Annual Lions Auction to mark fifty years

When something has been happening for fifty years, it must be because it's always been well received, at least that seems to be the case with the annual Lions Club Auction.

When Lem Jones of Harper steps to center stage at the 4-H complex on Tuesday, September 20 it will mark the 50th year of the Auction. Incidentally it will also mark about the 40th year that Jones has been the auctioneer for the event.

Untold thousands of dollars have been raised through the years, most of which the Lions have put back into the community in needed areas.

financial support to the Concho Valley Home for Girls, Boys Ranch, Texas Re-Hab, Crippled Children's Camp but it's here at home where they are called upon

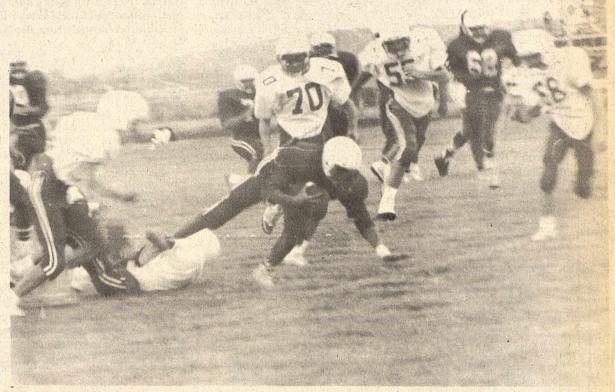

The Lions are called upon when an underprivileged child or elderly person needs an eye exam or eyeglasses. The Lions help with Scouting and 4-H, they help with the annual Game Dinner, the Sonora Speech Meet, Little League baseball, and the Sutton County

The projects the Lions assist

The Sonora Lions add their with are made possible by the generosity of people like you who help with the auction by acting as donor and as buyer.

This year the Lions need a little extra help from each of us. The economy of the past several years has made an impact on the amounts of monies raised at the auction and during this same time, the needs in the community have risen.

Come join the Lions September 20, eat a good meal, enjoy the fun and help them help Sonora. Let's all work to make the 50th Lions Auction something special!

about deer leasing," Polocek said. "This booklet is an excellent guide for people to use to avoid misunderstanding about what to expect from a deer lease.

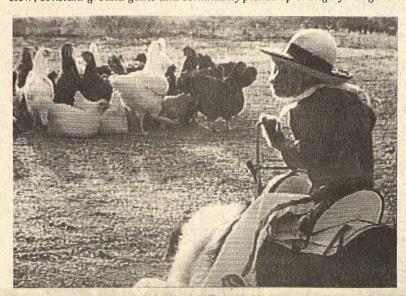

Written by Judon Fambrough, an attorney and senior lecturer with the Real Estate Center, the booklet guides both the hunter and the landowner through issues they should consider before entering into a lease agreement. He discusses 21 items that can be part of a deer lease agreement including density of hunters, order deer are taken, use of blinds and feeders, and methods of resolving disputes.

Fambrough also discusses hunter safety and addresses questions about the landowner's liability and offers options for both parties.

WHIPLASH and his crusty steed, FLECK.

Whiplash wings it to stardom by now you have seen the "Chicken Stampede", a 30-second spot created for Dairy Queen by Mc-Stay/Regian, Inc., an advertising agency of Fort Worth.

The concept behind the spot is a lighthearted update of the legendary Texas cattle drive and a continuation of the "This is DQ Country" theme.

How did the commercial come into being? During a concept meeting the questions arose: What if history had been a little different?, What if there had been leghorn chicken drives instead of Longhorn cattle drives?, And what size cowboy would you need to punch poultry?

The answer was a little cowpoke named Whiplash, who has been monkeying around at the Fort Worth Stock Show Rodeo for years where he rushes out of the chute on his sheepdog, Fleck, to corral

If you watch any television at all trainer Tommy Lucia of Weatherford was, "Could Whiplash and Fleck be trained to herd chickens?" Lucia's answer was, "I reckon so."

> Undaunted by the skittishness of their subjects, Lucia, producer/director M.L. Nelson, and the production crew worked from scratch and got the job done without ruffling too many feathers.

> The spots open with Whiplash riding Fleck over a rise, with the sounds of hoofbeats and the William Tell Overture underneath. Announcer Bob Phillips, star of TV's Texas Country Reporter, cries, "It's time for the DQ Country Chicken Roundup!"

