

Emergency loan applications being accepted by FmHA

Applications for emergency farm coans for losses cauused by natural disaster due to damages and losses caused by drought conditions which occurred January 1 through August 31, 1988 and continuing, are being accepted at the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) office, FmHA County Supervisor Ben T. Rucker said recently. The office is located in the Eden ASCS Building, Eden, Texas.

Sutton County is one of fifty counties in Texas recently named by Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng as eligible for loans to cover part of actual production losses resulting from the drought.

Rucker said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to eighty percent of their actual losses or the operating loan needed to continue business or $500,000, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest rate is 4.5 percent.

"As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least thirty percent loss of production to be eligible for an emergency FmHA loan," Rucker said. Farmers participating in the PIK or Federal Crop Insurance program will have to figure proceeds from those programs in determining their loss.

"Applications for loans under this emergency designation will be accepted until September 11, 1989 but farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing and possibly over into the new farming season," Rucker continued.

FmHA is a credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and is authorized to provide disaster emergency loans to recognized farmers who work at and rely on farming for a substantial part of their living. Eligibility is extended to individual farmers who are U.S. citizens and to farming partnerships, corporations or cooperatives in which U.S. citizens hold a majority interest.

The FmHA office in Eden is open from 8 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. The mailing address is P.O. Box H. Eden, Texas 76837 and telephone (915)869-3941.

Office period for Sutton County is the Thursday morning following the second Wednesday of each month from 10 a.m. to noon and is located in the Sutton County ASCS office, 216 E. Main, Sonora. The next office period is scheduled for Thursday morning, August 10.

The Covered Wagon Dinner Theater presents . . . Don Edwards, America's cowboy troubadour

Don Edwards will be appearing at the Covered Wagon Dinner Theater on Friday, August 11 as part of a very Western weekend.

Living in Weatherford, Texas, Don has a long list of performing credentials including appearances on all three major television networks plus the Nashville Network, West German Public Television, the BBC in London, KRO Radio in Hilverson, Holland, and Radio 1 from Auckland, New Zealand, His 1988 performances took him all over the U.S. and 1989 has been as busy.

Edwards is a cowboy singerguitarist-composer-poet. His gray hair and tanned face give him an authentic cowboy look. "I have cowboyed, working with cowboys doing day work on some of the big ranches in Texas and New Mexico, he states. "I try to do enough to keep myself in perspective but in no way am I the hand those working cowboys are. I'm a whole lot handier with a guitar than a rope."

Anyone who has heard him will not argue about his musical ability as his expertise and extensive cowboy, western and traditional repertoire, laced with a touch of the blues and swing, has captured the hearts of audiences all over the world.

Edwards was born in 1939, the son of an actor/magician. By age 11, he had learned to play the guitar and he was strongly influenced by his movie cowboy heroes.

Musically he defines himself as 'a pretty decent guitarist,' he plays both six and twelve string and a vintage 1926 Gibson Mastertone guitar-banjo. Vocally he was influenced by Marty Robbins and Bob Nolan and the yodeling styles of Roy Rogers and Elton Britt. His writing reflects the influence of the cowboy minstrels and balladeers

This is the last time my ramblings will fill this portion of the paper as, with this issue of the Devil's River News, I bid adieu to Sonora.

With any luck I will have the cute, small U-Haul trailer bulging at the seams, and be in route to my new home in Albuquerque sometime this Sunday.

Since I grew up in Albuquerque, it will be a sort of 'going home' even though I know you can never go back. The move will offer many opportunities and I welcome the challenges.

Sonora has been good and I will leave many close friends however, I will take the beauty of each with me so that they will remain close.

The experiences I have gleaned during my time with the Devil's River News have been invaluable. I have appreciated the support of many of Sutton County's finest people and comments from the critics as well. I have been party to many changes here at the paper through the past four years, from computers for typesetting to air conditioning in the office to fresh paint on the walls.

I have had the opportunity to work with some wonderful people without whom each week there would be no paper. One of the first lessons I ever learned in working in the capacity of "boss" was that I was only as good as the people behind me--and I have had the best!

Plans are to have a new publisher as soon as possible and I hope you will welcome them.

What should be stored in a safe-deposit box?

How do I know if I need a safedeposit box? What should be stored, and how much do these boxes cost?

