DRN Football Contest

Young Picks 'Em All!

John Young is the winner of last week's Devil's River News Football Contest and will receive a $20 prize.

Young's perfect entry was the first of the year to pick every game correctly.

The pickers must be getting smarter every week as 10 people missed only one game.

William Steele took the second place $10 prize, and Steve Self won the $5 third place prize, both on the basis of the tie breaker.

Others missing only one game were Nash Y. Arredondo, Dora Mata, Joe B. Luttrell, Gus Eustace, Joe Ellis, V.L. Chavez, and Albert Fowler.

Nine other entries missed only two games.

The most often missed games were Crane over Tahoka, Menard over Ozona, Houston over Florida State and Texas over Texas Tech.

Entries should be checked to make sure name, address and phone number are written plainly and all games have a winner indicated.

Entries may be mailed in, but they must be postmarked on or before Friday and received no later than Saturday's mail.

Entries brought into the office must be left no later than 4 p.m. Friday.

Senior Citizens, Citizen of the Year

Vander Stuckens, Polocek Honored

Three outstanding Sonora citizens were honored last Saturday evening during the awards ceremony at the Chamber of Commerce annual banquet.

Joseph and Mabel Vander Stuckens were presented the Senior Citizen Award for their outstanding extended service to Sonora, and Virgil Polocek was recognized as the Outstanding Citizen of the Year.

Joe David Ross presented the awards to the outstanding citizens, capsulizing individual contributions to the community.

"There is just no way to measure all the personal efforts Joseph and Mabel have given to Sonora through the years," Ross commented.

Ross also outlined a long list of public service projects that Polocek has participated in during the past year...park association, band boosters, soil conservation, 4-H club, little league and a variety of individual contributions to friends, neighbors, church and Lions Club.

Following the presentation of awards, U.S. Sen. John Tower (R-Tex) delivered a brief speech, aiming verbal blasts at the growing federal bureaucracy the "poorly planned and grossly inadequate" energy legislation and the heavy-handed attitude of the federal government toward the ranching industry.

Tower delighted the audience with his sharp criticism of the federal government interference in Texans' daily lives.

After his speech, Senator Tower invited questions, and spent almost 30 minutes answering Sonorans' concerns.

"Senator," one member of the audience asked, "what do you think about this 55 mile per hour speed limit?"

"I said at the time it came up," Tower answered, "there is no way you're going to get Texans to drive 55 miles per hour...you just can't get anywhere in Texas driving that slow."

Most of the questions centered on domestic issues, particularly the uncertainty of the natural gas pricing under the recently passed energy compromise.

"This bill will not work, and we will be back on this subject next year," Senator Tower commented.

"It is too complicated, it does not give adequate incentive to the producer and it is discriminatory to Texas," he emphasized.

Mayor Pro Tem Hershel Davenport introduced the speaker, following the awards presentation.

John Tedford, immediate past-president of the chamber served as master-of-ceremonies for the annual event.

A banquet meal was served to guests, complete with table arrangements under the direction of Linda Hunt and Effie Harle.

"You have done a magnificent job on decorating," Mrs. John Tower commented during the evening, "we have been to just hundreds of banquets, but this is just simply great."

Tables were covered with quilts provided by Linda Hunt and special flower arrangements with candles by Effie Harle.

The 4-H center was decorated throughout with branches of live oak, and tables were set with eight to 10 at each.

A volunteer group of 30 young ladies from Sonora High School provided table service for the guests.

"We are extremely pleased with our banquet this year," Chamber of Commerce president Wes Burnett commented, "we have set a tradition of providing Sonora a top-notch annual banquet, and we believe this year's was just super...puts a lot of pressure on us to do even better next year."

Triplex Sign Company works at hanging the new Chamber of Commerce sign downtown Friday morning.

The sign arrived appropriately just in time for the Chamber of Commerce banquet Saturday night.

History Books Still on Sale

Copies of the Sutton County History Book are still available for purchase and will be for a short time longer, according to the Sutton County Historical Society.

However, do not think that this means that you can put off placing your order for all of the copies you will want and need indefinitely.

After all of the material for the book is submitted to the publishers, book orders will cease, and only the number of books ordered and paid for at that time will be printed. There will be no copies available after publication.

Many people feel like one copy will be sufficient for the entire family.

This may be true in some cases. For instance, if a couple has no children, there really might be no need to have more than one copy. However, if there are children in the family, who gets the book?

This book has the potential to become a collector's item as it is a limited edition. Many family arguments have begun over who actually has the right to maintain possession of the family copy.

Do you want your family split up over something that could so easily be avoided? If not, take care and be sure you order enough books for everyone to have their own personal copy.

Order your books by contacting the Sutton County Historical Society, P.O. Box 1145, Sonora, Texas 76950.

Tower Discusses Problems of Sonorans

by Don Holdridge

"The big problem is we have more people in Congress representing states that eat beef than we do states that produce beef," Sen. John Tower said in a short press conference at San Angelo Saving Association Office preceding the Sonora Chamber of Commerce banquet last Saturday.

The senior Texas senator readily addressed the problem of President Carter's hike in beef import quotas.

He explained a bill which had already passed the Senate would provide for a reduction in quotas and a cyclical quota system that would not allow an increase in quotas except in cases where domestic production suffers a shortfall.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen is the prime sponsor of the bill and Tower is a co-sponsor.

Sen. Tower went on, "These people don't understand the economics of the cattle industry."