> Phillips invites folks to "round up the family and bring 'em to Dairy Queen." Whiplash, tall in the saddle in his outfit complete with hat and white chaps responds with a "Yo!"

All involved with the making of the commercial have a lot to crow The next question asked by about. The clever, well executed Regian of world renowned animal idea plays well on home sets.

Fawcett named area chairman

Randee Fawcett of Sonora has been appointed area chairman for the Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children, according to James Alexander, CRCC general chairman.

This Sutton County supporter is among 230 statewide chairmen assisting the CRCC fundraiser which benefits West Texas Rehabilitation Center in Abilene and San Angelo.

Aubrey Stokes of San Angelo is a co-chairman of this 29th annual event which is anticipated to raise $275,00 this fall. Midwest Feedyards in San Angelo will serve as a regional collection point. "The agricultural community has always practiced the philosophy of neighbor-helping neighbor, and the Cattlemen's Round-Up is an excellent example of that belief," says Shelley V. Smith, WTRO president/executive director. Sales of livestock are converted to dollars and the amount helps provide out-patient care for the more than 11,000 handicapped children and adults who will be treated this year at the Rehab Center.

Trained, licensed professionals provide physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech/language therapy, audiology, orthotics, education, diagnostic clinics, social services and work evaluations. Patients are admitted by referral, and are treated without charge except for braces and hearing Scheduled 1988 CRCC sale dates include Haskell Sale, Sept. 24; Cattle Sale-Sept. 26 at Abilene Auction; Horse Sale-Oct. 1, Abilene Auction; Coleman Sale-Oct. 5; Stephenville Sale-Oct. 5: Junction Sheep and Goat Sale-Oct. 10; San Saba Sale-Oct. 13 and Brownwood Sale-Oct. 26.

October 6, 7, and 8, 1988 at the Inn of The Hills in Kerrville. The meeting includes 2 tour of the Kerr Wildlife Management Area, and presentations by established ranchers and other experts on how to make a profit in ranching.

The Kerr Wildlife Management tour will demonstrate good range management that includes application of Holistic Resource Management, prescribed burning, cow/calf managment, and whitetailed deer management. Whitetailed deer nutrition and genetic research that ranchers can utilize to improve hunting enterprises will be discussed.

Presentation by eleven speakers will emphasize how to profit from better management of ranch resources. These include Ways you can make ranching pay today, Operating the family ranch, Approach to marketing beef, Marketing exotic games for food, "Marketing Ranch Knowledge", A career change to make a ranch survive.

In addition, Dub Sims of the Texas American Bank in Fort Worth will provide a bankers viewpoint on the ranching industry. Without doubt, to make a profit requires good planning and effective use of ranch resources in the future. Dr. Stan Parsons of the Ranching for Profit School in Albuquerque, New Mexico will show you how he has assisted many ranchers better succeed.

This program has been developed to provide timely advice to ranchers, resource managers and related professionals according to Donnie Harmel (Texas Parks and Wildlife Department) and Ken Sparks (Soil Conservation Service) program chairman. The program is sponsored by the Texas Section of the Society for Range Management

In addition to the technical programs, social activities include a mixer on October 6, a family night bar-b-que and western dance October 7, and a ladies tour to James Avery Jewelry, the Hill County Museum, and the Cowboy Artists of America and Museum. Ladies will also be treated to a style show and program on self protection.

The local considerations of a lowrental senior citizen housing facility are very interesting. The site selection process, however, leads to considerable apprehensions. The initial east end of East 2nd Street and the subsequent behind the Hospital site were both areas where the sewage system would require attention and the peak hour water pressure is reminiscent of a raccoon with prostate difficulties. The third rumored site beyond the new High School is not a confidence restorer.

The requirements are simple; high quality, durable structures which can be maintained with minimum tenant input. This is a problem that neither New York, Dallas nor St. Louis have been able to cope with. They have seen remote investors build the units, walk away with a profit, and sell the units to even more remote and widely scattered investors who simply do not operate them satisfactorily. The result is a disintegrating glob which leaves the municipality and the elderly holding a big "BAG". Nobody seems to be thinking about the needs of the elderly. We can list them. First is convenience; the mobile elderly need contact with society and need to be responsible for as many of their affairs as possible. If these needs are not met the accelerated senility which plagues even the best rest homes

Good medical care is an axiomatic requirement which can be met through our facilities with augmentation from our E.M.S. and San Angelo's facilities. Animal comforts can also contribute to meeting medical requirements. Yet animal conforts place specific requirements on the buildings and the necessary government subsidy to operating expenses in order to meet low rental requirements.

