Galindo trial revelation

Drug agent labeled army deserter

Defense attorneys for alleged Sonora drug dealer Jose Alfredo Galindo say the military record of the state's star witness is proof the man cannot be trusted, and that his testimony cannot be believed.

William Lonnie Hood, a free lance undercover drug agent who claims he purchased illegal drugs from 16 local residents between

Nov. 1988 and Feb. 1989, was classified as a deserter March 26, 1972 after being absent without leave for 30 days.

The 35-year-old high school dropout was given an undesirable discharge from the United States Army on May 2, 1972.

Hood, an uncommissioned self-styled drug agent who claims he has 17 years experience in undercover work, was hired by Sutton County Sheriff Bill Webster last Nov. 1. As a result of Hood's work, a Sutton County grand jury last March returned indictments for drug offenses against the 16 area residents.

Webster has testified that Hood was recommended to him by Yoakum County Sheriff Jim Rice.

Rice, in turn, said he was satisfied about Hood's past after speaking with New Mexico authorities.

The question of Hood's background surfaced Thursday when Galindo's lawyer asked Rice if he was aware Hood was an army deserter.

Rice said he became aware of Hood's military trouble only after the undercover drug operation in Yoakum County was underway. He apparently never informed Webster of his discovery.

Galindo, 33, is on trial for delivery of methamphetamine. The defendant in the first Sonora trial at which Hood testified, Tomas "Tiny" Favela, was convicted two weeks ago and sentenced to 90 years in prison for selling Hood about 1/10 of a gram of methamphetamine.

In both cases the only witness to the alleged transactions was Hood. Favela and Galindo both contend they are innocent.

District Attorney J.W. Johnson says Galindo's Dallas attorney, Domingo Garcia, is distorting Hood's military record.

"He (Hood) had a lot of problems back then," Johnson said. "He was only 18 years old and his father had just died. Besides, the discharge was under honorable conditions."

Department of Defense records show, however, that Hood's May 2, 1972 discharge was classified as "under conditions other than honorable." A Department of the Army document issued at Fort Campbell, Kentucky, lists Hood's type of discharge as "undesirable."

During his one-year and one-day Army career Hood received no decorations, medals, badges or commendations. Trained as a cook, Hood was discharged with the Army's lowest rank: Pvt. E-1.

Galindo's trial has been a heated one, with Garcia questioning Johnson's motivation in striking Mexican-Americans from the jury. Garcia accused Johnson of deliberately stacking the jury with Anglos, and - without the jury present - twice asked 112th District Judge Brock Jones to declare a mistrial.

"The district attorney's peremptory challenges show there's a bias and a prejudice in intentionally excluding Mexican-American jurors," Garcia said.

"There was only one Mexican-American on the jury in Tomas Favela's trial," Garcia said. "There are only two Mexican-Americans on the jury in this trial. How is that possible when this community is about 40 percent Mexican-American?"

Jones denied Garcia's request for a mistrial, and Johnson voiced his displeasure with the outsider who referred to Sonora's "long history of discrimination."

"Really, what I think he succeeded in doing was alienating most of the potential jurors," said Johnson. "He was trying to stir things up here that our community can definitely do without. Unfortunately there's that small percentage of people who will let someone like this be an outside influence on us and get things stirred up - and they get to leave while the rest of us have to stay here and contend with the animosities that have been stirred up."

The nine-man, three-woman jury was finally called into the courtroom at 1:32 p.m. Wednesday.

Hood's military record and his credibility as a witness has been one of the main issues in the trial which entered its sixth day Wednesday.

Galindo contends that he was in church when the alleged drug transaction occurred.

Lykins freed on probation

Former Sonora automobile dealer Earnest Lykins, convicted earlier this year of two counts of forgery and one count of misapplication of fiduciary property, was put on seven years probation Friday by 112th District Judge Brock Jones.

In addition to the probation, Lykins must make restitution to the victims involved. Aside from more than $8,000 the former owner of Chaparral Motors owes Sutton County and the State of Texas, Lykins must repay Sutton County National Bank nearly $115,000.

Lykins was convicted of the three felonies in March, and a month later sentenced to seven years in prison on each count. The sentences were to run concurrently.

Lykins was also fined a total of $15,000.

During Lykins' trial, the prosecution charged that the automobile dealer sold vehicles he did not own; wrote bad checks to pay for taxes, titles and registrations; forged documents and failed to pay Sutton County National Bank for vehicles he had sold.

