Lines at the polls . . .

Future voters in the Intermediate School lined up before classes on Election Day, November 8, to cast their ballots for President of the United States.

Enthusiasm ran high among the prospective voters as they waited their turn. It is hoped that by teaching the how's and why's of voting at a young age, these children will grow to adulthood realizing the value of their vote and the responsibility they share as Americans. Casting their vote in the mock election were 245 students, 145 voting for Bush/Quayle and 96 voting for Dukakis/Bentsen. Staff photo/Ann Cates.

Harrell honored for forty years of service

On November 7, 1988, the Commissioners' Court of Sutton County met in Special Session to name the newly completed Road and Bridge Building the "E.L. Harrell County Maintenance Facility," in honor of Sutton County Road Superintendent E.L. Harrell in appreciation for his continuing years of service to the residents of Sutton County. Additionally, the Commissioners' Court voted to change the name of "Station B Road" to "E. L. Harrell Road".

Among those present at the meeting expressing personal thanks to E.L. and Dorothy Harrell were David Wallace, George Wallace, Eddie Sawyer, Wesley Sawyer, Stanley and Nelda Mayfield, Joe David Ross, Margaret Galbreath, Bob Teaff, Billy Galbreath, Charles Graves and Bill Gosney.

Harrell came to work for the Sutton County Road Department in 1948 serving the department for the past forty years. He became Road Superintendent in 1950 and since that time has been on continuous twenty-four call for emergencies in addition to his regular daily work schedule.

His wife, Dorothy, has also served the county during this time, taking telephone calls, maintaining hours for road crews and in general, facilitating the work of the department.

During Harrell's tenure with the department, Sutton County has achieved a road system which is the envy of counties of comparable size as well as larger counties.

Many years ago, Harrell instituted a paving program to make travel easier and to save on the extensive costs involved in maintaining non-paved roads.

Sutton County's paved county roads, designed by and built under the supervision of Harrell, are as good as can be found in any county in Texas. Additionally, he and his department maintain miles of caliche roadways within the county.

Harrell has been responsible for paving streets in Sinaloa and Loma Alta besides other projects beneficial to the taxpayers and residents of the county including the resurfacing of the airport runway and taxiway, paths at the Sonora Golf Course, streets within the Sutton County Cemetery, paved surfaces at the 4-H Center and County Park.

Most recently, Harrell and his crew were involved in a joint project with the City of Sonora to alleviate flooding at the juncture of Water and Pecan Streets.

Likewise, he and his crew have taken an active part in maintenance of Allison Park on the Llano River, and have carried on extensive mowing programs in right-of-ways, at the cemetery, and on various other properties in Sutton County, contributing both to the safety and beautification of the county.

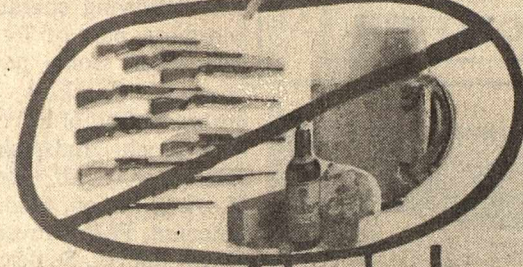

Harrell is responsible for the road system of all of Sutton County, and works with a minimal crew to serve the taxpayers and residents of the county. While the majority of counties in Texas have separate crews, one for each commissioners precinct, and each with its own equipment, building, and personnel, Sutton County is fortunate to have only one road crew.

Having only one crew, called the "unit system", creates substantial savings to taxpayers, not to mention a uniform road system since all equipment and personnel is consolidated. Most of the thanks for the effectiveness of our money-savings unit system go directly to Harrell for his conscientious, quality service to Sutton County.

The Commissioners' Court of Sutton County joins with numerous citizens served by his work, to congratulate E.L. Harrell for his forty years' service to Sutton County, and to show their appreciation by placing his name on the Road and Bridge Building. We look forward to having his expertise in and leadership of the Road and Bridge Department for many years to come.

Congratulations and best wishes, Joe Ed!

A word to the wise . . .

Posters aimed at welcoming hunters to the area while displaying safety messages have been designed, drawn and placed throughout the community by members of the Junior 4-H Shooting Team. Under the leadership of Glen Gee, almost thirty young people have been involved in this excellent project.

