Sixty-four 4-H members will exhibit 312 head of livestock in the Thirty-Second Annual Sutton County 4-H Livestock Show and Sale scheduled for January 13, 19 and 20.

Also to be exhibited in the show are 55 lambs, or lamb carcasses, and several pens of rabbits that will be sold in the auction.

4-H members will be awarded prize money for top animals and will be allowed to sell one lamb, one lamb carcass or a pen or three rabbits in the auction.

Weighing in of all lambs will begin January 13 at the 4-H Center. Later that day selection of each member's top lambs to enter in the carcass show, and the selection of the top finewool and top ten crossbred lambs will be made.

judge showmanship.

Friday, January 19, will be the date for the market lamb show scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. The Angora goat show, the breeding heifer show and market rabbits will follow.

Lamb carcasses and results of the carcass show will be held Saturday, January 20 followed by a barbecue luncheon at 11:30.

At noon the auction sale of lambs and the presentation of awards will be held.

Funds raised at the show and sale are used to help finance all 4-H activities during the year and also maintain the 4-H Center.

Buyers may bid as much as they desire in the auction sale. One lamb will be sold in the Chinese Auction to raise money for other 4-H activities. This is the only fund raising activity of the 4-H Club during the year.

Ellis Wins

DRN Contest

Joe Ellis was the winner of last week's Devil's River News Football contest, edging out 12 other entries that, as he did, missed only one game.

