Gramm brings campaign to Sonora

U.S. Rep. Phil Gramm brought his grassroots campaign to Sonora last Tuesday as he conducted a press conference for local media and supporters. About fifty persons were on hand at Berger Field to welcome the Republican Senate hopeful to Sonora.

Gramm, who co-authored President Reagan's economic recovery program, is probably best known as the congressman who resigned his seat in Congress and sought re-election as a Republican after Tip O'Neill and the liberal Democratic Party denied him his seat on the Budget Committee after Gramm's successful efforts to control government spending.

In his address to the gathering, Gramm outlined the "stark" differences between himself and his Democratic opponent, Lloyd Doggett. "I have worked six years to control spending so the working people of Texas can keep more of what they earn," he commented. "Lloyd Doggett is committed to raising taxes so that government spending can go on as usual," Gramm added.

Congressman Gramm also noted that on his first day in Congress, he introduced the balanced budget amendment to the Constitution while, by contract, Doggett "voted against the Texas Legislature's resolution urging Congress to adopt the balanced budget amendment." Gramm noted that Doggett "opposes the balanced budget amendment for the same reason Tip O'Neil and Ted Kennedy oppose it—they want more spending, not more restraint."

Gramm pointed out that the candidates in the Senate race disagree on almost every key issue in the campaign. He believes that peace comes through strength, and thus is an avid supporter of a strong defense. Doggett, on the other hand, wants to cut military spending. Gramm believes in voluntary prayer in schools, Doggett opposes voluntary prayer.

Congressman Gramm also discussed several other issues, including these: --Right to Work. "I'm for it; he's against it."

--Gay Rights Bill, legislation that would mandate affirmative action in the hiring of homosexuals. "I'm against it, but Lloyd Doggett is for it."

"On these issues and on many others, there is a clear choice,"

Gramm said. "It is a distinction between the traditional values of Texans and the liberal philosophy of Lloyd Doggett and the National Democratic Party."

Congressman Gramm vowed that he would "always put the interests of the people I represent before any partisan or political interests." "I represent rural areas and small towns all across Texas," he added.

The congressman said the message he was carrying to Texans is clear: "We are putting together a coalition of Democrats, Republicans, and Independents—people who work hard for what they earn—and I want you to be a part of it." He urged Sutton County voters to make themselves aware of the issues and the candidates past records, and to "talk to your friends, neighbors, and kinfolks about this race."

H.B. 72 causes confusion for local administrators

Thanks to the ill-advised and hastily enacted House Bill 72, passed by the special legislative session early in the summer under pressure from H. Ross Perot's committee, confusion reigns supreme from the Texas Education Agency in Austin to the Sonora ISD Administration Offices here in Sonora.

According to local school board members and administrators, the much-touted "Education Reform Bill" is so complicated and difficult to interpret that it is defeating its own original purpose, providing a more thorough basic education to the young people of the State of Texas.

A multitude of rules and regulations covering everything from limiting a student's participation in extra-curricular activities to the establishment of a vague "career ladder" for teachers in the public schools has served only to confuse public educators on all levels and to complicate the successful implementation of the bill.

One good thing to emerge from the special session is a pay raise for beginning teachers - from a previously inadequate state base figure of $11,120 to $15,200, beginning with the school year now getting underway. And even this well-intentioned provision is creating havoc with local school district budgets because state funding for the raises lags far behind the time schedule for putting them into effect. Even when funding does come through, it will not be adequate to cover the cost of the increases, an estimated 335,000 plus in the Sonora ISD.

Among the most costly items included in H.B. 72 are a required pre-kindergarten for disadvantaged four year olds, smaller classes, compulsory tutoring services outside the normal school hours for any student failing a course, and, of course, the teachers' raises. A formula, worked out in legislative committee, will determine the amount of state funding a school district will receive. Among the factors taken into consideration is the district's tax rate. Those districts with a low basic tax rate will receive less in state funding. Those with high tax rates will receive more.

Since the early 1970's when the oil and gas boom got underway in Sutton County, our tax rate has been steadily decreasing due to the dramatic increase in the overall tax base. This has been a great advantage to the local taxpayer in the past. The bulk of the local maintenance tax, the money which supports the day-to-day expense of running the school district, has come largely from the wealthy oil companies, thus relieving the property owner of a heavy tax burden.

