Marker Dedication Slated Saturday At Caverns Of Sonora

Dedication ceremonies will be held at the Caverns of Sonora on Saturday September 27 at 9 a.m.

The Caverns of Sonora have been declared a National Historic Landmark Status and a representative from the U.S. Department of the Interior will be present to officiate at the ceremony.

Area new media have been contacted and the Red Carpet Committee of the Sonora Chamber of Commerce will be on hand to serve refreshments.

An invitation has been extended to Governor Clements, Representative Susan McBe and Congressman Tom Loeffler.

The study and identification of historic sites and buildings is a cooperative process in which State and local agencies and professional historians, architects, and archeologists share their knowledge with staff historians and archeologists of the National Park Service.

Their findings are submitted for evaluation to a Consulting Committee of eight persons eminent in the fields of history, architecture and archaeology.

Their findings are then submitted to the Advisory Board on National Parks, Historic Sites, Buildings and Monuments for recommendations to the Secretary of the Interior.

The Caverns of Sonora join these landmarks: The Alamo, Espada Aqueduct, Fort Belknap, Fort Brown Fort Concho, Fort Davis, Fort Richardson, Harrell Site, JA Ranch, King Ranch, Landergin Mesa, Palo Alto Battlefield, Plainview Site, Porter Farm, Resaca de la Palma Battlefield and San Jacinto Battlefield.

The public is invited to attend, giving support to Sonora's strongest tourist attraction.

Bidding draws the interest of the crowd during last week's 45th Annual Lions Club Auction. The Lions raised over $10,000 for their civic and charitable projects.

Bank Schedules NOW Accounts To Begin Jan. 1

Effective Jan. 1, 1981, the First National Bank of Sonora will begin offering NOW accounts as an additional service to its customers.

The NOW (negotiable order of withdrawal) account was born in Massachusetts in 1972 and quickly spread to New Hampshire.

These original accounts allowed depositors at savings institutions to write negotiable orders of withdrawal; in other words, a check could be written on a savings account.

In 1973, Congress passed Public

Law 92-100 which authorized most financial institutions, including commercial banks, to offer NOW accounts under the regulations of the Federal Reserve Board.

In 1976 these powers were granted to all six New England states, and in 1977, the industry was faced with the prospect of legislation that would have allowed all banks as well as all financial institutions to offer interest-bearing transaction accounts (IBTA's), that is, to pay interest on demand accounts.

The interest bearing checking account is not a new product or concept.

Before the Banking Act of 1933, banks often paid interest on checking accounts to give the customers the interest benefits of a savings account along with the convenience of a checking account.

The 1933 act, however, specifically prohibited this practice. Because of banker's insistence on eliminating the interest rate differential between their and commercial banks, Congress was unable to resolve key IBTA and NOW account questions and took no action on the issue in 1977.

For almost two years, little was heard about nationwide interest bearing account legislation, but the key forces in the debates continued to gain momentum.

Many states courts and state legislatures were allowing credit unions and savings institutions to offer accounts very similar to NOW accounts.

The banking industry maintain this piecemeal spreading of interest bearing checking accounts placed commercial banks in a disadvantageous competitive position since mobile consumers found they could cross state lines to gain access to this type of account.

Congress, the administration and the consumer have generally favored interest bearing accounts, but sharp focus on the issue came after an April, 1978 appeals court ruling that share drafts, savings and loan association remote units and bank automatic transfer accounts were not legal.

The court ruled that unless the Congress took action to make legal, they could no longer be offered. This caused the Congress to take a close look at the overall situation.

First National Banks feel the addition of this service will be a great boost for its customers and invites everyone to check on the details of the new plan.

New LP Gas Division Safety Rules Adopted

The Railroad Commission has permanently adopted a set of new rules pertaining to safety regulation in the handling and storage of liquefied petroleum gases.

Guy G. Mathews, director of the Commission's Liquefied Petroleum Gas Division, recommended the action to Chairman John Poerner and Commissioners James E. (Jim) Nugent and Mack Wallace at Monday's conference on LPG matters.

