Dan N. Richardson Awarded Doctor of Medicine Degree

Commencement Exercises for the University of Texas Medical School were held Sunday, May 29th, 1983 at the Convocation Center of the University of Texas at San Antonio. One hundred and ninety members of the class of 1983 received the Doctor of Medicine Degree.

Dan N. Richardson is a member of Alpha Omega Alpha, AOA is a national society organized for the promotion of scholarship and research in medical schools, the encouragement of high standards of character and conduct among medical students and graduates, and the recognition of high attainment in medical science and practice and related fields by alumni and faculty. Election is based upon academic excellence and is limited to no more than one-sixth of the total number of graduates.

After completing board exams, he will enter a Residency in Diagnostic Radiology at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Dan's older brother, Michael L. Richardson, is a board certified Radiologist and resides in Orangeville, California.

Two members of the Sonora Volunteer Fire Department, Harold Martinez and George "Tinker" Wipff, Jr. recently attended a two day Rescue Training Seminar, sponsored by the Hurst company, in New Braunfels on May 14th and 15th.

The training consisted of both classroom and field exercises in the use of the Jaws of Life and various other rescue devices. The men were trained in the use of the New Omni-1, a combination Jaws and cutter. They also used the Hurst Jaws and rescue air bags. The first day was spent in the classroom with the second day being spent in the field getting actual experience. This training is very valuable to the Fire Dept. and citizens of this County in that these various rescue tools have in the past allowed accident victims to be freed from a vehicle so they can receive immediate medical aid. Both Harold and George received a certificate for successfully completing this training.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

After weeks of protracted debate, the Senate finally passed its version of the first Budget Resolution for the coming fiscal year. Unfortunately, it is seriously flawed, failing to meet the most basic requirements for a responsible federal budget.

It provides insufficient funding for our program to restore our national defense capability. During the past two years, we have begun to make up for the serious neglect of our national security during the 1970s, a neglect which led to an alarming deterioration of our capability in comparison to that of the Soviet Union.

This year, President Reagan asked for an increase which amounted to 10 percent after inflation. He did so because that level of funding for this year would allow us to pay for our modernization effort in a cost-effective way, rather than stretching our programs over a longer time so that they ultimately are more expensive.

The Senate not only rejected that increase, but it also rejected the 7.1 percent increase which would barely fund the minimum requirements for continuing to progress in this vital area.

Second, this budget resolution calls for unacceptably high increases in taxes. The revenue figures called for in the Senate resolution would require an additional $75.6 billion in taxes over the next three years. Reaching this level of taxation would require at least a cap on the amount of the July tax cut and a repeal of indexing. To repeal indexing would put wage earners in a position of facing ever-higher tax brackets because of inflation. Both of these steps are completely unacceptable.

In passing the economic recovery package which included July's tax cut and future tax indexing, we made a promise to the American people, a promise they expect us to fulfill. Even if the Congress should vote to break this promise, the President is pledged to veto any tax legislation which voids the promised tax relief. This means that the tax portion of the Budget Resolution is not only irresponsible, but also meaningless, because it is clear to everyone that a Presidential veto on this subject could not be overridden in Congress.

Finally, the Budget Resolution calls for $47.3 billion more in spending for domestic programs over three years than the President requested. It was the uncontrolled growth of this kind of spending which caused the serious deficit crisis which we are facing now. In fact, previous Administrations even referred to most domestic spending programs as "uncontrollable."

For the past two years, we have made some progress in getting control over the rate at which spending for domestic programs has grown, but we have not come so far that we can consider the problem solved. Increases of the magnitude called for in the Senate resolution actually reverse the trend we have begun.

We will not compromise our obligations to elderly Americans, the disabled and those most needy in our society, but the American people have made clear their mandate that we control the size, scope and cost of government.

This Budget Resolution fails to do that, or to meet our other basic obligations as a government. Fortunately, this resolution is not binding. I fear that its shortcomings will defeat the purpose of having a budget resolution, but even so, we must not let its flaws be enacted into law through the appropriations process.

Lamb Consumer Advisory

The first few weeks in June will be an excellent time for consumers to take advantage of specials on lamb. There is a good supply of lamb in most major markets and, in general, wholesale prices are down. So, consumers can expect to see features on a variety of cuts including legs, shoulders, riblets and even ground lamb.