The poster above was done by Curt Dempsey and is at the Branding Iron Smokehouse.

Members of the Senior Team will carry out the message with banners which will decorate the walls of the 4-H building during the Game Dinner on November 15. Staff photo/Ann Cates.

"Ask and ye shall receive"

"Ask and you shall receive" is a well-worn adage, but sometimes, if you ask the right people in the right way, you will receive what you ask for.

West Texas Boys Ranch has been in operation for more than 40 years and all during that time has been entirely supported by the free will donations of the public. Most people make donations of money, but others are a little more creative.

When we asked for a small, economy car in a recent issue of The Ranch Hand, the Boys Ranch newspaper, George Brockman read it and responded.

Within the week, Mr. Brockman, of Sonora, drove up the driveway of the Ranch office with a 1982 Volkswagon Rabbit sedan and handed over the keys.

"I considered giving the Mercedes, but you did ask for an economy car," said Brockman. "Besides, my wife did have some say so in the matter."

This article stated a need for an economy car for making doctor's runs into town, as well as picking up boys after school when there is only one or two boys involved.

This saves using our big vans for these runs.

"The Ranch is about 17 miles from town, and the miles add up in a hurry when you have over forty boys to pick up from school, get to ball practice, or other activities," noted Boys Ranch Executive Director, Dave Gottshall. "We've put well over 200,000 miles on cars and vans going back and forth over that 17 miles."

Not everyone is in a position to give something as big as a car, but other requests have touched a cord in some of our donors. In an earlier Ranch Hand, we asked for replacement hymnals for our chapel. To date, that request has brought in over 70 hymnals, most of them dedicated to the memory of a loved one. A dedicated ceremony is scheduled at the Boys Ranch Chapel on November 20.

We also mentioned in the Ranch Hand a need for some golf equipment for some of the boys at the Ranch who were learning to play the game. This time it was a company, Nathan's Jeweler's of San Angelo, who stepped in, providing two complete sets of clubs, bags, balls, and miscellaneous golf supplies. Nathan's Manager, George Bundren, brought the shiny golf clubs over, and even stayed to watch a couple of the boys try them out at a local golf course.

It has taken donations of all sorts to care for the over 1,200 boys who have called Boys Ranch home since 1947.

Junction man awarded Prisoner-of-War medal

Walter Allen Bowers of Junction was presented with the Prisoner-of-War Medal November 10. The award was presented during a special program of the Junction Rotary and Lions Club.

Bowers was inducted into the Army January 14, 1941 and completed basic training in Louisiana before being assigned to the 2nd Battalion, 131st Field Artillery, 36th Division and stationed at Camp Bowie.

Leaving Camp Bowie for an assignment in the Philippines, Bowers was at sea five days when Pearl Harbor was attacked.

Following the attack, his assignment was first changed to Australia and then to Java where he was captured by the Japanese on March 8, 1942 when Java fell.

Bowers was held in Singapore before being moved to Burma where he helped construct the Burma Railway. He was later moved to Thailand prior to his liberation on August 30, 1945. Having spent three and a half years as a POW, Bowers was sent to Fort Sam Houston where he was discharged on January 17, 1946. He was at that time awarded the Purple Heart.

Junction Mayor Blackburn has proclaimed November 10 as "Walter Allen Bowers Day" in Junction.

Bowers is the father of five children, Barbara Reyes and Denise Bowers of Kerrville, Joy Brawley of Buna, Patricia Vance of Austin and Ronnie Bowers of Sonora.

Good news! You do have appeal rights in tax disputes

DEAR COMMISSIONER NABERS: My company was recently audited by the Texas Employment Commission and the auditor said that four individuals who had worked for us on a contract basis were, in fact, our employees. I disagree with this assessment and am confident I can prove my case if someone will only listen. My feeling is that the TEC tax auditors have made their minds up going in and their minds are ALWAYS made up in favor of finding employment. What recourse do I have?

R.S.
Plano, Texas

DEAR R.S.: You can request a hearing on this matter. Just tell the auditor with whom you have been working that you wish to have a hearing. He or she will notify our Special Hearings division and your case will be scheduled.

Under Rule 13 of the TEC rules, the Commission has the authority to hear and decide disputed tax liability cases. You should come prepared to present complete information on the working arrangements of the individuals in question. A hearings officer from the Special Hearings division will be assigned to take your verbal testimony and documentary evidence. Also present will be a tax representative who will submit the tax department's documentary evidence and explain the basis for the tax department's conclusions.

