1st Assembly sets revival next week

The First Assembly of God will host the Second Annual Fellowship Revival beginning November 4 and continuing through November 11. This revival gives some of the lay people a real opportunity to minister the word.

Last year's revival was very successful. In one service alone there were 106 in attendance.

This year's speakers and themes include:

Sunday morning 11 a.m.-November 4-Rev. Louis Halford-"Jesus Christ and the Promise of the Spirit"

Sunday night 6 p.m.-November 4-Rev. Wynette Halford-"Jesus Christ, The Hope of the World's Future"

Monday night 7 p.m.-November 5-Ron Nicholas-"Jesus Christ, The Hope for Deliverance"

Tuesday night 7 p.m.-Bobby Hocutt-"Jesus Christ and the Hope of His Body"

Wednesday night 7 p.m.-November 7-Rev. Louis Halford-"Jesus Christ, The Only Hope for Salvation"

Thursday night 7 p.m.-November 8-Myron Halford-"Jesus Christ and the Hope for Healing", and

Friday night 7 p.m.-November 9-Francisco Gomez (In Spanish) "Jesus Christ and Holiness"

The revival service will celebrate Pastor Halford's fourth anniversary as pastor of First Assembly. There will be lunch served on the grounds after the morning service.

Sister Halford will minister Sunday morning on "Jesus Christ and Holiness" and the pastor will bring the evening service at 6 p.m. entitled "Jesus Christ, The Only Hope of the Harvest"

First Assembly of God cordially invites the public to attend any or all services.

Representative due

State Comptroller Bob Bullock will have a representative from his San Angelo office in Sonora, November 13 to assist local taxpayers and answer questions about state taxes.

Bullock said Tax Representative Dru Beck will meet with local taxpayers in the County Clerk's Office at the County Courthouse from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m.

"If Sonora area merchants, or anyone else for that matter, have any questions about state taxes or need help in preparing state tax forms, Ms. Beck will be there to assist them," Bullock said.

"We're trying to cut the red tape in this office, and we believe these face to face sessions with taxpayers help do just that," Bullock added.

The San Angelo office serves San Angelo and surrounding counties.

Loeffler available

Congressman Tom Loeffler, Chief Deputy Republican Whip, will be available on election night, November 6th, to discuss Republican gains in the United States House of Representatives.

The Congressman can be reached at Fresh Horizons, 6514 North New Braunfels, in San Antonio, Texas-512 828-5919 or 512 828-6021.

Society to meet

The San Angelo Genealogical and Historical Society will meet at 7:30 p.m. November 6 in the fellowship hall of the former Western Hills Church of Christ 1902 N. Childress.

Mrs. Betty Jane Smith, former president of the society, will speak on "How to do a Complete Cemetery Survey".

Visitors are always welcome.

Contest winners told

Francisco Torres was the first place winner in The Devil's River News football contest and will receive $15. His entry was obtained at Food Center and only contained one miss.

Receiving $10 in second place prize money will be Sammy Mata who missed two on his entry obtained from Hershel's Foodway. Mata won the second place because his tie-breaker was only 12 points away from the 25 total points of the Dallas game of the week.

Gene Reyna also only missed two on his entry, obtained at Food Center, but his tie-breaker was 13 points from the actual total points. Reyna will receive $5.

Also missing only two guesses but being too far away from the tie-breaker were Edward Mata, Frances West, Kevin West, Henry Villanueva, Samantha Gregory, V.L. Chavez, Matt Davenport, Jack Sharp, and Brandy Halford.

Be sure to get your entry, fill it out, and return it to The Devil's River News office by 5 p.m. Friday afternoon in order to get a chance at the prize money. Remember-only one entry per person may be submitted!

Entry forms may be obtained at Sutton County National Bank, Hershel's Foodway, Food Center, Kerbow Furniture, Sutton County Steakhouse, The Ritz Theatre, Spain's Inc., Perry's, and P.M. Office Supplies.

Broncos wallop Bulldogs

BY CHARLIE ADAMS

The sign on the Coahoma sideline said, "It's Miller Time #18!" Sure, it was put there to intimidate the Bronco's senior quarterback. But intimidate? I don't know!

But, the sign was right. The Bulldogs just didn't know how right it was.

Miller personally scored three touchdowns on runs of 29, 10, 1 yards. He kicked two extra points and three field goals of 21, 30, 25 yards. This accounted for 29 of the Bronco's 35 points.

Junior fullback John David Martinez got the other six points on an eight-yard run.

Miller also had another fine passing night as he hit on six of nine for 119 yards. He also rushed for 34 yards on 7 carries.

Victor Lira led the Broncos with 46 yards on 12 carries. Joe Mike Noriega added 43 yards on 6 carries.

Steve Love got 29 yards on 5 carries. John David Martinez had 25 yards on 6 tries.

Edward Mata ran for 16 yards on 3 carries. Esau Ramirez had three yards on one try. Doug Martin had one yard on two carries. Lee Castro had 0 yards on 1 try.

In the receiving department, Ramirez had five catches for 107 yards. Joe Will Ross had one for 12 yards. Steve Love had one for four yards.

Quarterback Doug Martin completed one of two passes.

The Bronco defense, led by nose guard Jim Cooper, tackles Abe Caruthers and Daniel Garza, ends Mario Sotelo and Ruben Garza, plus linebackers Gilbert Martinez and Victor Lira held the Bulldog offense in-check.

The lone Bulldog score came late in the game against the Bronco's defensive reserves.

The Bronco defense got four turnovers from the Bulldogs. Mario Sotelo recovered two fumbles, Ricardo Sanchez recovered a blocked punt while Sonny Samaniego got an interception.

Elsewhere around District 7-AAA, the defending champions the last two years, the Ballinger Bearcats, took a major step toward their third consecutive league title as they downed the Colorado City Wolves 28-6.

This makes Ballinger 8-0 for the year and 3-0 in league play. The Colorado City Wolves fall to 7-1 and 2-1 in league play.

The Broncos are next at 6-2 on the year, but 2-1 in league play.

Coahoma falls to 3-4-1 and 1-2 in league play. Crane and Ozona played to a 7-7 tie and each own identical season 1-6-1 and league 0-2-1 records.

The matchups this week will have Crane playing Ballinger, Coahoma playing Ozona and the big game of the week will be at Bronco Stadium.

The Colorado City Wolves will arrive to take on the Broncos in a game that will undoubtedly decide the other playoff representative from District 7-AAA.

Colorado City has an excellent team and are led by all-state candidate Doug Chitsey. The senior third year starting signal-caller is an excellent passer. He reached the 1000 yard total this season in only 5 games.

The Wolves will use a pro-style offense using four or five receivers. The best receiver is 6'4" tight-end, Tate Randle. He is a very big target and an easy one for Chitsey to find.

The Wolves employ basically a 6-1 defense. They will be bigger in both lines than the Broncos.

The game should be a super one so don't miss it. Be there to back the Broncos to a must-win and a shot at the playoffs.

BRONCO ATTACKS BULLDOG

Joe Will Ross (83) prepares to block a Coahoma Bulldog for running-back Victor Lira (28) in the game Sonora won 35-6. The runner-up for championship of District 7-AAA will undoubtedly be decided this Friday night when the Broncos take on the highly rated Colorado City Wolves. Kick-off time is 8 p.m. in Bronco Stadium--BE THERE!!! [Staff Photo--MH]

Band receives ninth 1 Saturday

Saturday, October 27, the Sonora Mighty Bronco Band traveled to Brady to compete in the University Interscholastic League District marching contest. After all was said and done, the MBB had received its ninth consecutive division 1 rating in marching.

The contest is sanctioned by the UIL each year for public school bands to compete for ratings in five divisions. After each band's performance, each of the three judges place it in the First Division (superior), Second Division (excellent), Third Division (good), Fourth Division (fair) or Fifth Division (poor).

The three scores are tabulated to determine the final rating. Each judge gives written comments concerning the performance of each band, which are to be used for improvement. There are also compliments to the bands and their directors.

Some excerpts from the MBB's comment sheets included "excellent general appearance", "I like the way you take the field--all business", "Good show! Lots of excitement and fun!", "Very good drill designs and presentation", and "Lots of hard work is evident here".

In accomplishing its goal of a first division in marching, the MBB takes the first step toward a sweepstakes award. This is a superior rating in marching, concert playing, and sight-reading, and is the standard by which all bands are measured.

The MBB has won the sweepstakes award in five of the last six years.

Turkeywalk set Saturday

More than 50 Sonora area walkers are expected to participate in the Turkeywalk event to be held Saturday. The participants are hoping to raise public awareness about the benefits of walking while raising funds to benefit the American Heart Association in Texas. The physical benefits of walking are many. In addition to the obvious trimming and firming of the body it also strengthens and conditions the heart by making the body work and demand increased amounts of oxygen. Enthusiasts of the activity also say it helps relieve tension and increases the ability to relax.

Event participants walk as much of the 5 mile course as they want. Prior to the event they recruit sponsors who make pledges based on the number of miles the participant completes. After the event, participants collect the pledges to turn in to a local American Heart Association representative.

"We are grateful for the tremendous support we're getting from Sonora citizens," said Tom Payton,

A visit with Loeffler

by JERRY RAUN

Tom Loeffler may have his roots in Hunt and presently spend much of his time in Washington but he certainly received a "home town boy's" welcome to Sonora on his recent visit. The crowd that overflowed the Community Room and lobby at Sutton County National Bank couldn't have welcomed a home town hero any more warmly.

As a newcomer to Sonora unfamiliar with the local political winds, I was more interested in observing and listening than in playing reporter. First, I was amazed at the size of the crowd. The fact that some 200 people took time out from lunch to shake hands and listen to a political speech strikes me as something of a phenomenon. The lunch was delicious and free but it was obviously not the drawing card.

Loeffler's brief speech supporting the Reagan-Bush campaign wasn't startling for what was said. It was what wasn't said that caught my attention. Not one word about what Tom Loeffler has done for Sutton County! Not one request to "vote for me"! Now, that has to be a first for an office holder running in his own campaign for re-election.

His only comment about his own campaign was in reference to what Sutton County has done for Loeffler. "The kind of support that you have given me provides more freedom for me to travel to other parts of the country to gain support for The Republican Party's

'85 flu season to be moderate

Time is running out for those people who want to be protected during the upcoming flu season, a Baylor College of Medicine influenza expert said.

Those people who are older than 65, have chronic heart or lung problems, or just don't want to get ill this flu season, should get a vaccination by the end of October, said Paul Glezen, M.D., a researcher in Baylor's National Influenza Research Center.

Another group who should receive vaccinations are health care personnel, such as physicians and nurses, Glezen said.