Lamb is a delicious choice of meat to be used on the grill as we enter the cookout season. Butterflied leg is excellent barbecued, as are several other lamb cuts. Party givers may want to choose a variety of the economy cuts for the grill including shoulder chops, kabobs, or riblets, or offer a special treat for guests by serving lamb sirloin steaks.

Lamb lovers should consider whole or half carcasses or family packs that are now available in many areas. In these cases, it would be best to talk with the butcher in advance so the

ICA Holds Monthly Meeting

The Independent Cattlemen's Association held its monthly business meeting with breakfast Thursday, June 2nd, at the Sutton County Steak House.

State Director Adele Wilson reported that the calf sale held in Victoria on May 14th was a tremendous success. A more complete report of contributions will be reported in the near future.

The 9th Annual Convention and Trade

Show will be held at the Austin Hyatt Regency, June 23rd through June 25th. All members and interested persons are urged to attend. This may be one of the most important conventions this organization will ever have.

This organization's stand on Brucellosis was discussed. It has been said that I.C.A. opposes any type of brucellosis program. President Roy G. Wheeler repeated again that the "I.C.A. membership supports controlling this disease, but in an economical manner emphasizing individual herd management." He also said a "successful program must put tremendous emphasis on calfood vaccination and allow vaccinated adult female animals to move on their own negative test."

Chairman Clay Hicks announced that Rebecca Powers has graciously accepted to be candidate for Queen of Sutton County

Days to be held in August. The Sutton County I.C.A. will be her sponsor. Miss Powers is the daughter of Mickey and Claire Powers of Sonora, who are also members of I.C.A. Miss Kathryn Parker was Queen last year--also being sponsored by I.C.A.

With no further business, the meeting was adjourned. The next regular monthly meeting will be held July 7th and all members are urged to attend.

Scout Camps to Open

The two summer camps operated by the Concho Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America will open this month to some 475 Scouts and their leaders for four one-week sessions, announced Frank T. Hilton, Program Director.

Camp Fawcett, located near Barksdale, Texas, will open June 12th for two weeks and Camp Sol Mayer located near Fort McKavett will operate from June 26 to July 9 using a camp staff of 30 adults and youth.

The most Popular activities at both camps are marksmanship, archery and swimming. Special programs include archeology, skin diving and backpacking at Camp Fawcett with horsemanship, computers, wood working and rowing at Camp Sol Mayer.

Summer Workshop Begins June 1st

The registration deadline for the Interscholastic Press Conference Summer Public Relations Workshop is June 1. The workshop, scheduled June 19-23 at the University of Texas, is open to any high school student involved in newspaper or yearbook production. The registration fee is $120 per student, which includes room board and most supplies. All participants will be housed in Jester Center.

Bruce Watterson, adviser for award-winning yearbooks in Little Rock, Ark.,

will be yearbook director. John Cutsinger of Van Buren, Ark., will be newspaper director. David Brooks, publication advisor at Austin's Anderson High School, will be the photography director. The photography portion of the program is already filled.

Other staff members are drawn from award-winning publications around the state.

For registration materials and information, write Summer Workshop Director, ILPC, Box 8028, Austin, Texas 78712-8028.

Railroad Commission Approves Contract

The Railroad Commission has approved contract amendments sought by Dow pipeline to lower rates for natural gas charged to Lone Star Gas Company.

The new lower rates will decrease Dow's annual revenues by approximately $13 million and the savings will be passed on to Texas cities by Lone Star through reductions to its city gate rate. The city gate is the delivery point at which a city distribution system receives gas from its supplier.

Dow filed its application with the Commission March 15. To expendite savings to gas consumers, Chairman Mack Wallace and Commissions Buddy Temple and James E. (Jim) Nugent approved the lower rates on temporary basis April 4. Today's Commission action makes the lower gas rates permanently effective for all bills rendered on and after March 15.

Had the change been in effect for Lone Star's March 20 filing, it would have reduced the city gate rate by approximately 4 cents per Mcf (thousand cubic feet) of gas.

Lone Star serves more than 500 city gas distribution systems in the state.

Problems were rated similarly regardless of what state or region the business was located in, except when reflecting a public policy. NFIB members ranked difficulties including good highways, adequate parking or public transportation at the bottom of their priorities list.

Liability Insurance Tops Small Business Concerns

Firms had a big problem with competition from imported products. "Small entrepreneurs in metropolitan areas see their problems in the same order, and with roughly the same intensity, as their small-town twins," said Boon, adding that rural employers were less burdened by finding and keeping good workers than were the urban employers. Small, metropolitan businesses rated payroll taxes, benefit costs and locating qualified employees as bigger problems than either small-city or rural firms.