Now, however, with the state-

SISD Board reviews construction bids

by Becky Collins

The board of trustees of the Sonora Independent School District met in special session Tuesday, July 31 to receive bids from prime contractors for construction of the new high school.

Six base bids were submitted by the contractors, ranging from $7.9 million from Templeton Construction of San Angelo to $8.3 million from HBF Construction of Midland for construction of the complex.

The exact bid amounts and completion dates are as follows: Templeton Construction, San Angelo, $7,987,000, 435 days for completion with work beginning 10 days after notice of contract award; J.W. COOPER Construction, Odessa, $8,039,700, 730 days for completion with construction beginning 15 days after notice of contract award; BFW Construction of Temple, $8,125,000, with 470 days completion with construction beginning 10 days after notice of contract award.

Also Utley-James of Texas Inc. Austin, bidding $8,219,400, with 420 days for completion, work commencing 15 days after notice of contract award; Hill Constructors of Houston bid $8,225,000, with 600 days for project completion, beginning 10 days after award of contract; and finally, the high bid submitted by HBF Construction of Midland was for $8,330,000, with 575 days for completion beginning 5 days after contract award.

Board president Fields noted that the bids were much higher than anticipated and instructed SHWC, Inc., the district's architectural firm, to meet with the bidders and to inform them that the Sonora, ISD had 6.4 million for construction of the new facility.

The board discussed ways to bring down the cost of construction including cutting out some of the "graveyard" special wall finishes and the like to bring the cost down. The board will be negotiating with construction bidders to bring the bids more in line with available construction funds.

The board will reconvene on the construction bid matter on Thursday, August 23 to examine any progress made in the matter and possible to award the bid.

Monday night, July 30, the board also convened in special session.

During the meeting sealed bids were opened by the board for installation of 1,360 feet of six-foot chain link fence along the right-of-way of the water and sewer lines to the new high school building site and in the tennis court area.

Old Post Fence Company of San Angelo bid $6,753.70 for completion of the project; Acorn Fencing, the next low bidder at $6,936.02; S.D. & C. Contractors of Midland bid $9,691.68 on the project while Arturo Sanchez of Sonora bid $9,796. The high bidder was Reese Construction of Sonora bidding $12,470.

The board noted that the low bid was submitted by Old Post Fence Company of San Angelo, but decided by consensus to award the bid to Acorn Fence Company, because of familiarity with their work.

"Party" buying is cautioned

Buying merchandise at a "party" can be fun, but may not make much shopping sense. Once you come into a friend's home for a party and see others signing up for merchandise, it's difficult to resist buying something, says Bonnie L. Piernot, a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service, home economist. "This can be a real problem for the person who is trying to avoid impulse buying and stick to the family budget," she says. Piernot advises treating sales parties as any other consumer purchase decision. If you're not interested in buying the merchandise sold at sales parties, turn down invitations to attend them. If you are interested in buying, she says, check the quality and cost of similar merchandise in retail stores before going to the party. Then if the items are overpriced, enjoy the party without feeling obligated to buy the products.

She carried cascades of white roses, baby's breath, and stephanotis atop her mother's wedding Bible.

The bridesmaids wore blue taffeta gowns overlaid with white organza. Wide flources of lace and organza adorned the off-shoulder necklines and hems of the dresses.

WHAT A FISHING STORY!

Ralph Arredondo, Bobby Payne, and Sylvester Galvan show off the 4 1/2 foot kingfish that they caught during a fishing excursion off the coast of Port Aransas last weekend. According to Mr. Payne, the three fishermen set off for the coast on Friday, fished all day Saturday catching five kingfish and one shark, and spent the majority of the day Sunday caught in a storm about 40 miles off the coast. All returned home safely, with a whopper of a fish and a great story to tell of their expedition.

State crackdown on bingo

State Comptroller Bob Bullock is warning Texas bingo operators they can say good-bye to their state licenses and hello to local police if they ignore state laws governing the game.

"When bingo people stray outside the Texas Bingo Enabling Act, they risk charges under the state's criminal laws against gambling," Bullock said. All the Comptroller's Office can do is take away their license, but local police and prosecutors can treat them just like they'd been caught in a black alley crap game—just like any other two-bit gambler."

Comptroller agents have recently visited 500 bingo games and found nearly a third are violating some section of the bingo law.

