Broncos rally to beat Mason 15-14

By Griffin B. Cole
DRN Editor

A strong defensive performance allowed the Sonora Broncos to come from behind to beat Mason 15-14 Friday night at Bronco Stadium. The win extended Sonora's winning streak to three heading into this week's game at Ballinger.

The winning points came with 5:17 left in the game when David Mirike leaped over a pile of bodies from the one yard line. He then hit Tate Fincher with the two-point pass deep in the left corner of the end zone.

The winning drive went just 34 yards after the Bronco defense forced Mason back Michael Cope to fumble the ball and Eric Espinosa recovered it.

"We really played well defensively through the entire game," said Sonora head coach Bob Bellard.

Fincher and Mirike had interceptions along with Espinosa's fumble recovery. But it was Sonora's own turnovers which allowed Mason to build a 14-0 lead at halftime.

The Fincher interception stopped the first Mason drive at the Sonora 10, but on the Broncos first play from scrimmage Oscar Perez fumbled. Mason recovered at the Sonora 15.

4th Quarter

Cope eventually scored from 1-yard out.

Following the touchdown the defense played well, holding Mason out of the end zone. At the same time, the Sonora offense could not get rolling.

"We shot ourselves in the foot offensively," said Bellard.

On the Broncos' second possession Espinosa fumbled the ball and Mason recovered at their own 40.

Mason was unable to take advantage.

While the offense continued to sputter in the first half, they only picked up two first downs, Mason was stymied by the Bronco defense.

"The defense got a feel for the game," said Bellard. "We started to tackled better."

After stopping the Punchers on three drives, Mason extended their lead to 14-0 with a 44-yard pass from Freddie Silerio just prior to halftime.

The second half was all Sonora. After giving up 170 yards total offense in the first half, the defense limited Mason to under 90 yards in the second half. Mason failed to score in seven drives.

Meanwhile, the Broncos' offense finally got rolling. Sonora drove 41 yards for their first score. Adam Youngblood went the final 15 yards on a trap play.

After taking the lead with just over five minutes remaining, the defense held Mason on downs then intercepted a desperation pass in the end zone on the final drive.

Sonora will now take its three game winning streak on the road to Ballinger Friday. The Bearcats, ranked in the top 10 for 3A, defeated San Angelo Lakeview 49-13 Friday to run their record to 4-0.

Game time is 8 p.m.

Ballinger next for Big Red

By Griffin B. Cole
DRN Editor

This Friday the Sonora Broncos and Ballinger Bearcats will mix it up in what has become a strong rivalry over the years.

It is a rivalry which the Bearcats have dominated in recent years. Sonora has dropped its last seven games against Ballinger including a 33-7 loss last year in Ballinger.

The last victory for Sonora came in 1982 when they shut out the Bearcats 7-0.

Both teams come into this year's contest on rolls. Sonora has picked up three straight wins after losing its opener while Ballinger has cruised past four straight opponents to open the season.

Ballinger is ranked in the top 10 of the state in 3A.

The only common opponent the two teams have had is San Angelo Lake View. Ballinger slugged Lake View last Friday 49-13 while the Chiefs handed the Broncos their only 23-13.

Despite different scores, both teams were able to chew up Lake View on the ground. Sonora gained over 300 yards rushing in the opener and Ballinger collected will over 500 yards.

During the booster club meeting Monday, Sonora head coach Bob Bellard said the offense will have to provide a spark against Ballinger.

Sonora had reached more than 300 yards rushing in each of its first three games before being held to 124 last week against Mason. Bellard said the Broncos will have to cut out mistakes which hurt against Mason.

"We came from behind to beat Mason and that is a mark of a good team," said Bellard.

Mason had built a 14-0 lead at halftime before Sonora came back to win 15-14.

Bellard felt the defense played well the entire game against Mason. In the first four games the defense has allowed an average of 124 yards rushing.

That is good news since the Bearcats rely on the ground game. It's an attack which nobody has yet found a way to stop.

"They have about seven basic plays," said Bellard.

It would seem easy to stop but the plays can go to either tailback Jaime Gibbs, punishing fullback Michael Thornhill or wingback Zack Farr.

Sonora heads into the game fairly healthy. Bellard said there were no further losses in the Mason game.

Sonora will be without Johnny

Terry who had arthroscopic knee surgery Monday. Terry will be out until most likely the Reagan County game.

Also out is Jaime Espinosa who could be back for the Kermit game and William Burch who is out indefinitely.

Game time Friday at Ballinger will be 8 p.m.

Back Broncos on road games

With the next pair of Sonora Bronco football games on the road fans have set up a couple of special events.

For the Ballinger game Friday, fans are invited to decorate their car in Bronco red and white then gather in the high school parking lot at 5:30 p.m. There will then be a car caravan to Ballinger for the game.

