"Great Texas Trash Off" to be March 31

March 31 is D-day for trash in Texas! All Texans were issued a challenge to pick up the litter spoiling our great state by participating in the fifth annual "Great Texas Trash Off." This year more than 30,000 volunteer groups across the state armed with 90,000 trash bags are expected to comb hundreds of miles of Texas roadsides, beaches, lakeshores and river banks.

To help kickoff the "Trash Off," Helen Caudle, spokesperson for Maryland Club Coffee, presented Arnold Oliver, Engineer-Director and Henry Thomason, Deputy Director, both of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation with official 33-gallon trash bags. For the third consecutive year, Maryland Club coffee is donating the bright orange trash bags produced especially for the "Trash Off." This year the company will donate 90,000 bags -- up from the 65,000 donated in 1989.

"When each of these bags is filled, we'll have reduced the trash factor in Texas by more than three million gallons," Caudle said. "Maryland Club is again delighted to support this volunteer event which is characteristic of the pride we Texans have in our state." She also noted that the coffee brand has supported several other campaigns to beautify Texas in recent years, including aid in restoring the Goddess of Liberty atop the Texas State Capitol and restoration of the State Capitol Rose Garden. And, this past fall, Maryland Club expanded its efforts to "Help Beautify Texas" by sponsoring a statewide wildflower planting campaign.

Last year more than 27,000 "Trash Off" volunteers collected 2.1 million gallons of litter. The "Great Texas Trash Off" is sponsored by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation and employs the efforts of Adopt-A-Highway and Adopt-A-Beach groups across the state. This year several river and lake clean-up groups will be participating as well. It is the nation's largest one-day clean-up effort. Because of the fine example set by Texans, there is talk among White House officials that a nationwide clean-up spearheaded by Texas will be held next year.

The annual event is part of the highway department's aggressive war against litter which began in 1985 with the tough-talking "Don't Mess with Texas" campaign. The first of its kind in the United States to directly address habitual litterers, "Don't Mess with Texas" is credited with an almost 60 percent reduction in trash on Texas highways in just five years.

For more information, or to volunteer for this year's "Trash Off," contact the Adopt-A-Highway coordinator at your local highway department, or the Adopt-A-Beach or the Resource Conservation director for cleaning up Texas beaches, rivers and lakes at the Texas Land Commissioner's Office in Austin.

"Great Texas Trash Off" - Darrel the Barrel, the "new guy in town," practices his litter-gathering skills with Houston's newly-appointed Chief of Police Elizabeth Watson in anticipation of the Great Texas Trash-Off on March 31. On that day, more than 30,000 volunteers across the state of Texas, armed with 90,000 trash bags donated by Maryland Club coffee, will comb hundreds of miles of Texas highways, beaches, rivers and lakes.

American Cancer Society Crusade includes a food fight

The Sutton County Unit is picking a fight -- the Great American Food Fight against cancer -- Joyce Chalk, Carla Fields and Vivian Miers have been drafted to be the key officers in this campaign. If you would like to be a volunteer in the fight against cancer please contact one of these people. Crusade kick-off is set for April 4.

The Great American Food Fight Against Cancer is a lighthearted event with a serious message: people can lower their risks for certain cancers by eating more of the right foods, set for April 19th in Sonora.

April is an important month in the fight against cancer. The American Cancer Society's Community Crusade, its annual education and fundraising campaign, take place in April, which is also designated as Cancer Control Month.

The money raised in this Crusade/Food Fight will be used to support programs in Sutton County, that help prevent, detect and treat cancer and offer assistance to cancer patients. Considering the public enthusiasm about this years program we are sure it will be a winning campaign stated the co-generals.

"In addition to raising funds, the Crusade helps the Society save lives through education," Monty Yantis, Sutton County volunteer says. "Both the community Crusade and the Food Fight will raise awareness of reducing cancer risk through good nutrition."

The 1990 Cancer Crusade in Sutton County is part of a statewide and nationwide effort involving more than 1.6 million American Cancer Society volunteers. The Great American Food Fight against cancer will be a nationwide event similar to the Society's popular Great American Smokeout.

"Our three co-chairpersons will be a real asset to the Crusade by working to get the word out about the events we have planned. They have shown true commitment to the people of Sutton County and the job at hand. They will give us the leadership to make the Community Crusade expedition a successful one," said Lou Faulks.

