Sutton County: 100 years

By Griffin B. Cole
DRN Editor

A project to honor the early settlers of Sutton County is waiting for support to get off the ground.

Relatives of the early pioneers will be able to honor their forefathers by purchasing a plaque which will be put up along the sidewalk leading to the county courthouse.

The idea of honoring the pioneers with plaques came from L.P. Bloodworth who recently put up a plaque at the entrance to the city park. The plaque there also honors the earliest members of his family to arrive in Sutton County.

Finding the founding families will be a task which will take some time. Bloodworth said the committee is looking into families which arrived before 1915. As a basis they will start with the 1910 census.

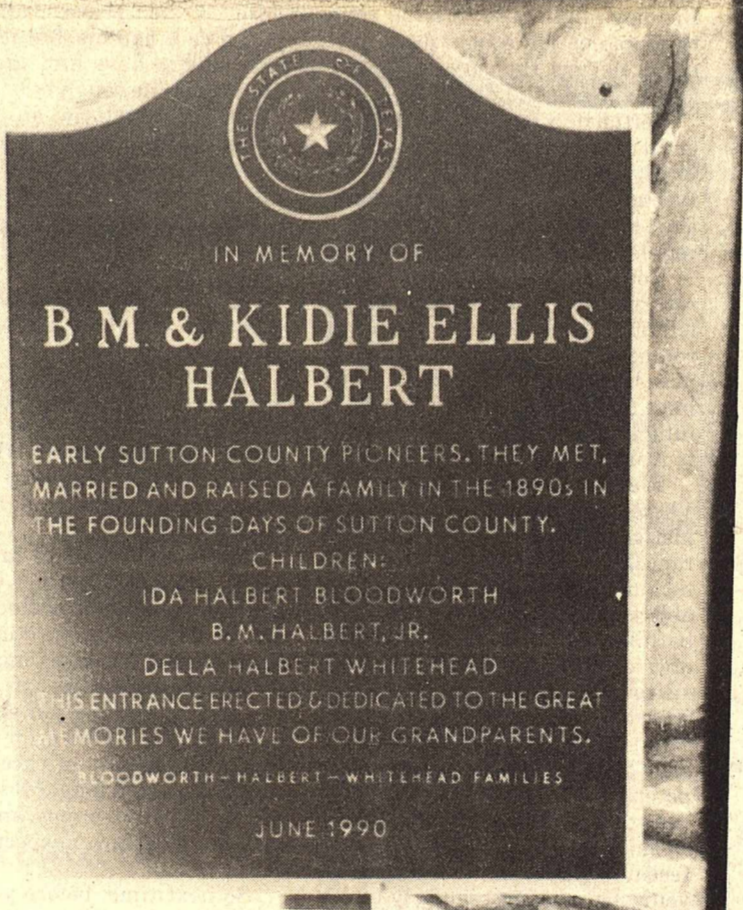

Bloodworth said that it would be helpful if people would call if they thought their family might fit into the category.

The plaques will be made of aluminum alloy and include a 70 to 75 word inscription about the pioneering family.

The families must provide their own plaque and wording for the plaque. The cost: around $600.

Bloodworth said he is basing the

Recycling effort gets boost from Sonora city council

By Griffin B. Cole
DRN Editor

Recycling at a larger scale should be a reality in Sonora by Sept. 1. The Sonora City Council set that date as a goal to get a basic recycling program started during their monthly meeting June 19.

The recycling effort will most likely start with aluminum, glass and paper and possibly grow to other items in the future.

The city will rely on the public to drop the items off at collection sites. The city council went as far as suggesting drop off sites at the Intermediate school, near the EMS building and across the street from St. Ann's Church.

Jim Garrett, public works coordinator, said before any recycling project begins the city will have to revamp some collection containers to put out. Garrett said those collectors will need to have new bottoms put in. That should take about three weeks.

Once the containers are put out they will be color-coded so that the public is aware what to put in each container.

Some concern was raised over the cost of the recycling effort. It was decided that there will be minimum costs as the city will leave it to the trust of the community to put the correct type of items in each container.