"Most of these violations were minor mistakes made by honest charity groups running their own games," Bullock said, "but that doesn't mean we can sit still for them."

We have warned these groups and sent copies of the warnings to local police."

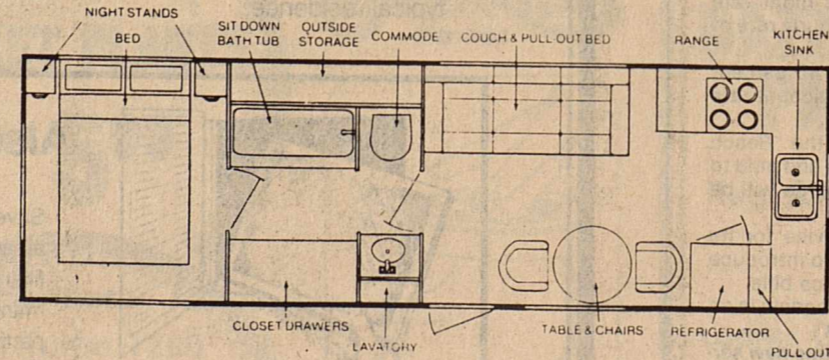

"A more serious problem is with commercial promoters who dupe charitable groups into letting the promoters run the game, count the money and give the charity what's left—if anything. The Texas bingo law just won't allow this where we find it, we're jerking licenses faster that you can say B-10. We suspended two licenses for this violation week and we've got a hearing on a third set for next week."

"We'll be continuing to visit bingo games and our auditors will be looking closely at the books of everybody involved in bingo—the promoters, bingo organizations, supply distributors and manufacturers. These people can expect us to share evidence of whatever violations we find with their local district attorney, Bullock said.

Leddy Ann Henley and Robert Wade Fowler exchanged wedding vows at 8:30 p.m., Saturday, July 28 in the home of the bride. The vows were exchanged inside a candlelit gazebo. The gazebo was accented with hanging ferns and green plants. Rev. Will Cotton, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Hubbard officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Henley of Malone, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Bert Rode of Sonora and the great granddaughter of Mrs. Bert Rode also of Sonora. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly C. Fowler of Hubbard.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a designer gown of white matte taffeta overlaid with white chiffon. The bodice featured a princess style neckline and embroidered lace and off the shoulder neckline with a deep cut back. The skirt fell in a cathedral length train with a ruffled hemline.

The bride's garden hat was designed and made by her mother. The waist-length English illusion veil fell from a white chiffon hat applied with silk Venetian lace which was accented with hand-sewn seed pearls.

She carried an English oval bridal bouquet of white rose buds and lavender orchids accented with white feathers and satin ribbon.

The bride carried a new penny for good luck. For something old, she carried a handkerchief of her late grandmother Rode, something new, she wore a gold roop bracelet, a gift from the groom, something borrowed was a string of pearls belonging to Mrs. Lottie Degner, and something blue was the garter her mother wore on her wedding day.

Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Janice Trompler of Malone. Vocalists were Mr. and Mrs. Scott Anderson of Hubbard. Mrs. Trompler provided popular music during the reception.

The attendants came down a candlelit aisle in couples. Three couples stood on each side of the opening to the gazebo. The bridesmaids carried candles with hurricane globes and silk cascading lavender and white roses and irises. Their dresses were lavender taffeta with full formal length skirts, off the shoulder necklines, and full short puffed sleeves.

The groomsmen wore charcoal gray cutaway coats with gray striped pants pearl gray vests, white pleated winged collar shirts, and striped silk ascots. Their boutonnieres were lavender rose buds with baby's breath.

Serving as groomsmen were Steve Ellis, Kevin Taylor, Willie Fowler, Kelly Goats, and Rode Henley.

Jennifer Fowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Fowler of Iredall, cousin of the groom, was the flowergirl. She was dressed in a white gown designed like the bridesmaids, and carried a white wicker basket with lavender and white roses.

Jacob Rode Badke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Radke, cousin of the bride, served as ringbearer. He was dressed like the groom and carried a satin pillow trimmed in lace.

The groom was attired in a silver gray tuxedo with a pleated shirt with the winged collar and a silver gray ascot. His boutonniere was a white carnation with a lavender rose bud in the center.