For the Kermit game the following week, fans will be able to avoid the long drive.

The Bronco Booster Club has arranged a bus to travel to and from Kermit.

The cost for the round trip will be $25. Fans should sign up early as just 46 seats will be available.

For further information call Susan Mirike at 387-2398 or Charlene Terry at 387-2526.

Galindo family kept oceans apart by crisis

Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles on local people who have relatives in the armed forces.

By Griffin B. Cole
DRN Editor

It would be easy to understand if Velma Galindo was feeling sorry for herself these days. Velma is living in New Jersey alone while her husband Samuel Jr. is on a ship heading to the Red Sea reacting to the crisis in the Middle East.

Velma is also pregnant with her first baby, due in December.

During a phone interview, though, Velma was in good spirits.

"Having a baby, I have to be happy," said Velma.

Velma said Sam left Greece on Saturday aboard the U.S.S. Seattle, a supply ship carrying ammunition, oil and other cargo. The destination of the ship is the Red Sea to relieve another ship currently there.

The last time Sam and Velma were together was Aug. 18. The two, both originally from Sonora, were married Jan. 9, 1989. In the 22 months they have been married Velma said they have been together just eight months.

In New Jersey Velma lives in base housing with others who have husbands aboard the U.S.S. Seattle and other ships. Naturally rumors will be heard.

"I don't listen or get my hopes up," said Velma about the rumors.

Still, the rumors provide a ray of light. Velma said the latest rumor is there is a good chance of Sam coming home this month. The rumor has it the ship wasn't ready for a six-month cruise, which is the normal length.

Velma wants her husband to be home for the birth of their baby. As a result of that desire some hope gleams through.

"To me I look forward to him coming home in October. I just pray he is alright."

Meanwhile, Velma has several friends to be with at the base.

SAMUEL GALINDO JR.

There are a couple of wives who have moved from the same base she was at in Virginia.

"All three of us are pregnant," said Velma.

The women will gather each day and sit outside and compare information they have gained.

"Of course, we look for the mail each day at 1 p.m.," said Velma. "Since Sam left he's been writing almost every day."

Sometimes Velma will take care of her friend's children and other times the wives will gather and play games. Monopoly is the favored game.

"I don't like Monopoly though, one of my friends always win. I haven't won yet," said Velma laughing.

But, all the activities take place to pass another day trying to make it closer to when Sam will come home.

"I try not to worry," said Velma.

Velma showed the usual mixed emotions when asked what she thought of the Middle East crisis. "At first I thought they had no business being over there," said Velma. "Then the affect on the oil and all made me realize what was

Positive force hits home

From time to time I worry about things such as the ecology, if the government works as it should, whether we will have worthy leaders in the future and if there are good teachers.

Believe me, I can be very pessimistic when it comes to those problems. Just ask me what I think about our past three or four presidents.

Luckily, last year's third-grade class set my mind at ease on all the subjects. The third-grade class encouraged the city of Sonora to begin a recycling program.

What really stands out is that the group didn't just write letters and ask (though letters were written), they actively went about to ensure it would occur.

The class did things, like, prove recycling could work. They collected newspapers from around town and took them where they would be recycled. Then they gave the money to the city to help begin a recycling effort.

During the July city council meeting Nancy Brockman, backed by six or eight youngsters, provided information about successful recycling efforts in other cities. It was during that meeting which the city resolved to begin recycling by September 1.

That's why there are those barrels across from St. Ann's Church and the Emergency Management building.

Imagine that. Third-graders actually taking advantage of the system to reach their goal. It is amazing. They achieved something that multi-billion dollar corporations can't do. Use the system to their benefit.

It made me feel good all over. Now, not for a second do I believe all of sudden these third-graders turned into adults and worked it all their way. I know they had a lot of help from their teachers.

Those teachers should be commended. (I would say given a healthy raise, but that could get me in trouble) I'm sure it was the teacher's idea to collect the newspapers and visit the city council meeting and ultimately start the recycling.

What they did that earns my praise so considerably, is give the students hands-on experience all the way through.

The kids made ecology posters, planted things on Arbor Day, collected the newspapers, attended the city council meeting and so on.

I have always believed the best way to teach is to make the kids do something. It makes them think. Thinking is what leads to great things.

And if being concerned about the ecology and helping earth by starting recycling isn't great, then I don't know what is.

A runaway tort liability system

The state purpose of our tort liability system is to compensate individuals damaged by negligent acts of others. Yet for every dollar that ever reaches an injured person, a much larger amount goes to attorneys on both sides, insurance company overhead and other costs.

*Many of the claims filed result in no payment. Attorneys file questionable claims, hoping the hospital or doctor will agree to a "nuisance settlement" to avoid the cost and inconvenience of a lawsuit.

*Even when an injured person obtains an award or settlement, the first 25 to 50 percent of the amount typically goes to his or her attorney.

