Ranchers, hunters go on Kerr tour

A sizable group of ranchers and hunters recently took a field trip to tour the Kerr Wildlife Management Area.

The tour was arranged by the Edwards Plateau Soil and Water Conservation District. The group started out from the 4-H Center.

The Kerr Wildlife Management Area is owned and operated by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, located 12 miles northwest of Hunt, Texas.

This area contains rolling hills, fresh water springs, dense cedar breaks, and liveoak-shinoak thickets.

Wildlife includes white-tailed deer, bobwhite quail, javelina, wild turkey, mourning dove, fox squirrel, bobcat, raccoon, skunk, armadillo, ringtail cat, rabbit gray fox, and many species of reptiles and native migratory birds.

The area is used to conduct wildlife research, study the relationships of domestic livestock and wildlife common to the region and to demonstrate range improvement and wildlife management techniques to landowners and sportsmen.

Auction coming

A reminder that on September 21 the Sonora Downtown Lions Club will hold its 45th annual auction.

There will be a barbeque at 6 p.m. followed by the auction. All this takes place at the 4-H Center.

Merchandise to be auctioned is contributed by Sonora Merchants and goats to be barbeque are donated by local ranchers.

Airport business is about to soar

By Jeff Greenberg

Ernie Budd expects to have a headache for the next couple of months-but its the kind of headache he loves to have.

Ernie, along with his wife, runs the Sonora Municipal Airport.

When the hunting season comes along, business triples, and Ernie receives an average of 10 to 12 planes landing per day.

Ernie said, "The hunting season is coming soon and its gonna get busy down here. These boys that come down here are just a bunch of happy hunters with a whole lot of money in their pockets."

"They'll start coming in about two weeks to set up their blinds and put out feed in preparation of the deer season."

During the deer season about 85 percent of the hunters coming through Sonora are oil executives from Louisiana. Some also come for turkey and dove.

These hunters may number 300 to 500 per week during the season and fill up most motels in town. The merchants of Sonora look forward to this time of year.

Ernie said his aviation fuels sales have been off 40 percent, but its starting to pick up already.

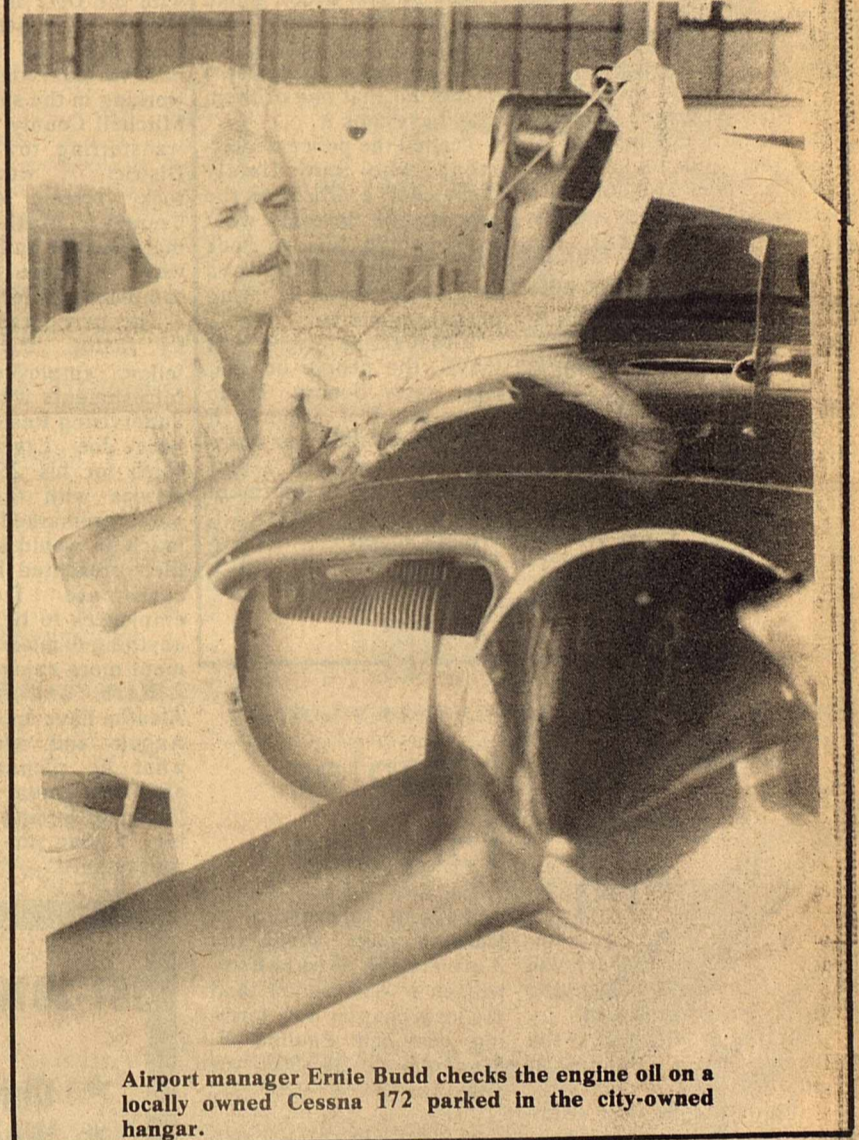

He added, "I've seen the same charter plane come in here three or four times in one day-each time unloading ten hunters with money to spend."

"I've been here five years and I know how these hunters love hunting, how they want to get out of their offices and into the Texas bush."

"Once they bag their deer they can go back home and say they did it all."

The hunters will take their kill to a local smoke house to be processed and then in January a charter plane is sent to Sonora to pick up the venison.

The airport has a runway length of 3680 feet and can handle everything up to small jets like the MU-2 which has a cruising speed of 240 m.p.h.

Airport manager Ernie Budd checks the engine oil on a locally owned Cessna 172 parked in the city-owned hangar.

Fitzgerald, Joanne Tyner, of Sonora Floral, and CC manager Edith James.

By Jeff Greenberg

The Sonora Chamber of Commerce has presented their "Citizen of the Month Award" to Wade Fitzgerald and Jerry Jardee for their heroic efforts which probably saved the lives of three family members out of a family of four when a van flipped over several times on Interstate 10 and caught fire.

Both men work for Halliburton Resource Management.

Wade is 23 years-old and originally from Van Horn.

Jerry is 36 and married to Sharon Jardee. They have two daughters, Lori, 7, and Haley, 3 months.

Jerry described the event as follows: "Wade and I were leaving town about 8:30 a.m. to start our daily work schedule for Halliburton Compressor Systems.

"As soon as we got on the interstate we saw the van swerve to the right shoulder and kick up gravel.

"I looked like the driver tried to make a correction but the van flipped three times and then caught fire.

"It then flipped one more time and slid toward the median strip, throwing the mother out of the van about 15 feet.

"I called a dispatcher for an ambulance and wrecker and then ran to the burning van where the mother had pulled out the little boy who was on fire from the waist up.

"I wrapped my cover-alls around the boy and gave him to Wade who removed the boy's flaming shirt.

"When something like this happens on the spur of the moment you depend on your instincts. I don't even remember thinking about what to do...I just did it.

"That little boy looked like a roman candle before we put him out.

"His mother started screaming that her husband and daughter were still in the van and she started toward it.