Ushers were Ronald Morgan, Leon Radke, and Don Pyle. They were attired in tuxedos that matched the groomsmen.

The bride's mother chose a formal gown of navy chiffon with a three-tiered flowing skirt and chiffon bodice complemented by sheer cap sleeves. Her corsage was of white and pink sweetheart roses.

The groom's mother chose a formal length quiana gown complemented by a chiffon bodice. The skirt flowed from the bodice in tiny pleats. She also wore a pink and white sweetheart rose bud corsage.

The reception was held in the garden. Hurricane lamps decorated with lavender bows and pink candles accented the garden. The candlelit tables were done in double layered white net and lace tablecloths. The five tiered bridal cake was decorated with white Australian fondant icing and trimmed with lavender and white satin ribbon cascaded down from the top to the side cakes.

The bride and groom used on the bride's parents wedding cake was framed in an arch. Frozen banana punch was served from an antique cut crystal punch bowl. A seven branch white candelabra holding the bride's bouquet served as the centerpiece.

The groom's cake was a chocolate horseshoe-shaped cake decorated with hand made chocolate leaves and red cherries.

Dixie Morgan, sister of the bride, designed and baked both cakes. An assortment of vegetables and dips were served. A watermelon basket surrounded with frozen grapes held all types of melon balls. Sweet and sour hot meatballs and sausage balls were served with crackers, cheese logs, and salmon spread.

A round table draped in white and accented with lavender bows held a silver champagne fountain. Frosted grapes cascaded over the top.

Members of the houseparty were: Gail Radke, Sara Radke, Kathy Howard, Rhonda Howard, Tracy

Tekell, Michelle McClinton, Tina Powelle, Joanie, and Jamie Fowler, Alice Pyle, Loan Gamble, June Frawley, Jackie Kirkpatrick, and Marilyn Dvorack.

The bride chose a powder blue silk suit complemented by a white silk blouse for the reception. She wore a corsage of pale blue and deep blue silk roses.

The couple is honeymooning in Switzerland, Germany, Italy, France, and Austria.

They will make their home in Arlington. The bride will attend T.W.C. in Fort Worth and the groom will attend T.C.U. in Fort Worth.

PUBLIC NOTICE

AT&T Communications has filed with the Public Utility Commission (PUC) of Texas to introduce a new intrastate, optional long distance service to begin August 1, 1984, the same date "Reach Out® America" plan will be available for interstate calls.

A new service designed to give customers the opportunity to reduce the cost of long distance in Texas has been filed with the state PUC by AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc.

"Reach Out® Texas" is an optional calling plan which will provide additional discounts on long distance rates for Texas customers who frequently place calls in the evening, weekend, and night time calling periods.

The new "Reach Out® Texas" plan for the first time extends the benefits of competition to many Texas consumers who previously have not had any discounted long distance service available to them.

AT&T Communications customers who choose this new optional service will pay a monthly charge of $14 which entitles them to one hour of intrastate "Direct Dialed" (1+) calling during the weekend and night rate period.

An additional customer savings for those participating in the plan will be that any Direct Dialed calls placed during the weekend and night rate period that exceeds the one hour period will be charged at an hourly rate of $12, or $.20 per minute.

Customers selecting this option also receive an additional 15 percent discount for intrastate Direct Dialed calls during the evening discount rate period for a total savings of approximately 38 percent.

A one-time charge of $6 is billed when a customer orders the "Reach Out® Texas" plan. The $6 is collected by AT&T Communications and paid to the local telephone company to establish the service. This charge will be waived during the first 90 days that the offering is available.

AT&T Communications is proud to offer this optional service for its Texas long distance customers and will in the future continue to introduce cost cutting programs to help Texans reduce their long distance bills.

A complete copy of the "Reach Out® Texas" tariff and rate schedule is on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas.

AT&T Communications estimates that the revenue impact of this new service would be significantly less than 2.5 percent of annual gross revenues.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

*Customer billing for the optional calling plan will be provided for AT&T Communications through billing contracts with the local telephone companies. Therefore, the introduction of these rate plans into a specific area is contingent upon local company billing capabilities. Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has agreed to handle the billing in its service areas effective August 1, 1984.

Bartering carries tax responsibilities

Bartering, or the exchange of goods or services for goods or services of equal value, usually called bartering, is an American tradition that carries federal income tax responsibilities, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Income from any source must be reported, according to the IRS, and, in the case of bartering, the tax is computed on the fair market value of the goods or services exchanged.

