Filing Deadline Nears For City, School Elections

Filing deadlines for candidates in the April city and school board elections are drawing near. Next Wednesday is the deadline for candidates to file--4 p.m. for the school and 5 p.m. for the city.

Three city council terms, those of Hershel Davenport, Lemuel Lopez and Jack Kerbow, are expiring.

Davenport and Lopez have both filed for re-election, but Kerbow has indicated he will not seek re-election. No other candidates have filed.

While the city election has been unable to draw a wide field of candidates, the school races have drawn wide interest with only one of the three vacancies having an unopposed race.

Board President Sam Perez is unopposed in his Place 2 bid for re-election, but Dr. Johnny Fields and Carol Parker have both filed for the Place 1 spot currently held by Dorothy Pope.

The unexpired spot for Place 3 has also drawn a large field with Dr. Lonnie Pollard, Scott Shurley and DeDe Doran all running for the office.

The Devil's River News next week will begin a special column allowing each of the candidates to express their views on the races and why they are running for their position.

Sonora, Area Sales Tax Takes Big Jump Over 1980 Figures

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Wednesday said 960 Texas cities shared nearly $100 million in city sales tax rebates in February.

Bullock said his office sent a total of $91.5 million to cities levying the optional one percent city sales tax.

He said the January-February payments to cities this year is more than $30 million higher than the same period last year.

Quarterly sales tax filers--including holiday sales in the last quarter of 1980--generated the higher amounts of revenue to the cities, Bullock said.

Sonora in particular and the general West Texas area all showed strong increases during the month.

The City of Sonora received $38,318.14 as its monthly rebate as compared with $11,597.45 in 1980. The $57,978.02 collected so far this year is a 222 percent increase over the $17,958.07 figure of a year ago.

Checks sent to other area cities and their percent of change include Big Lake, $26,941.29, up 128 percent; Del Rio, $161,601.67, up 92 percent; Eldorado, $22,652.73 up 262 percent; Junction, $11,9109.27, up 50 percent; Mason, $8,745.67, up 73 percent; Mertzon, $4,065.78, up 180 percent; Mertzton, $4,065.78, up 181 percent; Rocksprings, $3,519.27, up 170 percent; and San Angelo, $587,725.47, up 92 percent.

Houston's check this month will be for $18 million, compared to a $7.3 million rebate for February last year. Dallas received $10.5 million, a $5.9 million increase over the same period during 1980.

Fort Worth's check totaled $3.4 million this month, compared to $1.5 million last February.

San Antonio will receive a check for $4.9 million this month compared to $1.8 million for February of 1980.

January-February city sales tax rebated for 1981 total $124.7 million, compared to $60 million during the same two-month period last year.

The city sales tax is collected along with the state sales tax by merchants and businesses and rebated monthly to the cities in which it is collected by the Comptroller.

Assembly of God Church. Reverend Louis Halford, pastor, has announced. Hunt and his wife, Carolyn recently completed their second 4-year term in the Dominican Republic, where they both taught and Hunt served as administrator in the Central Assemblies of God Bible School in

Santo Domingo. Mrs. Hunt was also secretary-treasurer for the Saturday Bible School. Hunt served as training coordinator for Royal Rangers in all of Latin America. Royal Rangers is an Assemblies of God development program for boys. Hunt organized seminars training camps, and correspondence studies for leaders of this growing ministry he also served as counselor for the Dominican Royal Rangers program which he organized 8 years ago. The Hunts were also active in church construction, having coordinated seven building projects in the last year. They were assisted in this by Mobilization And Placement Service (MAPS) teams from the U.S. MAPS sends church laymen on short-term volunteer missionary work abroad.

Community Outlook

By Don Holdridge

Everyone I've talked to has had a very positive reaction to President Reagan's address to Congress last week. I was particularly impressed by the response the legislators and gallery gave him. I can never remember a speech by a president getting such a positive reception although I realize my memory doesn't go back as far as some.

His proposed programs for getting the economy back on track are a big step in the right direction. I personally would have like to have seen an even bigger program of budget cuts, and I think Reagan feels the same, but the time factor of preparing an any more extensive program would probably hamper or at least delay the much needed reforms.

Political expediency also plays a major role in the program since Reagan realizes the liberal element in Congress will be hard pressed to go along on the current proposals.

In case you didn't notice, House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill, seated directly behind the President, wasn't exactly jumping up and down with joy during the speech. Others say they can't see cutting the taxes because such a move would be inflationary. Reagan has apparently sold the majority of the American public on the programs--their the same ones he promised during the election--but he still has a big selling job in front of him with those who supposedly represent the interests of the people.

Some of these elected officials need to read the proverbial handwriting on the wall. A loud and clear message from the American people was sent to Washington last November. Reagan was elected by the largest margin of electoral votes in this century and the people are ready for a change. Some of our legislators should take heed, or they won't be an elected official much longer. The Senate has already shifted to a conservative majority and the gap in the House of Representatives has narrowed substantially.

It is curious to note the about face being done by many of the liberals in Congress. Many of those who previously have been the big spenders are now trying to claim a victory in Reagan's attempts to balance the budget. Apparently, they have been reading the handwriting.

No one has promised the job will be easy. The various special interest groups will be fighting hard to try to save their programs from the knife. Some of the cuts--both in expenditures and taxes--will go down the drain in compromises.

But the proposals are an urgent step in the right direction--the most drastic change in federal economic policy since the FDR presidency.

