School Board continues to cut expenses

BY CAROL JONES

The $400 bonus paid in the past to full-time hourly personnel of the Sonora Independent School District was discontinued after a unanimous vote from the school board Tuesday night, June 11.

The motion was made by Scott Shurley with a second by Julio Samaniego to cut the bonus, which has been paid during the month of December, due to the darkening financial picture resulting from the state cut in funding and the expected lowered tax base for the coming year.

Warren McCarron presented a rough preliminary draft of the 1985-86 district budget during the meeting Tuesday night. He briefly reviewed the projected receipts, expenditures, and co-curricular budgets.

It was noted that the co-curricular departments presented proposed budget with cuts of around 30 percent less than the 1984-85 budget had been effected down the line.

The board members indicated its desire to schedule two or three budget study sessions prior to the August 6 public hearing and the scheduled August 13 adoption date.

Superintendent James Bible reported several miscellaneous items for the information of the board, among them the fact that the State-mandated 30-minute free lunch period for teachers was causing problems on the elementary level but would be worked out.

He then made brief comments on the summer work program, the color code chart for the new high school, an attendance policy covering excessive absences which will be placed in the July agenda, and the setting of a fee for the drivers education program which will also be on the July agenda.

In closing Bible presented the board members with a release form to be executed by anyone using school facilities for any activities not directly sponsored by the district. He was advised by the board to have all persons, regardless of the activity, sign the release in order to protect the district.

Lolabeth Jones, director of food services, reported to the board at length on cuts she proposed to make in the food service budget for the coming year, commenting that three employment slots had been vacated by resignation and that the slots would not be filled.

Mrs. Jones concluded her report with the observation that perhaps it was time to increase lunch prices since they had remained the same for two years and the district budget was so tight for the foreseeable future. The board concurred and suggested that she work with a projected price increase for the 1985-86 school year.

The board felt that prices should be set at 90 cents for grades K-5, $1 for 6-12 grades and $1.50 for adult lunches in the cafeteria. This would amount to a 10 cent increase for student lunches and a 15 cent increase for adults.

Mrs. Jones will prepare a cost report on the junior high snack bar operation and costs there and in the cafeteria will be considered when formally setting the lunch prices at the July board meeting.

Valerie Tedford, representing the Sonora Community Arts Theatre, addressed the board on the subject of that organization using the high school auditorium for a nine-week period beginning June 24 and ending August 25 with the production of "The Sound of Music".

Following a brief discussion, the board approved the request with the stipulation that administration meet with representatives of the organization on a fair and equitable fee for using the facility which would help offset the cost of the air conditioning during the hot summer weeks.

Following executive session, the board voted to hire Jacquelyn Baker as elementary secretary to fill an

County accepts separate bids

BY CAROL JONES

A bid of $9,974.51 was accepted by the Sutton County Commissioners last Monday, June 10 for the chain link fencing at the county yard. The bid was submitted by Arturo Sanchez for 1469 feet of chain link fence at $6.79 per linear foot.

Robert Mata also submitted a bid for $8.20 per linear foot for 1469 feet.

Robert Mata was awarded the bid for 5000 feet of ranch fence at $1.28 per linear foot. Sanchez also bid on this at $1.45 per linear foot.

In other action, the commissioners voted unanimously to not allow the Sutton County Days Association to use the courthouse lawn for the annual celebration held in August of each year.

Joe David Ross with the Underground Water Conservation District committee reported to the commissioners that until an election could be held the county would still be the sponsor. Attorneys involved in the matter include Drew Durham, Al Elliott, and Mark Shurley.

Ross stated that temporarily he felt best for Durham to keep handling the legal matters. All commissioners were in agreement that the county would pay any bill for pre-clearance by Durham if it be submitted before the election to form the district. The county will receive reimbursement upon the formation of the proposed district.

The Commissioners voted unanimously to allow Judge Carla Fields to purchase a larger table for the meeting room in the annex building and to order more chairs plus benches for the hallway.

It was reported during the meeting that Houston Natural Gas has abandoned the idea to dispose salt water in this area.