Nancy Brockman, a third-grade teacher in the Sonora Public Schools, said the main problem facing any recycling effort is in getting the public knowledgeable.

Brockman said the schools have been informing students about how the recycling effort can save the resources of the earth.

The third-grade classes collected 870 pounds of newspaper in just four weeks and had them recycled.

Brockman said if the recycling effort started in the schools 1/4 of Sonora would already be informed. The students will then be able to reach their parents and others about the recycling effort.

Recycling in smaller towns has actually been better than in larger cities said Brockman. She cited a couple of cases from a report out of Austin and said Austin was interested in what was happening in Sonora.

The two cases mentioned by Brockman were cities which had curbside collection of garbage. Currently Sonora does not have that.

Mayor Bill Gosney said it will not be in the near future that Sonora goes to curbside collection due to the costs that would be incurred. It would be possible to change over once the equipment is in such shape that it would be worth it.

Brockman said it is possible to go through the state government for funding on the recycling project but it is preferred not to do so.

The city council is expected to take further steps in solidifying the recycling program in next months meeting.

City introduces new ordinance

By Griffin B. Cole
DRN Editor

The Sonora city council is considering a new ordinance which would allow a lien to be put on property of those who do not pay their utility bills on time. The new ordinance would only affect owners of property not renters.

The city council considered the ordinance during their regular monthly meeting June 19.

City attorney Beth Wallace said the new ordinance would protect Sonora from losing big money on bill payment. Wallace said Sonora, like many other cities, has trouble collecting utility bills.

"Some of the property owners just pay the bills when it is convenient," said Wallace. "They'll three or four months after it is due."

Belinskij experiences true Texas

By Allison Schwieng
DRN Staff Writer

Wow! There were no gunfights or cowboys on horseback roaming through town. This was Anna Belinskij's reaction when arriving in Texas.

Belinskij said she spent the majority of her time learning the meaning of many of the sayings we have here. After all, people in Finland don't say ya'll.

Belinskij arrived in Sonora August 10, 1989. She attended a full year of high school at Sonora. School is very different in Finland, Belinskij said.

There, students must attend first through ninth grade; then they decide to attend a vocational school, college, or enter the working class.

In Finnish schools there are no sports or band, only classes.

ANNA BELINSKIJ

These classes sometimes last just six weeks.

"Band was a completely new experience for me and I loved it."

The community-based paper

When I came to the Devil's River News I knew there would be a period of time that I would have to prove myself to the public. That is something which is not unique to Sonora but stands out in small newspapers.

Larger city people would be surprised at how seriously small town people take their newspapers.

Each week is like a test. I can see the public looking through the paper to check what is in the week's edition. This is most likely especially true for those who have taken the time to bring something into the paper.

I write several stories each week and realize the time it takes to make something sound right and yet get all the details in.

All of us here at the paper appreciate those stories brought in to us. The public should be made aware that much of the newspaper is actually written by members of the community.

Not just the Ramblin' column by Jim Fish or the Letters to the Editor, but a lot of stories are brought in by the public.

Those stories may be changed a bit to fit newspaper writing style, but the information is the same and comes out the same way.

This is one of the best things about small town newspapers. It really is a community newspaper.

That is why we always encourage the public to bring articles in to be included.

Groups that have meeting should feel free to bring by any information they want, and in many cases need, to be printed.

We cannot promise that it will make the very next edition of the paper. We can promise that we will make every effort to include it in as recent an edition as possible.

Information that is brought in need not be typed, only printed clearly so that we can retype it without wondering what a word is.

Of course, we reserve the right to edit some material, but we won't change any of the information.

Information that is brought in should have a name and phone number with it in case we need to call with a question or two.

With all the information that passes through there may be a rare time when something slips through the cracks (We don't claim to be perfect, only that we try to be perfect). If you have brought something in to be printed and haven't seen it for a couple of weeks, give us a call and we'll check it out.

The Devil's River News has been a community paper for almost 100 years and the idea is to keep it that way.

Speaking of the centennial, with the Devil being 100-years-old in October we are planning a special centennial issue.

We are asking for all those who read the Devil to bring their ideas of what should be included in the special edition. Any ideas brought to the office, sent in, or given to any employees of the Devil, will be seriously considered.