"I got between her and the van and told her that I would get them out.

"Meanwhile Wade had already made a second call for a fire truck and a crowd had started to gather.

"The fire was coming out hot and heavy in back so I came around to the front of the vehicle and saw a little girl crouched between the dashboard and steering wheel.

"I kicked out the driver's windshield, reached in and grabbed the girl by the wrists, pulling her through the window.

"She was screaming at the top of her lungs and I would have been too.

"I brushed the fire out of her hair by rubbing it between my arms and gave her to Wade who had finished with the boy.

"I didn't get burned myself at all except when I leaned against the van one time while I was looking in through the smoke and fire, trying to find the husband.

"Three times I yelled for him to come to the front of the van because I couldn't see him. All I could see was smoke and fire.

"The front seat had already burned down to the wires and frame when I saw a pair of tennis shoes move.

"I went into the van, grabbed the tennis shoe, and started pulling the man out by his ankles.

"I had him halfway out the front window when Wade came over to help me finish getting the husband out.

"He turned out to be pretty good-sized man.

"Wade and I then moved the whole family away from the van, realizing it might explode at any moment.

"It wasn't until this point that I thought about how I could have been blown to bits."

"The inside of the van was gutted in about 45 seconds.

"Wade and I tried to make the family as comfortable as they could be until the ambulance and fire trucks arrived."

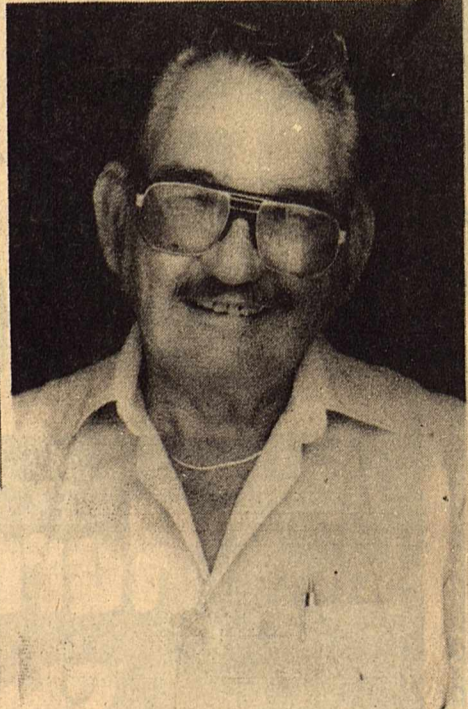

One can tell that Jerry is modest about his deed of heroism when he sums it all up by saying, "I just thank the good Lork we were there to help that family out."

Question of the week: What would you like to see done with the old railroad depot?

Nora Klsar

"We need a few things around to remind us of our history and I want to see the old depot restored just like it was done with the building at Main and Water Ave. If it was made into a Chamber of Commerce building I know it would be kept in good shape but I don't want to see it moved unless there's a better location."

Johnny Ringgold

"I want to see the depot made into a museum with old artifacts like farm farm and ranch tools, different types of barbed wire, and implements used by early pioneers when they came to this area. Everything I've ever read about Sonora is quite interesting and there's enough items around to fully stock a museum."

Margaret White

"Don't you think it would be a fine place for the Chamber of Commerce? When the trains came there back in the 1930's--that was real history and to restore the old railroad depot would sure mean a lot to Sutton County. Cutting the road through where the depot stands would help traffic flow near the school."

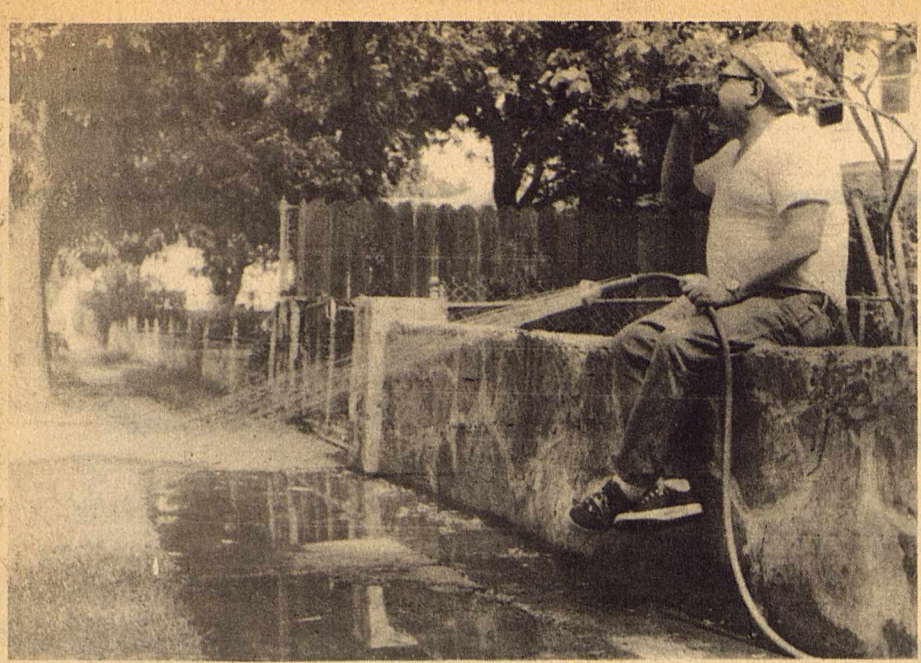

George Wallace

"It would mean a lot to future generations if the depot was restored-I remember when the train stopped regular there and dances were held for kids on the depot platform. Using it as a Chamber of Commerce office and meeting room is a good idea. Best location would be somewhere in the downtown area."

Marlene Evans

"I would like to see the depot renovated and an addition would make it large enough to be a community center. We should have one just like they do in Eldorado where we could play duplicate bridge, hold meetings, and have youth-oriented activities without being charged. I don't want to see my taxes go up either."

RECIPE FOR A SONORA SUNDAY AFTERNOON-take one green-thumbed Richard Olson, several yards of garden hose and about 50 sprinkler heads, add plenty of water till St. Augustine grass smells sweet, top off afternoon with one tall glass of old stump puller #2....Richard says the secret to a green lawn is going outside early every morning and telling the lawn it will be used as goat fodder if it doesn't grow good. Plenty of fertilizer and a monthly water bill of $115 helps too.

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor

There is a lot of criticism to and about Mothers that don't work. This makes many Mothers feel uncomfortable and that they don't contribute much to the household. I cut this article out of a newspaper last year from a Dear Abby column:

Also note that all the wages have gone up since then. So if it wasn't for Homemakers where would we be!

Thank-You
Mrs. Gabriel Espinosa
1308 Mesquite St.

Dear Sir,
We are always hearing about the bad jobs that most police departments do. The following is about the Good Job our own Sonora Police Department does do.

The magazine stated that the average homemaker performs at least 22 separate functions, with child care being the function that takes the most time-186 hours a week on the average. (At a token $1 an hour, this would amount to over $9,000 a year.)

The seven or more hours a woman spends cleaning house, at a minimum $3.21 an hour, adds up to at least $22 a week; 13 hours as a cook at $4.75 an hour is another $62 a week. The three hours a week (average) that a wife spends acting as a maid or hostess for her husband, at $20 an hour, adds another $60 to her "wage bill", notes the magazine. Please notice that the Magazine didn't figure in the other duties performed by Mother, such as nurse, chauffeur, seamstress, tutor, referee, handholder, confidante and counselor."

