Junction Chamber President JUNCTION - Centering on education and fighting drugs, Clayton Williams spoke to a gathering of about 200 at the Coke Stevenson Memorial Center July 26.

Junction Chamber of Commerce officials had sent out invitations to Williams, Republican candidate for governor, and Ann Richards, Democratic candidate. Williams accepted the invitation while no answer was received from Richards.

Keeping the truce set up with Richards, Williams spoke on behalf of his anti-drug plan.

Williams stated six cuts in state governments costs which would help pay for the drug plan without imposing a new tax on the state.

At the top of the list of cuts was a freeze on state hiring.

Williams said the state had already reached a peak of employers.

The state auto and airplane supply would also take a cut according to Williams. He talked of a 10 percent cut in state-owned automobiles and selling 61 state-owned airplanes.

He also said the 75 state prison shops would be sold to private interests.

The other part of the drug plan was based on increased penalties for users. Because of the that, Williams said he would double the

Karate Institute wants a few good students

The Karate Institute is looking to increase its ranks. Currently at about 10 students, instructor Clarence Smith said that isn't enough to keep the class going.

"I feel I've reached the point, here and in Eldorado, that I have to drop the program," said Smith.

To help bolster attendance, Smith said he is offering a deal of three months of instruction for the price of two months.

"I know the students are here to keep the class running," said Smith.

For two hours each Thursday, students learn the basics in karate. Smith said as far as he is concerned karate is as much about self-discipline as anything else.

Smith said the students are taught to respect their coaches and their parents. Sometimes kids will tend to listen to coaches, whether in school or someplace else, more than to their parents. Smith said there is a different situation away from home.

Each student in the class is able to move along at their own pace, numbers of prisons in the state to eight.

CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR - Republican candidate for governor, Clayton Williams spoke to a crowd of about 200 in Junction July 26. Williams was invited, along with Ann Richards, by the Junction Chamber of Commerce. Richards elected not to attend.

Williams said young offenders would get a second chance, but it would be at places like a military boot camp and work camps.

Another key to Williams' plan to fight drugs was in education.

"I want to start teaching kids about drugs in kindergarten," said Williams.

As for education in general, Williams said he wanted to put the control of the schools back to local school boards rather than the state board.

"Further mandates (concerning school policies) from liberals in Austin will get vetoed by this man," Williams said.

To help the schools out financially, Williams would like to see the parents have a choice in what school their children attend.

"I want to see competition to be the engine that drives schools," said Williams.

Two other steps Williams would like taken are to throw the career ladder out the window and use the savings to raise teachers salaries to "where they belong", and to encourage local schools to have janitor work bid out.

The primarily pro-Williams crowd appeared pleased with what Williams offered in his speech, which he wrapped up with, "I always feel good getting back to where people think and feel like I do."

Thieves hit pair of bars

Two local drinking establishments lost a combined $650 last week when thieves forced their way in and ransacked the machines.

According to Brent Gesch, Sonora Police Chief, the Rock Inn, on Glasscock Street and the Longbranch Saloon, on Crockett Street, were hit early Thursday morning.

Gesch said the thief or thieves entered the Rock Inn by knocking off a dead bolt on a door with what was apparently a sledge hammer.

The thieves hit the cigarette machine and got away with an estimated $500, Gesch said.

Gesch said the Longbranch was entered by the thieves near the back when they kicked out some panelling near the back door. The thieves took money from the pool table and cigarette machine totalling about $150.

It is apparent, Gesch said, the same perpetrators did both crimes and were experienced.

Gesch said there were no suspects at this time.

Sutton County: 100 years

Pro rodeo fans will get more excitement at the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association event in Sonora this year during the Sutton County Days. The event has been extended from two nights to three, lasting from Aug. 23-25.

Some of the best cowboys in the world are expected to participate.

One of those could be Ty Murray of Odessa who was the 1989 World Champion All-Around Cowboys with over $130,000 in winnings.

Murray though barely out of his teen, is already traveling with some pretty impressive company. The 20-year old is the youngest man ever to earn the title of world champion all-around cowboys.