The Commissioners also authorized Judge Fields to straighten out and maintain the law library. She will be responsible for getting a detailed inventory and marketing the furniture after the moves into the annex and the old building are completed.

opening vacated by the resignation of Linda Young, also voted upon Tuesday night.

Also the board voted to employ Mrs. Virginia Jones as the high school choir accompanist at a flat salary of $3000.

Mary Beth Morgan was employed as a teacher for the 1985-86 school year at the salary recommended by the superintendent. Her specific teaching assignment will be determined at a later date.

The board also unanimously authorized the transfer of Mary Ella McCarron from the junior high staff to the high school English department where she will teach sophomore English.

School officials attending the meeting were Carl H. Teaff, president; board members, Dr. Johnny Fields, Scott Shurley, Julio Samaniego Jr., and Sam Perez; Superintendent Bible; Joan Latta, school secretary; Warren McCarron; Mario Sotelo; Lolabeth Jones; Miguel Ramos; and Jack Asbill.

Hosting family needed

Guillermo de Duenas, age 16, is a Spanish teenager who hopes to spend the coming school year in America, living with an American family and attending an American high school. Even in Spain, his friends call him "Willy". He has a fine sense of humor, loves his parents, and enjoys school, his friends, sports and music. He plays tennis, swims and sails.

Willy has lived all of his life in Madrid, Spain, with his parents and younger sister. He speaks excellent English. He spent two summers with Host Families in England and Ireland, and looks forward to a year in America to perfect his English language skills. While here, he hopes to play tennis at school, plus learn his Host Family's hobbies. Willy doesn't smoke, and says of food, "I like everything!"

Willy's search for a suitable Host Family is sponsored by the American Institute For Foreign Study Scholarship Foundation. He is one of the hundreds of equally appealing, friendly English-speaking teenagers from all over the world, who are coming to America this fall to learn about our way of life.

Free brochures from the Foundation describe how easy it can be to become a Host Family to a visiting high school student like Willy. The brochures highlight the many educational benefits an intercultural exchange can provide.

"We hope more American families will take part in this exciting program," said Paul A. Cook, Executive Director of the AIFS Scholarship Foundation. "What better way can there be of learning about another part of the world? Host Families tell us how having a foreign student makes them want to get out and do more. And Host Families can earn up to $800 in scholarships for international educational travel for family members." Cook added.

For more information on how to become a Host Family for a student like Willy, call the American Institute For Foreign Study Scholarship Foundations at 800/243-4567 east of the Mississippi, 800/458-7100 west of the Mississippi, or 800/841-9028 in California.

Petty elected chairman state S&WC Board

Herman L. Petty of Mineral Wells was elected chairman of the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board by fellow members of the board at their recent regular May meeting in their Temple headquarters.

Petty has served on the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board, since May, 1981. He has also served as president of the Association of Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts. Petty represents State Zone Five which consists of 51 counties served by 36 soil and water conservation districts in the Central to North Central region of Texas.

The TSSWCB's chief responsibility is to coordinate the programs of Texas' 202 SCEC's. Unlike many state agencies and commissions whose policy making bodies are gubernatorial appointees, the TSSWCB consists of five elected members who must be landowners and actively engaged in farming or ranching.

Petty, a graduate of Texas A&M University, is a pecan and livestock producer.

Wills help insure proper distribution

Do you need a will? Everyone does, according to an economist with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service. A will insures that property is distributed to people selected by you rather than what is dictated by state law, said Wayne Hayenga of College Station.

State law will give 50 percent of community property to the children rather than the surviving spouse if there is no will, Hayenga told a group of about 80 women gathered for a three-day Farm and Ranch Business Management seminar for women landowners. The seminar drew a capacity crowd for the second year at the Holiday Inn North in San Antonio. Landowners came from Albuquerque, N.M.; Northboro, Mass.; and from all over the state of Texas. One participant lived in San Antonio but owned land in Indiana.

Another reason for drawing up a will, Hayenga said, is that even if property is classified as separate property, the surviving spouse would have the right to only 33 1/3 percent of the separate property.

