Lions raise $11,000

Money will go to several community projects

PICKLED PINK-Three year old David Fisher, son of Lions 3rd vice president Glen and Linda Fisher, delights in sampling a dill pickle before sitting down to the free barbecued goat dinner offered before the recent Lions Club Auction at the 4-H Center. Almost 160 pounds of barbecued was served and the leftovers were donated to the Sonora Fire Department.

The crowd was a bit small but the bidding was quite generous at the 45th Annual Lions Club Auction held recently at the 4-H Center. Early estimates indicates almost $11,000 was raised through the auction and cash donations for such Lions Club supported projects as the Sonora Boy Scouts, the 4-H Center, Sutton County Days, Crippled Children's Camp, and more. The auction was preceded by a free dinner which included barbecued goat with a secret sauce, hot beans, West Texas potato salad, and iced tea. The auction kicked off at about 7 p.m. before a crowd of 75 people, many of these being generous bidders who's main interest was to maintain or increase the quality of life in Sutton County through their donations in disguise. Auctioneer Lem Jones of Harper said, "People came here tonight to have a good time and raise money and that's what we did. We had a good auction-not many people-but there was plenty of bidding action. "Here in Sonora are all my friends and I can do things here I don't do anywhere else, like interjecting humor at the right time, ribbing, teasing them up, and so forth. "There's an art to auctioning-its a lot more than talking fast. "It takes years of experience to know when to hang a little longer or when to hammer at a person who's likely to bid. "I've made a career out of selling livestock at auctions and there it's strictly serious business with plenty of fast bidding which is easier for me to handle because nine times out of ten if a person bids once during fast bidding they will do it again.

Lem announced rodeos back in the 1940's when he got his start as an auctioneer.

Soon after he went to an Auctioneer's School up in Mason City, Iowa where he learned proper breathing, how to work up a chant, and a little crowd psychology.

He said, "I have people coming up to me all the time saying they didn't plan to bid but found themselves into it before they knew what was going on."

The first item to go at the auction was an unopened can of Billy Beer an Lem started the bidding off by commenting, "I wonder what Jimmy Carter would give for this or what he would have given to have kept this from ever happening," (referring to Billy Carter).

Then Lem took a deep breath which seemed to last him the next 2 1/2 hours as he began his non-stop chant, "Somebody gimme 30 now 30 now, I got 30, somebody gimme 40, you're out back there, 40 now 40 now..."

Joseph and Mabel VanderStucken went after the Billy Beer like a magnet to steel and got it finally for $65. They have been married for almost 58 years.

Joe was born and raised in Sutton County and said he knew where he could sell the Billy Beer for $200-but not if Mabel has her way--she plans to have it made into a lamp.

One hotly-contested item was a hand-made deck of dominoes crafted by SHS 9th grade teacher Phillip Pohl. It went for $170 to the Cusenbary Estate.

The Lions Club mystery package--a 37-year-old box wrapped in plain brown paper and never opened-went this year to Mr. and Mrs. Lea Roy Aldwell for $550.

The box, known as "Old Faithful", went for $55 in 1945 and was donated back to the Lions Club every year and resold. The record bid was in 1977 when Max and Addah Cauthorn paid $1,650.

The rumor is that the box contains an old bottle of cheap liquor because when one shakes it they can hear splashing.

The box has reaped a total of $10,117.50 in 37 years and this was Lea Roy's second purchase-having paid $800 for it in 1979.

The night's total was $10,250 with other cash donations made by individuals and 16 goats donated to the Fire Department, four goats to the Lions Club, and six kept by the bidders out of 26 goats auctioned.

Near the end of the evening the crowd has dwindled down to about 10 hard-core bidders who were really community supporters in disguise.

Regular projects supported by the Lion's Club are:

Sonora Boy Scouts, Chamber of Commerce, Care Program, Concho Valley Home for Girls, Community Sign, Crippled Childrens camp, Eye Exams and Glasses, Firemens Training School, 4-H Center, 4-H Food Show & Dress revue, 4-H Livestock Show, Sonora Girl Scouts, Hunting Party, Little League Baseball, Lions International Foundation, Texas Re-Hab Center, Sonora Wool & Mohair Show, Summer Recreational Program, Sonora Speech Meet, Sutton County Senior Center, Sutton County Days, Welfare Council, and Pins For National Jr. Honor Society.

