Defaced objects cost tax payers

At the time it seemed to be the fun thing to do. However, when you stop and consider the ramifications of your actions you will realize that defacing public property is not the fun thing to do.

Recently there has been a rash of activity of painting on the concrete walls of the highway drainage ditches and overpasses. Using names or initials is irresponsible enough, but to use obscenities is intolerable. These paintings are certainly not the type of impressions the people of Sonora would like to leave with those who travel through our city.

To remove or repair the defaced object is costly to the taxpayers of Texas through city, county and state taxes. It also means there is less money available for these governmental bodies to provide other essential

The State Department and Public Transportation (DHT) last year spent over three quarters of a million of your tax dollars repairing or replacing vandalism damage. These are dollars that should have been spent repairing pavement that was wearing out or building a new facility to serve the growing state. Vandalism is a crime and persons apprehended can be fined and/or imprisoned. Local law enforcement agencies have been contacted and asked to increase patrol activities in this area, but the DHT is also requesting that you act as a responsible citizen and prevent the acts from happening.

County Road Dept. finishes project

The Sutton County Road and Bridge Department has recently finished excavation and shaping of a 39 acre tract of land adjacent to the city limit near East

Poplar Street. The most immediate and primary purpose of the property is to provide a location for the expansion of the County Road and Bridge facilities. The efforts of the employees of the Road and Bridge Department have had several beneficial effects for the residents of the City of Sonora. According to E.L. Harrell County Road and Bridge Superintendant, the draw that passes through the property has been cleaned out and widened. This will greatly improve the ability of Lowry Draw to move heavy run-off on through the area.

Another immediate benefit to our community can be seen best from the Lowry Draw bridge over I-10. Harrell's project has greatly beautified the view that travelers have of Sonora at this point.

After the needs of the Road and Bridge Department are met, there should be over 25 acres of highly desireable and useful land for future needs.

This project has been in the planning stage by Harrell and the County Commissioner for some time. The spirit of cooperation and pride that had moved this project forward should continue to have beneficial effects for Sutton County and the City of Sonora for some time to come.

State indicts Odessan for theft of $68,000

State Comptroller Bob Bullock announced May 30 that an Odessa grand jury has returned the state's first criminal indictment for theft of sales tax money.

In a case that could set a new precedent dealing with willfully delinquent sales taxpayers, Ector County grand jurors indicted Bill G. Overton of Odessa for theft of $68,000. Overton allegedly collected a sales tax but did not send it to the State Comptroller.

'Let this case be a warning to any business person who might be tempted not to send sales tax they have collected to the state,' Bullock said.

Overton, who had never applied for or been granted a sales tax permit, operated a Odessa oilfield supply business. The alleged diversion of sales tax monies involved the use of altered invoices from Overton's firm and was discovered by a Comptroller auditor.

Bullock praised the grand jury's action saying, "If a merchant collects sales tax from his customers and fails to send it to the Treasury, he's stealing in the name of the state. He's stealing from his customers who pay the tax in good faith; he's stealing from his local government, which doesn't get its share and he's stealing from state government.

"It's also downright unfair to his competitors because it gives him an extra 5 and one-eighth percent profit margin over his competition and in today's business climate, that can make the difference between staying in business and going broke. With the help of local prosecutors, we're going to see this kind of theft prosecuted to the full limit of the law.'

Pearls should never be allowed to come in contact with acid as it will soil them. This means no spraying of perfume or hairspray while wearing them. With pearl rings, care when hand washing and in food preparation is necessary. Air is good for pearls, however. They should not be put away in sealed plastic bags or left in closed boxes in the dark for long periods of time. In fact, pearls actually improve with wear. Some people are "pearl healers" whose skin chemistry is beneficial to the appearance of the pearl. Others have such acidity in their systems that they harm the luster of their pearls by wearing them. They should wear pearls over their clothing.

At Tedfords, we have a wide variety of pearl jewelry: pearl strands in all the most popular lengths; pearl stud or pearl and diamond earrings; pearl rings in every price range; pearl and diamond pendants; and add-a-pearls for each successive occasion. Pearls should be part of a woman's basic wardrobe, as they never go out of style. Start yours today at Tedford Jewelry.

Hint: Purchasing a pearl necklace? Place a few side by side for comparison.

We Are Family

"And the word of the Lord came to me: 'Man, they are your brothers, your brothers and your kinsmen, this whole people of Israel..." Ezekiel 11:14-15 NEB

"In the beginning God created family. Through this gracious gift we all enter into life, find our identity, claim our heritage, and seek our mission as God's children. Of all institutions, the church, as the people of God, is preeminently the family in its various forms. Whatever in society threatens families threatens the church, most especially in its mission of bringing in the kingdom...

have a large family. The biblical family was also large because its boundaries included father, mother, children, brothers, sisters, grandparents, other kinsmen, servants, concubines, and sojourners.

The biblical model is also one in which the family functions as a religious community, preserving past traditions and passing them on through instruction and worship. The term 'family' at times knew a definition so broad as to include the whole people of Israel. In his relations with Israel, God himself is usually seen as a father leading his children, but is also pictured as a husband claiming his passion and tenderness.