A will also allows for the orderly and inexpensive settlement of personal affairs of the deceased, the economist said. Without a special provision in wills, or special attention by the executor, the transfer of an automobile to the surviving spouse would be taxable income, he said.

A basic will also allows for the payment of debts and expenses, the disposition of tangible personal property such as an automobile or jewelry, or other property; the selection of an executor without bond, the nomination of a guardian for minor children, and the selection of a trustee. In addition, a will implements tax planning, Hayenga said.

The economist stressed that the guardian is only nominated by a will, not selected by the person writing the will.

"Courts reserve the right to look over your shoulder and if the court doesn't like your decision, they can appoint someone else," Hayenga said.

"People change faster than legal documents change," he said, noting that the guardian who is nominated by the will may not be the best choice.

Finally, a will may stop possible disputes between family members, the economist said.

Hayenga also discussed leases, mineral estates, buying, selling, and trading land, the outlook for agricultural investments, income tax planning, and estate planning during the seminar.

Jehovah's Witnesses conference scheduled

Midland will experience a sudden temporary growth in population of some 4,500 come June. The reason? Midland is one of the 59 cities in the United States to host the conventions of Jehovah's Witnesses during the summer of 1985.

A total of 112 "Integrity Keepers" district conventions of the group will be held in the 59 cities selected. Stanley Weigel spokesman at their world headquarters in New York City, said the events are expected to attract over 1,100,000 delegates in all.

Frank R. Garig, convention manager for Midland, commented on the convention theme, "Integrity Keepers." "There has been a gradual diluting of strict Bible laws and principles for many years so that now many people do not know what to believe," he said.

"For example, The Bible says God hates a divorcing, but divorce rates have never been higher. It says flee from fornication but the world is fleeing toward fornication. God's law stated that those causing an abortion must forfeit their life for the life of the aborted child. Crimes such as robbery, murder and rape are all in violation of God's commandments," Garig stated.

"So those claiming to be Christians must rightly ask themselves if they are keeping integrity to God's stated will and commandments," he concluded.

The convention is scheduled for the Chaparral Center on June 20-23. About 4,500 delegates are expected from Texas and New Mexico.

Saving Water in Laundering

Much of our household water use takes place in the laundry room. While doing laundry is one of those "Necessities" of life, wasting water in the process is not.

Some suggestions for reducing the amount of water used for laundry:

Many washing machines use the same amount of water for a half-full load as for a full load. So loading your washer to its rated capacity is one of the best ways to save not only water, but also energy and time.

Most washing machines use 40-60 gallons more than the permanent press cycle. Selecting the appropriate cycle for the type of clothes you are washing can be a water saver.

Homemaker Update

by Gail Rucker

Newer washing machines have a variety of water-saving features such as setting the water level for different size loads.

Reducing the number of loads of laundry done can also conserve water. Encourage children to change into play clothes after school so that school clothes and play clothes can be worn several times between washings. Also make sure that clothes really need washing.

Items that need to be handwashed such as hosiery or lingerie, should be accumulated so that several things can be washed at once.

Finally, think about water use when you select new laundry equipment. Water-saving features, such as a choice of water levels should be considered in future purchase decisions.

Sesquicentennial planning begins

The Texas celebration is on its way. That's right—in 1986, Texas will celebrate 150 years of freedom and progress—a SESQUICENTENNIAL on a grand scale!

Several local citizens met Thursday, June 13 at the SCNB to plan and organize a local Sesquicentennial committee. They would like to hear from any individual or organization that has made plans for next year in conjunction with this great event.

Everyone that is interested in being involved is urged to contact the Sesquicentennial executive committee which includes Gail Rucker, Patricia Johnson, or Valerie Tedford or Edith James at the Chamber of Commerce.

Virtually any activity that involves cultural awareness or historical education will be appropriate. Already Texas communities are engaged in plans for oral history projects, roadside beautification projects and hundreds of others.

The activities that will be planned for the Sesquicentennial are up to the citizens of Sutton County and the "Sky's the Limit!"

One statewide event that will surely be of interest to the local citizens, a giant, Texas-sized wagon train; perhaps the largest ever, that will complete a 2,800-mile circuit within the state between January and July, 1986, and will be making one of its many stops in San Angelo March 17-18, 1986.