"Recent studies suggest that if they get the flu, they may spread it to their patients," he said.

The 1984-85 flu season is expected to be mild to moderate Glezen said, "but we are specifically concerned about the A/Philippines flu virus. During the summer of 1983, that virus produced a lot of disease in the Southern Hemisphere."

Other viruses expected are the A/Chile, which also first appeared in the summer of 1983, and B/USSR, which first appeared in the winter of 1983-84.

The current vaccine, which provides protection against all three of these viruses, should be available from most physicians or municipal health departments, Glezen said.

Chemical process aids Mother Nature

It's a quiet revolution that happens each fall. Slowly but surely Mother Nature goes about painting leaves on trees and shrubs to produce a riot of red, purple, orange and yellow for spectacular fall displays.

It's all tied to chemical processes in leaves as the summer season gives way to fall and the approaching winter.

"Leaves are actually little factories that manufacture food to support a tree's or other plant's growth," points out Alan D. Dreessen, a forestry specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "They are busy producing food during spring and summer, but as fall approaches, their work slows down as temperatures and daylight hours change. Chlorophyll—the green pigment in leaves—breaks down and other pigments, mainly yellows and oranges, become visible and gives leaves their fall splendor."

At the same time, other chemical changes are occurring to form additional pigments varying from red to blue, notes the forester. These give rise to purplish leaves on such trees as dogwoods and sumacs and brilliant orange or fiery red and yellow leaves on sugar maples. Some trees, such as quaking aspen, birch and hickory, boast only yellow colors while many other oaks display predominant brown or bronze leaves.

"Leaf colors will vary greatly from year to year, depending on weather conditions and the amount of chlorophyll and other pigments in leaves," explains Dreessen.

Warm, sunny days in the fall followed by cool nights with temperatures below 45 degrees F. are ideal for the formation of brilliant red colors, he points out. These conditions enable leaves to produce a lot of sugar during the daytime but slow down the movement of these sugars from leaves at night. Consequently, trapped sugars form the red pigment that is so vividly displayed in leaves of the red maple, flowering dogwood, sweetgum, black tupelo or blackgum and sassafras.

"A lot of warm, cloudy, rainy weather in the fall, on the other hand, will produce leaves with less red coloration because of the reduced sugar production in leaves," noted Dreessen.

"fall leaf color can also vary from tree to tree," he adds. "For example, leaves directly exposed to sun may turn red while those on the shady side of the same tree or on other trees in the shade may be yellow. Some leaves simply turn dull brown from death and decay."

Where can one find an abundance of showy fall displays?

The eastern United States and southeastern Canada boast large areas of deciduous (trees that shed their leaves) forests with brown-leaved trees and favorable weather conditions for vivid fall colors, notes the forester. Some mountainous areas of the western U.S. also offer vistas of fall colors along with eastern Asia and southwestern Europe.

While arranging for all the fall leaf colors, Mother nature is also preparing the twigs that hold leaves to gradually sever themselves from the branches, says Dreessen. When leaves finally fall, due to their own weight or a sudden burst of wind, they enrich the forest floor, returning part of the nutrients that were used by the tree.

Fig Stuffing For Festive Turkey

Eye and taste appeal are added to a festive turkey dinner when you use acorn squash halves as containers for turkey stuffing. Practicality is also added to the attractive picture presented by the stuffed, green skinned squash because the container itself is deliciously edible and adds a vegetable complement to the meal.

Utilizing Mrs. Cubbison's Melba Toasted Seasoned Dressing or Corn Bread Stuffed gives you the convenience of today, plus the old-fashioned kitchen-fresh taste of long ago. Richly flavored and sweet California dried figs complement the tart dried apples. These ingredients, combined with celery and onion, enhance the perfect balance of herbs and spices already contained in Mrs. Cubbison's stuffing mixes.

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1/4 pound bacon, diced | 1/4 cup finely chopped parsley |
| 1/4 cup butter | 1 box (12-ounces) |
| 1 large onion, chopped | Mrs. Cubbison's Melba Toasted Seasoned Dressing or Corn Bread Stuffin' |
| 1 cup chopped celery | 2 cans (10 1/2 ounces each) condensed chicken broth |
| 3 medium green apples, peeled and chopped | 4 acorn squash |
| 1 cup chopped dried figs | |

Fry bacon until crisp. Add butter and when it melts, saute onion and celery until golden. Add apples, figs and parsley. Pour mixture over dressing in a bowl. Add chicken broth. Stir to blend. Stuff turkey lightly just before roasting.

Makes enough stuffing for a 15 pound turkey. Sew or skewer opening and roast as usual. Double recipe to prepare enough stuffing for the turkey and 8 acorn squash halves. To stuff acorn squash, cut squash into halves crosswise. Cut a thin slice from the bottom to allow them to stand straight. Remove seeds and place squash halves in oven with turkey for 40 minutes or until easily pierced. Remove from oven and fill center with stuffing. Bake another 30 minutes and serve with turkey.

So, follow the dressing recipe above, confident that your family or guests will pronounce this turkey dinner a superlative success!

Gramm honored by Focus '84

"I salute Congressman Phil Gramm for putting his position on this crime bill into the sunshine, away from the shadow of the rules as dictated by the House leadership," Kavouklis said. "He is to be commended for his open leadership and effective execution of his duties as a congressman who serves his constituents."

"Although the deadline has passed to discharge and consider this bill before the October recess, we will continue to urge other congressmen to sign the petition and state their position publicly before they leave in October," Kavouklis said. "It is still not too late to acquire the necessary majority of signatures to discharge the bill before this session ends and consider it in a possible lame duck session."

"FOCUS '84 will advise the lodges of the Fraternal Order of Police and the Police Benevolent Association, as well as other groups such as Protect the Innocent to urge their respective congressmen to sign the discharge petition and take a public position prior to the October recess, as Congressman Gramm has," he said.

The bill addresses the major provisions of President Reagan's Omnibus Crime Bill of 1983. The original discharge petition in the House is sponsored by Rep. Dan Lungren (R-Calif.)

employed by Dorothy Dulnig and Joe Brown Ross.

He is survived by one brother, C.M. Martinez and one sister, Margarita Martinez, both of Sonora, and also by two nephews and one niece.

Have a Safe Halloween

On October 31, thousands of Gremlins and Luke Skywalker's will venture through the streets taking part in the time-honored tradition of Halloween.

It is a festive occasion that provides many fond memories for children of all ages for years to come.

To make this Halloween a safe one, Rayovac Corp., a leading manufacturer of lighting devices and batteries, would like to pass on some tips.

Don't be Tricked

Young children should be accompanied by parents, older brothers and sisters, or other responsible adults when "trick-or-treating." Parents should inspect all unwrapped treats before they are eaten.

Dress Safely

Masks should be properly ventilated and allow for full vision. The mask should be worn on top of the head when walking.

The costume should fit so that children can walk without tripping. The costume should be made of fire retardant materials.

Be Seen

Children should carry light-colored or colorful bags or use reflective tape on the bags. Children should carry flashlights or light sticks to be seen. The new Rayovac Workhorse™ flashlight is 70 percent brighter than ordinary flashlights and could help trick-or-treaters light up their way on Halloween night.

Never allow the children to walk with a flame for a light or to carry sharp objects that could injure the child if he or she fell.

Be Aware

Make your children obey the rules of the road. Have them walk on sidewalks, cross at the intersections, and obey the traffic lights. If they have to walk in the street, make sure that they walk on the left side of the street - facing traffic.

Visit only familiar neighborhoods and stop at only houses or apartments that are well lit or display that they are participating in trick-or-treating.

Drive Defensively

If you are driving, remember that Halloween is an exciting night for children. Drive slowly and with extreme caution through neighborhood streets.

Make this Halloween a safe one for all.

Texas oil production rate to remain at 100% for November

The Railroad Commission recently continued the Texas oil production rate for November at 100 percent of market demand. Chairman Mack Wallace and Commissioner Buddy Temple directed the continuance of the top production allowable after reviewing oil companies' nominations to buy a total of 2,332,458 barrels of Texas oil per day. The November nomination total, a decrease of 19,732 barrels daily when compared to October purchaser nominations, indicates market demand. November 1983 nominations totaled 2,386,878 barrels daily. Although next month's state total for the permissible rate of production is calculated to average 2,859,644 barrels per day, actual production is estimated to reach 2.3 million barrels per day. Actual production in November 1983 was 2,327,426 barrels of oil per day. The Commission first went to the ceiling level for oil production in April 1972, and November marks the 93rd month in a row for the maximum allowable. It applies to all fields in the state except those that are assigned lower legal rates of production so that reservoir pressures will not be depleted before the maximum amount of oil has been recovered. Wallace also reported that November nominations for the purchase of Texas gas totaled 20,994,110 Mcf/d (thousand cubic feet of gas per day). October gas nominations totaled 20,822,478 Mcf/d. November 1983 nominations amounted to 20,530,672 Mcf/d. The next statewide oil and gas production allowable hearing will begin at 9 a.m. Tuesday, November 20 in Room 309 of the Railroad Commission's headquarters building at 1124 S. IH 35 in Austin. Major purchasers filed these floor nominations for Texas oil in November: Amoco Production Co., 154,000 barrels daily, down 2,000 from the previous month; Chevron U.S.A., Inc., 42,500, unchanged; Conoco, Inc., 64,000, unchanged; Exxon Co., U.S.A., 283,300, down 2,000; Gulf Oil Corp., 105,500, unchanged; Marathon Petroleum Co., 66,270, unchanged; Mobil Oil Corp., 172,700, down 400; Phillips Petroleum Co., 75,300, up 1,900; Shell Oil Co., 157,400, unchanged; Sun Refining and Marketing Co., 90,000, unchanged; and Texaco Inc., 78,000, down 1,000. Other purchasers, with significant changes in oil nominations for next month, included:

Champlin Petroleum Co., no nomination, down 1,800; Citgo Petroleum Corp., 61,000, down 9,000; JM Petroleum Corp., 40,600, down 3,435; Koch Oil Co., of Texas, Inc., 77,910, up 4,025; Langham-Midwest Marketing, Ltd., 945, down 1,025; The Permian Corp., 187,601, down 3,000; Scurlock Oil Co., 96,000, up 1,000; and Tesoro Crude Oil Co., 39,892, down 1,706. Chairman Wallace reported that crude oil and petroleum products imported into the U.S. averaged 5,183,000 barrels per day for the four weeks ending September 28, a decrease of 721,000 barrels per day from the same period last year.

Job Corps doing drive

MCKINNEY, TEXAS...Corps members at the McKinney Job Corps Center expect to return a great deal to their home communities when they complete training at the 650 student vocational training school located in McKinney.

