Loeffler Meets With Sonora

Congressman Tom Loeffler of the 21st District of Texas held a town meeting here in Sonora last Thursday morning.

Congressman Loeffler began the meeting by asking the people of this District to please write him about their problems and opinions concerning the Federal Government and its impact on the citizens of this Congressional District. The San Angelo office address is: Congressman Tom Loeffler, P.O. Box 170, San Angelo, Texas, 76902. The Washington address is: Congressman Tom Loeffler, 1213 Longworth, House Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20515. The Washington phone number is 202-225-4236.

Congressman Loeffler gave the approximately forty people at the meeting a briefing on the present standing of Congress noting that last year Congress had passed 34 major pieces of legislation at this time last year, while this Congress has passed only 15. His point being, that Congress is more aware of not creating more bureaucracy. "Congressmen are actually beginning to ask how much something will cost," Loeffler stated.

On meat import legislation designed to provide American producers some protection from foreign imports, the Congressman said that the bill being sent to the President would be signed or the Congress would override a Presidential Veto.

Regarding inflation, Congressman Loeffler felt the best approach would be three fold: 1) curtail inefficient government programs, 2) cut federal income taxes, and 3) keep the income tax rate to the rate of inflation.

As to the use of 2-4-5-T as a brush control agent, Loeffler said that it still could be used in this manner, but the legislation was still up in the air and could go either way.

Congressman Loeffler also stated that if anyone had a problem getting diesel fuel to call him and he would attempt to help with the problem.

The windfall profits tax rate is 60% as it is now but still must go through the Senate. That is, all profits resulting from increase in prices over the pre-decontrol prices would be taxed at 60%. This will include royalty owners as well as the oil companies.

Congressman Loeffler felt the Energy Mobilization Board proposed by the President is a step in the right direction, but it will still probably take a year to get anything done through the Board.

Regarding the natural gas problem, the Congressman felt that the Natural Gas De-regulation Act is actually slowing down the production due to time required to get a well classification determination. He used the example of Phillips corporation. According to Mr. Loeffler, Phillips has 780 applications pending of which 15 have been determined.

Congressman Loeffler was also disappointed that a separate department of Education had been created. He feels that the local governmental bodies can do a better job with the school systems.

In closing, the Congressman stated that it is time for America to pursue the policy of "America First."

Retired Sutton County Judge Web Elliott was honored with a surprise party hosted by the County employees. He was given a plaque and pen set in commemoration of his 30 years of hard work. Web

Elliott was the County Judge from 1949 until his retirement earlier this year. Judge Charles Sherrill commented, "He did a job that now takes two men to do, it is hard to fill his shoes."

Commissioner's Court Meetings

The Sutton County Commissioner's Court held their regular meeting at 9:00 Monday morning in the Sutton County Courthouse. Numerous items were brought to the Court's attention.

The biggest issue on the agenda was a plea voiced by Mary Barrow and Linda Fisher of the Sonora Women's Club. They asked for a loan from the county for a new building for their library. The old Women's Club Library was built with donations from the city and county, but a new law prohibits this. The Sonora Women's Club Library is now exclusively provided for by the club. All books, maintenance and salaries are paid by dues from the Women's Club. They have had many setbacks of late and funding for the library is nearly depleted.

The Commissioners realize the necessity of having a public library in Sonora and made two suggestions to the Women's Club. One that they change the name of the library to the Sutton County Public Library and two, that they should consider Walter Pope's offer of a lease to the county library of space in the old mercantile building.

The Women's Club representatives agreed to consider their proposals and will ask their club to consider it also. No formal agreement was reached on this issue.

The County Dads approved a number of items in this meeting. Among them was a proposal to authorize Charles Graves, the County Auditor, to accept advertising for approximately 11 miles of fencing for 5 miles of the new right of way. This will join farm to market roads 864 and 2595. The cost of the fencing project is estimated at $50,000.

Ann Hill was appointed and approved by the Court as the new Tax-Assessor Collector. There also was a unanimous vote by the Commissioners to hold the current tax rate of $0.57.

Appointed to the position of County Agricultural Extension Agent was Preston Faris of Uvalde. Mr. Faris will take over the post due to Clint Langford's retirement.

The Airport Zoning Authority requested a board be formed with two members from the City Council and two members from the Commissioners' Court. This board will restrict the height of buildings around the airport. Chosen from the Court as their representatives on the board were Juan Gonzales and Preston Love.

The bid from the firm, West

Supply Company of San Angelo for the new jail furniture was formally accepted by the court.

Also approved by the court was a project to pave approximately 700 feet of road to the city dump. The City and County will work jointly on this project. The approval of a proposal to repave the parking lot at both the 4-H Center and the Senior Citizen's Center was made by the Court.

There will be a special meeting of the Commissioner's Court on August 28th. This special meeting was called so that the Commissioners will be able to map out a budget for the county for next year. Also to be discussed at the meeting will be the increasing insurance costs of the county and the adoption of a resolution for joining into a tax appraisal district.

Clint Langford's 30 Years

For the past 30 years, the people involved in the agricultural industry of Sutton County have been members of a flock, and their lives in some way either as adults or as 4-H Club youths. Few people here have missed coming into contact with this background was in animal science). "I had thought about it (being a County Agent) some as a kid," Langford said. "I thought well of the County Agents I had known as a 4-H'er in Bandera County, but I had really intended to enter business."

Two years into his career here as Sutton County Extension Agent, Langford met, courted and married Nina Smith, a local girl. They raised two children here, Roger, 26, of Alpine, and Claire, 22, of San Antonio.

Sitting in his office in downtown Sonora last week poring over a long list of final reports and other documents necessary for Extension Service retirees, Langford paused to reminisce over his career.

"The primary reason they hired a young County Agent like me in 1949 was to develop an active 4-H program in Sutton County. The county court made that clear from the start," Langford remembers. "They did not have a Future Farmers of America program in the schools here, and they wanted a strong 4-H program to train youngsters for careers in the ranching industry."

Langford set about to achieve that goal immediately, and with what he describes as "overwhelming" involvement and support from the people of the county, he has compiled a record of both youth and adult work here envied by many other County Extension Agents across Texas.

In those years in which Sutton County parents have entrusted their boys high points, and he says the development of the 4-H Center here ranks as one of the landmarks of his career. He said the idea for a 4-H center as a place to hold county livestock shows had already been conceived when he arrived in 1949, but "I never dreamed that the 4-H Center would develop into the Community Center it has since," Langford says with pride.

He recalls that the reason the 4-H Center idea got underway was because there just wasn't any other way the youngsters in the county could hold their livestock show. "We, of course, had a very conservative Commissioners Court, and people here historically have tried to do things for themselves. They just don't believe in asking for state and federal assistance," Langford said.

The 4-H Center was started in March of 1949, just after Langford went from Assistant County Agent in Training to Sutton County Agent status. "We held our county livestock show that year on the courthouse lawn. Since the temperatures were always around sub-zero about that time of year, everyone was in the right frame of mind to build the center," Langford said.

The County Agent said the development of the center has been an evolutionary process ever since. "There is something new out there every year," he said. "Some years there are big changes and other years just a few things." The building most people know as the 4-H Center was completed in 1959, when the money was raised to put a roof on the structure.