Upon returning to work from lunch one day this week, I discovered that a cassette tape player had been stolen from the store (value around $100). I had noticed a lot of people from a bus (out of town) had stopped across the street. I suspected that one of them may have took it.

I called the police department, who immediately dispatched an officer to the location, he not only went over to the bus to look around, but questioned several people on it, trying to find my stereo. Although no stereo was found, the people on that bus, know Sonora, is no place too fool around. It certainly is nice to know that we have such a outstanding police department here in Sonora, Texas. The Sonora Chamber of Commerce has a "Newcomers Packet" available. Just drop in and see Manager Edith James at the Chamber of Commerce Office located in City Hall on Main Street.

Inside the packet you will find a variety of information especially helpful to newcomers.

Herb Byrd honored

Herbert R. "Herb" Byrd, long time employee of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation (DHT), was honored with a retirement party recently at the Sonora Resident Engineer's Office.

Herb began his career with the DHT in 1957 as a checker on construction in District 8. His experience has varied, consisting of working in the sandy soil of Mitchell County, and after transferring to Sonora in District 7, working the rocky terrain of Sutton County. Methods and materials for building highways in these areas are completely different.

The party was attended by family, friends, and fellow employees. After refreshments were served, Supervising Resident Engineer Joe Lane thanked Herb for his 25 years of service with the Department, remarked on how much he would be missed, then presented him a gift certificate from the employees to be spent for anything to make his retirement more enjoyable.

Herb and his wife Aletha have moved to San Angelo and when asked what he planned to do after retirement remarked "a lot of loafing and resting. I plan to enjoy my retirement."

SWEET AND JUICY-Carl Franks of Brady displays a prime example of one of his Jubilee watermelons harvested recently in Comanche. Carl and wife Lois have been selling along the roadside in Sonora for two years, selling an average of 50 watermelons on Sundays. On a three day stretch just before Labor Day they sold like hotcakes-over 300 melons.

Restoration plans gaining momentum

Several Sutton County individuals have expressed interest in the planned restoration and remodeling of the old railroad depot. Sonora Chamber of Commerce President Hal Spain has been approached by these individuals and has received informal bids from out-of-town businesses interested in moving the building. Hal stressed that at this early stage there are many choices as far as what to do with the building. HE ADDED, "We want everyone in Sutton County to have a chance to voice their opinion on what to do with the old depot and a public meeting is planned for mid October." The primary goal is to remodel and restore because the Chamber of Commerce takes great interest in the historical aspect of the building. "Our tentative plans are to put a Chamber of Commerce Office and a community meeting room in the building. "if we receive no private donations we may consider offers from out-of-town individuals in Odessa, etc., who restore old buildings and turn them into restaurants." There is also the possibility of trading the old building for a ready-made new building, but this would occur only as a last resort." Hal thinks there should be no problem getting local bids for the remodeling and restoration contract. The idea of a youth center has also been looked into. Foremost on the mind of Chamber of Commerce President Hal Spain is to keep the old depot landmark in Sonora, either in a lot close to the building's present location or possibly on land in Sutton County Park.

First eight months has been great

Rachel Oehler, Sutton County Extension and Home Economics Agent, has found her first eight months at her job both challenging and rewarding. She loves her work because its different every day. Rachel is a native of Fredricksburg and came to Sonora straight out of college followed by a one month training period. She found moving here kind of hard at first but had friends here which helped because they introduced her to residents and she has met many people through her work. She is active at the Church of Christ and several local ministers are assisting her with an upcoming program on parenting. Some past programs have included a very successful immunization clinic, a sewing and design class for kids who made and modeled their own clothes, and lessons in facial and hand care. Programs planned for the near future are on snaking, Christmas decorations and gift making, and a pecan bake show.

County Extension Agent Rachel Oehler wears a dress she designed using handkerchief linen.

Parenting series

Want to learn more about children's development, discipline, stress-coping skills, and other parenting issues? You can by attending a Parenting Series each Tuesday in October, 7-9 PM, at the Methodist Fellowship Hall and Nursery.

Dorothy Duncan and Ed McElrath will be conducting the series. Mrs. Duncan holds a B.S. in education and has graduate work and special interest in family systems, individual, group and marital topics. Mr. McElrath has a B.A. and M.A. Psychology degrees and physicians assistants. He also has a special interest in children, adolescents, and family systems. Both are associated with the Pastoral Counseling Center in San Angelo.

Anyone who has an interest in parenting is encouraged to attend. The series primarily focuses on: children's development (emotional, physical, & social), discipline (types & child behavior), health (disease & nutrition) and other parenting issues. A babysitting service will be provided. This series is sponsored by the Sutton County Family Living Committee and Ministerial Alliance. A registration form and fee must be submitted to the County Extension Office before September 24. For more information call 387-3604. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, or natural origin.

Reports from Washington

Mexico: The First Steps

The Mexican government's second devaluation of the peso this year and its nationalization of private Mexican banks has sharply focused attention on the economic problems that our neighbor to the South now faces.

The United States was alerted to the severity of the situation when Mexico's Finance Minister flew to Washington immediately following the peso devaluation to report that his country did not have enough foreign currency to pay for a month's imports. The reaction by the United States and others to the Mexican report was prompted by the same motives that inspired a multinational effort in the 1960s to defend the British pound — maintenance of world economic stability. Mexico is now the world's fifth-largest oil producer, has the 13th largest economy, and is the largest international borrower, with a foreign debt estimated at over $80 billion.

Because the economies of Texas and Mexico, particularly along the border, are so closely intertwined, an explanation of the United States current role in this and update of what is potentially a $10 billion economic assistance program is appropriate. First of all the program essentially involves two major participants: the United States and the International Monetary Fund. Less than half of this economic assistance is to come directly from the United States. The remainder is contingent on the final outcome of negotiations between Mexico and the International Monetary Fund, which is an international organization composed of 146 member countries including the United States. The IMF is designed to promote monetary cooperation and provides financial support for member countries that experience temporary balance of payments problems.

The assistance is divided into five components. • First, the Commodity Credit Corporation, which is part of the Department of Agriculture, will make available up to $1 billion in loan guarantees for the export of U.S. agricultural products to Mexico. Among them will be feed grains, soy beans, and vegetable oils.

• Second, the Department of Energy signed an agreement with PEMEX, Mexico's state owned oil company, and the United States Treasury has advanced $1 billion for high quality light crude oil. It will provide immediate cash for Mexico and a substantial amount of the oil needed to fill our Strategic Petroleum Reserve in the next year at a price no greater than $35 and no less than $25 a barrel. The total amount of oil to be delivered will depend on the price established each quarter to reflect market conditions.

• Third, the largest single component of this economic assistance is still being negotiated between Mexico and the International Monetary Fund. This is a proposed three-year loan of approximately $4.5 billion, which would be the maximum available based on Mexico's membership share of the Fund. Although the United States government is not involved in these negotiations, it does sit on the IMF executive board, which must approve the loan. To obtain this loan, Mexico and the IMF must reach an agreement as to what measures the Mexican government will take to improve the country's economic performance.

