Fiddles, guitars and Biscuits

Father and daughter, Kent and Jenni Finlay will take the stage at the Friday night performance of the Covered Wagon Dinner Theater held on the grounds at the Caverns of Sonora.

Kent and Jenni have traveled a lot in the past year, having played over fifty fair dates in the fifty-two weeks of 1988, as well as countless clubs and other special events including the National Democratic Convention. They have also appeared on "Good Morning America" and "The Today Show."

Kent grew up in McCullough County. Those early years on the farm taught him, that among other things, he'd rather pick a guitar than cotton. He's played the circuit now for more than fifteen years.

Ten year old Jenni is still growing up--on the Get Along Ranch on the banks of the San Marcos River outside Austin. She has played professionally for two years and while she plays piano and guitar a little, put a fiddle in her hands and there is no stopping her!

You won't want to miss this one!

The Covered Wagon Dinner Theater's very own Biscuits O'Bryan will be on hand to thrill the audience with his constantly expanding repertoire of camp cook tales on Saturday night. Biscuits has become very much in demand for his wonderful and sometimes salty stories.

Drag out your dancin' shoes and hold onto your hat as the Country Squires of Big Lake will be the musical entertainment for Saturday evening. This wonderful band will set up off the stage to leave that area open for dancing and if you've ever heard this group, you know you'll want to dance! They play some excellent blue grass, country and gospel.

Tickets for the show are $4 for adults with children twelve and under free and dinner, catered by the Sutton County Steakhouse, is priced at $4.95 per person. Dinner is served from 6:30 to 7:30 with the show starting at 7:30.

There are still a few Season Tickets available at Westernman Drug and the price has been reduced from $25 to $12.50. To avail yourself of this bargain hurry as quantities are limited.

For additional information about the Covered Wagon Dinner Theater call Outdoor Drama Group Coordinator Charlotte Gilmore at 387-2757 or the Devil's River News at 387-2507.

Deputy graduates D.A.R.E. with honors Frasier completes training, to be implemented in fall Deputy Rusty Frasier of the Sutton County Sheriff's Department recently graduated from D.A.R.E. Officer Training in Mesa, Arizona. This specialized training came about by the cooperative efforts of the newly formed Community Action Team of Sonora.

The training involved eighty hours of intense classroom instruction. There were thirty-four law enforcement officers attending the school representing twenty-five agencies from fourteen states across the nation. Deputy Frasier received special recognition as he was awarded Honor Graduate at the culmination exercise June 30, 1989.

Project D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) is at the forefront of substance use prevention education programs. It is designed to give young people the facts about drugs and alcohol and to "innoculate" them against negative peer pressure by teaching them self-management and resistance skills. This unique program developed in 1983 as a cooperative effort by the Los Angeles Unified School District, uses well-trained uniformed police officers to teach in the classroom.

Employing a formal, semester-long curriculum, Project D.A.R.E. focuses special attention on students in elementary exit grades, who are not yet likely to have been led by their peers to experiment with alcohol, tobacco, and drugs and are therefore more receptive to prevention education.

Sutton County Sheriff's Department is one of the first departments in this part of the state to implement Project D.A.R.E. The department and the Sonora Independent School District plan to implement Project D.A.R.E. this coming fall semester.

We would like to especially thank the John and Mildred Cauthorn Trust Fund for donating the money for the D.A.R.E. training, stated Sheriff Bill Webster.

Which employees are exempt?

Dear Commissioner Nabers,
I am an assistant manager for a grocery chain based in Texas. I am on salary and required to work unlimited hours. Can Texas employers work a salaried person more than 48 hours? My company says they can.

S.D.
Fort Worth

Dear S.D.:
Your question falls under the jurisdiction of the Wage and Hour Division of the U.S. Department of Labor. Employees who are exempt from the overtime provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act do not receive time and a half overtime pay for hours worked in excess of 40 a week.