Any possession considered valuable to the owner is a candidate for storage in a safe-deposit box. That could include a stamp collection, insurance policies, photos of relatives or as one bank discovered, a gold tooth. If you own anything that would be difficult to replace should it be lost or destroyed, you may want to consider renting a safe-deposit box. Whatever is stored in the box is strictly confidential-only the renter knows the contents.

The cost and conditions for renting a safe-deposit box vary with each bank. Safe-deposit boxes can provide peace of mind for a realitively low cost. Generally, safe-deposit boxes run less than $50 a year, depending on the size of the box.

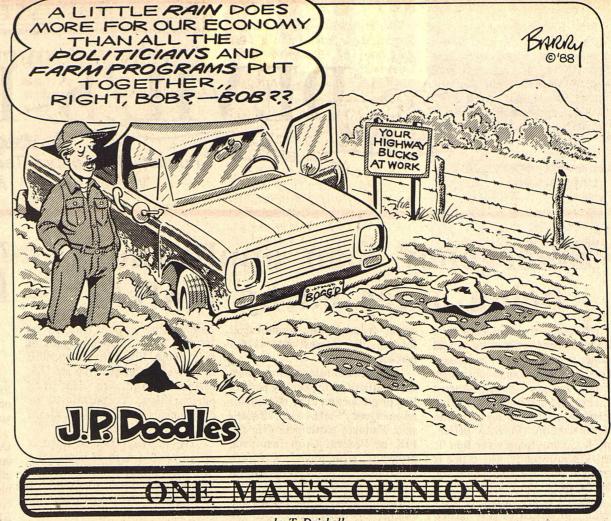

Most banks require that the renter be a depositor at the bank. A legal contract will be drawn up between the renter and the bank spelling out the terms of the lease.

I understand the state runs some type of network that maiches investors with entreprenuers looking for financial backing. How can I find out more about this?

You are probably referring to VCN of Texas, the not-for-profit Venture Capital Network marketed by the Texas Department of Commerce.

Entreprenuers seeking venture capital and investors looking for a small or growing business in which to stake a financial interest can contact the VCN program.

For a $200 annual subscription fee, entreprenuers and investors can be placed into the system. Based on information in the application each party completes, the computer searches the files until a match can be made. The Department of Commerce then brings the two parties together. All information is kept confidential. This program is not intended to take the place of other venture capital sources such as banks, investment organizations or other firms, but rather to compliment these programs. If you would like an application, call 1-800-888-0511 or 512-320-0110.

by T. Driskell

Recently a Reader who identified himself as a friend expended considerable energy in taking one of my columns and running it through an excellent computer editorial program. I would like to express my gratitude, particularly for the explanation of the remarks of the programs. Those sheets provided the best summary of organizational grammar I have encountered in fifty years.

Admittedly the editorial program is aimed at the business and technical writing fields, obsessed with creating desire or selling something, but the software creators have attempted to make it cover the whole realm of writing. The motivation of the writer leads to difficulties in program adjustment in the passive--active area.

My motivation for writing, sometimes as many as three articles per week is relaxation and relief of mental tension. It began as a financial tool in the late 1940's, anticipating government action, and investing accordingly. Evolution has converted it into a relief valve, to maintain sanity in search of an answer to the question; Can we balance our budget and pay our indebtedness under our present political system? How can I be positive or active? During the naivity of my 20's and 30's, those roads were traveled to this economic whirlpool.

The spelling part of your editorial program is excellent, but the outstanding part is sentence criticism. The program should give the young student, or the old one, a tool which can immediately be available to improve one's writing. This would be particularly important at the university level to allow the student to have a preview of the grader's view. Use of the sentence analysis should also lead to a clearer and more direct sentence structure.

Some parts of your program are frightening to me, not perhaps for business and technical papers, but for the artistic writers. They impose inhibitions on a young writer which once imposed we cannot. erase. The limited sentence, desirable in business and technical writing is a needless restriction on the artist. Artistic writers can to pay the rent, write in the four-letter language of the street and the rate of sale makes one wonder how close the world of George Orwell is. The street writers cannot write in the artistic field, but the converse is true. We can develop compliance, but not talent.