The new rules were approved on an emergency basis on Aug. 25.

The rules contain a stringent requirement for demonstrating "good cause" prior to granting a temporary examination exception and field examinations.

The rules have one provision dealing with liability insurance requirements of manufacturers and fabricators, carriers and transporters, and retail and wholesale dealers. Under the natural resources code, fabricators, transporters and dealers must carry completed operations and product liability insurance in a reasonable amount.

Another new rule exempts master and journeyman plumbers from licensing by the Commission's LPG Division. Master and journeyman plumbers duly licensed by the Texas State Board of Plumbing Examiners now are not required to obtain an LPG Division license. Any master or journeyman plumber requesting to obtain an LPG Division license. Any master or journeyman plumber requesting to be exempt, however, must attest to the LPG Division that he has read the division's safety rules and will comply with them when installing, repairing, altering or testing any LP-gas system or performing similar work involving LP-gas appliances.

The exemption, however, does not permit a master or journeyman plumber to sell, service or install containers without an LPG Division license.

Two other new rules require the placement of work performed tags on a LP-gas piping system upon completion of installation, repairs or testing. Similar tagging or approved appliances that have been converted to LP-gas is required.

Towns, a native of Tyler, has been a member of the Hubnak Named NGPA Section Head

Priscilla Hubnak, staff attorney with the Railroad Commission's Natural Gas Policy Act Section, has been appointed director of the energy regulatory agency's NGPA program.

The appointment was effective Sept. 1.

A native of Wharton, Hubnak is a graduate of St. Edward's University in Austin and the University of Houston School of Law. She came to the Commission in September of 1979.

Hubnak will succeed Sandra Buch, who has taken a position as a legal examiner in the Oil and Gas Division.

OPEC, Drilling And Gasoline Mileage

The 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries opened its meeting in Vienna on September 15th. The two main interests were the price of oil and the amount of daily production. Saudi Arabia is OPEC's largest producer and the biggest supplier of oil to the United States.

The Saudi Oil Minister said his country will not increase the price of their oil or reduce production until a compromise is worked out. The Saudi's want the top price of OPEC oil reduced before they will raise theirs and before they cut production. Most people believe Saudi Arabia will raise its prices $2 to $4 a barrel and cut production from 9.5 to 8.5 million barrels of oil a day.

The EPA mileage ratings came out and foreign cars make up the top ten. VW Rabbit Diesel was number one, followed by Toyota Starlet and a 5-Speed Rabbit Diesel. Chevrolet Chevette and Ford's new Escort and Mercury Lynx were the highest rated domestic cars.

And, the drilling fever continues. The OIL AND GAS JOURNAL is predicting 60,000 wells and 284 million feet will be drilled in 1980 and that would be the most active year in history. The forecast for 1981 is even better. The last for week period averaged 3,060 over last year and that's up 35% over last year. Oil imports are down almost 33% from this date a year ago.

The Permian Basin rig count for last week was 338. One year ago it was 279.

Doan Leads Broncos Over Shot Down Eagles

Head Coach Jerry Hopkins told the Bronco Booster Club last week that rivalries ended when one team started winning all the time as in the case of the Sonora-Eldorado rivalry in the 1960s and the rivalry was only renewed when the loser started winning again.

Call it a rivalry, a feud or anything else, but it was not renewed under Hopkins' definition as the Sonora Broncos plucked the Eldorado Eagles 41-0 Friday night in the first meeting for the two teams since 1975.

Halfback Johnny Doan did his share to avert the renewal as he plundered the Eagle defense for 272 yards and three touchdowns on 20 carries, heading an offensive effort that rolled up 558 yards and 30 first downs.

Sonora took the opening kickoff and march 80 yards in 13 plays for the only score of the first quarter. Fullback Rex Surber got the final 11 yards hitting off right tackle and shaking one tackler before bolting into the endzone.