Very generally speaking, professionals, executives, and managers are exempt from overtime pay requirements. The status of assistant managers may depend upon the number of employees supervised and the percentage of time spent supervising as opposed to performing the same kind of work that subordinates perform. You should contact the Department of Labor to see if you have legal grounds for complaint. If your position does qualify as exempt, then your recourse would be to discuss your dissatisfaction with the employer and, if a satisfactory compromise cannot be reached, to decide whether you wish to continue working in this particular field or for this particular employer.

Dear Commissioner Nabers:
I am a retired U.S. Air Force officer and am currently employed by a Texas corporation. It is my

Commissioner
Mary Scott
Nabers

Texas Business Today

understanding that if I were laid off I would not be eligible for unemployment benefits because of my military income.

If in fact this is true, is the corporation I work for still required to pay employment insurances taxes on me?

R.H.
Austin

Dear R.H.:

It is not true that military retirement income automatically disqualifies one from receiving unemployment insurance benefits. Social Security is the only form of pension benefit which is always deductible from unemployment benefits. Other forms of pension income are deductible only if the employer from whom one receives the retirement income is also a base period employer on the claim for unemployment insurance benefits.

The base period on any claim is the first four of the last five completed quarters prior to the date of the claim. If you have been working for the Texas corporation about a year and a half, then any last wages received from the military would no longer appear in the base period of a claim and your military retirement would not affect any benefits to which you might be entitled.

If, on the other hand, you have only recently retired from the military and begun work for the corporation, any benefits you might be eligible to receive as a result of separating from the corporation would be offset by your military retirement.

The Texas corporation does have to report and pay unemployment taxes on your earnings.

Mary Scott Nabers represents all Texas employers. If you have any questions you want answered, please write Commissioner Nabers at: Texas Business Today, 614 TEC Building, 15th and Congress, Austin, Texas 78778.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

by T. Driskell

One looks at Independence Day 1989 and must glance over his or her shoulder in apprehensive awe, at the relative apparent definition of "independence" since 1776 and the worthiness for enjoyment of that independence. The glaring error of the whole span of 203 years is the relegation of the solution of problems to the law, which can only be solved in the mind of individuals.

A recent example; an individual took one of the prime symbols of the American heritage, the American Flag and burned it as a protest in the presence of about 500 people. One's primary question is those onlookers? It was their heritage being desecrated by an avowed communist, and they stood there like sheep, "Water me and feed me!" Why did they not defend the heritage symbol in lieu of thumb sucking? They stood inertly by and watched in resplendent stupidity, one individual destroying a bit of national heritage with a related weakening of the national fiber.

A Constitutional Amendment will not help prevent the desecration of the flag if each individual is not willing to defend that bit of national heritage, but waits for legal action to defend it. A humorous sidelight, is that the desecrators cannot understand why a group known as the Skin Heads are growing so rapidly. Human society must have a fiber of organization, and if you attack one, a new one grows to replace it, reminiscent of the Weimar Republic.

The Chinese were chickens in the slaughter of several thousand students, and miscellaneous individuals in the infamous Tienanmen Square, but it must be noted that those people did not have to be there. Americans are aghast and want action taken to censure the Chinese government. Yet this week the Supreme Court sentenced, in the future, perhaps a hundred-thousand poor American women (who did not have to be there) to die of vaginal infections resulting from illegally performed abortions. It certainly did not create the general furor that the Chinese suppression of the riot did in Tienanmen Square.

Women's rights, never mind equal rights, have taken quite a beating. We are left with a question concerning the source of government's prerogatives for intrusion into that area. We know what the effect of the regulation will be; precisely the same glaring success as was that of prohibition, prostitution, gambling, narcotics and every other issue of human drive or addiction we have legislated against. When will we give up this stupidity and get about our business of running our government? What about our balance of trade, deficit, national debt, foreign policy and a host of others where we are not coming out ahead?

A LIFT FOR THE WEEK
Every action of our lives touches some chord that will vibrate in eternity.