He is already being mentioned with rodeo legends Jim Shoulders,

Casey Tibbs and Larry Mahan as one of the most gifted cowboys in rodeo history.

Murray's phenomenal success as a PRCA cowboy follows a childhood dedicated to developing his skills at both ends of the arena.

"I think that a real cowboy ought to be able to do everything," Murray said in 1988 en route to the PRCA's rookie of the year title.

In college rodeo's, the wiry Murray not only rode roughstock but also competed as a steer wrestler. But, at 5 feet 8 inches and 140 pounds, Murray's future obviously lies at the bucking end of the arena.

Murray had big years in 1988 and 1989. In '88 he claimed the Resistol rookie of the year award earning over $45,000 in riding

After suffering a gun shot wound to the abdominal area, Augustine Macias, 50, allegedly chased and killed Colorado Salvador, 38, after inflicting 24 stab wounds Friday night at the Fort Terret Ranch east of Sonora.

Macias is currently in the intensive care unit of a San Angelo hospital and is listed in serious condition.

Sutton County Sheriff, Bill Webster, said the case will be turned over to the grand jury.

According to Webster the incident took place during a fish fry several ranch hands were attending. Webster said the initial incident was an argument between Salvador and an unidentified individual.

Webster said Macias stepped between the two men and, according to witnesses, Salvador pulled out a gun and shot Macias.

Macias then chased Salvador, Webster said, and caught him after about 70 to 80 yards and proceeded to allegedly stab Salvador 24 times.

Justice of the Peace Herman Moore ordered an autopsy of Salvador. While the official report is not in, Webster said a preliminary report showed Salvador suffered 24 stab wounds including three to the left portion of the forehead.

The autopsy was performed by the Bexar County Medical Examiner in San Antonio.

Webster said the sheriff's office received the call on the incident about 2:25 a.m. Friday morning with Deputy Mo Salinas the first to respond and then was assisted by Deputy Rusty Frazier.

According to Webster one of the men's watches was broken at 1:50 a.m. which most likely means the incident took place then.

Webster said Macias is the prime suspect in the stabbing, but questioning will have to wait due to Macias being in serious condition.

ROUND TABLE - Local senior citizens said the cost of health care is one of the most pressing matters facing them today. Scott Gilmore discussed the topic with several senior citizens during a strategy planning meeting at the local White House Conference on Aging.

Forum identifies local problems for seniors

By Griffin B. Cole
DRN Editor

Those who attended the White House Conference on Aging tabbed dental care, home repair and cost of health care, among the major problems facing senior citizens.

The Conference on Aging was held at the Sutton County Senior Center July 25 and attracted 40 people for two sessions.

In the afternoon session, the top four problems listed were dental care, home repair, independent living and cost of health care.

The evening session selected housing and home repair as the top priorities followed by awareness of available services and independent living.

The top issues came from a list of about 20 that was presented during a five-minute brainstorming session that opened the conference.

Those in attendance then broke up into small groups to plan strategies for solving the top-ranked problems. The strategy planning session lasted about 15 minutes and then the group reconvened for discussion on what ideas were presented.

During the evening session the group suggested that a census of the elderly was needed to provide a better assessment of what the true problems are. This would help

Free physicals available to high school athletes

As the month of August rolls in so does the high school football season.

The Sonora Broncos, coming off a solid 7-3 season last year, get ready for two-a-days which will begin Aug. 13.

Early preparations for the season will include physicals, the filling out of proper forms for participation and the handing out of equipment.

New athletic director Bob Bellard said athletes are reminded that if they are entering the seventh or ninth-grade and plan on playing sports, they must have a physical.

Bellard said Dr. Jay Surratt has offered a free physical for athletes, no matter what sport, on Aug. 7 for boys and Aug. 9 for girls.

Physicals will be held at the high school gymnasium beginning at 6 p.m. both nights.

Bellard added, while the upper classmen do not have to take a physical, he strongly suggests they take advantage of the opportunity.

Also on Aug. 7 football players will need to pick up the forms for participation in sports.

On Aug. 8, football players will be getting their equipment.

Practice will begin on Aug. 13.

The frustrated athlete

I was talking with my friend the other day about football and how fast the season was closing in. He can't wait and neither can I.