"They think high prices are due solely to high prices down on the ranch, when in fact we all know the big cost comes in between the time the beef leaves the ranch and gets to the dinner table."

Tower stated his opposition to any legislation which would make for criminalization of employees of illegal aliens, an act which could be very serious for agriculture production.

The Republican senator also added, "If we have to educate their children (the illegal aliens), it should be with federal assistance since it was a federal edict that forced the ruling on the issue."

Approaching energy legislation firmly Tower said, "I am strongly opposed to continued regulation, and I am opposed to the gas conference report in the Senate."

"We tried to get the bill sent back to conference, but we lost that battle."

The senator explained he was the sponsor of the deregulation bill which had passed the Senate, and he had garnered 34 Republican votes for the act.

However, the House passed the Carter version of the energy bill and this bill has taken precedence.

"The best way to produce more oil and gas in this country," Tower said, "is to deregulate the price of gas and decontrol the price of crude also."

"Instead of allowing prices to rise to a market-regulated level, we are forced to allow them to rise to a government-regulated level."

Tower said the energy bill in its present form would be a regulatory nightmare with 23 different set of pricing guidelines, and would probably never be workable.

The senator added he would also like to see the restoration of tax incentives for petroleum production.

The legislator also had a ready answer for the ever-increasing control of big government in the private sector.

"I am co-sponsoring a bill that would require any agency who promulgates any major regulation to produce a private impact statement to determine what it would cost the government and taxpayers to regulate it," Tower said, "and the bill would also contain a congressional signoff."

"This would put pressure on Congress since naturally Congress relies more heavily on public sentiment than on the persuasion of the bureaucracy."

Naturally Tower had some comments on his current campaign, which he said was progressing nicely, and his opponent, Rep. Bob Krueger.

"My opponent is pretty insensitive to the needs of most Texans. He has spent most of his adult life in the East and abroad," Tower said.

"He voted for the labor reform act, he voted for the (Washington) D.C. representation act, he voted to triple Social Security taxes, all directly opposed to the best interest of Texans."

It would be easy to assume that Tower, who has been in the Senate since a special election to replace Lyndon B. Johnson in 1961 was held, was merely saying what he knew Sonorans and most West Texans wanted to hear—just playing the political game.

But even a quick glance at his 17-year record in the Senate will quickly prove Tower is strongly committed to these issues.

Reflections...

by Rev. Jim Miles
Rationalization justification seems to be running rampant. We kid ourselves by rationalizing away our failure to do this or that or the other.
The truth is, we do what we want to do. To be more specific, we each have a set of priorities, and whether we have actually gone to the trouble to commit them to writing they are nevertheless ordered.

We are seldom too tired or too busy to do those things that are high on our list of priorities, that is to say those things that are important to us.

The things we don't do, the things we neglect, the things we "forget about" are simply not very important to us.

My reflection is that we should do several things. First, we should make a list of those things we do each week and then order them according to some measurable criterion, such as amount of time or money invested in each item, or perhaps by degree of enjoyability. Then, we should take a good hard look at the order in which they fall. Church attendance can hardly be a high priority, for instance, if we have not attended in several months. Family life may not be as high as we think it is when we note the number of times recently the children have been left with sitters while we have played, met, etc. ad nauseum. Then we should consider rearranging our priorities so that what we profess and what we practice are congruent.

Services Held for Mrs Zada Sue Bates

Funeral services were held September 27 in Junction for Mrs. Zada Sue Bates, 69. Burial was in Junction Cemetery.

Mrs. Bates died in Sid Peterson Hospital in Kerrville September 26.

Surviving her are her husband, Joe Bates; two sisters, Margurite Turney of Sonora and Thelma Bishop of Junction; one niece and four nephews.

Mrs. Bates lived on a ranch between Kerrville and Bandera.

Serving as pallbearers were Frank Adkins, Robert

Kelly, both of Sonora; Zake Turney of Clyde, James H. Woods of Kerrville, Jack Bates of San Angelo, and Robert Hutchins of Bandera.

Denise Neal Elected as Band Pres.

Denise Neal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Smith Neal, was elected 'Mighty' Bronco Band President.

Denise, a senior, has been a flute player of the Bronco Band, Piano Bass player in the Stage Band, and was flag captain last year.

Cody Savell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Savell, was elected band vice-president of the Bronco Band. Cody, a senior also, has been percussion player, and trap drummer for the Stage Band.

Both Band students were selected by secret ballot, voting by the members of the 'Mighty' Bronco Band.

Minister Speaks

It sounds like a mystery. It is a mystery of God's love in action. In all the ages of the earth God has revealed His plan and His work. He has spoken directly. He has shown Himself in His actions with individuals and with whole nations. He has recorded His will and His ways in the words of His prophets and apostles. This revelation of God's will and works His people call the Christian faith. As God enters the heart of each individual believer, the Christian confesses:

Sonorans Attend Circuit Assembly in San Antonio

Local Sonorans were privileged to be in attendance at the Municipal Auditorium in San Antonio Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 when a Circuit Assembly was held.

The Assembly was based on the theme "Rendering Sacred Service With Loyalty," Luke 1: 74, 75.

The delegates were encouraged to render service with loyalty in all aspects of their lives.

Their first and primary loyalty is to Jehovah God.

Secondly, thier loyalty to their Christian Brothers should always be there for everyone to see.