Early summer yields no deathless days

As of June 15, Texas had yet to achieve the "One Deathless Day" sought by the Texas Coalition for Safety Belts.

At least one traffic fatality had been recorded on each of the first 20 days of the summer campaign, which began Saturday, May 27. The coalition's goal is one day without a traffic death during the 101 Days of Summer. The promotion will continue through Labor Day, September 4.

From May 27 through June 15, according to preliminary counts from the Department of Public Safety, the day with the lightest toll was May 31. Only one death has been recorded on that day. The season's worst day so far was May 28, with nineteen fatalities.

The last deathless day on Texas roadways was January 5, 1977, more than 12 years ago.

The coalition encourages all Texans to buckle up and drive carefully.

MRS. JAMES ROBERT PORTER

Bishop-Porter exchange nuptials June 24

Karen Lynn Bishop and James Robert Porter were married June 24, 1989, at 8 p.m. at the University Christian Church in Austin, Texas. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fayelee Cox. Karen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.W. Bishop of Sonora; and Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Porter of Kettering, Ohio.

Karen had a sixpence in her shoe brought from England by her father and also worn by her mother; she carried a handkerchief belonging to her late paternal grandmother, Dillye Bishop, and she also wore the traditional blue garter.

The maid of honor was her sister, Deborah Bishop of Austin; and the other attendants were her sister, Cynthia Bishop of Austin; Elizabeth Matthews of Pilot Point, Texas; and Cindy Ward of Birmingham, Michigan. They wore dresses of pastel floral cotton in a tea length and they carried bouquets of pink and white flowers with cascading ivory.

Bestman was David Porter, brother of the groom, from Novi, Michigan. Groomsman were Rick Porter, a brother from Kettering, Ohio; Bob Stutrud from Atlanta, Georgia; and Jerry Pilcher from Paw Paw, Michigan. Usher and candlelighter was Michael Bishop,

EUBIE SMART TALK

by Eubie Smart

Marketers in our mailbox

If you're like me, your mailbox is filled with a growing number of catalogs and sales fliers. Maybe you bought a T-shirt by mail a while ago, and now you get a whole collection of clothing catalogs every week. It just goes to show you that sellers are getting better at finding likely buyers.

When I ask around, it's not hard to find friends who like to shop from home. But it's just as easy to find the ones who think "direct marketing" (as it's called) is nothing more than junk mail. Some think their privacy is being invaded. Others just want to have a say in the kind of sales offers they--or their children--see. Either way, good direct marketers are wise to do everything they can to pinpoint people who would be interested in their products, and to avoid bothering those who aren't.

I found myself wondering where direct marketers get lists of names to help them target mailings. How do they find us?

Well, I did some checking and here's what I found. Direct marketers get lists from a variety of places--from logs of licensed drivers and records of birth and marriage certificates, for example. (It's public information in most states--you or I can look it up if we want.) Also sellers of similar products often make extra money by renting list of their own customers to each other.

In addition, credit bureaus and other firms have huge, computerized files of data collected from assorted forms we've filled out (loan applications, etc.) or information about us that our creditors gave them. I found out these companies can't sell or even give away credit information about us to just anyone who asks. It's against the law. It must be someone like a bank or employer, and even then only when we're applying for a loan or job.

But these companies can tell their computers to pick out people with similar credit habits or histories and put them on a list. Then they rent the lists to firms that sell things by mail.

I was concerned that if my name was on one of these lists, my buying habits and how often I use a credit card would be there, too. Not so. It's names and addresses, and everyone on the list has something in common with me. It could be that we all have a certain credit card or earn a certain amount of money. In any case, it's something the list renter thinks makes us more likely to buy the product or service being offered.