But that isn't soon enough for many of these young men and women who are learning about community service by donating blood through quarterly held blood drives.

The Center is especially proud of the September drive which resulted in 102 pints of blood being collected. This brings the Center's grand total to 2,090 pints of blood donated since the Center initiated blood drive activities in September of 1981.

Local officials of the North Texas town, which is located approximately 30 miles north of Dallas, credit the Center's participation in the blood drive program as being a major factor in McKinney's being one of a very few towns throughout the state having a blood surplus instead of a blood shortage.

Commenting on the Center's blood drive, local Texas Employment Commission Manager and Job Corps Council President John Ferguson said, "McKinney is fortunate to have more blood donated than we use. It's great to know if our hometown folks need blood it's there. Ferguson continued, "We are proud of all that these young people do for the city, but their continuing contribution of the 'gift of life' says more about the Center than I could ever say."

The McKinney Job Corps Center is operated by the Texas Educational Foundation, Inc., a non-profit corporation established in 1964, for the purpose of operating Job Corps Centers in Texas.

Young men and women, ages 16-21, from the Sonora area, who would like more information about Job Corps, should call A/C 214-542-2623, Extension 367.

Governor proud of Texans

By Governor Mark White

AUSTIN—A record 7.7 million Texans are expected to register to vote in November's general election and despite criticism from the federal government, I am proud of the state's role in that effort.

Last week I testified before the House Subcommittee on Manpower and Housing in Washington, D.C., reviewing Texas' legislative mandate for state agencies to assist in the non-partisan voter registration of any Texas resident.

Donald Devine, director of the U.S. Employment and Training Administration, ignored this mandate in a September 24th letter to my office in which he warned that federal regulation does not allow voter registration drives in state employment offices during working hours.

Devine expressed concern that voter registration activity on state government property would coerce employees for partisan political purposes or allow them to "use their official authority for the purpose of interfering with or affecting the result of" the upcoming general election.

Voter registration in Texas is non-partisan. At no time is any person registering to vote asked to express a political party preference. In encouraging voter registration in state agency offices, I cautioned agency administrators that voter registration must remain scrupulously non-partisan.

I strongly resent Devine singling out Texas and two other states for reprimand when no instance of illegal activity was reported to his office.

Voter registration in Texas is conducted primarily by mail. The majority of voter registration occurring in state agencies entails making available to employees and the public the postage-free voter registration application forms prescribed by the Secretary of State. Individuals registering to vote mail the application forms themselves to county voter registrars.

The legal authority for state employees to assist in the voter registration effort is found in the Texas Election Code, Article 5.20a, Subdivision 3, which instructs the head of any department of the state government, with the approval of its governing board, to "permit the officers and employees under his control to become deputy registrars of voters and to register persons on any premises and facilities under his control during the regular office hours of the deputized officer or employee."

Ironically, as Secretary of State in Texas in 1975, I had to assure the U.S. Justice Department that state and county governments would emphasize this provision in the Election Code as a condition of the Justice Department's preclearing Election Code revisions adopted that same year by the Texas Legislature.

I believe that any attempt to diminish voter participation in the electoral process is intolerable, and I strongly urge every citizen to exercise his or her right to vote.

Drought loans available

Applications for emergency farm loans for losses caused by this summer's drought and extremely high temperatures are being accepted at the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) office located in Eden, FmHA county supervisor, Ben T. Rucker, Jr., said.

Rucker said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 80 percent of their actual losses, or the operating loan needed to continue in business, or $500,000, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest rate on the first $100,000 borrowed is 5 percent; interest rate is 8 percent on the balance borrowed over that amount. For farmers who can obtain commercial credit but who choose to borrow from FmHA, the interest rate is 13.75 percent.

As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of production to be eligible for an FmHA emergency loan, Rucker said. Farmers participating in the PIK or federal crop insurance programs will have to figure in proceeds from those programs in determining their loss.

Applications for loans under this emergency designation will be accepted until June 3, 1985, but farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing and possibly carry over into the new farming season, Rucker said.

FmHA is a credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is authorized to provide disaster emergency loans to recognized farmers who work at and rely on farming for a substantial part of their living. Eligibility is extended to individual farmers who are U.S. citizens, and to farming partnerships, corporations or cooperatives in which U.S. citizens hold a majority interest.

The FmHA office in Eden is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and is located in the ASCS building.

The FmHA office in Sonora is located at 216 East Main Street and is open from 10 a.m. to 12 noon on the Thursday morning following the second Wednesday of each month.

T.V. ads are denied

The current round of television advertising being aired by Lloyd Doggett which implies that Congressman Phil Gramm would favor repealing the deductibility of home mortgage interest is totally false.

Phil Gramm was instrumental in convincing President Reagan that home mortgage interest deductibility should be a part of any 'flat tax' proposal.

The Kemp-Kasten flat tax proposal that Congressman Gramm is co-sponsoring in the Congress preserves the deductibility for both home mortgage interest and charitable contributions.

Because of his support for home ownership and his leadership in bringing down inflation and interest rates, Congress Gramm has received the strong endorsement of the National Association of Home Builders political action committee and has widespread support from the Texas Association of Builders membership in his campaign for the U.S. Senate.

(The Texas Association of Builders does not officially endorse candidates. It is represented by three trustees at the national association level.)

 Children should not eat any treats until the treats have been properly checked and inspected by the child's parents.
 Any parent suspecting that a treat has been tampered with should bring that treat to the Sonora Police Department for inspection.
 Parents should practice the highest level of safety possible on Halloween.
 Parents should drive very carefully and be on guard for the small child that might dart out in front of their moving vehicle.
 Parents should provide plenty of lighting around their home and property. It would also be wise for one parent to remain home taking care of trick or treaters while the other takes their children trick or treating.
 Juvenile age children should be aware that some of their tricks are dangerous and might cause serious injuries to other people. These young people should not throw water balloons, eggs, or other projectiles at other persons or vehicles. It is against the law and a crime, besides being inconsiderate of your fellow citizens' health or property, just to have a couple of seconds of what one might classify as fun.

goals". It is obvious he feels secure in his district and just as obvious to this observer that he is right.
 During a brief discussion after the crowd had thinned out and he had his first opportunity to sit down, I asked him about some issues of concern to West Texas specifically. "The Wool Act will be re-authorized early next year" was his first reply.
 He further commented that The Simpson-Mazzoli Act is not the answer to the problem of illegal aliens. "These is no reason to change existing law" he said. The Border Patrol has already been strengthened with the addition of 768 agents along the Mexican border.

Four of these are now in Sutton County.
 In answer to a question about natural gas decontrol he responded, "That will depend on what happens November 6". He pointed out that the make-up of Congress would determine if progress can be made. He also said, "It is important that the industry get together". Lack of consensus among majors and independents has hampered past attempts.

Tom Loeffler came home and I am glad I was there to watch. I probably wouldn't have believed it if someone told me about it.

Did you know that every time you walk, whether to and from work or the supermarket, or almost anywhere else, you're getting great exercise? Experts say that walking is an excellent way to bring you better circulation, stamina and over-all good health. By incorporating a walk into your working day you'll be on the road to burning up those calories. How effective is it? Well, if you walk briskly... say about two miles in one hour... you'll burn up 90 calories. Wear comfortable shoes and start easy... perhaps at a distance of a half mile and back. Then slowly increase that level. Remember, walk briskly... and you'll be taking a big step to physical fitness.

WHO WANTS TO FIGHT THE TOUGH KID?

Did you notice as you were growing up that no one "picked" on the tough kid in the neighborhood? Why? - His superior physical strength combined with his willingness to use this advantage if necessary was a deterrent to anyone who might otherwise abuse him. He commanded a respect among his peers that created a peaceful coexistence.

The Republican Party of Texas, as resolved at the 1984 state convention, supports a national strategy of Peace through strength and encourages the Reagan Administration to continue to rebuild our deterrent capability.

CNN's continuous Election Night coverage begins at 5 p.m. (ET), live from the network's Atlanta headquarters. Two of the network's most experienced anchor teams, Don Farmer and Chris Curle and Bernard Shaw and Mary Alice Williams, will report voting returns and developments throughout the night and into the early morning as races are decided.

CNN political correspondents will be stationed at key locations around the country to obtain instant reaction to results and to report victories and concessions as they occur. CNN correspondents will be tracking President Reagan at the White House and Vice President Bush, Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro at their respective homes. Also, CNN will be live at the Democratic National Headquarters and the Republican National Headquarters in Washington, DC. From CNN's Washington bureau, Senior Correspondent Daniel Schorr and Political Analysts Rowland Evans and Robert Novak will observe the voting returns and offer their seasoned analysis of the how and why behind those returns.

Permian Basin Report

With Great Britain and Norway cutting the price of their crude oil, by $1.35 per barrel and $1.50 per barrel respectively, the major companies re-instating transportation charges and increasing their imports of finished products, there is good news and bad news on the domestic petroleum industry front.

The good news is, OPEC has called a meeting on this, but not until October the 29th. They do not appear overly concerned about these price cuts and probably have something worked out on how to handle them.

The bad news is, that we are continuing to close domestic refineries, as we gradually increase importing foreign finished products, including gasoline. We also get farther away from the estimated 227 billion dollars the Windfall Profits Excise Tax was supposed to bring in by 1987 and, thus, further and further away from the automatic elimination of said Windfall Profits Excise Tax.

Still makes no sense to set up an Energy Department costing over 12 billion dollars and whose primary function is making sure the WPET, which amounts to about 6 billion dollars, is paid.

The Permian Basin rig count for this week is 373 (high for the year). Last week 349 and one year ago 324.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,
Everyone's giving poor Walter Mondale advice. Democratic governors tell him he should let his hair down. Tip O'Neill says he should attack President Reagan harder. Geraldine Ferraro thinks he should step back and let her take center stage. Major newspapers' columns are offering a thousand viewpoints on what's wrong with Walter Mondale.

But all the advice in the world isn't going to give Mondale what he needs to win: Leadership.

For four years we have had a leader we could look up to with respect and pride. In those four years, he has restored us as a nation to one the world looks up to. Leadership—either you've got it, or you don't.

President Reagan's got it—Walter Mondale never will.
John Tedford

Dear Editor,
God forgive the Republican party for not knowing better. Why would anyone even think for one minute that Texas voters would send Phil Gramm, a born peanutpicker from Georgia, to Washington to represent Texas as our next U.S. Senator. Phil Gramm's voting record proves he is against social security, medicare, Medicaid, veterans' pensions and the farmers and ranchers of Texas.

