

Texas is the principal exporter of breeding cattle to Latin America, and the number is increasing each year.

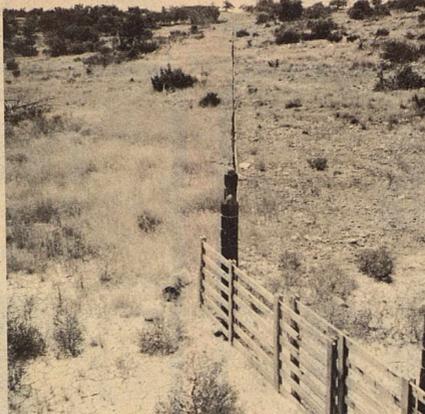

Veterinarians of the Institute will go to any location where preimmunization is to be administered, at a cost of $50 per animal.

Trevino said that many years will be required for private enterprise to develop the system and personnel, making it economically wise to pay the $50. He noted that this fee is a small investment to prevent potential deaths of breeding stock generally costing $1,000 to $5,000 per head.

Planned Growing System Useful to Ranchers

by Joe Ellis

A very useful tool that every rancher can use on his ranch is a "planned grazing system". A planned grazing system is a system in which two or more grazing units are rested in a planned sequence throughout the year or during the growing season of the key plants.

On the Phillip Pring ranch north of Sonora a grazing system allows grasses on a portion of the ranch to produce seed and develop stronger root systems, while the rest of the rangeland is being grazed.

The purpose of a planned grazing system is to maintain or improve plant cover while properly using the forage produced on each grazing unit. Grazing systems improve efficiency of grazing by uniformly using each part of the grazing unit and helping to insure a supply of forage throughout the grazing period. Also they help improve existing wildlife habitat.

No two grazing systems are exactly alike. Each system must be designed to meet the individual operators needs. Things such as size of the unit, number of grazing animals, types of grazing animals, climate, range sites, and soil types and conditions all play important parts in the development of a sound grazing plan. A good system must be practical and flexible enough to meet the needs of forage plants when climatic conditions change. Fences and watering facilities must be carefully considered. Also it is a good idea to have one or two reserve pastures which can be used while breeding or calving. The reserve pastures come in handy for extra grazing when it becomes dry such as now.

If you would like assistance in developing a grazing system, come by the local Soil Conservation Service office. We will be glad to help you.

EFP Applications Taken At ASCS Office

by Norma Love

Ranchers who are feeding more than normal and have suffered at least a 40 percent pasture forage are eligible for EFP applications at the ASCS office, at any time the need may arise.

Participants in this program are urged to turn in feed bills by July 31.

Producers with outstanding approvals are reminded to report completed practices as soon as they are complete. Anyone not able to carry out a practice that has been approved, should report to the ASCS office as soon as possible so that funds may be released for someone else.

Wool producers are reminded to turn in their 1978 wool and unshorn lamb sales promptly.

More Screwworms

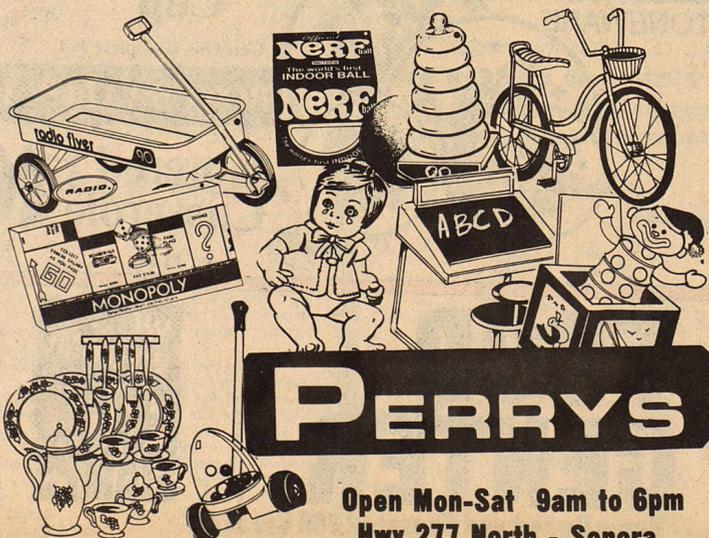

Another case of screwworms has been confirmed in Sutton County 20 miles east of Sonora. The worms were found in a docking wound in a sheep on the Philip Jacoby Ranch.