Every claim filed is expensive, because it must be processed and defended. Your doctor and hospital bills must cover their share of insurance costs for awards and settlements, legal expenses for defense, and the operation of the insurance system. The bills also pay for the large amount of physician time and hospital effort consumed by claim and risk management activity.

Hospitals and physicians spend huge sums for liability insurance. This year our facility paid over $18,000, and the amount paid by our medical staff members was even more.

Insurance companies have high premiums in Texas because of their inability to judge future risk here. Infant claims are virtually uninsurable under the rulings of our State Supreme Court that allow children to sue anytime before age 20. Elected judges in Texas regularly and retroactively broaden the concepts of liability for hospitals and doctors, and juries repeatedly set records in the size of awards.

Multimillion-dollar awards or settlements make insurers reluctant to cover Texas hospitals and nursing homes, and insurance premiums soar after each giant payoff such as the recent $39.4 million jury award to an 84-year old nursing home patient in Houston. Hospital and nursing home charges will reflect the impact of this for many years.

Hospitals spend massive sums on record keeping, analysis, investigation and other activities related to claims and possible claims. Some hospitals, including ours, maintain attorneys on staff or on retainer because of constant exposure to lawsuits.

The most serious cost of the system is for "defensive medicine." Trial lawyers argue that the liability system is valuable for making doctors and hospitals more careful, but defensive medicine is costly and not necessarily in the patient's best interests. Doctors order tests

Dear Editor,

The children of Sonora Intermediate School need your help. Towards the end of the school year there were several 3rd graders who were, and still are dedicated to helping the Earth's environment, but they need your help also. Sonora now has 2 drop off sights for gathering material to be recycled. One of the locations is across the street from the EMS and the other is by the Catholic Church.

Sonora is collecting glass (clear, green and brown), aluminum and tin cans (cut out the top and bottom and flatten the can).

Please Sonora, support this effort. Take all your bottles, tin and aluminum cans to the drop off sights. If you will not do this for yourself, do it for your children and grandchildren. If each one of us is not willing to do this, our children's and grandchildren's future is not very bright.

After you read this we truly hope you are unable to throw away a can or bottle without feeling a little guilty.

As a member of the Youth Committee of the First Baptist Church of Ozona I would like to pay your Bronco Band a compliment. Your High School Band attended a fellowship after the ball game in Ozona on September 21 in our activity building. Dear Editor,

Last Friday evening, following the Ozona-Sonora football game, the Bronco High School Band accepted an invitation to join the Ozona High School students for a Fifth Quarter fellowship sponsored by the Youth Committee of First Baptist Church, Ozona.

We were most happy to have them stay. They are a group of young people that any school or town can be proud of. All of them behaved in an excellent manner, and expressed appreciation for the hospitality. We enjoyed them.

Let's get down to business

Well folks, we stand poised at the brink of another war. It doesn't look good for either side, right now. The first deaths have already occurred and, unlike Viet Nam, Iraq is a rather well developed military force; we're talking major weapons and aircraft.

This one will be fought to secure the world economy. Religious zealots are already predicting the revelation of Revelations. Other factions will emerge opposing the conflict and public opinion will become divided once again. Same old story.

However, voices from the past scream to be heard. The voices of those who suffered the ultimate sacrifice in the name of our country's ideals. Right or wrong, they stood by our 'family' and, if necessary, they put their own standards aside and confronted the enemy. They got down to the business of war, except in the cases of Korea and Nam.

Let's get down to business. I mean get in there and get out without losing the last vestiges of our humanity. Inhuman actions, injuries inflicted for the purpose of drawing personal and/or perverted satisfaction, occur after prolonged conflict. Somehow, the human mind is conditioned over the long haul to accept man's inhumanity to man.

Certainly, war isn't good business but it seems to be a direct consequence to the human quality of aggression, extreme aggression. Like it or not, I've heard almost all of you express such attitudes and in many instances, I agree. However, large portions of our society view such belligerence negatively. In an attempt to find the middle ground, we find ourselves split in bitter quandary, as we were in the 60's over "that" war.

If you are involved in a bitter dispute in your own home, you don't burn down the house and those in it; do you? No. You try reasoning together, you accept disagreement and continue to function as a family member, or you leave in hopes that you may come to terms at a later date.

Let's say the dispute is with your father. You attempt to sway other members of your family to your way of thinking, for the purpose of convincing him by sheer numbers. After all attempts percent.

At my urging, the Legislature expanded the program to include housing and home improvement loans. There have been about 22,000 home loans and 1,800 home improvement loans made. I eliminated the 14,000 person waiting list for land loans and reduced closing time from approximately 18 months to 90 days or less.

My opponent claims that the General Land Office budget has increased. This is true, because the Legislature has increased the duties of the office. For every dollar appropriated to it, this office returns $20 to the State Treasury.