Your program's rejection of adding a suffix or a prefix to generate an understandable english word to replace two or, in some cases, more words is intolerable. English, in spite of what the universities believe, is a living language and tomorrow it will not be where it is today. Where did it come from? A mixture of four old languages borrowed words from other more progressives languages and added suffixes and prefixes for what, to us, is an understandable language. Can we stop the process? Hardly; try wiping "you know?" as a vocalized pause off our streets.

My writings have many shortcomings, but they functioned beautifully as financial tools until the 1970's. They were not created to be read by fifth graders, and have generated dicionary use you would not believe.

Thanks for the effort you put into the analysis. You write a good business letter. Your editorial program comments are deeply appreciated, and you can see some reflection in this. Two questions remain: The excellent "cheeky" cartoon (if you sent it) was gratefully received, but where is the frame? Did budgetary limitations eliminate it?

DEAR TEXAS EMPLOYERS: You may not have questioned lately the 0.2% FUTA surtax that you have been paying since 1976 on your federal unemployment insurance taxes. Evidently, the federal government is banking on your not noticing that you continue to pay a tax which should have expired in 1987.

The 0.2% surtax was enacted in 1976 as a means of paying off an $8.7 billion debt in the national unemployment insurance system. The surtax served its purpose and the debt was retired but it appears that federal legislators could not bring themselves to retire a steady stream of revenue totaling almost $1 billion annually...so they extended the tax through 1990.

The Texas Employment Commission has supported elimination of the surtax since 1987. Now, a bill to repeal the 0.2 percent FUTA surtax has been introduced by two Oregon representatives, Ron Wyden and

An aid to locating vital records

Vital records are just that. . Research Center, a national non-.vital. We need access to them.

In this age of bureaucratic documentation, everyone has need of copies of records of birth, death, marriage or divorce. An application for benefits from the Veterans Administration or Social Security, a passport or marriage license requries not only the information in the records but usually copies of the records themselves.

All these records are stored permanently by municipalities, counties, states and the Federal government. We all know this, but where each document is kept isfrequently unknown.

profit consumer group, found there was little uniformity on where the records were available and the costs. In some states, birth records are kept by the city and in others by the county or state. To further complicate matters, often older records are held in different places than current ones. In addition, the addresses where the records are kept are changed quite often.

The consumer group found many people had difficulty in locating the records they needed. Often it was necessary to make expensive long distance calls just to find out where to write, what information was required and how much money to send. For that reason CERC has been publishing a book entitled Where to Write for Vital Records which contains a state-by-state listing of the addresses and telephone numbers of the archive by Carole Thorp August promises to be another full month at the Sutton County Senior Center.

Work has already begun on our float for the Sutton County Days Parade and we already have eighteen people signed up to ride on it. Material has been donated to construct a shade on the float so we won't broil in the sun.

We will also have a booth on the Courthouse lawn during the celebration on August 26 where we will be selling fruit cups. If you can donate an hour to work in the booth, please call us at the Center, 387-5657.

In addition to the float and the booth during Sutton County Days, we will also be selling donations on a beautiful afghan which has been handmade at the Center. The afghan will be on display in our booth. Tickets for the drawing will be $1 each.

August birthdays will be celebrated at the Center on August 28 with cake and punch. We will be honoring Jacinto Garza, Maybelle Lambeth, Louisa Gonzales, and Melvin Glasscock.

The van will be going to San Angelo on August 29 and we will have a Nutrition Program on August 30.

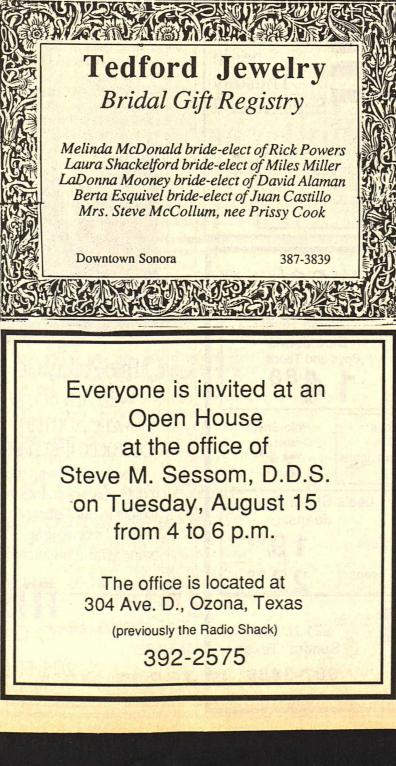

There are six spots open for Senior Citizens from Sonora to attend the Rural Senior Citizens Retreat at H.E.B. Foundation Camp near Leakey. The camp will be held October 9 through 11. Registration forms and additional information are available at the Center.

