Incumbent after sixth term in mayor's office

Incumbent Bill Gosney has decided to run for a sixth term as mayor of Sonora. Gosney is being challenged by Jim Adams in the May 5 election.

After serving as mayor for 10 years, Gosney has learned that the public will watch every step made. "Of all the city employees there are, the local government employees are the most visible," said Gosney.

As for surviving as mayor for 10 years, Gosney said, "I've been lucky to have a good council behind me."

Gosney said the biggest problem facing the city of Sonora is landfills. "Our landfill is in good shape," said Gosney. "But that is not necessarily in line with Environmental Protection Agency thinking."

The EPA is looking to impose new regulations upon landfills which would create regional landfills. "We don't need a regional landfill," said Gosney.

Gosney said regional landfills in the eastern states is feasible where the population per square mile is much greater than in West Texas. He said hauling of the waste would be the greatest problem. According to Gosney, major problems with hauling waste would include expense and dangers involved with possible accidents in hauling waste many miles.

Gosney said a study by a special engineer showed that it would cost $250,000 to close down the current landfill under the regulations now in place on landfills by the EPA. Gosney said the cost would go to $1.75 million if the new regulations were imposed by the EPA.

Gosney traveled to Washington D.C. in February with representatives of counties and cities in West Texas to converse with state representatives about the landfill situation. "They said our wants would be conveyed to the EPA committee," said Gosney.

Since the trip to Washington the EPA has said the new regulations would not go into effect until December. The EPA had been trying to get the new regulations in effect as soon as possible.

Gosney said, "We (city and county government) were thinking about having the state have the option for determining a landfill."

If the new landfill regulations went into effect Gosney said, "It would bankrupt us (Sonora). The consumer pays." Right now, Gosney said Sonora is financially sound. "We're not the richest town," said Gosney. "But we owe very little."

Adams has put the expansion of industry as a major factor in his campaign. Gosney said getting more industry would be terrific, but there are a number of problems.

"All the businesses that come in need a high availability of land, visible water and entertainment to keep their workers here," said Gosney. "We don't have the land."

Water is not an abundant source either. Most of the water for Sonora is from 240 to 260 feet underground.

Any economic gain for Sonora will have to come from whatever is here. "Nearly all the new industries come from what's already here, expansion," said Gosney.

The process of building the industry in Sonora will be long and slow, said Gosney. "We have to recover from our down years first," said Gosney.

He believes that is currently happening as the oil business continues to rebound from its slump in the early '80s.

In 10 years Gosney has seen Sonora turn from a town dependent on agriculture to a town that has several economic bases. During his years in office Sonora has received community grants in four times, received a grant for the wastewater treatment plant, has not had a tax increase since 1984 and sold the city utilities to West Texas Utilities.

Gosney summed up his 10 years by saying, "I like to try to accomplish something."

Hair apparent

by Scott Gilmore

The Upjohn Company's new topical solution, Rogaine, (also known as minoxidil) is the first -- and only -- FDA approved treatment for hair loss, but it doesn't work for everyone.

Here are some of the facts; your doctor has additional information.

*The drug does not seem to work on receding hairlines, and it doesn't grow hair on the temples. It works on the crown of the head only.

*In Upjohn clinical studies, after 12 months of use, investigators found that 24% of patients had "no growth" of hair or only very fine hair growth; 37% had "minimal growth," 31% had "moderate growth;" and 8% had "dense growth."

*However, in a recent article published in the British medical journal, Lancet, researchers said that after reviewing a number of studies (including Upjohn's) "less than 10% of men treated obtain a result that a neutral observer would find cosmetically acceptable."

*Twice-a-day applications of Rogaine for four months or longer are usually necessary before evidence of hair growth is seen in most people.

*The response in any given patient to the drug cannot be predicted, but the best candidates seem to be: healthy younger men, men who have had balding for less than 10 years, and men who have a balding area of less than about 4 inches.

*If you stop using Rogaine, newly-grown hair returns to the "untreated state" (i. e. bald) after 3 to 4 months.