• Fourth, the Bank for International Settlements in Switzerland has approved a $1.85 billion short-term loan. Credits for this loan come from the central banks of the leading industrial nations. Of the amount, our Federal Reserve has contributed $925 million to the package and Spain, the second largest buyer of Mexican oil after the United States, contributed $125 million, with the remainder coming from central banks of West Germany, Britain, France, Italy, Switzerland, the Netherlands, Sweden, Canada, and Japan. The ability of Mexico to draw on this short-term loan is based on the progress of negotiations between Mexico and the International Monetary Fund.

• Finally, commercial banks in both our country and other nations will extend to Mexico new credits of between $500 million to $1 billion and accept a moratorium on the principal repayments for a specified time. Negotiations are between Mexico and these private commercial banks, and are also contingent on the outcome of approval of the IMF loan.

At the same time that Mexico addresses its problems, we must also be ever-mindful of the need for solutions to the problems faced by our own citizens. The Small Business Administration has already announced a $200 million loan package for small businesses severely impacted by the peso devaluation, which is similar to a bill I had cosponsored before coming to Texas in August.

This is a complex issue, which continues to unfold and change almost daily. Those of us on both sides of the border are affected and will be for months — and possibly years to come. We must not lose sight of our common goals and shared friendships as we work to find responsible, effective, and lasting solutions.

Fellowship meal at firehall

FILL IT UP, PLEASE-Church of Christ member Dave Brinkley found his one-year-old son John more than willing to sample ample portions of chili casserole, chicken and dumplings, carrot salad, copper pennies, barbecue brisket, ham and roast. After that it was a choice of mouth-watering desserts such as caramel nut pie, strawberry shortcake, and chocolate pies—all washed down by gallons of sugar-sweetened iced tea.

The Church of Christ held their monthly fellowship meal last Sunday and the expected crowd was so large that they had to rent the firehall instead of using the church building on Water Street.

Evangelist Don Jones said, "We are actively trying to get the congregation to grow and develop. Our members have been going out into the community and inviting others to visit us and we have been filling our building on a regular basis."

"This Sunday we set an all time record-145 in attendance-and since we didn't have enough room at church to feed everyone, we rented the firehall."

The Monthly fellowship meal was described by Don as a chance for members to be together more as brothers and sisters in Christ. There is no religious significance to the meal.

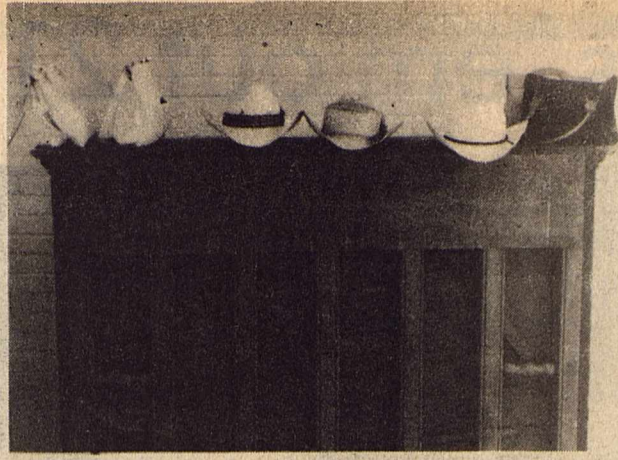

Exactly one year ago the attendance at Sunday services was only 69 indicating the membership has doubled since then.

One member present was Gretta Smith who told her mother, born in 1887, would have been the first white baby born in Sonora, except that there were no doctors here at the time and so her grandmother had to go all the way to Ft. McKavett.

Out-of-town visitors included Joe and Mozelle Fletcher. They drove 250 miles from Rochester just to get in on the good food and to visit with church members.

Joe is a retired oil pumpjack and would love to buy land in Sufton County and live here, if only he could find some for sale.

A Texas still life at the Sonora firehall during the meal.

Third annual air show

Tora-Tora-Tora attacks over Hondo in September are becoming an annual affair as the fall skies once again will be filled with the likes of the B-25, B-24, B-29, B-17, Wildcats, Corsairs, Mustangs, Lightnings, and Texans (as assortment of some 50 different WWII aircrafts in perfect flying condition) as the Alamo Wing of the Confederate Air Force stages its 3rd Annual Air Power Demonstration on Sunday, September 26, at 2 p.m. Gates open at 10 a.m. at the Hondo Air Base in Hondo, Texas (50 miles of S.A. on Hwy. 90 W.)

in addition to the P-38 Lightning, P-51 Mustang, F4U Corsair and one each of the American bombers of WWII." He continued "The Tora-Tora-Tora group from Galveston will once again recreate the infamous attack on Pearl Harbor. This demonstration keeps fresh the memory of when America was almost too weak to react."

The Alamo Wing's own B-25 "Yellow Rose" will take off as a vivid reminder of Doolittle's bomber response to Pearl Harbor just months after December 7, 1945. Naturally, the B-29 will close the show.

Col. Dave Smith of the C.A.F. reports that a wide assortment of aircraft from the San Antonio area and throughout the country will appear in the show that traditionally attracts young and old by the thousands from the Alamo area. "We expect to see the only flying B-29 in the world in Hondo,

Varsity shuts 'em out 21-0, J.V. on a roll 34-6

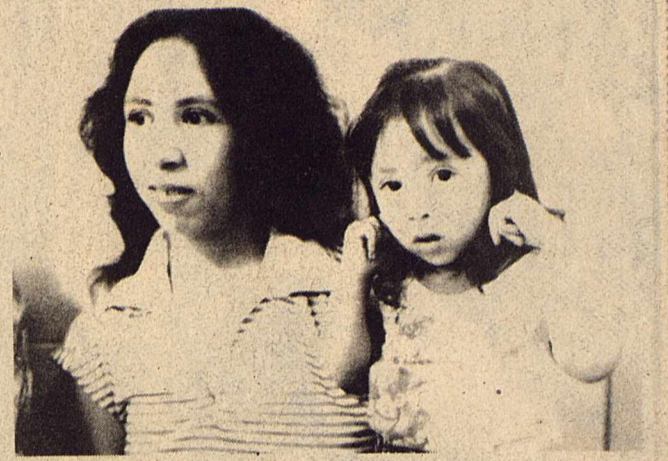

LIKE A STEAMROLLER, BABY-Bronco's wingback DeVoe Smith takes in large chunks of yardage almost at will in the fourth quarter when the Eagles became worn down and sluggish.

