Middle East crisis hits at heart of locals

Editor's note: This story begins a series on those from Sonora who are serving the armed forces and the families affected that are still here.

By Griffin B. Cole
DRN Editor

The crisis which has arisen in the Middle East affects Sonora, Texas like many would not believe. At least 20 former residents of Sonora currently are in the military with family sitting at home able to do practically nothing, except pray and write.

And pray they do. Each evening family members with relatives in the armed forces gather at St. Ann's and pray.

"All I'm doing is praying to God everybody is safe," said Maria Elena Porras. Joe and Elena Porras's son, First Lt. Rene Porras is currently stationed in West Germany and is on stand by for going to Saudi Arabia.

On every evening the past month, parents and friends of soldiers have held a Prayer of the Rosary. On Thursday night about 15 people showed up for the Rosary.

Emotions run strong during the Rosary and tears were not an uncommon sight following the prayers. Yet, a strength is gathered by the participants from each other.

"We feel more of the holy spirit (together), said Carmen Galvan.

Mrs. Galvan is the mother of Marine LCPL Javier Galvan who left for Saudi Arabia Sunday from Japan.

"We believe in the Lord and that he will be safe," said Mrs. Galvan.

While the belief in the Lord has helped keep the families strong, a common weak link is the lack of knowing exactly what is happening to their children.

Mr. Modesto Jr. and Mrs. Juana Mesa are not sure where their son, Marine LCPL John R. Mesa, is.

"We last heard from him Aug. 10 and received a letter just recently dated Aug. 12," said Juana.

The phone call on Aug. 10 was about two minutes in length and John said he had 24 hours to get his gear together before going to Saudi Arabia. Juana said the background noise sounded like soldiers preparing to move out.

Still, there has been no word since from John, so there is no telling exactly what the situation is.

"I'm saying (John) is over there," said Juana. "We wouldn't be normal if we weren't scared."

Elena Porras said, "(Rene) goes on assignment and I never know exactly what he does."

CHARGE - The Sonora Broncos charge through a banner held up by fans just prior to their opener against San Angelo Lake View. Sonora fell to Lake View 23-13 in the opener. It was also the first game for new head coach Bob Bellard. Sonora will look to bounce back Friday night at Junction. The Eagles broke their 19 game losing streak with a 31-0 victory over Medina last week. Game time at Junction is 8 p.m.

Two touchdown passes from Cory Stephens and Kevin Dumas led the San Angelo Lake View Chiefs past Sonora 23-13 at Bronco Stadium Friday night in the season opener for both teams.

The touchdown receptions for Dumas came from 51 and 9 yards out during the third quarter.

The two teams played a tight first half which ended tied at 7-7.

Turnovers by the offense provided both teams with opportunities to score on short drives.

The Broncos turned the ball over at their own 19 on their second drive, when Danny Mata lost the handle on a hand off.

Lake View moved the 19 yards in two plays and grabbed a 7-0 lead at 6:56 of the first quarter when Derrick Steen went over from the 2.

Sonora was able to even the game up mid way though the second quarter when Eric Espinosa made a diving interception of a Stephen's pass after it was deflected at the line of scrimmage. Espinosa capped the 15-yard drive with a 2-yard run.

Both offenses came out of the lockerroom at halftime and were able to move the ball.

Lake View came out on the opening kick off and moved the ball 79 yards for a 14-7 lead when Stephens hit Dumas on a 9-yard slant pattern.

Stephens, who had completed just one of 10 passes in the first half, hit a pair of passes for 49 yards in the drive.

Sonora came right back and drove 64 yards for a touchdown capped by a 25-yard touchdown run by quarterback David Mirike off the option.

Sonora missed the extra point and still trailed 14-13.

Lake View ended the scoring of touchdowns on their next drive which saw Stephens hit Dumas with a 51-yard touchdown pass.

The touchdown put Lake View up 21-13 and they managed to hold off two Sonora drives to win the game.

Of the touchdown passes by Stephens, Bellard said, "I think the kid made two fine throws."

Bronco JV falls to Lake View

Tuesday, September 6, the Bronco junior varsity traveled to San Angelo to take on the Lake View junior varsity.

Although the Broncos scored first, the Chiefs prevailed 19-7. On Lake View's first possession, line backer Joe Buitron intercepted a Chief's pass giving the Broncos good field position a the Chief's 35.

Four plays later, QB Matthew Smith hit split end Max Gamez for a 33-yard touchdown pass.

Armando Robles added the extra point giving the Broncos a 7-0 lead.

That lead held up until late in the 1st half when the Chiefs scored two quick touchdowns, making the halftime score 13-7.