Alaska Jobs Down Says Labor Department

The Alaska Department of Labor has issued a warning urging job seekers not to look to Alaska for work this summer season. Commissioner of Labor, Jim Robison, says, "There are no worker shortages in Alaska. Job seekers should be very wary of advertisements offering high paying jobs or Alaska job information for sale."

"Each year," Robison says, "many job seekers have based their decision to come north on inaccurate or incomplete information and find that no jobs are available in Alaska where their limited food and housing dollars disappear at an accelerated rate because the cost-of-living is high."

Alaska has not been immune to the economic downturn that has swept the nation. The Alaska unemployment rate for 1982 was 9.9 percent remaining above the 20 states most severely afflicted by unemployment. Alaska annual unemployment rates have exceeded the national average since the mid-1970's, and are expected to stay high during 1983. Some Alaska communities routinely experience seasonal unemployment rates of more than 20 percent.

Commissioner Robison says, "We welcome you to come and visit, but bring enough cash or a return ticket home so you do not run the risk of getting stranded."

The Alaska Natural Gas Pipeline Project which has been under discussion for the past couple of years is indefinitely on "hold" due to the economic climate and high cost of construction.

A new survey of nationwide small businesses shows that the cost of liability insurance, which is directly regulated by government agencies, is undermining economic growth and the ability these businesses have to hire the unemployed.

Respondents to the survey by the National Federation of Independent Business rated costs that are regulated by government agencies as more than half of the top 10 concerns for small businesses, while the other concerns result from an unhealthy economy.

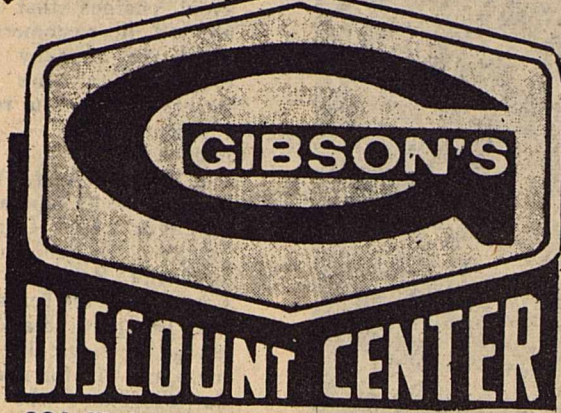

"Among the most serious problems small firms identified were payroll taxes, which have been hiked twice in the last nine months," said Mills Boon spokesman for NFIB/Texas members, noting that independent business owner see lawmakers as holding the key.

The survey, conducted in November, asked the 20,980 random small-business owners to rate 77 problems by severity. Interest rates were rated No. 1 but researchers attribute the responses to the abnormally high interest rates at the time the survey was taken.

Responses were categorized by industry to find specific problem areas. Manufacturers and wholesalers were more concerned with worker productivity than other industries, while transportation firms were harder hit by government paperwork requirements. Small retailers, on the other hand, found electricity rates harder to swallow than most agricultural

Landmark Award Presented For Restoration of Home

This two and a half story house was built for the Walter Hofheinz family in San Marcos in 1909.

The house remained in the Hofheinz family until it was acquired by Don and Betty Jack Rains seven years ago. Restoration has been going on since that time. The Rains have updated parts of the house to meet the needs of a modern family, yet have preserved most of the classical original details in structure. The landmarks Award for Preservation was presented to the Rains in 1981 by the Heritage Association.

On the outside, seven Ionic columns support the porch that curves around the house. An interesting detail of the restoration is that the house was inadvertently painted the original cream color! It is trimmed in Wedgewood blue. Interior features—ceiling coffers, stair rail, window seats, etc.—are interpreted in the simplest of lines, without Victorian fancy and executed in dark polished wood that provides a handsome contrast to surrounding walls and ceilings.

The polished wood seen throughout the house is long leaf pine. Downstairs floors are oak, while upstairs floors are oak, while upstairs floors are pine. The light fixtures are original to the house. The house contains all the original beveled glass in windows and doors, as well as the original brass hardware.

The focal point of the living room is the ornate oval leaded glass window which was imported from France. Unusual hood moldings frame all windows and doors in this room and throughout the house. Pocket doors original to the house close off the living room. The coffered ceiling and charming window seat also give interest. The fireplace is one of three in the house. The original light switch is push button with ivory caps.