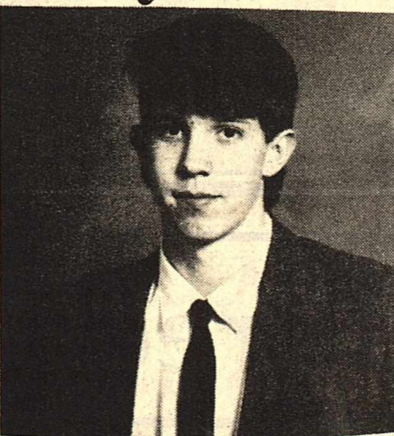

But maybe you don't want your name on these lists. What can you do? First, you can write your electric company, lenders and other companies and ask them not to give your name to direct marketers. Also, if you write the Direct Marketing Association, they'll have their members take you off their mailing lists. After all, nobody wants to spend money to tell you about an item that you simply won't buy. But maybe you want more direct mail. Well, they can take care of that, too. You can write the DMA Mail Order Preference Service at 6 East 43rd Street, New York, N.Y., 10017.

SELF CONTROL

by J. Michael Fish
Treasure hunting

You believe others must really be thinking, but will not admit it. Do you find yourself depressed a good portion of the time? Are you a worrier? Do you concentrate a great deal of time on flaws and qualities lacking in yours and others personalities? Are you basically an unhappy person?

When you hear someone explaining how good life seems to be, what is your reaction? Do you think "they must be an idiot," "a dreamer", "looking at life through 'rose-colored glasses'," or feel they must be luckier than yourself?

If you agree with any of the above questions I can help; rather I can help you help yourself.

You may honestly believe you know who or what you are; but, if that bright and shining, beautiful presence deep within you is not the first thing to 'pop' into your mind when you think of you; You are suffering a grave misconception.

All too often, it takes a tragedy or a series of debilitating events to re-adjust priorities and search inward for "answers". For me; it was such a series of events, many with tragic proportions.

You need only to question the validity of those negative beliefs within you to begin the transformation from unhappiness.

"If God didn't make trash, I must possess some quality material, in there, somewhere."

"If I am much the same as the average Joe, or Joan, on the street; I must have some very good qualities I haven't realized yet."

Just doubt your own negative opinions and begin a truly fascinating venture into the unknown and uncharted realm of your mind. Take nothing with you; no reservations or apprehensions, no inhibitions, no second thoughts; nothing.

It will be a Discovery of Self. You require only an open mind and will exert exactly the same energy as you do worrying, looking for things to make you unhappy, and fabricating your states of depression.

You will be bathed in your own gentleness and compassion, cleansed in the purity of the love you have for yourself and will learn to share with others, and will be fed liberal portions of positive belief.

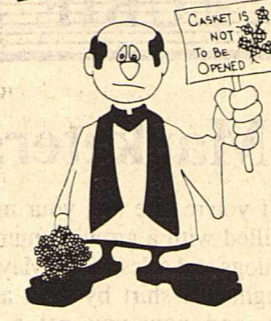

Then you will discover the 'treasure chest.' Having lain hidden by the mask of your negativity for so many years, it contains the innumerable gifts of a kind and loving God; the things you will need, to bring satisfaction, peace of mind, happiness and all the good things life in this three-dimensional plane can offer.

That treasure chest is your imagination, containing the talents and capabilities with which you will uniquely create and share. You will create because you are a child of God. You will share because the seed of love and kindness will soon burst your confines and you will be compelled to bestow it on others.

At last, as though it had been there all along, you will realize you are happy. You will be content with who you are. You will explain to others how good life seems to be. You will think and plan on how to improve yours and the lives of others. You will concentrate on the goodness within yourself and those close to you. You will eagerly confront the challenges before you, realizing they are a means to strengthen and grow.

You will thank God that you are YOU.

"THOSE CRAZY EPISCOPALIANS"

ever see one of their funerals? brrrr!

Some say an Episcopal funeral is cold. It's short, simple, and taken straight from the Prayer Book. Never maudlin. The casket remains unopened. It's covered with a pall, so you don't know if it cost a hundred dollars or a thousand. And there is no eulogy for the dead.

Episcopalians, though, say the funeral service affords one of the strong reasons for their faith in the Church, because it's conducted as much for the living as for the dead.