As Reagan said, if anyone has a better plan for bringing the economy back under control, let them come forward. If they don't have a better plan, can they allow the status quo to remain?

Ray Barnhart To Head Federal Highway Administration

Ray Barnhart, father of Mrs. Mark Rousselot of Houston, has been appointed by President Reagan to run the Federal Highway Administration. Barnhart has been serving a six-year term as commissioner of the Texas Highways and Public Transportation Department. He was State Republican Chairman and co-chairman of Reagan's 1976 campaign.

Sen. John Tower (R-Tx) endorsed Barnhart as "one of the best appointments that his administration has made."

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen (D-Tx) said Barnhart would bring to the job "an intimate knowledge" of the highway system from a state level.

Public Notice

Public Notice of Tax Exemptions Available To Homeowners

The Sutton County Appraisal District tax office is currently accepting applications for residence homestead exemptions. The deadline for filing is April 1, 1981. Applications should be filed as early as possible to avoid inconvenience to the homeowner.

Two types of homestead exemptions from school taxes are available to taxpayers who owned their residence homesteads in this school district on January 1 of this year. First, the general homestead exemption is available to all homeowners and exempts $5,000 from the market value of the homestead.

Second, any person who is 65 years of age or older or who is disabled can be exempted an additional $10,000 from the market value of the homestead.

Proof of age or disability may be necessary. "Disabled," in this case, refers to the definition found in the Federal Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance Act under the Social Security Administration. Disability is defined as inability to engage in any substantial gainful employment which exists in the national economy, or, in the case of someone who is 65 and blind, inability by reason of such blindness to engage in the employment in which he was previously engaged. The person claiming disability does not necessarily have to be drawing benefits from Social Security.

Homeowners age 65 or older who apply for their exemption will be granted a tax freeze. If application is not made, the tax freeze will be lost for this year. Application forms were mailed earlier to all homeowners who qualified for a homestead exemption in 1980. If you did not receive an application, or if you have questions about qualifying for exemptions or filing application forms, contact the Sutton County Appraisal District tax office at 387-2809.

Application forms may also be picked up at the tax office at 222 N.E. Main St. 2c20

Do you know how patch work quilts got their name? Quilting expert, Barbara Savell knows and she shared more interesting information on quilts with the Happy Homemaker Extension Club.

Mrs. Savell patiently led members step by step in quilting a pillow top. Not everyone felt ready to tackle a quilt at the end of the meeting but all were excited with the pillow tops.

Members attending were Cheri Donaho, and son Joshua; Carolyn Doran, Barbara Arendt, Kay Faris, Karen McAnally, Diana Anderson, and guests Cyndy Curtus, Francis Pruitt and special guest Barbara Savell.

Couponing & Refund will be the March program. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, or national origin.

West Texas Rehabilitation Center Receives Bequest

A bequest of more than three-quarters of a million dollars was received by the West Texas Rehabilitation Center, to be added to the WTRC Foundation, the Center's endowment fund.

Other properties in New Mexico and South Dakota. Including the interest, the revenue from the note should exceed $700,000, Jim Polk, president of the WTRC board, said.

Dr. Dale Johnson, Director of Medical Affairs, received a staff award honoring 30 years service to WTRC. Dr. Johnson, a pediatrician, will retire and move to central Texas. He was a member of the committee of pediatricians who met with community leaders in November 1951 to establish the Taylor County Society for Crippled Children, the parent organization of WTRC.

Mixed Drink Sales Tax Reported

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Friday said the sale of mixed drinks in Texas during 1980 totaled nearly $1 billion.

Bullock released a report showing that the sale of mixed drinks during the final quarter of the year reached $25.4 million.

He said his office is sending Texas counties and cities more than $7.3 million in rebates from the mixed drink tax during the fourth quarter of 1980.

Texas cities and counties receive a 15 percent rebate of the 10 percent gross receipts tax charged on mixed drinks sold within their boundaries.

He said 213 counties and 367 cities would receive rebate checks.

Total tax revenue in Sutton County was $6,665.64 with the County treasury receiving $999.85 as its 15 percent share.

A total of $3,605.16 was collected within the Sonora city limits with the City offering $540.77 as its 15 percent share.

The state will pocket more than $18 million from mixed drink taxes from the October, November and December period.

During 1980 the state's share of mixed drink taxes totaled $67.7 million. City-county rebates totaled $27.7 million.

The tax, which was authorized under the law that legalized the sale of mixed drinks in Texas, is collected by the Alcoholic Beverage Commission and rebates are sent quarterly to cities and counties by the Comptroller.

Sporting Chance

By Don Holdrige

This is one of those weeks where nothing is going on in the sports world—at least in Sonora. The golf team started its season last weekend, the tennis team starts this week and track opening is still another week away.

Although this week is slow, I'm sure things will change soon with me frantically trying to dig up all the results every Monday. Maybe it is better like this.

Off in the far away world of Florida, a strange phenomenon is occurring. While most of us are just now getting over the withdrawal pains of football season, baseball's annual spring training is getting started.

Once again a strike is threatening the nation's favorite passtime, but I'm beginning the strike talks are starting to be used as a way of creating pre-season interest in a game that usually doesn't really get rolling until later in the season.

If the season is played—and I believe it will—then a lot of Texans will be keeping their eyes peeled toward Houston. After 19 years, the Astros finally won something last year, and they proved they were for real in taking eventual world champion Philadelphia down to the wire in their five game playoff.