David Creek's extra point kick gave Sonora a 7-0 lead with 5:16 elapsed in the game.

Eldorado started their drives on the 37-yard line after a short kickoff, and a 10-yard pass from Keith McCormack to Ronnie Hall gave the Eagles a first down at their own 47.

But disaster, that seemed to always come at the wrong time for the Eagles all night, struck again. McCormack, standing deep in the shotgun formation, had to scramble for a high snap that resulted in an 18-yard loss, killing the drive.

The Eagles did get back to the 50 with a 15-yard aerial from McCormack to Mike Griffith, and 50-yard punt by Griffith pinned the Broncos back on their own 20.

Halfback Allen Stewart picked up 13 yards on a reverse, starting a drive similar to the first Bronco scoring march.

A 15-yard personal foul penalty on Eldorado moved the ball to the 15 and another Sonora tally seemed imminent.

But the Eagles defense stiffened, and a fourth down and three run by Surber cam up inches short at the six.

Eldorado found little running room, garnering only a yard on two runs, and quick kicked out to the 37 on third down. Creek hit Ervey Vallejo on a 29-yard pass down to the two on the third play of the drive, but a holding penalty nullified the scoring threat.

On the next play, Griffith stepped in front of a Creek pass in the flat and raced 34 yards down to the Sonora 30, giving the Eagles their best scoring opportunity of the first half.

The Eagles kept moving themselves backwards, however as a delay of game penalty followed by a motion penalty left them with a third down and 16 situation.

And Doan came away with a Griffith pass intended for Tommy Martinez on the next play, squelching the Eldorado threat and setting Sonora in motion at the 15.

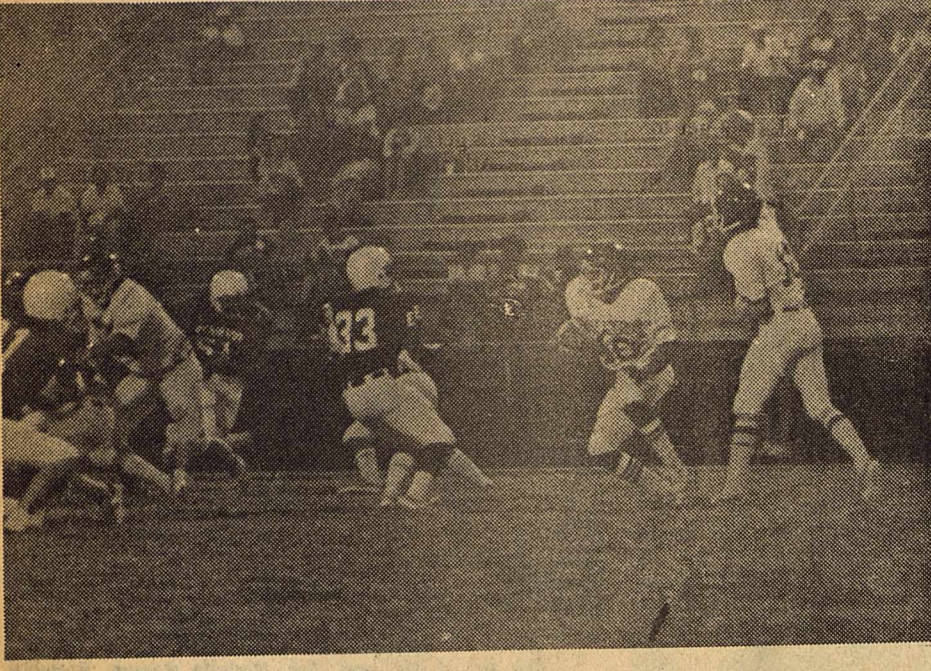

Surber picked up three yards on the first play, then Doan swept right end, picked up some key blocks at the line of scrimmage, and outraced everyone to the magic stripe 82 yards away.

The snap on the PAT kick was fumbled, but Sonora held a 13-0 lead with 5:35 left in the second period.