From word go it has been the wishes of most Texan to team Lloyd Doggett and Lloyd Bentsen up as the "Lloyd's of Texas" working for our rights in Washington. Lloyd Doggett a born Texas has worked hard to protect the rights of our working class and our senior citizens. No man deserves our support more in November.

Lloyd Doggett and Lloyd Bentsen, the "Lloyd's of Texas" working for us in Washington. What more could any state ask for. Its the pick of the litter for Texas voters. In November vote for a Texas Lloyd Doggett for our next U.S. Senator for Texas.

Dear Editor,
As everyone realizes, election day is drawing near and those final decisions should be made before going to the polls.

Phil Gramm has shared a goal with the people of Texas—to regain control of runaway federal spending, to create jobs and opportunity for our people, to make America strong and secure.

I believe that the Reagan-Gramm economic program is working. Phil Gramm wrote the law that reduced spending, strengthened our National defense, and provided for the largest tax cut in American history.

I know that my vote will go to Phil Gramm November 6th.

New brucellosis law goes into effect Monday

Effective Nov. 5, heifers sold for breeding, grazing, dairying or feeding in non-quarantined feedlots will have to be vaccinated for brucellosis.

The new vaccination requirement recently adopted by the Texas Animal Health Commission applies to 113 counties in eastern, central and southern sections of the state that are in the Class C Area of the Brucellosis Control Program.

Brucellosis is a major disease of cattle that often results in abortions, points out Dr. Buddy Faries, veterinarian with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Heifers born since last Jan. 1 that are more than four months old must be vaccinated when they are sold for breeding, grazing, dairying or feeding in a non-quarantined feedlot," emphasizes Faries. "However, heifers need not be vaccinated if sold for slaughter or for feeding in a quarantined feedlot."

Producers can have heifers less than a year old vaccinated free of charge by a veterinarian or Texas Animal Health Commission official.

"Unvaccinated heifers older than a year are too old to be vaccinated and therefore can be sold only for slaughter or for feeding in a quarantined feedlot," adds Faries. "Producers need to keep that fact in mind since heifer calves born this spring will be a year old within a few months."

Producers with heifers to sell should make sure they are vaccinated and properly identified with a tattoo in the right ear, says the veterinarian. Since vaccinated heifers are worth more at the point of sale, vaccination for brucellosis should be a top priority item for cattlemen.

Lloyd Bentsen Reports

The world has been changed by the margin of a single vote.

King Charles I of England lost his head in 1649 by one vote.

Elizabeth II is Queen of England because some 250 years ago the British House of Commons voted in favor of the House of Hanover, 96-95.

The U.S. Senate agreed to annex Texas in 1845 by a one-vote margin.

In 1863, the Senate twice failed by a single vote to convict President Andrew Johnson in his impeachment trial.

On the subject of presidents, John F. Kennedy was elected President by less than one vote per precinct across the nation. One-half of one percent of the votes cast in Illinois and New Jersey swung 43 electoral votes to Kennedy. Had that tiny percentage of votes in those two states been reversed, it would have been enough to throw the election into the House of Representatives for a decision.

In the election of 1800, the House of Representatives by a single vote chose Thomas Jefferson as President over Aaron Burr, following a tie in the electoral college.

In 1942 John Quincy Adams gained the Presidency by one vote when his election was decided by the House of Representatives.

And in 1876, Rutherford B. Hayes was elected President over Samuel J. Tilden when a special Electoral Commission voted 8-7 in his favor.

But national elections aren't the only ones that can be decided by a single ballot. Your vote can be just as critical in local elections.

In 1963, for example, a candidate for city council in a suburb of Cincinnati was hospitalized for an emergency appendectomy before he could get to the polls.

He lost the race by one vote.

And when a member of Congress from California was seeking re-nomination, according to a story repeated often in Washington, he and his opponent each received 10,429 votes. Under California law, the contenders had to draw lots. The incumbent Congressman lost.

He sank into political oblivion because, the story goes, his secretary was too busy working at campaign headquarters to get to the polls on election day.

Make it a point to find the time on election day to get out and vote. Your choice will make a difference. It could make all the difference in the world.

WTU applies for rate hike

West Texas Utilities Co. residential customers are paying slightly less than the state average for their electricity this fall, according to surveys reported by the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

In September and October, WTU's standard residential rate for 1,000 kilowatt-hours was $74.74, while the state average was over $76, the PUC report shows. For 500 kilowatt-hours, WTU charged $41, while the state average was $41.41 in September and $40.25 in October. Average monthly usage for WTU residential customers was 1,020 Kwh in September 1983 and 701 Kwh in October 1983.

The survey included 19 utilities, among which were ten investor-owned companies. Highest rates in the state were those of El Paso Electric Co., which charged $98.37 for 1,000 Kwh. Lowest rates reported were by the Lower Colorado River Authority, which charged $53.09 for 1,000 Kwh.

WTU currently is awaiting the outcome of a rate case pending before the PUC. A settlement agreement presented to a PUC hearing examiner would raise WTU's base rates but lower the fuel cost recovery, resulting in only slight changes in the various rates now in effect. A final decision by the three PUC commissioners is expected in November.

Proposition 2 to save taxes

AUSTIN--Although it is not considered to be a true "taxpayer relief" amendment, Proposition 2 on the November 6 general election ballot will save taxpayers money while ensuring the future of higher education in Texas, according to Larry Temple, chairman of the Texas College Coordinating Board.

One of the main ways the proposal would save tax dollars is by broadening participation in the Permanent University Fund, a $2 billion endowment of the University of Texas and Texas A and M University. Those units of the UT and A and M systems presently outside the PUF would be brought under this bonding program by Proposition 2.

"Bringing all institutions of the UT and A and M systems under the PUF will save tax dollars because the PUF is supported by oil, gas and ranching leases on 2.1 million acres of public lands rather than taxes," Temple said. "Some of these institutions are fast-growing universities, such as UT-Arlington and UT-San Antonio, which will require increased tax dollars in the future if they are not brought under the endowment."

Proposition 2 also would establish a new constitutionally dedicated fund, the Education Assistance Fund, of $100 million per year for the 26 institutions outside the UT and Texas A&M Systems, he said. Instead of having to plead for tax funds before the Legislature every two years, these universities will be able to issue bonds on some of the EAF's revenues, allowing them to plan more efficiently for the future, he added.

"In the past eight years, tax fund expenditures for new construction and major repairs and rehabilitation alone have averaged $70 million per year," Temple said. "This does not include money needed for library books, laboratory equipment and computers."

Regarding the future, he said, the Senate Education Committee has estimated that costs for new construction, repairs and rehabilitation alone in the next 10 years from the current funding system would more than equal the $100 million automatic appropriation proposed by Proposition 2.

The actual allocation to individual institutions would be based on an equitable formula set by the Legislature or a designated agency and would be revised every 10 years, he said. Each participant would be allowed to pledge up to 50 percent of its 10-year allocation to the repayment of bonds.

"Limiting the amount that schools can pledge to bond support ensures that interim formula adjustments will be possible, which is a significant improvement over previous fund dedications," Temple said.

AHA recommends aerobic dancing

Millions of Americans have discovered that aerobic dance is an enjoyable way to get into shape. Because it combines rhythmic movements with simple dance steps that can improve and maintain cardiovascular fitness, the American Heart Association supports aerobic dance as a lifelong physical activity.

Any exercise program should provide enough pleasure and enjoyment so you will want to continue. Aerobic dance is gaining popularity because it emphasizes fun and fitness rather than skill or competition. Participation is not limited by age, sex or shape, so try it. Help your heart!

When combined with over-eating, lack of exercise may lead to excess weight, which is a contributing factor to the risk of developing heart disease. Aerobic exercise at least three times a week for 20 to 30 minutes each time, can help reduce that risk. Unfortunately, aerobic exercise alone cannot prevent or cure heart disease, especially if you have high blood pressure, a high cholesterol level or smoke cigarettes, which are the three major risk factors.

Before beginning an exercise program, see your doctor if you are not accustomed to regular exercise and are a male over 45 years old or a female over 50 years old. Also see your doctor first if you have heart trouble or high blood pressure, or suffer from pain, extreme breathlessness or dizziness.

Always warm up before each dancing session, and wear cushioned footwear that fits. Even the most enthusiastic exerciser is likely to be discouraged by aching feet and strained muscles. Comfortable clothing is recommended.

Anyone starting a program of aerobic dance, and especially one who has been sedentary, should not go "all out" from the beginning. After becoming accustomed to one level of exercise, progress to a more demanding level.

Aerobic dancing should not be considered just a fad—something to do for a few days, weeks or months and then forget. Like good eating habits, exercise is a lifetime commitment. When you stop exercising, the beneficial effects are lost rapidly.

Brucellosis vaccination regulation amended

Commissioners of the Texas Animal Health Commission amended a regulation October 12 relating to brucellosis vaccination in the Class C Area of Texas. It goes into effect November 5 and has two parts:

1. Heifers born after January 1,

1984 between 4 and 12 months of age which are acquired and used for breeding, grazing, dairying or confinement in a dry lot not under quarantine must be officially vaccinated.

2. Heifers born after January 1, 1984 which are over 12 months of age and unvaccinated may change ownership only after being spayed or consigned to a livestock market to be spayed or "S" branded prior to sale; or consigned direct to slaughter, quarantined feedlot or quarantined pasture.

"Commissioners adopted this in response to recommendations from the livestock industry made at recent hearings favoring an increase in vaccination for brucellosis control," Robert Bartlett, Canton, chairman, Texas Animal Health Commission, explained.

Producers need to be making plans for vaccination of eligible heifers now. State funds are available for free vaccinations. Producers should contact their own private veterinarian or their area Texas Animal Health Commission office for details.

The complete regulation is: "Heifers born after January 1, 1984 and between 4 and 12 months of age, which are acquired and used in grazing, breeding, dairying operations or confinement in a dry lot not under quarantine must be officially vaccinated. Females born after January 1, 1984 which have not been officially vaccinated and are over 12 months of age may change ownership only after being spayed; or, Consigned to a livestock market to be spayed or "S" branded prior to sale; or 2. Consigned direct to a slaughter establishment; or 3. Consigned direct to a quarantined feedlot or quarantined pasture."

Road Test

Can you make the grade taking this test about trucks?

Q. Which exerts more weight per square inch?

□ A loaded 18-wheel tractor-semi-trailer combination □ A 115-pound woman wearing high heel shoes

A. According to the Budd Company/American Trucking Association's Foundation, they both exert about 65 pounds pressure per square inch. The truck spreads its weight on some 53 square inches on each of its 18 wheels, while the lady with the heels concentrates the 65 pounds into one square inch at point of impact. This example illustrates the "spread the load" concept which governs truck weight regulation in the United States.