Since I have been Land Commissioner, despite the hard times in the oil and gas industry, we have deposited $2.3 billion in the Permanent School Fund, 40 percent of the total deposited since the fund was created in 1854.

I am very proud that the Legislature adopted my Clean Air Act, which President Bush called "a model for the nation." It will increase the production of Texas natural gas by requiring state vehicles and large fleets in cities with air pollution to convert to natural gas. This will provide more Texas jobs and give us healthier air to breathe.

I am also proud that my oil spill response plan has won widespread support and will be sponsored in the Legislature by Senator Carl Parker of Port Arthur and Rep. Hugo Berlanga of Corpus Christi.

It would be interesting to know the source of my opponent's poll which supposedly shows him leading, because my poll shows me ahead statewide by a 20 point margin.

Sincerely,
Garry Mauro
Texas Land Commissioner

Now AmWest can give you something few banks can...

A good night's sleep.

Now AmWest has "DreamSaverSM," a savings program designed to bring peace of mind to all those who worry about saving money.

Here's how it works: You tell AmWest how much you want to save every month, (as little as $25 if you like) and they'll deduct it automatically from a free checking account (that's right, free checking) and put it into a CD account.

Keep your money there for a full 12 months and it will earn a high-interest CD rate. Take it out early, and you'll get a penalty — three months interest or $50. So "DreamSaverSM" not only helps you save money on a regular monthly basis — it helps you keep your hands off it too. And with a little money in savings, a good night's sleep will come a whole lot easier.

Electric Zone Heaters Focus On Safety

When winter moves your family indoors, portable electric zone, or space, heaters provide warmth—safely—while helping to lower your home's monthly energy bills, according to the Edison Electric Institute, the association of investor-owned electric utilities.

Since electric heaters don't burn any fuel, you'll have peace of mind knowing there are no open flames or dangerous exhaust fumes to worry about. And many electric zone heaters offer a safety feature that turns the unit off if it's tipped over.

All electric zone heaters warm people and objects in the heater's path—not the air. So it's important to remember that bigger doesn't always mean better. For maximum energy savings, lower the thermostat on your home's central furnace, or individual room thermostats to 55 - 60 degrees, and place the heater close to the family members who are using it.

Portable electric zone heaters come in a wide range of prices and styles. They also offer a range of wattages, that give you precise control how much electricity is used, and how much heat is generated. In addition, many models have thermostats to maintain preset temperature.

Quartz heaters, resembling a fluorescent light tube mounted vertically or horizontally in a two- or three-foot metal enclosure, are gaining popularity with homeowners. Quartz heaters heat a wider area, and some have fans to force the heat even farther out. On deluxe models, you can also select the heating start and stop times.

Because your space heater is portable, you can move it where you need it most, and because it's an electric space heater, installation is done as soon as you plug it in.

Please read the owner's manual carefully for complete details on operating your new electric zone heater. You'll be warm, safe, and enjoying lower energy bills all winter long.

Obituaries

Charles Edward "Judge" Shannon

Charles Edward "Judge" Shannon was taken to his heavenly home on September 24, 1990. He died in Angelo Community Hospital.

Services were held September 26 in the First Presbyterian Church in Marfa, Texas, with the Rev. Fred Campbell, retired pastor of St. Paul Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial followed in the Marfa Cemetery, under the direction of Memorial Funeral Home.

He was born to James Andrew and Mary Ann Shannon on December 4, 1901, in Shafter, Texas, where his father was associated with the Presidio Mining Company and later ran the stage line between Shafter and Marfa.

He attended Marfa Public Schools, graduating in 1919. During World War I, he worked for the U. S. Commissary at Fort D. A. Russell and helped his dad as a driver for the mail and express line between Marfa and Shafter.

In 1948, he was appointed U. S. Commissioner for Presidio County and in 1959, he moved to the Big Bend National Park as U. S. Commissioner (later called U. S. Magistrate). He served in that capacity until his retirement in 1983.

After retirement, he lived in Marfa for several years, then moved to Rio Concho Manor Retirement Center in San Angelo, where he enjoyed several happy years and made many good friends who were very special to him. Most recently, he lived in West Coke County Nursing Home in Robert Lee, Texas, until he became ill and was transferred to Angelo Community.

We are so thankful to our Heavenly Father for this very special person who unselfishly cared for his family. He loved everyone and everyone loved him. We are blessed to have had him with us for 88 years.

He was the last survivor of the James A. Shannon Family. He was preceded in death by his wife, Gladys, on June 19, 1975.