Goats for the barbeque were donated by:

Sonora Police Department reports incidents

PROTECTOR OF THE PEOPLE-Newly hired Sonora Police Department patrolman Woodie B. Howell leans against a fully equipped 1982 Ford LTD patrol car.

On September 23, the Sonora Police Department hired a new patrolman named Woodie B. Howell.

He is 23 years old and married to Patty, a housewife, and they have a four-year-old daughter named Ammie.

Woodie was born in Snyder and has lived in West Texas all his life. He has two years police experience with Crane and Odessa Police Departments.

He added, "Its the little things about general patrol work that I enjoy such as giving someone a jump start or helping a person out. I prefer working in a small town.

"We lucked out and found a nice place to live in Sonora even though housing is tight."

The Sonora Police Department released the following information:

9/18 at 3:46 a.m. an officer took into custody three juvenile males on the school grounds. They were seen tearing up some basketball goals and a fourth juvenile was seen running and he was taken into custody the next day. All the juveniles were released to their parents as soon as possible and they will all appear in court for a charge of criminal mischief which is destruction of property. The report on the amount of damage lists two basketball goals, one sign, and one log jungle gym for a total just over $400 according to the school system.

9/19 at 4 a.m. Officer Caldemeyer was dispatched to the Shamrock Station and on arrival found a 1977 Toyota with California license plates in flames. The officer asked the attendant at the open Shell station across the street if he knew what happened and the attendant said a dark-colored Datsun 280Z pulled up to the Toyota, got out and did something, got back in the Datsun, and left-before the Datsun went one block the parked Toyota started burning. The Datsun sped up and turned north on route 277. This is an ongoing investigation of a possible arson.

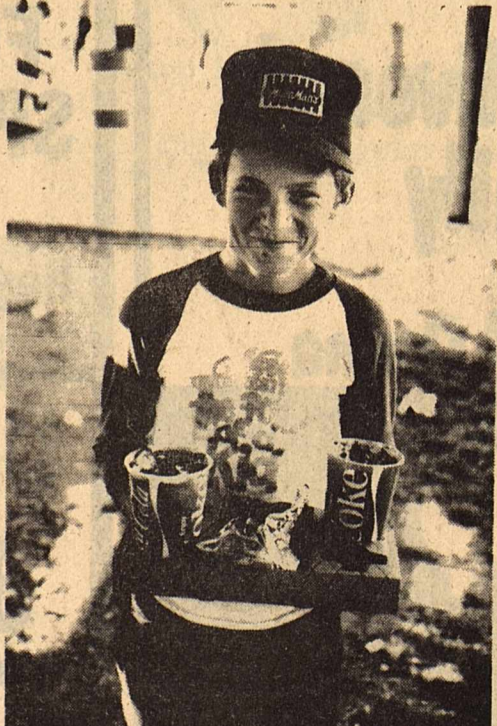

9/20 at 2:10 a.m. two officers stopped a 1968 Chevrolet Camaro at Hurry-Up. The driver was identified as George Ramos. A call had been received earlier from a complainant about a disturbance at the Humphreys Trailer Park and the vehicle had been described. The 23-year old driver was found to be in possession of a 25-caliber automatic pistol and was arrested for unlawful possession of a weapon. Also arrested were passengers Martin Herrera and Raul Escamilia Jr. for consuming alcoholic beverages after hours and for being intoxicated.

Question of the week: What is traffic like around the school grounds?