The Chiefs added an insurance touchdown in the 3rd quarter and shut out the Broncos in the second half for a 19-7 win.

The home opener for the junior varsity is Thursday vs. Junction at 6:30. Come out and support the Broncos.

Sonora men indicted by Uvalde County grand jury

UVALDE - Two Sonora men were indicted Friday by the Uvalde County grand jury on charges of involuntary manslaughter.

Gregory Herrera, 26, was arraigned Monday and remains in the Uvalde County Jail with bond set at $60,000. Jose Antonio Ramirez, 38, will be arraigned Sept. 24. He is out of jail on $25,000 bond.

Herrera and Ramirez were arrested July 26 in connection with the death of 24-year-old Leonard Avila who also listed a Sonora address.

According to Sgt. Eddie Obregon of the Uvalde Police Department, Avila, Herrera and Ramirez got into a fight at the Montana Bar on West Main Street in Uvalde.

Obregon said witnesses stated that Herrera and Ramirez continued to kick and hit Avila after he had crumpled to the ground.

Avila died July 29 at St. Luke's Hospital in San Antonio.

No court date has been set.

Junction next for Broncos

By Griffin B. Cole
DRN Editor

Friday night's matchup against Junction will be a whole new ballgame for the Sonora Broncos.

Last week it was the passing game of San Angelo Lake View which concerned head coach Bob Bellard and his staff. This week it will be the power running game of the Eagles.

"The first thing about Junction is they're big," said Bellard. "They are 200 pounds across the front."

That is on both offense and defense.

Naturally the Eagles try to use the advantage by running the ball down their opponents throat.

Junction was successful against Medina at their power game, recording a 31-0 win.

Bellard said the Broncos defense will have to be aggressive in trying to stop Junction.

Offensively, Sonora will have to make sure of their blocks.

Following the Lake View game, Bellard said, "We had some breakdowns on offense with the blocking."

After a look at the films, there were a number of times when just one more block would have sprung a runner for big yardage.

"We'll get better," said Bellard. Bellard also said Junction is sky high right now.

The 31-0 victory for Junction was their first win since the 1988 season. They had lost 19 in a row.

Bill Lynch, a graduate of Junction, is in his first year as head coach of the Eagles. In addition he has two other coaches who have been in Junction for most of their lives.

The victory was a big one for the Eagles despite coming over a single A school.

For Sonora, a big key in the game will be wiping out mistakes which hurt during the Lake View game. The Broncos turned the ball over three times on fumbles and committed 10 penalties of which seven were by the offense.

See page 5 for Players of the Week

Offensively, two keys stand out for the Broncos. First will be to get the option game going.

After the Lake View game, Bellard said, "We didn't do a good job on the the down linemen."

The second key will be to increase the punch of the passing game. Mirike hit on just four of 11 passes good for 38 yards.

Larry Chalk had a pair of receptions good for 10 yards, and Michael Escalera and Adam Youngblood each caught one pass.

The defense created a pair of turnovers with Eric Espinosa intercepting a pass and Eric Sanchez recovering a pass.

A pair of Broncos will miss the Junction game. Both William Burch and Adrian Sanchez are out with knee injuries.

Game time at Junction will be 8 p.m.

Living without TV

A lot of people are shocked when it comes out I don't have a television. The television is a standard piece of equipment in a house these days. So if a person doesn't have one it's almost like, well, almost like not having a toilet.

I haven't had a television for about six months now and I truly don't miss it except for sports and news.

I certainly don't miss the sitcoms. I have found that many of the shows tend to insult the intelligence of the viewer.

Not having a television has not always been the case with me. When I was younger I lived for the television. A basic evening would consist of four hours or so of watching sitcoms. Half-hour show after half-hour show.

It's amazing how fast time goes, especially when you don't have to think.

Not having a television has also made me get involved in a few other things I perhaps normally wouldn't.

Like last Sunday when I went over to a friend's house to watch football. Instead of watching the entire game (and this was the Packers, my favorite team) we went dove hunting.

I'm still trying to figure out how that happened. Dove hunting had not even occurred to me before.

This same friend also got me interested in chess. Now, instead of going over and watching a movie or two, we play 14 games of chess. We can get 14 games in fast because he always annihilates me.

My troubles with TV are my own fault.

I also do a lot of reading. When I purchase a newspaper I read every section thoroughly. If I read a book and I don't understand a part I will re-read it until I do. I guess mainly because I don't have a television to take me away from the problems.

I had a television in Del Rio along with cable including Showtime. Instead of going to bed at a decent hour I'm up watching some movie. It didn't matter if I had seen it eight times before, I still watched.