The Devil's River News

Your vote counts

BY TOM LOEFFLER

Both major political parties have held their nominating conventions. From those two conventions have come candidates and party platforms with different perspectives on virtually every issue facing our nation.

Now, in our participatory democracy, it is up to the American people. As Abraham Lincoln said, "It is not the qualified voters, but the qualified voters who choose to vote, that constitute the political power of the State."

The right to vote is the most powerful instrument available to a free people; the right to representative government was the driving force in the founding of our country; it is a right Americans have fought and died to preserve.

Some people believe that a single vote is unimportant. Yet, there are examples throughout our history that prove otherwise.

Our nation's destiny could have been changed by one vote as early as 1774. In that year the first Continental Congress considered a plan which would have transformed the American colonies into a British dominion with a governing body patterned after England's Parliament and a British Governor. After an impassioned speech by Patrick Henry against the measure, the plan was defeated by one vote.

Three of our Presidents were elected by a single vote. In 1800 Thomas Jefferson was elected President over Aaron Burr by one vote in the House of Representatives, following a tie in the electoral college. Twenty-four years later John Quincy Adams defeated Andrew Jackson by one vote, again in the House of Representatives and in 1876 Rutherford B. Hayes defeated Samuel Tilden by one electoral vote.

Five States were admitted to the Union by one vote—including our own State of Texas in 1845. In later years, California, Oregon, Idaho, and Washington were approved in the Senate by the same margin.

There have been many other occasions in our history decided by one vote. In 1868, the only President to be impeached by the House, Andrew Johnson, was tried by the Senate and would have been removed from office if found guilty. By a one-vote margin the Senate failed to reach the two-thirds majority needed to convict him.

In 1918, one vote in the Senate killed the League of Nations. In 1941, one vote in that same body saved the Draft Act 12 weeks before Pearl Harbor, thus maintaining the means by which our nation was able to mobilize.

Considering more recent history, if barely 9,000 people in Ohio and Hawaii had changed their vote in 1976, Gerald Ford would have defeated Jimmy Carter. In 1982, 52 contests for Governor and House and Senate were settled by 52 percent or less of the vote.

And earlier this year, in our own State of Texas, we saw a number of races decided by extremely narrow margins. A statewide Senate primary and runoff were decided by a couple of thousand votes out of a million cast. And one congressional runoff was decided by just 10 votes, out of more than 9,000 cast.

Each of us has the right, in this quadrennial celebration known as the presidential election, to speak up and be counted as to the direction in which we want our nation to go for the next four years.

Your vote, which is a precious right, DOES MATTER.

Loeffler Reports

BY TOM LOEFFLER

The American people must realize that if one armed nuclear ballistic missile is fired at our nation today, there is virtually no way of preventing that missile from hitting U.S. soil.

In his now famous "Star Wars" speech of 1983, President Reagan called for increased research and development of our strategic defenses in order to respond to the threat posed by the technological advances in space weaponry.

The concept has been formally named the Strategic Defense Initiative and has already received considerable attention by the Congress. There is no question in my mind that the United States must be prepared to defend itself against the evolving weaponry of the future.

Two strategic systems are being discussed as a means of strengthening our future deterrence. Research is already underway on one of them, an antisatellite device known as ASAT designed to destroy the enemy's military space stations or satellites.

In my judgment it is essential that we move forward expeditiously on this deterrent because, unlike the United States, the Soviets already have an ASAT ready for use and the implications are enormous. Satellites are an important part of our intelligence gathering, communications, and early warning systems. Indeed, 70 percent of all U.S. overseas military communications involve the use of satellites. At present, it is believed that the Soviet ASAT can reach about one-third of our satellites now in space but cannot reach the more important American early warning and computer systems that are orbiting 12,000 miles or higher.

In addition to the immediate implications, some say the ASAT is vital for the second system which could be developed under the President's Defense Initiative. Known as BMD, for ballistic missile defense, this system would be designed to safeguard the United States against any enemy's ballistic missile strike. The system, as outlined by the President, would consist of several layers—some in space; some stationed on the ground—to serve as a defensive shield, an umbrella of protection if you will. Through deployment of such a ballistic missile defense, it is felt that an enemy would be unlikely to use ballistic weapons if it is felt that an enemy would be unlikely to use ballistic weapons if it were anticipated that the strike would not succeed.

Former NASA Administrator James Fletcher recently headed a commission that studied the President's strategic defense initiative proposal. The commission concluded that although the technology does not currently exist to allow development of a sufficiently sophisticated weapons system to assure the umbrella of protection desired—such technology would become available within the next decade. For this reason, an informed decision on whether or not to deploy such a system must ultimately wait until the technology has been fully researched.

The initial research proposed by the President and approved by the Congress on the day before adjournment is an important first step. It is essential that we act now. Simply stated, if ballistic missiles can be destroyed, their value as a weapons system is diminished. Furthermore, enhanced strength aids in achieving our ultimate goal of eventual elimination of all nuclear weapons through negotiation.

Fandango planned

The Los Compadres Club met at the Commercial Restaurant for the monthly dinner meeting. Hosting the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Perez Jr.

The menu consisted of chicken fried steak, cream gravy, corn on the cob, refried beans, tea, rolls, and jello cake.

Final plans are completed for the Club's annual dance, "Fandango '84" which will be held Saturday, November 10 at the 4-H Club Barn. Music is by the Tony Faz Band from Del Rio.

They play a variety of dancing music, from country western to rock, and in-between.

Los Compadres Club has been holding this annual dance since 1976. The dance is by invitation only with each couple member inviting friends and relatives.

This year's theme is "A Night in Ole Sonora". The decorating committee consists of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Perez Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gonzalez.

A raffle is held during intermission. The two items will be donated by Mr. and Mrs. Marciano Hernandez and this event is headed by Mr. and Mrs. Julio Samaniego and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Perez Jr.

This year's guests of honor will be members of "Los Amigos Club".

Rates to be reduced

The Railroad Commission has temporarily approved natural gas contract changes sought by three pipeline companies which will reduce rates to Valero Transmission Co., United Texas Transmission Co., Intratex Gas Co., and Houston Pipe Line Co. and their customers by more than $4.9 million.

Since mid-September, the Commission has temporarily approved more than $17 million in gas rate reductions requested by pipeline companies.

The proposed rates must be studied further by the Commission before permanent approval. However, Chairman Mack Wallace and Commissioners Buddy Temple and James E. (Jim) Nugent approved the rates on a temporary basis during the study period because of the cost reductions to utility customers.

Valero, United Texas Transmission, Intratex, and Houston Pipe Line must pass the reduced gas costs directly to city gates and other customers using previously approved automatic adjustment clauses.

The largest contract change was submitted by Clajon Gas Co. reducing rates charged to Intratex Gas Co. from $3.80 per MMBtu (million British thermal units) to $3.40 per MMBtu (There are approximately one million Btus of energy in a thousand cubic feet of natural gas.) The annual savings to Intratex and its customers are estimated at $4 million.

Producer's Gas Co. submitted several gas contract changes for approval. The largest involves a rate reduction from $3.34 per MMBtu to $3.25 per MMBtu, for three contracts with Intratex Gas Co. The annual savings to Intratex and its customers are estimated at almost $753,000.

A change to another Producer's contract involves rates charged to United Texas Transmission Co. for surplus sales. Customer savings are estimated at $34,000.

Producer's also sought approval to reduce rates to Houston Pipe Line Co. from $3.34 per MMBtu to $3.25 per MMBtu in one contract, and from $3.72 to $3.25 per MMBtu in another. The annual savings to Houston Pipe Line customers are estimated at $114,000.

The last gas contract change temporarily approved by the Commission involved rates charged by Ferguson Crossing Pipe Line Co. to Valero Transmission Co. The rates will drop from $3.20 per MMBtu to $3.06 per MMBtu, giving Valero and its customers an annual savings of $22,100.

A&M recommends 25% family budget

It's very difficult to tell any family how much they should spend on food, clothing, shelter, transportation and other items, because all families are different, says family finance expert Nancy L. Granovsky.

But financial counselors at some of the non-profit consumer credit counseling services have developed a simple, easy to understand system called the 25 percent budget, says Granovsky, a home economist with the Texas A & M University Agricultural Extension Service.

To make this budget work, you divide your monthly take home pay into four equal parts. Assign 25 percent for housing, 25 percent for food, 25 percent for monthly loan payments and 25 percent for everything else, explains Granovsky.

Although using the 25 percent budget guidelines may not be helpful to every family, it does provide a benchmark, especially for those who are not budgeting at all and may be experiencing some financial difficulty, says the home economist.

Watch for visible fats and oils

Every time you butter a slice of bread or pour dressing on your salad, you're adding visible fat to your diet.

Visible fats and oils are those added to foods, either directly or as ingredients in meals, bakery products and other processed foods, says Texas A and M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist Mary K. Sweeten.

U.S. Department of Agriculture figures show that we get the largest share of visible fats—about 30 percent—from foods prepared at home, notes Sweeten. Ingredients in prepared baked goods account for another 7.4 percent; canned goods 6.8 percent; and frozen foods 6.3 percent of the visible fats and oils we consume. Potato chips add another 6 percent to the total.

Fats are a necessary and beneficial part of a balanced diet, says the nutritionist. But, making wise choices among the many margarines, oils, dressings and shortenings on the market can help consumers reduce their visible fat consumption and increase the ratio of polyunsaturated to saturated fats in their diet, she adds.

The following information can help consumers select among different forms of fats and oils:

Fats and oils that are solid at room temperature contain more saturated fat than those that are liquid. Liquid semi-soft fats and oils made from vegetable oils provide the lowest degree of saturated fats.

If your physician has restricted your cholesterol in take, reduce your consumption of shortenings and margarine that contain animal fats, such as lard.

Read the labels carefully to determine the oils used in production of margarine and shortening. Oils from a single source, labeled as 100 percent soybean, corn, safflower, or sunflower oils, have a higher ratio of polyunsaturated to saturated fatty acids. Products simply labeled "vegetable oil" or "vegetable margarine" can contain a combination of oils, including palm and coconut oils which are the prime vegetable sources of saturated fats.

Read the label on processed foods to determine the type of fats and oils used as ingredients. Many brands of cookies, crackers and baked goods contain lard, tallow or highly saturated vegetable fats.

Diet or imitation margarine contains about 60 percent fat compared to 80 percent for regular margarine. The calorie reduction is about 20 percent; 100 calories per tablespoon for regular margarine, versus 80 calories for imitation margarine. Water or nonfat dry milk is used in place of fat in these products.

Elderly may need supervision

Older people take a lot of pills. Although only 11 percent of the U.S. population is over 65, this group takes about 25 percent of all prescription drugs—and not always to good effect.