We are still playing bingo each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon and there's always the sing-a-long each Friday after lunch. Bring a friend and join us, we'd love to have you!

We are making more and more dollars and less and less money.

Green key opens college doors

Good grades and high SAT scores are only the first step toward getting into college.

"Every student requires what I call "The Green Key" says financial aid expert Larry Dreyer. "A student must have not only the grades and test scores, but also the money he or she needs to unlock the door to college."

"Every year, says Dreyer, "thousands of students are admitted to the college of their choice and aid their children receive," says the financial aid expert.

A free copy of "The Green Key: Financial Aid for College" is available by sending a long, selfaddressed envelope with 45 cents postage on it to the Foundation for Educational Funding, 13941 East Amar Road, La Puente, CA 91746.

then can't attend for financial reasons. It's sad. And in almost every case, it's unnecessary. Those students could have had the money if they'd known where to look for it and how to apply for it.

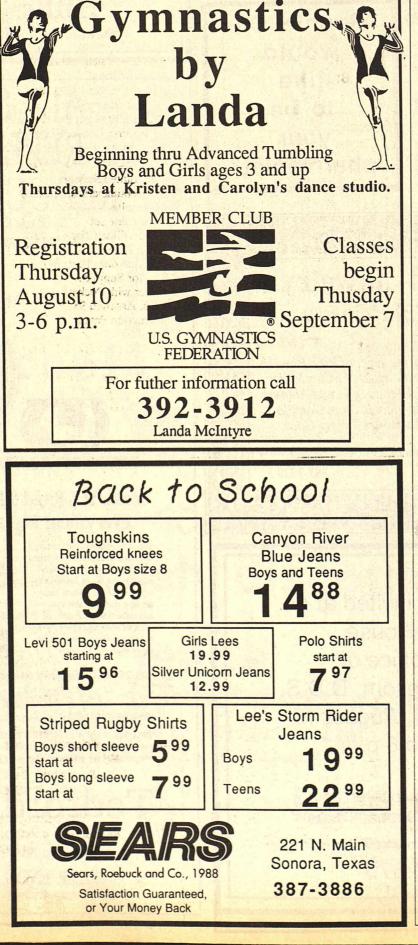

"Knowing that the money is available is important," Dreyer notes. "Knowing exactly how to apply for it is even more important."

Dreyer, formerly Director of Financial Aid at a major state university, left his position to form the Foundation for Education Funding, a non-profit organization that provides information on available financial aid to collegebound students. Using a vast computerized databank of information, the Foundation matches eligible students with available funds.

The Foundation is offering students and their parents a free copy of "The Green Key: Financial Aid for College." The 16-page booklet gives students and parents insight into how the financial aid process really works, and what can be done to improve a student's chances of receiving the maximum amount of assistance.

The booklet provides a candid look at how aid is calculated and dispensed at thousands of universities and colleges around the country. It explains what financial aid officers look at when determining who gets money, and it provides specific tips on how a student can make the best possible case. Included is a special section for parents, telling them actions they can take that will maximize the amount their child receives.

"Many people think that financial aid is only for the poor. Yet it's often middle-income families that most need financial aid in order to make the college dream a reality," Dreyer says. The Foundation offers a unique service in which it analyzes a family's financial information and tells them just how much aid they will qualify for when they apply to schools. "By having this evaluation done early, parents can often take a few simple steps that will make thousands of dollars difference in the amount of financial

"The hell there ain't! There's an the hundred-or-so yards to the barn art to hoein' weeds just like there is to fetch the beloved, blister when makin' a post hole! Boy, producing hoe. "Looky here. Just put the hoe 'bout a half inch under the dirt and the cloud of dust I created that pull it to you, cuttin' 'em off at the hovered around me while I roots soz they don't grow back," he disregarded the powdered soil that said as he demonstrated the maneuver several times. Surprisingly, it made perfectly good sense and I felt rather naive and ignorant at having had to be instructed in such a simple chore.