The American Cancer Society is a nationwide community-based voluntary health organization dedicated to controlling cancer through a research, education and service.

Healthcare

Salvador Dali slept with a spoon

by Scott Gilmore

Strange sleep stories are cross-species, cross cultural, and present throughout history. A sampling: * Napoleon went to bed between 10 p. m. and midnight and slept till 2 a. m. when he got up, worked in his study until about 5 a. m. and went back to bed again until 7 a. m. He said only fools and invalids needed more sleep.

* Churchill worked until three or four in the morning and woke up again at eight, though he took a two-hour siesta in the afternoon.

* Salvador Dali would sit in an armchair holding a spoon in an armchair between his thumb and index finger with a pewter plate on the floor next to him. He would lean back and relax, but as soon as he fell asleep, the spoon would fall on the plate and wake him up. He said that the sleep he experienced in that instant was so refreshing that he could go back to work feeling rested and energetic.

* Einstein slept for 10 hours a night, during which time he is said to have discovered crucial parts of his theory of relativity.

* German chemist Friedrich August Kekule searched for a long time for the chemical structure for benzene. One night he dreamed about six snakes, which were biting each other's tails in a large revolving circle. When he woke up, he realized the structure of benzene consists of a closed ring of six carbon atoms.

Primary Election turnout highest ever for non-presidential election year

Texas recorded its highest primary election turnout ever in a non-presidential year on Tuesday when 2.3 million people cast ballots in the Democratic and Republican party primaries, Secretary of State George Bayoud said.

The turnout is believed to be the second highest total for any primary election in Texas history. The highest primary election turnout ever was in March 1988 when nearly 2.8 million Texans voted in the Democratic and Republican party presidential primaries.

This year's primary marked only the third time in Texas history that a primary election turnout exceeded 2 million voters. The turnout on Tuesday represents 28 percent of the state's 8.3 million registered voters. The turnout rate is the highest for a gubernatorial primary election since 1978.

"I am extremely pleased that we have set a new record in terms of the number of Texans who turned out at the polls," Bayoud said. "I

* Bedrooms did not appear in middle-class homes until after the late Middle Ages. Prior to this many people slept in one large room. Separate rooms for sleeping first appeared in Europe in royal courts. Louis XIV, Sun King of France, had a bedroom in the middle of his palace. In the most important social event of the court day, each morning he held audience while still lying in bed.

* The record number of hours a person has gone without sleep is 264.

* Indications are that whether you are a "morning person" or a "night person" is genetically determined.

* People shift positions more frequently the longer they have been asleep.

* Daily patterns of sleep and waking are present even in one-celled organisms.

* There is evidence that the dolphin has a unique characteristic: one half of its brain sleeps while the other half stays awake, directing it to surface for air -- otherwise it would drown.

* Bees sleep at nightfall. When put in a room with constant light, they continue to work, but their life expectancy is reduced by half.

* In general, small animals sleep more than large animals, suggesting that size and amount of sleep are related. But bats sleep ten times as much as shrews, which are about the same size.

am particularly happy about the turnout rate because it exceeded the historical average."

In 1986 - the last gubernatorial election year in Texas - 21 percent of the state's eligible voters turned out in the primary elections, while in the 1982 gubernatorial primary a 26 percent turnout rate was recorded.

Bayoud, the state's chief elections officer, credited county election officials, the primary candidates and their political parties, and Texas businesses and civic organizations with helping to promote voter participation. He encouraged Texans to return the polls on April 10 for the runoff elections.

"Clover Kids" new target audience for 4-H

They're being called "Clover Kids" -- youngsters in kindergarten through second grade who are the new target audience for the Texas 4-H Youth Development Program.

Four-H is reaching out to a younger group in an attempt to do what they've done best for over 80 years -- encourage young people to develop positive life skills and to become productive individuals.

Today, there are almost 4 million youth in Texas, most of them 5 to 12 years old, said Tom Davison, assistant director for 4-H and youth development with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Davison believes prevention education, which is the focus of 4-H programs, is most effective in early childhood and a necessity in helping to eliminate critical youth problems.

"The statement has been made that kids are learning their values in the sandbox," Davison said. "We think it's important to use the expertise of 4-H to reach these kids."

Youth problems are evident in national statistics that show Texas has the highest number of births to girls 14 or younger, the second highest number of births to teens overall, and ranks eighth in number of high school dropouts.