The preceding 10 years before 1959 were tough ones for both the 4-H Center and the ranching industry in Sutton County. "We had originally intended to enclose the U-shaped structure when we began in 1949, but then the drought hit. The ranchers who were the primary source of income at our livestock show were in pretty tough shape," Langford said.

"In 1959, we were attempting to have our show and sale outside. There wasn't any way we could have the sale in that old barracks we had as a building out there. We started the sale and we had a downpour. We had finished the show, and were forced to hold the sale back in the hall of the barn. We had people standing in pens and water running through the barn. It was general chaos.

"People were excited about this rain after the drought and we ended up having a 'Chinese Auction' that brought in about $8,000 with the prime purpose of putting a roof over that U-part of the 4-H Center."

Langford also did some innovating with 4-H organization in those early days in Sutton County. An early organization he formed became a forerunner to what the state 4-H organization today knows as the 4-H Adult Leaders Association.

He formed what was then called, the 4-H Parents Club. He says it's formation came about from his inexperience as a county agent and his search for help. "I was desperate," Langford said. "I was looking for help and I knew that organizations such as Band Parents and Parent-Teachers Associations had been successful. It just seemed to me that we (4-H) ought to have an organization like this to help."

"I was in bad shape, I needed someone to turn to, and we found some good leaders who volunteered to get the job done. The County Agent said this early 4-H Parents Club took over a lot of the responsibility for 4-H work in the county which has continued until today. "This has grown into a complex organization," Langford said. "We have a whole list of committees operating now, and they take care of all our 4-H activities."

While his volunteer leaders have done most of the 4-H work, Langford does remember one specific charge he received from 4-H parents in the early years here. "When I first came here, three or four of the fathers came to me and told me the first thing I needed to do was straighten out the discipline in the 4-H Club by whatever method I needed to use," Langford remembers.

The method he chose, Langford admits probably would not work now, but at that time it was very successful. "The problem we had," Langford remembers, was that the boys and girls thought 4-H was primarily for fun and that there were no learning experiences to be had in 4-H. The discipline was so bad that learning could not take place, so I proceeded to get the discipline straightened out first, and then get to the learning experiences later.

Langford remembers one of the most amusing things that happened in his efforts to enforce that discipline. Returning to Sonora from a range judging session in San Angelo one year, he was forced to dose out some discipline.

"We were coming back to Sonora in my old suburban, and the kids had been pretty mischievous that day," Langford recalls. "I kept a scratch pad on the visor of the suburban with their names on it and my old Texas A&M board under the seat. Each time a kid got out of line Langford put a mark by their name for a lick from the board later."

"Well this day about the time we reached the intersection near the old theater on Highway 277 (about the time the Air Base was getting off), I had had all I could stand. I locked the door on my side, took my board and proceeded to unload about eight kids one at a time on the other side. We finally had the traffic stopped for about a mile."

"The great thing about it is that some of those boys who were in that suburban that day are the outstanding 4-H leaders we have in the county right now," Langford said. "I think I have their total respect."

Langford recalls another memorable encounter when one of his 4-H members, again riding in his suburban, proceeded to toss a ripe apricot out the back window into the face of an Air Force cadet who was driving a convertible behind.

"The convertible pulled around me and began forcing me off the road," Langford said. "It upset me terribly. The kids in back were as quiet as they could be, because they knew what was happening. The old boy in the convertible was as mad as he could be about the apricot in his face and I was mad because he was pushing me off the road."

"Finally he (the cadet) forced me off the shoulder of the road, and I jumped out of the car boiling mad. I was ready to take him on, and he was as mad as I was. He said he going to take care of that 'so and so' kid, but I told him if he was going to take care of that kid, he was going to take care of me first."

"I told him I would take care of the kid if he would tell me what the problem was. 'He said, 'well you can see it can't you,' wiping the apricot off his face. Well, the A&M board came into play again and I satisfied the cadet by using the board, and he went on down the road with the problem solved."

"That had to be one of the most trying moments I have had as a County Agent," Langford said.

Another landmark in the career of Clint Langford here has been the growth and development of the Sonora Wool & Mohair Show. It began before his time, but has grown substantially during the past 30 years.

The show involves many local people and has become a major community event each year. "The wool show is not only important to our business community," Langford says, "it is even more important to us in giving boys and girls and adults the training they need in sheep and goat and wool and mohair production. We are trying to give the boys and girls the background they need to go into the sheep and goat business."

In addition to many accomplishments in 4-H, Langford has made significant contributions to the ranching industry in Sutton County. When he talks about these accomplishments, he is again pares to leave day-to-day involvement with the sheep and goat industry in Sutton County believes he is leaving a healthy industry behind him.

"I think the sheep and goat industry has to have a bright future here," Langford said. "This county is ideally suited to running a combination of sheep, goats, beef and wildlife. These have to be vital industries here, and I scared that we might end up one day in a position where we can't get back into the sheep and goat industry as strong as we may need to."

"I suspect that the added income we have had from gas has had an adverse affect on the numbers of sheep and goats here," Langford said. "But it has been good also. Ranchers have been able to build roads, eager to give other people all the credit.

"I am proud that over the years here, I have been able to work with some of the outstanding people in their fields," Langford said. "I considered Fred Earwood (now deceased) to be the outstanding authority, possibly in the world, on sheep and goats."

"Few people in this world get the rare opportunity to work with a man of that stature. Another man was E.B. King, who was the district conservationist here. He, in my humble opinion, was the most outstanding range man in the Edwards Plateau and Texas that we have ever had. I had the privilege of training under him."

"When I came here, I relied heavily on people like Earwood and Jim Gray (then the Extension Service Sheep and Goat Specialist). Those people pitched in and helped me. If it had not been for them, I could not have gotten the job done. They gave me a start."

I took graduate courses also. The first year here I took a sheep and goat course, and the second year I took a range management course. I took them because they were of vital interest here. I wanted to learn as much as I could as quick as I could about those things that were important to us."

As a result of the help those people offered to their young County Agent in 1949, Sutton County wool producers can now claim one of the most outstanding sheep selection programs in the country. More than 90 percent of the county's producers participate in the program each year, and it has enabled them over the years to accumulate a clip that can claim premium prices at selling time.

"Fred Earwood and County Agents before me really lay the groundwork on the sheep selection program in the county," Langford said. "But our 4-H program made it a reality. We would go out and help 4-H members put together a sheep selection demonstration, and these animals would go on and do well. Ranchers finally began seeing this and said, 'by golly, why don't we get into this and make the whole flock this good.'"

Langford, as he pre-think they are going to become more important than ever."

"With our mineral resources going strong now, things are going pretty well for our sheep and goat producers, and we should be taking this opportunity to prepare for the time that we don't have all these resources."

Langford said many people, because of heavy emphasis on sheep and goats, don't realize that Sutton County also is a large producer of beef cattle.

"That's great too," he said, "because usually when one livestock industry is depressed, the other will be up."

One of Langford's disappointments has been the decline in the number of sheep and goat producers in the county. "I have seen a good many people go out of the business primarily because of labor problems, and the problems of keeping sheep and goats in pastures after our mineral development. It is just real hard to keep sheep and goats in pastures and out of neighbors pastures with the maize of roads running across our county."

"Some of our ranchers, with good incomes from mineral development as they have gotten older have been inclined to not worry about this," Langford continued. "I'm make range improvements, build fences and drill water wells. They have been able to do things they never dreamed of being able to do. In fact, gas has saved many of our ranchers from financial ruin."