All of this evidence is then forwarded to the offices of the three sitting Commissioners who review it and make the final decisions. Keep in mind that the decision will hinge on the amount of "direction and control" of the worker.

Tax liability is NOT suspended during the pendency of this process. To avoid further penalties and interest you should go ahead and pay what the tax department says you owe. If the Commission reverses the decision, your company will be entitled to a refund.

To All Texas Employers: Because contract labor is such a costly issue when misunderstood I have prepared a memo on the subject. The information may be helpful as you attempt to understand how an evaluation is made by the Texas Employment Commission. Drop me a note and I will send you a copy.

Ms. Nabers represents 336,000 employers throughout Texas. If you have any questions you want answered, please write Commissioner Nabers at: TEXAS BUSINESS TODAY, 614 Texas Employment Commission Building, 15th and Congress, Austin, Texas 78778.

Internships available for Legislature

State Senator Bill Sims would like to announce that he is going to sponsor the internship program once again this session. The program will be for the 71st Legislative Session which starts January 10, 1989 and ends May 29, 1989.

"This session promises to be very interesting," says Senator Sims. "I will be able to handle more interns this year, so I am looking forward to having even more of my constituents involved in the legislative process through the 25th District.

Because of limited space in the Senator's office, internships are restricted to residents of the 25th Senatorial District which includes the following counties: Bandera, northern part of Bexar, Blanco, Brewster, Coke, part of Comal, Crane, Crockett, Culberson, Edwards, part of El Paso, Gillespie, Glasscock, Hudspeth, Irion, Jeff Davis, Kendall, Kerr, Kimble, Loving, Mason, Medina, Midland, Menard, Pecos, Presidio, Reagan, Real, Reeves, Schleicher, Sterling, Sutton, Terrell, Tom Green, Upton, Val Verde, Ward, and Winkler.

Residents of the 25th Senatorial District who are interested in working a few days during the legislative session may call Ms. Sharon Allen, (512)463-0125 or write to her in care of Senator Sims' office, P.O. Box 12068, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711.

