Jury selected in Favela trial

Upon questioning, more than a dozen Sonora residents said they knew him.

Some remember him as a baby before his mother died, others know his father, and one played baseball with him when they were boys.

Monday, they were asked if they would be able to send Tomas Favela to prison for 99 years if he is convicted of selling a drug to an undercover agent.

"It would be pretty hard," said a neighbor of Favela's when District Attorney J. W. Johnson asked if he could be a fair and impartial juror.

"I guess not," admitted another, when asked if he would be able to vote for the maximum sentence.

One woman, explaining that she knew Favela since he was a baby, silently shook her head when Johnson pressed her about remaining fair and impartial.

"If you think I'm putting you on the spot now," Johnson warned during the jury selection process, "this is nothing compared to tomorrow or the next day."

One man became upset by the questions.

"He's not even convicted yet," he bristled.

Of the 44 members of the jury panel, more than a third indicated they would not be able to be impartial while considering a request for maximum sentencing if Favela is convicted.

Favela sat impassively staring at the courtroom ceiling while he listened to his neighbors say it would be very difficult to send him to prison. His is the first trial resulting from a March 6, roundup in which 14 persons were arrested for allegedly selling methamphetamine.

The final jury selection process for Favela's trial began at 2:35 p.m. Monday. Of 200 local residents originally called, 44 were named to the jury panel after the group had been advised of qualifications and screened for exemptions and hardships.

Johnson and defense attorney Joseph Montemayor, of Dallas, then proceeded with the voir dire phase of the selection process to weed out prospective jurors they

Ballinger beats Sonora 33-7

The Sonora Broncos didn't expect to beat the Ballinger Bearcats, but for a while it was a very close game.

In the first half the Broncos held Ballinger to a single touchdown. But the Bearcats, rated No. 2 in an Associated Press Class 3A statewide poll, forged ahead in the third quarter with a second touchdown, and scored an additional 20 points in the last 12 minutes of the game.

Sonora's Eric Espinosa received a pass from David Mirice in the fourth quarter and scored the Broncos only touchdown.

Friday's 33-7 defeat leaves the Broncos with a 4-1 record as they face Fredericksburg.

West Texas has the opportunity to be represented by a superbly qualified West Texan as our next governor! We in west Texas have been severely affected by the rough economic that agriculture and the petroleum industries of the state have been experiencing.