Todd and I look at football from completely different views though.

He remembers his days at Reagan County High School as an all-state performer. I remember my days as a frustrated kid who couldn't get into a game.

During a six-game season my freshman year, I participated in exactly 11 plays. I bet I remember each one.

A lot of kids turned out freshman year for football.

Being just a little guy, 5 foot 6 inches and 125 pounds, I decided I would be a wide receiver and defensive back.

Battling for a starting spot at wide receiver was terrible. I had guys ahead of me like Kevin Grahn, Jim Hart, Scott Henning and a couple of others I can't remember.

What bothered me the most was some of these guys were terrible students and everybody (except the coaches) knew they wouldn't even finish school.

Sure enough, by my senior year two of the guys had quit school and could not play football.

They hadn't even thought of helping me develop into a good receiver.

I took heart in the thought later in life.

The freshmen team coaches made a terrible mistake.

We had a quarterback controversy just like in the pros. The coaches wanted to start a small, quick kid at a quarterback, but it was obvious that a taller kid had more talent overall.

His name was Steve and he was my best friend.

The coaches, for some reason, didn't seem to trust him. They hardly ever played him much less gave him a start.

After his sophomore year he moved to a larger school in Illinois where he not only started, but ended up as an all-conference quarterback.

Having a quarterback as your best friend is a real advantage. In practice one day I brought in a running play to him. He said forget that and called a long pass to me.

I still remember running down field and seeing the ball come right into my arms and completed for about a 50-yard touchdown.

While Steve and I congratulated each other the coaches jumped all over Steve for changing the play.

While I took heart in the fact that Steve was buried by the coaches, I have to admit I think the coaches were right about me.

About the middle of the season I wanted to play so bad I switched from defensive back to defensive end.

During a game in which we were getting killed they finally inserted me into the defense. The opposition pushed me around pretty easy and looking back I realize I wasn't a very good player.

Though I did become somewhat famous for being called for offside two plays in a row.

I've gotten over the tragedy of my playing days and now just enjoy the sport from the press box or the tube.

I just wonder what would have happened if I had the beef in high school that I put on in college.

THE BROWNS - This picture was brought into the Devil's River News. On the left is Jim Brown Sr. and on the right Jim Brown Jr. Brown Jr. was a ranch hand in Sutton County. Brown was born in Uvalde in 1882 and died in 1964. Brown Sr. had moved to the United States after being born in Ireland.

DRESSED FOR SUCCESS - This picture was also supplied to the Devil's River News by a local resident. These women dressed up for the Sutton County Diamond Jubilee in 1965. Who are they? Here is a hint: they worked at the bus stop which was located where Fiddler's is currently at.

MORE RAIN - This has become an all too familiar seen in Sonora as heavy rains continue to hit the area. This picture shows the Devil's River Draw on Monday, July 23, but could have been taken any time in the past three weeks.

wipe out some of the major barriers such as communication problems to help seniors become more aware of available services.

In the afternoon it was believed a national health care program could be the wave of the future to help keep the cost of health care reasonable.

It was agreed home and housing repair would have to be attacked at the local level. Better leadership and organization would be needed along with programs that start at the city level.

The local forum, one of four in the Concho Valley area, was held as a preliminary to the State White House Conference on Aging in Austin. The national conference should be called to session soon by President Bush. "I was very pleased with the turnout," said Carole Thorp, Director of the Sutton County Senior Center.

Especially pleasing to Thorp was the fact that many of the community leaders showed. Included in the group was Scott Gilmore, Administrator of Hudspeth Memorial Hospital and the nursing home; Ray Smith, key figure for the Lifeline program; and Pete Gildon, city manager.

Also among the attendees was Bonnie Sindell of Big Lake and a delegate to the State White House Conference on Aging and Silver Haired Legislator Jack Conaway.

Living in the past

If we spend all our time dwelling on events of the past, we lose the thrill of experiencing the freshness of the present. Condemning oneself for past mistakes robs one of the newness today has to offer. Thriving on the gratification provided by past accomplishments dulls the drive toward today's and tomorrow's achievements. Also, evaluating an individual on their past alone, blinds us to the person they have become, after change and experience has added their embellishments.