This home was one of the first homes built in San Marcos to have indoor plumbing in the original construction. All fixtures are original—the brass and solid glass towel bars, the push flush toilet with the unusual design on the tank, and the claw footed bathtub.

The cabinets in the butler's pantry have opal glass in the doors. In the dining room, the walls are covered with a pressed wallpaper made to look like fabric made wall coverings popular in France at that time. A decorative plate rail frames the tops of these panels.

The main changes in the house have occurred in the rear where a screened porch was made into a sun porch.

The kitchen has been remodeled to maintain the architectural integrity of the house.

A deck was added off the sun porch. The latticework around the deck and the brick forming the patio have an interesting design. They came from the boyhood home of the original owner's son-in-law, Mr. George Martindale. The iron fence around the patio came from the owner's grandparents home in Sonora. The board and batten washhouse sets behind the main house and has also been restored to near-original detail. A carriagehouse at the rear of the property was beyond repair and had to be removed.

A record-breaking 747 tickets were sold for the ninth annual Tours of Distinction sponsored by the Heritage Association, with visitors coming from as far as San Angelo, Midland, Houston, Dallas, and Ft. Worth.

Three other homes, the Methodist Church, and the old gin that has been converted into a restaurant were also tour sites.

Harva Cooper was in San Marcos visiting the Don Rains' family last week and was there for the tour of homes. Her daughter is the former Betty Jack Cooper of Sonora.

GTE Phone Repair Costs

By taking advantage of repair services now available at the Local Service Office at 210 NE Main in Sonora, residential and single-line business telephone customers in Sonora can avoid charges that now apply if the customers request the company send employees to the customers' premises to repair company-owned telephones.

E.O. Cambern, West Texas Division Operations manager for General Telephone in San Angelo, said the Public Utility Commission of Texas, on May 19, approved a $22.50 charge for single-line business and $17 for residential customers who have service problems associated with the telephone instrument and who prefer the company to send an employee to the customer's premise to make the repair rather than bring the instrument to the Local Service Office.

In addition, there are separate charges for each telephone outlet repaired if the problem is in the house wiring and the customer prefers to have the tele-

Identify Payments for Social Security

People in the San Angelo area who send cash to social security to repay an overpayment or for some other purpose should be very careful to show their name and social security number when they send the payment. Franklin H. Upp, Social Security District manager in San Angelo, said recently.

If the payment is not identified with the name and social security number, several things take place, all of them bad, Upp said. First, the person making the payment does not get credit in social security records and will have to make the payment again. Second, the money will go into treasury department general funds and will not be credited to the social security trust funds. As a result, everybody loses, Upp said.

Social Security makes every effort to identify the person who made the payment, but it is very difficult without proper identifying information. Nationally, these unidentified funds total over $300,000 for a year.

But, Upp said, the best way to avoid this situation is to prevent overpayments in the first place. This can be done if people report all events to social security which can have an effect on their monthly benefit.

It is even more important for people receiving supplemental security income (SSI) payments to make prompt reports about any change in income or other circumstances which can affect the amount of their monthly payment.

Anyone who has any doubt about what must be reported to Social Security is urged to contact the San Angelo Social Security office promptly. The people there will be glad to send you a booklet outlining your reporting responsibilities. The office is located at 2214 Sherwood Way, and the telephone number is 949-4608.

The Congressional Budget

As the Congressional Budget for fiscal year 1984 — and the Congressional Budget process — continue to dominate both the news and our work on the Floor of the House, it seems appropriate to take a closer look at exactly where we now stand and exactly what appears to be in store for all of us.

When the House passed its version of the Budget, I called it the most ridiculous budget I had ever seen. It contained $30 billion in new taxes for the forthcoming fiscal year; $29.7 billion in excessive Federal spending above the President's request; and only a 2.8 percent increase in real defense spending at a time when our national security clearly demands more serious attention. I voted against that budget loudly and clearly, because it continues to spend money we cannot afford on programs we do not need, because it is wanting in meeting our Nation's need to upgrade and modernize our strategic deterrents, and, primarily, because it calls for outrageous tax increases on the American people.