What sort of building do we need? The traditional approach is individual houses, but the lawns must be landlord kept, and air conditioning and heating are more expensive. The initial construction would be more expensive but the maintenance and utility costs would be much less expensive. The multistoried approach seems better and a four storied to six storied structure would seem optimum.

Where would it be built? The housing should be built as near as possible to the town center. This would allow the mobile elderly to walk to the grocery store, the bank, the drug store and the post office without being subjugated to bus schedules. Contact with society and observation points are necessary so availability of rest benches in shady areas are required.

L.P. Bloodworth tell tales of his grandfather at Dinner Theater should appreciate the following. L.P., this one's for you.

A two-year stay in old Mexico, back in the days when revolutions in that country were not annual occurrences as they are now, is only one of the many interesting phases of a life of "ups and downs" as recalled by B.M. Halbert, prominent Sutton County ranchman and national figure in the sheep and goat industry.

Mr. Halbert, although in his sixtieth year, is still active and spry. His hearing became impaired many years ago, and for the past few years Mr. Halbert has worn an ingenious device known as the "accousticon" which enables him to hear much better. For the past few years he has suffered from stomach trouble, but believes that his condition is improving.

"I went to Mexico in a palace-car and came out in a side-door pullman, what time I wasn't walking," says Mr. Halbert. He followed the revolution as a soldier of fortune in Mexico while still a boy. His boyhood home was in Coleman County and he recalls many incidents that happened in those days.

One story Mr. Halbert loves to tell is that of how he stopped some of the boys, companions, from "sticking" him for the drinks. But before we go any further, we should tell you what Mr. Halbert tells us. That is that although he could and did deal the cards as often and as fast as the next one, he never under any circumstances would take a drink. It seems that some of the boys had a "system" whereby the could make "Basil's" nickels or other coins come up "odd" thus he would be "stuck" for the drinks. It was some little time before it dawned on him that he was being made the luckless victim of a petty larceny, so he devised a method of his own of putting an end to this practice.

An old German jeweler in town,

Editor's note: Those who have heard a friend of young Halbert's was prevailed upon to try his skill as cutting a nickel down to half size then repeating the same process on another nickel. These two half size coins were then soldered together, with the result that both sides of the coin showed the same face. Then two more nickels were subjected to the same operation, so that both sides of the synthetic coin showed tails.

> He then sallied forth to avenge himself against his trickster friends. This he did with great success, until one night in a poker game, he had won all the money except about $18.00 belonging to one of the

They decided to match for the remainder of what the boy had, and when Mr. Halbert matched the coin thrown by the other boy, he took the money. His victim demanded to examine the coin, and only by agreeing to return the money was an altercation avoided.

After his return from the stormy republic to the south, Mr. Halbert came to Sutton County and worked on a ranch a short time, Then he moved into Sonora, and became a book-keeper at the bank. He was later promoted to cashier of the bank. One day while sorting coins into piles of $1.00 Mr. Halbert felt a familiar coin pass thru his fingers. He says that in the time he handled the two "bogus" coins, he learned the "feel" of them perfectly. He was greatly surprised to again come into possession of one of the coin after a lapse of many years.

He lost the coin some years later, said that it was a blow to him as he valued it highly as a memo of his boyhood days. He at one time was tempted to offer a reward of $100 for the return of it, but feared that someone would have one made "especially" for the occasion.

Mr. Halbert is manager and chairman of Publicity Department of the Sheep and Goat Raiser Association of Texas for Chevon, and is responsible for much that has been done to make the people of the United States acquainted with the succulent meat that was once a drug on the market.

J.H. Ray, Sonora, Texas, has been elected to membership in the American Angus Association, reports Dick Spader, executive vicepresident of the national organization with headquarters in St. Joseph Missouri.

The American Angus Association, with over 30,000 active adult and junior members, is the largest beef cattle registry association in the world. Its computerized records include detailed information on nearly 11 million registered Angus.

The Association records ancestral information and keeps records of production on individual animals for its members. These permanent records help members select and mate the best animals in their herds to produce high quality, efficient breeding cattle which are then recorded with the American Angus Association. Most of these registered Angus are used by the U.S. farmers and ranchers who raise high quality beef for U.S. consumption.

It is the nature of the human being to rely on the subconscious level of the brain, its memory and control of the nervous system, in the performance of routine or repeated tasks.