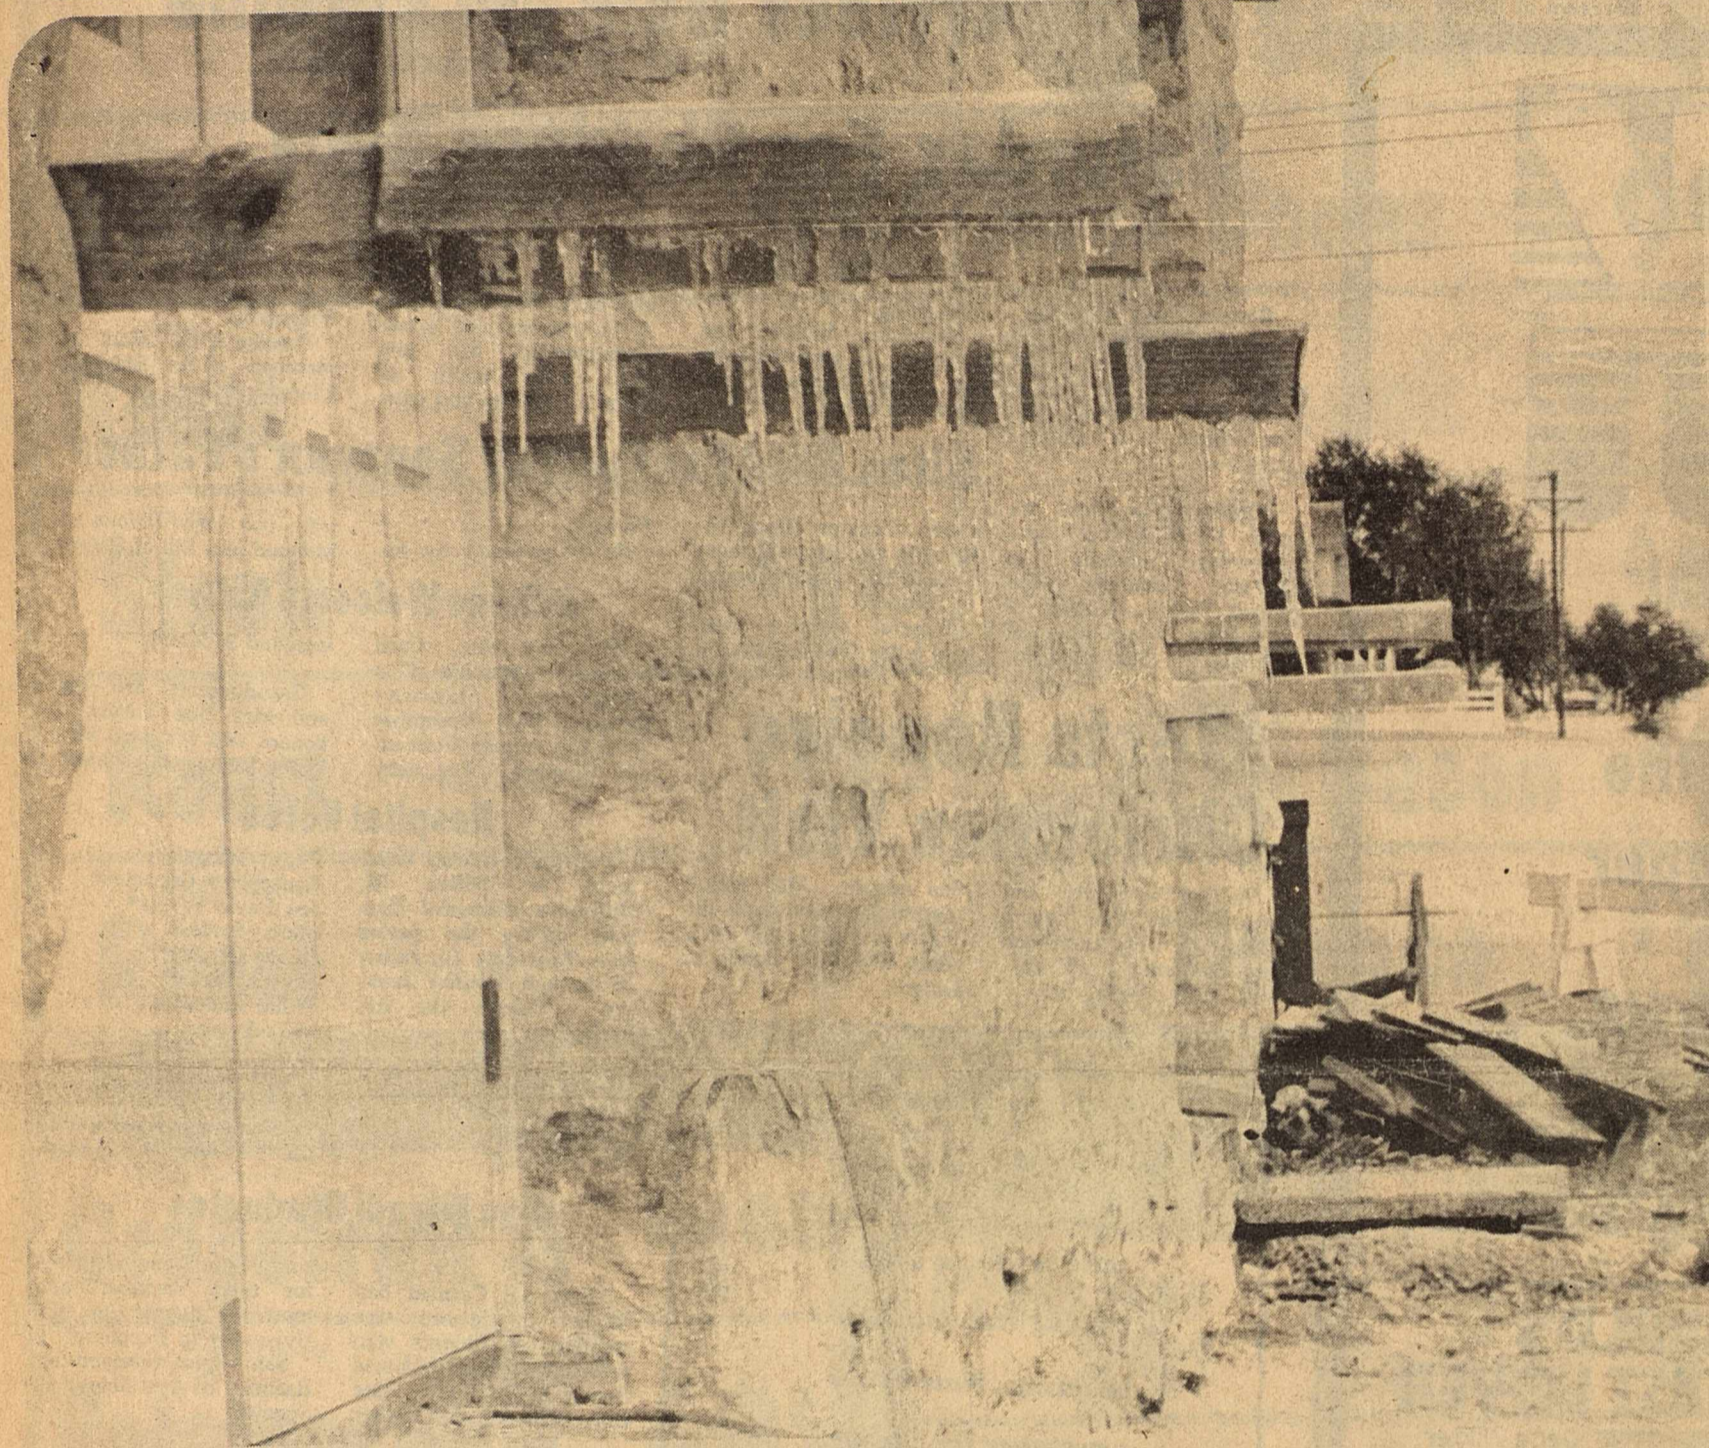

On the basis of the tie breaker, Ellis took the $20 first place prize, while Carmen Martinez won the $10 second place prize and Hazel McClelland got the $5 third place prize.

Others missing only one game were Nash Y. Arredondo, James Blackman, Carmen Martinez, Brenda Edwards, Gayle Gladden, Frances West, Timmy Doan, Winnie Allen and Cleveland Nance.

Another 13 entries missed only two games. People submitting those were Scooter McMinn, Albert Fowler, Carmen Escobar, Warty Alley, Willene Garlitz, James Blackman, Rhonda Blackman, Carmen Martinez, Nash Arredondo, Charlie Adams, Luis Mata and Frances West.

The most often missed games were Pittsburg over Denver, Notre Dame over Houston, Southern Cal over Michigan and Alabama over Penn State.

Watch for next week's double jackpot contest with all entries trying to pick the exact score of the Super Bowl and all cash prizes doubled.

The new year greeted Sonora and most of Texas with a shrill blast of winter. Temperatures plummeted to near zero, while snow flurries, sleet and freezing rain combined to make driving conditions extremely hazardous. Students in many area schools got an extra day added to their Christmas vacation, and the opening of school was postponed until 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in Sonora. The cold weather was also responsible for the cancellation of Sonora's Tuesday night basketball games against Junction.

Growth Outlook Bright for Sonora

While many economic experts are predicting at least a slight recession for early 1979, the outlook for Sonora is still one of continued growth.

Construction will soon start on a new Gibson's. The land at IH-10 on Highway 277 N. has been leased from Joe David Ross, and the opening date has been set for this summer.

A new Sonic drive-in is near completion, and according to manager Billy Burch, should be open sometime this month.

Several current establishments are also slated for a move to new headquarters in the next year.

The new yard for Halliburton Services on IH-10 next to the airport should be ready by March or April, and the law firm of Moriss, Sherrill and Ervine are expected to move in their new offices on Highway 277 N. by February.

The Sonora Independent School District also reflects the community's growth as they are currently building a new junior high adjacent to the campus. Plans call for the building to be completed by June with ample time for the opening of school in August.

The school is also renovating the old gymnasium to accommodate new facilities and is expanding the current lockerrooms at the football field.