In order to achieve that $30 billion in new taxes, the Congress would be forced to either repeal or cap the third year of the tax reductions which are scheduled to occur this July; or to eliminate those hard-won reforms of the estate and gift taxes and the slight reduction in "windfall profit" taxes which were enacted in the 1981 Economic Recovery Tax Act; or to impose a surtax or some other kind of onerous tax on the already heavily-burdened middle American taxpayer. I repeat — the House budget was ridiculous.

Despite House action, some of us had hopes that the Senate would act more wisely, so that the final Congressional Budget would be more in keeping with our Nation's need for a responsible fiscal policy.

Instead, after a prolonged debate, by a vote of 50 to 49, the Senate passed its version of the Budget and it is only slightly better than the House version. It calls for $8.9 billion in new taxes, $11 billion in Federal spending above the President's request, and a 6 percent increase in defense. The domestic spending figures and the tax increases remain outrageous.

At some point in June, the House and the Senate, meeting in a joint conference committee, will attempt to somehow reconcile the differences between the two versions and report a final budget back to both houses. My crystal ball is not much better than that of anyone else, but my guess at this time is the House and the Senate will pass a conference report — eventually if not at first — my own opposition to the contrary notwithstanding.

Where are we then? Since the Congressional Budget is a simple concurrent resolution, it does not get sent to the President for signature. Instead, it serves as an overall internal benchmark against which the Congress considers individual tax and spending legislation. Those tax bills and those appropriations bills are not internal resolutions, however, and they will be sent to the President for final action. It is my guess, and my crystal ball is a little clearer on this one, that the President will veto each and every high tax and high spending bill that comes his way. When those vetoes occur, there is absolutely no question in my mind that we can get the necessary votes to sustain the President, thereby preventing excessive taxes and spending from becoming the law of the land.

While we will then have a spending stalemate on our hands for a bit, the need to keep the government functioning will necessitate the passage of sufficient funds to do so. I would guess, therefore, that we would have an omnibus appropriations bill called the Continuing Resolution for fiscal year 1984 before us some time in September. It may take a few attempts before we can get a version which the President will accept, but with vetoes waiting in the wings, the Congress will eventually pass responsible funding levels for the new fiscal year.

In view of the current budget fiasco, the probable spending stalemate, and the resulting need for an omnibus appropriations bill, one might well ask why we have a Congressional budget in the first place. That is an important and apt question, and one which I plan to address in a future column.

Equipment Funding for Fire Dept. Pressing Need for Safety

A bill that would put millions of dollars into a Fire Dept. Emergency fund has been passed in the Texas House of Representatives and is headed for consideration in the Senate. The legislation, passed as HB 1536 and HJR 86, would raise by 3/4 percent an existing tax that the State Board of Insurance currently receives from fire casualty premiums collected in Texas and put the monies into a fund from which grants and low-interest loans would be allocated to individual fire departments.

Equipment funding for fire dept's. is a pressing need for fire prevention and safety. Many of the rural areas of Texas depend on 30-year-old fire trucks for protection of homes and property.

"You can't fight fires with Indian blankets any more," says Ron Waters, executive manager of the State Firemen's and Fire Marshal's Assoc. of Texas, a 107-year-old assoc. which represents most of the 1,500 fire dept's. in Texas.

"Two major sources of funds for equipment purchases have been lost in recent years," according to Waters. "Low-interest loans previously available on a competitive basis through federal revenue-sharing programs have dried up, and the traditional fund-raising barbecue no longer nets enough money to buy a major item like a pumper—which today costs $100,000.

If ever there were a chance to help fire dept's. in Texas, this is it. Every firefighter in the state should call his or her state senator and voice support for this important legislation," Water says.

SS Fraud Invites Prosecution

The Social Security Administration has a dual responsibility: to provide benefits to people who are entitled to them under one of the provisions of the Social Security Act and to protect the Social Security trust funds by denying benefits to those not entitled to them.

Criminal prosecution for fraud may be undertaken under a variety of circumstances—for example, if an individual uses a social security number not his or her own in order to obtain a payment or to have a payment increased; or provides erroneous information in an attempt to establish eligibility for social security or supplemental security income (SSI) payments; or attempts to conceal information that would affect his or her eligibility for an initial payment or for continued payments; or where the individual uses money received on behalf of another person for some unauthorized purpose.

Prosecution for such fraudulent acts may be undertaken even when the act is discovered before any erroneous payments are actually made. Moreover, even where a decision in a case was supposed to have been final, the case may be reopened at any time if the decision is found to have been based on fraud, whether on the part of the claimant or some other person.