He is survived by his daughter, Jean Demere and her husband, Frank, of Water Valley; his son, Charles Shannon Jr. and his wife, Vicki, of Sonora; five grandchildren, Janet Young and her husband, Tim, of Coppell, Wade Demere, Craig Demere and his wife, Tammy, of Water Valley, Matt Shannon and his wife, Terry, of San Angelo, Savell Shannon and his wife, Shelly, of Sonora; six great-grandchildren, Shannon and Kelly Young of Coppell, Whitney and Laci Demere of Water Valley, Megan and Chance Shannon of San Angelo; and many nieces and nephews and close friends.

They were a very close family and shared many happy memories.

Pallbearers will be grandsons, Matt and Savell Shannon, Wade and Craig Demere; grandson-in-law Tim Young; and great-nephew Will Shannon of Marfa.

Honorary pallbearers will be Bill Butler, Hubert Chance, Greg McGowen, Pedro Parra and Junior Young.

The family asks that memorials be made to the First Presbyterian Church of Marfa, where he was a lifetime member, or to the West Texas Boys Ranch, or any other favorite charity.

Mayors conference to be held Oct. 6

On Saturday, October 6, at the Abilene High School LRC auditorium, a public meeting will be held to help decide the future role of libraries in West Texas, especially in areas of literacy, democracy and productivity. Members of the general public, government officials, and library supporters, as well as librarians, are urged to attend. Charles H. Hundley, superintendent of the Abilene I. S. D., will be the keynote speaker at the meeting, which begins at 10 a. m. and ends at 4 p. m.

Those attending the Mayors Conference will write resolutions addressing the three issues and will elect delegates to the Texas Conference on Library and Information Services to be held in Austin in January, 1991.

At the state conference delegates will revise and rewrite resolutions and select delegates to attend the White House Conference on Library and Information Services in Washington, D. C. next July.

For more information, call Florie Mesa at 387-2111 or contact Sutton County Library.

Turkeywalk set for Nov. 3

Now is the time for walkers to start getting in prime shape. The annual Turkeywalk sponsored by the American Heart Association has been scheduled for Saturday Nov. 3.

The Turkeywalk is beneficial in two important ways.

First, walking is an aerobic activity and those who participate in aerobic exercise regularly can condition their hearts and lungs. This decreases the heart's demand for oxygen.

The Turkeywalk also raises funds for the American Heart Association. Those who participate in the 5-mile walk ask individuals for pledges to help sponsor the walker.

Participants in the event will be given the opportunity to win prizes according to how much money they raise.

Tentative plans have registration scheduled to begin at 8 a.m. and the walk to begin at 9 a.m. The walking course and beginning point have yet to be finalized.

Further information will be published when available.

and treatments earlier and more frequently than they would if they could rely on their best judgement. They do this because, if they elect to delay or forego a procedure and the patient sues, that decision is likely to be second-guessed by professional witnesses - paid "medical experts" - brought in from elsewhere to testify because of their known opinions on the subject. To avoid this personal risk, doctors must make decisions that are expensive to you and the system, and could impose additional risks to the patient.

Unbelievable amounts of medical resources needed for patient care are diverted to this wasteful liability system. In an upcoming message, we will suggest legal remedies for the system, but the pressing need in Texas is to elect legislators and judges who are committed to solving these problems in the public interest.

Cubscout news

by Kathy Hardgrave

With the new school year underway, the Cub Scouts of Sonora Pack 19 met in their first pack meeting on Monday, September 24, at the Junior High Snack Bar. These monthly pack meetings serve to unite all the different groups of Cub Scouts in our community, and also give the parents and families of the boys a chance to participate in the Scouting program.

A candlelight ceremony honored our flag and country. Four of the Webelo Scouts each held a lighted candle while displaying a large American flag. Claudia Dempsey, Cub Master, read a moving tribute to America and the freedoms we enjoy. In view of the current world situation, the program was especially meaningful.

The various dens have begun to hold their weekly meetings, during which the Cub Scouts will participate in many activities as they work toward earning badges and awards. Upcoming events that all the Cub Scouts will participate in include the Food Drive for the hungry in our community, and a fund-raising drive of selling popcorn and candles.

I remember

by Kenneth Babcock

(Editor's Note: These articles written about China by Kenneth Babcock come from personal experiences during World War II while he was stationed in China as a pilot. Babcock carried supplies to the forward bases, flying at times over Japanese held territories and other times flying to India over the "hump" (the Himalaya Mountains). This airlift was the largest operation the world has ever known and this experience influenced the Air Force of today. The airlift to Saudi Arabia is a good example of modern airlift operation that were not even dreamed about during World War II.)

A spectacular phenomenon apparently seen by very few people occurred before our eyes in China the summer of 1945!

Words cannot adequately express the sight our crew saw about 50-110 miles east of our ship. We were flying at about 10,000 feet on a moonlit night and could see a huge thunderstorm many miles ahead of us - no other significant clouds or weather to be seen, there in central China.