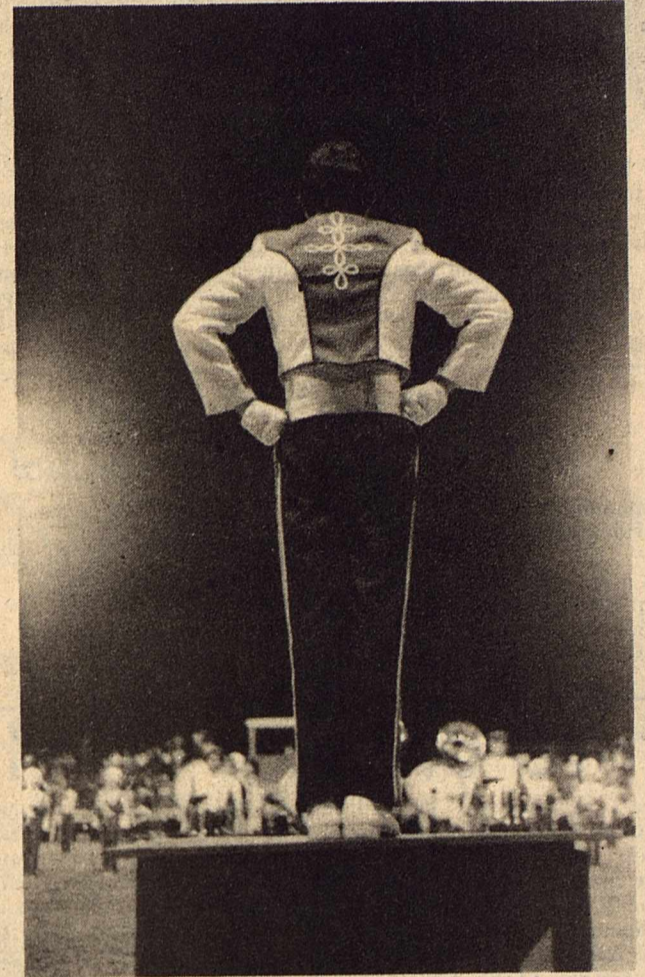

By Jeff Greenberg

JV coach Primo Gonzales discusses a twin set defense strategy with freshman halfback Esau Ramirez who intercepted a Junction pass earlier, running it back for 18 yards in the second quarter. Soon after Esau scored.

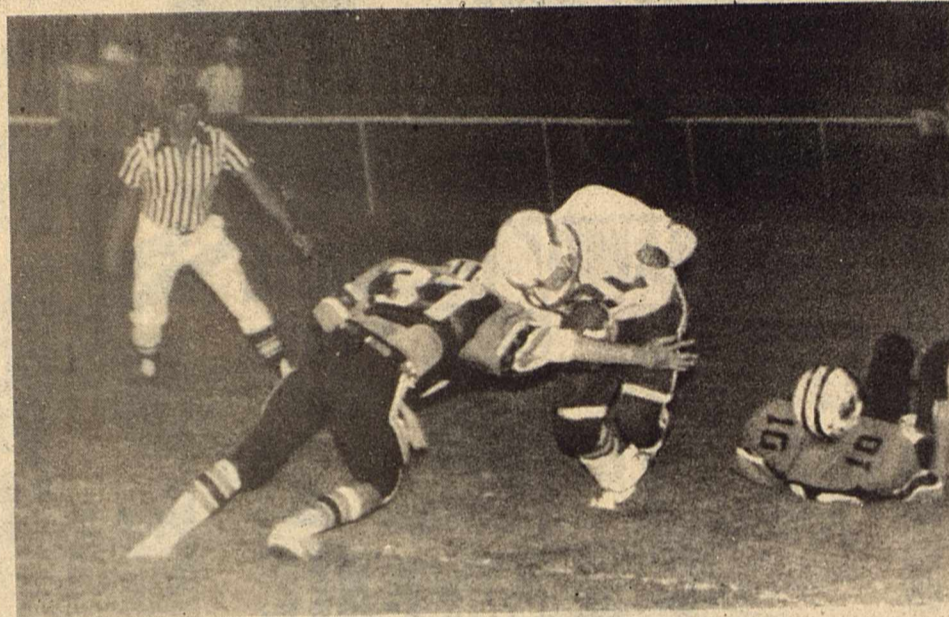

The Friday afternoon pep rally was a little loud for 2 year-old Jennifer Lozano being held by mother Jeanie.

WHITE GLOVED AFFAIR-Bronco's drum major Homer Samanlego was Mr. Precision while the band played during halftime entertainment.

COOLING OUT-It was only 7-0 in favor of the Broncos at halftime as guard Fermin Sanchez tried to muster strength for the second half. There are no locker rooms in Junction.

TINO, TINO, TINO-It was once, twice, three times a touchdown for fullback Tino Martinez as he scores this time in the third quarter with 27 seconds left on a 36-special student body left.

Coach's comments

Bronco's head coach Jerry Hopkins: "I am pleased because we played well and won. We made a good strong defense and moved the ball well on offense. Other than stalling out a few times in the first half and having minor problems with our stunting defense, we played consistently."

On Thursday, September 16, the Sonora Freshmen team will play Iraan J.V. in Iraan at 6 p.m. Good Luck, Fish!

On Friday, September 17, the Sonora Broncos will play the Eldorado Eagles at Bronco Stadium, starting at 8 p.m. Go Broncos!

On Tuesday, the 21, school pictures will be taken. This isn't always easy, believe me, I know. We are supposed to slip easily in front of the camera, smile radiantly, and flash, a portrait is created.

But it's not that easy. If you're like me, you'll sweat so much your hair will fall out. And when your pictures come in, you'll throw yourself out the window. But take heart, there's always next year!

Please don't curse the boy down there,
 He is my son, you see;
 He's only just a boy, you know.
 And means alot to me.

I did not raise my son, sports fans,
 For you to call him names;
 He may not be a superstar
 But it's high school game.

Please don't curse the boys down there,
 They do the best they can;
 They never tried to lose a game.
 They're boys...and you're a man.