The Eagles next drive could net only six yards, and after a clipping penalty on the punt return, Sonora took over on their own 43.

Creek missed Vallejo on first down, but on the next play, Doan ran the same

Rex Surber and David Sanchez provide protection for quarterback David Creek as he looks for an open receiver. The Broncos won the contest over their old rival, Eldorado, 41-0, in the first meeting between the teams since 1975.

Sporting Chance By Don Holdridge

As the song says, "It was a very good week" or something like that. For both the Sonora Broncos and the resurrection of your favorite picker.

A shutout is always considered welcome, but four in one week is almost unheard of. The seventh grade, eighth grade and junior varsity teams traveled to Menard Thursday and came away with victories of 22-0, 26-0, and 46-0, respectively. Add in the varsity's 41-0 skunking of Eldorado and you have an amazing week.

The Bronco teams now have a combined record of 11-0-1, and the season is only three week's old.

And while the Bronco fortunes have stayed high, mine finally turned around. I had my best picking week in a long time, hitting 17 of 20 games. That raises my season total to a more respectable 37 of 60 for a .617 percentage.

Despite my early season problems, I'm two out of three in the upset of the week department. This week's was probably the biggest, hitting the nail on the head by tabbing Cincinnati over Pittsburgh. The first week I was right with Buffalo over Miami and nearly hit again the second week before Washington took a last minute win over the Giants.

Sonora at Coahoma

Coahoma was getting beat even bigger than Sonora was winning. The Bulldog offense was anemic, while their defense gave up a bundle of rushing yards. That should be fine with the Broncos. Sonora 34-7.

Ballinger at Colorado City

The Bearcats discovered how to lose last week, and the home field disadvantage will do them in again. Colorado City 14-7.

Brady at Mason

The Bulldogs are mad after losing last week, and the Puncers just have too many injuries. Brady 24-13.

Coleman at Clyde

If the Bulldogs could beat Brady, then the Bluecats will be no match at all. Clyde 38-13.

Comanche at Stephenville

The Indians can't sweat these Class AAAA Yellow-jackets. Unless they're looking ahead to the Brownwood game. Stephenville 28-14.

TCU at Georgia

The Horned Frogs have been playing well enough to win, but they'll have as much problem with these Georgia crackers as the Aggies did. Georgia 42-10.

Tulsa at Arkansas

The Razorbacks always manage to get their non conference schedule padded with patsies. Arkansas 38-17.

Baylor at Texas Tech

Look for a defensive struggle in this one, but the Bears will win the offensive battle. Baylor 10-9.

LSU at Rice

Poor owls. Maybe someday they'll find a team that feels sorry for them. LSU 21-6.

Oregon State at Texas

The Longhorns were a little sluggish at the start last week, but now they're back on track. Texas 31-13.

North Texas State at Houston

The Cougars were supposed to be tough this year, but they haven't shown it yet. This week they get to practice their bully act. Houston 38-17.

Southwest Texas at West Texas State

The Bobcats will find out if they're really ready for NCAA action this week. I don't think so. West Texas 24-20.

Cameron at Angelo State

The rams are rolling, so don't step in front of their express. Angelo State 31-10.

Abilene Christian at Sam Houston

Upset of the week. The Wildcats have their weakest team in years, while the Bearcats are hungry. Sam Houston 28-27.

Dallas at Green Bay

If the Cowboys lose this one, they get shipped to China cause they sure won't be America's team anymore. Dallas 34-17.

Houston at Cincinnati

The Bengals will still be celebrating their victory over Pittsburgh. Houston 24-9.

Atlanta at San Francisco

The 49er's get their bubble burst this week. It should be close. Atlanta 17-16.

Chicago at Pittsburgh

Pity the team the Steelers catch the week after they get beat. Even Walter Payton won't make a difference. Pittsburgh 40-24.

Philadelphia at St. Louis

This could be a prime time for an upset, but I doubt it. The Eagles will still fly high. Philadelphia 27-17.