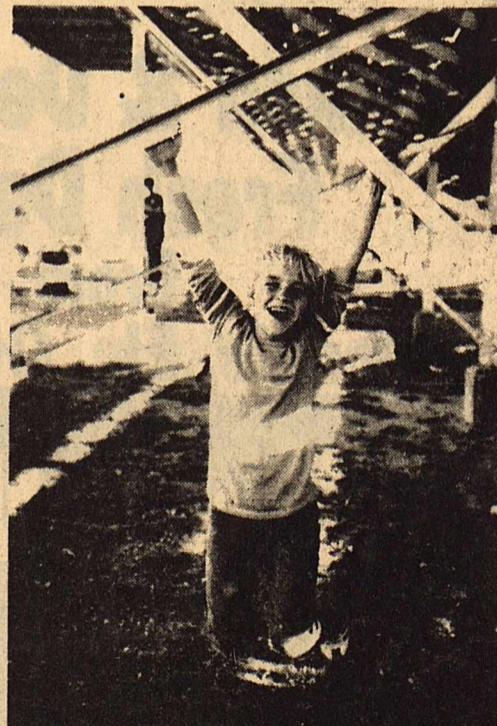

Courtney Cauthorn

I think its a little dangerous because some people drive over the speed limit but not everybody. It seems like they're going almost 50 m.p.h. When school lets in at 8:15 a.m. most drivers go about 20 m.p.h. but when school lets out and the football players leave they seem to go a bit faster, not much.

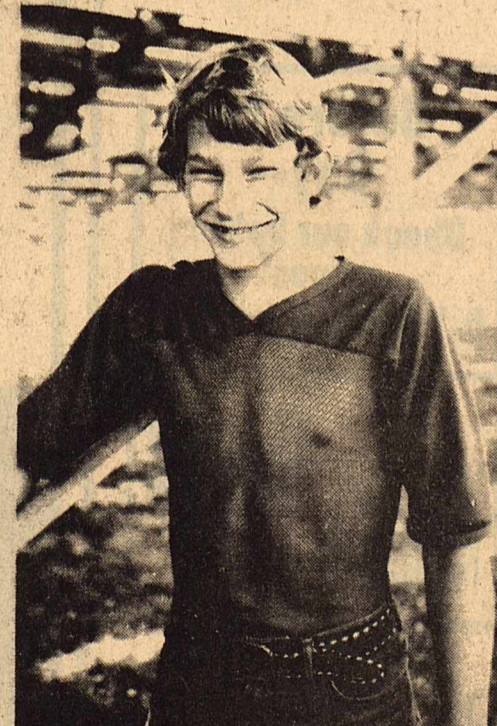

Wayne Tyler

The school grounds are a dangerous place to be when school lets in and lets out because of all the little kids walking around and the drivers need to slow down and watch out. I haven't seen any accidents but it could happen-just about all the drivers are doing it. The streets are bad everywhere, not just at high school.

Kathy Vaughan

It's dangerous around the middle school and other schools because you could get run over. I've seen accidents almost happen. It's reckless drivers and they should watch for kids crossing the street. One time I was riding my bike around the school grounds and a car almost hit me but at the last minute I took off.

Wesley Skains

It's not safe because there are too many cars around the schools at once and things move too slow, it takes too long to let kids off in the morning and they run across the streets without looking-somebody could get killed. I've never seen anything close to an accident but I've heard about them happening.

Marle Freeman

Drivers go real fast and they don't pay attention to where they are going-its mainly the guys who drive those trucks around. The solution could be to enforce the laws more by having a cop around. Those drivers look like they are going to hit a kid when they drive fast around turns to show off to others.

This here'n that there

Thus begins an irregular column which may best be described as amorphous - meaning it has no particular shape or form. Some weeks the column may not even appear if it gets squeezed out by local news and announcements.....

Sometimes the DRN gets unsigned letters to the editor which cannot be printed because a signature is required or because the writer is a minor and the letter is so legally precarious that it could get the DRN in hot water.

Such a letter came recently in which a young person wanted a letter meant for the person's father published in the paper for all to see. It was a letter beseeching the father to make child support payments and the DRN decided this letter could lead to legal problems.....

It was late in the first quarter of the Eldorado versus Sonora game here at home when the first string Bronco quarterback was hurt - lying on his back - timeout was called and this photographer on the sideline thought, "Boy how I would like to get a close-up picture showing the pain in the quarterback's face and what he and other football players know they may go through."

The team doctor was bent over the quarterback as were one or two coaches and several concerned teammates.

Snapping one quick close-up, the photographer was told by an official to get off the field and later the photographer found out that it was against Texas rules for anyone other than players, coaches, etc. to be on the field - even during timeouts.