Efforts are being made to strengthen and enhance youth development programs that already exist and to implement a new curriculum for Clover Kids, Davison said.

These children will work under the supervision of volunteers who can be day care workers, after-school care providers and other 4-H volunteers.

Programs for Clover Kids are being tested and will be implemented by 1992. One lesson, "It's Up to Me, K-2," is designed to enhance self-perception, self-concept and self-esteem.

"It's an awareness program that will be followed by projects involving food, small animals and horticulture," said Gayle Hall Laine, 4-H youth development specialist and coordinator of the program. "Kids will have a variety of games and activities and get hands-on experience."

Also, 4-H is working on a new program that offers 4-H curriculum to after-school care facilities in Texas counties to help establish quality care for youngsters in kindergarten through 6th grade.

"We're focusing on youth in terms of their developmental process," Davison said. "This is not to say we haven't always done that, but the problem is we have a lot of other factors that are influencing how we work with them today."

Those factors have become known as "youth-at-risk" issues, problems like drug and substance abuse, teen pregnancy, and illiteracy.

Davison said the problems are the same as they were 10 years ago, but they have increased in magnitude.

"Society is now more conscious of these problems," he said. "People realize that kids are our future and they're concerned that we may not have a future."

When 4-H evolved from boys' Corn Clubs and girls' Tomato Clubs, it grew from a need to improve the life of people in rural areas. Clubs provided real-life practical experiences to enrich the learning provided by schools, churches and families.

With migration from rural to urban areas, programs began changing to fit the needs of youth in inner cities.

In Texas, more than 60,000 young people are enrolled in the 4-H clubs. Programs allow kids to learn in an informal, non-threatening environment, Davison said.

Almost 400,000 young people participate in 4-H enrichment programs in schools. Teachers receive material for a series of six lessons for youth in agriculture, natural resources, home economics, science and technology.

"As far as animal projects, we're probably the best," Davison said. "With one project, we can teach the basics of ownership, responsibility, free enterprise and making a profit. You can do a lot of things with something that doesn't cost a lot--teach how to get along in this world and how to survive."

All Texas youth, regardless of their background, are considered at risk, Davison said. Urban and minority youth are unfortunate leaders in many problem areas, but studies show that the largest increases in troubled kids are occurring in rural and suburban areas, among Anglo-Americans, people not on welfare and people who are educated.

Davison said 4-H goals for youth at risk include finding ways to increase the number of alcohol- and drug-free kids, increase the number of children who complete school, improve literacy, and increase resistance to school-age pregnancy.

While targeting kids ages 5-12, 4-H also will implement a mentor program that depends heavily on 4-Hers 13-19.

"We're working on a 4-H mentor program where we pair up older youth with younger kids... in cooperation with schools," Davison said.

Through experiences as leaders, teachers, role models, peer counselors, and advocates, older children will develop their own life skills while helping others.

Davison said Texas 4-H also is exploring ways to collaborate with communities, schools and other youth-oriented agencies to meet common goals.

"We offer our resources to other youth-serving organizations because we have a universal base of knowledge and research... and a lot of them don't have that luxury," he said. "So, their kids can be our kids."

EMS purchases a new "Annie"

Sutton County EMS has recently purchased a new adult "Annie" to be used in teaching CPR classes given for the EMS personnel and various organizations and groups in Sonora. This is a 1990 "Annie" with replaceable faces to allow for easier cleaning and no spreading of germs. Sonora Independent School District contributed $375 toward the purchase of this Annie, because EMS personnel teach all health students once a semester in a week long course, free of charge, and certify them in CPR. The remainder of the money used to purchase Annie came from personal and memorial donations to the Sutton County EMS.

Anyone wishing to make a donation to the Sutton County EMS Fund, which is used to purchase needed equipment to use in teaching and on the ambulances, can do so by mailing their donation to P. O. Box 1067, or by bringing it by the EMS building. In the cases of memorial donations, cards are sent to acknowledge that a donation has been made, so that relatives of those memorialized will know that a donation has been made and by whom.

Kitchen Quiz

Are you a creative cook? According to gourmet author, Howard Hillman, creative cooking requires love, imagination, art...and science. His newly revised paperback, Kitchen Science answers some often asked questions on cooking, such as:

Q: Can I tell if a raw egg is fresh without breaking it?