METRIC MEASURES

Helpful Information From The U.S. Metric Board

Q. How will conversion to the metric system benefit the American worker?

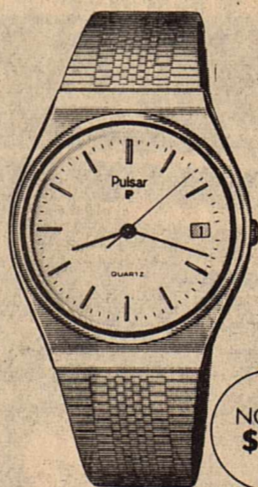

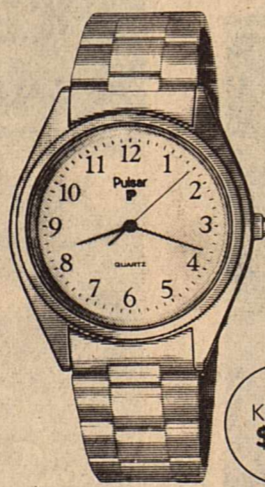

A. One out of seven U.S. jobs is now related to exports. If adoption of the metric system facilitates the ability of U.S. companies to do business abroad and open new markets, it could mean more jobs for American workers.

Fire Ants Reach Angelo Area

One of the most persistent insect pest around today is the red imported fire ant, and despite all efforts to keep the pest in check, it is slowly marching westward, leaving behind a pock-marked landscape and a barrel full of problems.

Fire ants erupted around Mobile, Ala., about 1940 and have since laid claim to all the South from the Carolinas to half of Texas. Their westward trek has reached as far as the San Angelo area.

Fire ants are well-known for their painful stings and for their damage to plants, young livestock and wildlife. Their mounds—often a foot-and-a-half high and as hard as concrete—play havoc with farm machinery during mowing and other field operations and lead to a lot of problems in lawns, parks, playgrounds, school yards, cemeteries, golf courses and the like.

“How to deal effectively with these pests has kept many entomologists and others in the insect control business awake at night,” says Dr. Phil Hamman, an entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. “Once there was some talk about eradicating the imported fire ant, but now we’ve got our hands full just thinking about containment and management.”

“While we have a number of chemicals that kill fire ants, there is no such thing as permanent extermination due to reinfestations,” points out the entomologist. “The best you can hope to do is to treat existing mounds and to stay on the lookout for new mounds.”

A good time to treat mounds is when the ants are most active—during warm weather, late in the afternoon or evening when ants are foraging, and after rain. During wet weather, the ants will increase the size of their mounds to move their brood up into drier soil. This makes them more vulnerable to control measures, says Hamman.

For effective control, he suggests treating mounds with an approved insecticide diluted in water. Use a sprinkling can or a gallon-sized plastic jug with holes in the screw-on top to sprinkle the solution on the mound like a gentle rain.

Wet the mound thoroughly. A granular insecticide can also be sprinkled on top and around the ant mound. “It’s best not to disturb the mound before or during treatment,” says Hamman. “Otherwise, part of the colony may move away from the chemical.”

Amdro is an effective bait but works slowly, as do some other materials that have been effective in controlling fire ants. Colonies in treated mounds will usually die out in one to two weeks. However, products containing methyl chloroform, pyrethrum, acephate, diazinon or chlorpyrifos give more immediate results.

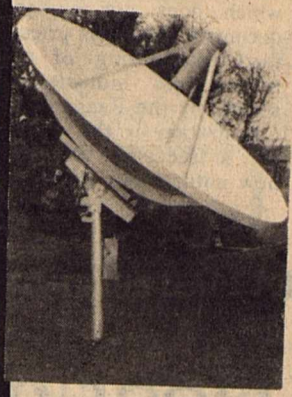

“Whatever insecticide you use, follow label directions,” cautions Hamman. “And remember that one treatment won't last forever. Some time or another, the fire ants will be back again, so you'll have to be on guard and ready to treat again.”

PIK Costs Final Verdict

When the final verdict is in, PIK may not be as costly a government program as some have suggested.

While estimated costs of the payment-in-kind program range from $10 to $25 billion, two economists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, peg the cost at about $11 billion.

Dr. Ron Knutson and Ed

Smith break this figure down to $7.5 billion as the value of PIK commodities, $2.3 billion for deficiency payments and $1.3 billion for diversion payments. Deficiency payments result when farm prices drop below 2 a designated level while diversion payments are for taking cropland out of production.