Christians have from the beginning seen themselves as God's family, members of the household of God. In I Tim. 5:8, Christians are urged to demonstrate their faith by providing for their own families. And with imagery similar to Hosea's, Jesus is portrayed as the bridegroom coming to take the new Israel, the Church as his bride.

However, the shape of the family has been changing in a fairly dramatic fashion during the last half century. The patriarchal model is no longer a given in our society. The multitude of divorces has resulted in many children having one full-time home and one parttime home. Large families are no longer favored by most people. Indeed, many who do marry want no children. And in increasing numbers, North Americans are choosing not to marry at all. Today we may even wonder at times what a 'traditional' family looks like. Extended families, inclusive of more than parents and children under one roof, appear to be a vanishing breed. Now there families called into being through friendship and/or the experience of sharing the same work or work-

Whatever the shape of your family in 1985, let there be no doubt that as Christians, "WE ARE FAMILY". In Christ we share a unity and certain responsibilities which are no less real simply because our families may look or function differently than those of our ancestors 100 or 1000 years

I want very much through this article to affirm and otherwise give some very positive strokes to you and your family. For me this affirmation is offered regardless of the size or shape of your family. After all, God created family and saw that it was good. So even in 1985 we may with fresh enthusiasm say YES to family as the "gracious" gift through which we do enter into life, find our identity, claim our heritage, and seek our mission as God's children.'

Let us make another affirmation is day concerning family. Let u affirm family as the source and foundation stone of true religion. May family be reclaimed as the basic religious community, the center of religious instruction. With sensitiveness and faithfulness we may pass on Jesus Christ and His kingdom to our young. Let us affirm the responsibility of each family to be a faithful vehicle and living example of the teachings and experienced joys of our Christian

Tom Loeffler Reports

SAVE THE CHILDREN Our nation's attention has recently focused on an issue very close to our hearts and our homes-the troubling issue of missing children.

The crusade to locate and identify missing children was begun several years ago by John Walsh. the father of a missing child. The story of the disappearance of six year old Adam Walsh and his family's efforts to spur local and national action on the issue of missing children was depicted in a powerful NBC broadcast entitled, 'Adam."

The television broadcast dramatized the Missing Children's Act passed by the 97th Congress, which I supported. This legislation improved federal record-keeping to help parents and local authorities across the nation locate missing children.

Last year, the Congress passed laws which go even further to help combat the problem of missing and exploited children. Under the Omnibus Crime Control Act, a national toll-free hotline was established to collect confidential information from the public on abducted children. Since then, more than 10,000 calls have been received at the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children. The telephone number is 1-800-

There is still much to be done. The available statistics which were reported in a recent hearing before the House Committee on Education and Labor are sobering, indeed.

*Current whereabouts of an estimated 1.5 million Americans under the age of 18 are unknown. * Last year, 210,000 cases of missing children were reported.

*Every year, about 5,000 bodies of children under the age of 18 are buried without being identified. Clearly, we as a Nation must remain steadfast in our efforts to address the frightening problem.

All proceeds from the sale of the 50 percent interest in the West Texas pipeline will be retained by InterNorth. Upon consumation of the acquisition, Valero will receive $22,500,000 cash and a commitment which assures transportation volumes through the West Texas pipeline from 1986 through 1990.

The Congress is now considering legislation which would provide states with additional assistance to establish or expand clearinghouses to locate missing children. I have cosponsored this legislation and am hopeful that it will be acted upon quickly and affirmatively by the Congress. I believe very strongly that the states and local governments must play a key role in our efforts to locate and identify missing children.

Indeed, it is up to each of us as individuals and responsible members of the community to take an active role in the search for missing children. Through public awareness and prevention programs, we can make a difference in efforts to address this growing problem. One only has to look as far as the father of young Adam Walsh whose grief began a national compaign on missing children to see the difference one individual can make.

As a parent and as a legislator, I pledge my best efforts to protect our Nation's children who are, without question, our greatest natural resource.

Frontier Days at Old Fort Concho set for June 15

Saturday, June 15, Frontier Day at Old Fort Concho will be livelier than ever as the Wool Capitol of Texas hosts two unique sporting events: the THIRD TEXAS SHEEP SHEARING CONTEST and the new RIESTA DEL CONCHO SHEEP DOG TRIALS.

Both events are sponsored by Coca-Cola, KBIL Radio, and C& W Food Stores who are providing cash purses in excess of $600.00 and trophies for the winners of the competitions. Thanks to Holiday Inn the and 1984 winner of the SHEEP SHEARING contest, Gandy Haldago of Camp Wood, represented Texas in the Denver International Sheep Shearing Contest-where he placed 9th in 1984. Fame of the contest has spread. This year a team from New Zealand, including a member of the New Zealand Parliament, has registered to compete. At the SHEEP DOG TRIALS, border collies and their handlers will exhibit their skills as they maneuver sheep through the competitive course.

Sheep dogs have been used as

Whether you're a summer athlete or spectator, you'll probably reach for something cool and refreshing to relieve the heat and quench your thirst. But the best evay to get relief is not with any commerical product.