A 30-year career can hardly pass for any individual without some tragedy. For Clint Langford, his big tragedy came six years ago last May when he suffered a severe heart attack.

With emotion rising in his voice, he talked about that experience in his office last week. "It affected my life tremendously," he said. "I just thank the good Lord I'm here, and I am thankful for good doctors and good people here in Sutton County."

"The days following the heart attack have to be the most gratifying of my career. I saw the leadership in this county come to the forefront. People stepped in and took over. It has to be gratifying to a man to be in the hospital and away from the office for three months and see all our major 4-H and adult activities go on without interruption."

Agent.

While Langford's quiet modesty would never allow him to admit it, a vital ranching industry, a host of civic and community improvements, and almost three generations of Sutton County 4-H'ers are indebted to him. The many changes he has helped bring about and the people's lives touched by his leadership are all superb examples of his guidance of the "flock".

Practically every family living here for any length of time can say he touched

Jan. 1, 1949, when he arrived here to work as an "Assistant County Agent in Training" from Medina County where he had worked for six weeks. The outstanding record of agricultural development and youth work he has compiled since are impressive, especially for a man who "really didn't know that I was going to become a County Agent."

His degree from Texas A&M in 1948 was in agricultural administration (a shock, he says, to many people who thought his and girls to Langford's tutelage, at least three generations of 4-H Club members have racked up impressive records in both the state and nation in wool and mohair judging, grass judging and range management projects.

During those decades, 46 Sutton County Judging teams have returned home from competition with "Best in State" honors, and six times they have carried the county banner to national titles.

Langford is quick to pass the credit for the outstanding record of 4-H winning leaders in the county. "By golly," Langford recounts in his typical Edwards Plateau lingo, "I attribute winning to our 4-H boys and girls who have come back home and been willing to serve as leaders. That has kept the program going strong."

"When I came here, I didn't have any experience," Langford continued. "The only experience I had was the work I had done as a 4-H boy for 8 or 9 years in Bandera County. The people here kind of accepted my inexperience, and that made it easier for me to ask for help. It also made it easier for them to volunteer to help."

"We had people like Cleve Jones, Jr., who was real good with beef cattle. He helped with our beef cattle projects. Gene Wallace was another resource person in beef cattle, and he coached those kids here, until just a few years ago.

Hernandez-Perez Wed

Rosemary Hernandez and Ramiro Perez exchange wedding vows August 4th at 5 p.m. in St. Ann's Catholic Church. Officiating in the double ring ceremony was Father John Waldron.

The bride was given away by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Mario Hernandez. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ricardo Perez.

The brides gown was of ivory quiana and featured a capelet of Irish lace embroidered with seed pearls, a high neck and cap sleeves. The lace trim was repeated on the front of the gown extending the length of the train. She wore a hat made of the same lace with waist-length petal tiers of silk illusion. The bride's bouquet was of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath with English ivy.

For something old, the bride carried her mother's gloves worn by her on her wedding day. Something new was a ring given to her by the groom as a wedding gift. Something borrowed was her sister's diamond rose ring, and something blue was a garter worn by the bride.

HOW MUCH IS A 1/4 CT. DIAMOND RING?

The answer depends on much more than we can show here. Diamond prices vary with 4 factors: color, cut, clarity and carat weight (the 4 C's). Any of these prices could be quite correct. The high price might even be the best buy. Let us show you what to look for and what to look out for when you start shopping for diamonds. Come together. You both should know.

Two Horses Stolen From Pasture

Two horses were stolen last Thursday morning from a pasture about two miles west just off I-10. The pasture fence was cut with wire cutters. One of the horses was a paint, three year old gelding with red and white markings. The horse also has a white lightning streak down the left shoulder that meets with a white stocking on the left leg and white stockings on all four legs. The white blaze faced horse is 15½ hands tall and weighs about 900 to 950 pounds. The other horse is a bay mare, 5 years old and about 15 hands tall. The mare weighs about 900 pounds. The horse can be identified by a white backwards "L" on the forehead and rope burns on both hind feet. Anyone knowing the where abouts of these horses should call Sheriff Bill Webster.

High School Starts

On Tuesday September 4th Sonora High School students will begin a new school year. It seems as though students, teachers, and the community in general are all looking forward to the new school year with anticipation and excitement. Indeed, there truly is much to look forward to in the upcoming year.

Sonora High will have the use of the remodeled old gymnasium with its new band hall, dressing rooms, and classroom. In addition, students will enjoy the use of the new dressing rooms and expanded bleachers at the football field. We would like to welcome two new teachers to the high school faculty. Mr. Victor Esche will be teaching Physical Science to our ninth grade students. Mr. Esche is moving to Sonora from Fort Myers, Florida and has twelve years teaching experience. Also new to the faculty is Mrs. Beverly Caldwell of Atoka, Oklahoma. Mrs. Caldwell will be teaching junior high and high school choir and has six years teaching experience. We are all looking forward to the contributions Mr. Esche and Mrs. Caldwell will make to the high school program.

Sonora High School experienced a great deal of success in virtually every area of school life last year. The challenge to teachers, administrators, and students alike for the coming school year will be to set even higher standards for ourselves to enable us to continue a growth towards excellence in education.

As we begin the new year, let us keep in mind this is a year for setting and attaining even higher standards.

The Devil Made Me Do It!

by Becky Ponsett

The Women's Softball season is finally winding down. Whew.

It has been a long, hot, and sweaty season filled with joy, comedy, frustration, and sometimes bitter disappointment. The season, however, will always be remembered by me as the year I made the team.

I watched the '78 World Series was awed by a man with courage, ability, and best of all, sportsmanship. His name, Thurman Munson. I just knew that if that big ole boy could squat behind a plate, that my long legs would bend enough for me to do it too. That's when I decided that more than any other position on the baseball field, I wanted to play catcher.

Practice began in March. After the first day, I was terribly disappointed. I couldn't catch, hit or throw a ball. I went back though, and soon I caught the hang of the game. I really began to look forward to the season. My enthusiasm is the product of some excellent coaching by Steve Tackle and Paul Prather, who taught me how to play. Those two guys were great, still are!

After HBO disbanded, I went to try and get on with Big Tree and was immediately accepted. I'm not sure it was because I was good, or they needed players. My other HBO teammates joined other teams, and it was really difficult to put them out in a game. I always had mixed emotions!

I remember all the great plays made during games. The Fireman's Auxiliary made a fantastic double play once that nearly cost us the game. Commercial and Hooper were always fun to play. They were really good sports and never lost their cool. Hooper, was especially fun to play. I always carried on the best conversations with "the clan" when they were at bat. They always beat us. I think its because we liked them so much. Abest, (everyone wanted to beat them) is probably the hardest team of all to beat. We only accomplished it once, and we won third place in a tournament because of our win. Producers Gas from Eldorado was such a close-knit team it was amazing. They encouraged each other every step of the way. Braden was and remains a tough team to beat. They were so good! we never won a game against them. I enjoyed playing every game, and only missed one the entire season, a fact of which I'm more than mildly proud.