For example, an auto mechanic repairs a carpenter's truck in exchange for repair work performed by the carpenter in the auto mechanic's office. Both individuals must report the services received as income at fair market value. However, both may claim the fair market value of the repair work done as a business expense on their income tax returns.

Another example: a plumber owes a physician for medical services and offers to make plumbing repairs in the doctor's office in payment of the bill. The doctor must report the fair market value of the plumbing services as income and the plumber must report the amount of the medical services as income. Then, the doctor may claim the plumbing job as a business expense and the plumber may claim the doctor's bill as a medical expense.

Taxpayers who have not reported income gained from bartering can correct their income tax returns by filing a 1040X, an amended return, for the year or years involved, the IRS said. Forms are available by calling the IRS Forms/Tax Information number listed in the telephone directory under U.S. Government.

Screwworms concern livestock producers

Confirmation of three screwworm cases about 100 miles south of Rio Grande City in Mexico should concern livestock producers in this area, Dr. John W. Holcombe, executive director, Texas Animal Health Commission said today.

The three cases are in an area about 30 miles southeast of Monterrey in Mexico.

"Cattlemen in this area need to again be on the lookout for possible screwworm infestations. Producers are encouraged to submit any suspected screwworm cases to the fly lab in Mission. Take a sample of the infestation. Sample kits are available from Texas Animal Health Commission area offices, county agent offices, and other outlets," Dr. Holcombe said.

The last confirmed screwworm case in Texas was Aug. 31, 1982.

"It has been nearly two years since we have had a screwworm case in Texas," Dr. Holcombe noted. "This is due in large part to the cooperation of livestock producers in checking for possible screwworm outbreaks, and continued vigilance is needed now," he said.

ICA monthly meeting held

The Independent Cattlemen's Association held its monthly business meeting and breakfast - Thursday, August 2nd, at 7 am at the Sutton County Steak House.

The tentative date has been set, and plans are in the making for the yearly Barbeque - which is the only fundraiser for the organization.

This group of cattlemen has been meeting at the Steakhouse since November 17, 1977 - monthly. The motion came up to change the meetings to the Fiddler's Restaurant." Those present were in favor of the motion.

The next meeting will be held Sept. 6th, 1984 - 7 am - Thursday at the Fiddlers.

All members are urged to attend and remember the new meeting site.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Mrs. Jones:

I am the daughter of Janice (Glasscock) and Billy (Billy Bob) Ellingson. My mother was born and raised in Sonora, Texas. My father was born in Kansas but moved to Sonora September 7, 1941 and they both graduated from the Sonora High School. My maternal grandparents are Travis Glasscock of Sweetwater, Texas and the late Ina Archer Glasscock. My paternal grandparents are Maxine and David L. Locklin of Sonora. Also Bill Glasscock of Sonora/Ozona is my uncle.

Some people may remember me from several years back when I was approximately 10 years old. At that time I put a notice in the Devil's River News telling you I was and that I was going to sell homemade cookies and lemonade at my grandparents home (The Locklins) and the money was to go to Jerry Lewis's Kids for Muscular Dystrophy and the people of Sonora were so kind to me that I was able to send Jerry's Kids $73.00.

May 18, 1984 I had the honor of being crowned "Miss Montana Teenager" Since my parents and grandparents have so many friends in Sonora, my grandmother, Maxine Locklin, has asked that I send the information regarding the final pageant to you to be put in the paper the week preceding the National Pageant.

The National Miss Teenager Pageant will be held in Le High Florida on Saturday August 19, 1984 in LeHigh, Florida and Pat Boone is to be the Master of Ceremonies.

I am looking forward to the pageant and ask for everyone's prayers. I hope that all of my parents and grandparents' friends will be proud of my achievements.

Thanking you, I am
Sincerely,
Tanya Ellingson

IRS News

The best way for taxpayers to ensure that they claim all the deductions, credits and special tax benefits to which they are entitled and to avoid overpaying their taxes, the Internal Revenue Service says, is to plan their tax situations throughout the year.

For example, the taxpayer who is considering the sale or purchase of securities, the scheduling of medical appointments near the end of the year, or the insulation of a home may be able to save some money by carefully considering tax implications of these actions.