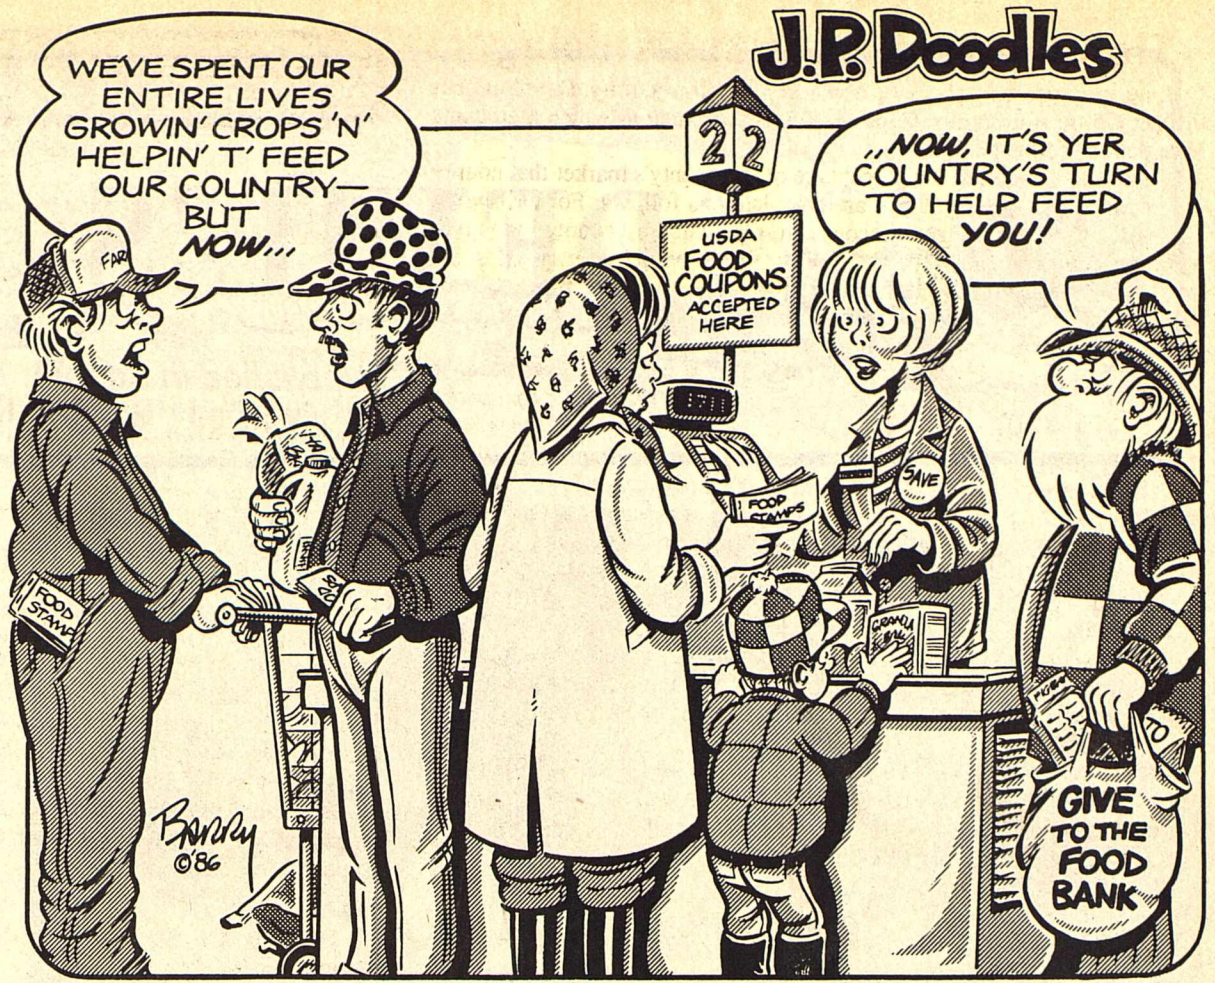

Arbor Day to plant project

A new project of The National Arbor Day Foundation gives you a chance to help replant America's fire-devastated forests.

Fueled by last summer's tinder-dry conditions, forest fires burned more than 4.3 million acres of the nation's parks and forests. Millions of new trees must be planted.

The National Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit education organization dedicated to tree planting and conservation, will plant 10 trees in a fire-ravaged forest on behalf of each person who joins its membership during November.

"Forest trees play a vital role in the ecosystem," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director, said. "They hold soil in place, protect groundwater supplies, and

by T. Driskell

By the time you read this, you will have participated in the ultimate degradation of even the concept of American Democracy--the mass production election; a game in which knowledge of each candidate's tendencies are mandatory and only require about forty or fifty hours of research. I put in four hours and realized that unless a majority of the electorate put in the required thirty or forty hours my efforts would be wasted time. I knew that they did not have, or would not put in the time, so I "chickened" out and looked for an alternative. That is an unfortunate action because it denies functionality to this so-called democracy of ours.

Considering only major candidates, whom I had studied carefully, I outlined my preferences. When it came to the judges and minor officials, I figured that the primaries in Texas had sorted them out and, for the first time in my life I cast a straight one-party ballot rather than waste more time in the maze.

We Texans are harboring some strange beasts in our political and ideological closets. No danger of them becoming extinct, we are nurturing and even cross-breeding them. The examples are easy to find roaming our streets, well, healthy and growing, more awesome from election to election.

Our judiciary needs some laundering, even though we ostensibly have a built in cleaning establishment by the elected judges. Our action, typically if looked at in an objective manner would have to be classified as a Texas approach, which we have demonstrated since the end of the Reconstruction Period is almost typically schizoid; doing something on one hand while doing something on the other hand to counteract it. Let's take a look. You voted for members to the Texas Supreme Court.

Are you sure that you did not vote into our Supreme Court a fourteenth-rate unemployed attorney, last employed as a fast-food fry cook who was discharged for "tapping the till"? An absurd example, but can you honestly answer the question? I asked probably the smartest woman I have known if she knew all the characteristics of all the judicial candidates. "More or less, she said." It is a semantics problem; if "less" does not mean absolutely nothing, in colloquial English; she was running trust elasticity tests, and had just exceeded the limit.