And thirdly, their loyalty to their friends and neighbors is displayed by their seeking every opportunity to show Christian love to them, not only in attempting to study the Bible with them but to be genuinely interested in them by showing human kindness.

Saturday Morning's program ended with the baptising of 36 people who have studied the Bible extensively for the past six months or longer, and have made a dedication to do God's will.

The afternoon program gave experiences of one who have overcome real obstacles to be able to continue serving Jehovah. Also was talks given on how to withstand the spirit of Materialism that is so prevalent in this world.

It was pointed out that this is one of the sneaky ways that Satan has of making persons draw back in their service to God.

The Assembly program was brought to an inspiring climax when exactly 5,000 persons heard the discourse "Meeting the test of Christian Loyalty" by a traveling overseer of Jehovah's Witnesses, W.S. Brandozzi.

Experiences about the bans in other countries were given and the question was asked: What would you do in this case? Truly a very encouraging program.

Marlene Evans Named Girl Scout Neighborhood Leader

Mrs. Roy G. Evans (Marlene) was approved as neighborhood chairman for Sonora at the September 16 Board of Directors Meeting of the El Camino Girl Scout Council held in Rocksprings.

Mrs. Evans has been a Brownie and Junior leader in San Angelo and Sonora for seven years, the past two years in Sonora. This fall, she volunteered as troop organizer for Sonora and has organized ten troops, starting with only three left from last year.

"We also hope to get Cadette and Senior troops started soon," Mrs. Evans said.

Mrs. Evans attends the Church of the Good Shepherd, is a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, and the Kappa Gamma Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha. Her husband is a teacher and coach at Sonora High School, and she has three daughters: Tonya, age 15;

Leah, age 11, and Dana, age 4. Mrs. Evans is looking forward to a "fresh, new start" for Girl Scouting in Sonora. The girls will begin selling Girl Scout Calendars soon and have many activities and events planned for the fall and next spring.

High School Offers CVAE Course

by Don Jones,
Principal SHS

New to the curriculum at Sonora High School this year is a course entitled C.V.A.E. or Coordinated Vocational Academic Education. This is a two hour elective course designed to train students in the various trades of the construction industry.

The six basic units covered in this course include training in carpentry, masonry, painting, cement finishing, electrical wiring, and plumbing.

Students in the C.V.A.E. are trained in the many skills needed in performing various operations and job orders for each construction area. The ultimate goal of C.V.A.E. is that at the end of the course the students will be prepared to assume a skilled position in the construction industry.

The C.V.A.E. program is being taught by Mr. Reymundo Roman.

Mr. Roman, formerly of Marfa, has a wide range of teaching experience in the vocational fields. His experience includes a term as instructor of vocational teachers in training at East Texas State University.

The C.V.A.E. program is an excellent addition to the Sonora High School curriculum. Any interested parents or citizens are urged to visit the C.V.A.E. shops located in the new vocational building.

Mike Sipes discusses the features of the new G.M. cars with Bill Mobley during grand showing of the 1979 models last Saturday at Ken Braden Motors. Drawings were held for prizes with Pauline Luttrell, Bill Scott, Effie Harle, Dois Badgett, Carroll White and Mike Kinard the winners.

Clerk Advises Businesses

Erma Lee Turner, County Clerk states that, in order to comply with Sec. 36.13 (d) of Chapter 36, Title 4, Business and Commerce Code of the State of Texas, assumed name certificates filed prior to August 29, 1977, pursuant to Articles 5924 and 5924.1, Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, will become null and void after December 31, 1978, unless before December 31, 1978, a new certificate is filed in the office of the county clerk and of the Secretary of State, if applicable. This affects persons or corporations which regularly conduct business or render professional services in this state under an assumed name.

Dr. C. F. Browne Honored

Dr. Charles F. Browne waves his thanks after receiving a special award before the kickoff last Friday night in the Bronco's game against Reagan County. Dr. Browne was presented gifts as a token of esteem for his work as team doctor for the Broncos. In his 33 years in Sonora, Dr. Browne has never missed a Bronco game and has treated both Sonora and opposing players.

Bronco Bits

by Annabelle Gonzales

Congratulations! to the Mighty Bronco Band for a fine performance last Friday night. The band performed a difficult routine that consisted of circles and diamonds.

The Bronco Band has been working hard with at least one practice a night during the week. They have also acquired new uniforms for the band members, twirlers and flags.

The uniforms make the band look proud and neat. Way to go band and keep up the good work! The high school had a good pep rally last Friday night. The cheerleaders performed a humorous skit with Trina Powers playing the leading role.

The skit was based on a cheerleader trying to get to a Friday night game on time and all the trouble she runs into on her way.

Mrs. Cade played a part in the skit, but it ended up as a joke on her.

Winning the spirit plaque last Friday was the sophomore class. This is the first time the sophomores have won.

Manual Lopez and John Paul Bautista were captains for the game and Mr. Jones, high school principal, served as speaker.

The Broncos creamed (sic) the Reagan County Owls by a score of 33-0. They played a great game and we wish them good luck when they go face the Junction Eagles this Friday. Kickoff will be at 8 p.m. Go Broncos.

The freshmen and J.V. traveled to Kerrville last Thursday night. Unfortunately both teams were defeated.

The freshmen and junior varsity will host Ozona here this Thursday night.

The games will start at 5:30. Good luck! I would like to point out that some of the high school girls are working hard after school on basketball. The gym has been open every day after school until 6 p.m. and sometimes even later. The girls are looking for a good season.