Sutton County is not left out of the act either as County Commissioners are processing plans for a new jail and have also appropriated land to house the Women's Club Library.

Along with growth in population comes a growth in housing development. Several new houses are in various stages of completion, and numerous others are being planned. A townhouse complex on East 2nd street is also nearing completion.

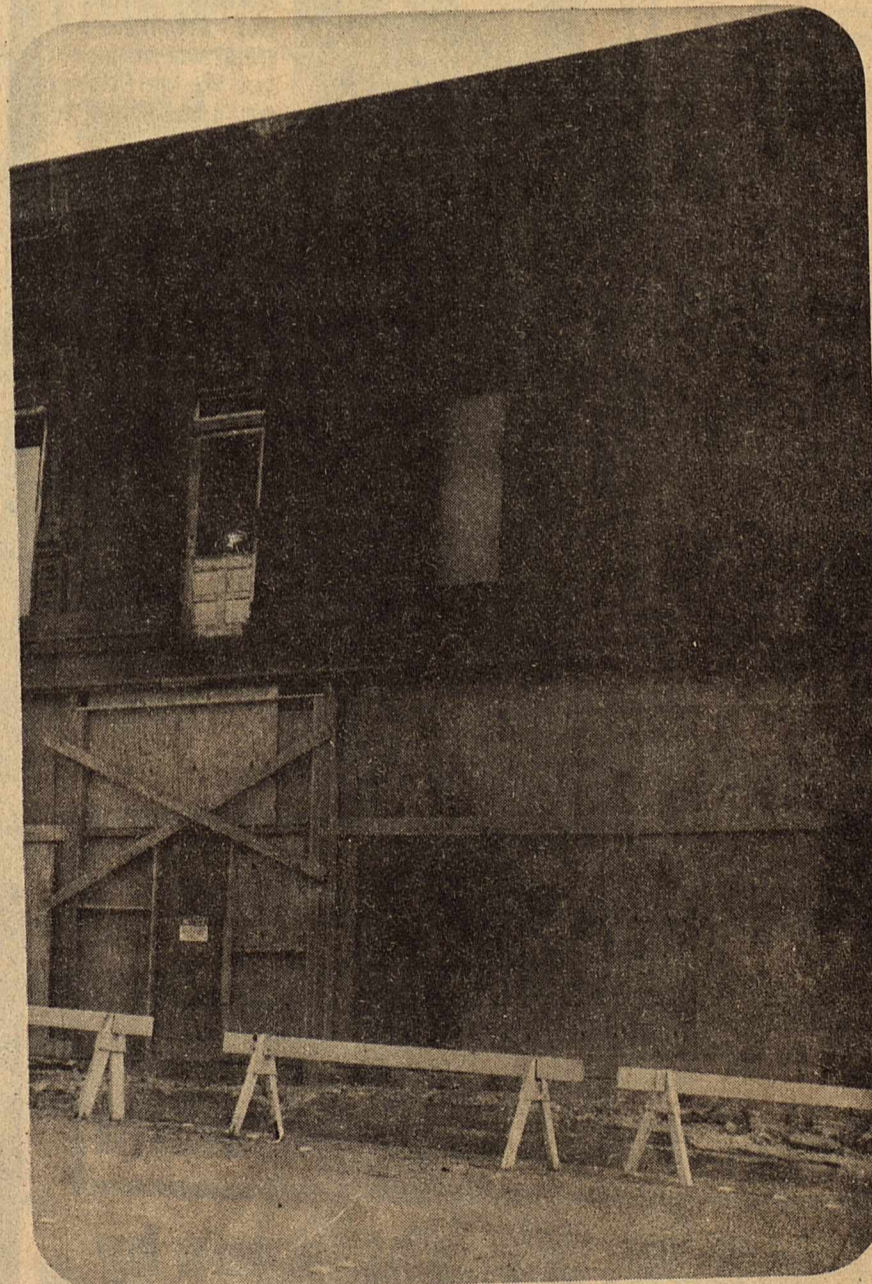

A 10.999 acre tract purchased by Charles Graves and Tommy Thorp from HNG could be one of the most important developments as far as the growth of Sonora is concerned.