To all the members of the Big Tree team..... Thanks! I've enjoyed every minute. Now if only Carolyn will mend quickly and quit trying to run so fast, and if Paige will get back on her foot, and if

Cyndy will have nose surgery and if Susan will have her baby, and if Terrese will learn to control her temper, and if M.J. and Windy will grow a foot and a half a piece, and if T.J. will leave Paul at home when he is in a bad mood, and if Neria will learn to run a two-minute mile, and if Mitzi will be consistent, and if they'll let me be on their team next year after this article, we'll be the first place team. If the other teams let us. Boy, its been fun. Softball fever...I caught it.

Gas-Oil Boost Sutton Co. Economy In '78

The sale of crude oil and natural gas from Sutton County wells in 1978 boosted the county economy and accounted for $65.9-million of the $17.1-billion value placed on Texas production last year, according to Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

In a report on the economic impact of oil and gas industry operations in the top producing counties of Texas, the Dallas-based Association said the county ranked 63rd among the 202 counties having marketed production valued at $100,000 or more, not including the sale of natural gas liquids.

The county's wells produced 204,000 barrels of crude oil, valued at $1.9-million, and 63.3-million Mcfs of natural gas, valued at $64-million. Owners of royalty in the county received $8.2-million as their share of the output, the Association said.

"Considering the short-fall in total U.S. petroleum production relative to our nation's energy needs, production from every Texas county is more vitally important today than ever before," said the Association's president

H.B. (Hank) Harkins of Alice, an independent producer and drilling contractor.

In addition to paying local, county, and state property taxes, producers in the county also supported state government through production tax payments estimated at $4.9-million, according to the Association. Crude oil taxes amounted to $87,000, while natural gas levies totalled $4.8-million. Based on Texas Employment Commission figures, some 664 oil and gas industry employees in the county received wages of about $9.8-million in 1978.

In the search for new petroleum reserves in the county, oil and gas operators spent a reported $20.8-million in the drilling of 116 wells, including 11 wildcat, or exploratory, wells. This effect resulted in the completion of two oil wells and 87 gas wells, although some $3.2-million was lost in the drilling of 27 dry holes.

Petroleum processing also contributed to the county economy, with three natural gasoline plants, having a total daily capacity of 90 million cubic feet of natural gas, in operation.

holes reported in the first seven months of 1979 against 2,452 a year earlier.

New applications for permits to drill oil and gas tests totaled 1,059 in the second half of July compared with 809 in the same period of 1978.

Applications to drill, deepen, plugback and for service wells in the July 16-31 period amounted to 1,229 against 955 a year earlier. Operators filed 297 amended applications to drill.

There have been 11,501 applications to drill new oil and gas tests this year, against 11,450 in the same period of 1978. Applications to drill, deepen, plugback and for service wells so far this year total 13,379 against 13,658 in the first seven months of 1978.

2-4-5 T Aerbicide Use In Doubt

It looks like upcoming cancellation hearings on herbicide 2-4-5-T are nothing more than a formality. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has made it abundantly clear that it intends to cancel registration of the brush killer regardless.

Cancellation hearings on most uses of T were announced some time back, but rangeland and rice uses were not originally included in those proceedings. Then, about a month ago, EPA said it was consolidating the two remaining uses with those already scheduled for hearings.

The agency recently distributed its position document officially announcing the hearing consolidations and outlining its reasons for including range and rice uses in the cancellation push. That position document leaves no question that EPA is bound and determined to outlaw all uses of 2-4-5-T.

Several times in the report the bureaucrats mention their authority to do whatever they please with a pesticide if it appears to present a risk to human health or the environment. The only real limitation they face in exercising that authority is to see that the pesticide's benefits don't outweigh its supposed risks.

That's not much of a limitation, however, because—as the report is quick to point out over and over—it is EPA itself that makes the risk/benefit decisions. If there has ever been a clear-cut case of one elite group playing judge, jury and hangman, this is that case. Of course, EPA might have to share its distinction of omnipotency with Khomenei's cut-throats in Iran, but they're there and it's here, so there should be no competitive clash.

The most recent 2-4-5-T position document trots out most of the old tired claims of potential hazard, but differs in one respect from earlier position papers. This one carefully omits research results and use data that might in any way weaken EPA's case for a total ban. Because of the nature of the report, it was necessary to acknowledge objections lodged against past agency claims by users and supporters of T, but the report generally soft-pedals these objections or does tap-dances around them.

Not once did the report mention that 2-4-5-T has never in 30 years of use caused a single documented case of damage to humans or animals when used properly. Not once did the report admit that an Oregon miscarriage study used as an excuse to begin the cancellation process has been repeatedly torn to shreds by competent scientists. Not once did the report admit that scores of laboratory "rat tests" supposedly "proving" the herbicide's hazard potential can't ever seem to turn up with the same results twice in a row (in one such test, a given dosage of T was claimed to have produced a high percentage of tumors in rats, but dosages 500 to 1000 times higher produced no such results).

In one part of the report, EPA acknowledged in an extremely roundabout way that its publicized interpretation of one experiment in reality had very little if anything in common with the experiment's actual results. Without admitting anything outright, the agency said essentially that it was supposed to have gotten certain results so it went ahead and announced those results anyway.

Even more galling was the report's attitude toward users of the herbicide. Ignoring any number of benefits provided by 2-4-5-T's brush killing abilities, EPA chose to calculate the compound's benefits entirely on the basis of increased beef production. The agency then grandly dismissed these benefits as "insignificant". Even less significant, in the eyes of the Washington Bureaucrats, is the expense and hardship to be suffered by stockmen who stand to lose the use of 2-4-5-T. EPA describes these as "localized impacts", and announces that it did not see fit to bother calculating them for the purposes of the position document.

Overall, EPA's handling of the 2-4-5-T issue is an excellent and frighteningly typical example of the runaway mentality on the Potomac. Unchecked, uncontrolled and unnamed petty dictators people countless federal office buildings and rampage unchecked in their obsessive drive to siphon off our last few vestiges of personal freedom. The difference between Cuba and the U.S. is that the Cubans have one dictator—we have thousands.

Performance Testing of Rams-Backs Start Next Month

Agricultural scientists at Sonora will begin next month performance-testing finewool rams and Angora bucks. The data in the annual tests, said supervisor Dr. Maurice Shelton, will be gathered at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research Station at Sonora.

For the first time the scientists will performance-test Angoras.

The first phase of the test will begin September 12 with Rambouillet and other finewool rams and the Angora bucks.

The second phase will begin October 10 with blackface (medium wool) rams.

The Sonora program, initiated by producers in 1948, is aimed at improving the sheep and goat industries through the selection of animals whose performance and progeny have been tested.

Information about the tests as well as entry forms are available at the San Angelo Center (telephone 653-4576) and at Sonora (387-3168 or 387-3237).

The finewool rams and Angoras are due at the Sonora station by September 11, and the blackface rams by October 9.

The fact that there are many Dogs and Cats or other animals and fowls within the City of Sonora that have not been vaccinated to prevent rabies, causing great danger to the life and health of the inhabitants of the City, creates an emergency and imperative public necessity requiring the suspension of the rule that ordinances shall be read at three meetings of the City Council; and rule is therefore hereby suspended, and this Ordinance is put upon its final reading and passed by a vote of three Ayes, and no Nays.

attack paid off with involved people. "There is no substitute for working directly with people as individuals and in groups," he said. "There is just no way around a County Extension Agent getting out with the people, because it is there they tell you their concerns--personal as well as business. They tell you about problems you will never get from them in a group.