The job of the conscious mind is to control the sub-conscious. Through the senses, it looks to the sub-conscious for spontaneous reactions to changes in the environment.

Imagination comes into play in beevery conscious act and "opens the door" to many, many other functions and capabilities.

In any given day, secretaries type letters and answer the telephone simultaneously. They have done it hundreds of times, it's automatic.

In typing the letters, the subconscious mind responds to images, conveyed by the eyes, of letters and words on the draft. It reacts by sending electrical impulses through the nervous system to the arms, hand and fingers.

By answering the telephone, the secretaries use the conscious mind to formulate replies to the signals conveyed by the ears. It then instructs the sub-conscious to relay the response, which it does by sending impulses to the vocal chords, mouth, lips and tongue to vocalize the reply.

The last two years of my military career saw the use of this principle to an even greater extent. I must have practiced my skills and abilities in morse code and teletype interception ten thousand times in the preceeding six years in Viet Nam, England and Europe.

My job was that of a radio intercept operator in World-wide Signal Search and Development for the U.S. Army Intelligence and Security Command. It was supposedly the 'elite' in radio intercept operations.

Using four radio receivers; two teletype and a facsimile printer; a computer keyboard and monitor: and a couple pieces of classified equipment, I copied approximately a hundred and twenty-five transmissions in any given eight-

The Risk

Cocaine can cause life-threatening damage to heart muscle tissue, according to a study by researchers at Stanford University and the San Francisco Medical Examiner's Office. In a controlled study, researchers found that 28 to 30 cocaine-toxicity victims had heart tissues containing red streaks known as "myocardial contraction bands." These bands arise when muscle cells enter a permanent state of contraction that immobilizes them. Once this happens, they are essentially useless. Such dead cells block the normal conduction pathways in the heart, leading it to beat in irregular patterns called arrythmias. Severe arrythmias can

There is one main money making project for the Cubs. It is the sale of popcorn and candles. Without this they wouldn't be able to do much. Also to help bring in some revenue they have periodic bake sales. Every little bit helps. Many thanks to those who have baked the goodies and to those who have bought them.

Right after the first of the year we had a Pinewood Derby at one of our Pack meetings. It is where the boys receive a kit ahead of time containing a block of pine wood, 4 nails, and four wheels. Each boy with the help of his father, mother or who ever shapes that block into was full of fun activities and this the best race car ever seen. When its race time things get real exciting. The cars are put on a special race track and with the help of a few special people the race is on. The winners from here can go on to district and state. News from Sonora High School

The past week has been a very eventful one at Sonora High. Freshman pried open lockers, and the sophomores helped those who were having trouble. Juniors were caught up in the rush of their classes, and seniors, well, they were seniors!

Since September 1st fell on a Thursday, the JV football team had their first game on the first day of school. Those who came out and watched saw some excellent playing on Sonora's part. The JV team rolled over Wall 28-6.

Sonora's first varsity football game was disappointing. Captains for the week were Michael Harris and Bauldo Castaneda. Rain fell from the kickoff to about the halftime, and the Sonora Broncos ended up on the wrong side of a 24-19 final score. Thanks go out to all the fans who stayed to support them, and to the cheerleaders who went ahead and donned rain jackets and cheered in the downpour. Also, apologies to those people who came to watch the band perform. The Mighty Bronco Band was unable to perform because of the damage to the instruments which might have been incurred in the rain. We need everyone to follow the Broncos to Junction on September 9 to watch them play the Eagles!

The Fellowship of Christian Atheletes (FCA) had a hamburger supper on Tuesday night. Anyone interested in joining FCA needs to see Coach Sessom. Dues are $5.00.

Mr. Russell has been making the rounds to the English classes to hand out rule folders and talk about the discipline management program. He has visited freshmen and sophomore classes the first two days of school and finished with the juniors and the seniors this week. Reserved 1987-88 yearbooks are available from Mr. Kirkpatrick in the library. People with reserved books need to bring their receipts to pick up their books.

Texas Council announces new schedule

Boasting a list of new state agencies and the success of sold-out crowds from the last round of meetings, the Texas Business Council announced its new fall schedule today.

The Business Council, which began in the spring of this year, averaged almost 600 attendees per meeting throughout the state. The organization is designed to foster communication between government and taxpayers and promote economic growth in the Speakers of th Texas House Gib Lewis commented that he was delighted with the Council. "It's important that the Texas Business Council exist for the taxpayers of Texas. Trying to make government less complicated and less expensive is good for everyone."