And to think, they did it without J.R. Richard. He's the guy most people agree was the best pitcher in the game. The reports coming out of camp appear to be favorable about him making a return from his stroke, but even if he can't, the Astros grabbed Dodger star Don Sutton in the free agent draft. If there was any doubt about Houston having the best pitching staff in the majors last year, there can't be this year.

It just goes to prove if you think things are dull right now, just wait. Things will definitely start popping.

Netters Open Season In San Angelo

History Of Texas Public Schools

By Dr. Joe Andrews
SISDSuperintendent
Texas Public Schools
Week, set March 2-6, is a time for Texas citizens to visit local schools and to discover what's taking place in education.
But Texans should also become aware of education's past. It has taken great strides since the early days of Texas history.
One of the primary goals of the early settlers of Texas was public education. They listed the failure to provide education as one of their grievances in the Texas Declaration of Independence from Mexico.
Mirabeau Lamar's message to the Republic of Texas Congress in 1838 advocated setting aside public domain for public schools. His interest resulted in his being called the "Father of Education in Texas."
In 1939, Congress designated three leagues of land to support public schools for each Texas county and 50 leagues for a state university. The next year, each county was allocated one more league of land.

The Republic, however, did not establish a public school system or university. Texas' first state constitution, written in 1845 when Texas joined the union, advocated public education, instructing the Legislature to designate at least 10 percent of the tax revenue as "a perpetual fund" to be used to educate children of indigent parents.
Every governor of the state during this period insisted that the Legislature should establish a system of schools, but nothing was done until January 31, 1854, when Governor Elisha Pease signed the bill setting up the Texas public school system.
The public school system was made possible by setting aside $2 million out of $10 million Texas received for giving up its claim to land to the north and west of its present boundaries.

The Common School Law of 1854 provided for an annual distribution, on a per capita scholastic basis, of the interest on the school "Special Fund." Every county was to be divided into a suitable number of school districts, each of which would elect trustees to set up and supervise the system. The law permitted the trustees of any district to convert the primary department of any college or academy "into a common school for such district."
This resulted in a "common school" being conducted under the sponsorship of the State at every university, college, academy, and institute in Texas, regardless of their sponsors. A large number of new schools came into existence as a result of the 1854 law.
In 1875, an act was passed which authorized any incorporated city "to provide for the gratuitous education of all children of scholastic age, within its limits." This act created the "independent school district."

When adopted in 1876, the present Texas Constitution provided: "All funds, lands and other property heretofore set apart and appropriated for the support of public schools; all the alternate sections of land reserved by the state of grants heretofore made or that may hereafter be made to railroads, or other corporations, of any nature whatsoever; one half of the public domain of the state, and all sums of money that may come to the state from the sale of any portion of the same shall constitute a perpetual public school fund."
More than 52,000,000 acres of the Texas public domain were allotted for school purposes.
The Constitution also provided for one fourth of occupation taxes and a poll tax of one dollar for school support, and provisions for local taxation.
No provision was made for direct ad valorem taxation for maintenance of an available school fund, but a maximum 20 cents state ad valorem school tax was adopted in 1883, and raised to 35 cents in connection with the provision for free textbooks made in the amendment of 1918.
In 1949, the Gilmer-Aiken law reorganized the state system of public schools by making big changes in administration and financing. First the State Department of Education was merged with the Texas Education Agency.
The new arrangement strengthened the power of the state to guide the development of education to a more effective program.
Second, the State School Board of nine members appointed by the Governor with the approval of the Senate was changed to a board of 21 members elected by popular vote.
Third, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, formerly elected, then became the State Commissioner of Education appointed by the State Board for a term of four years.
Fourth, the new system abolished the traditional per capita system of distributing state funds and in its place adopted a plan based upon the "economic index." This is a measure of the ability of each county and district to raise revenue for school support.
Also, the new system provided a minimum salary for teachers.
All schools below college level are headed by the State Board of Education, whose members are elected from congressional districts as established in 1971.
This board appoints a State Commissioner of Education who is executive head of the Texas Education Agency which administers the public school system.
Under the law, TEA consists of (1) the State Board of Education, (2) the State Commissioner of Education, (3) the State Department of Education and (4) the State Board of Vocational Education.
The personnel of the State Board of Education and the State Board of Vocational Education is the same with the members of the State Board of Education serving ex officio as members of the State Board of Vocational Education when considering matters relating to vocational education.

Texas still has two types of school districts: independent and common. Each administers local affairs through a board of trustees. Independent school districts deal directly with TEA; common districts are supervised by elected county school superintendents and county trustees.
Ad valorem taxes provided most of the financial support for schools by school districts until January 1, 1975, when the five cents ad valorem tax for the available school fund was abolished. This tax also has been a significant source of state support, at a rate not to exceed 35 cents on each $100 in real and personal property, but a constitutional amendment adopted in 1968 provides for gradual phasing out of state ad valorem taxes for all purposes except the tax levied for certain institutions of higher learning.
Other state support comes from designated percentages of several taxes from the permanent school fund.
Educational statistics have changed throughout the years. The following statistics are recorded in the 1978-79 Texas Almanac. Figures are the earliest and latest statistics recorded.
In 1854-55, the scholastic population was 65,463; in 1975-76, the scholastic population was 2,944,925.
In 1872, the Texas school professional personnel included 1,890; in 1975-76, there were 164,312. In 1929-30, there were 6,839 common school districts and 1,001 independent school districts and 1,008 independent school districts. In 1872-73, the annual state salary was $210. In 1975-76, the annual state salary was $11,929.