District Attorney J.W. Johnson agreed to a shock sentence for Lykins, but later became angered when he learned the Sonora man served only a few weeks in the Texas Department of Corrections before being released to a halfway house in Mineral Wells.

When Lykins returned to Sonora on a weekend pass, Johnson had him arrested and held in the Sutton County Jail.

Centennial celebrated

by Patricia Johnson

It was 100 years ago, on October 24, 1889, when the school building and classes started for the first time in Sonora.

With half the community living in tents and wood having to be hauled in by wagon, it is impressive that a sturdy pleasant school house was made available just eight months after the first settlers arrived.

It is fortunate that in the midst of the chaotic boomtown atmosphere, the first citizens felt that a school was important.

That wooden school building was located on Water Street next to the present Masonic Lodge. It served all grades until classes opened in the rock school on College St. finished and ready by October 1905.

The Baptist Church then acquired the wooden building and remodeled into their first permanent place of worship.

Bronco Football

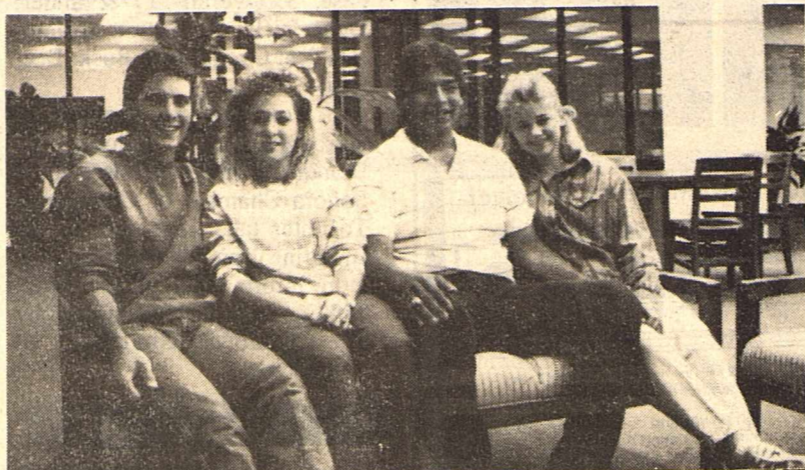

Eleven positive points

by Bronco Booster Bob

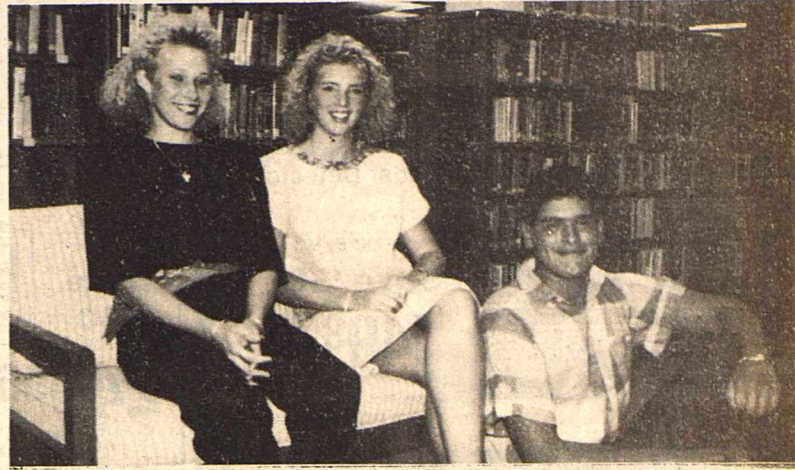

1. Sonora created several turnovers.
2. Jake Kimbrel made several touchdowns saving tackles.
3. Tracy Love made several touchdowns saving tackles plus one touchdown.
4. Robert Gallion's first start at left guard was a tremendous success. He opened holes with his powerful sustaining blocks.
5. Sammy Sentena's standard line play was as usual outstanding. He was delivering powerful blocks and then getting down field. On defense Sammy was making tackles all over the field.
6. Jack Johnson first start at nose guard was spectacular. Jack caused two fumbles by penetrating into the backfield and disrupting the hand off. He successfully jammed up the middle most of the night and made numerous tackles.

7. The offensive line gave David more time to pass his game than the game before. Good job guys.
8. Manuel Martinez broke through the line and blocked a field goal attempt and on his one punt he kicked it out of the end zone. He made several tackles.
9. It was good to see Todd and Chacho in the same backfield again. Keep those knee braces oiled.
10. Blayze, Todd and Tracy each caught a pass from David Mirike.
11. All of our losing is behind us. Nothing but fun ahead and nothing is as much fun as winning.