There will be plenty of space in the special issue so the more ideas the better.

Letter to the Editor policy

The Devil's River News welcomes letters to the editor on subjects of interest to its readers. Short letters are most likely to be chosen for publication, but the use of any material is at the discretion of the editor.

Editing may be necessary for space and clarity or to avoid obscenity, libel or invasion of privacy, but ideas will not be altered.

Upon request, editors will use initials only, but only rarely and for compelling reasons. A signed letter carries more weight with readers.

Letters do not necessarily reflect the editorial policies or beliefs of this newspaper.

All letters must bear the handwritten signature of the writer and include address and phone numbers for verification purposes (address and phone number will not be printed).

YOUR HEALTH
Food Labeling Breakthrough

The Food and Drug Administration's recent proposal to overhaul food labeling was hailed by the United Food and Commercial Workers Union (UFCW) and consumer activists, who have been pushing for such reforms for years.

Shoppers are increasingly concerned about the link between diet and health, and rely on food labels to help them choose what products to buy.

Pointers On Pets

Deciding To Board Your Pet?
...Read This To Enjoy Your Time Away

Poor little Rover. He just doesn't understand why he can't go on vacation with the rest of the family. It breaks your heart to see him tug at the leash as he is led (okay, dragged) to his temporary home. It can be a sad occasion to leave Rover at the kennel.

Whether or not to take the family dog along on a trip is never an easy decision. No one likes the idea of leaving their beloved friend and companion in a strange place for very long, but sometimes, as Wilford Brimley might say, "It's the right thing to do." On a trip, Rover just might not get the care and attention he needs and deserves.

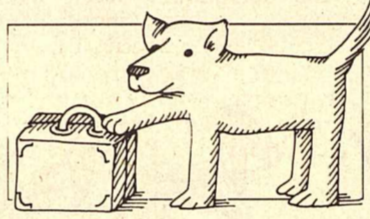

Fortunately for him, you've taken great care in choosing his boarding facilities. You have seen that everything is clean, and you are confident he will receive good food and regular exercise during his stay.

You are also confident he will be returned to you as healthy as you left him. Remember, any new environment can introduce Rover to new health problems. But, if you have taken care to make sure he is fully immunized, he'll be prepared to ward off any potential 'bugs.'

Fleas can always be a problem. There is no vaccination for fleas, so just continue (or begin) your current flea control plan. This should include an Escort flea collar available from your local veterinarian, bathing with a flea shampoo or dip and careful treatment of areas surrounding bedding and his living environment. Always be careful when using more than one insecticide on your pet as overuse can potentially lead to poisoning. Discuss this with your veterinarian.

Another potential worry is intestinal parasites, so make sure your dog is being regularly tested by fecal analysis and treated, if necessary.

Diseases such as distemper or parvovirus should not be a problem if Rover is current on all his required vaccinations, but it's also a good idea to have him vaccinated against canine cough.

Canine cough is an ailment similar to the common cold. It can be caused by any number of agents, and its primary symptom is a persistent cough. It may never get more serious than that, but canine cough has no real cure, only control measures, and it can lead to secondary infections and more serious respiratory disease.

Always consider vaccination programs before boarding. In fact, some veterinarians now even require it, as exposure to other dogs and the stress induced by the new environment make your dog very susceptible.

Intra-Trac II® is an intranasal vaccine that will protect your dog against Canine Parainfluenza and Bordetella bronchiseptica infections, the two major causes of canine cough. Protection begins as soon as 48 hours, but ideally vaccination should occur at least one week prior to boarding. A single dose of vaccine lasts for a full year. A single dose is used if Rover is only a puppy, and is even okay for Mrs. Rover expecting puppies.

So next time, before you check your dog in, check out canine cough, and ask your veterinarian about a precautionary vaccination.

The customary Christmas Eve dish in Italy is roast eel.

Third graders hit the nail on the head

The letter in last weeks Letters to the Editor, addressed to Mr. Mooney, Ms. Campbell, et. al., from the third grade class was great. If we can get our children tuned into ecological preservation and management at such a tender age, the battle would be half over. However, are they addressing the proper people?