The photographer wonders still, if the home team had been penalized would he have been chased out of town on foot or would he have been given time to pack his bags?

.....Some features planned for future DRN issues are on the Caves of Sonora, foster parenting, hunting, ranching, a day in the life of an oil man, and housing.

The DRN hopes readers have noticed an increase in local news items because this is a priority. We would appreciate suggestions for future stories and also suggestions for the "Question of the Week" which appears on page one, bottom.

The DRN also looks for contributors such as those that can draw comic strips or write humor or local history columns.

Letters to the editor

To The Editor,

I think Texas is a beautiful state, but the litter along the roadways is destroying its beauty.

Three years ago Michigan voted into law a bill that could help Texas with the litter problem. The bill makes a mandatory 10 cents deposit on all soft drinks, beer, and mineral water containers (bottles and cans), 20 cents for 2 liter bottles. When you buy the product you pay the deposit. When you return the empty containers, the deposit is refunded. People will no longer throw away cans and bottles because they're valuable. Those that are thrown away are quickly picked up. Having a party could prove to be not only fun but also profitable when guests forget their empties.

Since Michigan passed this bill, litter is almost non-existent. I think this law would be valuable to Texas and the environment and I urge lawmakers to look into this.

Thank You,
V. Kemp

Dear Editor:

In 1978, Bill Clements attracted the highest percentage of votes from Mexican-Americans than any previous Republican candidate for Governor.

Again, when Hispanics compare the records of Mark White and Governor Clements on issues of importance to them, they will vote for Governor Clements, Governor Clements has:

- appointed more Hispanics to state agencies and judgeships than any other Governor.
- hired three Hispanic assistants to manage three

Governor's Office Divisions

- appointed a Special Task Force which developed new legislation expanding bilingual education and successfully advocated federal financial support for education of illegal aliens.
- supported the federal Voting Rights Act
- devised an immigration policy that has the support of both Mexican and U.S. Border Governors

Governor Clements' record clearly shows deep concern for all Texans.

Sincerely,
Larry Finklea

Obituaries and Tribute to Thomas Morriss

His way of life was a fine example for us all, and we are truly grateful for having seen his pattern of life that was one of never-failing optimism, courage and faith. He was truly a Christian gentleman with precious qualities of character that he inherited from his pioneer forefathers.
 Loyalty and deep devotion to his family, far and wide, and courageous Christian faith were outstanding qualities of his personality. The spirit of hospitality in the beautiful home he shared with Lucy Mae, was known near and far. His community interest and civic pride were most admirable, and he would have us all live busy active lives of Christian service.
 How fortunate we all are to have known and loved Thomas Morriss.

all blown out of proportion. there is absolutely no reason why a student should be terrified. I mean, why should someone be nervous? Just because the toughest, longest test of six weeks' accumulated work will make or break a hard-earned grade? Is that any reason? Well, to all students everywhere, good luck and study, study!

 Miraculously easy to use.

So easy, in fact, anyone can use it to make almost any office task simpler and easier. Because anyone can learn how to operate it in just a few hours. And because there's the added convenience of a familiar typewriter-style keyboard with a handy numerical pad.

So before you know it, you'll be using it as a personal computer for everything from keeping inventories up to date to financial planning. Or as a word processor, to type, edit, store and recall the printed word in just seconds. Even as an intelligent terminal providing access to remote data bases or communication of information from one location to another.

The Xerox personal computer. A simply amazing machine that's so easy to use, it's almost miraculous.

Buchanan gets honor

Yet another signal honor for the Sonora High School Speech Department and its director, James Buchanan, is occurring next week in Houston at the annual convention of the Texas Speech Communication Association.

The convention, set for October 7-9 at the Houston Hyatt Regency, will be the scene of a panel review of new State textbooks. Buchanan is scheduled to appear before this panel consisting of classroom teachers, authors and publishers. He is a member of the executive council of the TSCA.

