The CVAE and Student Council make overwhelming progress for Christmas

Thanks to the overwhelming generosity of the citizens of Sonora and Sutton County, and to the hard work and dedication of two Sonora High School organizations, Christmas was brighter and more joyous for nearly 50 families in the area this year.

Both the Coordinated Vocational Academic Education classes (CVAE) and the Student Council directed their energy toward the goal of collecting money, food and toys for the elderly and needy families of our area during the recent holiday

The 30 high school and junior high boys in the CV. E program, under he director of instructor Reggie Williams, managed to collect enough toys and cash donations from generous citizens to provide a complete holiday repast, with toys for the children in the families, for 23 families. According to Williams, more than $1100 in cash was used to purchase groceries at several local food stores. Some of the toys donated were almost like new, and some were repaired by the boys in the program.

The Sonora High School Student Council, sponsored by Bob Snodgrass, was involved in their annual distribution of Christmas food baskets to senior citizens. Twenty Five elderly residents received the baskets as a result of donations from the Student Council and community

Both sponsors stress their thanks to the general public for the tremendous response to this holiday project, and point out that the program was an outstanding success only because of the cooperation and caring of the people of Sonora.

Bentsen's version of gasoline tax

an additional $135 million, from the guaranteed 85 percent return to states of increased federal gasoline taxes, a compromise won by U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen and approved by the Senate on Thursday.

The five cent per gallon increase in federal gasoline taxes was part of a highway funding bill, amended earlier by Bentsen to provide the 85-cent minimum return to states from the Highway Trust Fund for every dollar paid in federal gasoline taxes.

Bentsen, ranking Democrat on the Transportation Subcommittee, had earlier insisted on and won administration backing for his proposal.

Since the Highway Trust Fund was established in 1956, Texas has gotten back 76 percent of its contributions to the fund, making it the second largest "donor" state.
The $135 million Texas will receive, to raise it from the original $615 million funding level to the 85 percent return level of $750 million, may be used at the state pleases on highway-related projects. This "dis-cretionary" amount is pro-jected to increase to $191 million in 1984. "Having this pool of discretionary highway funds will greatly benefit Texas. My state will be able to use it on construction or repair of highways or bridges, wherever it is needed the most," Bentsen

"This is the largest funding level in history for highway programs. I am satisfied that the bill includes compromises that will provide at least a fair return to states like Texas that traditionally have given more than their share to the construction and maintenance of our nation's

"Cities in Texas needing to establish rail mass transit systems also will be able to get a share of federal transit aid, something they couldn't have gotten in the original bill. As I've said before, this is a user tax and it's only fair it should be used to benefit the people who pay it," Senator Bentsen said.

Now you have a choice.

And it couldn't have come at a better time for your financial future.

In just the last few weeks, the financial industry has experienced tremendous changes. As a result, banks are able to offer new, profitable investments that many, many customers can afford. Plus, the banks have been given a great deal of freedom in determining the rates and conditions of these attractive investment plans.

This means that for the first time, you may have the opportunity to earn high interest on every dollar you deposit in a bank. And now you have the freedom to compare investments and interest rates before you decide which bank is best for you.

Now, more than ever, you deserve a choice. And now you have one.

The word is out from officials at the Texas Department of Agriculture stating prospects for improvement in Texas agriculture in 1983 is good.

Of course, there are some strings attached to the word from Austin. Retiring Ag Commissioner Reagan Brown says: "Depending on changes in the international market and farmers' ability to adapt production to domestic and export conditions."

He said that the main options for Texas farmers are to reduce acreage on the traditional crops of grains and cotton and to begin diversification to crops that are in stronger demand.

"Everything hit the Texas farmer at the same time--low export demand, high interest rates, weather disasters, and a weekened economy," added Brown.

"Few people realize that one-fifth of farm income is derived from exports. When foreign buyers halt or slow down their purchases, we have severe impacts with lower prices on grains and cotton and surpluses that affect prices for severa! years."

I received a memo from The Federal Land Bank of Texas, also in Austin, announcing interest ratess on Land Bank variable loans will be reduced to 11.25 percent on farm loans and to 11.75 percent on farm-related business and rural residences loans. The rates became effective Jan. 1

"The Land Bank's objective is to provide credit to Texas agriculture at the lowest possible cost, consistent with sound business practices," said Thomas H. Benson, Federal Land Bank president.

Texas Congressi

Charles Stenholm and state farm leaders managed to get widespread participation in the Federal acreage reduction programs for 1983, too. The group under the name of Texas Agriculture forum is trying to develop ways to decrease 1983 production of surplus crops and to devise other measures that will help the farm economy.

The acreage reductions in the Federal farm bill are not enough to get out supplies and production in line with expected market demand next year, but they are a start in the right direction.

In the 1982 acreage reduction program about 75 percent of the eligible Texas acres were enrolled in the program. "If we could get close to 100 percent compliance, I believe that we could see some strengthening in market prices toward the end of next year, especially if we can open some new markets," stated Brown.