"If we lose this personal contact in Extension work, we will lose the Extension Service. Extension work is always going to require a certain amount of personal contact."

Did Clint Langford ever consider leaving Sutton County for other opportunities these past 30 years? He admits to having opportunities open to him. "I thought about it, but never seriously considered leaving," he said. "I could never quite decide to take one of those jobs, because when I weighed the advantages and disadvantages, I just didn't see how I could justify ever leaving."

"When I decided to go with Extension, I had made up my mind not to work east of Bandera

County and wanted to be somewhere in the Edwards Plateau area. If I had had a choice, I am not real sure but what this would have been the county I would have picked.

For as the people of Sutton County have heard him say many times in these waning days before his retirement, "If I had it all to do over again, I'd do it all right here in Sutton County."

Sonora: As It Looks From Here

A very special welcome to you, the newcomer to Sonora. Our Newcomer's Guide is designed to help you acquaint yourself with Sonora.

We wish to express our thanks to the staff of the Devil's River News for their hard effort in getting this special edition out. In particular, we would like to thank David Jennings for his excellent photography, and the entire newsroom staff including Darrell Raspberry, Nan Friend, Sharon Ellison, Alicia Vargas, Becky

Ponsetti and Carla Shaffer who all gave so much to this project.

While we're thanking people, lets not forget the people who put their money into this special edition...our advertisers who have bought space to tell you about their goods and services and made this edition possible. Without their support there would be no Newcomers Guide. By placing an ad in this publication the advertisers of this area are letting you know that they appreciate your business. We at the Devil's River News appreciate their business.

The Newcomers' Guide tells you about Sonora and your new home...what it was, what it is and details you'll need for your daily activities.

But what of the future? Where is our city headed and what does the future hold?

I'm no fortune teller, but I do have some observations about Sonora's future.

We are on the wave of progress and economic strength surging through our great state...Texas is the place to be and millions of Americans across the nation are breaking ties and joining us in our revolution for economic and social independence.

We live in a state where government interference in our lives is at a minimum, and we resist big government.

Sonora shares in the Texas wealth in many ways...we have an agreeable climate, dedicated public servants and hard working, friendly people. Our unemployment rate is less than two percent.

We are on the crossroads of major highways, with IH-10 linking Miami to Los Angeles and in the next few years there's a good chance an interstate-type highway will interconnect here, joining Sonora to the north and midwest by way of Lubbock and Amarillo.

We are blessed with immense sources of natural gas. Some say this seven county gas field is the largest in the country. And Sonora is smack dab in the middle of this precious natural resource.

All the nation cries for natural gas...and we'll be the producers...Texas and Sonora...we'll be drilling for gas when our children are raising their own families.

And it's not just our natural gas which makes us so powerful...we are the home of the famous Sonora Caverns, a growing tourist attraction...and our ranchers produce the world's finest wool and mohair.

We can literally clothe the world and Sutton County ranchers will continue providing top quality beef...mutton, wool and mohair...this is one industry that improves with age.

A three-pronged industrial growth is at work here...ranching, petroleum and tourism.

We estimate our 1978 population at near 6,000...and two utility services estimate our 1980 population at more than 8,000.

By 1990 Sonora will be home for 10,000 to 20,000 people.

And when we publish our 20th Annual Newcomers' Guide, the sign on our expanded city limits will show 20,000 or more.

You picked a good city to live in...and it's going to get a lot better with age.

By the way, stop by for a visit, we just love to sip coffee and talk about our city.

Sonora's Unique History

The town of Sonora presents the story of a community with a unique history and potential for a dynamic future.

Sonora, as the rest of the Edwards Plateau, was rather late in developing. Most of the early settlers were sheepherders who drifted in from the east and drifted back as the grass supply ran low.

The area was not readily adaptable for other livestock because of the lack of water and the fact they could not survive on the moisture found in plants as sheep could.

The drilling of water wells in the later 1880's was probably the single most significant reason for the migration of permanent settlers to the area.

The fact that most wells were of limited capacity combined with a misconception of most ranchers that cattle could not survive on well water stalled their advancement into the area.

Luckily a dramatic price rise due to a heavy demand for Texas beef in northern markets gave a boom to the area's growth.

It was around one of these wells the town of Sonora was built. Charlie

Sonora Airport-1958

Sonora Airport Opening Day-1958

Sonora Has Progressive - Growing Airport

Over 2,000 people gathered on October 19, 1958 to witness the opening and dedication of the Joe Berger Field.

The airport then had 3900 feet of runway, but it was shortened to 3680 feet with 750 feet of overrun because of the construction of I-10.

Plans are now being made to upgrade and lengthen the runway. Joe Kiowski, Airport Board chairman, commented that the runway is presently in poor condition. The base is bad and the drainage poor.

After a rain, chugholes are easily formed and this presents a dangerous landing problem.

The Board has applied to the Texas Aeronautical

Commission for a 50% grant to lengthen and upgrade the runway as well as the airport. When completed the runway will be lengthened to 5000 feet and have an increased load capacity. This will enable large planes such as King Airls to land here. Also proposed are new taxing lanes and hangers.

The Airport Board is comprised of five members, two each appointed by the city and county with the fifth member selected by the others.

Current members included: Chairman, Joe Kiowski; Secretary, Rosemary Matthews; Gay Copeland, Bill Morriss and Ken Braden. The airport manager is Ernie Bud.

Sonora- Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow

Adams in his book, "Forty Years a Fool" says that Sonora was founded when he decided that the well he had drilled cost too much and in order to break even he would have to sell lots and start a town.

The beginnings of the town proved to be one of the city's more embarrassing moments. Adams said he filed on a section of school land, made payments, and began selling lots--on land that actually belonged to some New York firm.

Nevertheless for two years Adams sold lots and the town began to grow steadily. It was then the discovery of the mistake was made.

There was little left to do but for everyone to pitch in and buy the town back.

A town member hurried to new York and was successful in purchasing Sonora.

They therefore reserved everything under the surface, and according to the deed, the town had actually cut itself off from water. There is near-positive proof Adams never secured a clear title to the land, and lot sales ended until 1890.

At this time R.W. Callahan went to New York and for $640 secured two deeds to Section 85 from Edward Tracy and the estate of James Russel.

The deeds, date May 17, 1890, declared "full rights, no restrictions--underground or otherwise."

Adams wife reserved the right of naming the town after a faithful employee from the state of Sonora in Mexico.

Sutton County had been formed three years earlier when the state legislature passed an act creating it and Scheicher counties out of Crockett County.

The county was named for Col. John S. Sutton who lost his life in a battle during Sibley's expedition.

The county encompasses 1,500 square miles of territory and compares favorably in size with several states.

However a combination of heavy overgrazing and droughts that hit in the 1910's and 1930's caused irreparable harm to the range and made an opening for the spread of less palatable plants and bitterweed.

Research, much of which is a direct product of the local experiment station, has helped ranchers cope with many of the problems they have faced.

The determination of the ranchers to overcome hardships has established Sutton County as one of the national agricultural leaders, and the wool and mohair produced here is considered by experts the finest in the world.

Although agriculture continues to be a dominant factor in Sonora's economy, for the past six years it has taken at least a temporary back seat to the natural gas boom.