*People who have a history of heart disease are not good candidates for the drug, because side-effects can include angina (chest pain), increased heart rate, fluid retention, and weight gain.

*It's recommended that Rogaine users see their doctors one month after starting the drug, and at least every six months thereafter so the drug can be discontinued if systemic effects occur.

*Cost: a 60 ml. bottle with three applicators lasts one month and costs between $50 and $85 (insurance plans won't cover it).

*It is not known yet if the drug can help women who are losing hair.

Use the freedom of choice

employees stand around complaining about him & blames him for their negative attitudes & work habits.

Do you hastily quit in anger? Do you do the job anyway, yet feel as though it is the boss's fault for your misery and feelings of inferiority? Do you give a half-hearted effort in accomplishing the task, concluding he deserves no better, due to the way he made you feel?

Any of the above reactions could be correct, depending on other factors directly or indirectly involved in the circumstances. However, each is a response of a reactive or dependent person - one who depends on others for what they do, how they feel, the type of attitudes and work ethics they will convey, and even the quality of the day they experience. They are controlled by outside sources and not from within the embodiment of their own individuality.

Regardless of the nature of your response, if it reflects your true character, is it consistent with the behavior you decide correct for you and is something you can "live with", it is right. All that matters is whether or not you have exercised your freedom of choice.

When a pet accepts scraps from the table of its master, it is totally dependent on that person for survival. When you thrive solely on the 'scraps' of self-esteem, confidence & integrity offered by others in compliments & "pats-on-the-back", you become their "pet" - under their control.

This is not to say compliments and such are not important. They are vital as indicators, telling you how successful you have been in expressing the 'real' you & to what degree you are in harmony with others. Just don't allow them to control who you are & what you do.

It is your actions that define you as a unique human being. The responses rendered by others defines your success. Remember the axiom, "Action speak louder than words?" It's true.

Make use of the "Freedom of Choice Area" before any response or reaction & let the real you be known, and enjoy your life with you at your controls.

There is a little discussed area or fragment of time between action and reaction. I call this the Freedom of Choice Zone. A person who reacts without thinking or merely responds to surroundings, by-passes this zone. Subsequently, he surrenders the freedom of choice and delegates control of his life to outside sources; circumstances, conditions and the actions of others.

It is the utilization of this "freedom" that makes responsible people behave responsibly.

The Freedom Of Choice Zone is what puts you at the controls

Let's examine the term, responsibility. Response-ability - the ability to choose a response. The buffer zone allows us the opportunity to consult our self-awareness, imagination, conscience and independent will before reaction to any situation or environmental condition.

Self-awareness is the knowledge of who we are, what makes us uniquely human & what behavior is correct our individuality. Imagination gives us the ability to 'depart' from present reality to see the greater good which could result from any given response. Our conscience outlines our morality - what is right or wrong for us & the principles by which we govern ourselves. Independent will is the ability to act in accordance with the other three, free of outside influences.

How would you respond to an employer who treats his subordinates as less than human and then comes in one morning and assigns you a particularly unpleasant task? Most all the

by Charles Russell

We are currently in the process of implementing a program that addresses the needs of our students who exhibit characteristics of dyslexia. Dyslexia is the equivalent of a reading/spelling disability. Students with dyslexia characteristics have difficulty coping with words and learning to read, write and spell.

We hesitate to label young children as being dyslexic, choosing rather to treat the symptoms. The program we are currently implementing is "The Herman Method." The Herman Method is a reading curriculum that is a phonetic, structured, sequential approach that includes a basic skills assessment and all instructional materials needed to teach carefully controlled reading sequence that is correlated with spelling and handwriting instruction.

We are addressing this special need in the Chapter I reading program in the elementary, intermediate and junior high schools. Mrs. Brenda Kearney, Miss Elaine Newton, and Mrs. Alice Cox are the teachers who will be working with this program.

We believe that it will provide an excellent opportunity to address the special needs of students in the Sonora ISD. We are already seeing encouraging results, and expect this program to be a real asset to our school.

How bank accounts affect SSI eligibility

How bank accounts affect Supplemental Security Income (SSI) eligibility is an area that consistently confuses people who are receiving or applying for SSI. This column should help clear up some of that confusion.