El Paso Denies Knowledge of Algeria II Contract Cancellation

Responding to inquiry about the press announcement that Sonatrach, the Algerian government-owned oil and gas company, had finalized a contract to sell natural gas to West Germany because of delays in securing approval from the U.S. government for the importation of such gas into the United States, El Paso stated that it has long since advised the Department of Energy that failure timely to act on the applications pending before it could ultimately cause the loss to consumers in the United States of this badly needed gas. El Paso added that it had received no notice from Sonatrach of the cancellation of its Algeria II contract and pointed out that it and another American contract cover a quantity substantially larger than that involved in the German contract. However, Sonatrach is known to be negotiating with several other European buyers, the sale to whom would necessarily cause the loss of such gas to the United States.

The El Paso project was approved by the administrative law judge on October 25, 1977. The Department of Energy has undertaken to review that action. No decision has been rendered to date nor has there been any indication when a decision might be expected.

Concurrently with the announcement by Sonatrach, press reports out of New York quote Pemex, the Mexican government-owned oil and gas company, as indicating that the energy program of that country is being restructured to utilize internally large quantities of Mexican gas which had been the subject of contracts with U.S. companies. Pemex stated that these contracts were permitted to expire because of unacceptable action by the Department of Energy.

The customers on the El Paso system, including those in California, have supported the importation of gas from these two sources.

Texas August Allowables At 100% Market Demand

The Railroad Commission July 20 set the statewide Texas oil producing allowable for August at 100 percent of market demand, with the exception of ten fields that are assigned lower permissive flow rates for conservation purposes.

Crude Oil Down 4,171

August will be the eighteenth straight month Texas oil allowables have been pegged to the maximum market factor and the 74th time since the Commission went to the 100 percent allowables for the first time in April 1972.

Next month's oil allowable is estimated to average 3,597,266 barrels daily with actual estimated production averaging 2,885,000 barrels daily.

Total nominations for Texas crude oil, as filed in written and floor nominations at today's monthly hearing, totaled 3,517,436 barrels daily, a decrease of 4,171 barrels daily when compared to the July nominations.

August nominations for the purchase of gas totaled 23,702,606 Mcf daily, an increase of one percent when compared to July gas nominations.

Fourteen major purchasers of Texas oil filed these floor nominations during the July hearing:

Sun Oil, R.A. Klunder, 125,000 barrels daily, unchanged from July; Diamond Shamrock, John D. Munn, 36,000, unchanged; Union Oil of California, J.C. Mann, 95,000, unchanged; Mobil, D.R. Wall, 345,000, unchanged; Gulf Oil, D.D. Cox, 138,000, unchanged; Atlantic Richfield, M.G. Peterson, 170,000, unchanged; Cities Service, C.E. Taylor, 100,000, unchanged; Marathon, Louis C. Mihaly, 49,670, unchanged; Exxon, Charles Boudreaux, 642,000, down 7,000; Amoco, G.W. Mayben, 315,000, down 1,000; Conoco, John Brewer, 56,000, unchanged; Texaco, John Lee, 125,000, unchanged; Shell Richard Gonzales, 241,000, unchanged; and Phillips, Jeff Goodell, 115,000, unchanged.

Texas Refineries Up

Fifty-four Texas refineries processed 147,249,310 barrels of crude oil and hydrocarbon blends during May 1978, according to their reports to the Railroad Commission.

This volume compared with 144,007,338 barrels in the previous May, the Commission's Administrative Services Division reported in its monthly recapitulation of Texas refinery operations. Inputs of crude oil and blends totaled 132,164,637 barrels in April.

Texas refineries ran 127,490,019 barrels of crude oil in May compared to 125,305,352 barrels in May 1977 and 112,820,534 barrels in April 1978.

Products manufactured in May 1978 totaled 147,195,609 barrels, up from 144,920,067 barrels in the same month the previous year, and up from the 132,582,779 barrels in April 1978.

May 1978 manufacture of motor gasoline totaled 59,314,983 barrels, compared to 59,542,524 barrels in the year-earlier month and 53,198,137 barrels in April.

Texas refineries manufactured 12,046,807 barrels of home heating oil in May 1978—a decrease of 1,240,118 barrels from the year-earlier volume. April 1978 output was 9,670,428.

Project Could Lead to More Oil Recovery

The Railroad Commission July 3 authorized the initiation of a tertiary pilot injection project that could lead to additional recovery of 19 million barrels of oil from a 20-year-old field in Harrison County.