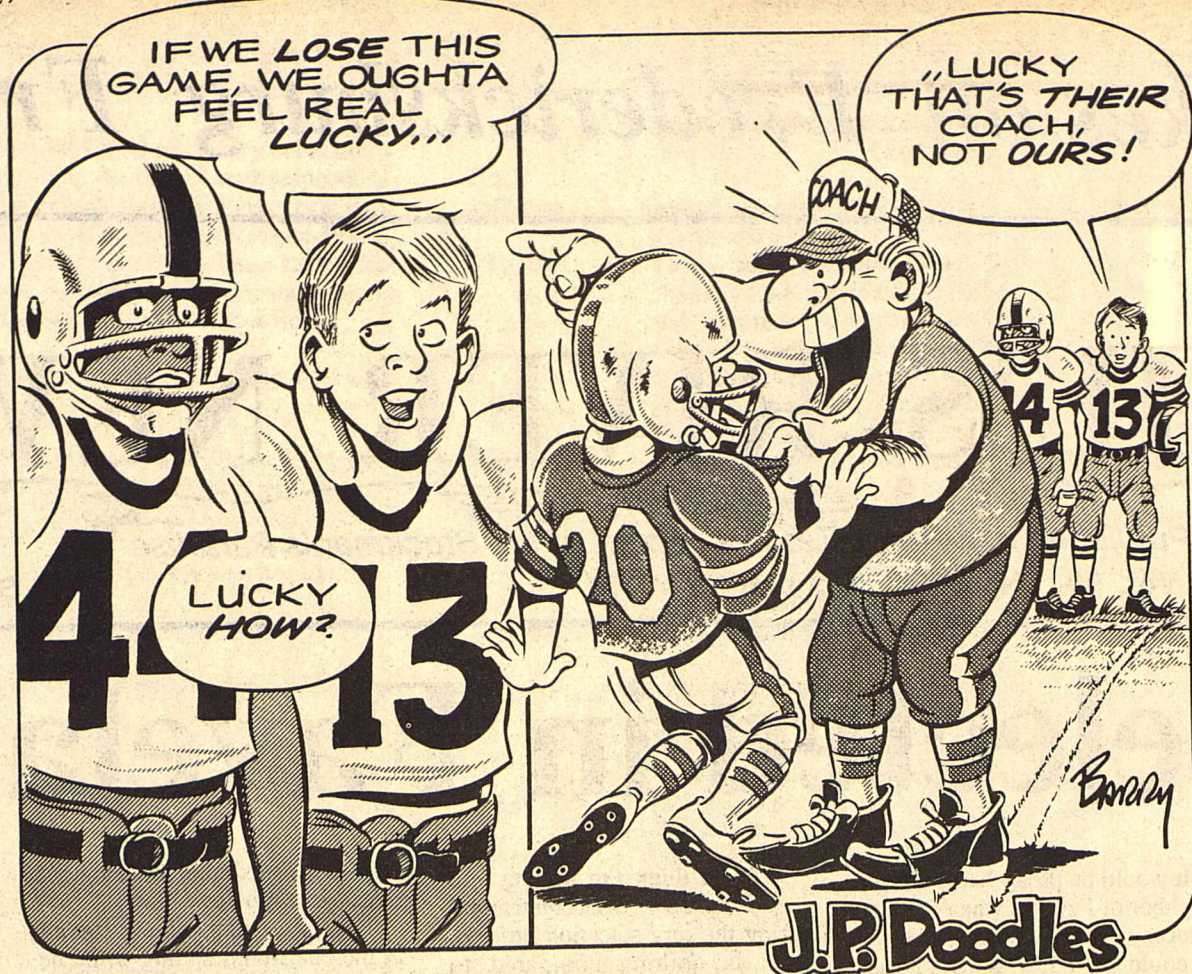

Now we have a man as a candidate for Governor who has a ton of experience in both of these fields, along with several others. Clayton Williams has 32 years of experience in business. An entrepreneur, he has founded 26 companies since 1957 and has created over 100,000 jobs throughout Texas.

He owns, or has owned, the following major companies: ClayDesta Communications, ClayDesta National Bank, ClayDesta Corporation, Clayton Williams, Jr., Inc., Williams Ranches and Farms and Clayton Gas Company. He has experience in the state's major industries - energy, farming, ranching, real estate, banking and high technology, and has been successful in all of them.

West Texas needs a man of this calibre to represent us in state government. Concerned and caring citizens of Sutton County and it's adjacent counties, Crockett, Kimble, Val Verde and Schleicher, are invited to meet and visit, and get to know, Clayton at West Texans for Clayton Williams rally to be held at the high school cafeteria on Monday afternoon, October 23rd, at 5:00 pm.

Clayton is one of us. He speaks our language and he knows what our state needs for leadership. Come hear what his plans are for the future of Texas. Everyone is invited.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

by T. Driskell

It is beginning become dubious whether or not we will receive our required Autumnal rains, leaving the scales tilted against a cold winter which may have a strong influence on our spring rain cycle.

We have not had our autumn rains for three years and have missed our spring rains for four years. Our dependence has been entirely on instability showers, which brings minor terrain features into play and gives spotty rainfall coverage, with one ranch totally dry while a neighbor receives successive rains.

It is hungry out there on Sutton County ranges. We have been feeding cats on the back porch, a policy we have been forced to discontinue due to excessive cat food consumption. A guest count before the policy change showed four cats never seen before, two opossums, one coon, one fox pup, and one turkey. The pickings are pretty slim on the range for small wild animals and birds.