The girls are under the direction of new head coach Walter Holik and assistant coach Gay Adams.

A few boys have also been working on basketball after school. The boys will be coached by Bill Shaw.

Both the boys and girls basketball program will be looking forward to and grateful for your support in the upcoming basketball season.

Second Thoughts...

by Tom Driskell

If one knocks around this world long enough and is a willing observer, it is amazing the variety of picnics one can encounter. They can vary in entree from lambs' eyes barbecued over camel dung in Basara through sun dried grasshoppers in Nigeria to snails, sole and wine in the Bois de Bulogne. Picnics also have one other characteristic; regardless of what is served there is always someone who does not like it at all.

Having knocked around many picnics-free food has always had a tremendous appeal, the various corn chips will have to go some to equal the "crunch" of sun dried grasshoppers. A recent picnic was quite surprising, in retrospect, almost nobody liked it, and the variety of food was fantastic.

The picnic in question was the recent "clam bake" held in the hills of Maryland at a cost of two million dollars, or was it five? No complaints about the food, you could have anything you wanted on the cuff (the U.S. taxpayer cuff). The complaints mostly center on the socio-economic and political activities at Camp David.

What did those activities accomplish? The most obvious accomplishment was voluninous verbiage which said in essence that everyone was in favor of motherhood and apple pie, not entirely unexpected.

An Israeli newspaper pointed out that Jimmy Carter, since his spiritual rebirth, that such a point was made of during his political campaign, has apparently adopted as his messianic mission, the restoration of peace to the holy land. No mean task considering that the hatreds which create the mid-eastern unrest are a thousand years old.

None of the concerned parties except the direct participants seem to care at all for the so called accord. Begin and Sadat are astute and politicians and the apparent concessions made make one wonder what sort of inducement was provided to create the accord, although statements made subsequently indicate it was not understood, even by the individuals affixing their signatures.

President Carter has laid on the line what limited prestige remains to the United States, and if subsequent talks do not go well, place in jeopardy our oil imports. The key for you and I to watch will be the Saudi Arabians. The place to watch them is the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries next conference. The price line has been held by Saudi and their real feeling about the accord should be evident in OPEC first, and your gas pump next.

It is too early to evaluate the Camp David picnic, but the risks, in terms of the desired results seem prohibitively high. We can only hope that this is not the debacle that the battle of words against inflation has turned out to be.

One must wonder if five pounds of frankfurters (all beef), some buns, mustard, kosher dills a long with a portable grill and cold cola for a total price of $25 would not have accomplished the same thing. It has been said that, at least, we have the two sides talking. Talk is a cheap commodity, totally separated from meaning in many cases. Unless my memory fails me it seems that the two sides were talking on December 5th and 6th of 1941.

RRC Sets Oil Producing Allowable

The Railroad Commission Sept. 20 set the statewide Texas oil producing allowable for October at 100 percent of market demand, with the exception of ten fields that are assigned lower permissive flow rates for conservation purposes.

October will be the twentieth consecutive month Texas oil allowables have been pegged to the maximum market factor and the 76th time since the Commission went to the 100 percent allowable for the first time in April 1972. The oil allowable on Oct. 1 is estimated to average 3,603,724 barrels daily with actual production estimated at 2,836,000 barrels daily.

Total nominations for Texas crude oil, as filed in written and floor nominations at today's monthly hearing, totaled 3,507,480 barrels daily, a decrease of 20,797 barrels daily when compared to the August nominations.

October nominations for the purchase of gas totaled 23,294,104 Mcf daily, a decrease of one percent when compared to September gas nominations.

Major purchasers of Texas oil filed these floor nominations during today's hearing:

Sun Oil, 120,000 barrels daily, down 1,200 barrels from August; Diamond Shamrock, 36,000 unchanged; Union Oil of California, 95,000, unchanged; Mobil, 345,000, unchanged; Gulf Oil, 134,000, down 4,000; Cities Service, 100,000, unchanged; Marathon, 6,460, unchanged; Exxon, 640,000, down 4,500; Amoco, 310,000, down 5,000; Conoco, 56,000, unchanged; Texaco, 124,000, unchanged; Shell, 240,000, up 3,000; and Phillips, 115,000, unchanged.

Commissioners Jon Newton and John H. Poerner accepted testimony from 14 purchasing company representatives. Chairman Mack Wallace did not attend the session because of an eye infection.

Newton reported to the audience that crude oil and petroleum products imports into the United States were 8,179,000 barrels per day for the four week average of Sept. 8.

Newton concluded the hearing with this statement:

"As the figures indicate, October demand for Texas gas had declined one percent more for a total five percent decline over the last 60 days. This is due largely a seasonal drop. The major portions of the market is in Texas—where October weather is relatively comfortable without using energy to heat or cool.

"The Statewide Oil and Gas Hearings will be held quarterly next year—as was announced in June. The Commission will be informing you as early as possible of the changes in reporting that will be made. We are considering no longer requesting additional demand for oil. Only a few companies are using this as a method of indicating demand for more domestic oil. Our imports of eight million barrels per day provide sufficient indication of the shortage of domestic production.

"Alaska's million barrel per day increase in production since the opening of their pipeline last summer slowed the exchange of U.S. dollars for foreign oil over the past year as evidenced by decreased imports. But imports are now approaching previous levels. This results from a growing dependence by industry and utilities on crude oil as a substitute for natural gas. This is a partial reaction to government regulation designed to conserve natural gas and we may now have to reexamine some of our regulatory procedures to determine if they result in an increased dependence on foreign energy sources."