BPBA Report

Gas Decontrol Possibility Proposed For September 30

There has been some talk of decontrolling natural gas before the 1985 scheduled date. The Office of Management and Budget, under former Congressman Dave Stockman, proposes decontrolling natural gas prices by September 30 of this year.

One private economist said that prices to both home and industrial users could possibly double if prices are fully decontrolled. American producers are being paid less for their natural gas than Canadian or Mexican producers.

The leader of the Republican Party in the Senate, Howard Baker of Tennessee said he would favor the decontrol of gas prices if there was a Windfall Profit Tax on gas. He said the tax, if passed, should remain in effect "at least temporarily."

Senator Robert Dole of Kansas, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, was surprised at Baker's proposal of another Windfall Profits Tax and said he opposes an excise tax on gas.

President Reagan is scheduled to make a decision on gas decontrol soon.

The Office of Management and Budget is also recommending that the 105 million dollar gas rationing program be terminated as quickly as possible. The OMB also favors reducing the Federal Government spending for solar development by 62 percent and funds to promote energy conservation by 65 percent.

Other reductions would include slashing 9.1 billion from the program to spur production of synthetic fuel from coal and oil shale. And they are proposing to sell oil bonds to private investors to fill the country's emergency oil reserve. This change would save the government 14 billion dollars.

The Permian Basin rig count last week was 377. One year ago it was 310.

Tight Gas Ruling Released

The Railroad Commission has recommended the designation of the Wilcox (Lobo) Formation in two South Texas counties as a tight gas formation from which production could qualify for incentive pricing under the federal Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978.

Determination of a tight gas formation is by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, but an appropriate state agency--the Railroad Commission in Texas--must recommend such action to the FERC.

Today's action during the weekly conference on Oil and Gas Division matters involves the Wilcox (Lobo) Formation underlying Webb and Zapata Counties along the Rio Grande in the Commission's District 4.

According to the recommendation approved by Chairman Jim Nugent and Commissioners Mack Wallace and Buddy Temple, the Wilcox (Lobo) ranges in thickness from 80 to 440 feet across the two counties. The top of the formation is encountered at depths from 6,713 to 11,650 feet, with 9,776 feet being the median depth.

The Commission's NGPA Section, in urging determination of the Wilcox (Lobo) as a tight gas formation, reported the expected average daily flow rate of the 76 wells covered in their study as 195,000 cubic feet.

Under the federal gas policy act, gas from FERC-designated tight gas sands can be sold at a price that is 200 percent of the going rate for production from new onshore wells as incentive to explore for and develop gas from formations that are difficult to produce.

The Commission's Wilcox (Lobo) recommendation covers all but portions of southwest Webb County and northwest Zapata County. Also, it marks the first time that some areas requested by operators have been excluded by the RRC. The area recommended for tight formation designation covers 4,095.2 square miles.

With the Wilcox (Lobo), the Commission now has recommended FERC-designation of eight formations, or series of formations, as tight gas sands. The eight are the Cotton Valley series in northeast Texas, Canyon in southwest Texas, Cisco in Reagan County, Vicksburg U-V and Y formations in Hidalgo County, Lower Wilcox in Austin, Colorado, and Wharton Counties, Midway in Montgomery County, and the Wilcox (Lobo).

The eight are the Cotton Valley series in northeast Texas, Canyon in southwest Texas, Cisco in Reagan County, Vicksburg U-V and Y formations in Hidalgo County, Lower Wilcox in Austin, Colorado, and Wharton Counties, Midway in Montgomery County, and the Wilcox (Lobo).

Five of the formations--Cotton Valley, Canyon, Cisco and Vicksburg U-V, and Y--have been designated as tight formations by the FERC.

Pertinent sections of the federal gas act contain three guidelines for qualification as tight sands:

1) Estimated average in-situ gas permeability through the pay section must be 0.1 millidarcies or less. Permeability is a measure of resistance by rock to the movement of fluids through it. Fired house brick has 1,500 times the permeability of rock meeting this guideline.

2) Stabilized production rates of gas at ground atmosphere and without stimulation indicate that a well tapping a tight sand is a low-yield producer.

3) The yield of a well producing from a tight formation is no more than five barrels of oil per day.

Nominations Released

February 1981 nomination for the purchase of Texas crude oil total 2,567,731 barrels daily, the Railroad Commission's Oil and Gas Division reported today.

Purchaser nominations for January 1981 totaled 2,587,925 barrels daily. Comparable purchaser nominations for February 1980 totaled 2,653,720 barrels daily.

The Commission will set the February production allowable during the monthly statewide oil and gas proration hearing at 9 a.m. Tuesday at the Quality Inn in Austin.

The statewide oil allowable for January is set at 100 percent of the maximum efficient rate with actual production to approximate 2,490,000 barrels daily.

The Oil and Gas Division reported final tabulations place purchases of Texas crude oil in November 1980 at 2,453,095 barrels daily, or 675,972 barrels daily less than nominations for that month.

Nugent Offers Optimism

Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Nugent said he believes Americans have turned the corner in their drive to solve the nation's energy problems.

In remarks before members of Austin's Comprehensive Community Management Program Task Force, Nugent pointed to record rates of oil and gas drilling and completions in 1980, a jump in domestic coal production and an "incredible 20 percent" reduction in oil imports to support his belief.

The energy and transportation regulatory official also cited a recently published study showing the United States was using energy seven percent more efficiently than a decade ago and that each dollar's worth of goods and services produced by Americans required less energy than in 1970.