The land, at the intersection of Poplar Street and IH-10, is set for development and could do much to alleviate the current shortage of homes afflicting Sonora.

The outskirts of the town are not the only section receiving a facelift. Walter Pope's remodeling of the Mercantile Building downtown is proceeding nicely despite some structural setbacks and should house several businesses and offices once completed.

The growth of the community is also reflected by the churches, and the Church of Christ is currently expanding its old building to include new classrooms, a kitchen area and a larger seating capacity in the auditorium.

With such patterns of growth so easily visible, it is evident Sonora's future is bright. To all of those progressive individuals and businesses who have invested their time, money and energy in the future of Sonora, our hats are off.

The restoration of the Mercantile Building in downtown Sonora is just one example of growth in the community. Some of the building is expected to be in use by February or March, according to owner Walter Pope. Our short deadlines due to the holiday Monday prohibited the running of a picture page as earlier planned, but see next week's Devil's River News for more pictures showing the growth and construction in Sonora.

Second Thoughts...

By Tom Driskell
One looks at the unrest, or revolt, in Iran and feels a twinge of apprehension. It is probably the mightiest blow that has been struck against Israel to date, and a severe backhanded slap against the United States. We have forced some actions that do not look to good. First, in our frantic almost childlike drive for peace in the middle east, we pressured the Israel government to return to Egypt a majority of the oil fields captured in the 1967 war. Second, as an insurance, we guaranteed Israel's petroleum supply, and the government of Iran agreed to supply the oil.

The religious backed movement against the Iranian government is a beautifully executed stroke against Israel, and at the same time, it confronts the Carter administration with a second opportunity for an expediency decision surprisingly like the China-Republic of China decision that everyone seems to be 'bitchin' about. These decisions are block busters, expediency says one thing, in the light of survival, but unfortunately international credibility says something else.

The relative importance of the Iranian Revolt to Israel and the United States is far overshadowed by its relevance to the big losers; the Arabs in the Persian Gulf area. Revolt is a concept more than an activity, and between the concept of revolution and the concept of evolution, only evolution seems to deliver genuine progress.

The problem with revolt is the order that replaces the system destroyed, and the high risk that the resulting disorder will spawn a system entirely beyond the wildest dreams of the revolutionaries. One thing is certain, the brutality which is generally used in restorations of order, and the utter disregard of human rights usually exceeds the system that was destroyed. The Iranian students' alliance with the ultra-conservative religious leaders leaves the impression that as students they are not all together brilliant-somewhere the lesson of Jonesville was overlooked. The track record of the radically conservative religious sects makes the Marquis de Sada appear a docile chicken farmer.

One must essentially sympathize with President Carter, because the resulting crackdown on dissidents in the entire Persian Gulf area is going to leave a trousers at half-mast configuration with regard to his and Andrew Young's lack of flexibility on human rights.

The odds favor a bet that the big winner will be Russia and that down the road four to six years, Iran will emerge as a puppet to Russia.

Cager Games Cancelled

The cold snap which hit Sonora and most of Texas had an affect on almost everything, including basketball games.

The weather was responsible for the cancellation of all four Sonora games with Junction last night. Junction schools were closed, and although the roads might have been passable last night, their School Board policy states that no games may be played when the school is closed for bad weather.

Junior high games at Ozona Thursday night and Junction next Monday are still on tap provided the weather improves.

The boys are also slated for action in the Reagan County Tournament starting Thursday and ending Saturday. They will be joined there by the Eldorado boys.

While the Bronco boys are away, the girls have three games scheduled for Friday night with the freshman playing Reagan County and the varsity and junior varsity hosting Rankin.

The Eldorado J.V. boys will be playing in the Robert Lee Tournament starting Thursday, while the girls will entertain Ozona Friday night.