In a convenience oriented society will such measures ever take hold enough to make a difference? Shouldn't we first develop the demand for our waste? Wouldn't it be great if each one of those third graders went home and passed the education on to their families?

There must be a more dramatic way to get the message across. People need to realize the seriousness of the situation. We as consumers will be consumed by our own waste and waste by-products if nothing is done. It is past the time of people demonstrating and chaining themselves to trees, and marching on the White House. Something has got to be done. Action must be taken.

How easy it is, to stand in front of a dozer about to devastate an ecological treasure. How many operators do you know that will intentionally crush an individual under their tracks? How many of these publicity seekers do you think will actually get out there and handle the day to day tedium, the toil, the work? They will be the first to scream they aren't being paid enough or the conditions are too extreme. I've seen it time and time again.

There is a special breed of hombre that will get out there in the heat of the day and sweat their posterior off, just for the satisfaction of doing the job. Most of them need the financial reward but what they feel inside, their own self esteem, means more. The opinions of others do not cross their minds. They are few and infrequent in our society, but they are there. It's unfortunate they are in demand elsewhere at this time.

Scientific establishments are working feverishly to accommodate the problem of waste disposal and recycling. What good is it if we don't take advantage of it? We know that many profit pursuing organizations will stretch the truth or out-and-out lie about its product's effect on our environment. It isn't a matter of whether or not we believe it, but we accept it. It is convenient to accept the misgivings to save money, or ease our consciousness concerning ecological preservation.

In the end, we all will pay, rather our children and their children will pay. Have you ever watched those futuristic movies depicting a desolate world where people fight to the death for water or a scrap of bread? I choose to believe we are heading in another direction, but how would you feel if you found that You were directly responsible for the annihilation of our species?

I don't believe for one moment the logging companies are replacing trees as fast as they cut them down. Sure, they may be replanting a seedling for every one they harvest. How many of those seedlings reach maturity? It would be foolish to think recycling paper and other wood products would not add greatly to the efficient management and preservation of our forests. Large cities and towns are doing it now. Boy Scouts are known nationwide for their paper drives.

Additionally, if we consume our forests more than we have already, the effect will be felt around the world.

Aluminum cans are the best example of recycling. People make money at it and you see them all the time along the highways. A neighbor of mine has even used his ingenuity to fabricate a crusher to handle a couple hundred cans a minute.

Sadly, paper and aluminum is about all that is reused in significant amounts. Answers are coming, however.

This is what is so good about our third graders exhibiting concern. The answers are going to come from them. If just one of them goes on to pursue these objectives, we all will benefit. If another enters the field of science and discovers a way to manufacture building blocks from the stuff that fills our junk yards and trash dumps, we all benefit.

We would do well to realize this, when one of them comes home and says, "Hey dad, let's start sorting and recycling our trash."

Bravo! Sonora Third Graders.

NEWS

OF SAFETY

Drowning Prevention Checklist

The National Spa & Pool Institute (NSPI) offers parents and pool and spa owners the following checklist to help prevent child drownings:

When it comes to pool safety and children, there's no substitute for supervision.

Supervision: Never take your eyes off your child when he or she is in or near a swimming pool, hot tub or spa, even for a second. Don't allow barriers, such as fences or walls, to give you a false sense of security. Keep toys, tricycles and other playthings out of the water and away from the pool or spa. Don't rely on inflatable devices to keep your child afloat or believe your child to be "drown proof" because he or she has had swimming lessons.

Barriers: Make sure your pool or spa has effective barriers—such as a fence/wall/latched doors/cover/alarm—that guard against unsupervised access. Make sure doors, windows and gates leading to the pool area are kept closed and are equipped with exit alarms or self-closing devices. Latches should be out of the reach of young children. Always drain standing water off of the pool or spa cover.

Emergency Procedures: Learn how to administer lifesaving techniques to children, including cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR). Install a phone or keep a cordless phone in the pool or spa area. Know how to contact local emergency medical services. Post the numbers in an easy-to-see place. For free brochures on child drowning prevention, write: NSPI, 2111 Eisenhower Ave., Alexandria, VA 22314 or call 1-800-234-SAFE.