"The events of the past two years have not only pushed up prices, but have also discouraged imports and encouraged an intensified energy search in this country," Nugent advised the task force members during a meeting at RRC headquarters.

Nugent further noted: "...U.S. coal production rose to 825 million-plus tons last year, and more energy was produced by other alternative fuels.

--The strategic petroleum reserve now stocks more than 100 million barrels of crude and is being increased by at least 100,000 barrels daily.

"In short," said Nugent, "I am telling you this country has turned around and is going the right way toward solving its energy problems. But, we still have a long way to go."

Bob R. Harris, director of the Commission's Oil and Gas Division, told the task force that the rate of decline in U.S. oil and gas production has been slowed by legislation bearing incentives that caused upswings in petroleum prospecting. He noted, in particular, that the U.S. still has about twice as much oil "left in the ground" as has been produced to date. Many tertiary projects are being initiated to recover some of this 340 million barrels of oil, he reported.

Austin is fortunate to be in a location where it has ready access to a variety of fuel sources--Solar, geothermal, wind, nuclear and lignite," Harris said. "Already, a more equitable spread among this variety is taking place.

"The chance of Austin being in real trouble by losing one (of the sources) is decreasing."

The task force also heard views on the energy situation from Dr. Herbert H. Woodson of the university of Texas, R.L. Hancock of the City of Austin's electric department, and Dan Smith, nuclear energy analyst, and Dr. C.D. Rao, coal and lignite analyst, both of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council.

Woodson said the nation has 30 times more coal than oil and gas and should be using more coal. "A hundred years from now hydrocarbons will be so valuable as (petrochemical) feedstocks that we can't afford to burn them as fuel," he contended.

Hancock reported Austinites, in heeding the need for conservation in the use of electricity, have saved the equivalent of 150 billion cubic feet of gas since 1972, or three years of electric energy supply.

Forage Quantity Low, Quality High

Forage quality and quantity are mixed over Texas, but for the most part, quantity is down while quality is better than last year.

"Drought conditions in late 1979 and through most of this year, followed by September rains, have caused this situation," explains Dr. R.Q. Landers, Jr. of San Angelo, area specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"September rains brought a lot of drought-stressed grasses back to life and caused an upsurge in quality, with protein content doubling and tripling in some cases," he points out.

For instance, forage samples collected near Abilene about a month ago averaged 9.5 percent crude protein, with some cool-season legumes running as high as 20 percent.

"Forage throughout the Rio Grande Plains, Hill Country, Trans-Pecos and most other areas falls into the same situation—generally good quality but not enough of it," says the specialist.

A mid-October cold snap brought an earlier than average frost to northern and western areas as well as to parts of Central Texas, bringing warm-season grass growth to a halt. So now, producers must depend on small grains and cool-season grasses to provide vide stock with good quality grazing, says Landers.

The range specialist urges ranchers to keep abreast of grazing conditions to make sure their livestock are receiving sufficient nutrients to maintain body condition. "For maintenance, sheep and goats require forage with a 5.9 percent protein content. Deer need even higher quality forage—13 to 16 percent," says Landers.

He emphasizes that a lactating animal (one nursing its young) requires more protein than a dry one. For instance, a lactating cow needs forage averaging about 9 percent crude protein.

Landers recommends that producers send forage samples to the Forage Testing Lab at Texas A&M University for analysis of protein and mineral content. This information will help determine the type of supplemental feeding program.

He also notes that a close study of range conditions can provide useful information for assessing the nutritional requirements of livestock.

Landers lists these descriptions of winter forage conditions and how they will likely measure up in protein content:

Weathered forage—3-1/2 percent crude protein; few grasses for stock to choose from, no desirable green plants, and no moisture.

Dormant forage—5 percent crude protein; good grasses available in early fall, almost no green plants and no moisture.

Average forage—6-1/2 percent crude protein; a mixture of available grasses, some green plants, and average winter moisture.

Good forage—8 percent crude protein; many different plants available, about 25 percent green forage, and good winter moisture.

"Every producer needs to assess his situation, determine the protein needs of his livestock, and then use supplemental feeding to meet these needs," explains Landers.

Jerry Lackey's Country Folk

When traveling the territory primarily known as the Concho Valley, some ten West Texas counties, one would get the idea the terrain is set for the best approaching spring in a quarter century.

However, my travels beyond this region have alarmed me to the fact that a major part of the state is on the verge of a severe drought if a good soaking rain does not arrive soon.

San Angelo based wool buyer W. F. "Son" DRAKE said some of his buddies went fishing down past Juno and "found terribly dry conditions. What few weeds available for possible sheep feed are actually not out of the ground enough for them to obtain a bit."

Henry Clark of Del Rio comments: "Why its dry from Loma Alta to Del Rio and Bracketville. There is a strip south of Loma Alta which hasn't received any measurable moisture in two years."

Norman Dietel of Fredericksburg says that part of the Texas Hill Country "has been on the short end of the moisture stick as well." "Our peach farmers worried through most of January, not only from the moisture standpoint, but too many warm days could possibly bring out early budding."

Peach trees require so many cold days each winter in order to produce in the summer. Of course, last year things were going well until hail and other weather problems spoiled the crop.

Speaking of Hill Country fruit, Froggie and Gene Jones operate an apple farm south of Junction. Last year they produced 2,200 bushels in their orchard. "It's too early to say what to expect this year," they say.