The American College of Sports Medicine (ACSM) recommends water as the thirst quencher. The body needs water during exercise, since water loss greater than 3 percent of your total body weight can result in decreased strength and endurance.

Here are some thirst-quenching suggestions from the ACSM:

*Drinks high in carbohydrates (like soft drinks) delay the rate at which fluids leaves the stomach, this increasing absorption time. If you do drink a sweet soda, fresh fruit juice or commercially prepared athletic tonic, the best thing to do is to dilute it with water.

*Drinks high in sodium actually increase the amount of water your body loses. Only under extreme circumstances, such as when your water loss during exercise equals six pounds or more, should you worry about replacing sodium and other nutrients. Even then, you should be sure to include adequate amounts of water.

*Alcohol may be a part of many summer sports activities, but it does nothing for quenching a real thirst. When it comes to restoring your body's water balance, an alcoholic drink does just the opposite. It's diuretic, so it increases the amount of water the kidneys excrete. Thus the more alcohol you drink, the more fluid you lose.

*Other substances in a beverage can affect the way the water is used. Caffeine, theobromine and theophylline, found in cola and tea also has a diuretic effect, increasing water loss.

What this all means is that water is still number one for quenching the thirst of athletes and spectators

11th annual ICA Convention to be held June 13-15

The Independent Cattleman's Association of Texas, a statewide organization of cattle producers and private landowners, will hold its 11th annual convention June 13-15 in Victoria, with this year's program being headed by a host of top elected officials and a nationally-syndicated columnist, ICA President Roy Wheeler has announc-

The convention theme is "Serving the Needs and Preserving the Rights of a Changing Rural Texas." It will examine the impact of the explosive population growth in Texas and the Sunbelt on rural counties and smaller metropolitan

"Out of 150 members of the Texas House of Representatives, 73 are elected from dis tricts which include all or part of the six largest metropolitan counties in Texas, as are 22 out of 31 state sentators," said Wheeler.
"Our speakers will examine the challenges, and opportunities of this urban population growth. It is an issue that could have far-reaching effects on Texas' rural hertiage and private property rights."

The main part of the program is scheduled for Friday, June 14, at the Victoria Community Center, with the annual Headliner's Luncheon being held at the Victoria Holiday Inn.

Former U.S. Congressman Kent Hance of Lubbock will lead off the Friday morning program.

The top-notch panel of elected officials on the morning program include: Rep. Robert Saunders of LaGrange, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee; Sen. John Traeger of Seguin, a 22-year veteran of the Texas Legislature and chairman of the Committee in Intergovernmental Relations; Rep. Jim D. Rudd of Brownfield, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee; Rep. Stan Schlueter of Killeen, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee; Sen. John Sharp of Victoria, a veteran of both the House and Senate and a member of the powerful Senate Finance Committee; Rep. Kenneth Armbrister, Victoria, a member of several important House committees, including Higher Education and Liquor Regulations; Rep. L.P. (Pete) Patterson of Brookston, a veteran legislator, farmer, rancher, and businessman and former county commissioner.

Also on the Friday morning program is Bill Powers, former vice-chairman of the Texas Agriculture Council, a 50-member con-federation of Texas farm and ranch groups. The speaker for the Headliner's Luncheon if Gene L.

Dunbar, vice-president and senior trust officer with the National Bank of Commerce in San Antonio.

The Friday afternoon program will be headed by Merle Ellis, author of the nationally-syndicated newspaper column, "The Butcher." Ellis, a professional butcher, writes on a number of subjects affecting the meat industry and the modern consumer.

"I think we have assembled one of the most exciting, ambitious and far-reaching programs ever for this year's convention," said Wheeler. "This is a meeting that should be of interest to every Texan who is concerned with the future of the rural counties of this state, and the growing concentra-tion of power in the Metropolitan #### estimated seven-fold. The major factor responsible for the grim refining and petro chemical outlook is a major new state-controlled refining capacity in the OPEC nations of the Middle East and Africa.

These refining and petrochemical projects are able to undercut any competition by using stateowned oil and gas. OPEC countries provide crude oil to their refineries at $2.50 a barrel or more below world prices. The cheap final products enter a world market already glutted by excess capacity.

The Amoco oil company has estimated that 20 percent of the world refining capacity-some 12 million barrels a day--is idle. Demand is expected to grow only 600,000 barrels a year. And by 1987, world petroleum demand is projected to be three million barrels a day below what it was back in 1979.

Yet, OPEC nations, with 5.1 million barrels of refining capacity already on line, are now adding a further 2.5 million barrels to their

Other nations have reacted to this market glut by limiting imports.

Japan, for example, permits no gasoline or middle distillate imports. Countries as diverse as Italy and Sweden have imposed quotas.

But the U.S. market remains almost wide open, with areas like Texas Gulf Coast paying the price.

The Senate Democratic Working Group on Trade Policy, of which I am chairman recently outlined a tough trade strategy for the U.S. Although this is a democratic effort, we have not taken a partisan approach in our recommendations, for we will need bipartisan support to translate them into a program of

The United States must develop a comprehensive, aggressive trade strategy, one that will stop unfair foregin competition in its tracks.