How many of us rehash passed failures and mistakes daily, keeping the spirit depressed? Have you ever judged a person solely by an event in the past, regardless of changes which have occurred to them since? Are there those among us who have been so preoccupied by "getting even" that our every waking moment is consumed toward that objective?

Our past is extremely important in helping to define and understand what we have become. It gives insight into our capabilities. It is the great teacher of mankind. Then why must we wallow in the self-pity of our injustices, our mistakes and failures? What good is served when we disregard the present and the future, and base all our self-worth on accomplishments long past?

I was raised a rancher's son and worked as a cowboy. I've been a soldier, fought in war and have worked in highly sensitive and classified arenas. In the oil field, I've had the opportunity to own and operate my own business, and have fared well in my employment for others. A great deal of satisfaction has been derived from my endeavors in poetry and writing. Even various jobs such as, restaurant management, working at a meat packing plant and in convenience stores have been of great benefit.

Each of these are responsible for what I've become and play a role in my attitude toward myself. I now possess a great many skills as a result of them. My estimation of me and what I am capable of doing is not as narrow as it was when I first assumed responsibility for my actions.

However, my past lists numerous failures, mistakes and infractions in everything I've attempted, far too many to mention. These, too, are responsible for what I've become. Nevertheless, I have learned to extract certain benefit from them, without a negative effect on my self image.

We cannot possibly change anything passed. Dwelling on it distracts and dulls the drive to deal with the challenges of the here and now. We live and act in the present and it is to the present we are committed.

The future holds our objectives and dreams, giving us direction. By keeping an eye on the future, we naturally make every action count toward the accomplishment of our goals.

Each new day, each new moment offers the opportunity to forge ahead, to use passed experiences and present actions in achieving our wildest dreams.

I know a lady who lost her husband when she was 27 years old. For all intents and purposes, her life ended with his. All her fond memories are wrapped tightly in the time frame of their marriage, eight years. Her loss is felt most of her waking moments, leaving self-pity and resentment to color her attitude while acting on matters at hand. Her objective is to be buried at her late husband's side when she passes on. She is now 58.

The pains and losses suffered are preparation for life ahead. We need every ounce of strength within us to confront what lies in the future. It's a beautiful world and each day is fresh and new, but we must first acknowledge the fact and then motivate ourselves toward harvesting its rewards.

If your past is stifling your activities, you've got a problem. If it helps you make the most of today and look forward to tomorrow, you've got it made. Make everything you've ever done work for you.

In 1989 Murray qualified for the Finals ninth in the saddle bronc riding and 15th in the bareback riding.

Murray earned $58,031 during the 10-round NFR to finish the year with $134,806 in official earnings. He placed seven times at the Finals, including first-place rounds in both the saddle bronc and bareback riding.

"I don't want people to remember me as a bull rider or a bronc rider," said Murray. "I just want them to remember me as a cowboy."

What Do They Have in Common?