The Eagles will travel to Lakeview for two games next Tuesday while the Eaglettes will go to Rankin.

Both Bronco boys and girls will host Menard the same night.

See the West Texas Sunday Shopper and Devil's River News for game results.

Sporting Chance

By Don Holdridge

A new radical group was formed last weekend. Calling themselves the Football Widows for Sanctification of the public airways (FWSPA), the angry women (and a few men) started a rampage unequalled in the history of Sonora.

Even the hail storm of last June, the flood of 1976 and the great downtown fire of 1902 were surpassed in the amount of destruction left in the wake of violence of this desperate organization.

The cause of the holocaust? The dilution of decent programming on television, according to Ann T. Boull, acting chairperson of the newly-formed association.

Ms. Boull stated she was forced to originate the group last Saturday when she entered her home to find her husband glued to the boob tube in the middle of the Dallas Cowboy-Atlanta Falcon game.

Without even looking up he said, "Just clean the upstairs today; you can do the windows next week. Just leave your bill, and I'll have my accountant send you your check."

"That was the last straw!" Ms. Boull stated emphatically. "I made a few phone calls and quickly gathered a small army of women who shared my resentment."

The women gathered at the logical center of their complaints--the television cable company where they proceeded to cut all main wires of the system.

Then, dividing themselves into small bands, they began a path to torture and destruction reminiscent of the purges of Stalin, the raids of Hitler's Storm Troops and the invasions during the McCarthy "Red Scare".

It was reported not a single television set was left intact in Sonora by Tuesday morning. Bars and other public establishments showing football games were looted and burned to the ground.

Grown men were seen in front of their homes crying after not being able to see the finish of the Cotton Bowl game. The most humiliating terrorist tactic was when men were forced at gunpoint to scream at the top of their lungs, "Earl Campbell is an Aggie; Harvey Martin is a pansy".

One bright spot of the whole ordeal was reported by a local travel agency as a possible result of the travesty. According to the spokesman, a sudden rash of reservations for vacations to such romantic spots as Niagra Falls, Reno and Palm Springs were being made by many couples.

Reportedly, many males were seen Tuesday afternoon doing such wifely chores as carrying out the trash and mowing the yard. Who knows? This thing might catch on.

Unsubstantiated rumors say that several similar incidents have occurred throughout the nation and that Howard Cossell is already looking for another job and that Don Meredith has been fired as a Lipton tea taster. Be sure to check upcoming editions of this paper for further developments.

Enough of this farce. But it was true there was hardly a minute last weekend when there wasn't a FOOTBALL GAME ON THE TUBE.

No less than nine games interrupted regularly scheduled programming this weekend, and I feel sure many people are glad to see the season winding down to an end.

The final college polls will be out sometime this week, and I might as well take my shot at listing the top 20.

Oklahoma is without a doubt the best team in the nation. The rest of the top 20 in order are Alabama, Southern Cal, Michigan, Penn State, Georgia, Notre Dame, Houston, Clemson, Texas, Arkansas, U.C.L.A., Nebraska, Missouri, Texas A&M, Michigan State, North Carolina State, Navy, Texas Tech and Georgia Tech.

I'm sure there will be some who would disagree with me, but my picking is based on the teams I felt were the best at the end of the season.

Anyway, if the way I choose the rankings is as accurate as the way I picked games last week, I won't be far off. In what should have been one of the toughest weeks of all, I hit seven of nine games, bringing my season total to 216 of 291 for a .742 percentage.

With the AFC and NFC championships slated for this weekend, I'll have to go with an all-Texas Super Bowl.

AFC CHAMPIONSHIP Pittsburg vs. Houston

It's a good possibility that this game should be the Super Bowl. Both the Oilers and Steelers are at a finely-tuned peak, and Dan Pastorini and Terry Bradshaw are both having the best seasons of their careers. This game will probably go down to who gets the most breaks. The Oilers always seem to give the Steelers fits, especially in Pittsburg. Houston 20-17.