Our desires and our needs are clear, we need to clean up our judiciary, but with an inane idiocy, we still want to keep control of the judiciary in individual hands, hence elected judges. That puts our judges in the political arena and places on them periodic necessity for huge amounts of money. Modern campaigns are expensive; a judge either has a personal fortune or must have political campaign "contributions", voluntary, of course! There is a tendency to restore personal fortunes, not dissipate them further, and unfortunately repetitive large contributions are not free of strings. Our voting for electing judges over appointing them tends to prostitute our judiciary to big-money groups of special interests. Necessity forces "Play with the Players". A notion not dispelled by national review of the Pennzoil versus Texaco suit, but the magnitude of the contributions was clarified a bit by that case.

The Post-Civil War Reconstruction is over, but the carpet baggers are still here, perpetuated in our political concepts, organization and regulating documents. Can we not in this era take our judiciary out of the political arena and make the Texas Supreme Court an august body, not a collection of dubious characters that might be assembled in the eighth month?

One wonders, not about the plausibility, but the possibility of a candidate running for President of the United States, a seat in the U.S. Senate, County Sheriff, and Dog Catcher simultaneously, that would be maximum bet hedging.

How well are merchants doing?

One measure of success, according to Community Development Project Group Information Paper 88-05, is the extent to which merchants have penetrated the market.

Draw factors measure the percentage of the county's market that county merchants are capturing. They are calculated as follows: For each year, state sales per dollar of state income are multiplied by county income to estimate potential sales for the county. Next actual county sales are divided by estimated potential county sales to determine the percentage of potential sales being captured. This assumes that the state sales per dollar of income is the norm for all counties in the state.

If the draw factor in a county is greater than 100 percent, merchants in that county are capturing more sales than expected; apparently consumers are coming from outside the county to spend money. Counties with unusually small draw factors are probably losing substantial consumer spending to other counties. The trend in the draw factor is probably as important as the level. An increasing draw factor indicates that county merchants are doing a better job of capturing consumer spending.

Sales include all retail establishments and three types of service businesses-business services, auto repair services and garages and miscellaneous repair services.

The draw factor shown comes from county level data sets that are available for each county in the state through the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and are updated in May and June of each year.

Smokers and dippers beware! The American Cancer Society is out to get you-get you to quit that is. Yes, it's Great American Smokeout Time again. This year's date for the smokeout is November 17. The American Cancer Society is urging all smokers and dippers to quit for the day.

The Great American Smokeout is a nationwide event. All smoker and dippers are encouraged to quit in the company of friends. Last year, in Sonora many people "gave it all up" for just one day and never resumed the habit.

Those who are not smokers or dippers can get in on the action too. They can "adopt a smoker" or "adopt a dipper" for the day. The adoptor pledges to give the adoptee love, moral support, and anything else the adoptee may need in the way of something to munch on (sugarless candy is a real winner). The adoptee must wear a button or sticker that warns everyone that he or she is quitting for the day and (this is the biggy) the adoptee may not smoke or dip for the entire 24 hours.

This may sound difficult-it is, but it can be done. The American Cancer Society can help. They will provide materials for a "care package" and adoption papers, along with brochures to the adoptee on how to stay quit. If you are interested in adoption or being adopted contact Cynthia Kepler or Lou Faulks for more information. Remember, too, that smokers can adopt one another. That way they can lend that little extra support.

So, if you know a smoker or dipper and would like to help them quit, the Great American Smokeout is the perfect time. We can all help create a smoke free America!

Spelling out a better self-image

Fill in the letter that is missing at the beginning of each word.

*__mile. Research has shown that moving facial muscles to mirror an emotion causes the body to respond as if you really felt that emotion. Smiling improves your mood.

*__xpress appreciation for the good things in your life. Such affirmations create a tendency for more good to occur.

*__ist your good qualities and your achievements in writing.

*__ind trusted friends. The feeling of being positively valued by others improves one's self-image. Show others that you value them, too.

*__gnore the "imposter syndrome." Some people feel their successes are undeserved. They fear being unmasked as a fraud. If you can't take pleasure from your real achievements, seek professional help.

*__ake your own decisions for a greater feeling of mastery.

*__ct. Being active rather than passively waiting for something to happen raises one's sense of control over life and enhances self-image.

*__ather positive strokes. Choose to spend time mainly with people who see the best in you.

*__xperiment. Behave as if your self-image is much more positive than previously. Believe you can change, and be prepared to ride out the discomfort of taking risks and making changes.