A: Yes. Place the suspect egg in at least several inches of water in a bowl or pot. If your egg sinks an lies on its side, you have a fresh egg.

Q: Which will keep food warmer longer, a glass or metal serving dish?

A: Assuming that both containers are identical in size, shape and thickness, the glass one will keep food warmer longer. Glass is a considerably poorer conductor of heat than is metal and therefore loses heat more slowly.

Q: Does it make a difference to cook whether the flesh of a fish is fat or lean?

A: Yes. A fat-fleshed fish is better suited for grilling or roasting because of the extra oil it contains.

Know when to contact Social Security

It is important for the people to know when to contact Social Security, Franklin H. Upp, Social Security manager in San Angelo, said recently.

A person should contact Social Security:

- * To obtain a Social Security number for a child. Children age 2 and older must have a number to be claimed as a dependent on the parent's tax return. Be sure to apply for a number at least 2-3 weeks before it will be needed. There is no charge to obtain a Social Security number.
- * After a death in the family, to see if survivor benefits can be paid.
- * When someone in the family is disabled, to find out if disability benefits can be paid.
- * At retirement--at 65 for full rate benefits or as early as 62 for reduced benefits. Sign up for Medicare 2 or 3 months before 65 even if there are no plans for retirement.

* Any time there is a question about Social Security.

When a person calls Social Security, the people there can tell him or her:

- * How much work credit is needed to be insured for benefits.
 - * Who can get benefits.
 - * How to replace a lost Social Security or medicare card.
 - * How to apply for monthly Social Security benefits.
 - * How to get a free Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement.
 - * What documents a person applying for benefits needs.
- For more information about Social Security, contact the San Angelo Social Security Office at 949-4608.

Sales tax rebates up 5% compared to last year

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said that sales tax rebates to Texas cities are up almost 5 percent so far this year as compared to last year.

The March rebate checks sent to cities today totaled $69 million, an increase of nearly 13 percent over last March's payments.

"The increase for the first three months of the year is right in line with our forecast of 5 to 6 percent growth in taxable sales for this year," Bullock said.

Houston received $12 million, the state's largest payment and an increase of 15 percent over last March's payment. Dallas received the state's second largest payment of $7.4 million, an increase of 7 percent over last March's payment. San Antonio received $4.1 million and Austin received $3.1 million.

Payments to counties totaled $7.3 million this month, compared to $5.9 last March. The 23 percent jump over last March's payments is partly due to the increased number of counties collecting sales tax now, Bullock said.

This month's checks include taxes collected on January sale and reported in February by businesses filing monthly tax returns.

Also included with this month's checks were quarterly payment totaling $139 million for the state's six metropolitan transit authorities and one city transit department. The payments to MTAs reflect taxes collected in November, December and January.

Merchants collect the sales tax and send them to the Comptroller's office with their returns. The state keeps its 4 percent share and each month sends cities and counties their portion of the sales tax. All local sales taxes must be approved by local voters and may be used for any legal city or county expenses. Most areas put the money in their General Fund and use it for operations like fire fighting maintaining roads and law enforcement.

Sutton County received $15,343.26 for the March sales tax rebate.

College students overlooking sources of grant

Most college students are overlooking preferential sources of college grants--money that is not repayable.

These sources are not found in usual scholarship books because they are for TEXAS RESIDENTS ONLY. They have never been researched and compiled into one book before. Texas college students don't have to compete with the rest of the nation for these grants.

Most of these "Texas Scholarship Foundation Sources" that give FREE MONEY require only that you are a student resident of Texas, or of particular counties, or that you have a particular college major. Though probably not all who apply will get money, all who need money should apply.

Foundations are listed alphabetically by city. All 130 give foundation name, contact person, address, phone number, requisites for applying and how and when to apply.

The cost for this booklet is $8.25, plus 1.75 for postage and handling. Satisfaction guaranteed or your purchase price is refunded. This book is published by Student College Aid, 2525 Murworth Ste. 207, Houston, Texas 77054. SCA was established in 1980 and is a member of Houston BBB. For more information phone (713) 668-7899.

Producers can still join in pilot pesticide project

The opportunity still remains for agricultural producers to participate in the pilot pesticide collection and disposal project designated as the "Texas Pesticide Amnesty Day Program" for 37 West Texas counties. Producers who wish to participate should return pre-collection forms to their county extension agent.