The Jones' neighbors, Bernell and B.L. Smith are making use of another product that is plentiful across West Texas—the Mesquite. B.L. is sawing up layers from elderly tree stumps, constructing legs and polishing them into beautiful coffee table. He took one over to Froggie Jones, who happens to be an artist, and she painted a wild turkey on it.

Visiting the Smith Ranch is always a treat. Entering over a cattle-guard with a sign over it reading: Suits Us, the visitor approaches a beautiful native stone home Below the hill are the barns and pens and stretching to the South Llano River are irrigated small grain fields.

I refer to the place as the Smith Zoo Ranch. The foundation is set deep in pedigrees of quarter horses They spend most of their life in the breeding of horses from Hobo, Joe Moore and Chario Bill.

Rawhide Bo, P-136-847, and Smith's Don Bar, were longtime studs. But a few years back, after winning every major horse show in the nation, the Smiths decided they wanted to stay home and do fulltime hobbies.

The other day while visiting, we watched Four-Horned sheep graze on an oat patch near the house. (They originated in Spain about 1680.) Also near by were some belted Galloway cattle which B.L. says came from Scotland. They have a flock of Mouflon sheep and a herd of Hereford goats.

Well, speaking of Texas products which are being utilized to bring in now or additional income, what about prickly pear? Like the Smith's unusual animals, and Mesquite tables the Jones apples etc., Leroy Williams of Dimmit County in South Texas in making money with prickly pear.

I was visiting with his brother, Jack Williams of San Angelo recently. Jack says LeRoy claims the spine laden cacti is a savior as an emergency feed. He uses pear as a supplement—not as the so-called "last resort" feed—and nurtures it in all his pastures.

"Pear allows grass to go about twice as far," he says. "Cattle normally graze 12 to 15 hours a day. If you keep them on pear about eight hours their grazing time on grass is cut significantly."

A few years ago Williams cleared 800 acres and row-planted pear in 50-acre blocks. Each day he burns a sufficient amount for the herd to eat. Burning off the thorns with a butane torch makes the substance more palatable for livestock.

The moral of this column is: if you are living in a drought and don't have a few oil and gas well pumping in your pasture, it might be a good time to look into some unused products on your range which may help out in the cost of living increases!

Pasture Legumes Draw Interest

Pasture growers throughout Texas are getting more and more interested in legumes each year—for some good reasons.

First of all, legumes offer higher quality forage than grass, says Dr. J.N. Pratt, forage specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. This means that cattle on grass pastures have higher conception rates and higher weaning weights than cattle on grass pastures and wintered on grass hay. This results in more beef produced per cow and per acre.

Legumes also lengthen the grazing season, points out Pratt. Although planted in the fall, legumes can provide an additional six to eight weeks of high quality forage in late winter and early spring when good grazing is at a premium.

Another plus for legumes is that they improve soil fertility and physical condition. Under good management, legumes can provide nitrogen for early season grass growth after they have matured, noted the specialist.

In addition to providing high quality grazing, legumes can be harvested for top quality hay why excess growth occurs in spring and early summer.

Several legumes are adapted to many soil climatic conditions but lacks the volume of growth which other legumes can provide. Hubam and Madrid sweet-clover are adapted to calcareous soils, generally west of Interstate 35. Yuchi arrowleaf clover is a new legume adapted to much of East and Central Texas.

Subterranean clover is gaining in popularity and is adapted to bermudagrass pastures which are grazed closely. Pasture producers interested in more information on how legumes perform in a certain area should contact their county Extension agent, suggest Pratt.

Market Information Telephone System Initiated By TAES

A new dimension in marketing information has just been initiated by specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Known as Telephone Outlook and Market Information (TOMI), the system will provide a current economic analysis of agricultural products to anyone interested in commodity outlook.

"The service will be available to anyone, day or night, seven days a week, by calling telephone 713/845-6437," explains Dr. Ed Uvacek, Jr., Extension economist-livestock marketing.

Each subject matter topic will be timed so that it coincides with the release of important government or trade information, he adds. Recordings will range from two to six minutes, with average length about three minutes.

Congressman
21st District-Texas

Reports from Washington

Committees Critical to Good Policy, Good Government

In the Congress, the difference between good legislation and bad — good government and bad — is often decided in committee. The best way to produce responsible government is to produce responsible legislation in the drafting process.

I have been fortunate since I have been in Congress representing the people of the 21st Congressional District. In the last Congress, I served on the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. It was an important assignment, involving work on some important issues of concern not only to those of us from Texas, but to the Nation.

We worked, of course, on energy policy. But we deliberated long and hard on some other matters. A long-needed revision to the 1934 Communications Act began in earnest. And we wrote landmark legislation deregulating many of the Nation's industries, chief among them this Nation's railroad industry. It was critical that "deregulation" of the railroad industry achieve its purpose. It was equally critical that deregulation not perpetuate a monopoly like the one held over the City of San Antonio.

This injustice had to end. And the Committee provided the battleground to bring about a responsible means.

Most of us who worked on this legislation from beginning to end had one goal in mind: We worked to make certain that the legislation eventually enacted into law was responsible, that it was in the public's interest. Not just the industry which would benefit from less costly and stifling regulation. But the consumer's as well — and particularly the San Antonio utility consumer. We succeeded in doing just that.

This is also my objective in the 97th Congress: to work hard in producing responsible legislation in an effort to make government more responsible. I believe this is what a vast majority of Americans want. It is what I am committed to working for in your behalf.