Concho Valley Home for Girls offers a constructive alternative for teen-ager girls faced with a destructive home situation. Residents of the 14-county area are given first preference for placement. The Homes are licensed by the Texas Department of Human Services.

The organization is a private, non-profit corporation headed by a volunteer board of directors and administered by an executive director. Concho Valley Home for Girls is not affiliated with any federal or church organization. It is a United Way agency, additional

Sutton County to benefit from Scout's November appeal

More than 120 Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will be mobilizing for two weekends in November to help feed the hungry in the greater Sonora area.

Organized by the Concho Valley Council, Boy Scouts of American and the El Camino Council Girl Scouts, U.S.A., the Scouting for Food Good Turn will involve Scouts and volunteer leaders from Sutton County in an effort to collect 1,500 bags of food.

The local appeal is part of a national Good Turn which seeks to ease the food problem for the more than 20 million Americans who go hungry at some time each month. Reaching their goal, Scouts will be supplying the Ministerial Alliance with three months of food.

Directed by local Scout officials, boy and girl scouts will distribute bags to individual homes in neighborhoods throughout the Sonora area on Saturday, November 12th. The following Saturday, November 19th, they will return to pick up bags filled with food. The Ministerial Alliance will distribute the food to the hungry.

"This project is one of the most remarkable statements of the Scouting spirit that we can make," Claudia Dempsey, Pack 19 Cubmaster explained, "and one of the most worthwhile efforts we can offer our community. Hunger is a problem we can address, and our neighbors facing the pain of hunger are people we can help."

In addition to Sonora, Scouting for Food drive will be held in 23 1/2 counties of West and Southwest Texas including San Angelo, Sonora, Crane, Fort Stockton, Iraan, Rankin, Ozona, Junction, Brady, Big Lake, Del Rio, Uvalde, Eagle Pass, and Carrizo Springs.

Roy Don Scott, Vice President of Standard Sales Co., Inc. of San Angelo is General Chairman for the Concho Valley Council, BSA and the El Camino Council, Girl Scouts, U.S.A. "Through the efforts of both groups we hope to collect over 50,000 bags of food throughout this area which will result in over 150,000 lbs. of food for distribution to the hungry in these communities, added Scott. The bags in Sonora and the surrounding areas are being furnished by Bank of the West.

BRONCO TAILS

by Cynthia Kepler

The big news of the week was certainly spectacular! Our Bronco varsity football team ended up with a winning season! We're proud of all the Bronco football players for their outstanding season.

The Broncos were "on" on Friday night as they broke Brady's perfect district record by beating them 28-14. This was the senior football players last game since Sonora ended up fourth in district. All the seniors were named honorary captains for the game. Congratulations once again to all the football teams that represent Sonora!

At the pep rally on Friday Kim Cooke was recognized by the football players as the 1988 Football Sweetheart. They recognized her for her great contribution to school spirit and her willingness to be enthusiastic as a cheerleader. The pep rally was also livened up by the early arrival of the Brady band. (alias Mr. and Mrs. Mark Nelson, Mr. Harris, and Mr. Hardy).

The band put on its last halftime performance Friday night. Seniors were honored during the performance. Thanks go to Mr. Harris, the bands "senior" citizen who marched with them. The band would also like to thank Sonora for all their support in their efforts this year.

U.I.L. teams will go in all different directions this weekend. U.I.L. Math and Science teams will be travelling to San Angelo Central High School on Saturday to compete. U.I.L. Speech will be leaving Friday for San Antonio Clark High School for a Friday, Saturday speech meet. Good luck to all participants. We know they will represent Sonora well.

Basketball season is upon us. The girls, JV and Varsity played in a scrimmage with Big Lake last week here and this past Tuesday, they scrimmaged Ozona in Ozona. Both girls and boy's season open on the 15th when both girls and boys varsity and JV teams take on Eldorado in Eldorado at 5:00 p.m. Let's go out and give them some support.

One more event coming up is the Sadie Hawkins Dance at the high school on November 19. This dance is girls ask boys and is being sponsored by the juniors and seniors. This is the perfect opportunity for some of you girls to get the guys off their feet.

Three weeks of this six weeks have passed by. For those of you with tutoring averages, work harder to keep those grades up. Let's see if we can have 100% passing this six weeks. See you next week.

Thanks!

The Sonora Junior High Student Council would like to thank the Sonora Merchants who contributed so generously to our Bingo Booth.