We formerly put meat scraps out near the dipsey dumpster so the small animals could consume them. That program was cancelled when the wife saw two turkey buzzards sitting on the dumpster.

We are afraid that the buzzards might be observed and put on the endangered species listing. Such a listing might justify elimination of the screw-worm program so the buzzards could have more food. Environmentalist and species preservation logic has done even stranger things.

Seriously, if you are a hunter it would seem to your advantage to give the small animals some survival assistance in these hard times.

If you are a provider of hunting leases it is more important. I can remember in 1935 when a wild turkey breast tasted just like chunk out of a cedar chest. It was indeed disappointing when you had bicycled eight miles to poach turkey. Unaided wild turkeys are survivalists and in desperation they eat cedar berries; hunter satisfaction is not on their priority list.

We can hope that we have a cold winter for about three reasons: If we don't have enough cold we will have bumper crop of ticks.

Secondarily, a cold winter enhances the possibility of snow which has a very favorable absorption versus runoff ratio. Lastly, a cold winter enhances the likely hood of a sequence of general spring rains allowing us to escape from dependence on the erratic showers for moisture.

EDITORIAL

The local trials of 14 people accused of dealing drugs underscore an important point: under current laws, drug use is not a victimless crime.

Watching one of the defendant's friends and neighbors wrestle with the question of whether or not they would be able to render a fair and impartial verdict makes one consider the families involved.

The anguish, financial hardship and humiliation they must endure can never be measured. If the defendants are convicted, the pain will never go away.

The question asked of the potential jurors was repeated many times.

"Could you be fair and impartial?"

The question was answered more than once.

"No."

It seemed a strange twist to the anti-drug slogan made popular in recent years: Just say No.

The "war on drugs" being waged on a national level in reality appears to be little more than a continuation of the ongoing skirmish that has clogged our courts and filled our prisons. Like the prohibition of alcohol, current laws seem to have little effect in curbing the country's appetite for drugs. Instead of stemming the tide of drug use, the laws create a huge and profitable black market.

Earlier this month, for example, more than 30 tons of cocaine were seized in three separate raids.

It's obvious that a conventional war on drugs is ineffective. The question is why are we engaging in a domestic Vietnam guaranteed to produce more casualties than survivors?

Until the problem is approached rationally and intelligently, we're doomed to see the problem escalate.

We may also look forward to sitting on a jury panel and being unable to participate because we cannot be fair or impartial about a defendant who is a friend or neighbor.

Unfortunately for some of us that day has already arrived.

'SELF' CONTROL

by J. Michael Fish

While visiting my aunt and uncle at Juno Ranch one summer, I discovered a clearing nestled between a hill and a dry creek bed. It had huge boulders arranged among clumps of Live Oak and trees, and was situated at the base of a thirty-foot bluff in the hill. When it rained the creek would run with water for a day or two and provide me with, lush green, picturesque solitude in which to contemplate the problems of a 60s era teenager.

When I returned home the clearing went with me mentally and remained safely tucked until such time as I felt the need to recall it as an escape from the hassles of reality. All I had to do was withdraw and put my vivid imagination to work. Within a short period of time I had the place looking like it had been blessed by God Himself.

I gave my retreat a name. It was Valley Green.

From this mental exercise I learned to use the faculty of my imagination to soothe frustrations, raging emotions and discouragement. As I grew, it felt as though I was cheating life and what seemed to be inclinations imposed on me to mature and face reality. Only in recent years did I discover that it was good therapy.

However, I returned to the clearing a few years later to find it abused by hunters who had camped there the year before and used the trees for firewood, the boulders to dress their kill and the draw as a place to throw beer cans. I picked up the cans and did my best to straighten it out, but somehow it was not the same place as it once was.