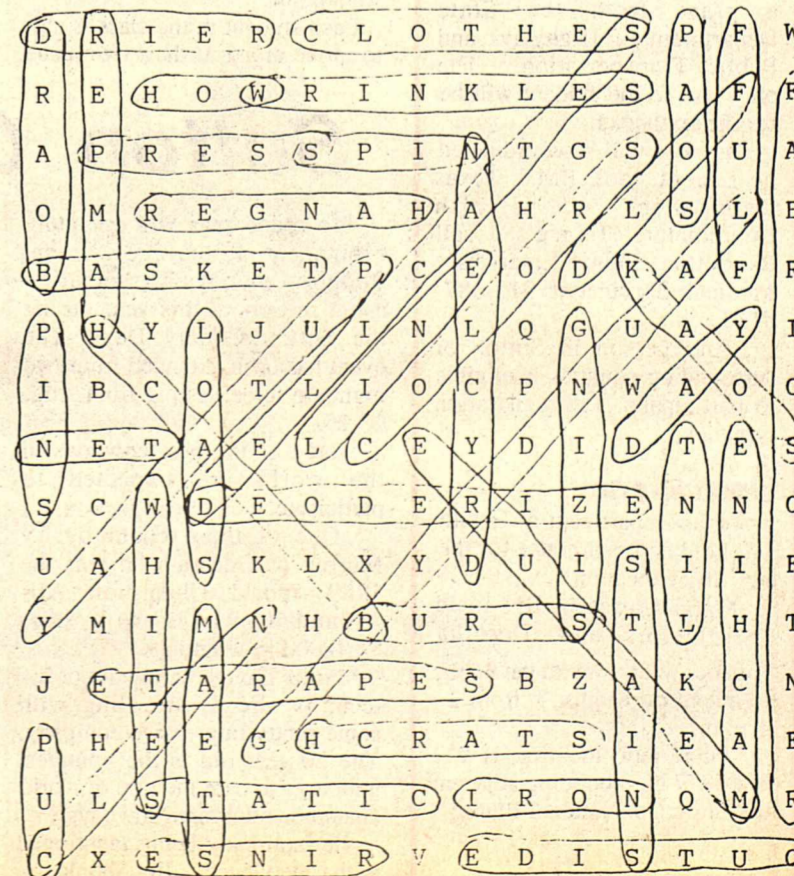

The people above are all well-known personalities, but that's not all they have in common. Richard Thomas, Richard Dysart, Nanette Fabray, Florence Henderson, Arnold Palmer and Mike Singletary share something with many other famous people. They all overcame a hearing problem.

Some have only a mild-to-moderate hearing loss, but took advantage of available help to hear better. Others had severe hearing problems, but all benefited from modern hearing help.

Hearing loss can affect one's performance in many areas of life, from schoolwork to sports to career. It can rob joy from a night at the theater, an evening at home watching television, and from conversations with family and friends. The good news is that most of the 22 million people with hearing problems can now be helped—medically, surgically, or with hearing aids.

Celebrities who have "gone public" with their hearing problems have inspired others to benefit from such available help. President Reagan uses hearing aids to overcome a noise-induced hearing loss from a gun fired close to his ears on a movie set. As President, he helped public awareness by serving as national Better Hearing and Speech Month chairman.

Johnny and Jenny Johnson are proud to announce the birth of their daughter, Shelbi Malynn. Shelbi was born on July 23 in Shannon Hospital in San Angelo. She weighed 8 pounds 5 ounces and was 19 1/2 inches long.

Grandparents are Vivian and Buster Harris and Joyce Lambeth of Sonora and Eddie Robles of Lubbock. Great grandparents are Roy and MayBelle Lambeth of Colorado City.

Eastern star shines on

The Order of the Eastern Star is a fraternal and charitable organization composed of Master Masons and their immediate women relatives.

Of French origin, it was introduced into the colonies by General LaFayette during the Revolutionary War and promoted by General Washington and other prominent Master Masons associated with him.

Dr. Robert Morris of Kentucky and Robert Macog of New York City communicated the degrees at lectures until 1868 when Macog wrote and published the "ritual" and established "chapters" throughout the United States.

The required number having petitioned for dispensation and petition having been granted, a meeting was called in Sonora on Sept. 11, 1914. The meeting was called for the purpose of organizing an Eastern Star Chapter in Sonora.

Bertha Eaton and J.D. Eaton were appointed to serve as the first Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron.

The chapter was granted Oct. 14, 1914, thus beginning the Sonora Chapter 575, Order of the Eastern Star.

Charter members were Allah Aldwell, Roy E. Aldwell, H.P. Allison, Lillian Allison, Albert Bellows, Josie Bellows, Ada Eaton, Bertha Eaton, John D. Eaton, B.M. Halbert, Kidie Halbert, Ellen Lowrey, Hattie North, Joe North, Annie Stewart, Luther Thorp, Rose Thorp, Bessie Vander Stucken, Ira Wheat and Nannie Wheat.