One of the highlights of the convention will be the Saturday morning seminar entitled "3 teaching seminars from 3 master teachers". The 3 master teachers are faculty members from Trinity University, Southwest Texas University, and Buchanan from Sonora High School. He has as his subject "Developing realistic action through music", an acting workshop. Five local high school students will accompany him to help in his demonstrations. They are Cody Childress, Craig Hopper, Louise Ingham, Vicki DeMarco, and Miles Miller, all of whom are enrolled this year in his speech and drama classes.

Buchanan is beginning his second year as the speech and drama director at Sonora High School.

A LAME-DUCK SESSION

For only the tenth time in almost half a century, Congress is scheduled to return after the November elections to complete unfinished business. This special type of session is known as a "lame-duck," which will include both Members who have been re-elected and those who have voluntarily retired or who have been defeated in the election.

There are both problems and promise inherent in a lame-duck session. Some express concern over the passage of legislation by Members who have already been rejected by the voters. Others express the hope that constructive action on tough issues can be taken because the heat of political battles will have passed.

Our past experiences with lame-duck sessions indicate both the potential problems and the promise that such a session can hold.

The first three special sessions occurred during World War II when Congress met almost continually. In 1948, Congress met for two hours on the last day of the calendar year to approve several minor bills, extend the life of the Hoover Commission on the Organization of the Executive Branch, and swear in new members. In addition, the House Un-American Activities Committee continued its investigation of alleged communist espionage in the federal government.

Following the 1950 elections, President Truman sent a "must" agenda to the 81st Congress. His list included supplemental defense appropriations, an excess profits tax, aid to Yugoslavia, a three-month extension of federal rent controls and statehood for Hawaii and Alaska. During this marathon session, which ended only hours before the 82nd Congress convened, 46 bills were enacted into law. The President's entire program was adopted with the exception of the statehood bills, which were blocked by Senate filibuster.

In 1954, only the Senate returned to hold what some called a "censure session" to continue investigation into the conduct of Senator Joseph P. McCarthy. By a 67-22 roll-call vote the Senate voted on December 2 to "condemn" the Senator for his behavior. It then adjourned.

President Richard Nixon criticized the lame-duck Congress he called in 1970 as one that had "seemingly lost the capacity to decide and the will to act." Filibusters and intense controversy contributed to inaction on the President's request for trade legislation and welfare reform. Despite its unwillingness to act on those two issues, Congress did clear several major appropriations bills, approved foreign aid to Cambodia, provided interim funding for the supersonic transport plane (SST) and repealed the Tonkin Gulf Resolution. The session ended January 2.

In 1974, the 93rd Congress cleared a mass-transit bill, the Labor-Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriations bill, a foreign aid package, and approved the nomination of Nelson Rockefeller as Vice President.

As a freshman legislator, I participated in the 1980 lame-duck session which began November 12 and ended December 16. During this session, we finally approved a budget and ten regular appropriations bills were passed, although one was eventually vetoed.

President Reagan has called for a lame-duck session this year in the interest of fiscal responsibility and I fully concur with his decision. Since none of the 13 annual appropriations bills has been approved to date, we shall operate for a short period under a blanket continuing appropriations resolution, which will for the most part merely allow the government to continue to function at existing (FY 1982) levels.

The Continuing Resolution will set artificial levels for Federal spending. For example, the Congress has already agreed in its budget resolution to increase spending for our national security and to decrease spending for certain domestic programs which are no longer viable. The Continuing Resolution, however, will not reflect the budget decisions which have already been made, but will instead adopt last year's spending levels on a wholesale basis.

Attempting to run the government without specific appropriations decisions is both bad economics and bad management. The Congress must demonstrate that we can impose necessary fiscal discipline on government spending and we must make funding decisions which reflect vital national priorities. To do this, we must pass the 13 regular appropriations bills. It is too bad that we could not manage to take care of the Nation's business in the time allotted to us in regular session. Since we could not, the President is quite correct in calling a special session. Let us hope that in that session lame ducks can learn to soar.

against drunk driving

Conservative State Senate Candidate Ernest Angelo says the time for drawing the line against drunk drivers is long overdue.

"Thousands of Texans are killed or injured every year by drunken drivers. More than one half of all fatal auto accidents involve at least one driver who has been drinking. And yet, Texas laws on driving while intoxicated are still among some of the most lenient in the United States," said Angelo.