Chairman Mack Wallace and Commissioners Jon Newton and John H. Poerner approved the application of Amoco Production Co. to operate the pilot program in the South Unit in the Bethany (Glen Rose 4300) Field during the weekly conference on Oil and Gas Division matters. Approval had been recommended by Senior Staff Engineer Willis C. Steed, who conducted a public hearing on the application on March 14.

The field has produced nearly 14.4 million barrels of oil since discovery in 1958. Current output of the South Unit reservoir under a secondary recovery program in operation since last 1965 is about 220 barrels of oil daily.

Amoco plans to initiate a tertiary pilot project that would consist of four injection wells and one producing well arranged on a 10-acre, five-spot pattern. The operator expects to spend some $5.2 million on the evaluation program extending over more than two years.

Amoco has forecast additional recovery of 43,000 barrels of oil from the project.

If the pilot project is successful as laboratory tests have indicated, the operator plans to expand the operation to the entire South Unit and North Unit of the field with a predicted additional recovery of 19 million barrels of oil, Steed advised the Commissioners.

The tertiary program calls for the use of miscellar and polymer solutions into the oil reservoir.

Truckers Request 8% Increase For Hauling

The Common Carrier Motor Freight Association has asked the Railroad Commission to approve rate increases totalling eight percent on line-haul charges, according to Jerry L. Spence, senior legal examiner in the Commission's Transportation Division.

"Line-haul" charges are the rates assessed for hauling truckload or less than truckload shipments, explained Spence. Smaller loads fall under the classification "minimum charges," he added.

The Association, which represents 24 intrastate common carriers was last granted an increase averaging 9.9 percent on May 25. Line-haul charges were upped seven percent at that time, according to Spence. The truckers cited increasing non-labor related costs as the reason for the current increase request.

A pre-hearing conference on the proposed increase has been set for Aug. 11 at 9 a.m. in Room 509 of the Ernest O. Thompson Building, 10th and Colorado Streets, Austin. The public hearing on the request is scheduled for Sept. 5 in the same room. Those opposing the increase have until Aug. 10 to file written protests with the Commission.

Everyone's Coming To Dinner

Compiled by Kent Keeth
Director, The Texas
Collection

Baylor University
EVERYONE'S COMING
TO DINNER: 1949

Descendants of Norwegian settlers in Bosque County discovered to their surprise, almost 30 years ago, that their fellow Texans were eager to sample and enjoy good Scandinavian cooking. A chance suggestion made in 1949 by Mrs. Edmund Beaver, wife of the pastor of Our Savior's Lutheran Church in Norse, was the beginning of the community's annual smorgasbord dinner, an event which now is so popular that tickets for the meals are sold out almost before they go on sale.

The reason for preparation of the first smorgasbord dinner by members of the church was a simple one: the church hall had no running water. Water for drinking and for cleaning had to be carried to the hall in buckets, and the congregation wanted to raise funds to pipe it from the parsonage's supply.

Mrs. Rosalie Rueter Aars, herself of German descent but married to a Norwegian-Texan, was present at the meeting in which the initial suggestion was made. In an oral history memoir recorded in 1973, Mrs. Aars described the first such event, which had taken place 25 years before. Her comments during the interview have been edited slightly for presentation in narrative form.

"The time was set to have it on a Friday night after Thanksgiving. A committee was appointed and they set up their menu. The idea caught on like wildfire--not just among women in the church, but all over the community. We did so some advertising but there weren't any tickets sold ahead of time.

"When the evening came for it to be held, people were lined up clear across the yard from the church hall to the church and back around the church. The women were just sort of staggered at what had happened, and I really don't know how they managed to serve everybody that night.

"Well, the money was raised to pipe the water to the church hall. I think the first year we made something like two hundred and fifty dollars off of it. The price of a ticket was a dollar for adults and fifty cents for children. We didn't even have water over there to wash the dishes with. The pastor carried all the water from the parsonage to wash the dishes with, as well as the water that they served on the table and made coffee with."

The first smorgasbord

dinner was so successful that the ladies of the congregation decided to enlarge their committee, reorganize their procedures and have another one the following year.

Since that time the dinner has become an annual event, attracting hungry Texans from many miles away. By 1972 competition for a place at the smorgasbord table had become lively: there were twice as many requests for tickets as the organizers could hope to fill. In late November 1973 Mrs. Aars described the system by which tickets for the 25th annual dinner had been allocated.