NFC CHAMPIONSHIP Los Angeles vs. Dallas

I never liked the expression "can't win the big one", but the Rams seem stuck with it. The Cowboys had plenty of problems getting started last week after having a week off, but that could have been natural as they seemed to get rid of the rust in the second half. Maybe Danny White should be the starting quarterback. Dallas 24-13.

Lice Control Important to Ranchers

Lice cost U.S. cattlemen more than $50 million annually, so it's important to control them, says Clint Langford, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Lice begin to reproduce rapidly with the onset of cool weather, so peak populations on cattle occur in late winter and early spring. Uncontrolled lice can soon infest a whole herd because with cold weather, cattle tend to bunch up more so that the pests can move easily from one animal to another. Heavy hair coats on animals during cool weather also afford protection for the parasites and allow for increased reproduction.

Both types of lice—bloodsucking and biting—infest cattle. Sucking lice pierce the animal's skin and suck blood while biting lice feed on particles of hair, scale, scab, and skin exudation, explains Clint.

Lice infestations irritate animals, causing itching, scratching and rubbing on fences or anything else available. This produces denuded areas, bruises and lacerations on the affected animal. Heavily infested animals will have an unthrifty appearance and will suffer weight reduction, decreased milk production, anemia or even death. Lice infested animals may also be more subject to infectious diseases. Heavy lice infestations often stunt calves.

Spraying or dripping infested animals with the proper insecticide is the most effective means of controlling lice, says Clint.

However, properly placed and maintained dust bags offer effective control and save both time and labor. Position dust bags prior to lice buildup so that cattle can become accustomed to using the bags. A dust bag station should serve about 30 head. Depending on cattle size, place the bags so that they hang 18-24 inches above the ground. Forced-use of the dust bags, where they are placed so that cattle must pass under them to get feed or water, begin to control lice sooner than those used free-choice. By allowing a two-to-three week adjustment period, free-choice bags can be about as effective as forced-use types.

In a spraying or dipping program an animal must receive a thorough soaking in each of two applications 14-18 days apart to effectively control lice, contends Langford. The second spray or dip will kill any lice hatching from eggs that were laid prior to the first spraying. When spraying, use a high pressure (250 pounds per square inch) and thoroughly wet animals to the skin.

For a list of effective insecticides for controlling lice, Clint suggests that cattlemen obtain a copy of "Suggestions for Controlling External Parasites on Livestock and Poultry" at the county Extension office.

Check the label on the insecticide container and pay particular attention to warnings, restrictions and waiting periods, especially if some of the cattle are being prepared for slaughter, cautions the County Agent.

TSCRA President Issues Warnings Proposed Trucking Rules Could Endanger Cattle

The health and safety of livestock must be considered in any change of time/distance regulations for truck drivers, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association warned in a statement to the U.S. Department of Transportation recently.

John B. Armstrong, president of the 14,000-member livestock producer group in Texas, Oklahoma and surrounding states, said the comments came on proposed changes that would drastically cut the amount of time a driver could work within given time periods and would also restrict the number of miles he or she could drive during those periods.

"A few hours' delay in reaching a destination in too hot or too cold weather could seriously jeopardize the health of our livestock," Armstrong said. "Our association and members are interested in keeping our nation's highways safe as possible," he explained, "but we do request that the Department give special consideration to livestock carriers' unique problems."

In Texas and the Southwest, a shortage of livestock carriers already exists and producers are finding it more and more difficult to transport their cattle to market. Burdened regulations would reduce the number of livestock haulers and hike the cost of handling, he said.

The TSCRA statement also pointed out that with the tremendous consumer demand for beef today, it is very important to keep the movement of large numbers of cattle throughout the U.S. as efficient as possible. Unrealistic restrictions on time and distance would severely hamper this efficiency.

Cost Increases For Fed Cattle Seen for 1979

Despite higher prices for fed cattle, the cattle feeding business may well be in for a squeeze in 1979 due to increasing costs. These costs are in the form of high feeder cattle prices.