Taxpayers who change their names through marriage or divorce can prevent tax processing problems by notifying their local Social Security Administration (SSA) office of the change in name. The notification to SSA can eliminate possible delays in processing the return and speed up the issuance of any refund due.

Taxpayers who are age 55 or older and plan to sell their principal homes can also save because they may qualify to exclude up to $125,000 of gain from their gross incomes. The IRS stresses, however, that the taxpayers must have reached age 55 before the date of sale to claim this benefit and that it can be claimed only once in a lifetime.

To assist with tax planning, the IRS offers Publication 552, "Recordkeeping Requirements and a List of Tax Publications," available free by calling the IRS Forms/Tax information number listed in the local telephone directory.

mandated formula going into effect, our local maintenance tax rate of 46 cents, well below the state average of 57 cents per $100 of valuation, is causing us to be penalized by the loss of state funding, even though costs involved in putting H.B. 72 into effect are substantial.

The school board and the administrators have spent long hours in cutting the district operating budget to the bone without endangering the basic education process for our children. Even after all the trimming, there is no alternative to an increase in the local maintenance tax rate in order to have the necessary funds to operate within the confines of the Education Reform Bill. Just how much of an increase will be necessary will be determined before final adoption of the 1984-85 budget on August 14.

According to Sonora ISD Superintendent James Bible, an austerity program is now in effect

throughout the school system as it is in all the surrounding districts, most of whom find themselves in the same financial boat for much the same reasons. Tax increases will be the rule rather than the exception in this area of the state in order to have the funds needed to carry out H.B. 72. Local administrators and board members hope that the regular legislature next year will take action to correct the inequities in the financial picture, and that sufficient state funding will be forthcoming in future years to cover the cost of most of the newly-required programs and enforce new regulations.

The public hearing on the budget is set for 7 p.m. in the school administration office, 807 South Concho.

The public hearing on the tax rate will be at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, August 21, with formal adoption set for one week later, August 28, also at 7. Both meetings will be at the school administration offices.

Chamber Happenings

by Edith James

The Clean-up Sonora Project was a success Saturday, with a number of volunteers coming out to help the committee with this work.

Several "target places" had been named and most of these were cleaned up and taken to the dump. The City of Sonora furnished dump trucks along with several business people in Sonora.

Certainly more help could have been used, and another date will be set in the near future to keep this project going. Quite a lot of individuals have done a tremendous job sprucing up their own property.

This should be an on-going project, and once most of the unsightly areas are cleaned up, it will be much easier to keep Sonora looking good.

Our thanks and appreciation to all that took part in the Clean-up Saturday, it was certainly a job well done.

A special attraction for SCD this year will be the 3-Wheeler Honda to be given away to the lucky winner, the proceeds from this will go to the Community Christmas Decoration Fund. "Big Red" will be on display at various places of business and will be given away Saturday, Aug. 25th. Marilyn McEwen is Chairman of this very special attraction.

The Arts and Craft show will be an interesting feature this year. Hilda Flores is Chairman and anyone needing a space for their crafts, should call Hilda for an entry form, or contact the Chamber of Commerce office. The Three-day celebration is filled with fun and entertainment for all ages, so make a date to be in Sonora, Texas for Sutton County Days Celebration-August 23rd, 24th, & 25th.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

U.S. Senator John Tower (R-Texas) recently announced the establishment of a board to select the recipient of the 1984 Senate Productivity Award.

"The award will be given to recognize and honor an organization that is using particularly effective productivity improvement methods that could be adopted by other organizations. The board will not necessarily be seeking the most productive organization, but one that is producing a product or performing a service of high quality in a highly efficient manner," Tower said.

"It is my hope that this program will inspire productivity competition and serve as a vehicle through which productivity improving techniques are communicated to other organizations around the world," he said.

Members of Senator Tower's productivity board are Gene Canavan, Gene Canavan & Associates, Inc., San Antonio; Ken Fairchild, Fairchild/LeMaster, Inc., Dallas; Gordon E. Forward, president and chief executive officer, Chaparral Steel, Midlothian; and Philip L. Johnson, executive director, John E. Gray Institute, Beaumont.

Work: Bane or Blessing!