In this Congress, I will have an important new committee assignment; the Committee on Appropriations. It is important for several reasons. First, it is the Committee which controls the Federal purse strings. All Federal departments and agencies eventually must convince the Appropriations Committee that their budgets are as lean as possible. This committee will be going over the budgets with a fine tooth comb to make certain they are.

Secondly, I will have an opportunity to further our interests in a stronger national defense and more sensible policies relating to our natural resources. I have been appointed to the Military Construction Subcommittee which will be playing a key role in helping to restore our military superiority. Our military, including our military bases and other installations, have been allowed to deteriorate to a dangerously inadequate state. This decline must be reversed. They must be improved to meet the needs of a strengthened national defense.

I will also be serving on the Interior Subcommittee. Before this subcommittee will be the appropriations for such issues as predator control, the strategic petroleum reserve, fossil energy research, and energy conservation, not to mention a host of other issues critical to our Nation's resource future.

Our natural resources are much too valuable to be entrusted to the bureaucracy in Washington. I intend to see — through the appropriations process — that states and localities have a greater voice in determining the wisest use of those resources.

The 97th Congress has important work before it. How successful we are in producing solutions to our problems will be determined largely by how successful the committees of Congress are in writing good legislation.

It is the key to good government. In my book, good government is a government that serves; not a government that merely governs.

Pool Plans Large Expansion

David W. Biegler, President of Pool Well Servicing Company, announced Feb. 4 that the company has been authorized a $33.5 million supplement to the 1981 capital expenditures budget for the acquisition of additional land rigs and auxiliary equipment for the domestic onshore operations of Pool Company.

The planned expansion reflects increased demand being experienced for Pool's domestic onshore well services and will result in the addition of more than 100 rigs this year to the 285 rigs in Pool's domestic onshore rig fleet at year-end 1980.

Girl Scout Cadettes Plan Many Activities

Girl Scout Cadette Troop 276 is led by Edna Duren and meets on Wednesdays at 6 p.m.

Troop members are Aimee Middleton, Leah Evans, Tammy Duren, Debbie Shannon, Sherry Ellison, Allisha Bills, Gina Black, Mary Huckaby and Karla Jungk.

Activities over the past year include attending the WOW Weekend, three demonstrations on makeup and a Christmas party with a troop from Ozona.

The girls also completed a first aid course and are selling first aid kits as a fund raising project. Anyone interested in one of the kits should contact one of the troop members.

The girls are also making plans to take a Trip to Switzerland where the Girl Scouts organization has a center. The trip would probably include a stop at the center in England. Fund raising projects are now being planned to help finance the trip.

Goals set for the coming year include meeting the Challenge of Emergency Preparedness, the Challenge of the Girl Scout Promise and earning the First Class level.

The girls are also planning to earn their painting, first aid to animals and photography merit badges in the next year.

The girls are also planning to complete their Challenge of Emergency Preparedness, and a tour of the City and County governmental bodies is also being scheduled.

A booth for Sutton County Days is being planned along with an awards program and helping with bridging for Brownies and Juniors.

Trips planned during the next year include a four-day campout at Krause Springs near Austin, a swimming party at Mitre Peak in the Davis Mountains and a campout at Hata-A near Bakersfield.

Leaders Needed For Girl Scout Program

According to Girl Scout Neighborhood Chairman Marlene Evans, the past year has seen some very good results from the Girl Scout program, yet a lack of leaders has kept the program from being able to serve as many girls as would like to be in the program.

"We have 44 girls in the program this year, but we had over 100 sign up," she said. "We had to turn the others away because we didn't have enough leaders."

Mrs. Evan, who has held the Neighborhood Chairmanship for the past three years, said at least two more junior leaders were needed and one more Brownie leader.

On a more positive note, she said the local troops had one of their best years for cookie sales ever, noting that Regina Stafford's Brownie troop has three girls sell enough cookies to win a black and white television.

She pointed to the cadette troops planning to make a trip to Switzerland in the future as the type of project that will help create interest in the program.

"If the younger girls can see some of the activities that are available to them as they progress through the ranks, then they have more of an incentive to stay in the program when they get older—something that is often hard to do with peer group pressure telling them scouts are kid stuff," Mrs. Evans said.

Se also said Sonora is becoming more important to the El Camino Girl Scout Council, headquartered in San Angelo, because of its central location within the 16 counties served by the council.

The El Camino Board of Directors will hold meetings here May 16, Aug. 22 and Nov. 7 this year and a San Angelo troop will use Sonora as a stopover for a trip to Mexico.

Bill Laxton has worked during the past year to collect scrap iron to raise funds for the local organization and J & L Contractors is also serving as a collection point for scrap iron and metal.

Mrs. Evans said one of her main projects in the near future was to redo the Scout Hut, especially the Kitchen.

Enough money to build some much needed shelving is already available, and the project will be started in the near future.

She said anyone wishing to make donations for the project should contact Suzy Rosford at First National Bank and make checks payable to the Sutton County Trust Fund.

Brownie Troop 247

Maggie Mesa is the leader for Brownie Troop 247. The girls meet Wednesday's at 4 p.m.

Members of the troop are Sonia Castaneda, Yvette Gamez, Theresa Perez, Patricia Perez, Belinda Barron and Rita Mesa.