To be eligible for SSI, a person must have resources of less than $2,000 ($3,000 for a couple). Bank accounts are usually considered resources; therefore, they count toward this limit.

What's so confusing about that, you wonder. Well, Social Security considers a bank account considers a bank account yours if your name is on it as owner or co-owner and there are no legal restrictions that keep you from taking money out and using it for your own benefit. This is true even if you don't use the account or don't consider the account yours. That means it's important that bank accounts are precisely titled to reflect ownership and access.

Let's suppose Mary Jones applies for SSI. Her daughter, Jane, has a $3,000 savings account. Jane listed Mary as a joint owner, primarily so Mary would have access to the money in case something happened to Jane. Although Mary doesn't consider the account to be hers, Social Security does, and she could be found ineligible for SSI because she is over the $2,000 resource limit. Of course, if Jane's account is titled to restrict Mary's access, the account would not be considered Mary's and would not affect Mary's eligibility.

Proper titling is also critical when community, civic, or social groups collect money for a special reason such as to help pay an SSI recipient's medical expenses. Although the donors gave money to the person, they also placed restrictions on its use, and the account must be titled to show the restrictions. As long as the account title shows the money cannot be used for food, clothing, or shelter, the account is not considered a resource.

Tax deferral available for elderly homeowners

Texans aged 65 or older can postpone paying delinquent and current property taxes on their homesteads by taking advantage of a tax option called over-65 deferral. The elderly homeowner simply signs a deferral affidavit at the Sutton County Appraisal District office.

This special form of tax relief can also halt a lawsuit already filed to collect delinquent property taxes on an older Texan's homestead, according to Rex Ann Friess, chief appraiser of the Sutton County Appraisal District. To stop a delinquent tax suit, Friess said, the over-65 homeowner files the deferral affidavit with the court in which the suit is pending.

"This law means that, if the proper affidavit is on file, an older homeowner cannot lose a homestead because of delinquent taxes," Friess said.

Once a homeowner files an over-65 tax deferral affidavit with the appraisal district, no taxing unit can initiate or pursue a suit for delinquent taxes as long as that person owns and lives in that homestead.

Friess stressed, though, that tax deferral for the elderly only postpones paying delinquent taxes on the homestead; it does not cancel them. During the deferral period, taxes and delinquent interest continue to add up, she said. "When the elderly taxpayer no longer owns or lives in the home, those accrued amounts become due. Taxing units can then sue to collect all the deferred tax and interest."

While a penalty may not be imposed on the delinquent taxes during the deferral period, the filing of the deferral affidavit will not forgive penalties which were already due. Also, an additional penalty associated with referring the account to a delinquent tax attorney may be charged if taxes remain delinquent more than 90 days after the deferral ends.

Forms for filing a tax deferral affidavit are available at the appraisal district office. "The homeowner should fill out the form and have the signature witnessed by a notary public," Friess said.

For more information, taxpayers may contact the Sutton County Appraisal District, 300 E. Oak St., 387-2809.

Property tax exemptions available for disabled veterans

Veterans with a service-connected disability can receive property tax relief in 1990 by filling out a simple exemption form at the Sutton County Appraisal District office, Chief Appraiser Rex Ann Friess said.

The amount of exemption is based on the veteran's percentage of service-connected disability and can range from $1,500 to $3,000. Friess explained who is eligible for the application:

- *a disabled veteran;
- *a surviving spouse of a deceased disabled veteran, as long as the spouse remains unmarried;
- *a surviving minor child of a deceased disabled veteran, if the veteran's spouse does not survive the veteran and if the child is both under 18 and unmarried;

*a surviving spouse of a person killed while on active duty, whether the spouse is remarried or not at application time;

*a surviving minor child of a person who was killed on active duty, if the child is both under 18 and unmarried.

"Any eligible person who has not received this exemption before must apply by April 30," Friess said. "But, if you received the exemption in 1989, you do not need to reapply in 1990."