By Rev. Louis Halford, Pastor First Assembly of God

Scripture Reading: Genesis 2:7-15

In the ancient world little dignity was associated with work. Slaves were assigned backbreaking task. While the upper class families engaged in leisurely social and cultured pursuits. The Egyptians said, "Labor is degrading; idleness is desirable." Today there are those who will tell us the same thing, yet it was in the Plan of God for a man to labor!

Some folks seem to have the idea that Adam and Eve set around twiddling their thumbs with nothing to do! Sounds like the average church doesn't it? Oh, but Adam had lots of work to do and he enjoyed himself. The beautiful part about working in the garden of Eden was that there was no sin, and therefore this ground did not rebel, and the fruit of the work of Adam was blessed by God! When man fell God cursed the man and instead of just beautiful plants, grass, trees, and etc. it just seem that weeds began to grow uncontrollably. God was letting Mankind know that nature would resist his efforts to subdue it.

The word of God clearly implies that Jesus spent many of his working years at a carpenter's bench.

Even Paul made tents to support himself. Let none of us ever get to the place that we don't think that we need to work! There is so much to be done and such little time to do it in.

While we labor in the oil fields, or the ranches, or at a grocery store we need to put life in to our work! God wants us to enjoy life!

(At work or play) (John 10:10)

As you can clearly see many of us have different occupations yet I believe deep down in the soul of man that is a desire to make things better for this world and for Sonora! The only answer that I have is for us to work, yes sweat, labor, but work for the kingdom of God! Only God can meet our needs and satisfy our souls! Only God can make life bearable! You don't have to force yourself to get up and go to work, when you know Jesus as your personal saviour! The Lord will put a real desire in your heart to help you do the best you can, regardless of your job or wages!

The point I'm trying to make is that as we bring up another crop of kids they are going to be watching your life and you will be their supreme example; but if God is Lord of your life, then they will see the Heavenly Father in you!

We're not letting our children see us at our best! However you live before your children expect them to be like you! The Bible tells us "To train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it!"

Come on neighbor, as we work at our jobs lets work for God with the same frequency, because the rewards will far out weigh the wages you and I earn!

Enjoy your work and be generous as you give to the work of the Lord!

I wish I had more room, but we appreciate this newspaper for printing our articles!

May the Lord bless you as you labor for him!

Headlines for Homemakers

We live in a society in which most adults under forty have grown up accustomed to daily viewing several hours of television. Is it possible that our daily reliance on the television medium has led to a change in how we think, what we think about, and how hard we are willing to work to extract information from other communication media? Did human beings always have so short an attention span, or have we all been transformed by watching the rapid pace and quick cuts to unrelated material that prevail on commercial television?

In general, it is clear that children spend more time in this country watching television (4 1/2 to 5 hours per day on the average) than they spend in school and, very likely, in direct communication with their parents. Television provides information, whether fictional or factual, about a presumed outside world. To the extent that such knowledge influences attitude formation and belief-systems, television experience is important in children's moral and ethical development.

Research continues to demonstrate an association between heavy television viewing and aggressive behavior in children. Data gathered over the past seven years suggests that the following television and family variables put a child at risk for problematic behavior by early elementary school age: (1) a home in which uncontrolled television viewing is the norm; (2) continuous heavy viewing of violent programming; (3) heavy viewing of TV in the preschool years; (4) parents who themselves emphasize physical force as a means of discipline; (5) parents whose self-descriptions or values do not stress imagination, curiosity, or creativity. The children in our study who were reared in such an environment made less progress in language and reading acquisition, were more frightened or suspicious of the outside world, and showed less imagination and more restlessness and aggression as well as poor behavioral adjustment in school.

A recent issue with great import for public policy is the recognition that maladaptive health behavior may be partially fostered by television representations. Although advertising 'hard' liquor is banned from television, it is not necessary for liquor companies to foster interest in drinking when so many of the 'good guys' or heroines in fictional stories spend so much time modeling that indulgence. Often, gestures such as taking a drink or lighting a cigarette are used by writers to give actors something to do with their hands or to manage scene transitions. But why can't a character occasionally refuse an alcoholic drink and order plain soda or juice, instead, as many people in the real world now do?