The next Statewide Oil and Gas Hearing will be held Oct. 19 at 9 a.m. at the Austin Hilton Hotel.

Objections Baised On Texas Oil Movement

The Texas Railroad Commission has objected stoutly on three recent occasions to proposals of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission staff that would impede the movement of Texas gas supplies to interstate markets, Commissioner Jon Newton declared today.

Objections were raised twice by Newton in July 20 and September 25 letters to FERC Chairman Charles B. Curtis and in a July 6 speech before a gas industry legal seminar at which Curtis, another FERC commissioner and the FERC general counsel were in the audience at the Sun Valley, Idaho.

The Commission objections were aimed at FERC staff proposals that would prohibit 60-day sales to cope with emergency needs for gas supplies in interstate markets, mostly non-producing states of the North and East.

"The interstate market has had great success in using such (60-day) sales to increase gas supplies when necessary," Newton wrote FERC's Curtis in the Sept. 25 letter.

"Pipeline systems have been able to plan supply needs before curtailments materialized.

"It seems to me that their proposals would prohibit 60-day sales unless curtailment is imminent. Such sales would not be available for general pipeline system needs or for storage during the summer.

"This approach could have the effect of destroying the flexibility built into energy programs necessary to react quickly in time of major threats to service."

Newton accented his comments with an opinion that "any regulation which prevents the flow of gas to the interstate market is not in the public interest."

Newton released copies of his letters to Curtis and his remarks at the Idaho seminar today in the wake of charges that the Railroad Commission has failed to represent Texas by not filing with the FERC any comment on behalf of the state's interest as it pertains to proposed limitations on 60-day emergency gas sales.

The charge was raised in a news release by GOP Railroad Commission Candidate Jim Lacy.

Newton, emphasizing that he does not intend to become involved in anyone's political race, said he was compelled to set the record straight on Lacy's charge.

"We are not going to permit any political candidate to use the Commission as a whipping boy to further his political ambition," he declared.

"We have no record that Mr. Lacy attempted to contact the Commission concerning this matter," he reported.

Newton expressed hope that everyone would check Commission files and records before issuing charges or allegations concerning Commission actions on matters of Texas' interest.

Poerner Urges Texans To Resist

Railroad Commissioner John H. Poerner has urged Texans to mount an all-out resistance to federal intrusions into their intrastate gas market that are expected to be triggered by imminent congressional approval of White House-supported gas policy legislation.

"Texas must do all in its power to resist this federal invasion, not only for the good of the state, but also for the good of the nation," Poerner declared in a statement submitted to the Texas House of Representatives interim subcommittee on energy issues at a hearing here. His statement was presented by J. Randel Hill, counsel for the Railroad Commission's Surface Mining and Reclamation Division.

Texas' future hinges on the production of petroleum and abundant, alternate natural resources, such as lignite and uranium, that lie within its boundaries, the energy and transportation regulatory official maintained. In coal reserves, alone, he cited, Texas has the equivalent of 300 billion barrels of oil.

Poerner said Texas' course on energy matters must be tri-directional:

"Production and perpetuation of incentives which maximize both the production and conservation of the state's oil and gas resources.

"Research and development of the state's coal, uranium, geothermal and solar resources, and

"An ongoing effort by the state to protect its intrastate (gas) market from the kind of federal intrusion that has spelled disaster for the interstate market for almost a quarter of a century.

Poerner said Commission Chairman Mack Wallace and Commissioner

Jon Newton join him in pledging the expertise and available resources of the Commission toward assisting in developing a reasonable and common-sense approach in managing the natural resources of Texas.

"The tradition of the Texas Legislature toward energy matters is one of the high accomplishments," he said and further observed:

"This state has always initiated action long before being told to do so by the federal government."

Poerner pointed to U.S. dependence on foreign sources for 43 percent of its energy supplies.

"If we do not reduce this percentage by promoting domestic production, U.S. national security, in which Texas has a great stake, is dangerously jeopardized," he warned.

The energy official said Texas has produced nearly 40 percent of America's natural gas supplies and 25 percent of all its energy because Texans have been innovative and inventive. "We have been able to do this because we have nurtured an intrastate market which recognized that production of energy and price are interrelated—below that price which falls below the cost of production will not insure additional energy supplies," Poerner declared. "Texas is doing something right" in its efforts to produce energy, "but not the federal government," he assessed.

"As you know," Poerner said, "two days ago the U.S. Senate passed legislation which would open the Texas intrastate market to the kind of federal intervention that has inhibited production of natural gas in the interstate market since the early 1950's."

Tough Talk on Inflation

WASHINGTON—The President's new get tough policy to battle inflation can't be faulted for its aims.

Few will disagree tough measures are necessary if the Administration expects results on its promises to whip double-digit inflation robbing the purchasing power of every American.

What is troubling about reports on the President's new inflation offensive is its direction. Having tried the voluntary approach without much success, the President apparently has concluded tough measures will center around wage and price "standards." That has a familiar ring to it: the inevitable denials signaling the prelude to wage and price controls.

Should the "standards," or whatever else he calls them, prove ineffective, however, he will have proceeded too far in the direction of controls to turn back, despite word games denying such a progression.