We all stared in disbelief as shaft after shaft of lightning shot upwards from this thunderstorm! These bolts of vertical lightning went many miles into the stratosphere - were having to lean forward in the cockpit to see the tops of the display.

After a few moments, as I recall, they shortened and died out, leaving us awed and speechless.

I have spoken to no other person who had seen anything like it. About 1975 I read of similar sight seen by an airline crew, then on August 5, 1990, there appeared the following article in the San Angelo Standard Times.

Researchers photograph rare form of lightning-Scripps Howards News Service-Minneapolis

Physicists announced recently that they have photographed a rare form of lightning that shoots upward in mile-wide plumes from the top of a thundercloud.

The largest of two plumes photographed was 12 miles tall and about 3 miles wide. This twin plume had a fountain-like appearance that is totally unlike the bolts of lightning normally seen in a thunderstorm.

Conventional lightning goes from one cloud to another, or between a cloud and the ground, rather than from the top of a cloud upward as the plumes do.

The photographs, believed to be the first ever made of this phenomenon, may help scientists better understand storms and the upper atmosphere. The University of Minnesota researcher's report is in the latest issue of the journal Science.

The photographs were taken last summer.

Robert Franz, who worked on the project with Robert Nemzek, said there have been only occasional reports from airline pilots and a few Earth-based observers of this type of lightning rising from cloud tops toward space.

"It's all conjecture about what effect this might have on an aircraft if it tried to fly through this type of lightning," said John Winckler, a university physicist and co-author of the report.

Normal bolt lightning often travels around the skin of an airplane without causing damage.

Babcock states, "I would like to hear from my crew and/or from anyone else sighting a similar phenomenon."

THE OLD FASHIONED WAY - This picture, circa 1922, shows ranchers dipping sheep in the old trenches. Notice the depth of the trenches and the hooked pole being used to the left.

Badillo completes operation 'Sharp Edge'

Navy Seaman Rick G. Badillo, a 1988 graduate of Sonora High School, recently participated in Operation 'Sharp Edge' while serving aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Saipan, homeported in Norfolk, Virginia.

'Sharp Edge', a non-combatant evacuation operation, was organized to initiate protection of American citizens and foreign nationals from the Port City of Buchanan and U. S. Embassy in Monrovia, Liberia.

The operation was the largest conducted by the Navy and Marine Corps team which placed more than 100 American citizens and 1,600 foreign nationals aboard the ships participating in the Joint Task Force.

Rick, son of Gloria and Ricardo Gabriel Badillo, joined the Navy in September 1988.

Hints For Homemakers

Sweeping Changes

Women, recent studies discovered, actually spend less time cleaning these days, than previously, and men have increased their housework time, although men still do only about four hours of housework a week compared to a woman's 16 hours plus. People may spend less time cleaning—but they can get more done in that time by heeding a few hints.

A new broom and other equipment can simplify housecleaning.

- Wipe down the bathroom walls after each bath or shower to keep mildew in check.
 - Update your basic equipment. Fresh brooms, mops and brushes can make cleaning easier. Rubbermaid, a name long trusted in housewares, has put its high standards of design and quality to work on a line of cleaning aids that make chores go faster.
 - Let your food processor or blender wash itself. Fill it part way with hot water and add a drop of detergent. Cover and turn it on for a few seconds. Rinse and drain dry.
 - Use silver polish to remove crayon marks from linoleum.
- Keeping these suggestions in mind may mean more time to spend on things other than cleaning.

Another high mountain

by Kenneth Babcock

In the spring of 1945 five ships flew a special mission to a field in Northwestern China beyond our radio navigational capabilities.

After about five hours we were all unloaded and the weather had closed in. Not wanting to fly instruments without radio separation we decided to climb until we were on top of the overcast, then proceeding under visual flight rules.

Reading the tops of the solid overcast at about 20,000 feet we climbed to 21,000 feet and set up cruising speed and the auto pilot. I laid back in my seat to relax, turned to say something to the copilot, and found myself staring at a high mountain off to the right about 25-50 miles! I could not see the top of the mountain out the right window without leaning down.

Such grandeur as seen from 21,000 feet certainly made us realize how small and insignificant we humans really are!

Child injured in accident

Michael Moll, 3, is listed in stable condition in the intensive care unit at San Angelo Community Hospital following an accident Sunday evening.

According to the police report Jeff Carr, step-father of Michael, said there was a gathering at Carolyn Tucker's house on West 4th Street for a birthday party.

Carr said three kids were playing in Tucker's car at about 5:45 p.m. and apparently one of the children pulled the car out of gear.

The police report states Michael was between the car and a pickup parked behind it. Michael became pinned on the left side of the two vehicles when the car rolled backward.

Carr said he and Cynthia Moll, Michael's mother, then pulled the car up and took Michael to Hudspheth Memorial Hospital.