"We must stop this senseless killing on our streets and highways. Penalties must be increased and plea bargaining discouraged. Mandatory jail sentences and work programs or treatment programs, coupled with license revocation for repeat offenders should be enacted into law. The threat of severe punishment must be real."

Angelo supports making a detailed analysis of the effects of raising the drinking age limit to 21.

"I believe studies will show that age has a measureable effect on accidents involving drunk drivers. If so, I would support raising the age limit," said Angelo. "In addition, if a workable law can be developed, I would support a ban on the possession of open containers of alcoholic beverages in vehicles."

Angelo believes that laws concerning drunk driving should be structured to include driving while under the influence of various drugs, to remove this threat from our highways as well.

"In the end, society as a whole must say to the intoxicated driver that we will not tolerate his or her behavior. Laws will not be passed, convictions will not be carried out, until we as citizens are prepared to support our police, judges and prosecutors in dealing out the severe penalties necessary to deter these offenders," said Angelo.

Zone IV election planned

An election for a director to serve in Zone IV on the Edwards Plateau Soil and Water Conservation District Board is scheduled for Friday, October 1, 1982 at the Sonora Experiment Station announced Bob Brockman, chairman of the board. The election will be held at 1:00 p.m.

State law decrees that to be eligible to vote in a soil and water conservation district director's election, a person must own agricultural land within the subdivision where the election is being held. The person must also live in a county all or any part of which is in the district and the voter must be 18 years old.

Legal qualifications state that a candidate for the office of a soil and water conservation district director must own land in the zone he represents, be 18 years of age and be actively engaged in farming or ranching. He must also live in a county all or part of which is in the district.

Local directors going to Austin

Glenn Fisher, Bob Brockman and Albert Ward, directors from the Edwards Plateau Soil and Water Conservation District will be in Austin, October 4-6, 1982, to attend the Forty-Second Annual State Meeting of Texas Soil and Water Conservation District Directors.

The purpose of the meeting is to review developments affecting Texas conservation programs and to plan future conservation district programs and activities. Governor Bill Clements will highlight the program when he will address the group at their banquet in the Hyatt Regency's ballroom on Tuesday evening.

Other speakers scheduled for the meeting include Mark White, Attorney General of Texas; State Senator Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls; State Representative Jerry Clark of Buna; and Milton E. "Bud" Mekelburg of Yuma, Colorado, president, National Association of Conservation Districts.

As the state's chief enforcement officer, Attorney General Mark White co-chairs the Federal-State Law Enforcement Coordinating Committee and is a member of the Governor's Organized Crime Prevention Council. He is also chairman of the Southern Conference of Attorney's General. White will speak at the Tuesday morning general session.

Senator Farabee, who will speak at the Tuesday morning general session, currently serves on the Legislative Budget Board and the Governor's Task Force on Water. Though he serves on several other committees, he is particularly noted for his interest in strengthening Texas agriculture.

Representative Clark will also address conservation district directors at the Tuesday general session. He is a member of the House Natural Resources Committee and vice-chairman of the Energy Resources Committee. He is also a member of the Coastal Sub-committee on Natural Resources.

Mekelburg, a farmer and businessman, is a spokesman for the nation's 3,000 soil and water conservation districts. NACD's primary purpose is to serve its member conservation districts in the conservation, orderly development and wise use of the nation's natural resources. Mekelburg is scheduled to speak at the Wednesday morning general session.

Joe Montgomery of Abilene, president, Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts will also address the group. Charles D. Clark of Menard, president, Hill Country Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts will welcome the group of Austin.

Four concurrent workshops will be conducted on subjects of interest to SWCD directors on Tuesday afternoon. Each workshop will be repeated.

The workshops will feature discussions on district program development, conservation legislation, district operations and a session on recent technological developments in range managements.

Albert Ward, local district director, will be conducting a slide program on the Sixth Grade Ecology Field Tour that has been an annual event for the past two years, with the Edwards Plateau S&WCD.

Zone IV of the district included an area as indicated on the above map.

Current members of the board of directors of the Edwards Plateau S&WCD are Bob Brockman, Chairman, Albert Ward, Vice Chairman, Armer Earwood, Secretary, Bob Caruthers, member and Glen Fisher, member.