It's hard to imagine a worse eventuality. Wage and price controls, as a means to short-circuit higher prices, have been tried before. Their impact on an economy tied to free market principles, proved unworkable and ineffective. They also proved disruptive. No one was satisfied controls were administered fairly.

But conceding tougher measures are needed to curb inflation raises the question: Are there other options the President might consider? Well, his arsenal is not that limited. He could make headway by training his sights on a few of the real sources, not the imagined ones.

In the construction industry, for example, inflation has soared at near uncontrollable rates. The Federal government itself contributes because the Davis-Bacon Act provides the Department of Labor shall establish "prevailing wages" on all projects involving Uncle Sam.

Davis-Bacon, alone, contributes between 5 and 15% to the excess cost of construction, according to the General Accounting Office. And that amounts to a $1-3 billion bite out of the taxpayers' pockets annually.

Suspending the Davis-Bacon Act is an option the President has.

While labor wages have increased sharply over recent years, productivity has steadily declined. The gap between the two continues to widen, which accounts for inflation's continued strength in this country.

Extracting a commitment from labor unions to accept pay increases tied to productivity increases is another Presidential option. It should be pursued.

Scheduled increases in the minimum wage and in social security taxes contradict the Administration's aims to hold down inflationary trends fostered by government.

Postponing these increases, set for January, as many of us have urged, is an option open to the President.

The Administration has criticized government for unnecessary costs to taxpayers. He could join the battle many of us have waged on waste, inefficiency and the expense of regulation—expected to cost taxpayers some $102 billion next year—by pledging his support for measures giving Congress strengthened oversight over the executive agencies responsible for unnecessary regulation and cost.

Realistic monetary and fiscal policy, instead of reliance on deficit spending, would help tremendously. Coupled with tax reductions to increase investment and stimulate economic activity, they would slow inflation's sharp momentum. These are options he has.

Offshore Drilling Produces 126,869 Barrels of July Crude

State and federal leases in offshore Texas petroleum provinces produced 126,869 barrels of crude oil during July 1978 in contrast to 125,431 barrels in the same month of 1977 and 121,396 barrels in June 1978, the Railroad Commission's Oil and Gas Division reported.

Gas well production on offshore state and federal leases amounted to 20,137,706 Mcf in July against 23,567,151 Mcf in a year earlier and 19,137,706 Mcf in June 1978.

Casinghead gas production totaled 294,096 Mcf in July against 194,801 Mcf in the same month of 1977 and 299,283 Mcf in June 1978.

Condensate production on the state and federal leases amounted to 139,753 barrels in July, down from 154,044 barrels a year earlier and down from the 148,405 barrels in June. Wells on state offshore leases in July produced 88,665 barrels of oil, 233,808 Mcf of casinghead gas, 14,700,289 Mcf of natural gas and 137,993 barrels of condensate.

In July 1977, offshore state leases produced 113,111 barrels of crude oil, 165,959 Mcf of casinghead gas, 17,352,151 Mcf of natural gas and 148,683 barrels of condensate.

Through July 1978, cumulative production in state and federal waters off Texas totaled 18,294,708 barrels of crude oil and 2,659,562,796 Mcf of natural gas. January-July 1978 production totaled 893,809 barrels of crude oil, 2,211,086 Mcf of casinghead gas, 150,245,882 Mcf of natural gas and 1,129,489 barrels of condensate.

Sutton County Ranch News

Sutton County Extension Program Building Committee Secretary James Hunt reads the minutes to open the committee's semi-annual meeting.

Projects completed by the extension office and others underway or planned for the future were the main topics of discussion.

Past Year's Project Discussed By Program Building Committee

Projects completed and those planned for next year were the highlights of the annual Sutton County Extension Program Building Committee with 20 persons in attendance.

Sutton County Extension Agent Clint Langford gave reports on extension programs during the last year.

He named 22 meetings held during the year with 2,980 persons in attendance and 24 result demonstrations that had been given.

Extension Agent Sarah Mahon gave the report on 4-H projects and activities which included 136 agriculture demonstrations, 72 home economics demonstrations and 75 other agriculture activities.

The total of 283 4-H projects was an increase of 60 over the previous year.

Adult home demonstration activities had a total of 272 participants. Three home demonstration clubs were organized since February with 20 meetings held and 41 members enrolled.

James Hunt, chairman of the Resource Development Committee reported on the activities of the committee during the year which included a committee meeting to plan CRD activities for the year on May 11 and a community wide meeting on June 26.

Hunt pointed out the purpose of the committee was to bring together local government, organizations, industries, businesses and individuals to help them identify and understand alternative solutions to community problems.

Local government and organizations with the help of businesses and individuals, have responded in a positive way to the needs that have been identified.

One primary project that has been selected by the Chamber of Commerce to pursue is a promotion program to get U.S. Highway 27 routed through Sonora.

Herbert Fields reported on the 4-H Center Building Committee's Activities since the last meeting.

This included a complete paint job of the exterior of the 4-H Center and the storage building which was necessary because of hail damage.

The restrooms, hallway and all interior doors were also painted.

Two large ceiling exhaust fans were installed in the 4-H Center and a vent-a-hood was installed over the stove in the meeting room.

Fields also reported that the land at the 4-H Center and the Sonora-Sutton County Community Park had been deeded to Sutton County and the Berger Estate was in the process of deeding the parking lot at the 4-H Center to the county.