BUDGET STRETCHING IDEAS

Tips To Lower Your Auto Insurance
From The Independent Insurance Agents Of America
 Taking these four steps can help you stay on the road to insurance premium savings:

1. Keep collision and comprehensive coverage deductibles high. Remove such coverage from older cars.
2. Eliminate overlaps in personal injury protection coverage, accident or health insurance.
3. Ask about good driver discounts; car pool or mass transit discounts; discounts for eliminating unnecessary driving; and those for certain types of cars.
4. Shop around. Rates can vary dramatically. Independent insurance agents can quote prices and sell policies from several different companies to help find the right coverage and the best price for you.

CWDT review

If you folks missed Joe Lane's "Walk Through Sonora Cemetery" Friday evening you will surely want to call Kathy Hardgrave and order a video. Dressed as a 1900's coroner and telling the stories of our pioneer families whose loved ones rest in our cemetery, Joe entertained us, informed us and made us very aware of the precious memories entombed there. As we ended the storytelling by singing together, "Amazing Grace" we felt we had truly taken a historic walk.

Equally historic was Saturday evening's storyteller, O. C. Fisher. Mr. Fisher, himself somewhat of a legend, told tales of another legendary character, King Fisher. We were honored and delighted to have a man of such stature on our stage.

The entertainers both nights, "Washtub Jerry" Wiant and his band, "Fiddlegrass" on Friday, and R. W. Hampton on Saturday, gave us wonderful renditions of traditional, old time country and cowboy music.

The combination of good shows and wonderful weather is hard to beat.

CWDT preview

Friday night is a must!!! The Bloodworth Family will do it again... share events and tales of Sonora's own 100 years of history, of L. P.'s grandfather, B. M. Halbert, and other colorful Sutton County pioneers. Son, Burt, who grew up in Sonora, will entertain and delight the audience with his own songs as well as some traditional ones. He is one of few performers on the Dinner Theater stage in 4 seasons who has drawn encores.

Saturday night's storyteller, Kendall McCook is appearing in Sonora for the first time. Kendall is a writer who portrays his characters on stage. From Hood County, he is sometimes referred to as a "man of vision" who uses his craft to express his thoughts about the way life could be if people would only return to the land. He will be joined on the stage by the Twin Mountain Tonesmen, the San Angelo barbershop harmony chorus which has thrilled thousands all over the world.

Plan to join us this week-end at the Caverns of Sonora. Gate opens at 6 p. m., dinner is served at 6:30 and the show begins at 7:00 with a sing-a-long followed by the storyteller and entertainment.

Now AmWest can give you something few banks can...

A good night's sleep.

Now AmWest has "DreamSaver"—a savings program designed to bring peace of mind to all those who worry about saving money.

Here's how it works: You tell AmWest how much you want to save every month, (as little as $25 if you like) and they'll deduct it automatically from a free checking account (that's right, free checking) and put it into a CD account. Keep your money there for a full 12 months and it will earn a high-interest CD rate. Take it out early, and you'll get a penalty — three months interest or $50.

So "DreamSaver" not only helps you save money on a regular monthly basis — it helps you keep your hands off it too. And with a little money in savings — a good night's sleep will come a whole lot easier.

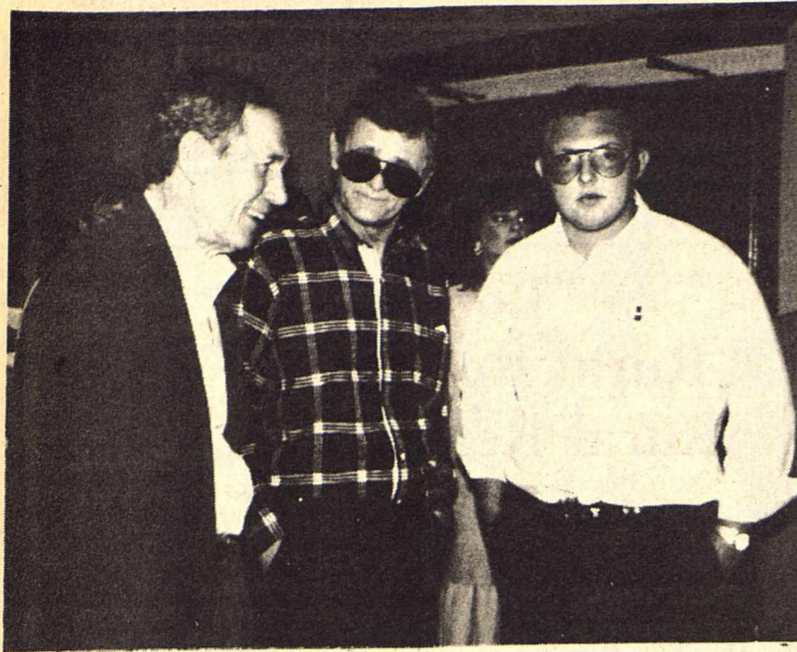

Put Your Money on Texas.