Boy Scout Troop 19 Has Busy Year

Boy Scout Troop 19 has been organized for 50 years making it one of the oldest troops in the state. Members of the troop are Dwayne Freeman, Todd Phillips, Justin Condra, Davey Ross, Terry Duen, Duane Jones, Marshall Tyler, Robert Fierro, Glenn Jones, Jimmy Miles, Joe Will Ross, Kurt Kaufmann, Jody Luttrell, Tom Jones, Doug Chandler, Jimmy Keese and Duane Jones. Rev. David Griffin is the Scout Master and Gary Parker is his assistant. During the past year, the boys attended summer camp at Sol Mayer at Fort McKavitt, went on camps-outs each month since October and held at Court of Honor in November. Last Saturday, the boys competed in the Amangi Trail District First Aid Contest in which a five man patrol runs through five different problems and then is graded on its response. The boys have also worked on a scrap paper drive this year as a fund raising project. In the coming year, the boys will be involved in numerous community projects and working to develop leadership qualities in addition to working on the various merit badges and attaining the higher levels. The boys will also be attending the District Camporee in April. Two high honors have been received by members of the troop during the last year. The first came early in 1980 when Louis Humphries was named to the rank of Eagle Scout, scouting's highest level. The second came recently when three members of the troop, Joe Will Ross, Terry Duren and Robert Fierro, were selected to travel to Fort A.P. Hill, Virginia next summer to attend the National Boy Scout Jamboree. The scouts were approved by the Concho Valley Boy Scout Council with 33

Cub Scouts this summer probably in San Angelo. The Blue and Gold Awards Banquet has also been scheduled for March 25. "The Cub Scout program has been instrumental in getting boys into the Boy Scout troop here," Miles said. "The Cub Scout program is a home oriented program with work primarily done in the leaders' homes." Miles said the boys work their way through various levels, starting with Bobcat then to Wolf where they collect gold and silver arrow points and ending with Bear and the arrow points there. The Webelos level then acts as a transition year into scouting with boys getting various activity badges during the year. The Webelos can also strive for the Arrow of Light Award which is the highest award possible in Cub Scouts. Several Sonora boys have received the award in the past. Perhaps the highlight of the year for Boy Scouts in Sonora was the naming of Louis Humphries as an Eagle Scout, Miles said.

El Camino Council Elects New President

A new President of the Board of Directors of the eighteen county El Camino Girl Scout Council was voted in at the sixteenth annual meeting of the council last Saturday, January 24, 1981.

I. W. Santry III, of 1902 A & M, San Angelo, joined other newly elected board members in swearing-in ceremonies following the regular business of the annual meeting.

Mr. Santry's election to El Camino's highest position follows a career of public service to the Girl Scouts and to other San Angelo organizations.

Administrative positions in the El Camino council held by Mr. Santry include Camping Director, Finance Chairman, Legislative Representative, and President of the Board of Directors from 1977 to 1979.

Other civic interests include the Kiwanis Club, the Educational Committee of the San Angelo B.C.D., and administrative services for the First United Methodist Church of San Angelo.

Mr. Santry, a graduate of Southern Methodist University, completed his M.P.A. at Angelo State University and is presently a consultant for S & L Business Enterprises.

Order Of The Arrow Conference Set In Austin

Honor Scout campers in the 23 1/2 county Concho Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, will have the opportunity to meet other campers from across the nation at the 1981 National Order of the Arrow Conference scheduled for this summer.

The biennial conference will be held August 10-14 at the University of Texas in Austin. It will bring together more than 4,000 Arrowmen and their leaders for training, recognition and fellowship, as well as evening shows, displays and demonstrations and exchange of ideas. In addition, the traditional Indian dance competition will be held.

The Wahinkto Lodge of the Concho Valley Council is selecting those members who will attend, according to Richard Benton, Lodge Advisor. "The council's camping program benefits greatly from our Order of the Arrow lodge and we are pleased that we will be well represented at the national conference," Benton said.

The Order of the Arrow was founded in 1915 to promote Scout camping, service and opportunities for leadership. To become a member, a young man must be a registered Boy Scout or Explorer who has earned the First Class rank. He also must have experienced 15 days and nights of Scout camping, including a long-term session.

He is elected to the Order by fellow troop or post members, following approval by his Scoutmaster or Explorer Advisor.

Arrowmen from the Wahinkto Lodge also will serve as members of the service corps at the 1981 National Scout Jamboree, July 29-August 4 at Fort A.P. Hill, VA.

Girl Scout Junior Troop 8

Lois Laxton is the leader for Girl Scout Junior Troop 8.

Member of the troop are Nelda Castaneda, Jennifer San Miguel, Tammy Holguin, Tammi Jones, and Lena Laxton.

During the past year the girls went on a campout at Garner State Park between Uvalde and Leakey and also had a campout at the Cavern of Sonora.

In addition to working on their merit badges during the year, the girls attended the Junior Olympics in Ozona, bringing home two top first places, one second place and one third place.

The troop members are planning to attend the Junior Olympics in Big Spring in March and are also planning another camping trip soon, probably to Lake Brownwood.

other scouts from 16 different troops in the 23 1/2 counties served by the council.

The group will depart from San Angelo by bus July 23 and go to DFW Airport where they will fly to Washington D. C. for four days of sight-seeing. From there they will go by bus to the final 50 miles to the Jamboree site where they will be joined by 25,000 other scouts and adults from the United States and several foreign countries.

Following a full week of activities, the group will return to San Angelo on Aug. 5.

The theme for the Jamboree will be "Scouting Reunion with History".

The year 1981 is the 200th anniversary of the last major battle of the revolutionary War when Cornwallis surrendered to George Washington at Yorktown--about 100 miles from the Jamboree site.