Analyzing the $11 billion cost of PIK, here's a breakdown specific commodities:

corn, $5.4 billion; wheat, $3.1 billion; cotton, $1.4 billion; grain sorghum, $700 million; and rice, $500 million.

“Although the total cost of PIK may seem high compared to farm programs in the 70's, the figure is low compared to what the government's farm program would have cost without PIK,” says Knutson and Smith. They estimate that farm program costs for 1982-83 will reach about $18 billion and that costs for '83-'84 would total almost $21 billion without PIK.

Since this estimated $21 billion would include $3 billion for the dairy support program and another $2 billion on minor agricultural commodities and general administrative expenses, the remaining $16 billion represents program costs for grains and cotton in the absence of PIK. Thus, if the $11 billion estimated cost of PIK stands up, the program could be viewed as causing a net savings of about $5 billion.

“These savings would result mainly from reduced commodity storage costs and reduce deficiency payments,” say the economists.

TDA Assists Ranchers in Sheep Sale to India

Calling it “precisely the type of marketing we're trying to encourage and assist,” Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower announced last week the sale by 14 Texas ranchers of 1300 registered Rambouillet sheep directly to India.

The first shipment of 649 sheep—110 rams and 539 ewes—were loaded onto a Flying Tiger Airlines DC-8 “stretch jet” for a 16-hour flight to New Delhi just hours after Hightower's announcement, made at the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) livestock export facility in Houston. A second shipment of equal size will be made in late June, and the parties involved have reached a tentative agreement on more purchases over the next four years.

The Gujarat Sheep and Wool Development Corp., Ltd., a government agency in India, was initially put in touch with the ranchers by TDA marketing representatives, and TDA then served as a liaison during the negotiations and later helped arrange the transportation of the sheep. The Rambouillet's will be used as breeding stock and will be crossbred with native sheep in India to produce better quality fleeces weights of wool for a group of woolen mills in that country. The Texas sheep will produce 12-18 lbs. of wool apiece per shearing as compared to 2-3 lb. for their Indian counterparts. The Texas sheep are significantly superior to the sheep India obtained over several years from Russia, and the sheep from Texas' warm climates have a much higher survival rate than the Russia-bred sheep from cold weather regions.

Tuesday's shipment was purchased from the San Angelo-area ranchers for a total of approximately $250,000.

“We think we can arrange this same type of sale for nearly every agricultural product that we produce here in Texas, and that's the focus of our marketing efforts,” Hightower said. “The foreign buyers get what they want and our Texas producers stick the proceeds directly into their pockets.”

“We want the world market to know that we're reliable and willing suppliers of quality products. We want to make a lot of new friends, and it's certainly been a pleasure dealing with our new friends from India. We look forward to a long and mutually-satisfying relationship.”

Lower Natural Gas Prices

by George H. Lawrence
President
American Gas Association

In some battles the middle ground is not worth claiming. But, for lowering consumer natural gas prices, the middle ground offers a workable and constructive solution.

A bill has been introduced in Congress that provides a middleground solution to gas pricing which does not embody decontrol of old gas prices, the restructuring of the natural gas industry as sought by the Reagan Administration or the proposals to freeze and recontrol new natural gas prices.

The Natural Gas Policy Act Reform Amendments of 1983 was introduced by Rep. Jim Slattery (D-Kan.) and Rep. Dan Coats (R-Ind.). It will assure gas consumers of abundant natural gas supplies at reasonable prices. The American Gas Association estimates it will save consumers $6 billion over the years 1984 and 1985.

The legislation: -Encourages gas producers and pipeline companies to renegotiate lower priced contracts and authorizes a "market out" or cancellation of high priced natural gas contracts if such renegotiation does not occur.

-Limits take-or-pay obligations in gas purchase contracts to 50 percent of gas deliverability for three years.

-Outlaws "favored nation" price escalation clauses, which are anti-competitive and can artificially drive prices up.

-Requires the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) to study rate designs which would make interstate pipeline rates more responsive to changes in end-use markets.

recontrol or extend controls on new gas which would jeopardize development of new supplies. Nor does it force a massive restructuring of the gas distribution and transmission industry through mandatory contract carriage. Such a restructuring would require greater government control of the gas industry by requiring FERC to make planning, operational and service decisions for pipelines which would eventually be costly for all gas consumers.