The energy crisis which threw the rest of the nation into a sharp recession proved to be a blessing for Sonora.

It had been known for a long time that gas existed in Sonora--in fact oil drilling is recorded as early as the 1890's in Sutton County.

But the wells in the county were low producers and it had never really been economically feasible to start an extensive drilling program.

The energy crisis and the sudden demand for natural gas changed all this.

Production and drilling companies poured into the area. Service companies and related industry followed quickly, and by 1975 the population had doubled.

Deregulation of gas prices on the interstate market--probably by 1985--will cause even greater growth in the area. Many estimates expect the population to hit its peak at around 20,000 people by 1990.

Sonora's third major source of income is tourism. The Caverns of Sonora--acclaimed by the National Speleological Society as the most beautiful cave in the world--have played an important role in this.

The awe-inspiring "hole in the ground" was opened to the public in 1960, and by 1965 was drawing over 40,000 visitors a year.

Each fall for many years, thousands of hunters have descended upon Sonora to enjoy one of the most abundant game areas in the nation.

White tail deer, turkey, quail and javelina hogs are plentiful and leases are at a premium.

The opening of IH 10 through Sonora in 1975 added to the influx of travelers. As the main route between Florida and California, the highway has been responsible for countless dollars being pumped into the local economy.

Needless to say Sonora has suffered some growing pains, but shown the citizen's determination to overcome past problems there is no doubt that a picture of Sonora's future is indeed rosy.

High water 1936- Sonora's early days were plagued with Flooding. Flood control dams now protect the city.

Sonora's Recreational Activities Offer Variety

Sonora provides a wealth of recreational activities and social opportunities for the active person.

Baseball season is just winding down. Slowpitch softball leagues exist for both men and women. Much excitement is generated by both the men's and women's teams.

A group representing the Men's Softball Association has been invited to participate in the National Slowpitch Softball Tournament. The invitation is evidence of how far the softball program has come over the last few years. The Little League program is also very active.

There is baseball for the Pee-Wees, and a Major and Minor League for the 10, 11 and 12 year old youngsters. The Senior League gives the 13, 14 and 15 year olds a chance to continue their baseball activities.

Pee Wee football and Little Dribblers basketball keep the youth activities going year around.

The local swimming pool provides a cool break in summertime, and a modern theater was built last year.

A very challenging nine hole golf course is available to the linksters.

Sonora Community Park - Rodeo Arena

Sonora Golf Course

Numerous clubs, both social and civic, are active in Sonora.

Summertime also brings out the Rodeo contestants. There is a Junior Rodeo held early in the summer and a professional rodeo held in conjunction with the Sutton County Days Celebration. This year the celebration is scheduled for August 23, 24 and 25. Many activities are planned that include such things as a barbecue, rodeo, arts and crafts, music, and dancing. High School athletics provide much excitement for everyone in Sonora. The fun starts in the fall with football and does not finish until the track meet is over in the spring.

For those who prefer the rougher life, the Devil's River Country provides some of the most rugged country in the nation and an abundance of wild game. East of Sonora the Llano River lures anglers with its fine fishing.

Sonora definitely has an abundance of activities for those who want to get involved.

The Devil's River News Has Served Sonora Since 1890

On October 18, 1890 the first issue of Sonora and Sutton County's newspaper, the Devil's River News, was printed, filled with stock news, social events and outright bragging.

Mike Murphy, who started the newspaper and served as publisher until his death in 1922, invited people on the front page to "come to the Stockman's Paradise".

Boosting his home country and town, Murphy wrote on... "Sutton County as a grazing country cannot be equalled in the United States, and as for sheep, we draw the line at nowhere, even for fruits and small grains, a trail will prove that it is equal to the best."

The Devil has continued in operation since that day in 1890 and is the oldest continuously operated business in Sutton County and in this period of 87 years, has had only ten owners.

The "Devil" which started out as a four page, once-a-week newspaper, still boasts of the same folksy, home spun news as it did in the early days.

Now publishing from ten to twenty pages, the local news is still a weekly newspaper, but in June started publishing The West Texas Sunday Shopper, a tabloid size publication, delivered to every home in Sonora and Eldorado.

In addition to a newspaper the Devil also supplies Sutton County with its commercial printing needs, servicing businesspersons with individuals with commercially printed envelopes, statements, letterheads, and all other items of this nature.

The Devil also offers its customers a complete and full line of office supplies, from pencils to typewriters and calculators.

Law Enforcement Agencies Offer Protection and Assistance

The City of Sonora and Sutton County as a whole are well served and protected by a large force of competent law officials.

The addition of a new county jail will greatly improve the effectiveness of these officials. The construction of the new facility was begun in June, of this year, and although the construction is a little behind schedule, due to some discrepancies over the concrete foundation, Sheriff Bill Webster is looking for the jail to reach completion in the spring of 1980.

The building will house officers for the Justice of the Peace, The Department of Public Safety, the Fish and Wildlife department, the Driver's License office, and the Sheriff's department. The Police department will remain in its offices in the old City Hall.

The new jail will have an overall capacity of 26 beds. There will be modern facilities to hold juveniles and female prisoners and two maximum security units to hold any prisoner labeled top security. The jail will also have a towbedroom living quarters for a jailer. Sheriff

Webster stated, "By building these living quarters, the new jail will alleviate three other full-time jailers, thereby cutting down on the total salary of jail personnel."

The Sheriff's department includes Bill Webster, Sheriff, and deputies Ruben flores and Joe Fincher. The City Police department headed by Chief of Police Jerry Kemp includes Sgt. Brent Gesch and patrolmen Roy Gladden, Bill Ware, and John Little.

Department of Public Safety troopers stationed in Sonora include Archie Grenweige, Walter Walick, and Charlie De La Rosa.

Due to the close proximity of Sonora to the Mexican border, the U.S. Border Patrol has a large staff of officers including Bob Mooney, Sam Stewart, Sterling Smith, Kenneth Cayce, Billy Kring, Kenneth Kordzik, Roy Wilson, and Steve Harrison.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Department laws are enforced by Game Wardens Rodney Knight and Nolan Johnson.

School's Growth

The 1970's have been good for the Sonora Independent School District. Numerous projects have been completed since Sonora's growth boom began. The new Junior High building is due to be completed by late September.

Among improvements in the last five years are the air conditioning of all buildings, the addition of 14 classrooms, the construction of a new track, the remodeling of the auditorium and the enlargement of the dressing rooms and grandstands at the football field.

The school also holds a fleet of new buses, and additional staff housing has been secured.

Also a new vocational building was completed last fall. Programs offered in the new building include wool-working, metal trades, including welding, distributive education, drafting and general construction trades.

Dr. Joe Andrews is the superintendent of schools. School Board members include James Hunt, Mary Adele Balch, Dorothy Pope, Don Lawson Bud Whitehead-president, Sam Perez and

Sam Stewart. Principals are Don Jones, high school; Smith Neal, Junior High; and Harold Miller, Elementary School. Wendell McAndrew is the director of instruction and Don Wooten is tax accessor-collector.

The Superintendent of Schools office is located at 807 SE Concho.

New Projects

The Sonora Independent School District is, it seems, growing by leaps and bounds to accommodate the large growth of the student population in the Sonora area. In the last five years numerous projects have been undertaken and completed in order to provide for the quality education of its students.