New medications are being approved all the time to help treat many of the most serious medical conditions, including Parkinson's Disease:

• Eldepryl (deprenyl), developed in Hungary and manufactured by Somerset Pharmaceuticals in the U.S., was recently approved by the Food and Drug Administration for treating Parkinson's Disease.

• Results of a preliminary study involving 54 patients in California suggest that deprenyl may be useful in slowing the progression of PD. In the DATATOP study, now in progress at 28 centers in the U.S. and Canada, 800 previously untreated Parkinson patients are randomly assigned to one of four groups; deprenyl; Vitamin E; deprenyl and Vitamin E; and placebo. This larger study, which aims to see whether deprenyl and/or Vitamin E are useful in slowing the progression of the illness, can be expected to produce more definitive results.

Public Notice

TO ALL FORMER AND CURRENT INTRASTATE WIDE AREA TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICE (WATS/800) SUBSCRIBERS:
 Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has instituted a Class Action Lawsuit seeking judicial approval of a settlement reached in Docket No. 7297, an inquiry of General Counsel of the Public Utility Commission of Texas into possible overcharges which occurred between September, 1976, and February, 1987, due to rounding practices, on bills of intrastate WATS/800 customers sent by Southwestern Bell and other telephone companies which concur in Southwestern Bell's tariff. The suit is styled "Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, Plaintiff, vs. MCI Telecommunications Corporation, A Member of the Class of Texas Intrastate WATS and 800 Service Customers Who Paid Overtime Charges From September 1976 Through February 1987, Defendant," and identified as Cause No. 471,460 in the 126th Judicial District Court of Travis County, Texas.

Pursuant to the settlement, while not admitting liability, Southwestern Bell, the other local exchange telephone companies in Texas, and AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. have agreed to pay refunds to those WATS/800 customers who paid overtime charges attributable to the rounding practices for intrastate WATS/800 services at any time between September, 1976, and February, 1987. The refunds will be based upon either the actual or estimated amount of overtime charges attributable to such rounding practices. An exact refund will be determined for customers able to produce copies of their WATS/800 service bills. For customers who do not have copies of their WATS/800 service bills to establish actual overtime charges paid, an average refund of $4.53 to $5.95 per WATS/800 service line per month will be applied. All claims will be subject to verification. The refunds will also include interest at the rate of 7.80% per annum.

Claim Forms And Additional Information

Those customers who think they may be entitled to a refund or who desire more information must call 1-800-782-3026, 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, or write to WATS Refund Pool Administrator, One Bell Plaza, Room 670, P.O. Box 650376, Dallas, Texas 75265-0376, to request a WATS Refund Information Package. The WATS Refund Information Package will contain further information regarding the lawsuit and eligibility for a refund, a description of documentation required to support a customer's claim for refund, and a refund claim form to be filled out and submitted requesting a refund. REQUESTING A WATS REFUND INFORMATION PACKAGE DOES NOT OBLIGATE YOU IN ANY WAY.

All claims for a refund must be received by the Refund Pool Administrator by Friday, October 5, 1990, and all rejections of the settlement (that is, requests for exclusion from the class action lawsuit) must be received by the Court by Wednesday, September 5, 1990. Only those who respond by filing a claim or by filing a rejection of the settlement, as explained in the WATS Refund Information Package, will receive notice of future developments in this proceeding.

Persons who wish to obtain further information may also contact the Public Utility Commission, Public Information Division, at (512) 458-0257 or (512) 458-1221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

she said.
The majority of the students' time is spent reading, according to Belinskij.
"The kids look so bored and unhappy in my school. They go home, read about 200 pages a night, and fail the next day," said Belinskij with a snicker.
Thanks to her host family, Monte, Virginia, and Julie Jones, Belinskij saw many towns in Texas. She also traveled to New York, with which she wasn't very impressed.
"It is so dirty there and the people only care about themselves," Belinskij said.

The hardest part about coming to a new country was leaving family and friends Belinskij said. Both her mother and father are teachers. She also has a younger brother whom she missed very much.
Now the tables have turned. She must leave new friends and family.
"All the people made my stay so special and I'm going to miss Sonora very much," Belinskij said.