Make plans now to be part of the Sesquicentennial, a better excuse to "make things happen" will not come along for another half a century.

Jewels & Gems

by John Tedford

Many fashionable women, especially entertainers and other personalities, wear favorite pins that, in time, become established as their personal emblems. One such example is Mary Kay Ash, who founded Mary Kay Cosmetics in spite of advice from everyone that the venture could never succeed. She wears a diamond bee because, aerodynamically, the bee is not supposed to be able to fly—its body is too heavy for the wings to support. To her, the bee symbolizes "accomplishing the impossible."

Tedford Jewelry has the famous Rosenthal bee in diamonds or diamonds and pearls. Also, see the delicate 18 Karat gold hummingbird with ruby eyes. Whatever your personality, Rosenthal makes a pin that reflects it. Available only at Tedford Jewelry.

Hint: A pin pendant is a brooch equipped with a centered loop so that it can be worn on a chain.

Loeffler reports

In the State of the Union Address last January, President Reagan spoke stirring of America's heroes who "sooth our sorrow, heal our wounds, calm our fears and share our joys," reminding us what it truly means to be Americans.

That uniquely American spirit of commitment, compassion and "can do" attitude is nowhere more evident than in the story of Dr. Preston Darby of San Angelo.

Dr. Darby, an internist in private practice in San Angelo, recently traveled to Afghanistan—at his own risk and expense—as a member of the International Medical Corps to treat the casualties of Soviet aggression in Afghanistan. In performing his medical duties and establishing two medical clinics in the rebel-held areas, Dr. Darby traveled with forces led by the legendary Freedom Fighter, Commander Ahmed Shah Massoud.

After traveling with the freedom fighters for three months, Dr. Darby has returned to the United States to report on the conditions he witnessed in Afghanistan and to seek U.S. humanitarian and security assistance for the rebels. He visited me in my Washington office last week and related to me the appalling situation he witnessed during his travels with Massoud.

Afghanistan, the target of Soviet takeover since the 1979 invasion, is now threatened by famine and starvation, a direct result of the "scorched earth" tactics being employed by the Soviet invaders. Systematic starvation, by burning crops, destroying villages and livestock and wrecking century-old irrigation systems, is being carried out by the Soviets in order to disrupt the civilian population and force the rebels out of their strongholds.

Dr. Darby told me that the people of Afghanistan are in desperate need of basic medical supplies and attention, and that many are dying from whooping cough, measles and dysentery because there is no medicine available even to treat these and other basic diseases.

Joining with the U.S.-based Committee for a Free Afghanistan, Dr. Darby translated his concern into action. He traveled to Washington to relate to members of Congress and the Administration the desperate need for increased U.S. assistance to the people of Afghanistan. Current levels of U.S. aid are simply insufficient to meet the increased threat of Soviet "scorched earth" policies, Dr. Darby believes.

I support Dr. Darby's position on increased aid to Afghanistan, and commend his efforts on behalf of this noble cause of freedom. It is a trait and tradition uniquely American to see tragedies in far-away places—fighting in Beirut, starvation in Africa, oppression in countries under Communist rule—and respond, both individually and as a nation. It is that American spirit of compassion and the deeply-rooted belief that one individual can make a difference that has made our nation the leader of freedom-seeking peoples everywhere.

God Centered Heritage

By Pastor Louis Halford
1st Assembly of God

Today there are many people that are having to pay the price to serve God. God never told us it would be easy. As a matter of fact he was very clear in his teaching, "that the affliction of the righteous are many," and when Paul asked him to remove the thorn in his flesh; Christ told him "his grace was sufficient."

The pilgrims left their country to find a place of religious freedom. They were willing to pay the price to establish a place where they could worship without fear of the state and its laws. They determined they would take the King James Bible, and their families to a new country to worship God. They came to America in search of God, not gold.

The Bible became their sole scripture. The Church reigned as the central focus of society with the Bible as their authority.

America's real heritage is not found in our history books. The men who framed the constitution and the laws of our land were deeply rooted in the God fearing traditions of their forefathers! Therefore America has inherited a rich heritage.