Substantial penalty for early withdrawal. Interest paid quarterly. Rates subject to change without notice.

T B Wilson does Nashville

by Jim Fish

Tom Bob Wilson attended the annual Chet Atkins Appreciation Society guitarist's convention held in Nashville on July 12-14. The 17 year old son of Dorothy and Emmitt Wilson, Tom Bob was accompanied by his mother for the three day affair. The event drew 250 pickers from all over the globe. Among those attending were Jerry Reed, Doc Watson, Tom Bresh and Chet Atkins.

Friday was a day of workshops and recitals for the young Wilson, which culminated in an awards ceremony for Jerry Reed, in recognition for his contributions to the guitar world. It was here that Tom Bob had the opportunity to visit with Atkins and Reed and pick up a few tips about the music business.

Chet Atkins performed a two-hour concert Saturday afternoon.

Later, Wilson was invited to attend a banquet in honor of the legendary guitarist. Following the celebration, the players got together for a "jam session" that continued into the earlier hours of Sunday morning.

After an enjoyable and fulfilling weekend, the two long-time Sonorans returned home with plans to attend the festivities next year.

Wilson has received local acclaim for his performances at various functions and gatherings. "He's been playin' guitar since he's been big enough to hold one," says his proud father, Emmitt Wilson.

Tom Bob is employed by Perry's Department Store. He collects and rebuilds guitars, and can be heard on any given evening around his neighborhood.

Good luck, Tom Bob.

Centennial stock sales lagging compared to Diamond Jubilee

Centennial stock sales for the centennial celebration have totaled less than one-third of what was raised for the Diamond Jubilee in 1965.

So far, $2,939 has been donated for the celebration this year compared to $14,000 that people contributed in 1965.

According to a Centennial Committee member the amount raised thus far is not enough to cover incidental expenses related to community activities. These include a centennial office for coordinating the celebration, centennial plates, program brochures and advertising, a play, the wagon train, a mural, exhibits and more.

The certificates have printed in denominations from $1, 5, 10, 25, 50 and $100 so that everyone could be included.

Stock certificates are available at the First National Bank, AmWest Savings, Sutton County National Bank, Chamber of Commerce, and members of the Centennial Committee.

People may also get them through the mail by writing to: The Centennial Committee, in care of Joyce Chalk, 1311 Tayloe, Sonora, 76950.

The person should also include the name wanted on the certificate and the amount.

Equipment loan program to benefit farmers and ranchers

Beginning August 1, a new loan program offered by the Production Credit Associations (PCAs) of Texas should make it less expensive for Texas farmers and ranchers to purchase equipment. Tractors, combines, new cars and trucks, sprinkler systems and planting and harvesting equipment are some of the eligible equipment. The program offers a 9.95 percent stated fixed interest rate and loan terms up to five years. It is designed to help finance the equipment needs of both existing and new PCA borrowers.

"Many farmers and ranchers have delayed their purchase of equipment for some time," said Paul Day, president of the Farm Credit Bank of Texas. "This loan program gives producers a special opportunity to buy much-needed equipment in preparation for the coming season." "The need for this type of funding was evident from the response PCAs received to a similar equipment loan program last year," Day added. "More than $14 million was provided to Texas farmers and ranchers through that program in less than four months." Established in 1933 in Texas, PCAs provide short- and intermediate-term agricultural financing. They received their funding from the Farm Credit Bank of Texas. Additional information on the equipment loan program and application procedures may be obtained through any PCA office or by calling 1-800-447-8865, extension 745.