Among the improvements on campus are the air conditioning of all buildings, the addition of many new classrooms, and the complete remodeling of the High School auditorium. The new Junior High building, at present still under construction, will be ready for occupancy in October of this year. This new facility will provide 14 new classrooms, a library, a dining room, a workroom for the teachers, and offices for a counselor, nurse, and principal. The old gym, once an eye sore is receiving its final touches, and what a difference the improvements have made here! The fold-out bleachers are installed, the court has been redone, and there are two large locker-dressing rooms for the boys and girls where the old workshop used to be.

The Vocational building was finished in time for use last fall, and because of this facility, more programs are available to the students. These programs include wood-working, metal trades, distributive education, welding, plumbing, and general construction trades.

Off campus the changes are evident also. The dressing rooms at the fieldhouse have been enlarged and a new, larger one is almost complete. This building will hold dressing rooms and showers for approximately 70 boys and 48 girls. The track is new as are the bleachers, which are being expanded to hold even more spectators. The pressbox is also being enlarged.

The school system has added to its facilities a large bus barn. This building houses up to

Davenport's son Matt, a graduate of Sonora High School, has joined his father in the business and serves and stocker and checker.

Will Gutierrez is assistant manager of Hershel's Foodway with Sam David Hernandez as market manager and Ruben Castilleja as pro-

Sutton County Government

Sutton County was established in 1887, being taken out of Crockett and Kimble counties.

The historic courthouse, built in 1893, is still in use today and is a registered historic landmark.

The major project of the county government at the present time is the construction of the new jail. The old facility was built in 1891 and has, for a long time, failed to meet modern jail standards.

The old building has no separation for juvenile or female prisoners and no maximum security area. The new jail is presently under construction.

The county also maintains a large area of county roads.

County Commissioners are Preston Love, Elba Adams, Juan Gonzales, Bill Wade and Charlie Sherrill is the county judge. County Clerk is Emma Lee Turner and Metha Trainer is the County Treasurer.

W.W. "Bill" Webster serves as the County Sheriff. Bill has been the County Tax officer but, an election is planned for the 11th of August to allow separation of the Sheriff's Office and the Tax Office. This will modernize the county government even more.

Frances Templeton is the Justice of the Peace.

Sonora Offers Quality Schools

The band program of the Sonora Schools begins in the fifth grade, where every fifth grader has an opportunity to become a band member.

All of the fifth grade students for the first two weeks of school go to band class. There they are taught the basic fundamentals of all instruments. After two weeks of school and band classes, these students are tested for musical capabilities. Shortly after that, students go on a regular band schedule.

The next step in the band program is the sixth grade band. Some 60 to 70 students make up this band. These students must have been in fifth grade band in order to be in this band. Next, is the Jr. High Band. This band consists of approximately 100 young bandmen in the 7th and 8th grades. This is a performing and competing organization. If a student has not been in the band and decided to join band in the 6th, 7th and 8th grades, there are special classes that will enable a student to start at any of these grade levels.

The last and most important step in the band program of the Sonora Schools is the Mighty Bronco Band.

This organization of elite students usually numbers 120 members from grades 9-12.

This band performs for all Bronco football half-times and competes in UIL Marching, Concert and Sightreading contests. Last year the Bronco Band made 1 divisions in all three of these contests, thus winning a Sweepstakes award.

The band also competes in the Sandy Lake Festival in Lewisville and has won numerous awards in all phases of competition.

The band also has many of its members compete in District, Regional and Area band competition. UIL Regional Solo & Ensemble is a competition that Bronco Band members are consistent 1 Division winners at. Last year 59 students qualified to go to State Solo & Ensemble competition in Austin.

Encouraging the entire music program are the administration, the school board, plus a very active band booster organization.

Directors of the bands are Ed Martinez and Weyland Rapp.

Sonora's Own Outlaw - Will Carver

Almost every town hopes for some claim to fame, some memory to tie them to the day when their town was a part of a wild frontier.

The killing of outlaw Will Carver by Sheriff E.S. "Lige" Bryant is Sonora's one such claim.

Carver and his companion, George Kilpatrick of Concho County, were killed April 2, 1901 while in town buying supplies.

Sheriff Bryant was tipped off by one of his deputy's brothers. The lawmen had the advantage of surprise and numbers, and the shootout was over shortly.

Both men died shortly afterward. It is suspected by many people the outlaws had plans to rob the First National Bank the next day or that night.

Carver was known to many people in the area as he had been a ranch hand here in previous years.

Two theories exist on why he turned to his life of crime. One suggests his grief over the death of his young wife was the cause.

Another more probable theory is that he was tired of working long hours for only $1 a day plus room and board. This combined with the fact that the days of the free range were being ended by the advent of barbed wire fencing make this explanation more likely.

Although Carver's reputation was somewhat blown out of proportion in and after his outlaw career, his name will be known.

Carver originally rode with the Tom "Black Jack" Ketchum gang in New Mexico and participated in several bank and train robberies before the gang broke up.

For a short time it is thought he either worked alone or formed his own band of outlaws.

He soon headed for Nevada and it was there he gained his greatest notoriety as a member of the famous Wild Bunch headed by George "Butch Cassidy" Parker.

Carver's escapades prompted the writings of a book, "Will Carver, Outlaw", by local historian John Eaton.

A unnamed tombstone, dated April 2, 1901, in the Sonora Cemetery almost positively marks the grave of Carver.

Why there is no name inscribed on the headstone is largely a matter of speculation, but if that weather-beaten piece of granite is actually Carver's marker, it is one of Sonora's few remaining links with its days as a wild and wooly town.

eight buses, and includes a washrack, a workshop, two storage areas, and comes complete with its own mechanic, L.D. (Big Boy) Martinez.

Dr. Joe Andrews, Superintendent of Schools is very pleased with the way the school system is looking and enjoys showing it off to interested persons. When asked about the possibility of an open house showing of the school and its new facelift, Dr. Andrews, cited the possibility of having on this fall.

He also noted that the school system is still far ahead on its repayment of the loans used to fund the remodeling and construction of the buildings that now house the finest school system that Sonora has had in a long time.

Hudspeth Hospital

Sonora's Medical Services

Sonora is indeed fortunate in having adequate medical facilities with the services of two doctors and a dentist.

The Lillian M. Hudspeth Memorial Hospital is the culmination of a desire of Roy Hudspeth.

In the fall of 1947, he proposed to donate a sum of money to the establishment of a hospital in Sonora as a memorial to his late wife, provided the citizens of Sutton County would donate a like amount.

In response Sutton Countians gave generously. The hospital was then incorporated as a charitable, scientific and educational hospital.

During the organization period Hudspeth Hospital period Hudspeth confided to several people that while he was making an initial donation to the hospital, he was not saying that was all he would do.

It was his intention to do more. He died in 1948 and it was learned he had left a large portion of his estate to the hospital.

In addition to the gifts by Hudspeth the federal government contributed toward the construction and furnishings of the new facility.

The construction contract was let in 1950 and the hospital was completed, furnished and opened for operation on July 1, 1951.

The Lillian M. Hudspeth Memorial Hospital was a half-million dollar project and was said by architects and medical men of the time to be the finest structure of its type in Texas.

The hospital is governed by a 21-member board of directors with actual operation of the hospital being the responsibility of the administrator.