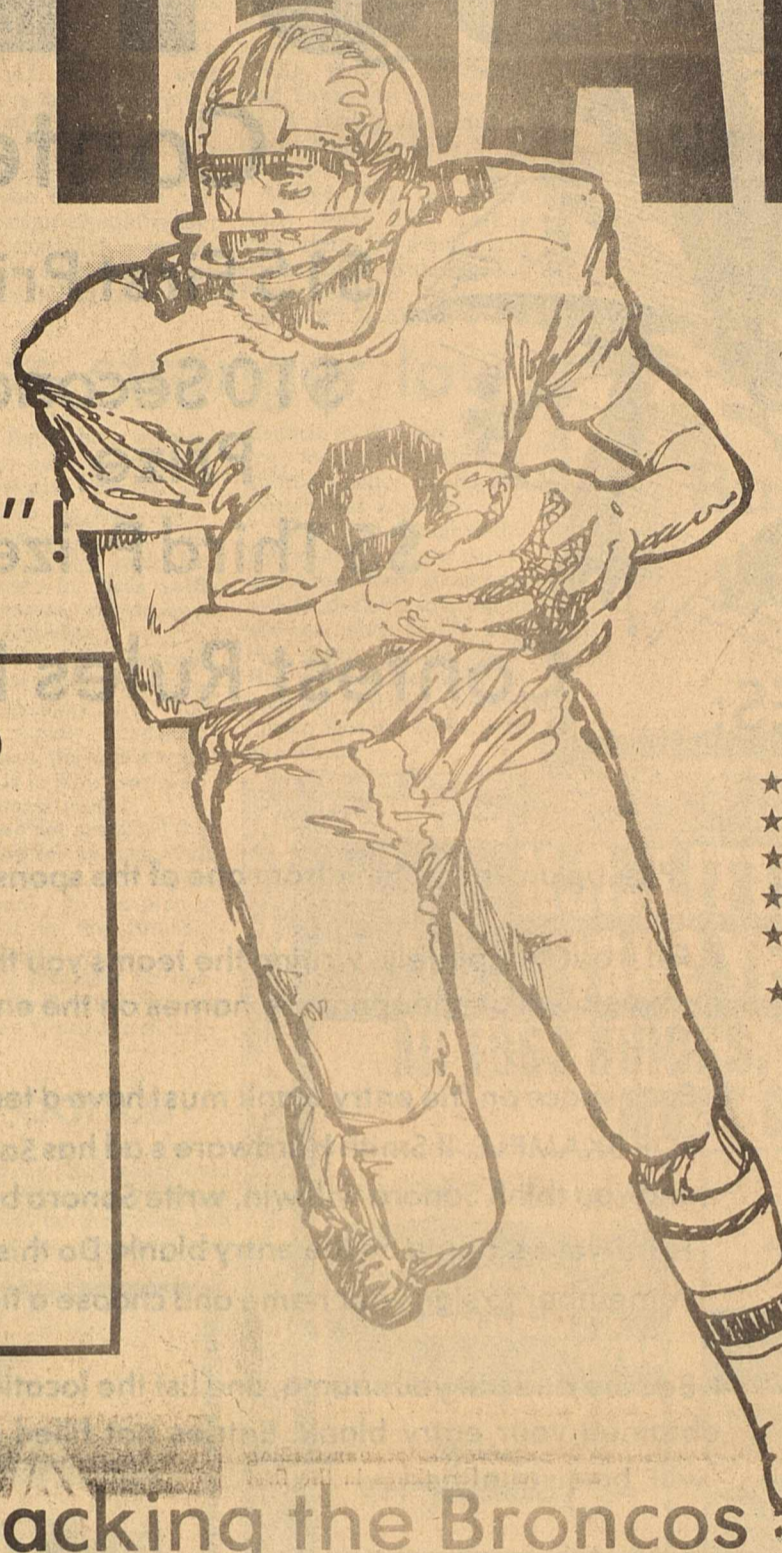

The game belongs to them, you see.
 And you are just a guest;
 They do not need a fan like you,
 They need the very best.

If you have nothing nice to say
 Please leave the boys alone.
 And if you can't enjoy the game
 Why don't you stay at home?

So please don't curse those Boys down there,
 Each one's his parent's son;
 And win, or lose, or tie, or see,
 To us they're "Number One!!!"

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower

U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Labor Day is a time when we honor working men and women. It is a holiday dedicated to the social and economic achievements of American workers, to their contributions to the strength, prosperity and well-being of our country. Certainly, the greatness we have achieved as a nation rests on the shoulders of generations of hard-working Americans. Our vast resources would have laid untapped had it not been for the ingenuity, tenacity and effort put forth by those who settled our land. In return for their work, they found that here, more than anywhere else in the world, success and prosperity were determined by an individual's actions rather than family or background.

It is this spirit which we honor on Labor Day. It also is a day in which we note the progress made in the past century in improving the lives of those who work.

Today's laborer enjoys the protection of wage and hour laws, regulations mandating a safe workplace, unemployment compensation to provide for necessities of life when a job is lost and a host of other safeguards against exploitation. These advances have been crucial to the development of a prosperous America. They went hand-in-hand with increasing productivity which made U.S. industry the envy of the world.

Unquestionably, the organized labor movement of the early 20th century is responsible for many of these reforms. And certainly, organized labor will continue to play an important role in the economic life of the nation.

However, union leadership must understand that for its members to prosper, industry must be healthy and able to compete both within the nation and in world trade.

Part of our economic difficulties today result from a failure on the part of both management and labor in past years to remember that if productivity does not increase along with wages, prices are driven upward -- fueling inflation and making U.S. goods less competitive on the world market.

I am encouraged at the spirit with which many unions are working with management to make U.S. industrial facilities more productive and more price competitive. Many plants are staying open, and many jobs are being saved by this cooperative effort.

The goal of the trade union movement at its inception was to make labor a partner of management, to give workers a voice in business. If this partnership works well -- with listening, concern and compromise on both sides -- we can rebuild our industrial might and bring renewed prosperity to the nation and all of its people.

Meier supports death penalty

Senator Bill Meier said today that Texas' death penalty is a deterrent to murder because "criminals will think twice if they know they have to pay for their crime with their own life if they are caught."

Meier, a ten-year state senator from Tarrant County, wrote the law to reestablish the Texas death penalty statute in 1973. He said he believed then as he does now that death penalty is a major deterrent to crime if it is enforced.

He added that the state's death penalty law has been upheld in over 200 appeals as being Constitutional which underscores the validity and strength of the law.

"But there are numerous additional areas where we can strengthen our laws to fight crime. As the father of four children, I am constantly concerned about the safety of my wife and children. We must give law enforcement officials the tools they need to protect our families and our homes," he said.

Meier, a candidate for Attorney General, said that the Attorney General should take the lead in enforcing the death penalty and other anti-crime laws in the state.

He sharply criticized his liberal opponent, Jim Mattox, for taking "a sudden burst of activity and interest in law enforcement in the 60 days before the election."

"The voters of Texas and those who have been victims of crime should resent the fact that such a serious issue as crime is being made a political issue by a candidate, who has shown little or no interest in law enforcement in the past. My record in law enforcement is one of action, not political rhetoric," he said.

The Tarrant County senator said the records of the candidates should be carefully considered.

"For example, I wrote the Texas death penalty statute as part of an overall get-tough effort on crime. But when the statute was considered in the Texas House, Jim Mattox was recorded as 'present--not voting.' Now he is trying to lead Texans to believe that he is strong advocate of the death penalty," he continued.

Meier has authored many other bills dealing with crime. He wrote many of the bills initiating the Texas War on Drugs. He sponsored a bill to crackdown on the early elements of organized crime and a bill to require supervision of felons released early on parole. He has also supported measures to mandate quicker prosecution of those arrested and indicted and a bill to prohibit bail for offenders who use "deadly weapons" in their crimes.

He has also written measures to crackdown on child pornography and child abuse.

Hobby wants stronger laws

Texas lawmakers will have to go back to the drawingboards in the war against crime and use a comprehensive strategy for fighting crime and criminals in the 1980s, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said Thursday.

"Crime has reached a point where it is no longer a problem," Hobby told prosecutors and police officials attending the 32nd Annual Texas Attorney General's Law Enforcement Conference.

Hobby said that the criminal justice is losing its credibility with the public. He said statistics show that a murderer has only a one-in-three chance of going to prison, a rapist less than one-in-five and a burglar less than one-in-twenty.

"To fight this, we are going to have to convince the potential criminal he runs three big risks when he commits a crime in Texas," Hobby said. He must learn he faces swift apprehension, conviction and punishment."

Some criminologists contend that, given the national economy and the state's rapidly increasing population, the best a state can do is to stay even with the national trends.

"I have not accepted that reasoning in the past, I do not accept it as logical today, and I do not plan to accept it in the future," Hobby said.

Hobby said that he has asked the Texas Criminal Justice Coordinating Council to develop a strategy for fighting crime on all fronts police, courts and correctional agencies.

"It is the challenge of the police officer on the street to not only worry about how well he does his job, but to see how much he can help the prosecutor do his," Hobby said. We must remember that the criminal justice system works only as a whole.

Sutton County Ag Corner

Jerry Lackey's Country Folk

At this writing, South Texas was in the forecast to receive up to five inches of rain. The upper part needs the moisture bad as does other parts of the Lone Star State.