Jerry Gilley, Chairman of the Park Board, reported on the progress that has been established on the play ground area, picnic area, on the open area and the site where a third baseball diamond is to be located.

Two baseball diamonds have been fenced and in use this year and it is hoped that a turf can be established on them by next baseball season.

Money through the memorial fund is available for the renovation of the grandstand.

Joe David Ross discussed the proposed master plan for the future development of the 4-H Center and park.

A joint meeting of the Park Boards pavilion committee and the 4-H Center Building Committee is planned to work out the details in the near future.

Langford reported that the county extension agents would be working with the various extension committees during the next few months in developing plans for the revision of the County Program Building Handbook.

It is hoped this can be accomplished by the spring meeting.

Decision Pending on 2, 4, 5 - T

Ranchers and forestry people will still have to sweat the Environmental Protection Agency's decision of 2,4,5-T for a few more months, but the picture looks a little brighter now than it did when the federal agency first announced the review last spring.

EPA assistant administrator Steven Jellinek and USDA assistant secretary M. Rupert Cutler both toured West Texas recently to visit with producers and get a first-hand look at how what they do in Washington affects what folks do in the real world.

Jellinek is the fellow in charge of toxic substances for EPA and Cutler holds sway over, among other things, the U.S. Forest Service.

Jellinek is thus directly concerned with the future of 2,4,5-T and Cutler, through his Forest Service and ASCS connections, also wields a lot of power in that area.

Considering the instinctive knock most bureaucrats display for avoiding a commitment one way or the other on almost any topic, both men appear to have been at least mildly impressed by the need for 2,4,5-T in West Texas.

Jellinek was quoted by news media representatives as saying that EPA has so far been unable to find any evidence against the herbicide strong enough to justify cancelling its registration.

Furthermore, he said, no decisive action can be expected before next spring at the earliest.

That last little bit is not quite as reassuring as it might seem, of course, because little concerted T spraying will be done the rest of the year, anyway; optimum control periods for brush are well behind us at this late date.

If indeed an unfavorable decision is reached by next spring, it will be well timed to devastate spraying schedules for next season.

Enough pessimism, however. It's time to review an optimistic note or two.

First, it could just be that someone has finally come upon an acceptable dosage level for TCDD, the toxic impurity of 2,4,5-T that's at the root of the whole problem.

TCDD is found in very minute quantities in the herbicide and so far the powers that have persisted in maintaining that they do not know how much of it humans can tolerate without exhibiting ill effects. The term they use is "no adverse effect level."

An Oregon pathologist, Dr. William McNulty, has hit upon a level that's at least acceptable in his opinion.

According to theory, (and that's about all anyone has when it comes to 2,4,5-T and TCDD) the highest-risk group among humans is that of pregnant females.

Both birth defects and miscarriages are charged against TCDD though none have ever been positively linked, much less proven.

It follows, however that if a given dosage can be considered safe for pregnant females it should be even safer for everyone else.

McNulty's "maximum allowable level" is based on the level of TCDD that he fed--without harm--to a group of pregnant monkeys. He then divided this dosage by 100 to give a safety margin for differences in human metabolism.

What he came up with was an equivalent of a fifth of a teaspoon, or one gram, of 2,4,5-T over a three week period. This is based on the "dirtiest" T the law will allow, and most commercial formulations today have as little as one-tenth the TCDD that McNulty is allowing for.

At any rate, EPA in an unrelated study determined the approximate maximum amount of 2,4,5-T that an individual could expect to absorb and inhale during an eight-hour day of spraying with a backpack sprayer. (They detailed several methods of application, but the backpack gave by far the highest absorption.)

Their figures show that a 120 pound woman could expect to absorb and inhale no more than 4.4 thousandths of a gram of 2,4,5-T per day, or 92.4 thousandths in three weeks of spraying 7 days a week.

Eagles Considered Junction's Best Team In Years.....

Eagles May Be Tough Competition

The Sonora Broncos have remained virtually unscathed through four games this year, but the possibility of a tight contest seems probably as the Red Hosses travel to Junction for an 8 p.m. battle.

The Broncos have rolled along easily since their season-opening tie with Coleman, but Junction folks feel this could change Friday.

The Eagles have what many people consider their best team in years, and 20 experienced seniors on the squad tend to emphasize the fact.

Tailback-middle linebacker Gilbert Gonzales and wide receiver-defensive back Ricky Smith are two of the reasons for such optimism.

Gonzales, an all-district player for the last three years, had 78 tackles and six interceptions last season.

The Eagles have six offensive and five defensive starters from a 6-4 team that finished second to state semi-finalist Wall in District 9A competition.

The squad sports good size along with overall quickness.

Other top-notch players include tight end Gary

Gardner (6-3, 200), guard Virgil Maldonado (6-0, 184), tackle Rudy Castillo (5-9, 225), defensive back Chet Murr, linebacker Doug Beebe, quarterback Johnny Hughes, tackle Milo Martinez (5-11, 188), guard Roland Low (5-9, 180) and wingback Rocky Daniels.

Coach Lynn Spivey's squad is 3-0 so far this year.

The Eagles whipped Comfort and Ozona the first two weeks of the season, then took a week off before soundly thumping Coleman last week, the two teams' only common foe.

The Junction offense basically runs an I offense, and Sonora coach Jerry Hopkins comments they play tough physical football.

The defense runs a pro 43 alignment. Hopkins says they are big and strong and come right at their opponents most of the time.