There is not resident physician at the hospital and no one doctor is in charge.

All Sonora physicians as well as any other doctor who is accredited by the American Medical Association may use the facility.

The hospital has 21 beds and a well-staffed emergency room.

The nursing home was added to the hospital in 1970 to provide much needed care for the elderly in Sonora.

Although the hospital is not set up to handle major illnesses, it is still an excellent facility for other problems.

The hospital also operates a modern modulance like those used in cities and there are several local emergency medical technicians to operate it.

Dr. Charles F. Browne and Dr. David E. Owensby provide medical service for the city. Both are general practitioners and both practice obstetrics.

The latter is an extremely important practice as they are now the only "baby doctors" between Kerrville and Fort Stockton, and soon may be the only ones between Del Rio and San Angelo.

Both still take new patients. Their offices are located at the clinic on the edge of the hospital grounds.

One of the doctors is on call at the hospital at all times and may be reached by phoning either their office or the hospital.

Dr. Browne has served Sonora for 32 years, coming here in 1946, while Dr. Owensby established his practice here in August, 1975.

Dr. Lonnie M. Pollard provides dental services for the Sonora area with offices located on Crockett Street near the school.

Dr. Pollard set up his practice here in March 1971 and will accept new patients.

The group then examined the old part of the cave as other before them had done time and time again. Jack Prince, however, was not satisfied with ending the exploration at the pit room.

When an attempt to scale the wall of the pit failed, he attacked from the now famous ledge. He crossed the ledge which is over a 65-foot drop.

After his announcement that the passage appeared to continue the rest of the group inched their way across the "devil's delight."

The discovery marked the beginning of a series of explorations that proved to find a beautiful, active cave.

The formation-filled cave has since been acclaimed by the National Speleological Society as the most beautiful cave in the world.

It was through this study, that Dr. Leo Merrill and his associates at the experiment station have received their greatest recognition--on a state, national and international basis.

Representatives from over 40 foreign countries and practically every state west of the Mississippi have visited to observe the project first-hand.

The study has also served as a model for range research projects all over the western United States.

Texas A & M Agricultural Station Helps Ranchers

Established in 1915 by a group of Edwards Plateau ranchers, The Texas Ranch Experiment Station has time and time again proved an invaluable asset to livestock owners. Now known as the Texas

A&M Experiment Station, funds to establish the Sonora facility were generated by a $10,000 state appropriation with another $8,000 donated by ranchers and businessmen in Sutton and Edwards counties.

Encompassing a five-section spread, the facilities are located on the Sonora-Rocksprings highway.

The accomplishments of the station are almost too numerous to mention.

The experiment station determined the cause of bighead in sheep and goats. Prevention measures were established thus accomplishing one of the primary objectives in the establishment of the station.

A soremouth vaccine was developed for sheep—a development that has saved millions of dollars for sheep producers.

An extensive study of livestock diseases has been made.

Also included are intensive studies of livestock parasites and their control, particularly stomach worms, tapeworms and lice.

Poison plants in Texas were the subject of another extensive study.

In corporation with ram breeders in the Edwards Plateau and other areas ram potency tests were developed.

Another important study now underway includes the problems of animal nutrition.

In 1948 following a resolution by the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, a range research project was initiated.

Due to the grave deterioration of the range on the Edwards Plateau

A Rancher's work is never done.

Sonora's Senior Center

The number of senior centers has grown rapidly throughout this country since the initial developments of the early 1940's.

Even more significant than the growth in numbers is the internal growth, the evolutionary development of the Senior Center concept as a needs-meeting vehicle.

The Senior Center is no longer considered as a monolithic facility and program available to only a few older persons able to get to the facility on their own.

It is proving to be a flexible means whereby a community can effectively respond to the challenge of providing a better life for the older citizens, by implementing comprehensive and systematic service delivery through decentralization, outreach and transportation.

Now the center's focus is on going to the older person wherever he or she may be, as well as on the older person coming to the center.

The perspective is more than that of meeting a few needs of a special interest group or groups. Individualization, the meeting of individual needs and the bringing about of community and social change, is strongly encompassed.

Here in Sutton County we are very fortunate to have our own Center in which we can meet the needs of our senior citizens.

The Center also serves as an information and referral source to persons in need.

The Department of Human Resources Food and Stamp and Aid for Dependent Children representative is at the Center on a regular schedule. He is here every Tuesday afternoon from 9:30 to 2:30.

The Adult Social Worker with DHR is also available when the need arises.

A diabetic control clinic is also held the second Tuesday of every month.

The Sutton Senior Center was opened on February 20, 1978 and is located at the west end of Main Street.

For more information, and referral and transportation call 387-5657.

Caverns Of Sonora- Natures Masterpiece

(Editor's Note: The Caverns of Sonora have become known throughout the world for their awe-inspiring beauty and are directly responsible for the impact tourism has had on the economy of Sonora. The following story is reprinted from the August 19, 1965, Diamond Jubilee Edition of the DRN).
Edition of the DRN).
West of Sonora the land is piled in hummocks of rough limestone fringed with thorny mesquite brush.

Under the harsh rocks and thorny mesquites, water quietly dripped over a delicate honey-colored butterfly, diamond-like crystals, icicles and whimsical helicitities—all of limestone.
Indians on ponies must have ridden these hills during the mild, pleasant winters and during the summers long ago when the sun beat down from a clear blue sky, just as it does now.
And then the ranchers came herding their sheep that grazed on the hills.

Looking across the hills, these people must have seen a country that was filled with grandeur, but not elegance; with breathtaking spaciousness, but not intimate loveliness.
And yet hidden beneath the feet of the racing Indian ponies, under the placidly grazing sheep, was a creation of exquisite beauty. Nature had sculptured a secret world of loveliness.
Deep in the earth nature had etched a cavern and decorated almost every square inch of it with jewels and chandeliers. And then with a sense of humor, she had left one clue to her handiwork—an 18-inch hole—and an obstacle—a seemingly impassable pit.

The Caverns of Sonora, sometimes called Mayfield's Cave, were known of for some 40 years prior to opening to the public.
However, they were known only in the form of a small cave with an 18-inch diameter drop-through entrance.
It was not until 1955 that the Caverns began to take on the dimensions by which they are recognized now. It was in June of that year when the Abilene Grotto (a chapter of a speleological society) made a ten-day caving trip into Sutton County.

The members explored Mayfield Cave, and when they came to the end of their route at the pit, they didn't turn back as many before them had done. They noticed a small opening which had previously gone undetected.
After examining the opening, they decided that they could venture no farther.
The location and description of Mayfield Cave was given to the Dallas Speleological Society, and it is to the members of this group that the full credit for the discovery of the new part of Mayfield Cave is given.

In 1955 on Labor Day weekend the Dallas group made a trip into the Edwards-Sutton County area.
Sunday morning they headed for Mayfield Cave although when they arrived on the Mayfield Ranch they could not find the entrance to the cave.
Finally they were assisted to the entrance by one of Mayfield's ranch hands. It is well understandable that this group could not find the small entrance, for it was surrounded with mesquite.

St. John's Episcopal Church

The old Sutton county Jail, a Texas State Historical landmark, was built in 1891. It will soon make way for a modern jail complex across the street from the old jail.

The Sutton County courthouse was built in 1893, and after several remodeling jobs, through the years, still serves the county's offices.