The cotton picture shows 2.6 million bales harvested in the Lone Star state for 1982. That figure is down 54 percent from 1981, but up 4 percent from the previous forecast. Texas remains in second place behind California in cotton production for 1982.

Texas pecan production for 1982 was 20 million pounds. It's down 68 percent.

Be it economy or no market at all, most any West Texan will tell you 1983 and the prospects thereof depend on the weather. If it turns out to be a good wet year, agriculture will look good. If it's dry, the whole year will be bleak. Let's hope it's a wet Happy New Year!

Burleson to perform at KKYX's Annual River Festival

Mickey Burleson, Nueces Canyon native will be performing January 15th, Saturday, at the KKYX Annual River Festival, along with Earl Conley, Mundo Earwood and others.

Burleson has been singing professionally since 1972. Burleson has cut three singles, the first in 1968 'The Ballad of James Earl Ray' and 'I've Lived In A Storm', writted by his brother David. The second single 'Pickin' Wildflowers and Butterfly Days Are Gone', penned by Stoney Edwards, promoted locally and regionally only. His third single 'If You Could Touch Her At All' penned by Lee Clayton and 'In The Middle Of A Honky Tonk' was cut in 1976.

Burleson appeared at Panther Hall in Ft. Worth in 1972 and was written up as stealing the spotlight from stars at Panther Hall. He sang at the El Corral in Las Cruces for three years with his band 'The Right Kind Of People' and went on to California for a few months, when he won first place at the Palomino Club in L.A. He received good press reviews in the entertainment mag in L.A.

While in Texas, he has appeared onstage with Johnny Rodriquez, Bubby Littrell, Vernon Oxford, Patti Fulton, Bobby Borchers and Larry Gatlin at Uvalde, Tommy Allen, Uvalde. In New Mexico, he played in Alamogordo, Albuquerque, Calrsbad, Santa Fe and Truth or Consequences as the house band for the past three years.

He appeared in Yoakum's Tom Tom Festival, along with Charlie Walker, Jackie Ward, Bobby Borchers and Jerry Max Lane, where he received a tremendous ovation.

Burleson's first appearance at the River Festival in San Antonio was not scheduled. He was asked to sing before the regular scheduled performers came on and sang a number of Hank Williams tunes and received the only standing ovation in the three day festival.

Burleson will be booking his band "The Right Kind Of People" on Friday and Saturday nights and information about booking may be confirmed by calling AC 512-683-6855 after 5 p.m.

Burleson is the brother of Lou Thomas, formerly of Sonora.

Rehabilitation quilt auction

Every year for the past several years, Bill and Susan Hayes, "Doug" and "Julie" of the day-time drama "Days of Our Lives' have auctioned quilts and afghans that have been donated for the West Texas Rehabilitation Center's annual benefit telecast.

But to date only about ten quilts have been donated for the January 8 telecast. Normally, close to 100 are donated, so Rehab Center officials are making an urgent appeal for individuals and quilting clubs from all over the Southwest to send in a quilt or afghan for this year's show.

Donors are asked to call the West Texas Rehabilitation Center as soon as possible at (915) 692-1633.

Each year, the quilt auction portion of the telecast raises in excess of $10,000 so it plays a big part in the overall fund raising event.

The first twenty-five cent pieces were minted by the U.S. government in 1796.

Farm Program participation deserves consideration

Farmers should give serious consideration to participating in the 1983 government farm program, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"During tough times such as we have now, fasrm such as we have now, farm programs have to be a worthy option," says Dr.

Carl Anderson. "Farmers must really take a hard look at their situations ands must look at how farm programs might supplement their income."

While the current farm program offers "too litle, too late" to reduce surplus production and raise farm prices, participation mighst prices, participation might be a wise move on the part of farmers because of the bleak market outlook for agricultural commodities, Anderson says.

Anderson advises farmers to carefully consider the present farm program but cautions them to stay abreast of possible changes that could be forthcoming.

America has over 220,000 miles of petroleum pipelines carrying crude oil and products to refineries and storage terminals across the United States. ### Rule announced to track oil carried by truck

The Railroad Commission has approved for public comment a proposed rule that would give law enforcement officials a way to track oil carried by truck in the the state.

The proposed rule would require each transporter to prepare a separate run ticket each time oil is trucked from a lease or other facility. One copy must be left at the site the oil was removed from, another must remain in the transporting vehicle, and a third copy must be given to the receiver of the oil when it is delivered.

If the rule is adopted, failure of a transporter to carry a run ticket for oil being carried will provide law enforcement agencies a basis for detaining transporters suspected of oil theft.

Run ticket copies must be kept by each respective party for two years and must be available for inspection by Railroad Commission agents or law enforcement representat-

The proposed rule requires that the run ticket identify the lease or facility from which the oil was taken, the point of destination, the quantity of oil being moved, the date and hour when the oil was removed from the lease or facility, and the identity of the transporter, including the driver's name.

Comments will be taken for 30 days after publication of the rule in the Texas Specializing In

Obviously, in such circumstances, it is not possible to evaluate properly the consequences of Conference

In addition to the serious concerns I have about the legislative process by which Congress acted on key defense issues, I also am troubled by some of the specific decisions that were made in the course of this process.