Used carefully and appropriately, drugs can improve the quality of life for the elderly, but they can also cause problems, says Dr. Judith Warren, a gerontologist with the Texas A and M University Agricultural Extension Service home economics program.

Some elderly people take incorrect medications, too much medication or a combination of drugs that are not compatible, she says. Then, if they suffer fatigue, confusion or depression, the symptoms may be written off as evidence of simply growing old. The problem may be compounded if the elderly patient's symptoms are inappropriately treated with a tranquilizer or antidepressant.

Drugs are a special problem for the elderly because certain body organs become more responsive to drugs as we age, notes Warren. In addition, as older people take more and more drugs, the likelihood of interactions and side effects increases along with the chances of making a mistake in dosage.

Warren suggests that family members, concerned friends or healthcare professionals consider the following steps to help protect the elderly from adverse drug effects:

Encourage a regular review of all medications taken by the Patient. Put everything from the medicine cabinet into a bag and take it into the doctor's office. Keeping drugs that were prescribed years ago can be a dangerous practice. Over-the-counter sleeping aids, diet pills or laxatives can also interact badly with the prescribed drugs, and prescriptions from more than one physician may have an adverse effect on each other.

Ask about uppers and downers. Ask the doctor whether mind-altering drugs are really needed and whether they should be taken regularly or just occasionally for a particular episode of insomnia or anxiety, for example. These drugs are too often prescribed for the elderly in an attempt to relieve the effects of life problems such as isolation and loneliness. Getting out of the house, making social contacts and other activities should be considered in place of drugs.

Manage pill-taking. Enter the list of drugs on a calendar and check off each dose as it is taken. Or use a set of small envelopes marked with the time of day.

Sometimes a visiting nurse or family member will need to allocate pills dose-by-dose to the envelopes to make sure that the patient is taking the appropriate amount. However, the presence of young children in the household may require a different pill management method for safety's sake.

Keep a drug schedule as straight-forward as possible. Work with the physician to eliminate drugs that are not strictly necessary and choose those that can be taken once or twice a day instead of more frequently. Selecting pills that look different from one another—as long as this does not affect the quality of treatment—can help the patient keep track.

Be alert for any new symptoms, especially nonspecific complaints such as fatigue, weight loss or confusion, that could be the adverse effect of a drug rather than a disease or simple aging.

Lloyd Bentsen Reports

BY LLOYD BENTSEN

Texas school districts from Dallas to Brownsville, and several points in between, have been hit hard by the costs of educating immigrant children.

Without a good educational background, these children cannot live up to their potential. Indeed, many will be barred from a whole host of employment opportunities.

A good education not only serves the interests of individual students but of their communities as well. A skilled workforce—able to compete for high paying jobs—is a magnet for industry.

I have long believed that the federal government should provide some relief to school districts that must educate large numbers of immigrant children.

After all, federal immigration policies—and policy failures—have resulted in a dramatic increase in the number of immigrants that cross our borders, both legally and illegally. In turn, the courts have ruled they must be provided with admission to the public schools.

Obviously it is impossible to estimate with any precision the number of illegal aliens in this country, but according to the best calculations of the Bureau of the Census, almost twice as many aliens entered this country illegally between 1975 and 1980 as did in the 15 previous years.

In Texas, our state education agency estimates that this year there are more than 43,000 immigrant children enrolled in public schools from El Paso to Houston and from Odessa to College Station.

The cost of educating immigrant children is heaviest for Texas school districts least able to afford it, those along our border with Mexico. Their tax bases have been devastated by drought, flood and Mexico's devaluations of the peso. They simply do not have the means to cope with swollen student rolls on top of all this.

In the past years, I twice persuaded the Senate to provide aid to school districts that have disproportionately large numbers of immigrant students. On both occasions the legislation failed to gain final Congressional approval.

This spring, I joined with other members of the Texas Delegation in successfully demanding that the Department of Education release $30 million in immigrant education aid that Congress finally approved, on a one-time basis, last year. Texas schools should receive $4.3 million this year, or 14.42 percent of the funds; second only to California.

Shortly after that, I introduced legislation to extend that aid for five years. I was able recently to persuade Senate members of the House-Senate conference committee to include a proposal similar to mine in an education bill.

This legislation authorizes $30 million in 1985 for emergency immigrant education aid, then $40 million a year through 1989. A school district must have enrolled at least 500 immigrant students, or five percent total enrollment, to qualify.

The fact is that federal immigration policies are having a harmful effect on many Texas schools. It is the responsibility of the federal government, then to help solve a problem it helped create.

Island Wilderness in the Angelina National Forest; and Indian Mounds wilderness in the Sabine National Forest.

"These areas represent a broad spectrum of East Texas ecosystems, from hardwood bottomland to upland pine forest, from a permanent spring pool where pioneer wagons once watered to the largest long-leaf pine tree in the nation," Bentsen said.

"Our state and nation are blessed with great natural beauty. It is a fragile resource and it is important that we set aside some of it for our children, and their children, to enjoy," Senator Bentsen said.

Legislation approved

The Senate approved legislation earlier this month by Senator Lloyd Bentsen, designating five locations in the national forests of East Texas as wilderness areas.

The Bentsen bill, adopted unanimously by the Senate, is similar to legislation approved earlier by the House of Representatives. The House is not expected to object to the minor changes made in the Senate bill. It is anticipated that the measure will be given final approval this week and sent to the White House for the President's signature.

"This legislation will set aside about 34,000 acres of federal land as components of the National Wilderness Preservation System, insuring that they will remain unspoiled for the enjoyment of future generations," Bentsen said during Senate consideration of his bill.

Bentsen fought for several years in the 1970's to help establish the Big Thicket National Preserve in East Texas.

"This legislation will extend permanent protection to five more unique and beautiful ecological areas of East Texas," he said.

"Almost all of these areas are now owned by the federal government as part of the national forest system. Under my bill, those tracts that are privately owned will be acquired, with the agreement of current owners, by an exchange of other national forestlands of comparable value."

The five areas to be established are Big Slough Wilderness in the Davy Crockett National Forest; Little Lake Creek Wilderness in the Sam Houston National Forest; Turkey Hill Wilderness and Upland

"Dollar for Doggett" fundraiser launched in Dallas

Homosexual political activists from big cities across Texas have launched a "Dollar for Doggett" fundraising drive to aid Lloyd Doggett, the Austin lawyer running for the U.S. Senate against U.S. Rep. Phil Gramm of College Station.

According to DIALOG, the Cut your firewood early

It's not too early to cut firewood for next winter.

Firewood cut now will be dry by the time cold weather rolls around, says a forestry specialist.

"It takes as much as a year for split and stacked firewood to reach an 'air dry' condition," points out Dr. Michael Walterscheid with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A and M University System. "This is when 20 percent of the wood's weight is water. However, four to six months storage will dry wood enough for use."

Walterscheid suggests stacking the wood off the ground, in an open area to allow air circulation. Covering the wood pile to keep off the rain will speed up the drying process.

"When cutting firewood, safety should be a primary consideration," emphasizes Walterscheid. "A chainsaw is probably the most dangerous piece of equipment most people ever handle. Chainsaws cause more than 30,000 accidents each year, mostly due to operator carelessness."

The specialist suggests a copy of the Extension Service publication, "Safe Chainsaw Operation."

"If buying firewood, be sure you know what you're getting," says Walterscheid. "First, ask if the wood is green or dry. Then, check on the amount and price. Firewood is often advertised for sale by the cord, but the seller usually means a 'face' cord."

A cord of wood is a stack four feet wide by four feet high and eight feet long, explains the specialist. A face cord is a stack four feet high and eight feet long, but the pieces are only 18 to 24 inches long. From the front, or "face", it looks like a cord, but is only one-third to one-half a cord. A pickup load of wood is generally equal to a face cord, adds Walterscheid.

Plan to cut or buy your firewood early, reminds the specialist, so that it will be ready to burn once the winter season sets in.

"newsletter of the Dallas Gay Alliance," the director of the Dallas Gay Political Caucus has "called on homosexuals across the state to send one dollar bill to Doggett's campaign headquarters" in Austin.

Dallas Gay Political Caucus Director Mike Richards said that "our goal is to show Sen. Doggett some support... we may as well give him as much help as possible."

He said that advertisements would be placed in the gay media encouraging gays to register to vote and to send $1 each to Doggett.

Homosexual activists are upset with Congressman Gramm because of his criticism of the all-male strip shows that were staged in San Antonio to raise money for the Doggett campaign in May and June. They also have attacked Congressman Gramm for his opposition to the Gay Rights Bill, which provides for affirmative action hiring of homosexuals.

Gramm, said the gay newsletter, had told reporters at a news conference in Austin that he would work against the Gay Rights Bill introduced by U.S. Sen. Paul Tsongas of Massachusetts and U.S. Rep. Ted Weiss of New York-in Congress.

"I'm comfortable running with Ronald Reagan on traditional values. Obviously, my opponent is comfortable running with Walter Mondale. His constituency is the same," Gramm concluded.

The "Dollar for Doggett" drive is part of the Dallas Gay Alliance's "Project '84" campaign.

YOUR RIGHTS ARE UNDER FIRE

The Republican Party of Texas believes that the Constitutional right of citizens to keep and bear arms must be preserved.

The Gun Control Act of 1968, which introduced mandatory registration of guns, has not reduced crimes involving guns.

The penalty paid by the criminal has always been and always will be the most effective way to control criminal use of guns.

The Republican Party of Texas, as resolved at the 1984 State Convention, opposes the federal, state and local registration of firearms and government efforts to impose further regulation affecting ownership. The government should not interfere with the constitutional right of citizens to keep and bear arms.

Capitol Update

The 98th Congress recessed on Oct. 12 after trudging along more than a week past its scheduled date of departure. During this time, only four out of 13 appropriation bills passed Congress.

Several times, Congress had to pass emergency legislation to keep the government running until an omnibus spending bill could be passed. Once, the deadline was allowed to elapse, the "non-essential" government functions shut down for a day. A spending bill finally passed on October 11-11 days late.

There is no excuse for the Congress to operate in such a sloppy and inefficient manner. Over more than 23 years in Washington, I have seen the Congress become more and more bogged down in its ever-growing multi-layered bureaucracy, and I believe it is time to do something to facilitate the process.

Currently, there are three steps involved in funding the government—the budget, authorization and appropriation overall spending ceilings for each broad category. For the most part, neither authorization bills can even be considered until this resolution is passed.

Authorization bills, the next step, determine needs and "authorize" spending for specific programs within such areas as defense, agriculture, public works, and so forth. These bills set spending ceilings, specify how money can and cannot be spent and outline the direction government should be taking in particular areas.