In such a context, eulogies seem hardly apropos. After all, we're all children of God and equal in His sight. How important, really, is the fact that "the departed" was highly regarded by his fellow man? It seems pretty insignificant compared to God's loving promise of eternal salvation.

Like its funeral service, the Episcopal Church is conducted for living people. Afterwards, it's between you and God. Your nearest Episcopal minister would be delighted to talk with you about this "living theology."

Edwin was born in Bangor, Maine, September 13, 1914, to Mae B. and Edwin E. Sawyer, both native New Englanders. He attended Sonora schools, graduated from Texas A&M University and returned to Sonora to enter the ranching business.

After his father's death in 1935, Edwin was made a director of the First National Bank of Sonora at age 20, becoming the youngest bank director in Texas. He held this position for 54 years until his death.

On June 7, 1941, Edwin married Lura Ward of Oakwood, Texas. They lived on the ranch for 10 years before building their home in Sonora.

Always active in community affairs, Edwin served as first president of the Sonora Chamber of Commerce and as first president of the Sonora Stockpens. Other activities included Hudspeth Hospital Board, ASCS Committee, director of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, and vice president of Sonora Wool and Mohair Company.

In the 1950's, Edwin, along with his partner, Jack Mackey, installed one of the first television cable systems in the state of Texas.

Seeking to improve the quality of his ranchland, Edwin worked closely with the Edwards Plateau Soil and Water Conservation District Board and was a charter member of the board when it was organized in 1946. He retired as chairman after 29 years of service.

Edwin was involved in the Great Plains Conservation program and received the Outstanding Rancher of the Year award in 1976. He also received the Excellence in Grazing Award from the Texas Section, Society of Range Management.

Since 1981, Edwin and his family have provided ranch facilities for the annual 6th Grade Field Tour, which provides hands-on learning experiences to teach children about conservation of natural resources. Slow down your electric meter!

You can help slow down your meter and lower your cooling bills by following these tips:

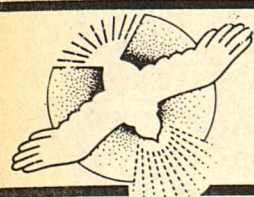

- Set your thermostat on 78° or higher and use ceiling or portable fans to help circulate the air
- Have your air conditioner serviced annually and once a month, check the filter. A dirty filter can keep your air conditioner from working efficiently.
- Keep doors, windows, and drapes firmly closed to keep cool air in and heat out.
- Protect ceiling and walls with adequate insulation. Make sure cracks around windows, doors, pipes and wiring are tightly sealed with caulking and weatherstripping.
- Use heat producing appliances, like ranges, dishwashers, and dryers during the cooler part of the day.

Bible School termed outstanding

Primera Baptist Church held their 1989 Vacation Bible School June 26-30.

The attendance, cooperation and enrollment were outstanding with sixty-five children in attendance.

Teachers for 1989 were Mrs. Nilda Hernandez, Mrs. Lola Salinas, Mrs. Rosie Fay, Mrs. Prissy Gutierrez, Gina Gamez, Joe Sanchez, and Joel Gil.

Special thanks to Mrs. Mary Hoffman who did a great job of taking the class on a "trip" to Africa; Mrs. Fela Perez for her donation; and First Baptist Church for their contribution of materials; the ladies who provided daily refreshments; Mrs. Elma de la Garza for the craft cutting; and Mr. Ruben Yorba for the wooden crafts and all-around help.

Gabriel Perez and Tresa Brown each received a Bible from the church, a blizzard from Joe Sanchez and a VBS flag for bringing more children. One of the highlights was the ever famous Puppet Show where "Little Miss Buttons" gave the Bible story each day. She was helped by "Stinky" who kept all the children in order and "Miss Piggy", "Froggy", and "Mr. Koala Bear."

Mrs. Nelda Yorba, this year's VBS director, was surprised with a wrist watch from the children and a study lamp from the teachers.