An applicant can claim the exemption on only one piece of property, such as a home or any other property the applicant owned

Family Vacations: What To Look For

Whether you're looking for a place to spend a family vacation, or are traveling with children on business, or both, finding the perfect destination isn't hard if you know what to look for. Among the first things you should check out is if there is supervised play for the children and first-class golf, tennis and beach activities for adults.

A family vacation for active families can be easy to find.

Some resorts offer special packages for families & business travelers with children. At Northeast Florida's Sheraton Palm Coast Resort, for example, summer fun family packages provide:

- Passes to the Kid's Activity Camp, where qualified personnel supervise activities for children on the resort's private recreation island.

- Tennis Munchkins Clinics and junior golf Saturday clinics during the summer are popular with vacationing youngsters, as well.

- Parents, meanwhile, can enjoy golf, tennis, boating and the beach, with the kids or alone.

Information on the "Family Get-away" package at Palm Coast is available by calling 1-904-445-3000.

Conservation Service office on the third floor of Sonora City Hall Building. Deadline for filing is April 13, 1990.

Independent Cattlemen's Association meets

The Independent Cattlemen's Association held its regular monthly business meeting and dutch-treat supper, Monday, April 2 at the Sutton County Steakhouse. In attendance were Mr. and Mrs. George Wallace, Mrs. Adele Wilson, Mr. Johnston Holekamp, chairman Larry Finklea and Mrs. Ruth Espy.

Department of Agriculture. Members agreed that Perry should be agriculture choice. The run off election will be on April 10.

The Southeast Texas ICA is sponsoring a "Beach Vacation Fund Raiser" - and donations for tickets are $1. Anyone interested in purchasing these tickets can call 387-3246, for further information.

New minimum wage law now in effect

Commissioner Mary Scott Nabers of the Texas Employment Commission reminded employers today that the US Department of Labor has released interim final rules governing the submission training wage provisions of the new minimum wage law. The new law, which went into effect on April 1, 1990, raises the minimum wage to $3.80 but also provides for a lower training wage of $3.35 per hour. The training wage will apply only for certain employees under age 20 and can be applied only for 90 days of employment. It will expire March 31, 1993.

The new law covers all companies which have an annual business volume of $500,000 or more, while public agencies, schools, hospitals, and some other businesses will be covered regardless of their annual dollar volume.

The training wage will not apply to migrant or seasonal agricultural workers or the non-immigrant agricultural workers who perform temporary or seasonal work. Also, an employer can pay a worker the sub-minimum wage only until that employee reaches the age of 20, after which he or she must be paid at a rate not less than the minimum wage otherwise applicable under the FLSA.

Employees who have been paid the training wage for 90 days can be paid the wage an additional 90 days if they work for a different employer, and if that employer provides on-the-job training. The total period that an employee may be employed at the training wage by any combination of employers may not exceed 180 days.

In order to meet the training requirements of the rule, an employer must provide "job-specific skills training and personal skills instruction," according to the regulation. Also, the DOL interprets the training wage as meant principally for new hires. Therefore, any employee who has worked for an employer for more than 90 days is ineligible for the training wage.

DOL has a poster that outlines the new law. Copies should be available from your regional Wage and Hour Division. In Texas, regional offices are located in San Antonio, Dallas, Houston and Corpus Christi.

'Mud and Spit' John 9: 1-38

"Don't play in the mud, you'll get your new clothes all dirty!" "Don't spit, you know that's not nice!" Remember? We would hardly think of Mud & Spit as materials for a miracle, but that's exactly the mixture Jesus puts on the eyes of a blind man - & he sees! Physical blindness is a serious handicap, but even more serious is spiritual blindness - to live apart from God in the darkness of sin. The young man in our text had always lived in physical darkness, but Jesus came by and healed him - & he could see what he'd never seen before. But more than that happened, as John uses 38 verses to describe how he came to see other things than those in the light of this world. One by one, the spiritual scales are lifted from his heart until at the end of the chapter we find him kneeling to worship Jesus, & hear him saying: "I do believe, Lord." So as we meditate on this double healing of Jesus, we ask God's Spirit to remove any spiritual scales that may still be attached to our eyes - & cause us to say: "Lord, in a new & deeper way, I believe."