Preston Faris, County Agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said agricultural producers are invited to attend any one of five forthcoming meetings and get answers to their specific questions concerning the project.

The pilot program is intended to assist and encourage producers who are storing small quantities of pesticide waste to take these materials to a collection center for disposal on a date to be announced. The program is strictly voluntary in nature and is free to participating producers. Pre-collection forms are available from the local county Extension agent or at any of the upcoming informational meetings.

Meeting dates and locations where producers can learn more about the project include:

* March 27, at 1:00 p. m., El Paso Research and Extension Center located just off Interstate 10 at 1380 A&M Circle, El Paso, Texas.

* March 28, at 9:00 a. m., Texas-New Mexico Power Company Building, Pecos, Texas.

* March 29, at 7:30 p. m., St. Lawrence Parish Hall, St. Lawrence, Texas.

* April 5, 7:30 p. m., Medina County Fair Hall, Hondo, Texas.

* April 6, 10:00 a. m., Dink Wardlaw Agricultural Complex Meeting Room, Del Rio, Texas.

Faris said a speaker from the Texas Water Commission will explain in detail the complete program and answer questions that producers might have regarding any aspect of the program.

American diets not ideal

A survey indicates Americans are not eating enough foods considered beneficial in preventing cancer, and a Texas A&M nutritionist says it's an indication people aren't following basic nutrition guidelines.

"Despite the abundance of nutrition information available," said Dr. Mary Kinney Sweeten of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, "the study by the National Cancer Institute shows that people are not eating enough fruits and vegetables and wholegrains."

The survey showed that on a given day 40 percent of adults did not eat a fruit and 20 percent did not eat a vegetable. Eighty percent of those surveyed did not eat any high-fiber cereals or whole-grain breads.

"You need four or more servings from the fruit and vegetable group each day," Dr. Sweeten said. She also recommends at least four servings from the bread and cereal group.

Researchers looked at 24-hour dietary recall data collected between 1976 and 1980 during the second National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics. The survey covered data from 11,658 people.

Blossom Patterson, lead investigator of the study, said that the data should still largely reflect current eating patterns, particularly fruits and vegetables, based on U. S. Department of Agricultural Continuing Survey data that showed minimal changes in the consumption of these foods between 1977 and 1986.

Although 24-hour recall data are not necessarily representative of an individual's usual daily intake, Patterson said, it does give a picture of group intake on any given day.

Women followed what's considered a better cancer prevention diet than men, and people over 55 had better diets than younger adults, Sweeten said. But all the groups needed much improvement in consumption of fruits, vegetables and whole grains.

Eating more of these foods would increase the fiber in American diets and reduce the amount of fat, she said.

"Fruits and vegetables thought to be of special importance to cancer risk reduction are those rich in vitamins A and C," Patterson explained in a survey report. "But about three-quarters of the study population failed to include a vitamin A- or vitamin-C rich fruit or vegetable in the day's diet."

Sweeten said good sources of vitamins A and C are dark green leafy vegetables, citrus fruits, and deep yellow-orange fruits and vegetables.

On the day of the survey, less than 20 percent of the population ate a vegetable from the cruciferous family such as cabbage, greens, broccoli, cauliflower, turnips and brussels sprouts, Sweeten said. These vegetables are high in nutrients, low in calories, and are believed to reduce cancer risk.

Corn and dried peas and beans, relatively rich in fiber, were eaten by only 20 percent of adults.

"Because so many Americans did not eat enough fruits and vegetables, and consumption of whole-grain breads and cereals was also low, daily fiber intake was only about 11 grams -- well below the recommended 20 to 30 grams," Patterson said.

Because the survey was based on data collected between 1976 and 1980, there is a possibility that Americans are now eating more of these foods, Sweeten said. More restaurants are offering salad and fruit bars, for example, although their health benefits could be offset by heavy toppings of salad dressings and cheeses. Certainly a wealth of information on proper diet is available to encourage Americans to eat right.

"Overall, you should eat a variety of foods and reduce salt, fat and cholesterol in your diet," Sweeten said. "Also, increase the amount of fruits, vegetables, legumes and whole-grain cereals in your daily meals."