Now this is not television's fault. It's my own lack of discipline.

There are drawbacks. I'm a gigantic baseball fan and ESPN started telecasting three to four games a week. I would have been in heaven, but alas, no television.

I could go over to a friend's house and watch, but I don't quite think that would be proper.

Besides, I probably end up riding a bull or something.

To the people of Sonora and Sutton County:

My husband and I came from Bandera to join the trail ride as part of your Centennial celebration. We were touched by your warmth, friendship, and genuine hospitality. A big "bravo" for a job well done to L. P. Bloodworth and crew for the excellent camp grounds, lots of water, great food, and a real fast pace with those lead mules. A special thanks to Rick Hunnicutt for letting a stranger use his phone-to Cades and Carole Pope for spanning the years-and to young Landon Brockman for being the continuing heart and soul of Texas, and deepest gratitude to deputy Sheriff Rusty Frasier that so graciously and competently handled our emergency.

Dear Editor,

On behalf of the Sutton County Days Assn., I would like to thank you and the citizens of Sonora for making our Sutton County Days Celebration and PRCA Rodeo a success. Thanks to you, the Centennial Committee, the Chamber of Commerce, and many other volunteers, everyone had a great weekend in Sonora.

We are especially proud of the ten young ladies who did a fantastic job of selling rodeo tickets. Our congratulations to Tana Churchill on being selected Miss Sutton County over very stiff competition. Also, thanks to the girls' parents for their support and cooperation.

Our organization is extremely grateful to Janice Caruthers for coordinating the Miss Sutton County contest and to the businesses and organizations who sponsored the candidates.

We have tried to list and thank everyone in an ad elsewhere in the paper. I'm sure we missed someone, and for this we apologize.

Again, we appreciate the community support of our Sutton County Days Association. We will continue working for the betterment of our town, and we plan to bring you another top-notch Bad Co. PRCA Rodeo in 1991!

Sincerely,

Most of the new expenses in our hospital are not really hospital costs, but societal costs that occur in the hospital and must be financed there. They result from serving a rapidly changing population and absorbing other public pressures. Lillian M. Hudspeth Memorial Hospital is especially affected because of our commitment to serve the community. Our options for curbing these costs are limited by current laws, public expectations and the risk of new legislation, as our own feeling of obligation to people.

Direct and indirect costs are rising in hospitals because of such societal factors as aging population, alcohol and drug use, AIDS and other new infectious diseases, and the health problems of the poor such as premature and low weight infant care. These costs increase the hospital bills of all patients.

Costs are rising because of defensive medicine - liability insurance premiums, claims-handling, and other by-products of a runaway legal system which the public continues to support and therefore must finance.

Mushrooming administrative costs related to federal and state laws, regulations and other attempts to transfer costs from government to other payers also drive up hospital bills. The government sets laudable but expensive goals for safety, quality and the environment. Then it raises standards regularly without paying any of the costs for instituting them. As the government scales back its payments for medical costs, it inflates the hospitals' costs by imposing new rules and paperwork in efforts to prove that its payment cuts do not harm quality or access. Hospitals must gather more data than ever before, and must live constantly with report deadlines, audits, unannounced inspections, citations, threats and penalties and withheld payments.

Healthcare

Hospital bills are too high, but why?

And, finally, there's the vital role of quality and new technology as cost factors. Competent staffs and equipment are expensive, but they produce tremendous value in earlier and more accurate diagnoses, more effective treatments, and improved methods such as non-surgical treatment for conditions that formerly required weeks for recovery. New technology has produced a wide range of benefits to patients and the public that more than offset their costs. Unfortunately, these costs - not their economic benefits - are reflected in health care expenditure indices that are causing so much concern.

Economic pressures notwithstanding, our facility is determined to maintain excellent staff, diagnoses and treatments. We are also committed to avoiding costs wherever feasible. Both of these goals are being pursued by everyone working together.

We hope this series leads to a better understanding of what you pay for in your hospital bill. But we hope you will join us in efforts to obtain proper payment and coverage from government programs, so that high quality care can be maintained without private payers having to pay more than their own share, and that societal costs that occur in hospitals can be spread fairly.

I'm scheduled to give a nutrition program at the Senior Citizens Center at noon on Monday, September 24. Hope to see you there. We'll be preparing a new recipe and sampling the results.

With all the home-grown tomatoes and peppers in Sonora kitchens these days, I'm receiving numerous telephone calls concerning canning and freezing techniques. One housewife asked for a good hot sauce recipe and instructions to can it properly. I'll share the same information here. Remember that tomatoes are "Vaquero", a program aired on PBS last week, gave a thirty-minute dissertation about the disappearance of the cowboy in modern day society. I've got to disagree, in part. Yes, many of the old-time cowboys are disappearing and many more are leaving for jobs in town. These cowboy's have simply become disillusioned by changes taking place in the ranching industry. Can you blame them?