Our data, as well as related research by others, increasingly pointed to potential hazards for young children in heavy viewing, especially of aggressive content. The research also pointed to some constructive possibilities of selected viewing with parental guidance. Providing parents with training skills for their children in imaginative play or in cognitive skills of various kinds led to a decrease in TV viewing patterns, some increase in spontaneous language ability, and other positive benefits for the children's social behavior. We also prepared a series of school lesson plans designed to inform children about the television medium, its structure, hazards, and potentials, and how to approach it more critically.

There is, however, a broader kind of intervention possible. In the United States, television functions by a kind of 'give-away' of the air waves through licensing by the Federal Communications Commission to private companies. With the exception of public television, the networks and other local stations are commercial enterprises that are on the whole extremely profitable, among the most successful businesses in the United States. They exist primarily to communicate commercial advertising to the public; consequently, programming must be geared wherever possible to attracting the broadest number of viewers since pricing of advertising is chiefly determined by Nielsen ratings.

While the Federal Communications Commission has required some degree of public service and news presentation from local stations, withdrawal of a license for noncompliance is rare indeed over the almost fifty years of broadcasting history. At the moment, the FCC is powerless to enforce regularly scheduled children's programming. A special concern has been recognition that programming should be geared to be age-specific—that is, that different programs are needed for children at the preschool or elementary school ages than at the junior-high level and during early adolescence.

We still need to confront the question of how television has influenced the nature of our ability to learn. We need a better understanding of its effects on our fears and worries and our perception of the outside world, and, especially for children, the effect of antisocial content in programming. We must also recognize the constructive possibilities of the medium. With increased use of cable TV and videostic or home video recording we are likely to see more emphasis on this type of medium as a part of daily life. Given this reality, professionals will need to make more serious attempts to study various effects of the types of programming.

Parents will need to participate actively with the professionals in commissions and on committees to take strong advocacy stands, once research evidence points in fairly conclusive directions. Here are some things parents can do:

(1) Either join the local Action for Children's Television group or form one in your community. ACT, an advocacy organization, strives to influence legislators, the networks, the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Communications Commission to ensure that there is sufficient age-appropriate programming for children and that children are not exploited through commercials.

(2) Write to your Congressman to support such bills as the one Representative Timothy Wirth of Colorado has proposed, a mandate for daily children's programs and keep pressure up until this is achieved.

(4) If you have cable, approach the community affairs person and make use of your access rights to present program ideas or even involve yourself in producing such material. This has been carried out successfully in a number of communities.

Concho County to host sheep dog trials

Concho County is an appropriate place to have sheep dog trials. The county has the largest concentration of sheep in all of Texas. Eden, the county's largest town (population 1,300) is strutting its stuff at festival time this August 18th by hosting the second trial in the triple crown of southwest sheep dog finals.

There will be 25-30 dogs coming from all over Texas as well as Arizona, Illinois, and Canada. "Maid", the most famous Canadian dog, was born in Ireland. When only a year and a half old, she won her nursery class by working her sheep right through an IRA shootout where several people were wounded and everyone took to the ground.

Gel, a seven year old, was imported from Wales and won the Bluegrass National Championship at Lexington, KY. Judy was imported from Scotland. Sue Ellen is the daughter of an imported dog named "Texas dog of the year." These dogs have competed before in Eden and their same quality is expected again this year.

Sheep dogs work in obedience to whistles or spoken commands from their handler-- and a lot of natural instinct. In the trials they are graded on how straight they direct a group of sheep from objective to objective set up on a large field, how tight they can turn the sheep around objectives and how well they meet the time restrictions in performing the routine. One of the more critical parts of the trials is how well the dog can separate two sheep from a flock of five.

Bob Childress of Ozona will be competing with several of his internationally known dogs. Childress and his dogs have won second and third places in the British Isles where there are 20,000 sheep dog handlers, fifteen competitions, and from 150 to 250 dogs in each meet.

Sheep for the trials will be provided by Billy Dan Sorrell, registered Columbia sheep-breeder and Concho County ranchman. Judges will be named on show day by the Texas Sheep Dog Association.

There will be trophy plaques and money for first place dogs in each of four classes: Ranch Class, Open Ranch Class, Open Class, and Pro-Am. There will be $750 in added prize money.

The sheep dog trials will be held at the Eden Consolidated Independent School District Ball Field at 1:00 p.m., August 18. Admission for the event is $1 adult, $.50 student.

Puppies often whine and howl at night. A ticking clock next to the puppy's box will often keep it quiet.