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company hereby gives notice that it has filed an application requesting the PUC to declare Southwestern Bell's intrastate Billing and Collection market subject to significant competition and to authorize the following form of pricing flexibility: detariffing of the rates, terms and conditions of the Billing and Collection services now offered in Section 8 of Southwestern Bell's intrastate Access Service Tariff. Approval of the application as filed would result in all tariff sheets in Section 8 (Billing and Collection) of Southwestern Bell's Intrastate Access Service Tariff being cancelled, and the service thereafter being provided on a contract basis. Through this application, using procedures established by P.U.C. SUBST. R. 23.27, Southwestern Bell seeks to obtain uniformity of rates, rules and regulations for intrastate and interstate Billing and Collection services.

Approval of this application would remove all rates, terms and conditions applicable to billing and collection from Southwestern Bell's Intrastate Access Service Tariff. Intrastate billing and collection service would continue to be subject to PUC regulatory oversight only to the extent that (1) Southwestern Bell would be required to maintain current price lists at the Commission for the service, and (2) the revenues or losses from the service would be subject to the regulatory treatment specified in P.U.C. SUBST. R. 23.27(p). Further, under procedures established by P.U.C. SUBST. R. 23.27, the PUC's General Counsel, the Public Utility Counsel or any affected person could seek a subsequent review of the rates, terms and conditions of this service.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings, or who would like further information, should call or contact the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, (512) 458-0100. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Information Office at (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

The PUC has assigned this matter to Docket No. 9224. A prehearing conference will be held on April 19, 1990, at 9:00 a.m. at the Commission's offices at 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard in Austin, Texas. The deadline for filing motions to intervene is April 26, 1990.

NOTICE OF TARIFF CHANGE TO CENTRANET® SERVICE

GTE Southwest Incorporated gives notice of its proposed tariff changes to CentraNet® service, which is a Central Office-based service that provides PBX-type features to multi-line business customers and is currently being offered in all company wire centers where such facilities exist to provide the service.

The Public Utility Commission of Texas approved a generic tariff for CentraNet® service up to 100 lines in Docket No. 7652. The proposed tariff revision would establish specific rates for CentraNet® service involving 101 to 400 lines. Other proposed revisions involve the rate applicable to changes, additions, or deletions to the data bases and a new rate is proposed for additional trunks.

The names of the three CentraNet® packages have changed from Standard, Premium, and Deluxe to CentraNet® 1000, CentraNet® 2000, and CentraNet® 3000, respectively. Direct Call Pickup has been added to the three CentraNet® packages while Multiple Call Park and Shared Speed Call 30 have been added to CentraNet® 2000, and Speed Call 30 and Call Forward Busy/No Answer Split have been added to CentraNet® 3000. Flexible Night Answer and Automatic Route Selection also have been added as new optional features.

The proposed changes and new service offerings have been assigned Docket No. 9251, and pursuant to Section 43(d) of the Public Utility Regulatory Act will become effective June 23, 1990. Rates for service will be applicable to customers who subscribe to the service as well as existing customers. Therefore, there will be no effect on any other rates of the company. The company's gross annual revenues will increase by approximately $399,600, or less than one percent annually.

The proposed rates are on file with the Public Utility Commission of Texas, and are available for public inspection at the offices of GTE Southwest Incorporated. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission. The deadline to intervene in this docket is 3:00 p.m., April 9, 1990.

A request to intervene, participate, or for further information, should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas, 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Income tax got you down?

Most people would rather do just about anything than work on their federal income tax return, but if you have to it, there are some ways to make it a little easier.

Here are some tips from the Internal Revenue Service that may help you file your federal return.

First, the obvious, file as early as you can. It's to your advantage to do so, especially if you expect to get a refund. After all the government is holding on to your money and not paying you interest. But since April 15 falls on a Sunday this year, you will have an extra day (until Monday, April 16th) to finish your returns.

Second, before you start to get all your tax information in one place. You'll need W-2 forms showing how much you earned in 1989. You will need information showing the interest and dividends you have received. And you will need records of any contributions to an Individual Retirement Account (IRA). Remember, you have until April 16, of this year, to make an IRA contribution, and, if you're eligible, you can still deduct that contribution on your 1989 return.

If you itemize your deductions, assemble records of all items you are planning to deduct. Some of the most common deductions taken are mortgage interest and property tax payments, as well as interest and property tax payments, as well as interest paid on credit cards. You may still deduct 20 percent of credit card interest payments for 1989.