If the Gulf front moves on to land, it will stop cotton harvest. Harvest of cotton is progressing throughout South Texas. The Jack Parker family of Uvalde work the South and Central Texas area. The Parkers are one of the largest cotton harvesting firms in Texas and are presently working their way north.

In Kerrville the other day, I had the occasion to visit with some ranchers in a bank lobby. They were saying that parts of the Texas Hill Country had received up to an inch or more of rain but other parts were high and dry.

Dale Brandenburger of Junction said parts of Kimble County received about a inch last week.

"Concho County is in pretty good shape considering it is early fall and we experienced a fairly hot summer," stated W.F. Houston at the warehouse.

John Stephens of Eden was wishing for a shower to "cool things off a little more."

In Brady and around McCulloch County, terrain appears in good shape. However, a good rain would not hurt unless of course it came too close to the peanut fields there and Mason County.

A note from Frances Sears reports she has leased the Sears ranches at Sweetwater. "But I am still running Longhorns and crossbred steers at Alpine on a place that Lance had leased," she added. "We need rain—the eternal envy of the West."

Fed cattle figures remain high

AUSTIN—The number of cattle and calves on feed in Texas during 1982 has consistently remained above the number of cattle on feed for 1981, reversing the trend of recent years, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has reported.

"Cattle and calves on feed in the state have remained above the previous year every month since April. Texas feedlot operators report having almost 1.7 million head of cattle and calves on feed for slaughter as of July 1. This is a one percent decrease from June figures for this year but a four percent increase over May figures and an 8 percent increase over the number of cattle on feed during July of last year," Brown said.

Feedlots in the Northern High Plains area of the state are responsible for 73 percent of the total. Steers account for 59 percent of the state total while heifers make up 41 percent.

TDA actively enforces state pesticide laws

AUSTIN—The Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) takes an active role in enforcing the current pesticide regulatory statutes of Texas, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown reports.

It has only been since 1976 that the TDA has had the authority to investigate pesticide related complaints and since that time the number of complaints investigated has increased nearly three-fold.

"In the 1981 fiscal year alone, TDA personnel made 18,548 contacts in the course of performing duties related to pesticide statute regulatory activities," Brown said.

Last year the department investigated 488 pesticide complaints, registered 8,289 products, certified 1,456 private pesticide applicators, administered 1,557 tests, checked 2,025 samples,

Brown warns farmers about telephone pesticide sales

AUSTIN—Farmers being solicited by telephone to buy Knock-Out pesticide are warned to be aware that the product may be grossly misrepresented, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown reports.

"We have received several calls from scattered locations in the state from farmers who have purchased the pesticide after telephone solicitations and have found that it does not live up to the sales pitch," Brown said.

The telephone salesmen have stated that it is as good as or superior to another well-known, commonly used herbicide (Roundup). The most recent telephone solicitations have been from Alpine Farm Products in Long Island, New York.

Knock-Out is registered for sale with the Texas Department of Agriculture with a label specifying a 1.8% active ingredient. "There is nothing illegal about selling this product, but its performance is being misrepresented. The pesticide being compared contains 41% active ingredient."

Brown urged farmers before ordering such pesticides from out-of-state firms to compare the active ingredient percentage on products formulated for the same purpose. "There is still no assurance that the contents meet label specifications on purchases resulting from such telephone solicitations."

Contract proposals

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is seeking contract proposals from state welfare departments to continue job search services for food stamps work registrants. Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Mary C. Jarratt said that $30 million is available for the job search contracts.

A notice announcing the availability of funds to state agencies to continue job search services is scheduled to appear in the Federal Register on Friday, August 20, 1982. Contract proposals must be submitted to USDA's Food and Nutrition Service by September 13.

Estate tax program

Farmers and ranchers can do something about high taxes that erode their estates. The first step is to learn all about estate taxes and recent changes in tax laws, and this is where the Texas Agricultural Extension Service comes in.

The Extension Service is planning two 2-day seminars which will help farmers and ranchers learn how to reduce taxable estates and learn new methods for passing their operations to the next generation.

These special seminars on "How to Lower Your Estate Tax Burden" are scheduled for El Paso, Sept. 21-22, at the Texas A&M University Research Center, and for Waco, Oct. 21-22.

"Of major importance is how every farm estate will be affected after the recent estate tax law changes," points out Dr. Wayne Hayenga, a lawyer and Extension economist. "The best tax planning of the past may be the worst under the new law."

Each seminar will begin with a discussion on estate taxes, including deductions, expenses and tax rates.

Basic estate planning devices will be explained in depth. Among these are wills, by-pass trusts, gifts, disclaimers and property titles.

There will also be a separate segment of the program devoted to treating beneficiaries fairly along with a session on estate planning tips for farmers and ranchers with mineral income and property.

Another discussion will center on estate planning tools for agriculture and will deal with corporations, partnerships and selling part of the business to heirs.

The second day of the program will be devoted to special estate tax rules for agriculture. These include special farm land valuation, deferred estate tax payment rules, life insurance, "Flower" bonds and other property.

Joining Hayenga in conducting the program will be Extension economists Dr. Ashley Lovell of Stephenville and Dr. Bill Capner of New Mexico State University.

The seminars are the fifth and sixth of a series in estate planning.

"Estate planning is a step toward reduced taxes," points out Hayenga. "This process should start when you plan to inherit substantial property, when you have an active and growing business, when you still have time to take tax-saving actions, when you have minor children, and when your children marry or divorce."

For more detailed information about the seminars, contact your local county Extension agent or Hayenga in the Department of Agricultural Economics, Texas A&M University, College Station, Tex. 77843, or call 713/845-2226.

SMALL BUSINESS—A RESOURCE WE MUST PROTECT

You can look around the square of any Texas town and see the backbone of the state economy—and of the national economy. It's small business and it provides half of all jobs. By the current state definition there are 260,000 in our state—that's 97% of all Texas businesses. The small businessman and woman not only provide jobs and pay taxes; their independent tradition also helps explain the enduring quality of our democratic form of government.

The state of Texas recognizes the importance of small business and has programs to help it. But we can do better.

For one thing, we can abolish the sales tax on utility bills which now falls basically on small business owners. Large manufacturing and processing firms don't have to pay the tax, but the grocer, retailer and florist do. It is not fair.

My opponent opposed doing away with this tax in the last session of the legislature. The tax will bring in an estimated $220 million in 1984-85. But when you compare that with the extra $5.1 billion the legislature will have to spend during that time, I feel we can do without the tax and the revenue it will bring. And, as Lt. Governor, I would support its repeal.

I would also support putting into effect recommendations of the small business task force initiated by the Governor. Two of these recommendations are especially appealing. One is to help small business borrow money at better rates. Most small businesses which fail do so because they are under-capitalized. To help that situation, franchise tax money would be deposited in participating banks, which would, in turn, make loans at lower rates to small businesses.

The other recommendation is that we form a group of small business development centers at colleges and universities statewide. Money for the centers would come from the U.S. Small Business Administration, the state and participating schools. The centers would provide training, counseling and other help to small business owners so that they could be more competitive in the marketplace.

If you have any thoughts on this, I'd like to hear them. Please write me at 1213 W. 34th Street, Austin 78705.

Oil and gas discoveries

Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Nugent announced that Texas operators reported 122 gas and 67 oil discoveries in August 1982.