Jesus took Mud & Spit, put it on the man's eyes, sent him to wash in the Pool of Siloam, & he came back seeing. Of course, the healing power wasn't in the Mudpack or water of the Pool-it was in Jesus Christ, the Word of God become flesh. God attaches His Word to common things - Mud & Spit, Water, Bread & Wine; and miraculous cleansing takes place. As this man returned from the Pool, those who knew him were so amazed that they began to debate if he really was the one who'd been begging at the Gate. And although it's almost too good to be true, the young man ends the argument by saying: "I'm the one". Since miracles ought to be shared with those who appreciate them most, God's priests, they take him to the Temple. But instead of rejoicing and giving thanks, the Pharisees try to deny this marvelous healing. What a tragedy that some hearts become so hardened that even beautiful miracles can't move them!

And yet, if this young man hadn't gone through a trial because of his meeting Jesus, he might have gone away with only physical sight. Many of us could point to trials in our lives that at the time seemed senseless and cruel. But later, when life had returned to normal & we had time to look back-we saw something that we hadn't seen before. Then we realized how far we had strayed from God, and how that trial had taught us to depend only on Him. What had appeared to the Mud & Spit of senseless trial became God's Mudpack of grace, lifting heavy scales from our eyes and letting in the light of His great love. So the Pharisees, unable to deny this miracle even after calling in his parents, must contend with the healed man-& through him with Jesus who healed him. They try to discredit our Lord because He worked this miracle on a Sabbath, & even call him a "sinner." So the young man replies: "I know only one thing - I used to be blind, and now I can see." He seems to get stronger with each question and grow under the attack of the Pharisees. Something's happened that can't be denied-HE CAN SEE! What's more, he begins to see what the Pharisees won't see. God has made contact, a real miracle's happened, the light of the Kingdom is beginning to dawn.

So the Pharisees are right when they ask: "What do YOU say about Him, since He gave you your sight?" Sometimes the world understands the issue better than the Church. The object of faith is Jesus Christ, but what do we tend to witness to: our Denomination, the Building, the Pastor, the friendly people? So often God's people feel uncomfortable when someone asks a question that calls for a faithful answer. We feel uncomfortable with the Mud & Spit of unbelievers, who ask WHAT we believe - & WHY we believe it. So the Mud & Spit push hard, and what we believe can't be kept hidden in the darkness any longer. But don't get angry at the Mud & Spit, they may be God's Mudpack that challenges us to be exposed to the light - & walk in it. So here come the questions! WHY do you believe, Christian? WHAT do you believe? In reply to the Pharisee's claim to be disciples of Moses whom God spoke to-& the denial of knowing where Jesus comes from, the young man says: "Nobody has ever heard of anyone giving sight to a man born blind. If this One were not from God, He couldn't do anything!" Outdone in both their teaching and denial of the truth, the only way the Pharisees can counter this miraculous healing is to remove the proof from their midst. John tells us they put the young man out of the Synagogue, excommunicated him & cut him off from Temple Fellowship. That's the price he has to pay for walking in the light.

The life of each Christian is a life of witness - similar to that of the main in our text, for each day we have living proof of what God has done for us - & to us. That kind of witness will be challenged, & is going to be fought against because it says NO to the arrogance and power of the man. It says NO to the darkness, because the scales have been pulled off by the Mudpack of Faith that's been challenged and tried. Jesus heard the young man had been put out of the Temple and went looking for him. Then a tender scene unfolds, as Jesus asks the same question the Pharisees had asked: "Do you believe in the Son of Man?" But what a difference in the WAY the question's asked now. When he finds out it is Jesus, the One who healed him, the young man bows down in worship & says: "I believe, Lord." That's 20-20 vision! That's where the light is found that enlightens our mind, that floods our path and gives us confidence, that glows into every corner & exposes every obstacle & pitfall.