The first meeting of the Texas Business Council is scheduled for September 8 on South Padre Island. Eleven additional meetings are scheduled around the State through November.

Medicare health bill passesnew tax implications substantially expanded in 1989 and about $800 per person, or $1,600 subsequent years as a result of the Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act recently signed by President Reagan. While the act is designed to protect older Americans and the disabled from the extensive costs of hospitalization and treatment for serious illnesses, it also has tax implications for certain individuals.

All individuals who are eligible for Medicare and pay federal income taxes will have to pay a "supplemental premium," or surtax, on their federal tax liability from tax year 1989 on. The amount of the premium increases each year from 1989 through 1993. There is a ceiling on the premium to limit the amount that each individual must pay. The ceiling will increase from $800 per person in 1989 to $1,050 in 1993. For example, in 1989 the surtax is $22.50 for each $150 of income tax liability, with a minimum $800 surtax per person. A married couple eligible for Medicare with $51,910 in taxable income, after deductions and exemptions, would pay

Medicare health benefits will be supplemental premium would be total, which is the maximum.

A single individual eligible for Medicare who received $25,000 in net taxable income would pay about $4,680 in federal income tax. His or her supplemental Medicare premium would be $702 in 1989.

Because the surtax is linked to income tax liability, taxpayers affected by the Medicare act would be well-advised to review their tax status. Many tax professionals are recommending that their clients position some of their savings in safe, tax-free investments to avoid added tax liability.

The Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act will cover unlimited hospitalization after an annual deductible has been met. The old law required individuals to share costs after 60 days in the hospital, and coverage ended after 150 days.

Covered medical service, such as physician and outpatient services, will also increase beginning in January 1990. Further, in 1991 Medicare will pay 50 percent of most outpatient prescription drug approximately $10,667 in federal costs, and the percentage covered income tax in 1989. Their will increase in subsequent years.

an average of $488.39 per head for a total of $27,350.

Dr. Frank Craddock, sheep and goat specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said that although the sale average was down from previous years, the auction was indicative of the times.

"I thought the averages were good, considering that we're facing a depressed mohair market and many producers are contending with the drought. The goat business is in a slump right now," said Craddock, who was chairman of the sale committee.

Robert Stewart of Clifton consigned the high-indexing buck of the test, which later sold for $1,100 to Perry Bushong of Mountain Home.

Pat Jackson of Christoval consigned three high-selling bucks to the sale. The first sold for $1,500 to Sandra Cox of Barnsdall, OK.; the second for $1,150 to F.H. "Tuffy" Whitehead of Del Rio; and the third for $1,100 to Nat Read Of Ozona.

The J.H. O'Harrow Ranch in Eldorado was the volume buyer, purchasing five head for $1,675. Other volume buyers included Howard Loveless of Eden, who purchased four head for $1,975, and Forked Lightning Ranch of Menard, four head for $1,875.

People over 60 who would rather take vitamin supplements than eat their vegetables, may run the risk of low-level vitamin A toxicity.

The vitamin A that's plentiful in green and yellow vegetables isn't the same thing you get in a vitamin supplement, according to Dr. Alice Hunt, a nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University.

Vitamin supplements contain a pure form of vitamin A called retinyl esters. Although the esters themselves are not toxic, once in the body they can be converted into free retinol, which is toxic.

Chronic vitamin A toxicity can cause liver damage, bone and joint pain and scaly dermatitis. A large overdose can cause headaches.

Recent research conducted by U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists indicated that high levels of retinyl esters are more likely among older people who take vitamin supplements.

The researchers surveyed 562 healthy Boston residents over age 60, half of whom reported taking vitamin supplements, usually in the form of multivitamin preparations. Those who used the supplements the longest had the highest blood levels or retinyl esters.

The five people in the study who had the highest levels of retinyl esters had taken supplements daily for more than five years. Four of them had signs of liver damage.

In a similar survey of 194 men and women aged 19 to 59, the USDA researchers found that two of the young people taking multivitamins had higher ester levels, but did not show signs of liver damage.

The liver has a tremendous capacity to store vitamin A, but once it is too full, toxicity may occur. Whether older people absorb vitamin A more efficiently or simply can't store as much in the liver is unclear.

People who eat adequate amounts of vegetables are already getting plenty of vitamin A and don't need supplements.

green leafy vegetables, peaches and apricots are the best food sources of vitamin A.