History records that Christopher Columbus discovered America while searching for a trade route to the West Indies. Columbus' own records refute that teaching, "...for the execution of the journey to the Indies, I did not make use of intelligence, mathematics or maps. It is simply the fulfillment of what Isaiah has prophesied."

Columbus was convinced that God had sent him on a mission to carry the light of Christ into the darkness of the undiscovered heathen lands.

In the journal of Christopher Columbus, these words were penned, "Listen to me, O coastlands, and hearken your people from afar. The Lord called me from the womb, from the body of my mother. He names my name...I will give you as a light to the nations, that my salvation may reach to the end of the earth."

I pray that America will learn of their God given heritage. Many people do not understand the times we're living in, but if they'll read the book of Jeremiah and put America in the place of Israel,

God is looking for people to stand in the gap. God is looking for men and women willing to stand up with conviction and reclaim this land for America.

One person full of the Holy Ghost, and full of Jesus Christ can make the difference.

The story is told of the monk who became dissatisfied with his culture and decided to take action. For 700 years Rome has indulged itself in gladiatorial fighting. Coliseums would be packed with thousands of people screaming for blood.

These gladiators would click their heels together extend their right arm and pledge their lives to the death. 400 years after Christ's death this fighting continued.

One afternoon a young monk walked by the Coliseum and heard the shouts from the people. He ran into the coliseum and out into the arena floor and cried, "In the name of Jesus, Forebear..." Many times he repeated these words. One of the soldiers stepped over and hit the monk with the flat of his sword sending him sprawling across the arena floor. The crowd roared their approval. The monk, gasping for air, said, "In the name of Jesus, Forebear..."

The crowd cried for his blood. A soldier drew his sword and ran it through the monk. He fell to the floor with his blood spilling out on the ground.

While he was dying you could still hear him crying, "In the name of Jesus, Forebear..."

High up in the coliseum one man got up and slowly made his way to the exit. Within minutes the coliseum was completely empty. 700 years of gladiatorial fighting was stopped that day by one man who dared to make a difference!

We don't have to climb social ladders. We do not have to go along with the crowd. There is a world lost and dying and one person can make the difference.

We've got a rich heritage. Worship God so that you may be filled with "The Joy of the Lord!"

Lloyd Bentsen Reports Loeffler named vice chairman

Only 30 years ago, the risk of disability or death from childhood diseases was very high. Illnesses such as polio, measles, mumps, rubella, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough were considered an inevitable part of growing up.

Then in 1957, with the introduction of the Sabin polio vaccine, the federal government assumed increasing responsibility for immunizing our children against these diseases. Now, half of the 3.8 million children vaccinated each year are immunized through programs of the Center for Disease Control (CDD).

Appropriate administration of safe and effective vaccines continues to be one of the most cost effective ways to improve the quality of life in each and every community across the country. Tens of thousands of children are now alive and well who would have died if our modern vaccines had not been developed and distributed.

Since 1963, measles vaccinations have prevented more than 57 million cases of measles and 19,000 cases of resulting mental retardation, with 5,700 children's lives saved.

In the United States, we now ready is running dangerously low on supplies, with only a three-month reserve of MMR and polio vaccines, and no reserve of DPT vaccine.

I won bipartisan agreement from the Senate Republican leadership to provide adequate funding for the immunization program next year. They agree with me that it would be better to cut other items in the federal budget to make room for this important, cost-effective program.

Under my proposal, the CDC would receive an additional $21 million to maintain the present level of immunization services, to stockpile some vaccines, and to begin immunizations with a new vaccine against bacterial meningitis.

The new H. flu vaccine, recently approved by the Food and Drug Administration, will prevent the most common cause of bacterial meningitis, something that is especially important for children attending day care and pre-school programs.

Our immunization program provides vital protection to the most precious resource this country can claim--our very future--our children.

While saving our children untold suffering, the immunization program has also saved us money.

Take the case of rubella, which can cause birth defects when contracted by pregnant women. From the last outbreak of rubella--prior to the development of vaccine--we have 30,000 children who will require $2 billion in special care during their lifetimes.