"When I leave I'll have such an empty feeling and I know I'm going to cry," she said.
Belinskij will return to Finland July 10. She said she would love to visit again, but it is very expensive.
When asked about her future plans, Belinskij said she would probably stay in Finland and begin working.

approximate cost on what he found when he set up the plaque to honor his family. In no way does he control the cost, that is all done by the company.
The plan is to go through the Southwell Company in San Antonio. They also make the historical markers which are up around the state.
Bloodworth said the plaques would be very similar to the state markers in that they would have the state of Texas with the wording going over it.
While the $600 price tag sounds like a lot of cash, Bloodworth said that if each family member were able to chip in for one, it would

Besides, the whole idea is to honor the pioneers in a correct manner.
That it why Bloodworth suggested the plaques be put up by the county courthouse. The county has already agreed to allow the plaques to be put up and to dig the holes needed.
Bloodworth said that each of the plaques would be identical in height and shape.
"We don't want a bunch of hodge podge up there," said Bloodworth.
Where the uniqueness would come in was on the plaques themselves and the wording that is put on them.

Bloodworth said he would like to see 20 to 25 plaques put up and the positioning would be by drawing.
He said that at least 10 would be needed to follow through on the project.
"If there is no interest why proceed with the project?" said Bloodworth.
This is going to be more or less a one-time deal. If a family is interested in honoring their early pioneers they should contact L.P. Bloodworth before Sept. 1.
That should allow enough time to get the plaques up before the beginning of next year.

Mayor Bill Gosney said the ordinance would not actually be anything new. Gosney said many cities have had such an ordinance whether it was actually legal or not.
In 1989 the state legislature passed a law which would make such ordinances legal. That has paved the way for the new ordinance possibility in Sonora.

Wallace said the ordinance would only affect those who own property. If a person rents property they would be able to file a declaration of renting which would make the renter responsible for the utility bill.
The city is already protected somewhat from renters not paying their bills. The city requires a deposit before utilities can be turned on. Wallace said that way, if a renter does not pay their bill the city can keep the deposit, turn off the utility and have the renter pay another deposit before the utilities are re-established.

The city council will review the ordinance at their next two monthly meeting in which the public will be invited to comment. They will be able to act on the ordinance in September.

Jennings chosen as outstanding young man

The Board of Advisors for the Outstanding Young Men of America awards program announced that David Jennings has been selected for inclusion in the 1989 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America.

Now in its 27th year, the OYMA program is designed to honor and encourage exceptional young men between the ages of 21 and 40 who have distinguished themselves in many fields of endeavor, such as service to community, professional leadership, academic achievement, business advancement, cultural accomplishments, and civic and political participation. Achievements in these areas are the result of dedication, responsibility, and a drive for excellence - qualities which deserve to be recognized and remembered.

Jennings, along with fellow Outstanding Young Men throughout North America, were selected after 150,000 nominations were received from political leaders, University and College officials, clergymen, business leaders, as well as from various civic groups and community organizations. Each young man will be represented by his biographical entry in this prestigious annual awards publication.

Our Board of Advisors and Editors salute all those honored as Outstanding Young Men of America. We take great pride in bringing their accomplishments to the attention of the American public.

New Success In Fighting Ulcers

About 30 million Americans suffer from peptic ulcer disease. Fortunately, there are medications available which offer effective ulcer healing.

Some drugs have a lower potential for interaction than others. If you are being treated for ulcers, make sure you let your doctor know what other prescription and non-prescription drugs you may be taking.

Ulcer sufferers should be aware that taking their ulcer medication with other drugs could cause troublesome side effects. Common drugs that one might be taking with their ulcer medication are cardiac drugs, antidiabetics and tranquilizers.

David Jennings, Outstanding Young Man of America.

Loretta Herrera attends Lions camp

Horseback riding, swimming and camping out are just a few highlights of the special weeks Loretta Herrera, 10, a handicapped child from Sonora, spent at the Texas Lions Camp in Kerrville.

Sponsored by the Sonora Westside Lions Club, Loretta had the opportunity to fish, study nature and participate in sporting events. Loretta is the daughter of Roberto and Juanita Herrera.