Later Sunday Michael was transferred to Community Hospital.

POSTAL POINTERS

Facts From The U.S. Postal Service

By Ann McK. Robinson

Each year people lose millions of dollars to unscrupulous promoters who promise easy money can be earned at home. Consider how these rackets work.

First, these promotions are usually aimed at the elderly, the unemployed and those confined to their homes who want to supplement their income.

Second, the most common offers are for envelope stuffing, making baby booties, Christmas wreaths and other specialty products for which there is little or no market.

Third, advertisements promoting these schemes can appear anywhere—in newspapers, magazines, advertising directories, local flyers, or direct mail brochures.

Be suspicious of ads claiming you can earn unusually high income at home with little or no effort on your part. Work-at-Home schemes DO NOT guarantee regular salaried employment or a market for your product. They DO require you to invest money before explaining how a plan works or before you are sent instructions.

If you have any information about questionable work-at-home schemes, or if you believe you have been a victim, contact your local post office or nearest Postal Inspector (listed in phone book under U.S. Government).

Field day to be held Oct. 23

A grazing management field day will be October 23 at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. The program begins at 9:30 a. m. with registration and coffee and continues with discussions on the role of range management, ashe juniper control, forecasting carrying capacity, deer and goat competition and nutrients. The afternoon program includes a workshop on estimating carrying capacity of rangeland, a tour of lysimeters used in rangeland hydrology studies, and a tour of burned pastures with emphasis on vegetation response. A catered lunch at a cost of $5.75 per person will be served. The Experiment Station is located southeast of Sonora on Hwy 55. Further information is available from the Experiment Station, telephone (915) 387-3168.

DID YOU KNOW?

Now hear this: knowing these facts about a common ear problem can help you keep your family's hearing up to par:

- *Middle ear infection, also known as otitis media (OM), is one of the most common childhood illnesses in the U.S.
- *Approximately 70 percent of all children will have otitis media at least once before their fifth birthdays.

- *OM is the most frequent cause of temporary hearing loss in children.

- *OM can be due to a bacterial or viral infection of the middle ear, commonly associated with a cold, sore throat or other upper respiratory ailment.

- *American children miss over 120 million days of school annually because of OM and respiratory infections.

- *Symptoms include earache, temporary hearing loss in the infected ear, fever, nausea, vomiting and diarrhea.

- *Physicians generally prescribe antibiotics to treat otitis media. SUPRAX® cefixime, recently introduced by Lederle Laboratories is the first oral antibiotic that can be taken once a day to treat middle ear infections.

- *Unlike many other antibiotics, the liquid form of SUPRAX for children does not require refrigeration.

- *At the first sign of middle ear infection in your child, see your family physician.

- Keep this information in mind, and you may be better able to deal with an infection in your child's ear.

Literacy: Pass It On

Read all about it—many people can't.

- An estimated 27 million people in the United States are functionally illiterate. They cannot read, write or perform basic math problems well enough to function effectively in everyday life.
- An additional 45 million are marginally illiterate, meaning skills are at or below the ninth grade level.
- Sixteen percent of white adults, 44 percent of African American adults and 56 percent of Hispanic adults are functionally illiterate in English.
- Sixty percent of the prison population is illiterate and 85 percent of all juveniles who go before courts are marginally illiterate.
- Illiteracy costs the United States more than $225 billion a year in lost productivity. As many as 50 million illiterate workers may have to be trained or re-trained between now and the year 2000 when it is estimated that 85 percent of jobs will require literate workers.

According to a recent congressional study, the pattern of poor literacy skills is similar to the pattern of poverty in the United States. Those who cannot read and those who cannot adequately support their families are largely the same, self-perpetuating population.

A new literacy campaign launched in March 1990, seeks to end this cycle by changing intergenerational patterns. Sponsored by the Coors Brewing Company, it's called "Literacy. Pass It On." The five-year, $40 million campaign is comprised of three components:

- 1) Support for grass roots organizations to expand existing adult learning programs. Together, these organizations and their volunteers hope to train 500,000 adults to read by the end of 1995.
- 2) Coors Brewing Company is dedicating funds to the campaign for newspaper, magazine, radio, billboard, and television advertising and other promotional activities.
- 3) Coors, in partnership with MCA Music Entertainment Group, has put together a "Pass It On" concert tour. The tour will promote the cause of family literacy and raise funds.

A number of celebrities, including Academy Award winner Cher, actor Danny Glover, singers Sheena Easton and Smokey Robinson and comedian George Lopez are helping this important literacy campaign. To learn where you can find a tutor or how to volunteer as a tutor, call the National Literacy Referral Line at 1 (800) 228-8813.

October 1 marks national nursing home resident's rights week

by Scott Gilmore

This coincides with the effective date of new legislation which will affect the lives of nursing home residents throughout the nation.