It was some time later when I realized the significance of the philosophy he related that afternoon. Simply by considering all the elements involved in any endeavor, understanding the universal laws and procedures that apply, and concentrating actions in the desired direction, one can not only perform in a more effective manner but the job is made less laborious.

As Frank said, even living life is an art. By understanding one's self, the nature of the environment, and the laws and methods that apply, one can arrive at any objective more directly and easily.

The keys to the principle are desire, an objective, the proper understanding and action as opposed to procrastination. Ride 'em, Poncho!

And thanks, Jimmy C.

Misusing drugs can damage your health prescribed drugs in the U.S. are minor tranquilizers (antianxiety medications). These drugs are often prescribed to relieve anxiety, tension and sleeplessness.

Among the most common are Valium (generically known as diazepam) Librium (generically known as chlordiazepoxide), Serax, Tranxene, Paxipam, Centrax, Ativan, and Xanax. Dalmane, Halcion, and Restoril are among those prescribed for sleeplessness.

Like every medicine, these drugs have a potential for positive effects if they are taken correctly, AND a potential for harm if they are misused.

Tranquilizers are depressants. They affect the brain by slowing dowin the signals it sends to the rest of the body. As a result, the user may feel less tense or nervous, or the drug may actually induce sleep.

These drugs are often very helpful when used correctly (as prescribed by a health care professional). But often, peope misuse them by taking what to watch for in terms of too many, or by taking them for negative effects.

Some of the most widely extended periods of time. Regular use over a period of time may result in tolerance, which means you have to take larger and larger doses to get the same effect. Studies show that when regular large dosage users suddenly stop, they may develop withdrawal symptoms ranging from restlessness, insomnia and anxiety, to convulsions.

> Users can become psychologically dependent as well, feeling as if they need the drug to function. You can become free of tranquilizers, but not by quitting cold turkey. Your health care professional can ease you through withdrawal by gradually reducing the dosage.

> The use of tranquilizers with alcohol multiplies their effects and greatly increases the risk of death.

> When taking medications be sure you know what you are taking and why you are taking it; how much you should take and how often; know what effect is expected and do the "roman collars" label them catholics?

Episcopalians and Roman Catholics and Presbyterians and Baptists and Methodists ... these and countless other denominations exist because of the differences between men

It's the similarities between men that produce Christians.

Episcopalians are proud of both their differences AND their similarities to other denominations. You can call them anything you like. They're Protestant because their forebears were among the leaders of the Protestant Reformation in 16th-Century England. But the word "Catholic" means "universal, whole, or complete"... and, certainly, Episcopalians are proud to embrace all the traditions of Christ's "universal church."

In short, they don't feel that heaven is reserved for those who agree with the Episcopal viewpoint. They say, "There's only one God. Let's share. OK?'

By the way, would you believe that the "backward collar" was not a Roman-Catholic invention? It was introduced by a priest of the Church of England, parent of the Episcopal Church in the United States. He devised it as a mark of identification during his ministrations to the London Dock area.

It's surprising how often people new to the Episcopal faith discover that its 'peculiarities'' help them appreciate the universality of the Christian religion. Think about that.

Library News

"Creature Features" was the theme at the Sutton County Library for the summer reading program. A party was held for all of the children that were involved in reading this summer. At that time, certificates were given out to the individuals that had been busy reading for prizes. Also, all of those that reached their "goals" received a Banana Split coupon from Dairy Queen. It was estimated that approximately 185 children were signed-up for the summer, and those reaching their goals were 65.

The children did and excellent job this summer--hopefully they will return next summer with more enthusiasm. Being recognized for reading the most books was Junior Odom. A BIG thank you goes to the girls that helped at the Wednesday morning movie and just being there.

This library contains over 200,000 volumes of family history records and a list of almost a quartermillion people who are willing to share information to help you find your family roots.

To get a copy of this useful book, send $6.50 to CERC Documents, 350 Scotland Rd., Orange, N.J. 07050.

Robert L. Berko, executive director of CERC says that originally the book was published to satisfy the needs of persons applying for various benefits but many others have found it useful. He has received letters from libraries, coroners, law enforcement, social agencies, credit grantors, collection agencies, stock ownership tracers, lawyers, person searching for missing heirs and even those interested in searching their family roots. All these and others have found use for a book that helps them locate and prove the status of individuals.