However, the true "cowboy spirit" remains in those that confront the challenge of change and are determined to remain in the lifestyle. Families like the Mayfields, Stewarts, Bloodworths, Shurleys and all those others we see everyday in and around Sonora, are likely here to stay. They have endured the elements, the economy, government and personal set-backs.

Changes that occur beyond our control must be accepted and dealt with regardless of our personal opinions. We can fight them, ignore them, gripe and complain, but they will be there until new changes take their place.

"About the time you get used to where the pieces are and get to know the players, someone comes along and changes the rules to the game." How many times have you heard that one?

If we view only the negative side of any given change, we are apt to engineer our own downfall. Many times, we will make those negatives much larger than they actually are, just by the way we see them. When a problem develops proportions larger than our abilities are capable to handle, in most cases we conclude it's not worth the trouble and accept defeat.

Though we cannot control all events, circumstances or changes, we can control ourselves at all times. It may seem a ridiculous statement to make, but it is a fact. We decide for ourselves if change is good or bad, by the thought patterns, habits and mental states we allow to develop in our minds.

The cowboy's here ta stay

They say that cowboys ain't no more, that horses got no place,
That guns 'n spurs, 'n reins 'n hames belong inside a case.
But looky here, it ain't that way, the cowboy's here ta stay,
N' all the tools they had back when, 'er still in use today.

Like cowboy's sons fer ages passed, I's taught the life they led.
I learned ta ride at four years old when others played instead.
I's milkin' cows before each dawn and when the sun went down,
But when my daddy passed away, we had ta move ta town.

I learned the ways of folks in town, the days soon grew ta years.
I got myself a fancy job, was liked by all my peers.
I dressed real fine in suits 'n ties, 'n drove big cars 'n such.
I worked all day computin' thangs, but didn't like it much.

I figgered dollars had no cents, would count'em by the score;
A thousand here, a thousand there, 'n want a thousand more.
I thought that cowboys weren't no more, that horses had no place,
N' all the tack they used ta have belonged inside a case.

But I went back ta ranchin' life, 'n gosh, I do declare,
In every house, corral 'n pen, was cowboys ever' where.
I's glad ta see 'em still at work, their wages grew some, too.
Though some had left in changin' times, most had seen 'em through.

So, when I hear the cowboy's gone, his horse ain't got no place,
His guns 'n spurs, 'n reins 'n hames belong inside a case;
I tell 'em quick, that change 'n drought cause some ta move away,
But long as man need's meat 'n hair, the cowboy's here ta stay.

Nothing or no one makes us mad or happy, we choose to be that way. Displaying undesirable characteristics shows lack of self-discipline, pure and simple.

Confronting challenge is the stuff cowboys are made of and they do it all the time. They learn quickly on the ranch that if you want something badly enough, you're going to find a way to get it. When you get thrown a loop and land on your butt, you get up and try again.

Regardless what people think, as long as there are individuals willing to endure and confront "all comers", change and other obstacles will be nothing more than opportunities to grow and prosper. As stated above, we've got cowboys right here in Sonora that do it everyday.

Though some may die, and change and drought cause some to move away; as long as man needs meat and hair, the cowboy's here to stay.

YOU CAN HELP

Environmental Action At Home

There's a new story almost every day—the environment in peril, another blow to the health of our small, watery planet. You might ask "What can I do?" Actually, quite a lot and right in your house, too. A key place to start is the kitchen. The following tips from product development experts who make KitchenAid appliances can help you save energy, help the environment—and save money too.

Did you know you'll use less water by washing your dishes in an automatic dishwasher than washing them by hand? That's what a major university study recently discovered. And dishwasher use looks even better if you don't pre-rinse the dishes before putting them in the dishwasher.

It might not seem like much, but multiplied over millions of households that don't have dishwashers, the amount of additional water used is huge. As water controls and limits become more common, we can all appreciate how important it is to save water.

- Here are some tips:
- Use as few cooking and eating utensils as possible at mealtime;
 - Don't hand rinse dishes before putting them in the dishwasher;
 - Wait until the dishwasher is full before running it;
 - Use the proper washing cycle—for lightly soiled loads, many models on the market today offer a "low energy" cycle that uses fewer washes and rinses, and air dries dishes to save energy;
 - Load the dishwasher correctly so that water and detergent will be able to reach each item.