Broncos Take On Coahoma Bulldogs

After playing close to home for the last three weeks, the Sonora Broncos will get one of those long trips that have become a way of life in West Texas.

The Broncos will put their 3-0 mark on the line at Coahoma Friday night at 8 p.m., and the tendencies could be for them to be down a little, coming off a big win over archrival Eldorado and facing a Bulldog team that has found only limited success this season.

The Bulldogs have managed to win in only one of their three games. And while Sonora was 41-0 victor last week, they were on the bottom end of a similar score in losing to Tahoka, 43-0.

With 21 seniors on the team, Coahoma may be only taking some time to mature since experience was thin with only four starters returning off last year's 6-4 squad.

Top player for the Bulldogs is quarterback Phillip

Ritchey (6-4, 190) who started the last three games of 1979 and connected on nearly two-thirds of his passes.

His favorite target is tight end Randy Clanton (5-11, 180). Fullback Jay Hall (6-2, 200) heads the backfield while Chubby Abrego at 5-10, 240 gives size to the offensive line.

Other top players include defensive end Darrell Douglass, offensive guard Faron Phinney, and tailback Clint Elliot.

The Broncos will counter with a potent offense and a stingy defense that has given up six points this season.

And while the defense is allowing only a measly 124 yards a game, the offense is rolling up nearly that much a quarter.

So far the Broncos have rushed for 1,137 yards and passed another 182. But the passing game isn't a weakness—it just hasn't been needed that much. Quarterback David Creek proved his passing ability in the opener against Ozona when he hit nine of 12 passes for 138 yards.

Fullback Rex Surber has been the workhorse of the Sonora backfield, lugging the ball 56 times for 303 yards and a 5.4 average that includes a 151-yard performance against Junction.

But Johnny Doan, who also cracked the 100-yard barrier in the Junction game, took over the team rushing lead after rolling up 272 yards on 20 carries against Eldorado. He now has 408 yards on 40 carries.

As a team, the Broncos have amassed 1,319 yards total offense for a 439-yard average per game.

Eldorado Game

play to the left side and raced 57 yards to paydirt. But penalties again cost the Broncos as a clipping infraction moved the ball back to the 46.

A three-yard pass from Creek to Doan and runs of eight, eight and nine yards by Doan gave Sonora a first down at the Eldorado 26.

The officials then tacked on 13 more yards for a personal foul, setting up Doan's seven yard TD on the now-familiar play two snaps later.

Creek hit Vallejo on the extra point pass to push the Sonora margin to 21-0 with 1:10 left in the half.

Eldorado had first possession in the second half, and Griffith, filling in for an injured McCormack, found little success, throwing two incompletions and being sacked by David Sanchez and Wesley Barton for a seven yard loss.

Griffith got off a 40-yard punt, but another personal foul penalty on the Eagles gave Sonora the ball on the Eldorado 48.

Creek hit Vallejo on a 12-yarder to give the Broncos a first down at the 27, and Doan felt some more frustration in having an apparent 22-yard TD called back two plays later.

If the penalty wasn't enough to stop the Broncos, then Craig Griffin was on the next play as he batted down a Creek pass and hung on to give Eldorado possession at the 23 and start the best offensive drive of the night.

The march started on a sour note as McCormack's first pass fell incomplete, his second, a completion to Hall, was called back on a procedure penalty and he was dropped for a four-yard loss after a high snap.

Things then started to go the Eagles' way as Eddie Montalvo snared a deflected pass on the next play and rambled down to the Sonora 36 for a 50 yard gain.

McCormack hit Montalvo again two plays later for a first down at the 19, then picked up six yards rushing to the 13.

But disaster struck again two plays later as Stewart got a hand on McCormack's pass, tipping it up in the air, and a streaking Doan ran under it to give Sonora good field position at their own 37.

Stewart sped 13 yards on the first play, then Doan, on the same play that worked so well all night, sprinted 39 yards to the Eagles 11 before being hauled down.

Creek hit Vallejo on the next play for a 27-0 Sonora lead with 3:46 left in the third quarter. The PAT failed.