It was a great year according to Pastor Ernesto Gil.

HEALTH CARE

by Scott Gilmore, Hospital Administrator

To sleep or not to sleep

Virtually everyone loses sleep for a while over the normal stresses of life. A fight with the boss or an upcoming test can trigger this "temporary" kind of insomnia.

Insomnia that lasts up to three weeks is considered "short-term" and can be fueled by such factors as the ongoing stress of grief or divorce.

"Chronic" insomnia may last for months or even years, and is most common among the elderly.

Often people turn "temporary" insomnia into "chronic" insomnia by worrying about loss of sleep.

Experts say the most important thing to remember when you're suffering from "temporary" insomnia is that when the stress passes, sleep will return to normal. In the meantime, following normal routines will help you get through a stressful period.

Causes

Insomnia can be caused by psychological, emotional, physical, or environmental factors.

Anxiety and stress are probably the most common causes of occasional sleep loss, particularly in people under the age of 40.

In cases of chronic insomnia, sleep apnea may be a cause of sleeplessness. A person with sleep apnea stops breathing during sleep, snores and snorts in an attempt to get air, and finally awakens to breathe. These episodes can occur up to one hundred times an hour all night.

Treatment

Therapy for insomnia varies depending on the cause. Although sleeping pills may help for a night or two of temporary insomnia, relying on a pill for longer periods of time can aggravate insomnia by suppressing deep sleep.

These suggestions may help relieve occasional insomnia:

- * Relieve stress with regular exercise-but not too close to bedtime.
- * Avoid all stimulants such as coffee, tea, cola, chocolate, sugar and nicotine.
- * Avoid drinking alcohol before bed-it can deprive you of essential REM sleep.
- * Don't take daytime naps.
- * Reserve your bed as a place for sleep only.
- * Get up about the same time everyday.
- * Go to bed only when you are sleepy.

Insomnia is a symptom, and it requires a diagnosis. If you've followed these suggestions and you still can't sleep, you may want to consult a health care professional or contact a sleep disorder center in your area.

Sight accounts for 90 to 95 percent of all sensory perception in humans.

History seen through critters . . .

The curtain will close July 16 on the second successful summer Central Texas Children's Festival at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos. Three lively plays written by SWT Playwright-in-residence Charles Pascoe have rotated on the stage of the SWT University Theater during the four-week festival.

"Cave Song" features cave spirits, stalactites and stalagmites who promote conservation and preservation of the Edwards Aquifer; "The Next Amendment" uses an interesting menagerie including the Red, White and Blue Jay to deliver the message of freedom guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution and Bill of Rights; and Texas history as seen through the eyes of other unique critters like Carmadillo and Buffalo Mama in "Oracles of the Balcones." This scene from the "Oracle" features Diamond, the rattlesnake, portrayed by Kim Jacox of Houston and Kelly Russell of Sonora as Jack, the rabbit. Contributed photo.

Field day and auction set

The annual Angora goat field day and performance tested billy sale will be July 27 at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station near Sonora.

About 250 animals will be completing the performance test and many observers believe this to be the best collection of angora males to have been tested, said Dr. Maurice Shelton, professor with the Experiment Station at San Angelo.

"It is very likely that the best Angora male in the world is in this test group, but the challenge is to determine which one this is," said Shelton, coordinator of the test.

"In fact, the single best animal may be the one which best suits the producer's conditions and long-term goals."

The goats may be inspected that day up until the time of the auction, he said.

A barbecue lunch will be served by the Edwards County 4-H club at 11:30 a.m.

Various subjects will be discussed in a program given by Johnny Fields, Charles Little, Dr. Tom Fuchs, Dr. Chris Lupton and comments on the goat test by Dr. Shelton. This will be followed by the goat auction which begins at 2 p.m.

TRM school set for August

Ranchers in the 19-county area around Uvalde have some help in dealing with the current economic crisis in agriculture. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has piloted a project called Total Ranch Management (TRM).