At least I had the retreat in my mind, that is until I went to Viet Nam. The mental solitude was trampled during a psychological upheaval resulting from the first time I was forced to take a human life.

Trampled; it was devastated from existence. But the feeling I experienced when I found I could no longer use the retreat as an escape mechanism was the same as I felt when I discovered what the hunters had done.

Subsequently, a poem was born.

Valley Green

In youth I happened on Valley Green,
A rich and splendid, peaceful scene,
In gentle breeze would toss and sway.
A stream conveyed its whispered tale
To willows there within the vale,
To honeybees and butterflies
In constant toil and enterprise.
For days on end I languored there,
In solitude's caressing care.

But then they came to Valley Green,
Destroyed the realm I found serene.
My flowers died, my little gems,
They plucked the blooms right from the stems.
They dammed the stream, they killed each tree
And left the glen with their debris.
The butterflies then flew away
And I was left alone to stay,
Until I knew the cruel defeat
Was absolute, my loss complete.
June 4, 1972 J. Michael Fish

Several years passed until I realized the war that waged within me could, in fact, be dealt a deciding blow. During the time I was employed by my uncle on his ranch I informally researched and studied human behavior. Coincidentally, I came across that same clearing while gathering livestock. Something occurred in my brain as though a light had suddenly been turned on.

The faculty I used so adeptly before the war was merely buried by emotional garbage I kept heaped and waiting. Just as nature had worked alone through the passage of time to restore the place I revered as a boy, I could clear and take control of the emotions that once threatened to destroy me.

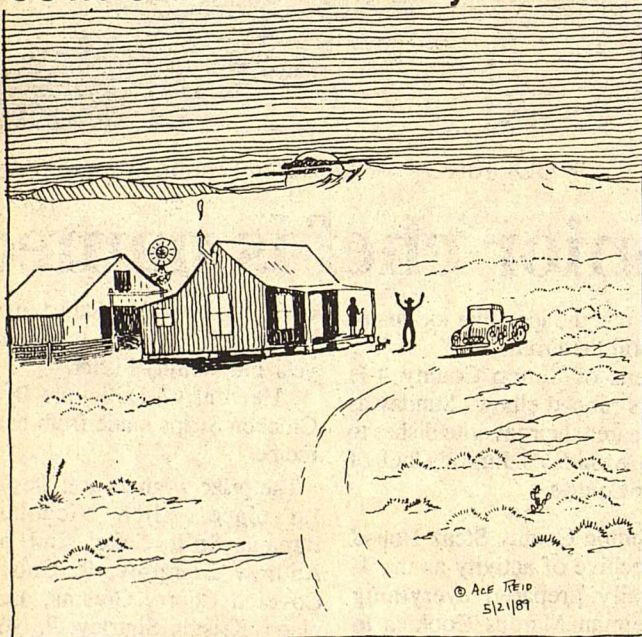

By practicing new ways of thinking, becoming aware of the abilities available to me and with time to actually apply them in a real world, I was able to turn a basically negative mind into a source of positive reinforcement.

In 1984, I added a third stanza to the twelve year old poem.

With passing time and hopes renewed,
I chanced return to solitude.
A seeping spring had cut its way
Through rumpled earth of yesterday,
And given birth to recent trees
That waltzed and swayed in cadent breeze.
With wisdom gained since first farewell,
I helped rebuild the thriving dell.
And though the seasons change the scene,
It's still my peaceful Valley Green.

Dear Editor,

I am a lover of history and I have a somewhat unusual hobby. I collect old tokens used by stores, barber shops, pool halls, bakeries, saloons, forts, and other businesses years ago. The tokens were "good for" 5¢, 10¢, 12 1/2¢ or such in trade or merchandise or "good for" a loaf of bread, one drink, one shave, one ride or whatever. They were usually made of metal, and while having the general appearance of a coin, they were made in all shapes and sizes.