The Eagles failed to pick up a first down on the final two possessions of the period, while penalties stalled the Sonora offensive thrust.

Doan picked up his third touchdown of the night with less than three minutes gone in the final stanza on an eight yard burst.

The play capped an eight play, 47-yard drive, and Creek's PAT kick gave the Broncos a commanding 34-0 lead.

The Eagles pulled out all the stops on their next series. McCormack passed for 15 yards to Hall, ran for eight more, then hit Hall on passes of eight and 11 yards to set the Eagles up at the Sonora 34.

But this drive also proved to be ill-fated as John Blankenship stepped in front of Martinez on the next play for an interception and a Sonora possession at the 10.

Another personal foul penalty on the Eagles gave the Broncos some breathing room at the 25. The Sonora reserves picked up one first down against a tired Eldorado defense, then a 21-yard burst by Joe Longoria gave Sonora a first down at the Eagle 45.

Wade Hopkins sliced his way for eight yards, and David Buitron picked up three more before a facemask penalty on Eldorado moved the ball to the 19.

Joe David Zavilla took off around the left side on the next play, was hit just short of the goal line and fumbled into the endzone where Blankenship recovered for the final score of the evening.

Creek booted the PAT to give the Red Hoses a 41-0 margin with 2:37 left in the game.

The contest lifts Sonora to 3-0 on the season while Eldorado fell to 1-2.

battles as the only two undefeated squad in the league.

While Sonora was thrashing Eldorado, 41-0, Comanche was handling Class AA toughie Hamilton, 26-14.

The big surprise of the week came as Clyde upset a heavily favored Brady squad, 15-13.

Coleman was drubbed by Eastland, 26-7, while Ballinger was stung by a stong Wall passing game, 46-24.

The district standings shape up with Sonora and Comanche on top at 3-0, Brady and Ballinger at 2-1 and Coleman at 1-2.

Pricklypear Is Major Brush Problem In Edwards Plateau

Pricklypear infestation is rapidly becoming a major brush problem on Texas rangelands, according to a study released by Texas A&M University range specialists recently.

Pricklypear was found to occupy about 25.5 million acres (28 percent) of rangelands within the state. The infestation ranged from a low one percent in the Trans-Pecos to 54 percent in the Edwards Plateau, where much denser stands were also reported.

Fifty-six East Texas counties were not included in the survey because of the low degree of infestation encountered there.

Wildlife, the specialists found, derived food and cover benefit from pear in 35 percent of Texas counties compared to 27 percent for livestock. In livestock production, pricklypear was used for food in 94 percent of the counties with winter feeding a distant second. More

South Texas producers reportedly use pricklypear for wildlife and livestock production than do producers in any other region.

The specialists maintain that 88 percent of pricklypear could be eliminated with no adverse effect on livestock and an estimated 73 percent of that could be eliminated without causing ill effects to wildlife.

Landowners in approximately 37 percent of the counties surveyed are currently practicing some sort of control measure with a variety of chemical and mechanical methods utilized. A Picloram-2,4,5-T mixture was the preferred chemical control measure employed and hand grubbing was listed most often as the primary mechanical method used.

According to the study, the pricklypear problem doesn't appear critical statewide. However, it is much more severe in the Edwards Plateau and Cross Timbers regions. Nearly 50 percent of Edwards Plateau producers have reported livestock health problems due to pricklypear infestations, almost four times the magnitude of other regions. Bowel compaction among sheep is the main problem encountered.

Continued research, the specialists surmise, is needed to find more cost-effective control practices and to develop alternative means for utilizing pricklypear as a feed source.

Limited Calving Season May Produce Higher Prices

Cattlemen are aware that a limited calving season offers certain advantages over a continuous calving program.

According to Dr. A.L. Hoermann, area livestock specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service headquartered at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center in Uvalde, producers on a limited calving season can usually demand better prices because they have a larger group of calves of uniform age and size which make a better "package deal."