Mud & Spit mixed together, & a blind man sees. But behind the Mud & Spit is Jesus Christ, and the man's spiritual eyes see WHO He is - & he lived in that light. In John 8, Jesus says: "I am the light of the world. Follow Me and you will never wander in the dark but will have the light of Life." As we follow Him to a hill called Calvary and stand under His Cross, the darkness of our sins surrounding us seems to become the light for little while. But then as we follow Him to the place of His burial, the brilliance that bursts forth from His empty tomb pierces the darkness. And the Light of the world touches our eyes, and WE can see! What a glorious thing when we can see every day, saying: "I do believe, Lord", and worship Him who died & rose again for us - that we might live in His Light forever!

Foodfight will feature cookbook sale

People are confused about the link between nutrition and cancer risk," says Loma Surber of Sutton County of the American Cancer Society. "Even those who are aware of the link don't always know how to act upon their knowledge."

To help people prepare delicious meals that might reduce their risk of cancer, the American Cancer Society has published a cookbook with over 200 recipes, from appetizers to desserts. The American Cancer Society's cookbook gives the Society's nutrition guidelines and tasty ways to follow these recommendations.

The American Cancer Society's nutrition guidelines are based upon an exhaustive review of more than 20 years of epidemiologic and laboratory data," says Surber. But the good news is that these guidelines are not restrictive and can be easy to follow and inexpensive."

Often, Surber points out, it's just learning to make simple substitutions to improve the nutritional value of recipes. Sometimes, it's learning how to cook meat and fish properly to reduce fat. Or it could be learning how to pick the best sources of fiber.

"These changes are simple, yet delicious," Surber says. "Basically, we stress choice. People can make a difference in their diet by choosing foods and methods of preparation that are healthy and good tasting. People needn't feel like good nutrition is an exercise in penance."

The American Cancer Society advocates a diet high in fiber, low in fat, and rich in vitamins A and C. The cookbook emphasizes all the many different options for acting positively with regard to diet and cancer risk reduction. Each recipe lists grams of fat and calories per serving. Good sources of fiber and vitamins A and C are also noted.

"I'll bet people will be amazed at how easily they can change their diets. Some of them might even start making some delicious discoveries," says Loma Surber. "The American Cancer Society wants to show people that reducing cancer risk can be enjoyable."

The American Cancer Society Cookbook is authored by Anne Lindsay, an award-winning food writer. It will be available at IGA Food Center and Jim's Thriftway on April 19 from 3:30 to 5:30 at the ACS booths for the "Great American Food Fight."

11 service coming to Sutton County

9-1-1 Emergency telephone service is coming to Sutton County and six other counties served by the Concho Valley Council of Governments.

The Texas Advisory Commission on State Emergency Communications approved CVCOG's Regional Plan which will offer basic automatic number identification. When a 9-1-1 call is placed, the local dispatcher's computer screen will show the number of the telephone where the call was placed.

Equipment, installation and operational cost for the counties participating in the CVCOG's Regional Plan will be about $650,000 for the first two years. The Texas Advisory Commission on State Emergency Communications will pay about $363,395 of that total.

Local telephone companies will include a service fee of 50 cents each month on each customer's monthly telephone bill beginning April 1990. Emergency service will become available to Sutton County on July 1, 1991.

Energy Efficient Room Air Conditioners

Here comes some cool news about room air conditioning.

Emerson Quiet Kool, a leading manufacturer of room air conditioners, wants to remind consumers that effective January 1, 1990 of this year, federal law mandates that all room air conditioners must be energy efficient. BTU size is the criterion for dictating minimum EER (Energy Efficiency Ratio) requirements. Now consumers can be sure that they are buying a room air conditioner that will help save on energy bills.

Consumer Reports rated Emerson Quiet Kool's unit as the #1 room air conditioner in 1989. Depending on how much you use an air conditioner and how well you care for it, your air conditioner should last between 12 and 15 years.

The best way to make sure your air conditioner runs efficiently and lives longer is to clean the filter each spring. An informative booklet about room air conditioners is available free by writing to: Emerson Quiet Kool, Dept. 90-25, 400 Woodbine Avenue, Woodbridge, New Jersey 07095.