Camp programs are adapted especially for visually impaired, hearing impaired and physically handicapped children. The Texas Lions Camp is completely wheelchair accessible.

A well-trained staff supervises each activity with a ratio of just three campers to each counselor.

Located on 500 acres of Texas hill country, the camp serves the handicapped children ages seven to 16. The Texas Lions Camp is a non-profit organization funded by contributors interested in providing challenging, tuition-free programs for handicapped individuals.

The remainder of the year, the facility provides educational instruction through its Texas Education Agency accredited school.

For more information, or if you know of someone who could benefit from these programs, call your local Lions and Lioness club or write: Texas Lions Camp, P. O. Box 247, Kerrville, Texas, 78029-0247.

HEALTH CARE: QUALITY VS. QUANTITY

How many times have you waited in a doctor's office for nearly an hour and then been escorted into an examining room where you continued to wait, only to have the doctor finally come in and spend a quick 15 minutes giving you a physical?

You hardly have time to finish dressing when the doctor's already disappeared and the assistant is presenting you with a bill.

Certainly not every visit to a doctor results in money spent for such little attention, but increasingly these days the high cost of health care doesn't equal the short time spent with a qualified physician.

One health care provider which has trimmed the gap between the amount of time a physician spends with a patient and the cost for its services is Sansum Medical Clinic in Santa Barbara, California, which draws patients from every state and more than 20 foreign countries.

Sansum Medical Clinic physicians spend an average of one hour per visit with their patients—versus the 11-minute national average.

"We take a personal approach to health care," says Dr. Bruce Berlow, president, Sansum Medical Clinic. "We find that patients are more satisfied—and, we feel, overall medical care is improved—when a physician takes the extra time with diagnosis and treatment. We have seen how our patients benefit dramatically from the additional time our physicians give them." Conversely, large clinics often process their patients as numbers rather than persons. Managed care providers, typically in the form of HMO or PPO participation, agree with insurers to provide certain services at lower prices in order to be guaranteed a higher volume of patients.

In a recent survey, Sansum patients said taking time/being thorough is the most important factor in determining whether a physician was helpful or not.

And patients rated Sansum physicians very high on such issues as "explaining procedures thoroughly" and "showing interest beyond immediate problem."

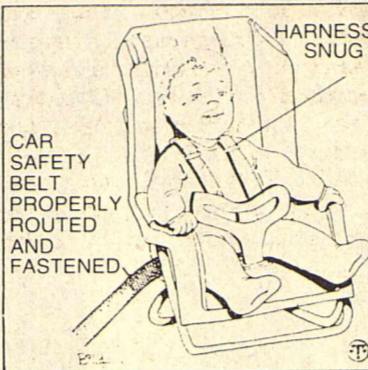

The "fee for service" option offered by operations such as Sansum Medical Clinic isn't for everyone. But it exists to offer people the option of a more satisfying health care experience than can often be obtained elsewhere.

For more information, call 1-800-4-SANSUM and ask for extension 471.

Chamber official meets with local business leaders

Texas Chamber of Commerce President Larry Milner met with chamber of commerce Manager Kathy Davis last week to hear issues of concern to the local business community and to determine how the Texas Chamber can best help address these concerns through legislative action.

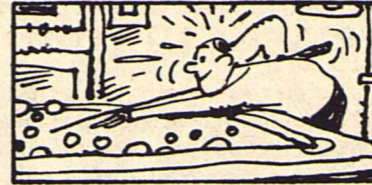

The executive staff of the Texas Chamber is currently touring the West Texas region to gain input to help formulate the state organization's legislative agenda prior to the meeting of the 72nd Legislature in January 1991.

According to Milner, "Input is crucial if the Texas Chamber is to represent the interests of all Texans before the Legislature."

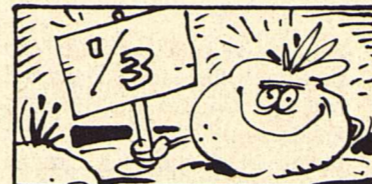

The Texas Chamber's legislative priority will focus on "The Texas Strategy," a long-range action plan emphasizing education, taxation, tort reform, health care and infrastructure. The Texas Chamber is seeking direct input and involvement from community leaders in each of these areas of legislative interests.