The final step in the funding process is appropriations. These bills give final approval to specific funding levels and must be passed before any funds can be dispersed.

When Congress has not passed appropriations legislation by the start of the fiscal year, a "continuing resolution" is required to allow the government to continue to spend money. This was the case during the last Congressional session.

There is much overlapping of duties in the budgetary process. Too often, the same issues are argued in three different committees in each house and come before each body three different times. I support several reform measures to streamline the process and allow Congress to complete its work in a timely fashion. The best means to do this would be to combine the appropriation and budget committees, along with the legislation they produce. This combined unit could perform the task of the Budget Committee, as well as appropriate money on items not requiring authorization.

Under this system, the authorization committees would authorize and appropriate money in the same bill. This would reduce duplication of efforts and allow more prompt action on spending legislation.

One of the consequences of Congress' spending all of its time on funding-related measures is that there is little time left for other important legislation. This results in members of Congress attaching non-funding "riders" to appropriation bills. This slows the funding process and is a haphazard way to address important issues.

I also favor a budget in which money is appropriated for two years at a time. Congress could spend its time with budget items the first year and consider non-budget items, such as crime legislation and financial regulation reforms, the second year.

These reforms would measurably improve the quality of legislation passed. It is time for Congress to act to solve the problems which have limited its effectiveness in recent years.

USDA explains "meat grades"

Many consumers buy USDA graded beef without knowing what the different grades labels really mean.

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) grades meat according to the number and size of flecks of fat found in the red meat portion of the cut, says Marilyn Haggard, a food and nutrition specialist with the Texas A and M University Agricultural Extension Service.

The more flecks of fat—or "marbling"—the higher the grade of meat, she explains.

"One reason why people become confused about the grading system is that they're used to thinking in terms of lean for determining the quality of ground beef," says

Haggard. But even in ground beef, a certain proportion of fat is needed or the taste drops off, she adds.

Each USDA beef grade is a distinct level of quality:

Prime grade beef has abundant marbling which enhances both flavor and juiciness. It's the most likely to be served in fine restaurants, and the most costly retail grade.

Choice grade beef has slightly less marbling than Prime, but is still of very high quality. Choice grade is produced in the greatest volume and widely sold on the retail market.

Good grade beef lacks some of the juiciness and flavor of higher grades because it has less marbling. Some stores sell this quality beef under a house name rather than the USDA grade name.

Standard grade beef has a high proportion of lean meat and little fat. Because it lacks marbling, this grade of beef will be somewhat dry unless prepared with moist heat.

A recently completed nationwide study funded by the Texas A and M Agricultural Experiment Station, USDA and some cattlemen's associations, showed that consumers can detect differences in the palatability of beef steak among USDA grades, even though the steaks were not identified by grade.

According to Dr. Robert Branson, director of the research study, the consumers' satisfaction with a steak increased as the grade increased, but 25 percent of the consumers in the study also rated leaner Choice grade beef as palatable and indicated they would buy it.

Some people may prefer this leaner meat since it cuts calories and fat in their diets, and food costs, suggests Haggard.

"Grow up," My Children

BY REV. JAMES STEPHEN
FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

"To what can I compare this generation? They are like children sitting in the marketplaces and calling out to others:

"We played the flute for you, and you did not dance; We sang a dirge, and you did not mourn." Matthew 11:16-17

How do you move people who have no emotion? What in the world does it take to satisfy you? The world today is in a morose mood. The spark of excitement is extinguished. The common by-word ever among children, who should be bright and happy, is "that's boring." Webster says "bore: a person or thing that wearies by prolixity or dullness."

The interesting question is wherein lies the prolixity or dullness? Why do we fail to see the brightness? Why are we neither happy or sad. Perhaps it has to do with the life we live...fast...on the edge...never look back. What ever it is it doesn't have to be that way. We need not go through life crying and never becoming excited about anything. True to life drama is all around us and the problem is our indifference to what is happening around us. We have been influenced to look for the bad news and expect the worse.

We are afraid to enjoy because someone's religion thinks it is a sin to be happy. We are also afraid to be sad because we have so little to be sad about. Attitude is the problem. We are satisfied with a life without ups and downs.

Everything is too much trouble. How do you get out of the trap. First we must realize that we are in the "trap". This is half of the problem. Then we must resolve to do something about it. Along about now we will realize that we need help. Turn to God who has always been here but will not thrust himself upon us. He is ready to put meaning and purpose into life for us.

He gives the roses their bloom and paints the sunsets. He gives the bird her song and the stream its chuckle. He puts the perfume in the honeysuckle and the dew on the lily. The secret is to turn out from our morose self to the excitement of God who loved us and gave His only son that we might live and laugh and cry.

"Grow up" my children, tell each other. Perhaps we all should, and be thrilled by the one who knows how to give life.

Queen to be crowned tonight

Every year before Halloween, Sonora High School sponsors a Halloween Carnival.

Each class gets together and nominates a candidate to run for Halloween Queen. This year Debbie Shannon will be representing the senior class, Carrie Craddock, junior class, Rebecca Glaze the sophomore class and Delma Chavez the freshman class. The Halloween Queen will be announced and crowned shortly before the spook parade on the tennis courts.

IN PAIN--Senior Ismael Sanchez gets assistance from assistant coach Primo Gonzales and trainers Oscar Gutierrez and Nellah Patel on the sidelines during the Junction game early in the season. Since that game Ismael has been sidelined because of a dislocated shoulder.

Shoulder injuries run in Sanchez family

Injury seems to run in the Sanchez family as far as football is concerned.

Ismael Sanchez, a senior at Sonora High School, has carried on the family tradition - he was injured in the Broncos' game with Junction earlier this year. Two of Ismael's brothers, Enrique, 23, and Fermin, 19, have had dislocated shoulders, which is the same injury Ismael sustained during that game on Sept. 14.

"If I were not injured, I would still want to be in there playing. Sometimes I feel like going in to play," Ismael said. But for now, Ismael travels with the team and stands on the sidelines, cheering his teammates on.

During the Junction game, Ismael suffered a dislocated shoulder. He was taken by ambulance from the football game to the hospital in Junction, where he was told he would have to see a specialist for analysis.

Ismael saw a specialist late last month in San Angelo. The specialist said that Ismael would have to have surgery sometime in the future.

Broncos play C-City Friday

The Sonora Broncos, coming off a convincing 35-6 win over Coahoma in District 7-AAA competition, play the Colorado City Wolves at 8 p.m. Friday night at Bronco Stadium.

Sonora faces a must-win situation against the highly-regarded Wolves. Both teams have one district loss. The Broncos and Wolves have both lost to defending district champion Ballinger, so the winner of the Sonora - C. City game will most likely go to the playoffs.

Escalante, Heffernan win

Sonora gets firsts in cross country meet

Ramirez placed third, fourth, fifth and sixth respectively. Alex Duenes and Alberto Luna placed eighth and ninth.

Gina won her event with a time of 12 minutes, six seconds. Gay Ann Dobbs, Mary Ann Rogers, Robbie Dickenson, and Leslie Webster placed third, fourth, fifth, and sixth respectively.

Meaning of Halloween

To most teenagers Halloween means the one night of the year when it is alright to have fun with out getting into trouble. Few know where the tradition began.

November 1, among the ancient Druids was the beginning of the new year and a festival of the sun god. They lighted fires in his honor. They believed that on October 31, the end of the old year, the lord of death gathered all the souls of the dead who had been condemned to enter the body of animals and decided what form they should take for the next year. They believed that the souls of the good entered the body of another human being at death.

It was also believed that cats had once been human beings and had been changed into that form as punishment for evil deeds. Thus is where the superstition of black cats originated.

It was once supposed that witches and ghosts were most likely to wander at Halloween. The belief in witches is very old.

In the past various methods of foretelling the future were taken very seriously. Marital prospects were sought by burning nuts in the coals in the fireplace. A girl would put three nuts in the coals, and name one for herself and the other two for her lovers. If one of the nuts burnt quietly beside that named for the girl it meant that the lover was true to her, but if the nuts separated there would be no happy relations between the girl and either of the lovers.

There are numerous cat superstitions connected with Halloween. If a cat sits quietly beside a person, that means peace and prosperity. If the cat rubs against one, that means good luck and greater good luck if the cat jumps into one's lap. If the cat yawns, that means an opportunity awaits that must not be neglected. And if a cat runs from one that means that the person has a secret which will be disclosed within a week.

Another superstition is that if one eats a crust of dry bread before going to bed on Halloween any wish one may have will come true.

Whether any of these superstitions is true has not been determined. But Halloween will always be surrounded with an air of mystery and suspense.

Band Clinic readies MBB for competition

Once again the Mighty Bronco Band held its band clinic. There was a change though. Instead of the usually four hours in the morning, the band held it in the evening. But still, everyone was present.

The clinician, Mr. Tom Rhodes from South Music Instruments in San Antonio, was there to help the band improve and perfect its show. Said band member Tammy Holguin, "I think everyone did their best that night and the show looked great. If everyone can work as hard as they did, then we'll do great!"

Rhodes said, "I enjoy coming and working with the students and band directors. I've worked with 25 to 30 bands, and I'd put Sonora at the top."

"I'm really amazed at the size of the band and also the mature quality. Particularly this year they are on top of things. The students were very responsive."

Rhodes continued, "Very few bands across Texas have the quality and size that the Mighty Bronco Band has. They showed excellent training from the band directors."

"They are a pleasure to work with every time I come to Sonora. The community should be very proud of the Sonora Mighty Bronco Band," he said.

Band makes a I at Brady contest

The Mighty Bronco Band traveled to the University Interscholastic Marching Contest in Brady Saturday, and won their ninth consecutive first division in marching. The efforts of most of the band members paid off as the announcer said, "Sonora II!"

Some of the happiness, however, faded when the band was told that it wouldn't go on to regional as they had hoped.

Nevertheless, the band did what it set out to do, and the members are looking forward to capturing another Sweepstakes in the spring!

Whitetail deer is valuable resource

The distinction of being North America's favorite big game animal belongs unquestionably to the whitetail deer (Odocoileus virginianus). There may be bigger game and more desirable trophy animals, but none approach the whitetail in terms of time and money spent in pursuit.

Whitetails have been of extreme importance since the beginning of human occupancy of America. American Indians, particularly in the eastern half of America, were particularly dependent upon deer since there were no other large mammals to provide food and skins. Deer were also an important factor in the folklore and religion of native tribesmen.

European settlement and exploration of the American frontier would have been extremely difficult without the whitetail deer. Early colonists utilized the meat and skins of these animals extensively. Deer hides served as a medium of exchange between trappers, frontier scouts, Indians and traders.