The new law speaks of the importance of the person, and directs nursing homes to care for their residents in such a manner and in such an environment as will promote maintenance or enhancement of the quality of life of each resident.

The law seeks to assure that residents receive services and activities to attain or maintain the highest practicable physical, mental, and psychosocial well-being of each resident.

Whereas nursing home residents, as citizens of the United States, have given this nation the gifts of their talents and wisdom throughout their lives and continue to do so in their new places of residence... nursing home residents need and deserve the continued support of their community, neighbors, families, friends, and those working tirelessly to serve them in the nursing home.

Residents Bill of Rights

The facility must protect and promote each resident's right to a dignified existence, self-determination, communication with and access to persons and services inside and outside the facility, and to exercise his or her legal rights. Each resident shall be permitted rights which include, but are not limited to the following:

The facility must permit each resident to exercise these rights to pursue the interests described in these rules without restraint, interference, coercion, discrimination, or reprisal.

A resident may not be denied appropriate care on the basis of race, religion, color, national origin, sex, age, handicap, marital status, or source of payment.

A resident must be permitted to receive visitors and to associate freely inside and outside the facility.

A resident's representative or any federally mandated Ombudsman must be permitted access to the resident during normal visiting hours or as requested by the resident.

The facility must ensure the resident's right to privacy during medical treatment and during care for his personal needs.

The facility must permit the formation of resident councils.

Full disclosure must be made by the nursing home to the resident of rights, services, and charges upon admission as evidenced by the resident's written acknowledgement.

A resident must be fully informed by a physician of his medical condition unless medically contraindicated, and to be afforded the opportunity to participate in the planning of his medical treatment and to refuse to participate in experimental research.

A resident has the right to refuse treatment to the extent permitted by the law and to be informed of the medical consequences of such refusal.

A resident may be transferred or discharged only for medical reasons, or his welfare or that of the other residents, or for non-payment for his stay. A resident must be given advance notice of a transfer or discharge.

A resident must be permitted to participate in activities of social, religious and community groups at his discretion unless medically contraindicated.

Each resident must be given the right to handle his own personal financial affairs.

A resident must enjoy freedom from mental and/or physical abuse and to be free chemical and physical restraints (except in emergencies) unless authorized in writing by a physician for a specified and limited period of time.

Confidentiality of resident's records must be observed and a resident may refuse access of such records to any person outside the facility, except in the case of his transfer to another healthy facility or as required by law or third party payment contract.

Treatment administered to a resident must affirm the resident's dignity and individuality.

A resident must be permitted the right to associate with individuals and groups of resident's choosing.

A resident must be permitted to file grievances against the facility.

Lillian Hudspeth Nursing Home would like to take this opportunity to thank some of the many people who help out each day, each week, and each year in many, many ways.

Some of these are: The Hudspeth Hospital Nursing Home Auxiliary; Baptist Women; Ministerial Alliance; Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts; the Sonora schools from elementary up thru high school; the Sutton County Days Association; the individuals who donate money, food, clothes and transportation. . . .

The businesses who have never failed us when we approach them for a donation: Food Center, Jim's Thriftway, Vivian's Modern Way, Town & Country, Exxon I-10, Texaco, Gosney's, Westerman, Tedfords, Hills, Merle Norman Cosmetics, Dairy Queen, Sonic, O'Bryan's, Bits and Pieces, Flowers by Irene, Petal Pushers, and many, many more.

The new law effective October 1 will be a period of growth and change for not only the nursing homes in America, but also the patients, families, and in many ways, the people who police nursing homes: the Texas Department of Health. What we all must remember is that the new changes will effect an improved environment and life for those people in our care.

There will certainly be some problems, some misunderstandings, and probably some changes in the law where it may be too inflexible, but the end result should benefit all.

New Help For Dieters

If you'd like to lose weight, look better and feel healthier, you should see your doctor as soon as possible. He or she has new diet plans that can help you lose the pounds you want to—safely and sensibly. Here are some facts you may not know about these new diets:

Liquid diets, which involve drinking packets of flavored, nutritionally complete, powdered-food supplement instead of eating meals, are often prescribed for people who are 30 pounds or more overweight.

Physician-supervised liquid diets, such as Medifast®, developed by the Nutrition Institute of Maryland and manufactured by Jason Pharmaceuticals, are often partially covered by medical insurance. They can be very affordable when compared to other diet plans because you don't have to buy any special foods.

Dieters often skip meals in preparation for big dinners, but many studies have shown that fewer calories are taken in overall if nutritious, appetite-controlling food is consumed at all mealtimes, as when on a liquid diet.

Once you start losing weight, doctors say, you'll also be greatly reducing your risk of developing conditions such as heart disease, high blood pressure, stroke, cancer and diabetes.

To begin the Medifast® Program, see your doctor.