Many times documents can be used to prove things other than what they record. For instance, one woman wrote to the group telling them that a birth certificate for her child proved her residence at that time in the United States and helped her become eligible for legal residence and citizenship.

Border Patrol Agent David M. Reyna of the Van Horn Border Patrol Station was presented with the Employee of the Month award for his consistent performance during the month of June. Agent Reyna maintains a low profile which can cloud over his more than positive actions in executing his duties. He has been instrumental in the majority of the station apprehensions, not only for the month of June, but looking back at station records, throughout the year.

On June 22, while conducting signcutting operations near the Rio Grande, a trail of four aliens was intercepted by Agent Reyna and his Supervisor. What was expected to be a routine trail of illegal aliens turned into a narcotics smuggling case in which four perpetrators and over 134 pounds of marijuana were apprehended.

Agent Reyna had proceded on foot, as is customary when following trails in this rough terrain, while his partner had gone ahead by vehicle in an attempt to intercept the trail. When transpired shortly thereafter is what most Agents working the line fear. Agent Reyna came upon a bale of marijuana which had been dropped by the aliens. He proceeded following the tracks advising his partner by walkie-talkie, which began malfunctioning at this time.

radio went completely dead. The tracks indicated four perpetrators. The bale of marijuana definitely established them as narcotics traffickers, and past experience has taught us the potential danger of dealing with these people. The man on the tracks is positively at a disadvantage when it comes to an ambush. During the following hours agent Reyna was on his own. He apprehended the perpetrators and two more bales of marijuana, secured the suspects, and climbed a high point where he took off his undershirt, hung it on a bush, where the contrast of the white garment to the drab desert environment was obvious, and was able to attract the attention of his partner. Agent Reyna would describe it as a routine trail without fanfare, and perhaps it may appear so. His dedication and "Gung-Ho" attitude certainly deserve the same recognition awarded to others, whose exploits appear less deserving.

While not occurring during the reporting month, another case which supplements Agent Reyna's performance, involved a hot chase and the trailing on foot of two armed and dangerous suspects in the mountains East of Van Horn. The two suspects were tracked down by the same two Agents in which two white male adults, a .357 magnum revolver, and one sawed-off double barreled shotgun were recovered and turned over to the local Sheriff's office.

Keeping control over personal information

Have you heard about the new shopper's card that grocery store swill be using soon?

It looks like a credit card--but it will have a bar code that's scanned the same way products are. Information about what we buy and how much we spend will be matched with our I.D. number and stored in a grocery store computer.

The shopper's card could be very useful. Grocers will know exactly what we like, and they'lll have just the right amount in the store when we need it. And without all the overstock, grocers can cut their costs--and maybe even our grocery bills! Especially if grocers give us coupons for things we buy a lot.

But I was thinking, what if this information is used for other purposes--sold or rented to companies who want to sell us something, or example?

Many consumers appreciate getting mail or phone offers, but others are concerned this can go too far.

If your grocer offers a shopper's card, ask what they plan to do with the information. If your privacy isn't well protected, tell them.

such as credit information? We all know that banks, credit and utility companies keep records about us--how we pay our bills, how much credit we have and so forth. The information is kept in computers and often provided to credit bureaus who pass it on to those who want to give us loans or credit, rent to us, or hire us.

But what if there's an error in records? How do we know it's there, and how do we keep it from being released to others?

Sometimes it's not easy. But you can find out what's in your credit record and who has asked for information about you at any time for a small fee. Washer Picking Contest scheduled Sutton County Days are fast approaching and the Sonora Volunteer Fire Department will have its Second Annual Washer Picking Contest during this year's celebrations. The purpose of this contest is for everyone to have a little fun plus raise money for our local volunteers to attend the 1990 State Convention.

The "Washer Picking" is very simple. Each person will pick a washer from a bag of washers. Every washer is stamped with a number 1-500. If washer #1 is picked the person pays one cent. If washer #500 is picked, the person pays five dollars. The most anyone would pay is five dollars for a chance at several nice prizes.

Come to the Courthouse Saturday, August 26th, enjoy the food and booths and "pick a washer" while you're there.

"In any case," Said Gustafon, "we hope that we have reversed a trend this summer. Texas traffic deaths increased in calendar year 1988, the first such increase since 1984. We want those numbers to go down again in 1989."