Indiscriminate slaughter by commercial meat and hide hunters and ignorance of the deer's habitat requirements almost caused its extermination near the end of the 19th century. It was reported that an early Texas trader operating in Indian country at Trading House Creek (near the present site of Waco) shipped approximately 75,000 deer skins from 1844 through 1853.

Near the turn of the century public concern over the drastic reduction in deer population prompted the Texas legislature to enact a series of protective measures. In 1881 a bill was passed which established a five-month closed season during which deer could not be hunted. A bag limit of six bucks per season was established in 1903 and was reduced to three bucks per season in 1907.

The first hunting licenses (5,000) were sold in 1909, and in 1919, six game wardens were hired. Six to patrol the entire state!

Increasing interest and protection by landowners, sportsmen and law enforcement personnel helped the deer populations to increase steadily through the 1930's and 1940's. Statewide trapping and restocking established herds in areas where they had been depleted and in areas which were previously uninhabited. Sales of hunting licenses increased dramatically—exceeding one million in 1972—and today provide a major source of funding for state operated wildlife projects of many kinds, benefiting all species of wildlife.

The whitetail deer is now the most numerous and widely distributed big game animal in Texas and the rest of the United States. Indeed there are probably more deer in the United States today than ever before in history.

Wildlife management techniques, landowner involvement, protectionary laws and reduction in predation and disease have been in major benefit to whitetails.

One disease control program, that was not designed with the deer in mind at all, has probably been of considerable benefit in reducing deer mortality, particularly of fawns. That is the screwworm eradication program under the direction of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. In this program sterile male screwworms were air-dropped over target areas in southern Texas and northern Mexico. Sterile males competed with wild males for mates and, since female flies mate only once in their lifetime, the severity of screwworm infestation was drastically reduced, and in some areas the flies have been eliminated. Many fawns died from screwworm infestation of the umbilical cord.

In most areas of Texas, the major problem with deer is not too few, but too many.

Overpopulation to the point of exceeding the carrying capacity of the habitat results in increased die-off particularly in time of stress, such as drought or severe winters. Long term reduction in carrying capacity of the habitat, deterioration in physical condition of the deer and inferior trophies result.

The size of deer varies considerably from one part of their range to another, with the largest whitetails in the northern states, particularly Michigan and Wisconsin. In Texas, the largest deer tend to come from the South Texas brush country. Deer from the Edwards Plateau region of Central Texas tend to be small.

Aesthetically and emotionally, the whitetail holds a place of distinction in the hearts and minds of many Texans. It is one of the most researched, observed, sought after, cussed and discussed of all wildlife species in Texas.

How to determine a deer's age

The age of a deer is of interest to both the land owner and the hunter. This interest is more than simple curiosity. Many things which measure deer quality and welfare are related to age.

On nearly all deer ranges in Texas, the food supply is the most critical element in the habitat. When deer numbers are not in balance with available food, inadequate nutrition is reflected in the herd by poor body condition, reduced reproductive efficiency and undesirable antler characteristics.

The massiveness of the antlers, rather than the number of points usually is related to age, but is more strongly influenced by nutrition. A well-fed yearling could be an eight-point buck, but a poorly fed seven year old could be a four-point. Large antlers at a early age reflect good food conditions.

The age of a deer cannot be determined by replacement of the front teeth as it can in sheep, goats and cattle, but age can be determined by replacement of, or wear on, the jaw teeth. As a deer grows older, certain portions of its teeth, particularly the crests on the jaw teeth next to the tongue, wear and expose increasing amounts of dark dentine. Description of most age classes is based on the relative amount of exposed dentine on the crests near the jaw.

Deer have only six jaw teeth, although they appear to have many more. The teeth are in two distinct categories--the premolars and the molars.

Deer are good in fractions because they are born around June or July and usually are examined during the fall hunting season.

Deer managers should keep accurate records on all deer harvested to determine the effects of practices such as brush control, livestock management and levels of deer harvest.

Without such records, any change in management cannot be evaluated accurately with respect to the impact on deer quality.

Records need not be elaborate. On males, antler characteristics can be measured using a small steel measuring tape.

These measurements should include the circumference of the antler at the base, above the burr, the inside spread of the widest point of the main beam measured on the outside of the antler from the base to tip, the number of points on each antler should be noted.

Body weights, usually from field dressed (internal organs removed) animals, should be kept. Also, the sex should be recorded.

General body conditions can be recorded as good, fair or poor based on predetermined criteria.

Finally, all animals should be aged. This will allow the deer manager to categorize the information by age and sex. The records then will show at a glance, for example, what the average weights and antler characteristics are for all bucks in any given age class. Even if some error is made in aging individual deer, the records will reflect the quality of the young growing deer, maturing animals that should be prime and older animals that may be declining in some quality characteristic. Such accuracy is sufficient for management purposes.

By maintaining these and other records (deer density figures, range condition, livestock stocking rate, etc.) the deer manager can best determine the results of herd management.

Sonoran-Big game hunter

J.W. Secrest of Sonora operates a taxidermy shop as well as being an employee of Prophet and Muskwa Outfitters Inc. in British Columbia, Canada.

Secrest spends about five months in Canada, from June 1 until October 25, hunting and being a hunting guide.

When he is not in Canada hunting, Secrest serves as a guide on local ranches and does taxidermy work for hunters in Sutton County as well as in surrounding areas, usually from November 1 throughout the local hunting season.

Secrest and his wife, Retha, are partners with Linda and Joe King in a tannery also. The taxidermy shop can mount the head of an animal while the tannery can make the skin into a rug, hanging decoration or "whatever".

Mr. and Mrs. Secrest moved to Sonora about seven years ago from Phoenix, Arizona where Secrest had been a police officer. He was medically retired and on a hunting trip to this area, discovered that there was not a taxidermy shop locally and that they liked the area, so the Secrest family moved.

Mrs. Secrest stated that most shops work on a two year basis in getting the finished product to the customer but that her husband almost always strives to get the product out the same year.

The Secrests have one son, Mike McBride who is a student in Sonora High School. Mrs. Secrest has been an employee of First National Bank of Sonora for five years.

Prophet and Muskwa River Outfitters Inc. is in an area located approximately 160 miles northwest of Ft. St. John in British Columbia and is accessible only by air. Most of the hunts are conducted on horseback and they have a string of animals bred and raised for that particular type of hunting.

The rivers and creeks in the area provide excellent fishing for those who want to take their gear, but fishing tackle is also provided in all camps for the convenience of the hunters.

Wildlife in the area include sheep, goat, moose, caribou, grizzly bear, black bear, elk, wolf, or wolverine.

No Trespassing-laws outlined

To help clarify the new trespass law, Section 30.05 of the Penal Code, here is an explanation since it applies mainly to hunting and fishing.

A person is trespassing if he enters or remains on property belonging to another without consent of, or when he has had notice that entry was forbidden or received notice to depart and has failed to do so. Entry means the intrusion of the entire body.

"Notice" means that:
1. a sign or signs have been posted on the property that indicate entry is forbidden.

2. If no signs are posted but a person in authority of that property tells them to leave.

3. if there are no signs and no oral exchange but that person crosses a fence designed to exclude intruders or to contain livestock.

Trespassing would be a Class "B" Misdemeanor, meaning:

1. a fine not to exceed $1000.

2. or jail sentence not to exceed 180 days.

3. or both of the above. If the person trespassing is carrying or in possession of a deadly weapon or firearm at the time he is on the property it becomes a Class "A" misdemeanor which means:

1. a fine not to exceed $2000.

Some counties one buck, other counties two bucks

This year there will be over 85 counties that will have a one buck limit. In order to enforce this limit, the Parks and Wildlife Department has come out with two different tags on this year's hunting license. One tag is good in only a two buck county; while the other is good in either a one or two buck county. If you are hunting in a two buck County and kill a buck, then you should use the two buck county only tag first. Then at a later date, if the hunter is invited to hunt in a one buck county, he will still have a valid tag.

A person hunting in a one buck county and kills a buck he may not kill a buck in another one buck county, because he does not have a valid one buck county tag left. Instead, this hunter must go to a two buck county to kill his second buck.

Tips for cooking venison

Now that your freezer is filled with venison and the hunt has ended, it is time to start thinking of ways to serve this meat.

In general, meat from deer may be cooked by the same methods as beef or lamb. Because the fat has been removed from the meat, additional fat may be added freely during cooking.

Some of the flavorings which are especially desirable with venison are worcestershire sauce, onion, garlic, mushrooms, and tomatoes.

Cooking venison to a rare stage is preferred to cooking to well done.

Do not soak cut pieces of game in water. Too much flavor is lost. Rinse quickly or wipe with a damp cloth. All game meat must be thoroughly chilled. A 24-28 hour stay in the refrigerator improves the flavor.

If in doubt about the age and tenderness of game, assume that it is not young. Use long slow cooking with moisture to assure that it is

Rains help deer crop

Due to the recent rains, the up-coming hunting season has a little brighter outlook. The rains have brought on the winter weeds and the acorns have started falling. These two factors have caused a big change in our deer's body conditions. So far the deer that I've seen killed during the archery season have been in real good shape.

The antler growth this year has been surprisingly good. Most of the bucks are carrying nice racks, with very few spikes being seen. The reason for so few spikes is that over the last three years the majority of the deer lost to the drought have been the younger deer.

The Parks & Wildlife biologists have completed their mobile and spotlight deer counts. The average for Sutton County is a deer to every 14.00 acres. A large percentage of these deer is fawns and with the recent rains they stand a better chance of making it through the winter.

The turkeys hatch this year was very low, but there should still be plenty for the hunters to go after. The one change in the hunting rules on turkeys is that hens will be legal to hunt.

This year Texas will have a statewide quail season that goes from November 3 to February 24. In all counties the bag limit is 12 quail per day and 36 in possession.

Over all this should be fair hunting season. It may also be a hunting season when the hunter does not see as many deer as in past years. The first reason is that we have lost a lot of deer in the past three years. The second reason is that with the recent rains and fewer livestock on the ranches, there is more food for the deer so they will not be moving around as much.

GUN SAFETY... IT'S UP TO YOU!

1. Watch your muzzle so the other fellow doesn't have to.

2. Don't rely on a gun's safety. Treat every gun as if it were loaded and ready to fire.

3. Never load or carry a loaded gun until you are ready to use it.

4. Always wear eye and hearing protection when shooting.

5. Don't shoot unless absolutely sure of your target and what is beyond it.

6. Keep guns and ammunition separate and in locked storage.

7. Know the range of your gun. Remember even a 22 rimfire can travel over 1 mile.

8. Never cross a fence, climb a tree or jump a ditch with a loaded gun.