What's new for 1989? One important change involves the medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act, which was repealed late last year. However, since the current tax forms were printed before this change, there is still a line on your tax form for reporting a supplemental Medicare premium. When you come to this place on your tax form, Line 54 on the 1040 Form or line 23 on Form 1040A, simply skip the line.

Here are some other changes for 1989:

* The tax exemption for you, your spouse and dependents has increased to $2,000. And the standard deduction has increased for most people, so you may want to take the standard deduction this year even though you have itemized deductions in the past.

* The income limit for the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has increased. To be eligible for the EITC a child must have lived with you. The income limit for 1988 was $18,576, but if you earned less than $19,340 in 1989, you may be able to take this credit. Check your tax instructions for other restrictions.

* If you claim dependent exemptions for children age 2 or older, you must show each child's social security number on the tax return, which can be obtained by applying at a local Social Security office. If you do not have the number when you are ready to file your return, write "Applied for" in column three of the form.

* To claim a credit for child care, or exclude employer-provided care benefits from your income, you must include some new information on form 2441. Be sure to read the instructions carefully.

One final tip, IRS officials advise that one of the most common mistakes people make when filing their return is failing to sign and date the tax form.

TMF cuts heart out of medicine

by Guno G. Kletter, M.D.

When I first met Woodrow, he had symptoms and signs of possible lung cancer in an advanced stage. When I explained that we had no objective proof of cancer, no biopsy was done, no cancer cells found in his sputum, he said, "I don't want any more diagnostic procedures." I respected his decision and treated his symptoms, such as his stomach pain, his nausea or vomiting, either in my office or at his home.

I was always impressed by his modesty. "Doc, I hate to bother you," he said repeatedly, forcing himself to smile, while hardly able to stand or walk without assistance. He seemed more concerned about bothering me than about his own misery.

From his wife's account and my own observations, I knew he suffered a lot. As time went on he developed severe abdominal pain, wasn't able to keep any fluid in his stomach and became dehydrated. He was admitted to the hospital and treated with intravenous fluids and pain medication. According to his wishes, no diagnostic procedures were done. His condition improved some and after three days he returned home to end his heroic struggle two months later.

A few months after Woodrow's admission, a nurse employed by the Texas Medical Foundation looked into his records and decided in her wisdom that he should not have admitted. My patient was terminally ill; his appearance didn't leave room for doubt. With a height of 5 feet, 11 inches, his weight had dropped to 126 pounds. Notwithstanding his severed abdominal pain, his inability to retain fluid or food, he didn't qualify for hospitalization.

The root of the problem is known as TMF, an organization which employs nurses at $13 per hour and doctors at $60 per hour to scrutinize medical records in order to find out if any patient was unnecessarily admitted. The system was devised to save money. Many doctors can tell amazing stories of admission denials in patients so ill that there cannot be the slightest doubt about the need for hospitalization.

One doctor mentioned that his patient, severely ill on admission, died in the hospital. TMF came, looked into the records and denied. One wonders how such a system can possibly exist.

One reason: the doctors. We seem amazingly placid, gifted with an astonishing lack of fighting spirit. Instead of confronting the issue head-on, we opt for a policy of complying with the rules, even though these rules interfere directly with the very reason for practicing medicine, namely to offer help to the sick. Asset protection is often too much our concern.

Another reason: The patients and in general the public are not made aware of TMF's dealings, so there is no way for them to understand how Woodrow's admission denial today is going to affect their own family tomorrow. Most victims of TMF are elderly patients, lacking the strength and the means to generate a strong and effective protest, their problems not sensational enough for media coverage. A drug-addicted mayor of Washington is on the television screen three times a week.

Our elderly patients deserve more respect. Their efforts, many times under adverse conditions, laid the foundation for the more comfortable life style of the present generation. Allowing doctors to treat their elderly patient in the hospital if needed should be an accepted fact of daily life in a civilized society. That we feel the need to discuss this speaks for itself.

An institution like TMF fails to contribute in a positive way to improve our medical care; on the contrary, it is counterproductive in its outrageous denials.

The Texas Medical Association should prepare for the funeral of TMF, its brainchild. There will be no lack of volunteers to deliver the graveside speech.

Dr. Guno Kletter is a native of Holland, where he received a master's degree in 1964 from the University of Leiden. An internist, he has practiced in San Angelo since 1984. (The above article was submitted by Ruth Espy.)