Broncos blast Brady Bulldogs 28-14

by Decky Spiller

Well, the 1988 Broncos went out with a big bang. On Friday, November 4, the Broncos faced the district champions, the Brady Bulldogs. Going into this game the Bulldogs were four and zero in District play and the Broncos were two and two. After Sonora made the opening kickoff, Brady proceeded to score on the first offensive play of the game. The Broncos then began to come alive for their best game of the year. The Bronos have become a team that can either drive the ball down the field and the oppositions throat, or pass the ball successfully and riddle a defense secondary with completions.

Rushing for the Broncos Friday night were number thirty-one Erasmo Perez with thirty-nine yards on eight carries, number thirty-two Tracy Love with forty-eight yards on seven carries, number forty Chacho Cahill with fifty-seven yards on thirteen carries, and number twenty-one Todd Keller with 128 yards on twenty carries.

The passing game for Sonora was also successful. Number eleven Mikel Harris completed six of his ten passes, with one interception for eighty-four yards.

On the receiving end of these passes were number eighty-four Eddie Virgen who caught four for forty-eight yards, Keller who caught one for three yards and Love who caught one for thirty-three yards.

Scoring for the Broncos were Harris on a one yard plunge, Keller on his three yard pass reception and one on the ground, and Cahill pushed one in also. Number thirty Manuel Martinez was good on all four of his extra point attempts to bring the final score to, Broncos 28, Brady 14.

On special teams and defense the Broncos did extremely well. Keller returned a kickoff for twenty yards and number twenty-three Eric Espinosa returned one for fifteen yards. On the other hand the Bronco kickoff and punt teams held the Bulldogs to almost no yardage on returns. Harris punted twice for an average of forty-four yards and Martinez kicked off six times for an average of forty-eight yards.

There are several people who never get mentioned because there are not any stats kept on hard work, heart, and outstanding blocking. These people are the offensive and defensive linemen and without them their could be no offensive yardage or lack of it from the opposing team. These men in the trenches are number seventy-five Sammy Sentena, number seventy-three Keven Richter, number seventy Fernie Jimenez, number sixty-four Jr. Duenes, number sixty-three Jeff Lowder, number sixty-two Ruben Mesa, number sixty-one John Gonzales, and number fifty Keith Wallace. The men are the greatest linemen in the state as far as I am concerned and I see it as a privilege and an honor to have been able to play and work with them as a team.

The Broncos ended the season with a five and five record. It was not outstanding by any means and it did not indicate that we, with a three and two district record, were the best team in the district, but we were. When the buzzer sounded in the fourth quarter against Brady we had proven that we were the best team in the district.

Next year and in years to come Sonora will be recognized officially for such an accomplishment because it will leave no room for doubt. They have their eye set on a championship.

The Sonora Broncos ended their football season with a great victory over the Bulldogs. The Broncos year end record closes at five and five. Here the Broncos leave the football stadium with a good feeling after blasting the district champions! (Photo contributed by Bill Hazelton)

Range Management...When does it happen?

Reported by Nick Garza

What is range improvement and how long does it take to happen? This is a question that many land managers ask themselves when they are trying to evaluate the condition of their property.

According to Dr. Fred Smeins, a professor in the Range Science Department at Texas A&M University, range improvement can be a very relative term and depends on the manager's frame of reference. "Range improvement can generally be described as any change that improves forage supply, quality or availability for a given set of management objectives", says Smeins speaking at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Grazing Management Field Day held October 18, 1988.

For example he says, "If a dry period during the growing season is followed by enough rainfall to cause the vegetation to green up, this may be considered range improvement". Likewise, he added, "Vegetation actively growing after the dormant season or a return to normal rainfall patterns after a long term drought would result in improved forage conditions". These can all be considered range improvement.

Another example of range improvement can be seen in a pasture that has been cleared of brush. Dr. Smeins said that when the undesirable brush is controlled this results in less competition between plants for water, nutrients and light; and that very often the forage that is desired can increase in amount and in quality. This would also be considered range improvement.

Dr. Smeins is careful to stress, however, that these improvements are considered short term improvements and that although they are important to the overall economics of the operation, they can often change back to a less desirable condition very rapidly if management is improper.

Of greater importance to the long term productivity and stability of the range, however, are improvements which are seen as changes in the composition of the plant species on the range.