The CDC places the benefit-cost ratio of the measles-rubella vaccine at 23 to 1, and the polio vaccine at 10 to 1. That translates into a savings of some $1 billion a year for polio and $500 million a year for measles.

When the Administration proposed cutting funds for the immunization program in 1983, I fought that measure and won.

In the 1986 budget, the Administration wanted to freeze immunization funds at 1985 levels. Yet in the past year alone, the cost of measles-mumps-rubella vaccine has jumped 27 percent. Polio vaccine and diphtheria-petussis (whooping cough)-tetanus vaccine have each gone up to ten percent in cost. The Center al-

Congressman Tom Loeffler (R-Hunt) has been named vice chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee. Representative Guy Vander Jagt, Chairman of the NRCC, made the announcement Tuesday at a meeting of the full NRCC in Washington. "I am delighted to have been appointed to serve as Vice Chairman of the NRCC for the Sunbelt Region, which is one of the most promising areas in the country for the Republican Party," Loeffler said. "The Sunbelt is the key to making the Republican Party the majority party in the United States."

Loeffler, a fourth-term Congressman and Chief

Deputy Whip of the Republican Party in the House of Representatives, will play a key role in determining the strategy of the NRCC during the 1986 Congressional elections. He will also be responsible for heading up a team of seven Republican Congressmen who will focus on assisting Republican House campaigns in the Sunbelt region.

Bobbitt elected to council

U.S. House Majority Leader Jim Wright recently announced the appointment of O.P. (Bob) Bobbitt of Austin to the Federal Council on Aging.

Wright said the formal appointment was made by House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill on Wright's strong personal recommendation.

"Bob Bobbitt is precisely the type of person we need on this important council," Wright said. "He comes with superb credentials--including the enthusiastic endorsement of my friend Bob Gibbons of Fort Worth, chairman of the Texas Board on Aging."

Bobbitt is executive director of the Texas Department on Aging, whose work is directed by Gibbons' board.

Wright said the major functions of the 15-member Federal Council on Aging are to review and evaluate Federal policies regarding older Americans and make recommendations to the President, Congress, and the Administration on Aging.

"Texas has the fifth largest and most diverse population of older persons in the U.S. at 2.2 million. "In his role as director of the Texas Department on Aging, Mr. Bobbitt has already developed a great deal of knowledge of the problems of older Texans," Wright said.

"With the administration pushing for even more funding cuts and freezes in the areas of Medicare, Medicaid, Social Security, and the Older Americans Act, we need a strong advocate for the elderly in Washington," Wright said.

"I'm deeply honored to be appointed to the council," Bobbitt said. "This is a challenging time in the history of our nation's commitment to older persons. I have learned rather quickly that being older does not always mean

'golden years'. I look forward to representing all older Americans. I firmly believe that no American should live in fear of being old."

Bobbitt will serve on the council for a period of three years, and continue his position with the Texas Department of Aging.

It wasn't until 1830 that Americans were able to buy individually wrapped cakes of uniformly sized soap. Until then, soap had been sold in large blocks to grocers, who cut pieces to order.

Fredericksburg hosts Country Peddler Show

Months of planning and preparation come to an exciting climax this weekend as the First Annual Fredericksburg, Texas Country Peddler Show and Sale arrives at the Gillespie County Fairgrounds in Fredericksburg.

The Country Peddler Show is a gathering of the country's top folk artists and craftsmen, demonstrating their handcrafted wares and offering them for sale to the public for home decorating and collecting.

"It is difficult to describe what you will be seeing," says co-organizer Robbin Ely. "We like to call these items 'heirlooms of the future.'"

The reaction of visitors is easier to describe. "People always tell me they are so wonderfully elated," says Ely. "Visitors say it's even more than they expected." The show offers a way for the home decorator to complete the country look that is so popular.

Samples of folk art available include pottery from Illinois, dolls from Michigan, stenciling from Ohio, wood carvings from Texas and numerous crafts offered by over 80 exhibitors.