One year ago, 130 gas and 37 oil discoveries were filed with the state's energy regulatory agency.

Gas discoveries in the eighth month of the year included 52 in deep South Texas, 27 in the Refugio area, 13 in Southeast

Texas, eight each in East Texas and West Central Texas, five in North Texas, three in the San Angelo area, and two each in the San Antonio and Midland areas and East Central Texas.

13 in West Central Texas, nine each in North Texas and the Midland area, seven in deep South Texas, six each in East Texas and the Refugio and San Angelo areas, five in Southeast

Texas, three in the Panhandle, two in the Lubbock area, and one in East Central Texas.

Through the first eight months of this year, there have been 993 gas and 435 oil discoveries throughout the state. For the same period last year, there were 841 gas and 420 oil discoveries.

In August, operators reported 322 exploratory and field tests wound up as dry holes. New applications for permits to drill oil and gas tests totaled 2,510 in August compared with 3,388 in the same period of 1981.

Applications to drill, deepen, plug back and for service wells in August amounted to 2,913 against 3,724 a year earlier.

Operators filed 845 amended applications to drill. A year earlier they submitted 874 amended requests.

Wallace wants strong policy

The nation needs to shake off its "gloom" over a downturn in the oil and gas industry and press forward with a strong national energy policy, Texas Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace declared today.

In an address to the BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association, Wallace said, "at a time when we might be taking advantage of a brief breathing time to move ahead with a desperately needed national energy policy which would lead to greater energy self-sufficiency, we are instead scuttling our oil and gas industry."

Wallace cited a 43 percent decline in drilling activity this year, the failure of some energy banks, bankruptcy of some newly-organized companies, and the failure of new wells to receive pipeline connections as partial evidence of the "national gloom" over any investment in oil and gas. He maintained that part of the problem rests with the failure of the nation to establish a clear-cut national energy policy and governmental reluctance to solve its natural gas problems.

"The oil and gas industry in Texas is too important not only to Texas, its citizens, and their children, but the entire nation, to be left in limbo on the question of building a secure energy base in America," the senior member of the state's oil and gas regulatory commission said.

Wallace said that while some progress has been made in the last year, "we still have not gone nearly far enough...we have delayed taking the steps that are absolutely essential--decontrol of natural gas is the first."

He said, "this nation, still dependent on unstable foreign sources for an unacceptable percentage of its energy needs, can ill-afford this continued reluctance in designing a solution to important natural gas issues...we have to get off dead-center. "The nation," he said, "needs to free itself from foreign oil independence--free ourselves economically and free ourselves strategically."

Wallace continued, like it or not, Saudi Arabia will not solve our energy problems; Mexico will not solve our energy problems; Canada will not solve our energy problems. They will be solved by American workers operating American drilling equipment in America."

Wallace told the independent producers that their role has largely been misunderstood in the country. "These independent producers are not conglomerates that buy and sell one another," he said. "Rather, they are individuals energy hunters who lease, drill, produce, and sell in order to survive. And they have survived in spite of federal laws, federal rules, and unreasonable federal taxation."

He called oil field theft a "serious problem" in Texas and said reports of theft have increased drastically in the last 45 days. Wallace said the Commission works closely with the Texas Department of Public Safety and state law enforcement officials but pointed out the Commission is not specifically budgeted for investigating thefts in the oil fields.

Card of Thanks

My deepest gratitude is extended to everyone for flowers, telephone calls and visits.

I give my special thanks to all of Louie's friends whose presence gave me much comfort and strength.
Margarita Velez

Mr. and Mrs. Sherrill Dannheim and Cindy Eskina wish to thank the Sonora Fire Department for their help in extinguishing a fire on Reed-Dannheim Ranch Thursday--and a special thanks to Clay Carta for alerting us and calling the fire dept. We also wish to thank those wonderful neighbors who helped us.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends, relatives, and neighbors for their helpful sympathy for us in this dark hour of our bereavement. The words of condolence, food, beautiful floral offerings, memorials and the thoughtfulness for the family of Diamantina G. Torres were very deeply appreciated.

Greetings,

I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to the Sheriffs Department and Sonora Police Department, Sonora Electric Co. and my many friends and business associates who have assisted my family in many ways during my absence. There are no appropriate words to express myself with other than "Thank You" and may the "Man Topside" take a liking to you.

Respectfully
William A. (Bill) Drake

Touring guide planned

An unprecedented publication "Touring Texas History--A Guide to Eateries, Hotels and Theatres in Historic Structures," is being compiled which will bring alive Texas' colorful past.

This free listing of historic buildings which house places to dine, sleep and enjoy theatrical entertainment, will be a great aid to travelers who wish to capture the mood and flavor of Texas' unique and multi-ethnic heritage.

Traveling through time, users of the guide can stop at restored stagecoach inns for a sample of frontier room and board, enjoy the elegance of Southern hospitality in East Texas' authentic Antebellum hotels, and dine in buildings where history was made.

Establishments qualifying for the guide must be in structures at least 50 years old or have an official state or national historic landmark designation.

According to Touring chairman, Mrs. Sherwood Inley of San Antonio. "Our publication will cover every area of the state, from eateries in West Texas ranch houses and oil boom shacks, to establishments which are regional attractions offering local specialties and color. Visitors will be able to locate entertainment in opera houses built to host vanderbilt troupes at the turn-of-the-century.

"It is exciting to realize that we can sleep, eat and be entertained under the same roofs that accommodated our forebearers, many of them famous Texas leaders. The culture of our ancestors has been preserved in their buildings which are still standing for us to enjoy," Inley said.

The hotels, restaurants and theatres which qualify will receive a display certifying their listing in this handy guide which will be distributed free to schools, tourist bureaus, libraries and chambers of commerce.

Nominations may be submitted to the sponsor the Texas Heritage Project of the Texas Historical Foundation, Box 12243 Austin, Texas 78711.

Boy scouts unveil new concept

A package of four new concepts, including innovations for younger boys and the modern family, will be unveiled in September by the Boy Scouts of America, one of Concho Valley Council's top County officials said today.

"The package, called Foundations for Growth, is the culmination of three years of research and planning," said James Young, Council Commissioner of the Concho Valley Council Boy Scouts of America. "Our goal is to make Scouting even more relevant and appealing to modern youth."

One of the new programs being introduced is Tiger Cubs BSA, an all-new kind of Scouting for the 7-year-old boy and a parent or other participating adult. The program is designed to provide fun and activities for the boy and adult together, Young said, while at the same time strengthening family bonds and imparting the same ideals and values that other phases of Scouting do.

"An adult tiger and tiger cub side-by-side serve as the emblem for this new program," Young said. "It is symbolic of the fact that the program allows equal participation by the boy and his adult partner. That partner, incidentally, can be the boy's mother or father, or it can be an aunt or uncle, grandparent, or other sibling. It can even be a neighbor, if no family member is available."

Tiger Cub groups will be organized by existing Cub Scout packs, however, the Tiger Cub groups will function largely independent of Cub Scouts. "Simplicity and fun are the key points of the program, Young said. "As an example of that, the uniform is nothing more than the Tiger Cub emblem in iron-on form applied to a shirt of blouse."

We may all be able to pay lower prices for a number of things, thanks to a recent court ruling that lowers builders' costs.