Don't overdo it. A day on the slopes can be great fun, but knowing when to stop is important. It's that last ski run, around 4 o'clock, when you're most likely to have a bad spill. Your legs are tired and you can't control your skis as well as you did earlier. A good incentive to stop for the day is a bracing cup of hot tea. It will help you recover after a hard day's skiing and put you in the right mood for a pleasant after-ski evening with friends and family.

Air mail stamps were already in use in 1918. There were three denominations—six cent, 16 cent and 24 cent. The pictures, not surprisingly, were all of airplanes.

God for meeting the needs of a beginning church with finances and equipment necessary. We also praise God for the wonderful church family He has established at New Life Assembly.

sons) made when they joined the armed forces. That commitment is to serve the country where they are asked.

"They're there because they wanted to be there," said Mrs. Porras. Said Mrs. Mesa, "(John) said he wanted to go."

Mrs. Porras did relate some frustration on how President Bush acted. She said he could do a lot more than he has, "It was in poor taste for the president to take his vacation while everybody is over there risking their neck, so to speak."

And that is just the point. It is not only the soldiers in the Middle East risking everything, it is the parents and friends back home who care so much for their relatives who are so far away.

TIPS ON TRIPS

Plan A Cultural Travel Tour

In Pennsylvania, a cultural travel tour can be a one-day jaunt or week-long journey that includes museums, galleries, theater, dance and music. Here are some suggestions:

In Philadelphia, visit the fine art exhibits at the Philadelphia Museum of Art and the nearby Rodin Museum. Smaller museums and galleries dot the city, exhibiting everything from American art at the nation's oldest art museum--the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts--to contemporary crafts. Go on a walking tour of public sculpture, or attend performances of the world-renowned Philadelphia Orchestra and Pennsylvania Ballet.

In Pittsburgh, Heinz Hall and the Benedum Center for the Performing Arts are architectural wonders that host performances of the Pittsburgh Symphony, Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre, Pittsburgh Dance Council and the Pittsburgh Opera. The Carnegie Museum of Art's collection includes impressionist paintings, 20th-century American work, furniture, silver and porcelain.

Cultural activities in Pennsylvania's smaller cities include: Wilkes-Barre's Kirby Center for the Performing Arts, the Allentown Art Museum, and the Lake Erie Ballet. And the state's capital offers the Harrisburg Symphony Association and Harrisburg Community Theatre. In July the Central Pennsylvania Festival of Arts in State College offers everything from jazz to a chance to watch "Artists-in-Action." Nearly everywhere in Pennsylvania, there are special cultural activities to enjoy all year.

Cultural Tour Planning Tips

- Get information in advance--check on current museum shows, hours, performances, and seasonal events.
- Plan a variety of activities--art, dance, theater, and music.
- Call ahead for tickets, maps, and reservations.
- Call 1-800-VISIT-PA ext. 247 for the Pennsylvania Travel Guide that includes cultural information.

Information/from page 2

1 tsp. salt (more or less, to taste)
 1/2 tsp. black pepper
 Chop vegetables (by hand or in food processor). Add seasonings.

Bring hot sauce to boil, and boil over medium-low heat for 10-15 minutes. Put into sterilized jars, leaving 1/2" space at top. Place lid and ring on jars and tighten. Immerse jars into boiling water. Make sure there is at least 1" water above the top of each jar.

Bring water to a complete boil again before beginning the processing time. Process for 15 minutes. Carefully remove jars from water, and allow them to cool at room temperature.

After the jars are cool, try this test to check the seal: press down on the center of each lid; if it stays down, you have a good seal. If not, it can be reprocessed within 24 hours of the original processing. Otherwise, refrigerate and eat the sauce within a few days. It's great with corn chips!

Bellard added that Eric Espinosa was in good position on the long touchdown pass, but that Stephens just put the ball in the perfect place.

Offensively, Bellard said the Lake View defense was able to shut down the option game of Sonora.

"We didn't do a good job on their down linemen," said Bellard.

Sonora's running game gathered over 200 yards rushing with seven guys carrying the ball. Adam Youngblood was the leading ball carrier with 44 yards on five carries. Sam Taylor carried the ball four times for 41 yards.

Following the game Bellard said some work still needs to be done for the offense to put points on the board.

penalties. The Broncos committed 10 penalties overall.

Despite the two touchdown passes, Sonora's defense held Stephens to 6-20 passing and 138 yards. Sonora also intercepted him once and recorded three sacks.

Lake View rushed for 165 yards led by Monty Darnell who had 77 yards on 17 carries.

Sonora, now 0-1 for the year, will head to the road Friday and play at Junction.