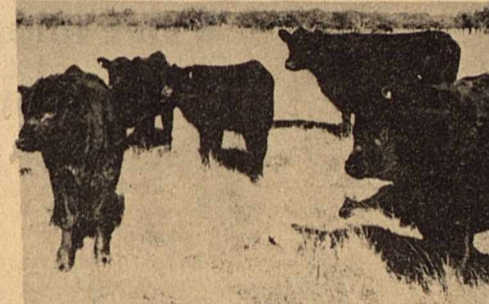

"While there will be good feed supplies at generally favorable costs, people in the cattle feeding business will be faced with higher prices for the cattle they will be putting into their feedlots," reports Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

According to the Texas A&M University System specialist, high feeder prices are a result of two things—massive liquidation of the cattle herd since 1975 which has brought on a dwindling supply of feeder cattle, and inspiration from spring and summer profits in cattle feeding.

Looking at feeder prices, Uvacek points out that Choice yearling steers at Amarillo will average in the upper-$50s (per hundredweight) for 1978, about 46 percent higher than last year. Prices will likely not increase half that much in 1979. However, Choice yearling feeder steers will probably average in the mid- to upper-$60s.

As far as the feeding business is concerned, fed cattle prices should also go up next year and will likely average in the upper-$50s. This rise, however, will depend upon supplies of competing meats and consumer demand, notes Uvacek.

Wallace Expresses Hope for Energy Awareness

The chairman of Texas' oil regulatory agency expressed hope that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries' announced 14.5 percent increase in oil prices will stimulate Washington into the production of incentives to boost oil and gas output in this country.

Mack Wallace, speaking to an audience of industry observers and representatives at the conclusion of the Railroad Commission's monthly hearing to determine Texas' rate of oil production in January, prefaced his expression of hope with an observation that the OPEC cartel is "dictating to us what we pay for the lifeblood of this country."

Referring to recently enacted federal legislation, Wallace declared:

"We have had a national energy policy offered to us that was not designed to provide incentives to the industry. I would hope now that the situation with rising oil and gas prices and with the very critical situation in Iran that there would be some sort of decision within the administration that we must come forward and give incentives to the industry to produce sufficient oil and gas to maintain our position in world affairs and to permit us to once again design and formulate a foreign policy that will be beneficial to the United States."

Wallace and fellow-commissioners Jon Newton and John H. Poerner set the Texas oil production allowable for January 1979 at 100 percent of market demand with the exception of 11 fields that are assigned lower legal rates of flow for conservation reasons.

January will be the twenty-third consecutive month Texas oil flowable has been pegged to the maximum market factor and the 79th time since the Commission went to the 100 percent allowable for the first time on April 1, 1972.

DDE Nixes Import Proposals

Action of the Department of Energy's Economic Regulatory Administration in denying a proposal to import liquefied natural gas "is a serious blow to U.S. gas consumers as will become increasingly apparent in the future," The El Paso Company said last week.

El Paso, which has in operation an LNG project currently bringing Algerian gas to the eastern seaboard of the United States, has proposed a second project which would involve the importation of LNG equivalent of approximately one billion cubic feet of natural gas per day for a period of 20 years to a terminal on Matagorda Bay on the Texas Gulf Coast. This gas primarily will serve El Paso's markets in the West, and a portion is destined for the southeast and eastern areas of the country.

"We believe this gas supply will be needed in addition to other supplies that hopefully will be forthcoming from new discoveries in the lower 48 states; from Prudhoe Bay in Alaska; from Canada and Mexico; LNG from Indonesia, and from domestic supplies of synthetic gas. However, this nation should not gamble that these unrealized supplies will materialize and will be adequate to meet the future needs of the gas consumers. Moreover, the decision reflects a policy to 'drain American first' to which we cannot subscribe. Accordingly, El Paso intends to appeal this decision."