In addition visitors will be treated to featured speaker Gail Hurn, who has studied the life of the Amish and their quilting. She will share her discoveries and show samples of Amish quilting Saturday and Sunday at 1 p.m.

Special guests are editors Rachel Newman and Nina Williams of Country Living Magazine. They plan to be available to meet the public and answer questions both days.

This is the third year of nationwide shows put on by American Memories Inc., and the first such event in Fredericksburg. Fredericksburg is host to one of only 10 Country Peddler Shows held in the United States this year, and the only one in this part of the country.

The Country Peddler Show and Sale will run Saturday, June 22 from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Sunday, June 23 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.. A special preview is scheduled Friday evening, June 21 from 6 to 9 p.m.

All activities will take place at the Gillespie County Fairgrounds just south of Fredericksburg on Highway 16.

Admission each day is $3 for adults and $1.50 for children.

Examination

dates set

The pre-entrance examination for persons wishing to enter the September vocational nursing class at Texas State Technical Institute in Sweetwater is set for June 27 and July 18.

Applicants may take the test on either day, according to LaVohn McGlothing, nursing program chairperson.

The vocational nursing program at TSTI is one year long and is fully sanctioned by the Texas Board of Vocational Nurse Examiners. Graduates of the program are eligible to take the licensing examination given in October and April of each year.

Admission to the program is based to a great degree on test scores and a personal interview, McGlothing said. The Differential Aptitude Test is required for all entering students, she said. This free test is given every weekday at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. in the TSTI Student Center. Other tests may be required at the program chairperson's request.

The cost of the nursing exam is $15, payable by check or money order. No cash will be accepted. The exam begins at 9 a.m. in room 212 of the D.A. Pevehouse Technology Center and no advance registration is required.

For further information, contact the Vocational Nursing Department or the Public Information Office at TSTI-Sweetwater. The toll free number is 1-800-592-TSTI.

Control of fire ants is no easy task

As many as 2.5 million people will be stung by fire ants each month during the summer according to an article in Postgraduate Medicine by allergist Dr. Barry R. Paull of Texas A&M University's College of Medicine. Most of them will have a normal reaction to the fire ant bite: an intense burning sensation followed by the formation of blister-like pustules. The pustules take several days to heal, are extremely itchy and easily infected. They often require medical attention.

Approximately 400,000 of those bitten will develop more severe reactions such as swollen faces and altered pulse rates. More than 15,000 will have a strong allergic reaction, characterized by shock, dropping blood pressure and loss of consciousness. A few may die. Fire ant related deaths, while rare, have been reported in almost every state infested by the small, nasty, reddish brown insects. The carnivorous fire ants are tiny but aggressive. If a mound is disturbed, the entire colony will attack. A mature colony can contain up to 250,000 ants. Each ant is capable of stinging more than once. Stories of young farm animals being killed after disturbing a mound are commonplace. The imported fire ant, Solenopsis invicta—literally the Invincible Ant, was accidentally carried from South America to this country about 50 years ago. Nobody is quite sure how. Originally found only in Mobile, Alabama, fire ants now infest over 260 million acres in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Texas. According to Dr. Clifford Lofgren of the United States Department of Agriculture Animal Research Service in Gainesville, Florida, it is just a matter of time until the "invincible" fire ant leapfrogs the arid Southwest and extends its dominion to California and the Pacific Northwest.

Government supported programs to control the fire ant have been drastically reduced in most states, and eliminated in others. That means that individual homeowners, farmers, merchants and local government officials will bear the brunt of ridding yards, fields, recreation areas and even sidewalks of the pest. Fire ants are not restricted to rural areas. In urban and residential areas, fire ants have been known to nest in sidewalk crack, under porches and in other places where they cannot be readily seen or easily avoided.

Getting rid of fire ants is no easy task because they reproduce so rapidly. A queen ant can produce over 200 eggs a day and between five and six million offspring in a lifetime. Each fire ant mound is capable of producing four to five thousand new queens each year. That averages out to about 1,000 queens per acre and puts the United States fire ant population in the trillions.

There are two ways to control fire ants: baits and drenches. According to Dr. Lofgren, baits provide more lasting results. Drenches, such as boiling water and some pesticides, are applied to the surface of the mound. They are effective in reducing fire ant numbers but rarely reach the queen.