For example, the Continuing Resolution contains no usual highlights of Texas money to produce the MX missile, and fails to provide ade- history can be found on quate research and development funding. In our earlier action, the Senate had adopted a reasonable approach -- that of approving money for missile production only conditional- the results of a joint locally, pending thorough study of the various modes by which state program. In fact, the Senate rejected by better funded by county historical than a two-thirds majority an amendment which would have commissions, and are deleted production funds altogether -- the very position now the Texas Historical Commcontained in the Continuing Resolution.

There are other important programs which were dropped in the final version of the Continuing Resolution. For historical markers began in instance, one of my amendments which the Senate adopted 1936, in conjunction with would have provided $82 million in "long-lead" funding the state's centennial. On the other hand, the Continuing Resolution contains $800 million for programs which can only be called pork official historical Medallion barrel projects. These weapon systems were not included in building markers began this year's authorization bill because they are not necessary to our national security.

I was successful in getting the Senate to eliminate almost $500 million of this money, but when the final version came to us for approval, every dollar had been restored. This is wasteful spending, and it is waste that cannot be blamed on the Pentagon. The fault lies squarely with the Congress.

In short, the Continuing Resolution, especially as it applies to defense, is bad legislation. I could not support a bill which subverted the legislative process, failed to fund validated national defense needs and at the same time waste taxpayers money for unnecessary programs.

Deregulation of the telephone industry will impact users

Deregulation of the telephone industry will impact virtually every telephone user in the nation, but few, people are aware of the changes or what deregulation really means to them, according to E.L. Langley, president of General Telephone Company of the

The telephone executive pointed out the company will continue to provide the basic services as in the past with the primary difference being in the options customers have when selecting terminal equipment, or the telephones and telephone systems on the market.

'We will compete aggressively. We have the expertise and large technically competent work force that will permit us to do

Langley continued, "Deregulation is both good and bad news for telephone customers. The good news is the creation of more options for the customers in regard to sophisticated equipment and services. The bad news is the financial impact on most customers, especially residential customers, due to the restructuring of prices the deregulation requires.

'Under deregulation, all services must bear the burden of providing the revenues required to support the services. The deregulated services are the high profit services which in the past have subsidized local rates, keeping them artificially low. The restructuring of prices resulting from deregulation will force prices that reflect the competitive market, and this will remove some of the support some services have provided for local service. As a result, some rates will go down, others will go

Langley explained regulation began in part due to unregulated competition and the rate dispartities between companies in early years. As the industry began, the Bell System companies served mostly the more profitable metropolitan areas. Due to the popularity of the telephone, other companies began serving the less densely populated areas which were more costly to serve. In some locations there were two or three companies in the same city. Customers wanting to make sure they could call every phone in town and had to have service from all companies.

He said regulation ended such competition and set as a primary goal affordable universal service. To do this, a policy of subsidiza-tion was implemented. Long-distance subsidized local service, business subsidized residential service, and metro areas subsidized suburban and rural areas.

"This policy worked as the nation's telephone system developed into the best and most affordable in the world," the telephone company president said.

But, Langley explained, mostly because of AT&T's dominance, the government began looking at introducing competition several decades ago. He outlined regulatory decisions:

The changes started slowly, almost imperceptibly. In 1956 a court ruled a non-phone company devide could be attached to phone company equipment. In 1968, a more significant ruling allowed foreign electronic devices to be con-clearing the way for nonphone companies to market terminal equipment such as phones. The advocates of deregulation made another giant stride when they succeeded in opening long-distance service to competition.

"Deregulation really hit home and became a much more public issue when in 1980 it was ruled that in January 1983 anyone could sell terminal equipment, and they could sell without regard to the old territorial boundaries," Langley said.

"While these changes offer customers new options, they are causing the policy of subsidies to be reworked. Competition naturally aims its business at the high profit end of the business--the services that formerly provided the subsidies to local service... especially business termial equipment and high traffic toll between major cities.

"In recent years, more andmore services have been repriced to reflect charges more near actural charges more near actual costs to provide the service. Competition requires the toll and business services to be competitively priced, eliminating the subsidies to other services, especially local residential service.' He continued.."The new challenge of keeping a lid on locl service rates is a major priority for General Telephone with the brightest hopes being in new technology and a pricing concept known as Usage Sensitive Service where customers pay based on services used."

Technological improve ments include digital switching which uses the language of computers to send voice and data via high speed streams of digital pulses that can carry vast amounts of information more economically and more reliability. Usage Sensitive Service gives customers more control over how much they spend on phone service by charging time and distance on all calls rather than a flat rate for local service. Langley said that while new to most people the concept has been in use in many foreign countries and parts of the United States for decades.

"The changes will be a radical departure from what we have come to know as the norm, but there are benefits that must be considered. Long-distance rates will continue to be suppressed, and there is dazzling new technology or dazzling new technology of dazzling new technology on the telecommunications horizon. We can really look forward to a variety of new services being accelerated through brisk rivalry in the marketplace, and GTE intends to be active in virtually every aspect of the marketplace."