Hoermann says better management, grazing production and breed-back can usually be obtained under limited calving programs. In addition, summer-born calves don't perform as well as those dropped during the cool season. Results of a 15-year study indicate that calves dropped during the six warmer months averaged 37 pounds less at the 205-day weight than animals calved in cool months.

He says calves will perform best if dropped just prior to the time lush forage is at its peak, resulting in more milk, increasing the weaning weight and cows will be in better condition to rebreed.

Hoermann suggests cattle producers record the number of calves born each month throughout the year.

Then circle those months when the least number of calves occur. Eliminate these cows hold for breeding at a more optimum time. By removing bulls nine months prior to the low calving months an effective switch to a limited calving season can be obtained when the highest quality forage is plentiful.

The Texas A&M University beef cattle specialist reminds producers that management is geared to group calving. Better health management vac-ination, castration, implanting, etc.) can be obtained when cows are bred to calves in a short period.

Forage and feeding should be considered when determining the breeding season since most problems can usually be traced to inadequate nutrition.

Intense ranch planning is necessary to obtain maximum benefits from range resources total capital outlay time and energy says Dr. Larry White, area Extension range specialist.

White says range monitoring can determine plants that are eaten most, that provide the best nutritive value and produce the best livestock response. Changes in grazing management programs and brush and pasture improvement can be determined from examining forage cycles. The amount of supplementation and when to supplement can also be determined.

White says producers who operate on the "average" can profit from better information and such planning. Demonstration work has been geared to assist producers in converting rangeland forage into more pounds of beef per acre.

Chemical and microscope analysis of fecal samples can now be used effectively by ranchers to determine protein content of grasses consumed and the grasses most often eaten. White says an excess of certain grass species in a given pasture is indicative that this species may not be preferred by grazing cattle.

"Don't let what you see as the most obvious be your guide to manage ranges," White stresses. "Most often, the forage left behind is the wrong forage to manage for. By selecting three or four plants that are most utilized, an effective range management plan can be initiated emphasizing these species."

Cattlemen's Round-Up To Hold Sheep & Goat Sale In Junction

Phase three of the 21st annual Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children, the special sheep and goat sale, will debut in Junction October 6. For the second year, the Junction Stockyards will be the location.

Willard Jordan, owner of the firm and CRCC Hill Country chairman announced this week after it was incorrectly reported earlier. Jordan noted the Junction area raised over $5,000 last year and predicts ranchmen in the area will go beyond that amount in the fall 1980 round-up.

Other chairmen in the Kimble County area are: E.S. Herring and Mr. and Mrs. David Dobbins.

The 21st CRCC will kick off with a barbecue in San Angelo on September 6 which will be headlined by cowboy movie singing star Rex Allen.

Livestock will be gathered in the weeks following with the Cattlemen's Round-Up Cattle Sale set for September 29 at the Abilene Livestock Auction.

CRCC Horse Sale will be October 4 in Abilene and the CRCC Livestock Sale in Coleman October 8. CRCC Sheep and Goat Sale will be in Junction October 6.

Other sales include Farm Equipment in Clyde on November 8 and a Special Auction on November 12 in Brownwood.

"CLICK." That's where energy conservation begins. Turning off unnecessary lights, running the clothes washer, dryer, and dishwasher only with full loads. Turn the TV off when you leave it. Set your thermostat at 78 degrees for cooling and at 68 degrees for heating. These are simple conservation measures that can add up to big savings with just a little effort.

For even greater energy savings be sure your home has adequate insulation in the walls and ceilings. Double paned windows or storm windows and doors also help to insulate.

Weatherstripping and caulking are important to help keep your heating or cooling inside where it belongs. An energy efficient heat pump can provide 200% efficiency for summer cooling and winter heating.

All of these conservation measures can save you energy. And saving energy means you're saving money, all year long. West Texas Utilities wants you to get the most for your energy dollars. If you want more information on energy conservation we'll have one of our energy consultants assist you free of charge. Just call WTU.