These changes, of course, must be towards more desirable species and not the less desirable ones. Smeins says that "If the range changed from a condition of having mostly annual grasses, curly mesquite and juniper to having less juniper, fewer annual grasses and more bunchgrasses like sideoats grams, then from a range management point of view range improvement had occurred".

Smeins is quick to point out, however, that even under good management the relative quality of the rangeland may vary up and down due to seasonal and yearly changes in weather conditions and rainfall.

Long dry periods can result in lowered productivity, and periods of above average rainfall can result in more rapid range improvements. "The land is a very dynamic system that is always changing, and one of the best ways to work with the system for range improvement is to use moderation".

"Research has come a long way in finding out how to effect range improvement through proper management, but there is much more we need to learn" says Smeins, "and some day we may be able to provide a more precise plan to implement range improvement on rangeland".

This article is the first in a continuing series on topics discussed at the Experiment Station Field Day. If anyone would like more information on these or other related topics, they should contact the Station at (915) 387-3168 or come by the office located on Highway 55 between Sonora and Rocksprings.

change address with social security

The most common reason for failure to receive a Social Security check is not reporting a change of address. A change of address may be reported to any Social Security office by phone or mail.

Some people apparently think that's all they have to do to report a change of address to the post office. However, the post office will forward mail to the new address for only one year, after which any mail that does not contain the new address is returned to the sender.

People who have their checks sent directly to their bank and fail to report a change of address also risk their checks interrupted. Social Security periodically checks to see if the proper person is receiving the checks and if there is no response to the mailed inquiry, the checks may be stopped.

In addition, direct depositors who fail to report a change of address may miss receiving important information mailed to beneficiaries that may affect their checks.

If you have any questions about reporting your new address, call the nearest Social Security Office.

Notice of increase

The current legal rate was set prior to 1985 with no increase since that time while all other advertising rates having undergone three price adjustments in subsequent years.

Consider power of attorney before a crisis

Caring for an older family member or preparing for your own aging is easier when some decisions and arrangements are made before a crisis develops.

"Power of attorney," which allows one person to assume responsibility for another person's affairs is one of the arrangements you may want to consider.

A standard power of attorney is a legal document that authorizes someone to handle your personal or financial affairs. So, for example, if you have given your daughter power of attorney, she can write checks on your account to pay your bills while you are hospitalized.

A standard power of attorney loses its effectiveness if a person becomes legally incompetent, so a "durable power of attorney" is usually recommended. A durable power of attorney will continue in effect even if a person becomes incapacitated.

You will want to carefully select the person to whom you grant power of attorney. You should have clear, open and frequent communication with this person and feel certain that you can trust him or her to have your best interests in mind.

Consult a lawyer before setting up power of attorney or durable power of attorney, joint accounts, trusts, guardianships or any other arrangements that gives someone else access to your financial resources.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Ray Ranch near Sonora was certified brucellosis-free

Jack Ray, owner of the Ray Ranch near Sonora, has had his Angus cattle certified brucellosis-free by the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC). Brucellosis, an incurable bacterial disease often called "Bangs," is highly contagious among cows during pregnancy and calving, and can cause heavy losses due to abortion of weak calves.

The Ray Ranch herd is one of 2,002 certified in the state.

Producers with certified herds have the advantage of shipping or selling cattle with fewer restrictions. Also certified cows sold as breeding stock may command a higher price.

To have a herd certified, a producer enters into an agreement with the TAHC and has the herd's blood tested to ensure none of the animals are infected with brucellosis. If follow-up tests 10 to 14 months later also show no evidence of the disease, the herd is certified jointly by the TAHC and the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture (USDA). To remain certified, the herd must be tested yearly and be free of brucellosis.

The TAHC and producers are working to eliminate brucellosis infected through a program that includes testing at ranches and livestock markets, removing infected cows, quarantining exposed herds, practicing management techniques to prevent spread of disease, and vaccinating calves. As of September 1988, 1,036 of the 145,899 herds in Texas were quarantined because of brucellosis.

Texas and six other southern states--Arkansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Florida and Louisiana--have 92 percent of the brucellosis infection in the U.S. Twenty-six states have no known infection, and nineteen states have a very low infection rate. Reducing brucellosis infection in Texas could save the state's livestock industry millions of dollars by 1990, when USDA regulations will call for tougher restrictions on moving cattle from states with high infection rates.