The purpose of the Edwards Plateau SWCD, with headquarters in Sonora is to promote sound soil and water conservation programs on farm and ranch lands within the district and to serve as a voice for farmers and ranchers on conservation matters and other issues affecting private property rights of landowners.

The district board of directors coordinates the conservation efforts of various local, state and federal agencies and other organizations and has authority to enter into working agreements with these governmental agencies and private concerns to carry out its purposes.

All conservation programs managed by the district are of a voluntary nature to the landowner or operator.

Local directors going to Austin

This program will be given twice at the state meeting on Oct. 5, 1982.

Regular elections for Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation District Directors for State areas II and IV will be held on Tuesday afternoon in the area sessions. A president and vice president of the State Association will be elected at the Association's business session on Wednesday.

Jack Mann has been given the Conservationist of the Year Award by the Sonora Lions Club after being selected as a candidate by the Edwards Plateau Soil and Water Conservation District.

Jack began his ranching career here in 1932 and now runs 8,320 acres about 20 miles northeast of Sonora in Sutton County.

He became a co-operator with the Edwards Plateau Soil and Water Conservation District on July 2nd, 1948 and at that time his ranch was covered with bitterweed and brush, Yes, the 23rd annual Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children is in full swing and the countdown has started. For more than 23 years, the ranchers and stockmen of the Southwest have joined hands with the West Texas Rehabilitation Centers to help the handicapped. Every fall the CRCC is a great part of the neighborhood-helping-neighbor philosophy of this part of the country.

The kickoff sale of cattle will debut at 1 p.m., September 27, in Abilene. A horse sale will follow October 2 in Abilene; a sheep and goat sale October 4, in Junction; a special auction October 6 in Coleman; and another special auction November 3 in Brownwood.

This writer has joined the many volunteers throughout Texas, traveling and talking to stockmen encouraging them to participate in this year's drive. All proceeds, along with CRCC gifts of cash, are used for treatment of patients at West Texas Rehab Centers in San Angelo, Abilene and Snyder.

WTRC campuses are private, non-profit treatment and diagnostic facilities. A patient needs only a doctor's referral to be admitted. There is no charge for Rehab services. Established in 1953, the WTRC is fully accredited.

poorly watered, and had very large pastures.

He then obtained on of the first great Plains Contracts in the District. The contract consisted of cross-fencing, brush management, and a four pasture rotation.

Today he is in the process of rebuilding fences, replacing old pipelines, cleaning and patching storages and troughs, and working with a steer operation.

I was on duty last week in San Angelo as we officially opened the new $2.5 million facility there. Hundreds of supporters and friends filed through with pride showing as they observed the fully equipped center of "love."

I first became acquainted with Rehab five years ago when my youngest daughter was born with a heart problem. Resident doctors diagnosed her problem and saved her life.

Shortly afterward, Shelley V. Smith, WTRC executive director, came to the newspaper office where I was working at the time and asked me to help him with some writing to tell my readers about CRCC that fall. They needed some help to raise some funds for the center.

Similar to the economic conditions of this year, I toured the Center and addressed the cause. That was five round-ups ago. With all my other businesses and daily problems, my staff and clients say to me: "You're going to have to slow down and maybe drop some of those road trips for Rehab."

Let me share something with my readers out there: I may be forced to slow down or drop a client down the road somewhere, but it won't be WTRC. It's like the printer's ink that's been in my veins for 25 years, the religion in my soul as a Presbyterian or being a Republican, a weird combination, granted, yet it's pairing and building new pens on the ranch.

His daughter, Judy Mc Donald, received the plaque during a ceremony at the 4-H Center just before the Annual Lions Club Auction.

very much a part of my life! Folks, the little crippled children need your help. The Older adults who have had strokes and used up all their money in medical centers but need additional rehabilitation need your help. When you donate livestock and need some deductions from the IRS, you need help. Let us hear from you now. Call 915-692-1633 or send your cash donations to this column, P.O. Box 1542, San Angelo, Texas, 76902, and I will personally see that your gift gets to the Rehab Center. Your rewards for doing so will be the best thing you ever did.