To that end, the coalition spokesperson urged all motorists to continue driving carefully and to buckle up. "We still have a month remaining, and another holiday weekend, in the vacation season,' he said.

The summer's deadliest day so far was June 3, with 21 fatalities reported. However, Gustafon noted that Texas had only 34 traffic deaths over the Independence Day weekend. Five additional holiday fatalities have been reported since the

All air conditioning systems may look similar when you're shopping for a new one, but before you purchase, be sure you know about the Seasonal Energy Efficiency Ratio. S.E.E.R. is a system that rates air conditioning equipment usually from 5 to 15 so shoppers will know how energy efficient a unit is.

WTU recommends selecting a unit with a rating of 9 or higher to insure lower operating costs.

Plus a S.E.E.R. of 9 or above can qualify you for a rebate under WTU's Energy Saving Plan. Ask for details.

To find out more about the S.E.E.R. rating of cooling equipment, call your cooling and heating dealer or West Texas Utilities.

Exhibition enters last three weeks in Kerrville

The Cowboy Artists "Masterpiece Exhibition" has three weeks remaining in its four-month run at Kerrville Cowboy Artists of America Museum.

The huge display features 66 paintings and bronzes and encompasses three of the museum's four galleries. Sunday, August 27 will be the exhibition's final day.

Museums personnel organized the "Masterpiece Exhibition" only for display in Kerrville. When it is dismantled, the paintings and bronzes will not travel to another exhibit site, but will be dispersed back to their owners.

The artworks were assembled primarily from private collections across the United States and represent the top pieces produced by members of the Cowboy Artists of America, a group founded in 1965. Twenty percent of the artworks earned gold and silver medals at past competitions.

According to the museum director Gene Ball, "Paintings and bronzes in this exhibition can be appreciated in several ways. Each work incorporates an idea or theme for viewers to explore. Then there is the visual reward of the interplay of colors, composition, design and perspective. And, of course one of the extra elements which many people appreciate is authenticity in details based on diligent historical research and keen-eyed close study of today's western scene."

The Masterpiece Exhibition can be seen Monday through Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. Museum admission fees are $2 for adults and $.50 for children ages 6-12.

The CAA Museum is located in Kerrville on Highway 173 one-half mile from Highway 16.

News from the Department of Veterans Affairs

Department of Veterans Affairs a few years ago for Agent Orange exposure. The claim was denied. Should I file another claim in light of the recent federal court ruling on Agent Orange?

A.- No action on your part is necessary. Once the new regulations are in place, VA will begin to review decisions which were affected by the original rules. All veterans will be notified of the outcome of this review, even if there is no change in the original decision on the claim.

Q.- Are VA edcuational benefits payable for an "incomplete" grade? A.-Yes, provided the incomplete converts to a credit or punitive

Q.- I filed a claim with the grade within a calendar year. If the course is not completed within a calendar year, a retroactive overpayment will be created to recover payments made during the period instruction was offered.

Q.-Can I get a release of liability from the VA if a non-veteran assumes my VA-guaranteed home loan?

A.- Yes. If the buyer meets the income and credit standards of the Department of Veterans Affairs you may be released from liability. If your VA-guaranteed loan was committed to be made after March 1, 1988, you must obtain the approval of the loan holder or the VA before the loan can be transferred or assumed.

Q.- If I encounter legal difficulties while purchasing a home using my GI home loan, will the VA provide or pay for any legal assistance I may need?

A .- No. The Department of Veterans Affairs does not provide legal assistance or advice; nor can the Department pay for legal assistance a veteran obtains to deal with troubles encountered in the purchase of construction of a home.

Q.- My husband is buried in a VA National CEmetery. Am I entitled to burial in the same cemetery?

A.- Yes. Burial in a National Cemetery is available to a veteran's widow, minor children, unmarried children under the age of 23 attending school and under certain circimstances, to unmarried adult children.

Q.- Does the Department of Veterans Affairs help veterans find lenders for VA-guaranteed mortgages?

A.- No. Veterans must make their own arrangements for loans through the usual lending channels, such as banks, savings and loan associations and mortgage loan companies. Real estate brokers may assist a veteran in finding a lender. The local VA regional office may also provide names of lenders who have recently made VA loans.