The Bronco mentor also said the Eagles would probably be the toughest team his squad will face until district.

On Sonora's side of the coin, the Broncos are beginning to look unstoppable after their 33-0 thrashing of Reagan County Friday night.

Fullback Wayne McLaughlin was the big story last week as he rushed for 203 yards on 10 carries and four touchdowns of 85, 6, 52, and 8 yards.

The Broncos overall amassed 397 yards total offense, 373 of it rushing.

Two of McLaughlin's scoring runs came in the second quarter when the Broncos tallied 20 points. He also scored one Benny Granger moved from his customary quarterback slot to the fullback position during the waning minutes of Friday night's slaughter of the Reagan County Owls. The Broncos moved to the one-yard line on this drive but the Big Lake defense stiffened and Sonora turned the ball over on downs.

Varsity, Freshmen Lose To Kerrville

The junior varsity and freshman teams returned from Kerrville last Thursday, each carrying a loss in their pocket. The junior varsity Broncos fell 32-6 while the freshmen were shutout 27-0. Quarterback Johnny Doan scored the lone touchdown for the J.V. on a quarterback sneak, but the extra point attempt failed. Coach Roy Evans said both teams played well in places, but they were just physically outmatched. Both teams will host Ozona here Thursday, with the freshman game starting at 5:30 p.m. and the junior varsity contest immediately following. The junior high Colts will travel to Ozona for two games with the seventh graders playing at 4:30 and the eighth graders playing the second game.

The Bronco Band turned in a fine halftime performance during last Friday night's game against the Reagan County Owls. Band members, twirlers and flags are all wearing new uniforms this year, and this could affect their performance.

Sporting Chance

by Don Holdridge

My picking has been like fine wine—it just keeps getting better every week.
Last week I hit 17 of 19, and still don't know the outcome of the Dallas-Washington Monday night game. It will have to be added in next week.
For the year I've hit 62 of 79 for a .784 average. Crane is still giving me fits, but maybe I'll get them right this time around.
Junction vs. Sonora
The Eagles are an experienced ballclub and should provide the Broncos with their toughest test of the season. The Broncos' play has been superb though. They should win it fairly easily unless they get over confident. Sonora 28-7.
Eldorado vs. Robert Lee
The Eagles get a shot at a former district rival that has dropped to Class B. If Eldorado's confidence hasn't been completely undermined by their tough schedule, they could possibly get their second win of the season. Eldorado 14-13.
Kernit vs. Monahans
This could be a tossup. The Yellowjackets are a good team, but not a great AA team. The Lobos are a good team, but not a great AAA team. Give the larger school the advantage. Monahans 17-14.
Reagan County vs. Crane
If I were smart, I would leave Crane out. I've missed their contest every week, but their defeat of Tahoka spells disaster for the Owls. Crane 31-0.

Ozona vs. Rankin
Rumor has it Ozona is looking for a Pop Warner league to join. The Lions won't win many no matter what high school they play. Rankin 27-7.
Angelo State vs. Stephen F. Austin
The Rams had a near miss with disaster last week. Pity any team that has to play them next, much less the Lumberjacks. Angelo State 35-0.
Abilene Christian vs. Texas A&I
The Javelina's are on a slow downhill slide after years of national greatness, and although the Wildcats have suffered an upset, they are still the defending national champions. Abilene Christian 28-21.
Arkansas vs. TCU
Although Arkansas is undefeated, they are still struggling. But someone told me that up in the Ozarks, Razorbacks eat Horned Frogs for breakfast. Arkansas 35-14.
Baylor vs. Houston
The Bears played Ohio State tough last week but got beat in the second half. The Cougars are a second half ballclub. That's about all the reason I can come up with in what should be a close game. Houston 24-21.
Ohio State vs. SMU
The upset of the week. Woody Hayes' old gray mare ain't what she used to be, and the Ponies are this year's Cinderella team. SMU 35-28.

Oklahoma vs. Texas
I really hate to do this, but I'm afraid I have to give the Okies the nod. The Sooners have too much firepower, even for the Longhorns' stubborn defense. If it were later in the year, and Texas' offense had more time to jell, it might be different. But the time is now, so...Oklahoma 24-20.
Texas A&M vs. Texas Tech
The Aggies look like a steamroller and Tech's bubble burst all over Jones Stadium last week. Texas A&M 42-14.
West Texas State vs. North Texas State
These Missouri Valley Conference foes tangle in an old rivalry that features two of the top contenders for the league title. North Texas State 28-24.
Dallas vs. New York
The Cowboys need to get rolling, and although the Giants have been tougher than anyone expected, they still don't have enoughumph. Dallas 28-17.
Oakland vs. Houston
Every game the Oilers have played has been nip and tuck. Earl Campbell should be back in the lineup this week, and that's enough reason for me. Houston 21-20.
Other Picks...
Alabama over Washington, 27-14; Tennessee over Army, 24-10; Notre Dame over Michigan State, 17-13; Nebraska over Iowa State, 20-17; Tampa Bay over Kansas City, 17-10.

touchdown in both the first and third periods.
Quarterback Benny Granger scored the other touchdown in the second stanza on a 20 run.
Hopkins was naturally pleased with the showing, especially with the offensive line in the first half.
"Defensively we were sound except for a few occasional mistakes," Hopkins added.
Hopkins cited McLaughlin and the entire offensive line as having a good night, while David Reyna, Chase Snodgrass and Dan Lawson had outstanding games on defense.