"There are a lot of people who are very unhappy because they didn't get tickets and they've tried for a number of years to get tickets. And it's too bad, it's almost embarrassing not to be able to furnish them tickets when they want them. But if you can't you can't."

"(At one time) you could order a ticket by telephone; we don't have that anymore because one year the tickets went on sale on October 1st, which was six weeks ahead of the smorgasbord, and by one o'clock we had just about sold all the tickets by phone!

"So the best way to handle it, we have found now, is to do it through the mail. The information sheet that goes out says that the earliest postmarks will be filled first. When we started this idea the postmarks carried an hour stamp on them. It would say six o'clock, seven o'clock, eight o'clock and so forth--the cancellation of the stamp. But a couple of years ago they did away with that and sort of fouled us up as far as that was concerned, except you still had an a.m. and a p.m. on your postmark. But before the a.m. orders were all filled, they ran out of tickets this year.

"We have come a long way from the time when we got out on the street and peddled tickets."

State Horse Show Set

Hundreds of Texas youngsters will demonstrate horsemanship abilities in San Antonio July 26-29, as the State 4-H Horsemanship moves into the Joe Freeman Coliseum. The youngsters will participate in a host of horsemanship events including Open Jumping, Western Pleasure, reining, pole bending and barrel racing. A Horseman's Handcraft Show also is on the agenda and on July 28, one of the participants will be named as the 1978 4-H Horseman.

To be eligible to compete in this state event, youngsters have won honors in both county and district horse shows.

Second Thoughts...

by Tom Driskell

After reading the guest editorial from the Chicago Sun-Times in The San Angelo Standard of 14 July, the initial impulse was regurgitation. Restoring the editorial to legibility, by cleaning, a somewhat clearer view emerged. If you and I are dependent for our personal liberty upon a free press, and this article is typical; logic says we should be preparing ourselves for some sort of intellectual slavery.

We are operating this country at an ever increasing deficit. Our background is foreign dependence for oil, tin, bauxite, zinc, iron, copper, and who knows how many other resources. Continuing on our present path, our inalienable destination is bankruptcy and monetary collapse.

The writer, advocating foreign aid, reaches back to the 1940's and cites us as the richest country on the earth; a debateable fact in terms of foreign exchange which is so vital to us. The dollar retains some of its buying power on the world market because of action taken by the Japanese, German, and Swiss financial forces.

The Germans and Japanese see these actions as a relief program for their workers and they can hardly be called anything but foreign aid for the fiscally stupid Americans. Here we have a writer advocating that the recipients of aid establish a liberal aid program.

Our aid, foreign that is, program in the past has produced note-worthy results. The Japanese and Germans, big aid recipients, have wiped us off the world market and due to liberalism, bordering on idiocy, severely dented us in our home market. Subsidizing our competitors has not been of great value to the American taxpayer.

The writer points out that foreign aid fights political turmoil. It certainly has in Cuba, Bolivia, Chile, Korea, The Philippines, Ughanda, and above all South Vietnam. The benefit to our taxpayers is somewhat obscure in these areas.

Consider the oil producers: Venezuela, Libya, Algeria, Malaysia, and Saudi Arabia. Technical and financial aid leaves us with one friend and one marginal out-of-five--not a good percentage. This is particularly true when the money for foreign aid must be borrowed at today's interest rates.

We have spawned a new generation of journalists and politicians in the shadow of the Johnsonian "Great Society". They both seem utterly unaware that the backbone of world economics is bare-knuckled, no-holds-barred competition backed by solidly sound arithmetic.

Our efforts to stimulate our foreign market by giving the customers the money to buy our products has produced one major effect--it has allowed our labor to price itself, and our products, off the world market and, for practical purposes, off most of the domestic market.

This comes at a time when foreign exchange is a necessity, and can hardly be considered as other than an omen of severe economic stress. If it is selfish to help yourself before you help others, the time is here to be selfish.

There is a prevalent residual "white knight" syndrome left over from the late 1940's. Journalists wearing white armour, bearing white banners, and riding gigantic white horses are galloping thither and yon through our media, virtually reeking of unabashed (and unbiased) idealism. Their vast numbers, however, leave one with the conclusion that their terrestrial residual will indubitably, in the future, become a severe environmental problem.

It will not be surprising if it is found to contribute to cancer, in mice, of course, most likely determined by the Canadians.