Milner also discussed the impact of the recent reform efforts of the Texas Legislature in workers' compensation and education.

The Texas Chamber of Commerce is a 2,500-member organization formed by the merging of the South, East and West Texas regional chambers in 1987. It is composed of large and small businesses, trade associations and local chambers of commerce. The Texas Chamber's goals are to see that laws and policies are implemented that will make Texas businesses and communities more competitive in the changing domestic and global economy.

Hints For Homemakers

If your grandmother used 20 Mule Team Borax around the house, you are not alone. It's one of those old-fashioned products that became a household name years ago. And today, it's becoming a reborn star as Americans search for natural products with multiple uses.

Borax is a naturally occurring mineral composed of boron, sodium, oxygen and water. It first appeared in history some 4,000 years ago. Homemakers have found dozens of uses for this magic crystal—from killing cockroaches and spiders to preserving food and fertilizing soil. The company makes no claims for its use in such ways, since it would be too costly to conduct tests. But homemakers hail those uses in newspaper columns around the country.

It's said that early miners ate a teaspoon of Borax a day to aid digestion, and some folks claimed it could cure epilepsy. Modern science has provided better solutions to cure such maladies. But 20 Mule Team Borax still has a place in the homes of today.

Borax controls odors in your cat litter box: mix 6 parts cat litter with 1 part 20 Mule Team Borax.

Dispose in garbage, not garden. To clean delicate hand washables: dissolve 1/4 cup Borax and 2 tablespoons detergent. Soak for 10 minutes. Be sure to read labels on all garments. To keep tub and tile clean: sprinkle Borax on damp sponge. Wipe clean and then rinse thoroughly. Safe for all fiberglass and plastic surfaces.

A free booklet tells how to use Borax for other purposes as well: as a diaper soak, laundry conditioner, toilet bowl cleaner, and flower preserver. Many other uses are included. For a free copy, write: Magic Crystal, Consumer Information, Greyhound Tower, Phoenix, AZ 85077-0225, or call 1-800-528-0849.

TIPS ON TRIPS

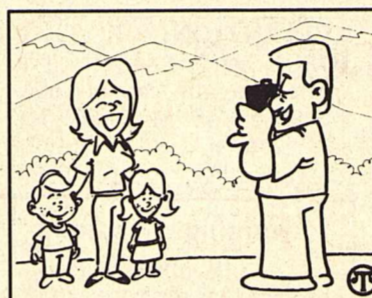

Vacation Planning Ideas

This summer millions of Americans will be taking off for their annual ritual—the family vacation.

"When traveling with children planning is not an option—it's absolutely essential," says Eileen Nechas, a consumer travel adviser and mother of two.

Nechas offers the following planning tips to assure that the family's vacation is as fun-filled as can be:

- Pack a first aid kit. Particularly important is insect repellent, suntan lotion and medication for motion sickness.
- Purchase a pair of miniature binoculars for taking in scenic vistas or observing animal life.
- Remember to pack your camera, portable radio, flashlight or portable cassette player.
- Test your batteries for freshness. Duracell now offers the COPPER TOP™ Tester built right into its battery packages so you can test how much power is left in used or stored batteries. "Few things are more disappointing on a vacation than equipment that doesn't work," says Nechas. "Think of all the great pictures that might be missed, the flashlight that doesn't work, or a long trip with the kids with electronic games that run out of juice."
- Bring along a favorite pillow or toy for very young children, travel games for older ones.

- When traveling, give each child a map and highlighter to plot your progress. It can help them enjoy the trip and learn geography.
 - Get an inexpensive, disposable camera for each child to take pictures for a vacation album.
 - Surprise your child with a new cassette tape of songs or book on tape.
 - Fill a bag with "mystery" gifts which you can use as surprises at various points throughout the trip. These can range from stickers and comic books to a battery-operated, hand-held game.
- "A vacation is an opportunity to create wonderful memories," says Nechas. "Planning ensures that it will be."