Halloween Candidates announced

Bronco Tails by Christi Spain

Halloween is just around the corner, and Sonora High School is making big plans for a great carnival.

First of all, the candidates for Halloween Queen are as follows: Senior-Donna Pierson; Junior-Amy Reston; Sophomore-Jessica Johnson; Freshmen-Christina Ramirez. Christina says this about being chosen, "I feel very privileged for having been chosen as a Halloween Queen candidate, and I am really looking forward to my first Halloween Carnival as a Sonora High School student." The Halloween Queen will be elected on Monday, Oct. 30th.

At the carnival there will be various booths, as always, sponsored by different school organizations. The Senior class will have the concession stand, the Junior will have the jail and the raffle, the Sophomores will have the Gummy Worm guess, and the Freshmen will have the fishing booth. The Spook House will be sponsored by the National Honor Society, the Girl's Athletic Association will have the cakewalk, and the CVAE will have the Basketball Toss. These are just some of the many booths that this year's Halloween Carnival has to offer, and I'm sure that they would appreciate you stopping by and supporting them in any way possible.

Immediately following the Halloween Carnival will be a Halloween Dance sponsored by the Spanish Club. It will be in the commons area of the high school, and all Sonora High School students are invited and encouraged to dress up as their favorite spook. Prizes will be given to the students with the best costumes.

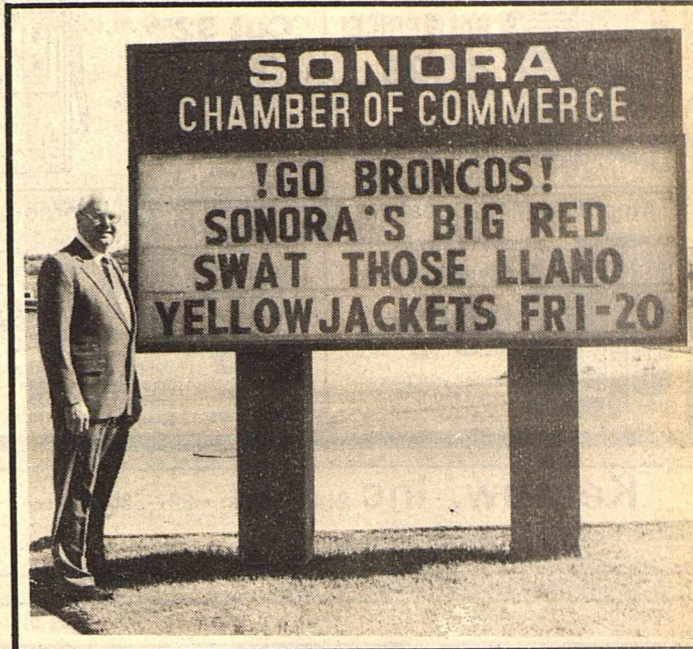

One the subject of football, the Jr. Varsity won last week with a score of 21-0 over Del Rio. This week they will pay Del Rio once again, only this time here in Sonora at Bronco stadium, 6 p.m.. The Jr. Varsity has had quite a winning streak, but the Broncos, on the other hand, are now fighting to keep their confidence and enthusiasm up to the level that it was earlier in the season as a result of their second district defeat. I'm sure that they won't give up, though, and will hang in there until the season's over. Come to Bandera this Friday night and support your Sonora Broncos.

The Mighty Bronco Band lost around five students due to failures and are restructuring their formations for the time being. On Saturday, Oct. 28, they will travel to Brady for U.I.L. Marching Contest. Good luck to the band!

And remember that school will be dismissed at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 31st, for the Halloween Carnival.

Take the chill out of winter heating bills.

With winter just around the corner, WTU has these suggestions for lower energy bills.

1. Caulk and weatherstrip around windows and doors to help prevent excessive heat loss.
2. Check the attic for adequate insulation; R-30 is recommended.
3. Clean or replace filters monthly in your heating unit.
4. Tightly close the damper in the fireplace when not in use.
5. Set the thermostat at 68° or lower.
6. Open drapes and blinds during the day to let in sunlight and close them at night to hold in warm air.

For a more comfortable home and an electric bill that won't give you a chill, contact your local WTU office for more conservation tips.

Remember REDDY supplies the energy — but only YOU can use it wisely!