Baits are chemically treated food which is carried by the worker ant to the queen who devours and dies. With the queen dead, new ants are produced and the colony dies.

Israeli experts provide new solution

Texans have always considered themselves problem-solvers, and we at the Texas General Land Office are no exception. In our efforts to seek our new solutions to old problems, we have asked a team of Israeli experts to begin the second phase of a study to see if Israeli farming techniques can be used in arid West Texas. If successful, the study would pave the way for new technology to be used to make the state's dry Trans-Pecos lands more productive. The first phase of the project, begun last year at a cost of $16,000, found two tracts—one near El Paso and the other in Reeves County—that might be used for experimental farms. These tracts were chosen for their suitability to show how brackish (salty) water can be used for irrigation.

During the second phase of the project at an estimated cost of $90,000, up to six Israeli engineers will be in Texas for six weeks to plan how the project can be made to work. After the on-site study, the Israeli team will return to Israel to complete a blueprint for the project.

Sesquicentennial information computerized

Computer buffs, memorize this number: 512-475-8384. SAM is waiting for your call! Now, anyone with a home computer can have access to the most up-to-date news about Sesquicentennial Commission's data processing staff and has been on line for several weeks.

Any home or business computer equipped with a modem and a communications software program can call SAM. A modem is a device that allows one computer to place a telephone call to another, and actually access the call computer's information. SAM is on line Monday through Friday evenings from 5 p.m. to 8 a.m. and 24 hours on weekend.

Callers will be allowed to read information from a number of categories, including historical tidbits, Sesquicentennial news from each of the four state regions, news of statewide Sesquicentennial events, excerpts from the Sesquicentennial Commission's monthly newsletters, and items that will appear in the Official Sesquicentennial Guide to Events later in 1985. A message base will also be available for callers to leave messages to the Sesquicentennial staff.

"Out of some fifty electronic bulletin board systems here in Austin, SAM is one of only four or five that serve a specialized purpose. In a way, we're really breaking new ground here," said Ann Thornton, designer of SAM and data processing assistant at the Sesquicentennial Commission. "SAM will undoubtedly prove to be a vital resource in the spreading of the Sesquicentennial word across the country," said Lynn Lumpkin, ADP Systems Coordinator. "The information is instantly available, with no mail delays." For more information about SAM, contact Ms. Lumpkin at P.O. Box 1986, Austin, Texas 78767, Phone 512/475-1986.

Their report will give detailed information on such practices as drip irrigation and on crops such as pecans, almonds, pistachios and certain salt-tolerant vegetables. The project goal is to produce a new crop that will not compete with Texas crops that are already in oversupply. The more revenue we can raise through innovative land management, the less Texas taxpayers will have to worry about tax increases. We're hoping we can make an investment in the future of West Texas by exploring this technology.

The technology to farm these arid lands was developed first in Texas at our universities—Texas A&M, Sul Ross University, Texas Tech University and the University of Texas. However, the Israelis have perfected the technology by necessity and will be working with our universities to perfect it for Texas.

Coal production increased in 1984

Coal production by surface mining in Texas increased by approximately 3.6 percent in 1984, according to Railroad Commission Chairman Buddy Temple.

Last year the state produced 41,283,698 tons of coal, compared to 38,925,397 tons in 1983. Lignite accounted for almost all of the state's production.

Panola County reported the highest production total, with 11,524,714 tons of coal in 1984. Titus County ranked second, with 9,468,620 tons.

Production totals for other counties in 1984 were: Freestone, 5,879,462 tons; Milam, 5,125,628 tons; Grimes, 3,067,787 tons; Atascosa, 2,809,894 tons; Hopkins, 2,328,000 tons; Harrison, 665,228 tons; Webb, 337,912 tons; Coleman, 24,483 tons; and Bastrop, 11,970 tons.

Through its Surface Mining and Reclamation Division, the Railroad Commission regulates surface mining for coal, uranium, and iron ore in the state and ensures the proper reclamation of land after mining operations are completed.