I am hoping that if you have a "Letter to the Editor" section or such in your paper that you might mention my search. I know that this request is relatively unimportant, but as our elderly pass away and the younger members of the family inherit their possessions, tokens and other items are considered junk and thrown out. I do get a great deal of enjoyment from my hobby and I do believe that these concrete reminders of our great heritage are worth preserving.

I have reason to believe that some of these tokens were used in your area and I would be most interested in obtaining some of them for my collection.

I would like to hear from anyone having one or more of these tokens or from anyone that might be able to help me. Any help that you can give me of any kind is greatly appreciated. My address is Travis Roberts, Box 1168, Bellaire, Texas 77402.

Thank you kindly in advance and best wishes.

The following officers were elected by the membership: Leslie Thorp, EMT-President; Eddie McReynolds, EMT-Vice President; Mona Simpler, EMT-Secretary; Jody Luttrell, EMT-Treasurer; Carla Fields, EMT-Reporter; Gerald Gilchrist, EMT-Training Officer; and Donna Keese, EMT-Historian.

Sutton County EMS is under the directorship of Lenora Pool, Coordinator.

Sutton EMTs would like to remind everyone to please remember to buckle your safety belt when you are driving. They can save your life.

The ambulance crews have responded to a large number of vehicular accidents during the past several months, many of which have involved fatalities and serious injury. In every instance, the fatality involved was not wearing his or her seat belt. On the other hand, several of the accident involved two or more passengers in the same car. Each time, those wearing their seat belts have avoided life-threatening injuries, while the passenger in the same car without a seat belt has either been killed or seriously injured. So please - guard your life and buckle your seat belt!

underway. We should have a room for recreational activities by this time next month! Plans are in the making for a super dedication party sometime in November.

Don't forget about our BINGO every Tues. and Thurs. after lunch (unless we don't have enough players), we hope everyone will try to attend.

Fridays are always fun days. We have our sing-a-longs on each Friday. They are filled with melodious sounds thanks to Maxine Locklin and Virginia Jones. Come on by and join in the fun!

There will be a Blood Pressure Clinic Thurs. the 12th at the Senior Center. Girling Health Care is sending a representative to check everybody out. She'll arrive at 11:30 a.m. and stay until everybody is checked out.

The Senior Center van will be going to San Angelo on Oct. 17th. Of Course medical trips are our first priority but we work on a first come first serve basis. Let Terry know if you would like to go on this trip.

Happy Birthday to this wonderful people for the month of October: Belle Steen - Oct. 4, Maria Leija and Brigida Garza - Oct. 8, Sabino Mendez - Oct. 9, and Jesus C. Sanchez - Oct. 29. The birthday party for the month of Oct. will be on the 20th so come and celebrate with us, all the wonderful years these people have lived.

Local attorney, Beth Wallace will be at the Senior Center Tuesday, Oct. 24th at noon to conduct a Will Clinic. She will be explaining the need for a will and set up wills for those of you who need one. She has graciously offered to prepare these at an extremely reduced rate for Sonora's Senior Citizens. See Carole for more details.

Coming up on Saturday, Oct. 28th we're going to see who can come up with the best costumes. We're going to have a Halloween Costume Dance. We'll start the music at 7:00 p.m. and wind down about 9:00 p.m. We hope everybody will try to attend.

Donations for the nutrition program were down last month. Please remember every little bit helps. So put something in your envelope whenever you can. Also remember, there's no such thing as a "free" lunch.

We have special thanks to give out this month to Marie Dominguez, Rosario Ibarra, Eloisa Gamez, Eulojia Flores, and Maria Barrera. They have been extra busy crocheting. We now have 3 beautiful Afghans available for a very affordable donation of $50.00.

Cut-off date

The cut-off date for feed tickets this month is Oct. 14. If you wish to receive payment for tickets through this date, have them turned in no later than Monday Oct. 16.

If your feed tickets are not in by Monday, you will have to wait until November for payment.