Policy Act of 1978 (NGPA) provided the incentives to increase natural gas exploration and development to record levels, so the Reform Amendments of 1983 will ease the burden of rising prices while assuring future supply and provide the urgently needed orderly transition to a deregulated field market for developing new supplies.

Congress should pass legislation to lower consumer prices while assuring future supply. The Slattery/Coats bill will achieve both of these objectives.

Major Expansion of LNG Plant Nearing Completion

A major expansion is nearing completion at a liquefied natural gas (LNG) plant in Indonesia which is supplied natural gas partly by ENSTAR Corporation, the Company's Chairman, O. Charles Honig, told shareholders at the annual meeting.

Two new production units are scheduled to go onstream in July and October at the Badak LNG plant in East Kalimantan, Mr. Honig said. Two identical production units have been in operation at the facility since its 1977 opening. Through a subsidiary, ENSTAR has a 15.625 percent interest in a joint venture which supplies natural gas to the plant under a production sharing contract with Pertamina, the Indonesian state oil enterprise. LNG from the plant is shipped to Japan under long-term contracts with several large companies.

He added that completion of the plant expansion, which is being financed through Japanese institutions is not affected by cutbacks recently announced in Indonesian development projects.

ENSTAR'S Chairman said the state of the Company is "good" and that 1983 will be a profitable year. But in spite of a very good first quarter, he added that, based on current expectations, earnings may be down 40 percent to 50 percent from 1982's $42.1 million, primarily because of lower crude oil prices, lower LNG prices and decreased LNG volumes caused by an April accident at the Indonesian plant. He said that cash flow in 1983, however, is expected to be down only 10 percent to 15 percent from 1982's $136 million.

Completion of the two new LNG production units should allow for normal production levels during the second half of this year, but only 7 to 10 LNG tanker shipments are anticipated during the second quarter, compared with a record 22 in the first quarter. One of the plant's existing two production units will be out of service until about November 1983 because of the accident.

of the Virginia International Company Special Stock Could be slightly negative.

In Alaska, where ENSTAR is active in natural gas transmission and distribution, the Chairman said the Company's outlook is its "best ever." He related that the area's economy is strong, the regulatory climate is favorable and that two late-1982 contracts have enabled ENSTAR to nearly triple its natural gas reserve life while securing a second major source of supply.

Mr. Honig said the Company is making steady progress toward its goal of building a major base of domestic oil and gas reserves. He related that first quarter production levels were higher than in 1982 although increased natural gas curtailments are a possibility later this year. Prices received for natural gas also are higher than in 1982, whereas crude oil prices have fallen with worldwide declines.

Financially, he said the Company is in a "healthy condition," with good cash flow, more than sufficient unused credit capacity and a strong equity position. Most of 1983's $133 million in planned capital expenditures will be funded internally, he added.

In formal business at the meeting, shareholders approved an increase in preferred stock, reappointment of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. as Enstar's independent auditors and elected three directors -- Thomas P. Bowles, Jr., Advisory Director at Tillinghast, Nelson & Warren, actuaries and consultants, Atlanta; Arch A. Sproul, Chairman of the Board, Virginia International Company, Staunton, Virginia; and Raymond S. Troubh, a financial consultant from New York City. Two other proposals did not receive the required the affirmative vote.

At a separate meeting today, ENSTAR'S Board of Directors declared a quarterly cash dividend of 15 cents per share on its common stock, payable June 21, 1983 to shareholders of record on June 8, 1983.

Permian Basin Energy Report

The All-American Pipeline Company is proposing a 30-inch, 100 mile trunk line from California, to Midland. The projected cost is 600 million dollars. The latest proposal would move about 300,000 barrels a day of Offshore California and some from Alaska. The target date would be mid-1986. All-American Pipeline is being acquired by Celeron Corporation of Lafayette. Celeron itself is going to be bought by Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company.

In other news, the Lundberg newsletter says gasoline prices have gone up almost 13cents a gallon since mid-March. According to Lundberg, the entire increase has gone to refiners and taxes, not to producers or retailers. The national average price was $1.23 for a gallon of gasoline.

And, the Interstate Natural Gas Association says the nation's largest pipeline companies have been paying much less for high-cost gas and the cost has dropped from $7.25 per thousand cubic feet to $4.50 per thousand. However, many old contracts don't have "market out" clauses and the companies are having to pay as much as $9 per thousand cubic feet.

In the Permian Basin our rig count for this week is 215. Last week it was 243. One year ago it was 326.