The seventh 8-day school for ranchers will be in August 15-18 and 21-24 at the Texas A&M Agricultural Research and Extension Center here.

The TRM school is directed toward helping ranchers evaluate decisions, define criterion for improving management decisions, and evaluation technology. TRM is planned to help ranchers organize their ranches, develop plans, and analyze operations to achieve goals.

The teaching staff for the school is Dr. Dale Rollins, Extension wildlife specialist; Dr. Larry White, Extension range specialist; Dr. Tommy Welch, weed and brush control specialist; and Dr. Tom Troxel, Extension livestock specialist.

Due to the intensity of the training and limited space for workshops, the TRM school in August has been limited to 25 participants. Further information may be received by contacting the Total Ranch Management Program, Texas A&M Research and Extension Center, P.O. Box 1849, Uvalde, Texas 78802-1849, telephone 512/278-9151.

Host families sought

Host families are being sought for high school exchange students from the following countries: Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Belgium, Austria, Switzerland, West Germany, Spain, France, Italy, Ecuador, Australia and Japan. The American Intercultural Student Exchange, a non-profit educational organization, is sponsoring this program for the 1989/90 school year.

The students, ages 15 to 17, will arrive in the U.S. in August 1989, attend the high school in your area and return to their home countries in early July, 1990. All students are fluent in English, have been screened by representatives in their home countries, have spending money and medical insurance.

Prospective host families should enjoy teenagers, have a genuine interest in learning about the customs and culture of another country and the desire to share American traditions with a foreign student.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, The Independent Cattlemen's Association of Texas is the largest non-affiliated cattlemen's association in the United States, growing from the 17 ranchers who assembled in Goliad to thousands of men and women residing throughout Texas today; and

WHEREAS, The Independent Cattlemen's Association of Texas, working from the county level up, was organized to represent not only big and little cow-calf producers, but also registered breeders, commercial cow-calf producers, and related agribusinesses such as market operators, bankers, equipment suppliers, feed dealers, and many other small businesses, all working together as a coalition of concerned citizens; and

WHEREAS, The goals and purposes of the association are to promote free enterprise, improve marketing, increase agricultural research, improve beef promotion through a voluntary beef check-off program, protect the rights of property owners, provide youth scholarships, and develop positive solutions to problems facing Texas beef producers; and

WHEREAS, The Independent Cattlemen's Association of Texas has been instrumental in passage of the countercyclical meat import bill, which alleviated some of the problems massive imports have caused, and it also worked with both state and federal agencies to change implementation of some of the most harmful aspects of the federal government's brucellosis program, making them at least more palatable to producers; and

WHEREAS, The Independent Cattlemen's Association of Texas is truly organized from the county up, existing totally on voluntary donations from its members, all of whom share common goals and concerns that are not only for the welfare of cattle producers but also for the welfare of the entire country; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Texas, 71st Legislature, hereby recognize and congratulate the members of the Independent Cattlemen's Association of Texas on the occasion of the association's 15th anniversary; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That official copies of this Resolution be prepared for the association as expressions of high regard from the members of the Texas Senate and Texas House of Representatives.

I hereby certify that the above Resolution was adopted by the Senate and the House of Representatives in March, 1989

Excellent ratings received by Band members

by Chuck Harris

On June 3rd, six Sonora High School Band members traveled to Austin to compete in the State Solo and Ensemble Contest.

This competition is one of if not, the toughest in the nation. Perfection is required to receive superior ratings. All the students brought home division "2" or excellent ratings.

The students were Cynthia Kepler; piano solo, mallet solo, and percussion ensemble: Chuck Harris; trombone solo: Catherine Kepler; clarinet solo: Eric Espinosa; percussion ensemble: Susan McCleery; percussion ensemble.

The prestigious honor of qualifying for this contest was bestowed on these students after they made division "1" ratings at district competition.

Another addition to make the contest at state harder was the requirement of solo memorization. This is the best Sonora has done in years. Congratulations to everyone.