NOTICE!
Producers should start receiving nominating petitions in the mail soon. The upcoming Committee election will be held on Dec. 4.

A slate of three candidates will be made from petitions sent in or if no petitions are received, then a slate will be made up by the committee.

If you or someone you know would like to serve on the County ASCS Committee, follow the instructions on the petition. If you did not receive a petition, stop by the ASCS office.

Petitions must be back in the ASCS Office on or before Monday, Oct. 30, 1989.

If you have any questions, contact the ASCS office.

BRONCO TAILS

News from Sonora High School
by Christi Spain

Welcome back Lewis! This week was a very special week at Sonora High School because Lewis Baker came to school for the first time after being down with severe back problems. Although he is on crutches, Lewis has been in high spirits and has definitely improved. Lewis says this about returning to school, "I am very glad to be out of bed and back at Sonora High! It's been really great seeing my friends again and even though I am behind in my classes, I am pretty sure that I can catch up. I am looking forward to the year!" We are very glad to have Lewis back and are behind him one hundred percent!

For those of you who did not attend the football game in Ballinger last Friday night, the Broncos suffered their first defeat of the season. But even though the score was 33-7, the game was very exciting and the Broncos played exceptionally well! The Broncos held the Bearcats (who, by the way, are ranked second in the state) to only six points in the first half. And look at it this way, it isn't a district game so after we win our district, we can probably meet them again and even the score!

The Junior Varsity played a great game last week also against the Ballinger Bearcats. At one point in the game they were down by 21 points, but came back to win 23-21. Scoring in that game was due to Adam Youngblood and Shane Keller.

This week the Broncos will play their first district game of the season against the Fredericksburg Billies. The game will be at home this Friday night at 8:00 p.m. The Bronco season has been wonderful so far and Sonora is a definite contender for the district championship, so come to the game and give them as much support as possible!

The Junior Varsity will also play in Sonora against Brady this Thursday night at 6:00 p.m. and there will be a pep rally at 3:20 p.m. on Friday. Don't miss these activities!

Six weeks tests are this week and the first six weeks are almost over. This Thursday - periods one, three, five and seven will be tested and on Friday - periods two, four and six will be tested. Remember to study!

And 1989-90 Bronco yearbooks are still being sold for $20.00. This week the yearbook staff will accept a $10.00 deposit on the yearbook staff if you are not able to pay in full.

October is a month packed with activities so check your calendars and take part in the action!

felt would be unable to render fair and impartial judgements.

The 12 jurors were finally selected and sworn in by 112th District judge Brock Jones at 7:10 p.m.

The trial, which is expected to last two days, was scheduled to resume at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Unlike huge drug busts that have made national news recently, Favela is charged with selling less than 28 grams of the controlled substance. His supporters say the amount involved is about a tenth of a gram.

If convicted, however, it is enough earn him a 99-year prison sentence.

The sentence, according to Johnson, is the same as murder: five to 99 years, and as much as a $10,000 fine.

Favela's lawyer said there has been no offer of a plea bargain.

"We have not been offered any kind of a prison time or anything in exchange for a plea, so they have not bargained with me at all," he said after Monday's jury selection was completed.

Favela maintains that he is innocent of the charge that he sold methamphetamine - commonly known as speed or crank - to undercover agent William Lonnie Hood.

Friends of Favela claim Hood is not a law enforcement officer, and may not be a credible witness.

"We're going to find out tomorrow on cross-examination," said Montemayor.

Remember safety first when installing antennas.

- Stay clear of all electric lines, assume all wires are uninsulated.
- Be sure there's enough distance in every direction so that if your antenna should fall, it won't hit a power line.
- If an antenna does start to fall, let it go and stay clear. Never touch it until you're sure it's not in contact with any wires.
- Work only in dry weather and never on a windy day. Most antennas are top-heavy and difficult to control in the wind.
- Guy wires should be secured so they won't whip around and come in contact with power lines.
- Make sure antennas are grounded properly.
